There is a three-way tie in Gray's No. 6 and K. Bissett will play H. Baptie Tuesday evening with F. Stenson taking on the winner at 9:00 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Also on Tuesday evening we have the semi-finals leads and seconds at 7:00 p.m. M. Bullied vs. J. Loucks; G. Tollington vs. A. Rooke.

The date for the curlers' banquet is set for Tuesday, April 4 at the Empress Hotel. Each skip has the tickets for his rink. The price is $1.50.

J. Adams, W. Switzer and H. Baptie were the winning skips in Saturday's bonspiel.

The annual mixed rink bonspiel for the Sturgeon Trophy got under way Saturday night with 26 local rinks competing. It's a straight elimination contest with primary and consolation events.

Seven o'clock draw—J. Dutton won from O. Steer; Dr. C. McKee won from S. Lowe; D. Rankin won from Dr. R. Clark; B. Grant won from F. Green; H. Dulmage won from H. R. Martin; V. Selkirk won from C. Lawrence; N. Hamley won from R. F. Downey.

Nine o'clock draw—B. Jeffries won from J. Sinclair; T. Doughty won from J. Fanning; C. Westbrook won from D. Clarke; F. Stenson won from K. Bissett; Dr. McCartney won from F. Botton, D. Charlton won from C. Giroux.

The bonspiel continues next Saturday evening.

The group playoffs for the Harry Foote Memorial Trophy begins Thursday evening. Two games, 7:00 o'clock and 9:00 o'clock. The five group winners in each schedule will play a round robin series of four games. The winners of each schedule will play a sudden-death game for the championship.

Bruins Win Over Hawks By 3-2 Score

NORWOOD, March 20.—(ENS).—Boston Bruins came out victorious over Chicago Black Hawks by a score of 3-2 Friday evening in the final game of the playoffs. It looked throughout the first two periods as if the Hawks had everything under control. Doug Lochhead and Pete Rusaw scored unassisted in the first. In the third stanza the Bruins really went to town. In the first three minutes of play, M. Hannon put in two behind L. Hie, Johnnie Ferguson assisting in one, and Danny Smith scoring the winning marker.

Billy Thompson and Bunny Miles were the two casualties of the game.

There was a good crowd on hand and excitement ran high, while the Hawks tried valiantly for a comeback.

Reeve Rork S. Ferguson presented the Pee Wee trophy to Captain Johnny Ferguson of the Bruins and Mr. W. G. Barrie presented the cup to Captain Delvin Rusaw of the runners-up. Line-up:

Black Hawks—Goal, L. Hie; defence, Bunny Miles, Max Millett; centre Pete Rusaw; wings, Carmen Brown Doug Lochhead; alternates, Billy Thompson, G. Cassidy, Bruce Mulian, David Sanders, Philip Hinds, Gerry Golloher, Earl Kavanagh

Referee, Bob Edwards; linesman, Art Spring.

Hastings Juves Win

HASTINGS, March 20 (ENS)—Hastings juveniles defeated Havelock 12-5 in the first game of a best of five series for the TVL championship. It was fast, wide-open hockey, but Hastings showed more combination, and more finish around the net.

West played a fine game in the Hastings nets and was aided by some erratic shooting by the Havelock boys.

Isaac with four goals and a pair of assists was top man for Hastings, but every one played fine hockey. Chambers stood out on defence and scored twice and assisted on a third.

Lockhart showed much improvement and stayed clear of the penalty line.

Smith and B. Laing with two goals apiece, were the scorers for Havelock, with Heath banging in the odd one. B. Pollock, Cosgrove and J. Laing also looked out.

Referee—R. Scriver.

Hastings—Goal, A. West; defence, B. Chambers, J. Fairman; centre, Laver; wings, Isaac, Lynch alternates, K. Forde, W. Dodd, P. Stevenson, McMillan, Condon, D. Forde, D. Fairman, R. Lockhart, Wartman.

Havelock — Goal, Southward; defence, P. Kumpf, Vaughan; Smith, Heath, Cosgrove, J. Laing, Pollock, B. Laing, Bates, Thompson.

Hastings Triumphs

HASTINGS, March 20 (ENS)—Hastings travelled to Keene on Friday night for a return game, and defeated Keene 11-5 in a fast fray.

Fife went well on defence and found time to bang in four goals and assist on another four. Laver, Isaac and Edwards also went well while in the third period the reorganized line of Wilson, Morrow, and Stevenson really flew.

Kempt, Mackness and McCarthy looked best up front for Keene and Shearer stood out on defence.

Hastings—Goal, S. McKenty; defence, M. Fife, L. Petticrew; centre, J. Morrow; wings, R. Edwards, G. Greenley; alternates, A. McMillan, M. Laver, D. Isaac, J. Wilson, P. Stevenson, J. Carr, D. West.

Keene—Goal, Penwick; defence Shearer, Stock; centre, McCarthy; wings, B. Thompson, Woods; alternates, Musgrove, Anderson, Kempt, Burns, W. Thompson, Burns, Whalen.

Marines Beat Strands, 47-35 Open Ontario Semi-Finals

Peterborough Outboard Marines turned back Hamilton Strand Cycles Saturday night in the first game of the Southern Ontario Intermediate "A" basketball finals. The Marines will take the 12-point lead to Hamilton next Saturday night for the final game of the points to count series. The winners of this series will play Sault Ste. Marie for the all-Ontario title.

Play was fast and furious for 10 minutes of the first half as the teams battled evenly. Led by Gordie Burns, Doug Plunkett and Ab Stewart, the Marines began to pull away to a 29-19 score at the half. D. Brand was Hamilton's mainstay in the first half with four baskets close in.

The Strands came back in the second half with R. Weston in the lead and cut the Marines lead down to one point in a few minutes. Marines answered the Cycles' passing and scoring attack with a pressing offence and good shooting. Joe Stewart, Eddie Nicholls and Doug Plunkett matched the scoring efforts of the Strands and sent the Outboards out in front with a healthy 12-point lead at the end.

Played Well

The Strands played a systematic game with spots of brilliant passing by Carrigan, Peall, and Bard on the front line. Tom Casey of the Hamilton Wildcat football team was outstanding on the Strand's defence with his speed hampering the Outboards fast break. He was sharp on the Marines' rebounds throughout the game. R. Weston led the scoring with 11 points while D. Brand had 10.

A speedy offensive, helped by quick interceptions on passes, enabled Marines to take the win. Joe Stewart who has been starring lately in the interception department continued his pace Saturday. Two interceptions were good for baskets. Burns and Gillespie were steady on the Marines' defence.

The scoring for Peterborough was by Joe Stewart with 11, Ed-Nicholls and Doug Plunkett 10 each, Gordie Burns nine and Ab Stewart seven.

Line-ups:

Hamilton Strand Cycles — S. Bard, R. Peall 4, T. Casey 2, B. Fisher, G. MacKay 2, M. Yednoroz 2, B. Carrigan 2, M. Matchen, R. Weston, 11, D. Brand 10, and S. Hunter 2.

Peterborough Outboard Marines—J. Stewart 11, Trimm, Nicholls 10, Gillespie, Burns 9, A. Stewart 7, Thorburn, Dibben, Smith, Griffin, Dadson, Plunkett 10.

Canadiens Tie Toronto In Second Spot

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Montreal Canadiens battled into a tie with Toronto Maple Leafs for second place in the National Hockey League on the strength of two weekend victories, while Toronto had a win and a loss.

Canadiens and Leafs each have three games left in this last week of the 70-game schedule, and one of them sees the two clubs clashing at Toronto Wednesday night. Toronto's other games are against Boston and New York, while the Canadiens have games remaining with Chicago and Boston.

Blow Lead

Canadiens blew a three-goal lead before a Montreal Forum crowd of 14,007 Saturday but came back to defeat Rangers 5-3. Maurice Richard scored two goals, Billy Reay, Elmer Lach and Ken Mosdell getting the others. Ranger scorers were Allan Stanley, Tony Leswick and Nick Mickoski.

Rocket Richard then came back Sunday night at New York to score his 40th and 41st goals of the season as Canadiens beat Rangers 4-2. Defenceman Doug Harvey got the other two for Montreal, while Pentti Lund and Alex Kaleta scored for Rangers. The crowd of 13,947 saw a rough encounter with Richard drawing a 10-minute misconduct in the second minute of play after protesting too violently a minor sentence for high-sticking Tony Leswick.

Toronto Maple Leafs managed to edge the Hawks 2-1 at Toronto Saturday where the hometown crowd of 13,148 saw Vic Lynn and Cal Gardner get both Leaf goals in the first period. Ralph Nattrass spoiled a shutout for Leaf goalie Turk Broda.

Row Over Body Check

In the last minute of play Bill Ezinicki threw a heavy check into Chicago's young centre, Metro Prystai, and the latter was taken to hospital for examination. Late Sunday night Prystai's condition was reported as satisfactory but the incident touched off a bitter exchange between the heads of the two clubs.

Bill Tobin, president of Chicago Black Hawks, declared "a deliberate charge like that has no place in hockey," while managing director Conn Smythe of Toronto said it was "the fairest, cleanest body-check I've ever seen in hockey."

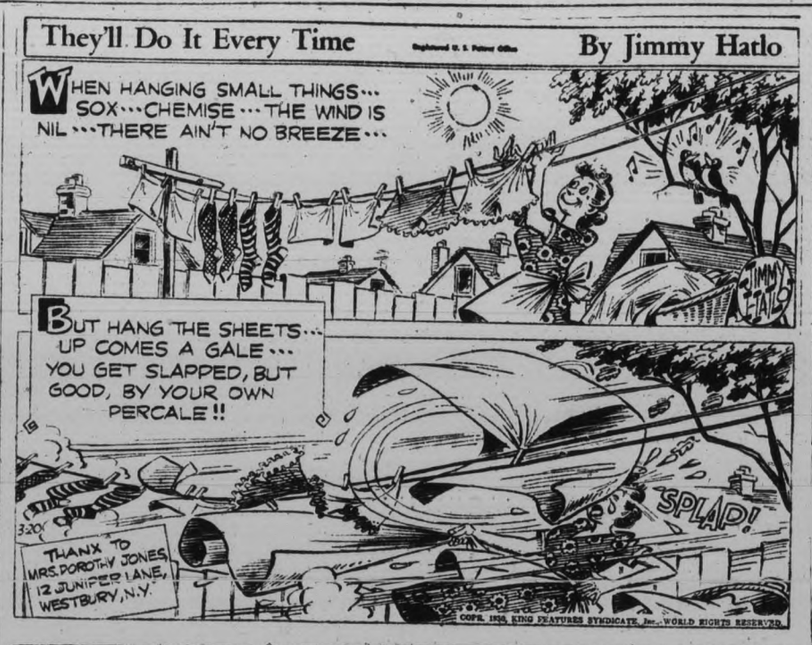
At Detroit Sunday night the league-winning Wings whitewashed the Leafs 5-0 as 22 penalties were handed out in the heavy going. A crowd of 14,000 saw the teams paying off old scores in their last scheduled meeting, topped by a fight between Gus Mortson of Toronto and George Gee in the final frame for which each got majors.

Locke Has Apologized To Golf Association

NORWICH, Conn., March 20—(AP)—Bobby Locke, the husky British open golf professional from South Africa, has apologized to the Professional Golfers Association of America. His action might earn him at least $25,000 before next Jan. 1.

The indications today are that the PGA will reinstate him by April 15.

Locke, who climaxed a long feud with American golf officials last July by getting himself the heave-ho earned $24,327 in 1947—his first season in the United States, and $29,010 in 1948.



Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Ted Lindsay continues to lead the National Hockey League scoring race with a total of 76 points for the season. The sharp-shooting Detroit left-winger set a team record by boosting his total to 76 during the weekend, highest total in NHL history for a Red Wings player. Lindsay has 23 goals and 53 assists, also leading in the assists division.

Marlies Grab OHA Crown For 2nd Successive Year

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros got back on the track on Saturday before it was too late, and are now senior A titleholders of the Ontario Hockey Association for the second successive year. They did it by defeating a ragged Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen team 2-1, to take the best-of-seven final series 4-2.

But the Marlboros had their fans worried. After taking the first three games in the series they went into a slump while the Dutchmen captured the next two games.

Toronto now awaits the outcome of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals between North Bay Black Hawks and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. The Sault team beat North Bay 4-3 on Saturday to take a 2-1 lead in games in the best-of-five series.

Meanwhile hockey fans around Guelph were pleased as punch about the showing of their Biltmores, OHA junior A contenders who meet the highly-touted Windsor Spitfires tonight in Windsor in the third game of their best-of-seven final series. Guelph has a 2-0 lead in games by virtue of a bitterly fought 5-4 win Saturday in Guelph.

Added Punch

In the Toronto game, two players brought up from the junior Marlboro Club, Danny Lewicki and George Armstrong gave their senior brethren an added punch.

Before a record senior crowd of 11,547 fans, Lewicki tallied the first goal, midway through the first period. Al Buchanan scored Toronto's second goal near the end of the second period as Marlboro kept up their sustained offensive.

A short lived drive in the final period paid off with a single goal for the Dutchmen when Butch Martin went in alone and fired the puck into goalie Don Lockhart's pads. The disk fell into the net.

At Guelph, defenceman Vic Dimarco was the big gun in a winning cause, firing the game's first goal and its last. Other markers by Aldo Guidolin, Don Oberholtzer and Ron Plumb kept Windsor from pulling into a lead.

However, the fighting Windsor squad managed to tie the game up three times, once in each period. Spitfire goals were scored by Vic Howe, Ed Stankiewicz, Lloyd Hinchberger, and Bob Rawlyk.

Tempers Frayed.

Dimarco's winning goal late in the third period broke up the game, but it also broke up some tempers. Ron Plumb and John Bailey tangled behind the Guelph net and after they were separated Bailey took exception to some spectators' remarks and tried to climb the screen.

Brother Bob Bailey left the Windsor bench to join the screen-climbing expedition and was only restrained by the appearance of Guelph police. He was later questioned by police for allegedly swinging his stick at an officer but was released without charge.

Edmonton Mercurys Heading For Title

LONDON, March 20 — (CP) — Edmonton Mercurys are well on the road to recovering the world hockey title for Canada — but manager Jimmy (The Leader) Graham shudders reflectively every time he thinks how "close" a call the Merks had Saturday night against the United States.

The 5-0 whitewashing goalie Wilbur Delaney and his teammates handed the Americans seemed an easy victory on the scoresheet. But not until the dying minutes was the game on ice. Meantime, the Canadian supporters did everything but set up a commanding lead.

The Canadians had three-quarters of the territorial play, but for 47 minutes their shooting was wide, wild and woolly.

Sutton Wins Tourney

LINDSAY, March 20—Sparked by Ron Pringle and Gordon Smith, Sutton Greenshirts won the second annual pee wee tournament by edging Lindsay, 4-3, in the final game here Saturday. Haliburton took the consolation event with a 3-2 victory in overtime over Brooklin.

PCVS Damsels Lose Out In Playdowns

PCVS senior lasses absorbed their first loss of the season 30-25 Saturday in Toronto at the Ontario College of Education at the hands of the Owen Sound Collegiate girls. This one defeat put the girls out of the running for the COSSA championship in the evening.

PCVS started hotter than a firecracker in the first quarter, with Mary Braund leading the attack. They led 11-6 at the end. Braund getting nine of the points. The PCI'ers quickly cooled off in their passing and shooting in the second. Owen Sound led by June Scott tied the score midway through the quarter 13-all, and went up at the half 19-16.

Scott continued to drift in baskets from in close and outside in the third, and Owen Sound built up a 30-20 score at the three-quarter. The PCI'ers tried to make a last-minute drive, but their passes were intercepted by the Georgian Bay winners who outscored PCVS 9-5 in the quarter.

June Scott woth 20 points and Jean McMeekin with 13 were the big guns for Owen Sound, while Mary Braund had 13 for PCVS. Mary Craw 9, and Lois Hutchinson 3.

Lizabeth Scott Wants To Get Married

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 20 (AP)—Remember the song that goes "I Wanna Get Married"? Lizabeth Scott is singing it.

The Hollywood bachelor girls used to be a standard fixture in Hollywood. Then such gals as Olivia Dehavilland, Rosalind Russell, Jeanne Crain, Anne Baxter and Joan Leslie got married. Even Elizabeth Taylor is deserting the unmarried ranks. That leaves Miss Scott, Margaret O'Brien and only a few others among the stars who haven't trod down the well-known aisle.

"I miss having someone to come home to," Miss Scott sighed. "I'm quite laquacious. I like to talk about what has happened to me during the day. The only one I have to talk to is my maid.

"Besides I would like to listen to someone else expound on his day. In other words, I'd like to have someone to share my life, and I'd like to share someone's life."

Don't Rush, Men

Before you start rushing, men, you'd better be warned that her notions about marriage are idealistic. I asked about what kind of man she was looking for.

"I haven't visualized a physical type," she answered. "But we must have a mental and spiritual attraction for each other.

"I won't say I'll never marry an actor. But I would prefer not to. Actors and especially actresses are emotional people. I know that I am quite emotional. I don't think it would be wise to mix two of the same kind.

"I would be terribly lonely if I didn't love my work. It compensates for my lackk of companionship and keeps me interested and busy."

But, she inferred, you can't snuggle up to your job.

Capsule Review

"The Big Hangover" (M.G.M.) is a comedy with a message. The comedy arises because a war experience causes a young lawyer to get drunk at the slightest taste of liquor. The drama comes when he revolts against doing the bidding of a big law firm he works for. The funny stuff doesn't always pay off but it's warming and enjoyable picture. Van Johnson and Elizabeth Taylor are ingratiating as the leads.

May Visit Ontario

FREDERICTON, March 20 (CP)—New Brunswick farmers may return the visit of Ontario potato growers who toured this province and Prince Edward Island last year to learn Maritime methods of potato growing. If they go, the New Brunswickers will study Ontario's methods of haying and handling silage, pastures and livestock.

Church Destroyed

LONDON, Ont., March 20 (CP)—Fire gutted the one-storey brick Baptist church in the nearby village of Thamesford Sunday but a London Fire Department crew saved the residence of Mrs. J. C. Henderson, after it was threatened by wind-swept flames. Loss is estimated at $15,000. Thamesford is 14 miles east of London on No. 2 Highway. Cause is believed to be an over-heated furnace pipe.

Don't Like Board

TORONTO, March 20—(CP)—A meeting of 70 delegates to District Council 26, policy-recommending body of the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) at a week-end meeting recommended elimination of conciliation boards from Ontario's labor legislation. The delegates asked instead for appointment of conciliation officer who would "really" conciliate, and not just report back."

Inspectors See New Methods Of Map Study

Students of Peterborough Normal School demonstrated the new devices to be used in their classrooms next year to implement the revised elementary school curriculum. The demonstration was held for the Trent Valley Group of School Inspectors who were meeting at the school Friday under the direction of F. B. Smitheram, Social Studies master. The revised curriculum emphasizes the proper use and conservation of natural resources of forest, farm and water supply.

The students presented methods of map reading and the interpretation of topographical maps suitable for pupils of Grade VII and VIII. These methods included: the making of a plaster paris model of a section of terrain showing such features as hills, valleys, plains, and slopes; drawing a contour map of this model; making a strip diagram of the map; taking a strip diagram of the countryside surrounding S.S. 12 Otonabee from the official topographical map of that area and making a block diagram and then building a tri-dimensional model of the area.

The presentation concluded with a summary showing how these pupil activities involved practical work in mathematics, drawing and the manual arts. A description was given showing how the model could be used in the study of conservation problems of a local area.

The students taking part were: Marjorie Coombs, Lindsay; Gerald Woof, Codrington; Ruby Morrow, Hilton; Lola Branscombe, Brighton; Mary Lou Finkle, Belleville; Margaret Waterman, Rita Maloney and Douglas Beatty, all of Peterborough.

Department Represented

Representatives of the Department of Education attended and during the business session discussed with the inspectors and the school staff the various aspects of the changes in the educational program of the province. H. E. Elborn, Inspector of Professional Training Schools, informed the group that the recommendations of the Royal Commission of Education with respect to the shortage of teachers were under active consideration. He added that the teacher-training policy of the department would be determined shortly.

G. A. Pearson, Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Education, outlined the objectives behind the changes in the curriulum of Ontario schools which are to take effect in September.

Federation Speaker

Miss Nora Hodgins, of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Teachers' Federation, spoke concerning the teachers who found themselves in professional difficulty. Miss Hodgins stressed the spirit of co-operation that existed between the department and the federation. She emphasized that the federation does not support the inefficient teacher. She said that when doubts arose regarding a teacher's ability, the faults should be made known to the teacher and if, after a fair trial, the teacher is found unfit for employment in the profession, the certificate should be cancelled.

Inspectors present were: E. C. Anderson, of Lindsay; A. F. Brown, of Picton; W. H. Carlton, of Cobourg; L. A. Kells, R. H. Macklem, both of Belleville; H. H. Langford, of Napanee; A. W. McGuire, of Tweed; T. S. McEwen, of Oshawa; A. A. Martin, of Brighton; A. Stouffer, of Minden; D. Simpson, of Bancroft; K. S. Wightman, P. C. Windrim and K. O. Birkin, all of Peterborough; C. W. Lees, of Lindsay. Normal school staff members present were: Principal L. W. Copp, F. B. Smitherson, G. E. Munro, Quirt McKinney, C. E. Potts and Mrs. O. Turner. R. F. Downey, of Peterborough, retired school inspector, attended.

Otonabee Man Not Guilty Of Carelessness

Charged with careless driving following an accident March 4 on Lansdowne St. at the CNR tracks, Leonard Withers, Otonabee township, was found not guilty by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

The evidence was that Withers dump truck collided with a Coca-Cola truck driven by David R. Arksey, as Withers was attempting to pass the other truck.

Four men were riding in the cab of the Withers truck. One of these, Withers' cousin, Richard Withers, testified he saw the rear of the other truck slew over and hit the right front fender of the Withers truck.

The accused said neither truck was going more than about 15 miles an hour. He allowed two or three feet clearance to pass. He blamed the collision on the rough and slippery track crossing.

E. M. Shields Manager Of Lindsay Arsenal

OTTAWA, March 18 (CP)—E. M. Shields, of Hamilton, has been appointed works manager of Canadian Arsenals Limited Gun Ammunition Division in Lindsay, it was announced today.

Mr. Shields, who has been manager of operations at the head office of Canadian Arsenals in Ottawa since June, 1947, will take over his new duties March 20.

Lament of Bagpipes Sounds For Armstrong Obsequies

To a traditional dirge of the bagpipes Major J. Gordon Armstrong, DSO, was laid in his untimely grave at Little Lake Cemetery Saturday afternoon, recalling to memory their brave martial music to which he marched away to war ten years ago next June.

The mournful melody of the "Flowers of the Forest" played by Piper Robert F. Webbdale of that same regiment, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, was poignantly eloquent of the deep sense of sadness which had so widely affected the citizens of Peterborough since the sudden and tragic death of Major Armstrong in his Albertus Ave. home last Wednesday night.

The funeral service at All Saints Church, with its muted military overtones, was attended by many hundreds of people, men and women, whose presence beyond its seating capacity was impressively significant of the esteem and admiration he had won since coming to Peterborough from neighboring Millbrook as a young man in the early 1930's.

Representative Congregation

The congregation was widely representative of the interests and activities in the affairs of the city which he had helped to promote in his short career. Members of the city council and of the municipal staff were personal reminders of his two years association with them as an alderman reflecting his spirit of civic responsibility. Executives of many of Peterborough's industries paid final tribute to the young business man who had established himself as head of the Armstrong Lumber Company in civilian rehabilitation shortly after his return from overseas.

Men of the Chamber of Commerce, younger men of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club, other associates of the city's Recreation Commission, mmbers of the parish of All Saints, and a large representation of his wartime regiment and of the old Prince of Wales Rangers, comprised a broad cross-section of this community.

The service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite of All Saints, assisted by Rev. Walter Gilling of St. Luke's Church, and Rev. R. T. F. Brain of St. Mary Magdalene Church, Toronto, Chaplain of the "Glens", and also by the choir.

After reading from the office of the dead St. Paul's exposition of the Resurrection in his first epistle to the Corinthians, Rev. Mr. Brain spoke briefly on the Divine assurance of the Resurrection.

"Christ said 'Come unto Me all ye who labor and are heavy burdened and I will refresh you,' and as we eat and drink of the Lord in the sacrament we find that refreshment."

The cost of the war had been paid in far places, England and France and Holland and Italy, "but we know that its costs still go on."

To those who suffered loss by death, Rev. Mr. Brain said the souls of the righteous were in the hands of God; the compassionate father reflected in the words, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Military Bearers

The casket draped with the Union Jack was carried by six sergeants of the local garrison. They were: Regimental Sergeant Majors Hugh Davidson, Albert Croasdale, Clifford Churchill and Fred Lockhart, and Company Sergeant Majors Wilbert Westram and Spencer Hope.

Honorary military bearers were: Brigadier E. W. Haldenby, CBE, MC, ED; Brigadier D. G. Cunningham, DSO, Kingston; Col. J. A. Dewart, MC, Peterborough.

Lt. Col. C. T. Sharpe, Toronto; Lt. Col. Neil M. Gemmell, DSO; Lt. Col. W. S. Rutherford, Toronto; Lt. Col. M. E. Clarke, Peterborough; Lt. Col. V. M. Eastwood; Lt. Col. R. J. Bolton; Lt. Col. James Turnbull.

Major J. V. Forman, DSO, Kingston; Major Graham Thomson, Kingston; Major John F. Peterson, DSO, Mayor of St. Thomas; Major Harry Willis, Peterborough; Major Ken Kingston, MBE; Major Jas. E. Gillespie, MBE; Major Archie M. Hamilton; Major Robert S. Allin; Major Gordon Clarke, DSO, Toronto.

It was recalled by several officers of the Glengarrys that Brigadier Haldenby, Lt. Col. C. T. Sharpe and Major Gordon Armstrong were the original staff officers of the 9th Canadian Highland Brigade.

Civic Representatives

The honorary civilian bearers were: Alderman Hurrell Dodds and J. Douglas Miller, reperesenting the City Council; Gordon H. Munro of Peterborough and John Murray of Port Hope, representing the Ontario Retail Lumbermen's Association; P. S. Scollard and Ross Thompson of the Chamber of Commerce; Harold Yelland and Claude McWilliams of the Canadian Legion; W. H. Coombe and Stuart McGill of the J. B. Hall Lodge, AF & AM, Millbrook; N. A. Moore of Lakefield and Gordon McGavin of the Peterborough Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

Employees of the Armstrong Lumber Company attended the funeral in a body. Among those present were: Hon. Harold R. Scott, former head of the Scott Lumber Company, who gave the late Gordon Armstrong his start in the lumber business in Peterborough; Senator J. J. Duffus; Mayor Max Swanston and all the members of the Council; and former Mayors W. G. Ovens and James Hamilton.

The firing party of fourteen men from the 50th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment were under the command of Sergeant George Zwicker.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

GARBAGE BURNS

Firemen made a run to Williamson's auto sales, 500 George St., early Sunday when a pile of garbage and rubbish was reported burning behind the premises. There was no damage.

PARKING METER PROFIT

Kitchener expects a profit of $25,000 on its parking meters this year. The city has 444 of these collecting machines in operation.

32 BLOOD DONORS

Thirty-two blood donors turned up at St. Joseph's Hospital last week to make their contribution to the blood bank. The blood donor service, operated by the Red Cross, is for the Civic Hospital on Tuesdays and St. Joseph's on Fridays. Usually about 20 persons volunteer. Blood is given free to the patients at the Peterborough hospitals.

THROUGH WINDSHIELD

Mrs. Art Lindsay of RR 10 Peterborough was released from St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday after being treated for facial cuts received in a car accident Saturday night. She was thrown through the windshield of the car when it ran into a snowbank. The acciident occurred at Donegal St. and Park Hill Rd.

FIRST LIVESTOCK AUCTION

Top price for a Holstein cow at the first sale of district livestock auction Saturday afternoon at Old Orchard Farms was $207.50. Feeder cattle ranged from $69 to $112. Some ninety animals were sold including sheep and hogs. Weather was unfavorable with many roads in difficult condition for motor travel.

COUNTY COUNCIL MEET

Peterborough County Council will meet Tuesday at 10 a.m. for a two-day session in which the estimates for the year will be approved. Conjecture is that the estimates will be higher than those of 1949.

FIRE IN KILN

Firemen were called to the Peterborough Canoe Co. 6:10 a.m. Sunday when a small fire broke out in a drying kiln. A sprinkler head went off sending in an automatic alarm. There was no damage. An acetylene torch is believed to have set off the minor blaze.

BOWLERS WIN

Peterborough CGE edged Toronto Davenport Ave.-Royce Ave. Works by only 375 pins in the first of home-and-home tournaments for the R. S. Cotton trophy in Toronto Saturday. The return match will be at the Duffus Bowling Alleys Saturday. Twelve teams matched the teams from the two Toronto plants. Last year the trophy was won for the first time in five years by the Toronto CGE bowlers.

TWO TRUCKS BANG

Two trucks tangled at the north laneway of the market square Saturday evening driven by Barton Grainger, 629 Montrose Ave., and Earl J. Lowry, R.R. 2, Lakefield. The whole right side of the Grainger truck was dented with the damage estimated at about $86. The right front fender of the Lowry truck was dented.

CROWN ON COURSE

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw returned to his duties today after completing the first half of a refresher course in company law sponsored by the Law Society in Toronto last week. He will finish the course at the end of this week. In his absence V. J. McElderry, KC, has been acting as Crown Attorney.

CONTINUE NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations for an amended contract between the UE and the CGE will continue Wednesday with Louis Fine, chief conciliation office for the Ontario Deuartment of Labor sitting in. It is understood that the question of wages and hours will be tackled Wednesday.

ATTENDS DAIRY MEET

R. Earle Drope, of Harwood, president of the Ontario Creamery Association, is at the Seigniory Club, Quebec, this week, representing the Association at the National Dairy Council annual meeting. Mr. Drope took part in in the panel discussion on "The Impact of Imitations and Effective Safeguards for the Dairy Industry."

Two City Barbers Celebrate 30 Years of Partnership

Who else in Ontario can claim a barbershop partnership of 30 years?

That's the challenge thrown out today by Jack Smith and Harold Freeman of the Smith and Freeman barber shop, Simcoe St. Scottish Jack and English "Hal" have been clipping the hair and shaving the faces of Peterborough menfolk for 30 years—in the same shop, to boot.

Today they are celebrating the anniversary of their tonsorial partnership. And if they don't manage to serve their usual large quota of customers it will be because they are so busy acknowledging the handshakes and congratulations of their friends.

Neither looks like slowing up.

"Here's to the next 30 years," said an old friend and customer early today as he lifted a glass of —um, gingerale.

CGE Has Placed $7,330,000 In Pension Fund

The Canadian General Electric Company contributed to its Pension Trust Fund last year $1,300,000. This is $100,000 more than the company put into the fund in 1948 a news story in the Works News says. The trust fund was started 12 years ago and in that time the company has contributed $7,330,000, a figure which has been further increased through the interest earned.

It was 25 years ago that the CGE started the pension plan and in that time pensions amounting to $1,670,414. have been paid to 358 employees, 41 of whom went on pension during 1949.

There are at present 210 pensioners in retirement. The first CGE retiree was A. E. Guest who went on pension in 1926 and is still drawing his pension.

The $7,330,000 paid into the Pension trust is set aside irrevocably for the benefit of CGE employees and can under no circumstances be used for any other purpose. The Trust funds are invested in first-class securities such as Federal, Provincial and Municipal bonds. In this way CGE employees can go through their working days secure in the knowledge that a Trust Fund is waiting to take care of them in their old age.

With 25 years behind it, the CGE Pension Plan is among the oldest in Canada.

Big Apple Crop Grapes Down

The apple crop of Ontario last year is estimated at 1,138,500 barreis as compared with 780,000 in 1948 and 920,700 in 1947, according to a preliminary report of the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Estimate of the value of the crop is $3,612,000 at $3.17 a barrel as against $3,506,000 at $4.94 a barrel in 1948 and $3,284,800 at $3.57 price in 1947.

The grape yield in 1947 of 35,700 tons and 27,300 tons in 1948 was down to 17,000 tons last year when the yield to the growers was estimated at $1,292,300. The total value in 1948 was $2,383,000 and in 1947 it was $3,439,000. Prices for the last three years were $96.21 a ton in 1947; $87.29 in 1948, and $76.08 last year.

Seed Fair Auction. Oats To $3 Bushel

Registered oats brought more than $3 a bushel at the action sale of the exhibited grain at the Quinte District Seed Fair closing at Lindsay Saturday afternoon. Gordon Hancock of Peterborough was auctioneer.

Stuart A. Bowman, Peterborough, manager of the fair, said the sale was the liveliest he had seen in the series of the Quinte Association since he had come here.

Most of the grain was bought by farmers of the Lindsay district, although there was considerable dispersal farther afield. Harry Morrow of Frankford and Herb Watt of Foxboro took quite a helping. Peterborough buyers included Walter Thorne, W. W. Dawson, William Chambers and Howard Clark.

Will Investigate Truck Contract Toronto Subway

TORONTO, March 20 (CP)—A full investigation into the circumstances by which James Walker obtained police commission permits for his trucks to fulfill a contract on the Toronto Transportation Commission's Yonge Street subway was demanded today by Controller Allan Lamport.

Controller Lamport said there was "sufficient talk and rumor of influence being used" to justify the Board of Control asking Attorney General Porter to appoint a judge to investigate.

The controller said he would move formally at Wednesday's board meeting that the attorney general be requested to order the inquiry.

Had bid In

Walker recently obtained permits to operate 18 cartage trucks to haul dirt from the subway excavation.

At that time 60 independent truckers were dismissed from the job and subsequently protested the commission's action in granting the permits.

Controller Lamport said Walker "put in his bid for the subway haulage contract before he had official assurance that he would be granted permits to operate the 18 trucks. His first request to the police commission was turned down. In the meantime he was awarded the contract and on his second request . . . he was granted the permits."

New Honeymoon Spot Mountains vs. Niagara

STE. AGATHE DES MONTS, Que., March 20—(CP)—J. B. Lang, president of the Northern Resorts Association, said here during the weekend that plans are being made to transform the Ste. Agathe district into the sports and honeymoon centre of the Laurentians.

He told a group of visiting travel agents from the United States and Canada that with the addition of a large auditorium and skating rink, Ste. Agathe would be in a position to compete for "the honeymoon trade."

Break-in Fails Park St. Ap't, Door Spiked

An unsuccessful attempt was made to break into the upstairs apartment of James Guerin at 146 Park St. Saturday evening.

Mr. Guerin reported to police the attempt was made sometime between two p.m. when he and his family left their home, and 10 p.m. when they returned.

He found that a key had been pushed out of an outside side door which is reached by an outside staircase and the door unlocked. But a spike driven into place at the door held it closed.

Mr. Guerin told Traffic Officer Harold Mesley who conducted the preliminary investigation that his apartment had been entered previously through the same door and the rooms ransacked.

Two men were remanded on charges of receiving stolen money without election or plea to March 27 in police court today.

James Alfred Atkins, 21, formerly of Peterborough, who gave an Oshawa address, asked for bail which was set at $1,000.

Gerald Clancy, 21, 556 Rogers St., was remanded without bail.

It is charged that the money was stolen Feb. 24 from S. G. Alexander, 551 King St.

Fireworks In Church Teen-Agers Blamed

TORONTO, March 20—(CP)—Police today blamed a gang of teen-agers for a series of firecracker explosions in a suburban church Saturday night.

The youths fled after littering firecrackers about the altar and pews of St. Cuthbert's Anglican Church in Leaside:

There was no immediate estimate of the damage. The rector, Rev. P. M. Lamb, said the church doors never are locked.

Drunks In Court

Pleading guilty to a charge of being drunk Saturday night, Garfield Shilling, 129 Hazlitt St., was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court today.

Roger McNaughton, 7 Bruce St., also pleaded guilty to being drunk Saturday night and was fined $10 and costs.

William Weatherby, 29, no fixed address, was remanded without plea on a charge of vagrancy for further investigation.

Rev. Dr. James Semple congratulated the new class on the splendid work they are doing in connection with the church and Sunday School.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hamblin and Mrs. E. Cox assisted by Mrs. G. Marshall, Mrs. R. McKee and Misses M. Robinson and M. Hales.

Normal Alumnists Get To Dance Through Blizzard

Though a blizzard raged and snow was piling in great drifts on the evening of March 17, spirits longing for a glad reunion of Normal School alumni weren't daunted and about 60 got through to the annual dance.

The school auditorium was decked in traditional Irish style with pipes, shamrocks and top hats and the orchestra complied with a number of Irish tunes. Lunch, served in the cafeteria style, was done up in serviettes with St. Patrick's day motifs.

Spot dance winners were Miss Betty Brown, and Mr. Robert Grant, Miss Lola Branscombe and Mr. Bruce Gorrill.

Arrangements for the evening were supervised by the Alumni president, Miss Betty Brown, and secretary-treasurer Miss Mary King.

Five Enter Religious Life In Ceremony at Mount

Annual ceremony of reception and profession took place Sunday when in St. Joseph's Chapel, Mount St. Joseph, when five young women who were seeking to be accepted for the religious life, were in the sanctuary. His Excellency, the Most Reverend Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, celebrated Mass, assisted by Reverend V. J. Corkery, and Reverend J. F. Coughlan.

A sermon appropriate for this occasion was delivered by Reverend Columba McCloskey, CP, of Boston, who for eight days previous preached a retreat to the Sisters of St. Joseph, including those in their postulancy. He enumerated the sacrifices of their parents in giving them up. When considered from the point of view of reward, the speaker showed that the promises of ::the hundredfold in this world and life everlasting in the next," would compensate in no small degree.

The ceremony completed, the five young ladies in bridal costume, with their attendants, left the chapel to lay aside their worldly dress, and return in the habit of religious sisters. The names by which they had heretofore been known were replaced by religious names as follows: Miss Elizabeth Ludwig of Browning, Sask., will be known as Sister St. Stephen; Miss Patricia McDermott, of Cornwall, as Sister Marie; Miss Mary Coughlin, of Peterborough, as Sister Immaculata; Miss Frances Ennis, of Loring, Ont., as Sister St. Peter; and Miss Mary Lunney of Pakenham, as Sister Alphonse Marie.

The ceremony of Profession followed.

Two novices made their first vows: Sister St. Leonard (Rooney) and Sister M. Eileen (Prentice) of Ottawa. Those who made final vows were: Sister Mary Lois (Olsheskie) of Barry's Bay, and Sister Margaret Ann (Harris) of Eastview, Ont. At an early Mass three sisters renewed their vows for one year.

Clergy present in the Sanctuary were: Right Reverend J. V. McAuley, DP, PP, Lindsay; Reverend K. Malane, Peterborough, Right Reverend J. O'Neill, DP, PP, Our Lady of Perpetual Help Parish, Ottawa; Reverend Alphonse O'Neill, St. Mary's Parish, Ottawa; Reverend J. Stapleton, CSB, Toronto.

The little girls who attended the brides were: Misses Joanne Guerin, Marie Guerin, Peggy Ann Guiry, Mary Howell, Janet Martin, Diane O'Keefe, and Patricia Thompson.

Mae Yeatman Becomes Bride

At the rectory of St. George's Anglican Church on Saturday afternoon the Rev. E. C. Moore solemnized the marriage of Mae Subina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Yeatman, River Road, and Stanley McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McCormick, also of Peterborough.

The bride wore a two-piece dress of powder blue crepe with black hat and accessories and a corsage of Bettertime roses. Miss Jane Reynolds attending her sister wore a similar dress of navy crepe, navy accessories and a corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

Mr. Don Tripp was groomsman.

A reception took place at Club Aragon where the bride's and groom's mothers assisted to receive, each dressed in navy and wearing a corsage of pink roses.

When leaving later on a trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride was wearing a grey tailored suit with black hat and accessories, a green top coat and a squirrel neckpiece.

The couple will live at 557 King George St.

Silver Cross Tea In Aid Of War Memorial

Silver Cross Chapter members are holding their annual tea in the YWCA Green Room Wednesday afternoon, three to six o'clock and it is hoped the event will be well patronized by citizens of Peterborough.

The tea this year is for the purpose of raising funds to complete the memorial they are erecting to the memory of local men who lost their lives in War Two.

There will be many things to enjoy, the tea table attractively arranged, the table of home baking, good home-made candy and the sale of work booth.

President Mrs. B. W. Harvey will be receiving assisted by Mrs. B. D. Hall, representing the army, Mrs. J. W. Ebbs, Air Force, and Mrs. F. C. Paterson, Navy.

$2.50 Top Price At Box Social Of 20 Plus Club

Gordon O. Hancock, descendant of a long line of auctioneers, officiated in this capacity Saturday evening at the 20 Plus Club's box social. The boxes containing lunches for which he got top prices, as high as $2.50, were in the shape of shamrocks, stove pipe hats, clay pipes, etc and all were decorated in green. The pleasing sum of $39.50 was collected from the sale and will go to the Y's World Service Fund.

Decorations typified the Emerald Isle and featured a miniature Michael and Colleen dancing an Irish jig. Michael Callaghan, who left Ireland only a year ago, was sporting an eight-inch shamrock in his coat lapel and he was master of ceremonies for the program

Winners of spot dances were Miss Kay Griffiths and John Franks, Miss Rayma Brown and Bob Walker, and Miss Brown again with Wilbert Cunningham.

Next week's meeting will be arranged by Tony Burns.

"Little Women" Tea Hostesses At YW Saturday

Hostesses at a delightful afternoon tea Saturday in the YWCA Green Room were members of the Little Women's Club, a group of 9 to 12-year-olds. They served dainty refreshments to about 50 guests and also sold home baking and some attractive cards.

Most charming decorations in the tea room were the girls themselves, and each wore a green apron trimmed with white shamrocks, to honor Saint Patrick. The quartette tables used for serving were decked with green balloons and green skirted candles, and the booths were fancily trimmed in green and white.

A marble-guessing contest was an interesting feature of the event, and rMs. D. McGregor won a cake for making the nearest correct estimate.

Club president Frances Healey received. The following members were tea room assistants: Janet and Carol Hughson, June and Joan Pearce, Cecile Bartley, Elaine Hynes, Patsy Taylor, Patsy Hickey, Patsy Wilson, Gloria Rishea, Joan Crow, Ann Gilbert, Evelyn Hajnik, Helen Heffernan Bonnie Moffat.

Assisting the girls were Mrs. C. K. Hurst, at the door, and Mrs. Thomas Cook, Mrs. Richard Beck, Mrs. Robert Quirt in the tea room.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Wise Girl Will Refuse To Marry Inconsiderate Man

DEAR MISS DIX: I am interested in a young man who treats me with boorish indifference. He maintains that it is against his principles to take a girl out for an evening's pleasure. He spends evenings in further pursuance of his profession. He neither writes, telephones nor does any of the things that are expected of a normal man most of his

who is supposed to be in love with a woman, but is satisfied with seeing me on the very rare occasions when I go to his house for dinner He never even bothers to see me home, no matter how inclement the weather or how late the hour

This man has asked me to marry him, but I refused because I felt that if I was not worthy of a little care and thought before marriage I would be worth even less afterward. Did I do right

MARY JANE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly were wise and saved yourself a lot of grief by saying "no," because it just simply isn't in that type of man to be the kind of husband who will make any woman happy He doesn't even know what a woman wants in a husband and he will never understand why one can't be satisfied with a wedding ring and her board and keep.

Wife a Convenience

To such a man a wife is just a convenience. Someone who will make a home for him where he will be more comfortable than he would be in a club or hotel. Someone to provide him with the things he likes to eat, to look after his laundry and see that his clothes are sent to the presser. Somebody to talk to if he happens to feel in a mood for conversation. Somebody who will take care of his social obligations and make for him social contacts that are valuable. Somebody who will give all and ask nothing in return except just a living.

In these days virtually any woman can make a living for herself, so she doesn't have to marry for a meal ticket, and unless she is sure that a man is going to give her love and tenderness and the delicate little attentions that spring from his always thinking of her and wanting to give her pleasure, she is wise to refuse to marry him. Just bread and meat are not enough for her.

This man has tipped you off to the kind of husband he will make. Take the tip and you will save yourself a lonely, loveless, dreary stretch of married life For if he is cold and inconsiderate and incompanionable now, he will be a thousand times more so after you are married.

Husbands never change.

DEAR MISS DIX What do you think of the chances of happiness of a women who has been financially independent for a long time and accustomed to spending money freely, though not extravagantly, in marrying a man who is very stingy, very much of a tightwad, and who is so absorbed in making money and saving it that he barely takes the woman out at all The young man is a fine, good-looking chap with good manners and morals, but how will the girl like it when she has to look to a parsimonious husband for every dollar she needs? Is there any way to change such a man if one is clever enough?

A BUSINESS WOMAN

ANSWER: Miserliness is one of the most incurable of all the faults and it is one that grows upon a person, so it is folly to delude yourself into thinking that you can change a stingy sweetheart into a liberal husband. It can't be done.

A stingy husband is bad enough and hard for a woman to endure who has never known anything but financial dependence, but he is impossible for the woman who has had her own pocket-book and spent her own money as she pleased. Especially if she happens to be open-handed herself.

A tight hand goes with a tight heart and tight sympathies, and these have no place in marriage The very first requisite of a good husband is generosity. A wife wants to feel that her husband gives to her freely and that his only regret is that he hasn't more to give, that he would like to hand her the world on a silver salver if he could.

Better pass up your tightwad. He is a poor bet.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young married man. Have a pretty wife and love her dearly. Nice baby, comfortable home, everything all right, except that I also have a mother-in-law who persists in living with us, although she has a living husband and four sons, all married. She spends her time finding fault with me and pointing out my weaknesses to my wife. She ruins my home and makes life miserable. What shall I do?

DISAPPOINTED NED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Ask her to have. It is no part of your obligation as a husband to live with your mother-in-law, and you are foolish to do so.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: I hope I'm not asking too much of you to give me a few pointers in the column concerning Angel food and pumpkin pie. In baking my angel cake I find many times my cake will sweat in bottom and run off plate. Why is this? My pumpkin pie also forms water on top. Please tell me what temperature to cook the pie, so as to have a nice pastry. Trusting to see the answer soon. "Anxious".

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: I think both your angel food cake and your pumpkin pie contain too much sugar. An excess of sugar causes "weeping". "Beading" is caused by cooking of egg white mixtures.

The best thing I can do is give you recipes for angel food cake and pumpkin pie that I can vouch for and then you can try them and see if a change of methods rectifies your troubles.

Angel Food

Seven-eighths cup twice-sifted cake flour, 1¼ cups fine granulated sugar, 1 cup egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each cream of tartar and vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond flavouring.

Measure the twice-sifted flour into the sifter, add ¼ cup of the sugar and sift these together 6 times, and tip bake into sifter.

Put egg whites into large mixing bowl, add salt and beat with flat wire beater or rotary beater until foamy when add the cream of tartar and beat until glossy and stiff but not dry. Add the remaining 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, folding it in until just mixed after each addition. Fold in flavourings. Sift one quarter of the flour mixture over the egg whites and fold in using flat wire beater or shallow spoon. Fold only until flour disappears. Repeat until all dry ingredients are added. Pour into ungreased tube pan. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Turn out over cake cooler and let "hang" for 1 hour, then loosen sides with spatula, and shake from pan onto cake cooler

Pumpkin Pie

One and one-half cups cooked and strained or canned pumpkin, 2/3 cup sugar—preferably brown, ½ teaspoon each ginger and salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 or 3 eggs, 2 cups rich milk. Mix the sugar, ginger, cinnamon and salt together and add to the strained pumpkin. Beat the eggs well and add the milk to them and then add both to the pumpkin mixture. Pour into deep pie-plate lined with unbaked pastry, having high fluted sides. Stand pie at bottom of oven having temperature of 475 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then raise pie to middle of oven and reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. to finish baking, and until pumpkin filling is "set".

This quantity of filling will fill 2 medium to small pies.

Standing the pie at bottom of oven with such high heat gives the pastry a chance to bake fast before it becomes soaked.

If you use rich milk or cream and 3 eggs the pie is richer and not as likely to form water on top.

I hope you like these recipes, and that you will write to me telling me of your success.

✧ ✧ ✧

Question: I have been reading your page with interest. I wish you would inform me how to cook liver and small veal heart real tender so that they can be eaten by anyone young or old. When I fry it sometimes it is tough. Thanking you Mrs. J. L.

Answer: We eat liver once per week and I have tried every kind; occasionally I get baby beef liver that is tender, but calves' liver and some lamb's liver is the only kind you can depend on to be always tender.

To cook calves' liver have the butcher slice it in slices a little less than half-inch thick. Have butter bubbling in an iron frying pan—but not at all brown and certainly not sizzling. Lay the slices of liver in, and turn them with a fork every minute, until blood is "set". This takes about 4 minutes. Serve at once on hot plates.

Baked Veal Heart

Wash, trim remove large arteries and fat from top of 2 calves' hearts; stuff with bread stuffing well seasoned with thyme and onion if desired. (It is not necessary to stuff the hearts.) Sear in a little bacon fat in small roasting pan with tight cover, and then add 1¼ cups boiling water, cover top of hearts with strips of bacon, cover tightly and bake at 350 deg Fahr. 2 hours.

Or (and I like this better) wash and trim hearts dredge with salt and pepper, cover with 1 can condensed mushroom soup, cover tightly and bake at 350 deg. Fahr for 1½ to 2 hours, basting once or twice during the baking.

What's Right

You want your son to be a "junior" and your husband's name is John Robert Smith.

WRONG WAY: Change the middle name if you like, calling the child John Edward Smith, Jr.

RIGHT WAY: Realize that the name of the father and son must be identical if "junior" is to be added to the son's name.

Efficiency and Economy Essential in Good Cooks

By MARY MOORE

With pineapples showing up in the fruit displays it won't be long now folks until the monotony of our winter diet will be relieved.

To shake your family out of its apathy especially when baked apples are mentioned, try this oven dinner with special baked apples for dessert: Cheese-Tomato Souffle, Baked Beans, Special Baked Apples.

I hope rumours will come back to me that you ladies said, about this week's column, "She certainly does not expect us all to be millionaires and able to afford caviar every day." Because I do not—I'm a working gal myself,—as today's offering plainly shows.

And for good measure, IT IS A LENTEN MEAL.

Cheese Tomato Souffle

Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ cup condensed tomato soup, canned, ¾ cup hot milk, 1½ cups well-packed, grated medium-old or old cheese, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 4 eggs, yolks and whites separated. Melt the butter or margarine, add the flour and stir until mixed. Stir in the hot milk until thick. Stir in soup and cheese and heat until cheese is melted. Remove from heat and add beaten egg yolks and mustard. Beat the whites until stiff and fold them into the mixture. Pour into buttered pyrex or oven dish which can be taken to table and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 50 minutes, or until dry at centre. This dish puffs very high and it is advisable to bake it in a big dish, and to put small pan of hot water under it, to prevent sticking. For special occasions serve with mushroom sauce.

Home Style Baked Beans

One pound white navy beans, 1¼ cups tomato catsup (or less if desired), 4 slices bacon or fat salt pork cut small, 1 tablespoon molasses ½ teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon each corn syrup and salt, 2 strips bacon or fat salt pork cut in halves. Soak navy beans, after washing, in large bowl, well covered with warm water, overnight. Pour beans and soaking water into covered pan and cook gently until tender — about 2 hours. Drain off 1½ cups of the cooking water and reserve it and discard remainder, add 1½ cups water and 1 cup of catsup, 4 cut up slices bacon, salt and pepper to the beans. Make a paste of the corn syrup, molasses cornstarch and remaining ¼ cup catsup (Add ¼ to ½ teaspoon powdered mustard if you desire.) Stir paste into the beans. Pour into well-greased bean pot or 5-pound lard pail or large baking dish. Place a small peeled onion in centre Cover top with the half slices bacon. Cover. Bake at 275 deg Fahr. for from 3 to 6 hours. If beans boil over during first part of baking tip lid slightly.

NOTE: Beans are considered a protein vegetable, and consequently are very satisfying. If you would like to use this for lent omit the bacon.

Special Baked Apples

Wash and core 6 choice red apples. Cut skin from upper third of apple. Fill centre with mixture of seedless raisins (½ cup), juice of ½ lemon, grated rind 1 lemon and 1/3 cup brown sugar. Use leftover ½ lemon to squeeze. To this juice add enough water to make 1 cup and 1-3 cup sugar. Pour over the apples and bake in hot oven for about ¾ hour. Serve with pan syrup and pass pouring cream Five minutes before removing from oven you may put a whole walnut on top of each apple; baste it with pan syrup.

Directions

Bran Muffins with Dates are made by sifting together 1 cup pastry flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and soda; add 1 cup each whole wheat flour and bran; mix well and add ½ cup chopped dates (or raisins) and molasses and 1¼ cups milk and 1 tablespoon softened shortening or cooking oil Mix very thoroughly and pour into greased muffin tins filling them 2/3 full. Bake at 310 deg Fahr. for about 25 minutes.

For the Boiled Dinner wipe a 2 or 3-lb. piece corned leaf (to have some leftover to slice cold) and tie it securely into shape. Put in kettle, covered with cold water and bring slowly to boil. Boil 5 minutes, skim off scum and simmer covered until meat is tender—about 3¼ hours. Remove and keep hot if possible. If not, add vegetables: 8 small carrots ½ turnip, 8 small potatoes, ½ small cabbage cut in wedges and onions if desired Boil until vegetables are tender.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Few people can kill it singlehanded!

THIS IS THE PUT-OFF BIRD.

He usually appears just when you're deciding to do something that should be done without delay. Then he tries to talk you out of it.

When you're planning a trip, he'll tell you not to bother making reservations. Or when you have a slight toothache, he'll say: "Don't worry, pal — it'll soon go away. Besides, you're too busy to go to the dentist today!"

Oh, he's a sly one, this Put-Off Bird! And such a trouble-maker that he even tries to get fathers to neglect their family's financial security. But fortunately a deadly enemy of this bird often appears at such critical moments — and saves the day.

This enemy of the bird — and friend of fathers — is the life insurance representative. Aiming a few realistic facts at the mischievous creature, he kills it deader than its cousin, the Dodo. Its dangerous propaganda is silenced. And always the father then realizes why he should act to protect his family immediately.

Thus the life insurance representative helps prevent countless people from having to depend on charity or relatives for their support in years to come.

Life underwriters help people in other ways, too. They are trained to analyze all the facts related to the family's future needs . . . then build a sound life insurance plan that meets those needs exactly.

More than a million Canadian families have benefited by the services of the modern life underwriter. And he's always glad to help you!

A helpful citizen in your community

When a life insurance representative sells you a policy, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work through investments to build schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living. You share in these improvements, made possible through the efforts of your helpful fellow-citizen — the life underwriter!

BUSINESSMEN or SALESMEN

Wanted: Two Mature Businessmen or Salesmen to Represent Canadian firm. G. A. Holland, new man starting mid-year, earned $2,194.36 in a three months' period. Average over $700.00 per month. D. W. Orr earned $4,484.76 first seven months. In past 3 years, Dave Jones earned $23,476.23, working only about nine months per year. Earnings right at start: S. N. Tansley, $103.00 first 2 hours. T. D. Stockwell, $167.85 first day. J. L. McCullough, $526 first week. Over 150 of our men have earned $400 to $3,000 in one month, many being new men. (These are SWORN STATEMENTS.) These gross earnings are, of course, exceptional. Many of our top men have been doing this well for years. It's a foregone conclusion that they will do even better now with increased demand. Men who were "bankrupt" when they started now have big new homes, some two cars instead of one, are sending children to college and enjoying security for the future. Man is needed for this area—also several others for nearby territories. Our most successful men are those who are able to be away from home travelling one or two weeks at a time—outdoors in healthful, fascinating occupation. Our Product (Canadian Pat. Labor Believes U.K. Crisis Over

LONDON, March 20 —(CP)— Having survived the Ides of March without disaster, Labor now looks to the future with a little more confidence.

The government that was virtually written off after the shaky majority it received in the Feb. 23 general election has already skirted three potential pitfalls and its life expectancy is the subject of revised forecasts.

All indications are that the government is determined to stay in office, despite its meagre five-vote majority, and that the opposition probably wants to stay out, for the time being at least.

What may be the official Conservative view has been expressed by Osbert Peake, member for Leeds North. Winding up debate in the Commons last Tuesday, Peake said:

"We in this House have got somehow in this parliament to try to live together, whether we like it or not, for a period at any rate, a period which is sure to be months and which may be for a year or more."

Political writers said this statement may indicate the Tories are "losing heart" about prospects of defeating the government on immediate issues.

Swimmers Race At Y Pool Show

Brian Bell improved his record time for the 100-yard free style Saturday night as zipped through the water cutting his time from 1:37 minutes to 1:28.4 minutes. Doing so he won the handicap swim which was part of the YMGA Swimming Club - Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club show. John Boorman and Terry Reid finished second and third respectively in the event.

Donald Wood swept the pigeon race for the second night in a row Saturday. A 120-yard free style relay race between the girls and the boys ended in a water free-for-all.

Terry Killen won the handicap swim Friday night with Brian Bell and Alec Baptie placing second and third. In the 40-yard free style event Nancy Doubt finished in 28 seconds to edge out sister Denise Doubt. Wayne Crowe placed third. Scott Pearton, Jim Heffernan, Alec Baptie and John Boorman gave a 160-yard free style relay exhibition. A 200-yard free style exhibition was given by Donald Wood and Jim Starr.

A Rude Awakening

HAMILTON, March 20. (CP)— Someone tossed a tear-gas bomb into the men's residence at McMaster University Saturday and more than 30 occupants were forced out into the cold. While no one was seriously affected, one student executive called it "a prank beyond reasonable proportions."

Chinese Refugees Refused Transit

OAKLAND, Calif., March 20 — (AP)— An official of Trans-Canada Airlines, a chartered airplane service, said Saturday the United States Immigration Department has refused further transit to Chinese carrying Nationalist visas and bound to countries adjacent to the United States.

In Washington Immigration and State Department officials said they did not know about any such ruling or plans for transit visas across the United States for Chinese refugees.

At Ottawa an Immigration Department spokesman said he had no knowledge of any move by the United States Immigration Department to refuse transit to Chinese carrying Nationalist visas.

The spokesman added the number of Chinese coming to Canada is very limited. Under Canadian immigration regulations, Chinese immigrants are limited to the wives, sons or daughters of Chinese now resident in Canada. This country has no immigration quota for Chinese.

Sees Father Killed

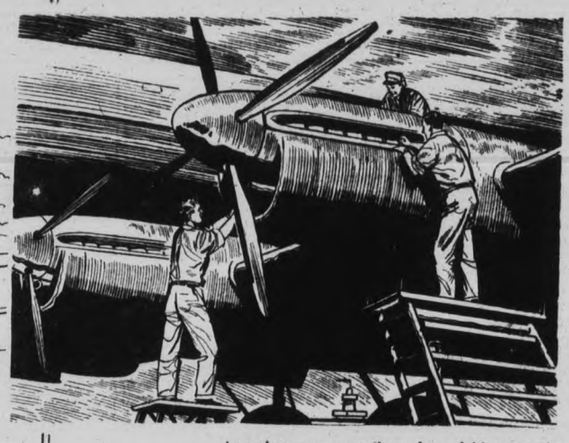
READING, Pa., March 20 — (AP)— A student priest watched horrified as his father was killed Sunday in the crash of a small plane. The father, Charles W. Judge, 44, of Long Island City, N. Y., was just leaving to return home after visiting his son, Kenneth, a student at the Jesuit Novitiate of St. Isaac Jogues, when a wing of the plane hit a tree.

Dollars Luring U.S. Fair Entries

CHICAGO, March 20.—(AP).—The lure of United States dollars is drawing manufacturers from many parts of the world to the first American international trade fair. It will be held in Chicago Aug. 7-19.

Government trade officials in many countries are urging their business firms to participate. They consider the fair a quick and economical way to enter the American market and establish dollar credits.

Business men seem to agree. Already they have reserved 113,700 square feet for exhibits. Another 162,000 feet is being negotiated.

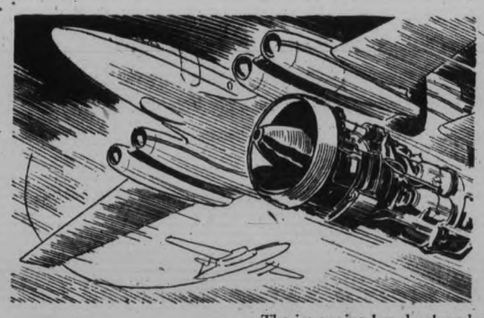


The fair will be patterned after the famous trade fairs of Leipzig, Brussels and Paris.

It will be the second to be established in North America. The first is the Canadian International Trade Fair, started in 1948, which will hold its third annual fair next May 29-June 9 at Toronto.

The entire range of consumer and industrial goods will be represented in exhibits.

Of space reserved so far, 40 per cent is for finished consumer merchandise; 10 per cent for textiles, 12 per cent for foodstuffs, 18 per cent for machinery and equipment, five per cent for chemicals and raw materials; and 15 per cent for travel, information and miscellaneous groups.



I guess we do depend on Nickel...

Aeroplane parts must have dependable strength and minimum weight. That's why Nickel alloys are used. In the engine, landing gear and all through the ship Nickel alloys are found. And in the galley, the hostess prepares the food on surfaces made of bright, sanitary Nickel alloys.

Exhaust manifolds and other parts of radial engines have to stand up under the corroding action of hot exhaust gases. Nickel alloys do this job too.

The jet engine has developed only as new Nickel alloys were proven able to stand up under the terrific temperatures and strains essential to jet operations.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees in Canada and also help pay Canadian railwaymen, lumbermen, iron and steel workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

"The Romance of Nickel", a 55-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Suggest Guides Take Course At Haliburton

TORONTO, March 20—(CP)—Fish and wildlife, Ontario's oldest crop, is still an important one, the Ontario Legislature's Committee on Conservation said in a report tabled today.

Noting that only 10 per cent of the area of the province is cleared for argricultural land, the report said that the remaining 90 per cent will produce fish and wildlife and 50 per cent—either water or muskeg, rock or inaccessible forest areas—will produce no other crop.

Conservation of wild life had two main objectives: 1. To give Ontario residents a chance to hunt and fish for fun or trap for profit; 2. See and enjoy wild life in all its forms.

Broad Recommendations

The committee had received many submissions on wildlife and fish. But because of the broad nature of its terms of reference it felt that it confine its recommendations to broad principles.

It urged that the Ontario Government provide for an increase in fundamental research leading to a knowledge of the critical factors controlling fish and wildlife populations.

Then, noting the vast areas to be patrolled by game wardens in Northern Ontario, it suggested special training courses for guides at the Ontario Forest Ranger School in Haliburton. Well-trained guides, who make their livelihood taking fish and hunting parties into the bush, "would provide an efficient auxiliary type of game warden and overseer."

Cancel Strike Order

SARNIA, March 20 — (CP) — A strike order at the Polymer Corporation, called for next Wednesday, has been cancelled by the executive of Local 14 of the United Chemical Workers (CIO), and a Spreme Court judge may be asked to arbitrate the seven-month-old wage dispute. The announcement was made in a joint statement Sunday afternoon by the union's bargaining committee and officials of the crown company.

Blames Britain, Reds

BELGRADE, March 20 (CP)—Moshe Pijade, member of Premier Tito's eight-man Politburo, charged Sunday that Britain and Russia agreed in 1944 to divide their spheres of influence in Yugoslavia on a 50-50 basis. His charge was made before an outdoor mass meeting in advance of the country's general elections next Sunday—the first since the present parliament was elected in 1945.

Bridge Club Meets

TRENT RIVER, March 20 — (ENS)—Mrs. Francis Ruttan entertained the bridge club last Thursday when Mrs. James Cook, Mrs. Boyd Kyle and Mrs. Eric Little were prize winners. The hostess served refreshments. Other guests were Mrs. Rhoda Campney, Havelock; Mrs. George Brooks, Mrs. Ross Pollock and Miss Rose Ruttan of Trent River.

Drinks Oil, Dies

BOSTON, March 20—(AP)—Joseph Fitzpatrick, 14 months, died Saturday after drinking fuel oil from a drip pan beneath a kitchen range in his home. Police said the child drank the oil while his mother was washing dishes with her back turned to him.

Killed In Quarry

HANOVER, Pa., March 20 (AP)—Three Dickinson College students were killed Sunday when their car left the road and dropped 125 feet into the Bethlehem Steel Company stone quarry one mile north of here.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

INITIATION into the Ku Klux Klan, complete with hooded, white-robed figures, fiery cross and American flag, makes this striking scene, taken near Atlanta in the early Twenties. The fearsome, night-riding Klan was born in the South following the Civil War, first as a social organization, then as a terroristic force devoted to "white supremacy". It was reborn in 1915 under a fiery cross on Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, as a body of "100 per cent Americans, white and Protestant, aimed at purifying the social and political life of this country." Nurtured on hate, the Klan grew to power in national politics, even elected governors. From a claimed membership of 9,000,000 members in 1925, it has alternately withered and bloomed, but never died.

Sextuplets Have Congo In Dither No One Can Confirm Big Event

(Editor's Note: A report of the birth of sextuplets reached the outside world recently from deep in the jungles of the Belgian Congo. Because of a hoax three months ago in connection with a reported multiple birth in Colombia, Reuters sent staff correspondent Graham Jenkins to investigate.)

By GRAHAM JENKINS.

ELIZABETHVILLE, Belgian Congo, March 20 (Reuters).— An almost impenetrable veil of official perplexity surrounds the recent report that an African woman in the Congo back country gave birth to sextuplets.

Belgian officials here were not able to verify the news, reported to the outside world earlier this month. If it is true, it will be the first time that the birth of sextuplets has been reported.

Administrators at Ruanda-Urundi, hundreds of miles away in the heart of Africa, are not replying to any questions.

In fact, no one here is able to say whether they are even taking the report seriously.

They may be searching for the woman and her children— four boys and two girls—but even if they are, communication with the village of Ruhengeri, named as the scene of the birth, is difficult.

Cut Off by Bush

The district is cut off from the outside world by the dense scrub and bush of the Congo jungle country.

Information officials in Elizabethville say the first report of the births appeared in an African newspaper in Ruanda-Urundi, and its report was copied later by a newspaper in Leopoldville, the Congo capital.

Soon the outside world received the news from Brazzaville, across the Congo River from Leopoldville.

Now Belgian medical officers refuse to confirm that sextuplets have been born. But they do know that triplets have been born in Runengeri.

Perhaps the birth of the triplets was reported twice. That is what disappointed information officials in Elizabethville—whose job is to publicize the Congo—think may have happened.

Likely False

If the report is false—as it probably is—it will not be the first time that similar claims have exploded since Mrs. Oliva Dionne gave birth to quintuplets in 1934 at Callander.

Three months ago, people in Colombia were laughing at a practical joke which had fooled the whole country and brought thousands flocking to a country town to see "quintuplets," said to have been born to a peasant couple near Medillin.

The crowds found not quintuplets but five boys of different ages. The hoax was said to have been started by a relative of the family who "disclosed" the names of the five boys.

Before the Dionne quints were born, the last recorded birth of quintuplets was at Lisbon, Portugal, in 1866, but all died within two weeks.

19 Fatalities Reported Over Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

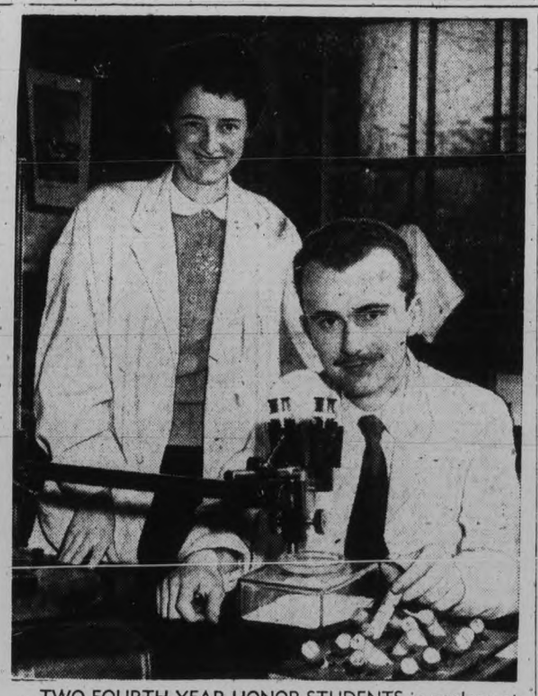
A ship sinking in which 11 were drowned topped Eastern Canada's list of 19 week-end fatalities. In another mishap two train men were killed when two trains collided.

Eleven of the 17-man crew of the trawler Gertrude de Costa were lost when the vessel was rammed by the freighter Island Connector off Halifax harbor early Saturday. The dead included Capt. Haslem Knickle of Lunenburg, N.S.

Thirteen of the week-end fatalities occurred in Nova Scotia and six in Ontario.

In another early Saturday mishap, Engineer A. T. Short and Fireman C. H. Hannam were killed when two Canadian Pacific Railway freight trains collided at Ashton station near Ottawa.

Dies From Injuries



In other accidents a boy died from injuries suffered while playing hockey, a man was run over by a train, a woman and a man were burned to death, a man was drowned and another boy died in a highway mishap.

The other Nova Scotia fatalities were Doug Dorrington, from fatal injuries in a hockey game at Truro and Allan MacAuley, 60, drowned at Ross' Ferry when his truck plunged into the water.

Other Ontario deaths were: At Chapleau — Steve Dzigola, 27, bridegroom of one week, crushed by a train; Sudbury — Gerry Mears, from injuries suffered when his bicycle collided with a truck; Kingston—Mrs. Peter McNeeley, 79, from burns suffered when clothing caught fire in her home last week; Toronto—Robert McKay, 84, believed by firemen to have set himself on fire while smoking a pipe in his home early Monday.

Drop Parley Plans

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The Duncan-Paris Veterans' Post abandoned its plans Saturday for a telephone peace parley between President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin. The veterans' group, whose affiliation with the American Legion is the subject of a heated controversy, dropped its plans for the long-distance peace talks after announcing that Truman's Key West, Fla., headquarters had refused a telephone call placed by the Post here.

TWO FOURTH-YEAR HONOR STUDENTS in zoology at McGill University in Montreal, have been selected for advanced study in the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene, University of London, it was disclosed at the university recently. They are Miss Gwen Talbot, daughter of Brig. and Mrs. W. E. H. Talbot, of Shediac, NB, and Marco E. C. Gigliolo, son of Dr. and Mrs. George Gigliolo, of Georgetown, British Guiana. Both will enter upon two years of advanced study in the field of medical entomology, with particular emphasis on tropical medicine, under the famous London expert, Dr. P. Buxton.

Stricter Liquor Laws

TORONTO, March 20—(CP)—More stringent liquor laws in Ontario were urged by the Toronto and York Young Liberal Association at its annual meeting Saturday. A resolution urged more rigid exclusion of minors from liquor establishments. Keith Davey was elected president of the association.

Devalue Currency

JAKARTA, Indonesia, March 20 (AP)—The United States of Indonesia Sunday devalued its currency by 50 per cent, and seized half of all cash and bank accounts of more than 1,000 guilders as a government loan. The guilder was quoted in the United States recently at about 26 cents, equivalent to about 28½ cents Canadian.

2 Million Women Surplus So French Males Careful

PARIS, March 20—(AP)—France has a surplus 2,000,000 women, but the French male is careful before he takes a matrimonial leap. France has 20 magazines that carry nothing but marriage advertisements. In addition, numerous other weekly and monthly publications include such ads.

Curiously, 70 per cent of the ads are placed by men.

Divorce is hard to obtain in France. A predominantly Roman Catholic country.

The publisher of a lonely hearts magazine called "Marriage For All" says "lack of money compels people to go more and more rarely to entertainment places where acquaintances leading to marriage can be made."

Replace Parties

"Marriage magazines have replaced, in a sense, parties and dances," said the publisher, who prints 200 ads a month and gets from 4,000 to 6,000 answers.

"We're convinced that five per cent of the ads produce a marriage," he said.

A "Club of the Timid" was founded three months back by a 30-year-old office clerk named Georges Amrand, and Georges Krassowsky, 34, a Russian-born taxi driver.

Girls Do Inviting

The club holds weekly meetings off the Champs Elysses. The first get-togethers were sad affairs. "But we fixed that by ruling that the girls had to invite the men to dance," said Armran.

The "Club of the Green Border" was founded in 1922 by Charles Fontaine-Beauger, a newspaper man. Members are supposed to wear a green ribbon.

The club, which now has 600 members, holds weekly dances. It claims credit for 4,000 marriages.

"Love at first sight is a common here as elsewhere," says Fontaine-Beauger.

The last census shows that France has 18,869,000 males, and 29,961,000 females.

Where valiant hearts find a bit of heaven and "home"

Once, he had a home. Its rooms rang cheerily to his footsteps, echoed his laughter. Then war came, and he marched away to do his part. Now he is back. But for this crippled, ailing hero of the war, still confined to hospital, there may never again be the joy of "going home". Yet he's not downhearted . . . no! For in the Red Cross Veteran's Lodge at his hospital . . . in bright, "homey" rooms contrasting so cheerfully with the bare white of the wards . . . he enjoys many happy hours with loved ones and visitors. Think of the heaven this means to the men we all promised to remember! Give generously, to maintain these Red Cross Veterans' Lodges and other Veterans' Services . . . to support, as well, the Red Cross Disaster Services, the Outpost Hospitals, the Free Blood Transfusion Service —and many other Red Cross activities that serve the unfortunate, the stricken and the homeless.

Marmora Club Presents Play

MARMORA, March 20 (ENS) — Some fine acting was witnessed in the presentation of the three act comedy, The Luck of the Irish, at the Town Hall recently by the Dramatic Club of the Sacred Heart Church, it being the 12th annual production by this group. A full share of applause was accorded little Rose Ann Meehan seven year old debutante who sustained her role as Barbara Harrington with ease and charm To her father, William Meehan, was assigned the difficult role of Henri, fictionary French count implicated with Mademoiselle (Mrs. H. Brady) in the plot of the play. These two seasoned local artists carried their parts well. James Black and Mrs. P. Brawley as Jacob and Ellen Augenblick furnished good comedy as in previous productions. The heavier roles of the play, finely impersonated in each case were that of Constance Harrington, Vera O'Neill; Van Tassel MacMurrough, Donald Shannon Jr; Dermot O'Toole, Arnold M. Jones; and Nora Mullen, Cecile Black Completing the cast was John Freeman introduced in the third act as Dennis Harrington, father of Constance and Barbara.

Specialties consisted of a Rose Dream a musical extravaganza—featuring Cecil, Audrey and Jackie Black, Margaret Hughes, Patricia Clairmont, Vera O'Neill and Rose Ann Meehan picturesquely attired and blending well in vocal choruses with Mrs. H. Brady assisting as solo vocalist.

Between the second and third acts "Rendez-Vous" was colorfully portrayed by Peter Nicholson and Audrey Black a number marked with living statuary and a dance.

Between the two scenes of the second act Audrey Black delighted the audience with an Irish jig. The play reflected much credit on Mrs. James Black, the directress who also was the accompanist.

The play was repeated on Friday evening, the attendance being good on both accasions.

Jailed For Photographs

MONTREAL, March 20 (CP)— For the first time in Montreal criminal court records, a man was ordered jailed Saturday for selling obscene photographs. Court record show that past convictions have brought fines. A man identified as Lewis Miller, restaurant operator pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to two days in jail and also fined $25 and costs.

Heads Quebec CCF

MONTREAL, March 20—(CP)— Francois LaRoche, Montreal business man, has been elected provincial leader of the CCF in Quebec, it was announced Saturday. Mr. LaRoche succeeds Guy M. Desaulnier, Montreal lawyer, who resigned because of "pressure of personal business."

Tossed Overboard

HALIFAX, March 20—(CP)— Seven members of a Sable Island lifeboat crew were tossed overboard but made shore safely Saturday as they rowed an injured woman to the RCMP cutter Irvine, standing by for a mercy dash to hospital. The woman, Mrs. Joyce Gleason, wife of meteorologist J. J. Gleason, suffered a broken ankle.

Diana Lynn Thinks Stars Should Get Out of Kitchen

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD, March 20 (AP) —Hollywood, says Diana Lynn, should "get out of the kitchen."

"Magazines and newspapers," she added in an expansive and expounding mood, "are filled with pictures of supposedly glamorous stars whipping up a cheese souffle, or posing at the fireplace while munching an apple.

"I don't think the public cares about the domestic life of the stars. People expect actresses to be alluring, exciting. They want their stars to dress luxuriously and to do fascinating things at interesting places."

Diana's view might—just possibly—be influenced by the fact that she isn't domestic herself She doesn't cook. She has a housekeeper.

Be Like Queen

"I found out the public expects a movie actress to be poised, mannerly, and dressed like a queen I try to live up to expectations.

"People really do regard stars as being a little bit apart from others."

Diana has been in pictures nearly 10 years. She's now working in "My Friend Irma Goes West." She's 23 and she says she's going to start lying about her age soon.

She started in pictures at 13 "My parents were somewhat apprehensive," she related, "because they'd heard stories about young girls being chased around the desks in producers' offices. Well, nothing like that happened to me."

British Potteries Recruit Italian Workers

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England — (CP)— Italian pottery decorators are to be brought into North Staffordshire potteries to help increase production for dollar-earning exports.

A delegation of pottery executives went to Italy to interview prospective Italian recruits for British potteries where a shortage of hand decorators is restricting production. It is planned to bring to Britain 20 male decorators from potteries in Florence and 30 women from those in the Milan area.

The Italians will receive British trade union rates of pay and will be required to join the Pottery Worker's Society. The recruitment plan is sponsored by the ministry of labor.

Licence Revoked

TORONTO, March 20—(CP)— The Ontario Liquor Licence Board has cancelled the licence of the Ritz Hotel at Kearns in the Timiskaming district, and has suspended indefinitely the licence of the British American Hotel at Windsor, it was learned Sunday night. The licence of the Ridge public house at Ridgeway, near Niagara Falls, has been reinstated effective March 21.

House Razed 2 Children Die In Blaze

Mother At Store For Few Minutes, Too Late For Rescue

HAWKESBURY, March 21—(CP)—Two children were burned to death today in a $10,000 fire which raced through a one-storey brick duplex in downtown Hawkesbury while their mother was absent for a few minutes.

Dead are Joan, 3, and Raymond, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Glover. Another child, Richard, 5, escaped from the burning building and suffered only minor shock.

The other section of the duplex was ocupied by Mr. and Mrs. Eves Lalonde and their two small children, all of whom escaped unhurt.

Mrs. Glover said she left the house for a few minutes to shop at the corner store. She returned to find the building in flames and firemen and spectators had to forcibly restrain her from rushing into the burning building.

Cause Unknown

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Bodies of the two child victims were recovered by Hawkesbury Police Chief J. Honore Giroux.

Firemen managed to save part of the house occupied by the Lalonde family, but that belonging to the Glovers was destroyed with its furnishings.

The father of the burned children is employed in Montreal.

Hawkesbury is 65 miles east of Ottawa.

THEIR BIRTHDAYS TOTALLED 178 YEARS on St. Patrick's Day. Mrs. Catherine Dingman, age 100, and her son William, 78, have lived together in Warkworth for the past 30 years. Born in Valleyfield, P.Q., Mrs. Dingman has lived in the district for almost a century. She does her own house work, both upstairs and down, reads considerably and is anxious to get out to her garden as soon as the snow leaves. "She still bawls me out, occasionally," said son William.

Father Kidnaps Baby, Nabbed

KITCHENER, March 21 (CP)—A domestic quarrel of long standing came to a climax here Monday night when a Kitchener father ran off with his youngest child, an infant of 13 months, and became embroiled in a fight with a police officer after a six-block race.

The father was charged with being intoxicated.

Police said the child, clad only in its sleeping garments, was taken from the residence of the estranged wife's parents, where they had been residing with her two children.

Constable Bruce Poll proceeded to the family home, which the mother left some days ago, and found the child in the hallway. The father took it into the apartment when he saw the officer.

Constable Poll notified Children's Aid Society officials when they decided to come and get the baby. When Miss Alice Newberry, CAS investigator, arrived on the scene, the father picked up the infant and ran down the street.

Police followed and caught up with him about six blocks away, subduing him after stiff struggle.

3rd Foreigner Vanishes On Polish Airfield

WARSAW, Poland, March 21—(AP). — The British Embassy charged today a British national was arrested at Warsaw airfield six weeks ago and said it has demanded the reason for his detention. It was the third case of a foreigner "disappearing" from the airfield in the last six months.

The Embassy statement said:

"Otto Kar Kornhauser, a British subject, visited this country for private reasons early this year. On Feb. 2, he went to Warsaw airport to take a plane to Prague to continue by British European airways to London, having previously telegraphed friends in England to expect his arrival on that date. He did not arrive and his friends became anxious about him."

The Embassy said the British ambassador has demanded the reason for Kornhauser's arrest and has asked that the British consul be permitted to visit him.

Abbott Brings Budget Down On March 28

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott will bring down his 1950-51 budget at 8 p.m. EST Tuesday, March 28, but few observers expect it to compare with the tax-slashing pre-election budget of 1949-50. Mr. Abbott told the Commons on Monday that barring developments which he does not anticipate, he will seek unanimous consent of the House so that he may start reading his Budget speech after dinner adjournment. Ordinarily the first hour on Tuesdays is devoted to study of private bills.

As is customary, the minister has dropped no hints of what the budget will contain. However, the feeling in political circles is to the effect that any tax relief is likely to be slight.

Accelerated expenditures have been catching up to revenues which have been declining largely as a result of the $375,000,000 cut in taxes provided in the last budget.

That budget, which covered the year ending March 31, first was introduced in the Commons on March 22, 1949. It was not ratified before the general federal election on June 27 and had to be reintroduced Oct. 20 at a fall session of parliament.

Spry and Hale Mrs. Dingman Enters Her Second Century

Looking through a batch of 80 birthday cards and letters is a formidable task for a lady of 100, Mrs. Catherine Dingman, Warkworth, discovered on Friday, when she celebrated her 100th birthday. Greetings came from as far as Belgium, where one of her nieces has been living since the first world war.

But Mrs. Dingman is still as spry as many people 20 years younger, and trips lightly across the room whenever visitors arrive at the house, to show the big box of cards.

Laugh and keep young must be Mrs. Dingman's motto. Her sense of humor has everyone on the alert and her resounding laugh is highly infectious.

Deafness is the only real drawback of her great age, but Mrs. Dingman almost turns this to advantage. Many are the humorous situations which arise because of her failing hearing and she is sufficiently alert never to let an instance pass without enjoying the joke.

Born In Quebec

Although she has lived in Ontario more than 90 years, Mrs. Dingman is very proud of her French-Canadian descent. She was born in Eastern Quebec shortly before her parents moved to Norham. "I wasn't born in this country; I was born in Que-

Deny Cripps Plans To Quit

LONDON, March 21 (Reuters)—Government sources today issued a flat denial to persistent overseas speculation that Sir Stafford Cripps is resigning as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"Sir Stafford is not resigning, and is busy on his budget," these sources said.

Parliamentary quarters are afraid that the April budget—for which a presentation date has not yet been fixed—will prove to be a fresh austerity blizzard by Sir Stafford.

The impression is gained from all Whitehall quarters that the government has no intention of courting popularity by a window-dressing budget in case the slim-majority administration is forced into an early election.

This will dismay numbers of party supporters who were hopeful that the budget might make considerable concessions to widespread demand for lower living costs.

It will deepen the government's dilemma of trying to hold the support of the 8,000,000-strong trades union movement to its wage stabilization policy — at present resisted by large sections of the TUC.

Spring Bathes Prairies But Residents Suspicious

WINNIPEG, March 21—(CP)—The calendar slapped King Winter in the face today and cold-and-snow-weary western Canada breathed a cautious sigh of relief.

Today, the first day of Spring, found frequent omens of winter's passing popping up throughout the west. But the parka-clad westerner, with dismal memories of record below-zero temperatures and unparalleled mountains of snow, treated the tidings gingerly.

Citizens dodged mud-splashes, exchanged their beavers for fedoras, and began looking for conclusive signs.

Winnipeggers noted: A horned lark on a golf-course fairway still dotted with snow; a young lady with a huge armful of pussy willows; a black crow checking for a summer home.

Above Normal

Everywhere temperatures were a bit above normal.

In Alberta, the second thaw of the season bathed the province in above-40 sunshine. Medicine Hat in the south and Whitecourt in the north recorded identical 45s. At Snag, Y.T., the outpost with all the sub-zero records, it was 40.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba temperatures were near the 40-mark too. Spring thaws were general and the prediction was for 35 degrees today.

However, the western citizen has been too often fooled by Spring's smile to expect too much. He'll take her business card, enjoy her while she's here, but express no surprise if she has to rush off just when things are getting interesting.

May Be Forced Offer Quads For Adoption

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 21 (CP)—Happily unaware of the financial facts of life, the Hargreaves girl quadruplets continued to thrive today.

The five-months-old babies—Jennifer Ann, Joyce Barbara, Joyce Carol and Joan Dianne — continues their normal way as healthy, happy and heck-raising babies while their father worriedly said he might have to consider offering them for adoption.

At first, C. E. (Ossie) Hargreaves said there was no question of offering the babies for adoption. But Monday night he declared "the situation is becoming critical and we may have to consider the possibility of offering the four girls for adoption."

Efforts on behalf of the family have fallen short of requirements since the quads, first in the Sault were born Oct. 13, he said. "I have been informed by the Sault Ste. Marie quadruplet fund committee that there is only $5,000 allotted to the building of a home for the babies," he added. "I don't feel that I can go out and make a start on a home with that kind of money."

But the house-building fund was the least of his worries. "It's right now that I'm worried about" he said.

The committee had suggested that he could do without a housekeeper, who is a practical nurse, and that if things got too bad he could mortgage his present home. He said both these suggestions were impracticable.

Espanola Ruling To Be Made Void

TORONTO, March 21 (CP).—Premier Frost said a Bill will be introduced in the Legislature today which, in effect, would void the injunction which threatens to close the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company mill at Espanola, 30 miles west of Sudbury.

The injunction, obtained by a group of residents on the Spanish River against pollution of the river by waste disposal from the KVP plant, is effective April 4. Company officials contend they have taken every possible step to eliminate pollution and say that if the injunction is put into force the mill will be forced to close.

An eight-man deputation from the town of Espanola visited Queen's Park on Monday to seek assurance from the government that action would be taken to keep the plant in operation. It is the leading industry in the town and a majority of workers in Espanola are employed at the plant.

Red Union Orders Strike Against Italy

ROME, March 21—(Reuters)—Italy's giant Communist - led general labor confederation today called a country-wide general strike to protest against new government police measures.

The confederation's executive instructed its secretary to decide on the date and duration of the strike.

The confederation — which claims 5,200,000 members—met today following the announcement of new measures by Interior Minister Mario Soelba during the weekend.

The "free" (non-Communist) general labor confederation, affiliated with the Christian Democrat Government, has declared that its 1,000,000 members will not support the Communist-led confederation "subversion."

Ralph Kilbon On Trial For Murder

Retired Engineer Held For Killing Mentally Ill Wife

COBOURG, March 21—(CP and Special to The Examiner)—Ralph Kilbon, on trial for the murder of his wife, was quoted as saying she tried to commit suicide and was "in such great agony that I finished her."

The testimony came from Charles Barnard, a neighbor, who said he was summoned by Kilbon shortly after Mrs. Irene Kilbon, 54, died of rifle wounds last Nov. 1.

Barnard related to Mr. Justice Dalton Wells and a Supreme Court jury that Kilbon, 56-year-old retired engineer, was "calm" as he told of his wife's death.

The trial started today after a 13-man Grand Jury returned a true bill of murder. Testimony was similar to that heard at a preliminary hearing. Doctors said Mrs. Kilbon suffered from an incurable disease, Huntingdon's chorea, which affected her mentally and sometimes gives rise to suicidal tendencies.

Barnard said he went to the Kilbons' 18-room house near Bailieboro, 15 miles north-west of this Lake Ontario town, in response to a telephone call his wife had received from Kilbon.

Admits Shooting

"He was standing by the outside steps when I arrived," said Barnard. "He said to me, 'Irene shot herself while I was out for a pail of water and when I came in she was in such great agony that I finished her.'

"He then asked me to call (a doctor and the police). Mr. Kilbon was very calm. I left immediately to telephone for the doctor and the police. A neighbor, Fred Perrin, and myself later went back to keep Mr. Kilbon company. Mr. Kilbon sat in the car with us for about half an hour.

"Dr. Russell came in and Mr. Kilbon accompanied him into the house. While we were in the car, he repeated that while he was out for water, Irene had put

Dutch Family Left Homeless In Fire

BELLEVILLE, March 21. — A Dutch farm family with six children were homeless Monday as fire of undetermined origin swept through their home six miles west of Stirling in the first concession of Rawdon Township Sunday. The farmhouse was owned by Oscar Merrick and was tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. A. Visser and their six children.

Most of the household contents were saved from the fire, while a woodhouse parted from the main building by a firewall was also saved. The fire is believed to have started in shavings used to insulate the house.

Mrs. Visser noticed smoke curling through the ceiling shortly after 9 o'clock while her husband was at the barn. She raced upstairs and brought down four of the children, including her infant child to safety. The older children made their own way from the burning building.

Gets Firsthand News

HARRISBURG, Pa., Mar. 21—(AP)—Reporter George Fox called his newspaper, The Harrisburg Patriot, last night and informed the city desk: "I have a holdup story."

"Is that so?" commented the rewrite man. "Who was the victim?"

"Me," said Fox.

Then Fox told how two men held him at gunpoint and forced him to hand over $40.

Federation Raps Homesteading In Crown Woods

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters today told the Ontario legislature fish and game committee that "homesteading" of Crown woodlands should not be permitted until complete examination has shown the soil is suitable for successful farming.

The federation's brief was submitted today to the first meeting of the current session by president H. V. Sutton.

The Lands and Forest Department should have authority to regulate fishing and hunting from cruisers and houseboats licensed by federal authorities, the brief said.

Full warden protection should be provided against poaching, especially of moose, in provincial wildlife sanctuaries. Every licence should be provided with a digest of game laws and fish regulations.

Stricter Penalties

Bearing of firearms while intoxicated should be subject to the same penalties as drunk driving. Salaries of wardens should be at least equal those of the Ontario provincia police.

The Burwash industrial prison farm "is either a reserve, held by and for all the people of Ontario, or it is not a reserve," the brief said.

The federation said partridge hunters recently arrested in the prison area "would not have been guilty had they been friends of, and had permission from" the superintendent.

The federation expressed itself as "extremely dissatisfied" with the stand of the government on river pollution. It called for appointment of a Royal Commission on pollution.

No game fish should be allowed to be exported from Ontario except mounted specimens.

George Bishop, president of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association, presented a brief asking that sufficient game wardens be posted at border crossing points to assure all licences of non-residents are checked.

Squatting In Peterborough

William Dennison (CCF, Toronto St. David) said there was extensive "squatting" on Crown lands "even in the minister's constituency (Peterborough)."

A brief, presented by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association and the resort-owners' section of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, asked there be no change in the opening of the pickerel season, May 15. They also protested the $1 increase in cost of non-resident anglers' fees.

Dr. Harkness, of the Lands and Forest Department, said the licence has been changed to include a booklet giving fishing regulations. He said increased costs of publishing the licence and increased value to tourists warranted the increased price.

Spring Fever Bug Bites Underworld In Toronto

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—Toronto's underworld got spring fever Monday night.

Spring didn't officially arrive until 11:26 p.m., but the police blotter showed four armed holdups, a robbery and a purse snatching by then. There were no arrests.

Three of the holdups netted a total of $1,975 and a fourth bandit got nothing but a shaking-up. A 12-year-old messenger boy, Douglas Campbell, was robbed of $20 by two knife-wielding hooldums and Helen Tusley was robbed of $31 by a purse snatcher.

Two gunmen escaped with $1,850 from the Motor Vehicles branch of the Ontario Department of Highways in York township shortly after a police guard left.

Another gunman escaped with $50 from a butcher store. Paul Michalczak, 58, said he was all set to throw a meat cleaver at the thug but a customer was in the way.

The third gunman calmly walked in a midtown drug store and ordered Laurie Coo to hand over $75. He fled in an automobile.

An unshaven thug didn't get a thing from A. L. Bartlett, owner of a shoe store. Bartlett said the intruder tried to steal a pair of shoes and then produced a gun when he tried to take them away from him. The gunman escaped on a street car after he grappled with Bartlett.

7 Provinces Appeal Rail Boosts

Fight Both Awards On 5-Point Basis, No Hearing Date Set

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP)—Seven Provincial governments today appealed to the Cabinet against the last two freight-rate increases granted the railways, which boosted authorized rates 16 per cent above the levels of last September.

At the same time, they called on the Cabinet to stay the application of the last increase, which is due to go into effect Thursday. Awarded March 1, it amounts to 7.4 per cent on existing rates.

The other increase which the provinces are appealing was awarded as an "interim" measure by the Board of Transport Commissioners last Sept. 20, following an application of the railways in 1948 for a 20-per-cent hoist. On March 1, the Board gave the railways an additional eight-per-cent of the original 20, which works out to 7.4 on existing rates.

The seven provinces—all except Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland — appealed against both the awards on a five-point basis, invoking the powers of the governor-in-council (cabinet) to change or rescind any orders of the Transport Board.

The action came while the railways themselves were engaged in having it boost the March 1 award to the full total of 20 per cent which they asked originally in 1948. That would involve an additional increase of 3.4 per cent over the hoisted rates scheduled to go into effect Thursday.

No date has been set for the hearing on the railway appeal by the Board of Transport commissioners.

Nor was there any indication of how fast the cabinet would move. But, judging from its pace in the last rate appeal of 1948, there appeared little chance that it would step in before the railway actually put their increased rates into effect Thursday.

Change Code On Burglary

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — Burglary will be just plain burglary, 24 hours a day, under amendments to the Criminal Code now before the Senate.

This is one of the more important provisions of a government bill given first reading in the upper chamber last week and scheduled for second reading soon. The bill is designed to "tidy up" various sections of the code and eliminate "dead wood" from the statutes.

Under the present code, burglary by day is distinguished from burglary by night to such an extent that the former offence qualifies for a maximum penalty of 14 years while the latter is punishable with a life sentence.

The new amendment will leave no such distinction. There will be just one offence—burglary—and it will be punishable with a maximum sentence of life imprisonment and the lash.

Use Sleigh And Plane Move Injured Worker

NORTH BAY, March 21—(CP)—A sleigh, a plane and a car were used today to bring an injured lumber worker 37 miles to a North Bay hospital. He has three badly-mangled fingers, two of them being half off.

The married man, Mac Marshall, 50, was starting up a motor in the veneer plant of Staniforth Lumber Company, at Kiosk, 37 miles east of here, this morning. His right hand was drawn into a pulley, the belt tearing off part of two fingers and mangling a third.

Lakeland Skyways at Trout Mills was notified through the lands department and a plane, piloted by Bob Callender, was dispatched at 9:15 a.m. to Kiosk.

Marshall was taken by sleigh from the lumber company's office to the plane. The plane landed back at Trout Mills at 10:30 a.m. and the injured man was then rushed by car to hospital.

Legislature Amending Municipal Act

Permit 14 Extra Days In Filing Annexation Objection

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—School teachers, at present barred from membership on municipal councils, will be allowed to stand for election through an amendment to the Municipal Act introduced Monday in the Ontario Legislature.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar introduced the bill amending the Act and then piloted through second reading another bill to provide for appointment of two vice-chairmen of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The Legislature today begins the budget debate with the address of C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe. The House will hold its first night sitting of the current session tonight and Premier Frost has promised another night sitting Thursday to discuss the report of the Legislature's conservation committee, tabled Monday.

Another amendment to the Municipal Act extends from 14 to 28 days the time permitted for filing objections to any annexation or amalgamation order issued by the board. If sufficient objection is filed with the board during this period a private bill in the legislature is required to enforce the board's order.

J. B. Salsburg (Lab.-Prog., Toronto St. Andrews) said the bill to appoint a second vice-chairman of the board was "deliberate preparation for the shot-gun marriage of Toronto with its suburbs."

Amalgamation Not Point

Premier Frost said the bill had no connection with proposals to amalgamate Toronto district municipalities. No legislation to compel annexation was contemplated by the government, he said.

Mr. Salsberg said the Municipal Board was "a dictatorship foisted above democratically - elected municipal governments."

F. O. Robinson (CCF, Port Arthur) and William Houck (L, Niagara Falls), both mayors of their communities, defended the board as being "efficient" and "useful."

C. C. Calder (L, London) said the board was "a small, curious municipal" bench with quasi-judicial functions. It should behave like a court by handing down written judgments, observing rules of evidence and providing for an appeal from its decisions.

Mr. Calder said the board recently had made decisions which for the first time affected bus franchises. This might be considered a legal precedent but the board had not given the reason for its judgment. There was no right of appeal.

Would Lighten Load

Mr. Dunbar said the only increase in the board's powers since 1932 was in 1946 when councils were refused permission to undertake work which would extend over more than one year and was not provided for in the estimates without permission of the board.

Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver said the work of the board should be lightened by relieving it of some of its less important duties, such as hearing applications for public vehicle licences. These could best be dealt with through the Highways Department.

Second reading was also given a bill providing for the registration and supervision of prepaid, non-profit medical service plans. Profit-making organizations are under the jurisdiction of insurance legislation.

On this first morning of spring, temperatures have moderated to more seasonable levels over most of Canada. Below zero readings are to be found only in the Northwest Territories, while in Ontario early morning temperatures range from around 15 to 20 degrees in the mining towns of the north to near 30 degrees in southern counties.

A weakening eastward-moving storm over Ohio caused an area of rain to skirt the north shore of Lake Erie into the Niagara Peninsula and along the south shore of Lake Ontario. This belt of rain will miss the province on its eastward course, and cloudy skies with occasional sunshine breaking through is forecast for most of Ontario today and Wednesday.

Forecasts:

Eastern Lake Ontario, Haliburton, Eastern Kirkland Lake regions. Cloudy today. Cloudy with a few sunny intervals Wednesday. Not much change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Wednesday at Trenton 20, 35; Killaloe 25, 35.

Summary for Wednesday — Mostly cloudy.

Butter, Milk Prices To Drop

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Mar. 21—(CP)—Lower prices within the next few months for Canadian butter, milk and cheese were forecast Monday by a National Dairy Council economist.

Blake A. Campbell of Ottawa told the council's annual meeting that the price drops will mean less money for Canadian farmers, cutting deep into their power to purchase goods produced by other industries.

Surveying the foreign front, George Patterson said that with the exception of cheese, there is little hope of selling other dairy products to the United Kingdom this year.

Other Commonwealth countries, too, were closing down on their dairy buying in Canada. Israel, however, had purchased some skim-milk powder and hopes to buy some cheese. The outlook in Latin America was fairly steady.

J. P. Coyle of Toronto reviewed his recent trip to Australia and other South Pacific points, and noted lightly that Mr. Patterson had left the council with the feeling that there was nothing but a pious hope for Canada in foreign markets.

Commandos Hold Sungmen Yet

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 21—(AP)—The Nationalist commando capture of Sungmen, 200 miles south of Shanghai, spurred talk today of bigger strikes to come.

Chinese authorities hinted their landing force still holds the tiny coastal town, seized last Wednesday in a daring raid.

No one hints how soon the next blow may fall, but preparations are evident.

General Chou Chi-jou, who heads the reborn joint chiefs of staff, is working to weld unity among naval, army and air forces. This has been notably lacking in the past.

Nationalist airmen Saturday spotted three mysterious planes which may be the forerunners of a Red air force.

Industrials Lead Slide On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 21 (CP)—Prices slid downwards under pressure of steady selling as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Industrials led the downtrend. Volume for the first three hours was 780,000 shares.

In industrials, steels brightened slightly with Hamilton Bridge featuring on an advance of ¾ at 13⅞.

Base metals slumped with Consolidated Smelters dipping 1⅝ at 93⅛. East Sullivan, feature of Monday's market, dipped 10 cents at $5.60 under pressure of profit-taking. A few senior golds slipped fractions and juniors were mixed.

Royalite Oil gained 10 cents at $10 in a mixed western oil list.

Northern Ontario Would Aid Farmers

TIMMINS, March 21 (CP) — A resolution urging the provincial and federal governments to institute a program of assisting persons in Ontario with farming experience to settle on farmland in the north was passed Monday by the Northern Ontario committee on migration.

The committee, sponsored by various localities to attract settlers to Northern Ontario's clay belt, will forward the resolution to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Premier Frost of Ontario and Ontario government departments. The plan is designed to ease the unemployment situation and to open up agricultural, timber and mining areas in the north.

MP Filibuster On Pipe-Line Still Continues

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP)—The pipe-line filibuster rolled on unabated in the Commons Monday.

A day-long debate swirled about the question of whether a charter should be granted to the Alberta Natural Gas Company, which proposes to build a line to transport natural gas from the Alberta oil fields to potential consumers in British Columbia.

An increasing stream of C.C.F. and Progressive Conservative speakers joined the ranks of those urging that the company first undertake to build an all Canadian pipe line—rather than one running through United States territory—before receiving incorporation.

The debate, on a private bill introduced by Ralph Maybank (L—Winnipeg South Centre), occupied the first day of this session devoted solely to study of private members' legislation.

Two party leaders stepped into the debate to repeat the fear of their followers that the company will run its line to the Pacific coast through American territory and that American consumers will have first call on this Canadian resource.

The leaders were George Drew, Progressive Conservative chieftain, and M. J. Coldwell, of the C.C.F.

Refuse To Ask Flogging Back

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—The government today refused flatly to demand for the return of flogging as punishment in crimes of violence.

Lord Jowitt, the Lord Chancellor, told the House of Lords:

"We have no intention of reintroducing it—none whatever."

Use of the cat o' nine tails on criminals was abolished in a revised criminal justice act passed by parliament in 1948.

Recently an outbreak of slugging and robbery, mainly by teen-aged boys who chose defenceless women as their victims, has led to a rising chorus of calls for its return by wide sections of the press and judiciary.

Getting Incensed

Britons of all classes are getting more and more incensed at the sickening violence of Britain's post-war "kid-gangs."

Worse still, to the average Briton, is the fact that more and more criminals are carrying guns—and this is a land where ordinary policemen traditionally are not armed.

The Lords will take up the growing use by jittery youngsters of the gun, the broken bottle, the lead pipe and the straight razor.

Heading the list of suggested measures for curbing this is the possibility of making legal once again the use of the dread "cat o' nine tails"—mere mention of which makes the most hardened British criminal wince. The House of Commons is scheduled to discuss it later on.

Britain abolished the use of the "cat" in prisons two years ago. But so vicious have become some of the dark-street muggings and robberies in recent times that tough old magistrates are demanding the right to impose flogging as well as jail terms.

Abbott Brings

Personal income tax changes highlighted the 1949-50 budget, accounting for $270,000,000 of the reductions announced by Mr. Abbott.

Mr. Abbott warned at the time, however, that there were large bills for which the government could make no provision until the end of the year. These would include amounts to cover such things as the deficits of Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Airlines.

Some observers feel that a surplus of $90,000,000 would give Mr. Abbott only limited room in which to make tax reductions unless he planned to revive deficit financing. His theory in the last few years has been that the government should budget for a surplus in years of prosperity and for a deficit in years when government activity is needed to stimulate the economy of the country and provide employment.

His 1948-49 surplus, the third in a row, amounted to $595,000,000.

bec," she insists with loud guffaws.

Timothy Giroux, her father, was a shoemaker, and moved westward from Quebec shortly after his first child was born. At the age of 20 Catherine married Wallace Dingman, and they had a small farm on Oak Heights.

Her husband was an Irishman and today the trace of Irish is more pronounced in Mrs. Dingman's speech than the French-Canadian accent.

During the past three years Mrs. Dingman has been entirely free from illness. Three years ago she had influenza. She has a pair of glasses, but rarely wears them.

Up At Five

Probably one of the earliest birds in the morning, she never sleeps after five o'clock. Her bedroom is upstairs and she goes to it between eight and ten o'clock in the evening and is ready to start the day at five. As soon as the winter has passed she will be able to do some work in the garden again.

She was always a great hand for flowers and is yet, says her bachelor son, Will, whose 78th birthday was the same day as her hundredth. They live together in the house which has been their home since Mr. Dingman died 30 years ago.

They both keep house together and Mrs. Dingman does a good deal of the cooking. She does not do as much baking now as in days gone by, but as she says, she does not need to. She can buy bread now and many other things which long ago she had to bake.

When the Giroux family moved to Ontario from Quebec, Timothy, Mrs. Dingman's father, ran the Windsor Hotel for a time. He also kept a hotel in Norham, and at one time had a grocery store on Charlotte Street in Peterborough.

"I have more grandchildren than I can count," says Mrs. Dingman. One of her granddaughters has a family of 13.

Mrs. Dingman and her son have never had a radio. They read a newspaper to keep in touch with world events.

Unemployment Lower Report Shows

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — A steady stream of workers returning to work in British Columbia's big lumbering industry sparked further improvement in the employment situation in Canada during February.

The number of persons seeking work through National Employment Service offices declined by 5,000 in the three-week period from Feb. 9 to March 2, the Labor Department said Monday.

For the month of February the unemployment insurance bill totalled $13,600,000.

In a periodic summary of working conditions in the country the department placed the number of Canadians seeking work at 375,900 at March 2, compared with the peak unemployment total at Feb. 9 of 380,900 and 375,500 at Feb. 2.

The March 2 total includes 3,000 new registrants provided through extension by Parliament of unemployment insurance benefits. The department said local employment offices across the country had received about 12,000 applications for supplementary benefits, with about 9,000 from persons already registered.

Mills Reopened

"In British Columbia workers are returning to their jobs in large numbers as logging camps and sawmills are reopened and as construction projects are resumed," the report said.

"Job openings are increasing in many manufacturing industries as leather, clothing and some rubber factories, agricultural implement plants and shipyards begin to step up production in anticipation of spring demand.

"Heavy snowfalls in eastern Canada have provided more employment in the logging industry. In some sections of the country, local employment offices reported more orders from farmers as they prepare for spring operations.

"At the present time, an estimated 82 per cent of all job seekers registered at National Employment Service offices are receiving or claiming normal unemployment insurance benefits."

the gun on the table and shot herself.

"He said again that he could not stand to see her in such pain and 'finished her.' Mr. Kilbon retained his calm composure throughout."

The jury was told that Kilbon was highly respected in the South Monaghan community.

Pictures Taken

Kilbon smiled at photographers whom he met during his walk from the county jail to the courthouse today and wished them "good morning."

Chosen for the all-male Petit Jury were eight farmers, a blacksmith, a foreman, and two laborers.

Defence counsel made the bulk of the challenges having ten challenges to one challenge and a stand aside by the Crown. Members of the petit jury are Gillard Darling, Port Hope; Norman Edgerton, Cartwright township; William Fordes, Cartwright; Walker Henderson, Bowmanville; Ernest Irwin, Seymour township; Stanley Little, Hamilton township; William Marsh, Darlington township; Howard Millson, Darlington; Clifford Minifie, Hamilton township; Harry Orr, Murray township; S. J. R. Powell, Clarke township and Charles Ross, Brighton.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman reviewing the case, before the jury at the opening recalled that at the preliminary hearing the accused was quoted as having said that on the morning of November 1 he returned to his home after getting a pail of water to find that his wife had shot herself and that he could not stand to see her suffer and shot her. Two wounds were in her body, one in the temple and the other in the abdomen.

Identified Plan

Jack Jordan, engineer, identified a plan of the Kilbon premises, and Provincial Constable James Driscoll, of eBlleville, produced photos he had taken at the Kilbon home.

Interest that the so-called "mercy killing" aroused over a wide area is evident from the press representation at the trial. Several of the important Ontario dailies and wire services were represented as well as New York and Chicago press representatives.

Mrs. Viola Barnard, whose husband's farm is near the Kilbon place, told the court that Kilbon was very devoted to his wife who was ill. From July 1949, Mrs. Kilbon's condition had become worse.

"She cried a great deal and became despondent. She had an involuntary trembling of her arms. In a visit with her before she died she was at our home and she appeared reconciled to entering the hospital," testified Mrs. Barnard.

"On the morning of November 1, Mr. Kilbon phoned and asked if Charlie (her husband) would hurry over. His voice was much the same as it always was. I went to the barn and gave my husband the message," she added.

To defence counsel, Mrs. Barnard said that Kilbon's reputation in the community "was of the highest," he got the meals and was very attentive and kindly to his wife. He had purchased his home in order that it would be of benefit to his wife. She realized that her condition was such that she should go to a mental hospital. There was a constant uncontrollable trembling in one of her arms, Mrs. Barnard said.

Charles Barnard testified that he was well acquainted at the Kilbon home.

"Mrs. Kilbon had difficulty controlling both her arms. It was like St. Vitus dance. It seemed to affect the whole body at times and became considerably worse in the last two months. At times she would be quite clear and other times all nerved up and would cry for no apparent reason."

"On the morning of the phone call I went to Mr. Kilbon's home He was standing by the outside steps when I arrived. He said to me Irene shot herself while I was out for a pail of water and when I came in she was in such great agony that I finished her. He then asked me to call Dr. Russell and the provincial police at Peterborough. Mr. Kilbon was very calm

" I left immediately to phone for the doctor and the police. A neighbour, Fred Perrin, and myself later went back to keep Mr. Kilbon company. Mr. Kilbon sat in the car with us for about half an hour. Dr. Russell came and Mr Kilbon accompanied him into the house. While we were in the car he repeated that while he was out for water, Irene had put the gun on the table and shot herself. He said again that he couldn't stand to see her in such pain and 'finished her.' Mr. Kilbon retained his calm composure throughout" Mr. Barnard testified.

To defence counsel, witness said that Kilbon had an excellent reputation. In his business dealings with Kilbon, the latter was honest—"you never needed anything down in writing when dealing with him."

Corroboration of Mr. Barnard's evidence to Kilbon's statements after the shooting was made by Fred Perrin, neighbor of Kilbon and Barnard.

Medical Evidence

Dr. A. L. Russell, attending physician to Mrs. Kilbon said that she suffered from Huntington's Corea, an incurable disease. In September of last year he gave her a nervous sedative prescription. Symptoms were muscular spasms in all areas of the body There was depression and in the progress of the disease a gradual mental deterioration.

"I received a phone call shortly after nine o'clock on the morning of November 1 and went to the Kilbon home. Mr. Kilbon said to me 'There is a mess inside.' He said that she had shot herself and he had finished her because he couldn't stand to see her suffer and had shot her through the left temple. When he entered the house, Mrs. Kilbon was dead, in a kitchen rocking chair. I made a superficial examination. She had been shot just under the left breast and a wound in the left temple," Dr. Russell said.

Jury Decision Now Set Aside

TORONTO, March 21 (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal on Monday set aside an Assize Court jury decision which had exonerated Robert Burns of any blame when the truck he was driving demolished an automobile and injured the driver.

Burns' 18-ton tractor-trailer truck struck Robert J. Wilson's car and threw it into another car Oct. 26, 1948, during a heavy fog on No. 2 Highway near London, Ont.

Burns said at the trial, when Wilson brought damage action against Burns and the truck owners, Terminal Warehouses, Limited, that he didn't touch his brake until he "hit the edge of the fog."

The Appeal Court described his action as "callous" and Mr. Justice W. D. Roach said that in his opinion, "on Burns' own evidence it was impossible for a jury rightly understanding the law and justly performing its duty to entirely exonerate him."

Damages had been assessed at $3,829.50 but Wilson was not entitled to the money since Burns was cleared of any blame."

WHEAT RECORD

The 1949 Ontario wheat crop was estimated at more than $58-000,000, the most valuable crop since records were established in 1882.

Chinese Reds Blocking Evacuation

US Company Cancels Liner's Trip Take Out Foreigners

HONG KONG, March 21 — (AP)—The American President Lines today cancelled the liner Gen. W. H. Gordon's trip to evacuate foreign Nationals from Red-held Shanghai.

Chinese Communist officials earlier refused entry into Shanghai harbor of two shallow draft vessels needed to carry evacuees through waters which may be mined.

J. J. Berryman, Hong Kong manager of A.P.L., said the door was left open for a last-minute agreement but he had little hopes.

The Communists' refusal to let two civilian-manned tank landing ships enter Shanghai harbor stymied plans to evacuate more than 400 Americans and 1,200 Nationals of other countries.

The Reds' decision was made known only after the LST's had cleared Nagasaki, Japan, Monday for Shanghai.

Nationalists say they have mined the waters of the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers leading into Shanghai harbor. The shallow draft LST's are needed to lessen the danger of accident. They were scheduled to reach Shanghai tomorrow.

Call Protest Meeting

Fifteen foreign consulates in Shanghai scheduled a general protest meeting today. There was no word whether they were able to present their arguments to Chinese communist officials.

Persons familiar with Chinese communist tactics predicted the Reds might eventually back down. But such action, they conceded, likely would come — if at all — only after interminable delay.

The desire of large numbers of foreigners, including business men and diplomatic personnel, to leave Red China constitutes "loss of face" to the communists.

They are also a valuable source of foreign exchange. And the Reds, who boast proudly and loudly of the fine new country they are building, obviously resent the fact that anyone wants to get out.

Drop 2 Long Shots From Grand National

LONDON, March 21 —(AP)—Two long shots, Lucky Purchase and Foxley II, today were withdrawn from the Grand National Steeplechase field.

Fifty-one horses still are entered in the 4½-mile jump classic at Aintree Saturday.

Freebooter remained the 7-to-1 favorite.

The withdrawal of Finnure, which had received heavy betting support last week as a 25-to-1 shot, was announced Monday night.

Murder—Suicide

CALGARY, March 21 (CP) — Emil Wenzel, 55, and his wife — parents of 12 children—are dead today following what police describe as a murder and suicide on their isolated farm 16 miles northwest of Sibbald, Alta., near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border. Wenzel, a former inmate of the mental hospital at Ponoka, Alta., was reported to have shot his wife Friday.

If you operate a Tourist Establishment, accommodating the travelling or vacationing public, and if you are not already licenced under the Game and Fisheries Act as an "outfitter", or under the Liquor Licence Act, you must apply before March 31st for a licence under the Tourist Establishments Act.

A Tourist Establishment includes:

An Inn • A Lodge • A Tourist Home renting five or more rooms • A Cabin Establishment of two or more rental units • A Cottage Establishment of two or more rental units • A Trailer or Camping Park •

Licences are issued by municipalities, or, in that part of a territorial district without municipal organization, by the district inspector of the Ontario Provincial Police Force.

The fee on first application is $5.00 and on each annual renewal is $2.50. Fee shall accompany application.

Operation without licence entails a maximum penalty of $100.00 on conviction, as does any violation of the regulations.

Copy of the regulations will be forwarded on request by

Asks Grand Jury To Inspect Jail

COBOURG, March 21 (ENS)—Spring assize sittings of Supreme Court opened Monday before Mr. Justice Wells, who was formally welcomed to Cobourg on behalf of the counties bar association by H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope. His Lordship outlined the functions of a grand jury as being that of ruling on whether there was enough evidence to put a man on his trial.

He said there had been a grand jury inspection as recently as last September of the various institutions and it was as matter for the grand jury of the current sittings of court to decide if they should be inspected again. However the grand jury should in any event inspect the counties jail, he said.

Gets Worst of It

ANNISTON, Ala. March 21 — Police said Monday Valentine Piento, 58 a painter, shot his wife Velma, 40, walking by his side on a downtown street. Then knocked her down with the gun butt. But Mrs. Piento leaped up, snatched the weapon and fired four fatal shots into her husband. Mrs. Piento was wounded in the hand. She told police her husband wanted a divorce and became angry when she suggested he "see a doctor." No charges were placed against her.

Says He'll Steal While Out Of Job

COBOURG, March 21 (ENS)—Robert Dayton, 17-year-old Port Hope youth who was charged in Cobourg police court with theft of a watch from a repair shop in Port Hope, pleaded guilty Monday and was remanded in custody for a week.

Chief Constable C. W. Graham said when he arrested Dayton he recovered the missing watch and the accused told him that as long as he remained out of work he would steal to get money.

"You have been heading for trouble at quite a speed," commented Magistrate R. B. Baxter to Dayton.

"In view of his attitude, I think it is time he went to jail," observed Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

"He certainly has a wrong outlook on life," said the magistrate.

Ionic Chapter Marks 41st Anniversary

CAMPBELLFORD, March 21—(ENS).—Companions of the Ionic Chapter celebrated the 41st anniversary on Friday. Their regular meeting was followed by a banquet.

Rt. Ex. Companion E. C. Wood of Quinte Friendship Chapter, Belleville, spoke about the fate of the Masonic lodges in Germany under the Nazi regime and the difficulties experienced in restoration. Mr. Wood was introduced by Rt. Ex. Comp. Bruce Smith of Belleville.

An honorary life membership was presented to Rt. Ex. Comp Robert Cotton of Peterborough Corinthian Chapter. Rt. Ex. Comp O. C. Watson made the presentation, and said Mr. Cotton had contributed much to capitular Masonry in the district, and had been a regular visitor on March 17 for more than a quarter of a century.

Members of Presqu'ille Chapter Brighton, conferred the second degree on Bro. Lorne Watson, Ex Comp. Robt. Virgin acting as WM.

Ex. Comp. W. A. Kingston presided at the banquet table and proposed the toast to the King and craft. Comp. Sid Hopping sang two Irish songs, and Comp Percy Melville gave an Irish reading. Bro. Fred Palliser entertained with two humorous readings. Ex. Comp. W. H. Brady proposed the toast to the visitors, Ex Comp. Spencer of Brighton and Ex. Comp. Edmunston of Peterborough responding.

Rt. Ex. Comp. O. C. Watson proposed a toast to the Grand Chapter, and Rt. Ex. Comp. Roy Anderson, district superintendent of Prince Edward district, replied.

Rt. Ex. Comp. Cotton proposed the toast to the candidate, to which Br. Lorne Watson made reply.

There were 75 members and visitors present.

Changed Budget Face

In introducing the Ontario Budget last week Premier Frost took the occasion to refer to provincial budgets of fifty years and more ago, when the province's population was half what it is today. The expansion in expenditure is startling. The total ordinary expenditure of Ontario this present fiscal year—estimated at $202,403,800, which does not include provision for sinking funds and maturing railway certificates—was sixty times greater than the average yearly expenditure in Provincial Treasurer Richard Harcourt's time (1891-99). Ontario's expenses this year are four times as big as the total expenditure of the Federal Government for the whole of Canada in the year 1900.

* * *

The change is more than one of size; there is a significant alteration in the directions of the spending. One direction points to the new ways of the twentieth century—millions of dollars for roads, Hydro and the like. The other direction points to a changed sense of social responsibility.

* * *

In 1900 there were fewer than 200 motor cars registered in Ontario. Now there are nearly a million. In 1900 there were no Provincial Highways (the first concrete one was built between Toronto and Hamilton in 1915-17 at a cost of $926,000.) Today Ontario has 73,000 miles of highways, 8,000 of them hard-surfaced. In this last fiscal year the Ontario Government has spent $35,000,000 on capital investment alone for roads, and is setting out on a half-billion dollar, five-year road work plan. Another aspect of present-day Provincial budgets which was not even considered fifty years ago, is Hydro development. Although Ontario Hydro is under the Commission, it is a department of government. The Commission was not established until 1906, and did not begin distributing power until 1909. In 1900 about 50,000 horse-power was developed in Ontario by all operators; by 1949 all utilities in the province were developing nearly three million horse-power, sixty times as much. In the one fiscal year ending this March, the Ontario Commission will have spent 49.7 million dollars in capital construction.

* * *

The other great change presented by Ontario's Budget is the amount of government spending on social, welfare and educational work. These were insignificant items, and few, fifty years ago. The record of the Budget of this March is: grants to hospitals and sanitoria totalling $13,100,000; to schools $37,285,000; to universities $4,342,000; for new homes for the aged (a plan for the coming year) $1,350,000; subsidies to municipalities for roads, police, fire protection, health and welfare, $70,000,000; aid for housing, by underwriting loans, a total of 16.8 million dollars up to the present.

* * *

The Ontario Government is therefore spending more than a hundred million dollars in social, educational and welfare enterprises. Welfare state? The government that is budgeting for such vast sums for this kind of work and increasing the aid next year, is a Conservative government, an opponent of socialism. It is conclusive proof that no government even in this capitalistic, expanding Canada can turn its back on "public welfare." That has become one of its most important jobs. Democratic Government, whether it is recognized or not, is essentially a socialistic affair. It is a people's government, spending the people's money for what is hoped is the welfare of all the people.

Tarzan Of The Apes

Everyone calls me Tarzan,
Tarzan of the Apes.

This was the refrain of a song which we heard Pat Rafferty sing in one of the "Dumbells" shows perhaps twenty years ago. Everybody knew what the song was about, for at that time Tarzan's adventures had been familiar for sixteen years. And as we pick up last Sunday's coloured comic supplement we find Tarzan still on the job, resisting the wicked Chaka, who has just screamed the dread curse of the Dagombas at him. But Tarzan will see no further adventures; his inventor, Edgar Rice Burroughs, is dead.

Burrough's career as a writer was a remarkable one. He felt no urge to write, and for the first years of his adult life he attempted to earn his living in a variety of ways, but chiefly as a salesman. He was not himself a reader. Until he was thirty-eight years old he appeared to be one of life's failures, for he was not a good salesman and did not hold his jobs very long. But it was his habit to pass the time in fantasy—working out long and elaborate daydreams of adventure. It was when life seemed at its lowest ebb for him that he decided to try his hand at authorship, with a story drawn from his daydreams.

He met with success from the first. His stories about Tarzan, the boy brought up by apes, were popular, and in the course of time the movies and the comic strips added to his earnings. When he died on Monday Burroughs was many times a millionaire.

He supplied something which pleased the popular fancy. His stories were full of violent action and they pleased the millions of people who still cling to the Noble Savage theory—the notion that man is at his noblest when uncontaminated by civilization. He was a great entertainer and his public rewarded him royally.

Communism, "Foreign Oils", and Margarine

Mr. J. H. Duplan, the president of the National Dairy Council, is trying to make our flesh creep with his talk of a flood of "foreign oils" which is washing away the dairy industry of Canada. These "foreign oils" are the nutritious oils which are used in the manufacture of margarine, the product which has been selling so well since it was made legal to manufacture and sell it in Canada. Mr. Duplan did not say that these 'foreign oils" are mixed with a good deal of excellent Canadian milk before they become margarine: he prefers to give the impression that margarine is composed entirely of disgusting substances—perhaps the scrapings from the axles of trains.

Indeed, Mr. Duplan's latest speech is a remarkable work of misinterpretation. The margarine manufacturers he calls "profit-making and subversive groups"; aren't the dairymen also profit-makers? He also says that margarine is backed by "that small but extremely vocal section of our population who thrive on destructive agitation of any kind". Obviously Mr. Duplan means the Communists. Can he produce one scrap of evidence that the Communists are interested in margarine in any way? He repeatedly calls margarine "a substitute food." It is nothing of the kind; it is a food in its own right, and it is not inferior, in its nutritive qualities, to butter.

Mr. Duplan and the group which he leads should learn that the people of Canada are not so gullible as to swallow his amateurish propaganda against margarine. All that his highly-coloured speech can do is to increase the widespread feeling that the dairymen are disgruntled monopolists, angry because they are facing competition for the first time.

Mr. Duplan's pity for the farmer is not impressive. Farmers themselves know that the margarine factories give them a new outlet for their dairy produce. When Mr. Duplan says that margarine has reduced the purchasing power of the farmers by $50,000,000 he says more than he can prove. And when he points to the 20,000,000 pound butter surplus in the hands of the Dominion Government he does not say how much of this butter is imported, nor does he say that the Dominion Government is supporting, with the people's money, a butter price which the people refuse to pay.

If no butter were imported into Canada there would very probably be a shortage. Premier Frost, in the recent Budget, points out that although Ontario's 1949 butter production was ten times as great as it was in 1900 it was still too small for our wants; that does not suggest that butter makers cannot find a market for their goods.

The National Dairy Council had better realize that margarine is here to stay, because the people want it. Talk about "foreign oils" and suggestions that margarine is a Communist trouble-maker is just hot air, and everybody knows it. The dairymen had everything their own way for years; competition will not ruin them now, if they sharpen their pencils.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A music publisher says that several song hits have been written in fifteen minutes. But the really durable ones—those which retain their popularity for a full week—sometimes take as much as half an hour.

New Step In German Gov't.

From RICHARD LOWENTHAL
In Bonn

THE appointment of a professional diplomat to succeed General Sir Brian Robertson as British High Commissioner in Germany is regarded here as proof of the British Government's determination to shorten the present period of transition in Western Germany. For the High Commission regime is essentially a state of transition between the former Military Government and the future, envisaged as the ocupation of a free and self-governing country with its own consent. The first British High Commissioner was a former Military Governor; the second may well prove to be the future Ambassador.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT would be a mistake to think that Britain was merely "catching up" with the changes made by the two other Western Powers last year, when Mr. McCloy succeeded General Clay and M. Francois-Poncet replaced General Koenig. In appearance, the present change is of the same kind—a civilian diplomat replacing a general. But in fact there was no need for such a change for the purposes of the present phase: in contrast to Generals Clay and Koenig, Sir Brian Robertson has been working under the control of the Foreign Office from the start.

◇ ◇ ◇

INDEED, he has been a most loyal and effective executant of Foreign Office policy. Early in April, 1948, on the eve of the break-up of the Allied Control Council, he was the first Military Governor to address a German parliament, that of North Rhine Westphalia—in German—and to appeal for voluntary German support of Western policy. After the formation of the West German Federal Government it was Robertson who, acting on Mr. Bevin's instructions, in confidential talks with the Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, negotiated the policy which led to the Petersberg agreement — the most successful step yet taken towards German integration into the Western community. All who know Dr. Adenauer's traditional distrust of British policy will count it as a special merit of the outgoing High Commissioner that he gained the Chancellor's personal confidence and respect as a loyal and reliable partner in negotiations.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE real purpose of the change-over, therefore, is not to catch up with the Americans and the French, but to prepare the next move ahead. For the Occupation Statute, the instrument which at present regulates relations between the Allies and the West German Federal Government, will come up for revision and, if the British Government has its way, the revision will be rather sweeping.

◇ ◇ ◇

BRITAIN has taken the lead in pressing for a termination of a state of war with Germany by any means short of a peace treaty—for example a treaty of occupation. In practice, this might mean nothing less than the end of the Allied High Commission in its present form with its powers of veto over German legislation and its monopoly of German international relations: all that would remain would be the occupation armies themselves, staying largely for the Germans' own protection, such special long-term institutions as the Ruhr Authority and the Allied Security Board, and the Allied Ambassadors, acting sometimes in a body. It is by no means certain that the other Western Powers will be prepared to move as far and as fast; but that is the direction in which British ideas are moving. It seems logical therefore to prepare for the new phase by the appointment of a man who has had no direct part in the former occupation regime.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE idea of further reducing Allied Powers of political intervention in German affairs will be opposed by many on the grounds of the alarming symptoms of nationalist extremism that have come to the surface under the present regime. But it may well be argued that, in part at least, the growth of nationalism is the inevitable consequence of the contradictions by which the present regime is afflicted. If the Germans are, on the one hand, daily invited to join a Western community as equal partners, but find, on the other hand, that important issues like the future of the Saar are decided over their heads as if they were none of their concern; if factory buildings are still blown up in the name of demilitarization five years after the war while allied military leaders at the same time publicly call for German manpower in the defence of the West week after week—then the growth of nationalism and cynicism among young Germans, who feel they are wanted as cannon fodder but not really wanted as free partners, is not unnatural. The results might be better if the West would, for the time being, talk less of remilitarization and do more to give the Germans confidence that they possess liberties and rights which are worth defending.

IT may be assumed that these are some of the considerations which Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick will have to talk over with his American and French colleagues in the months to come. He will be aided in his work by the fact that the High Commission Headquarters on the Petersburg has now become a meeting-point for men who worked before the war at their respective national embassies in Berlin. M. Francois-Poncet was French Ambassador and the United States political adviser, James Riddleberger, worked at the U.S. Embassy when Kirkpatrick was at the British Embassy.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE is one other curious detail about the new High Commission team — Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick is a Roman Catholic, as are Mr. McCloy and M. Francois-Poncet, his American and French colleagues. Adding to them the German Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, it may now be said that Western Germany, despite its slight Protestant majority, will be governed by four Roman Catholics.

ONE THING WE CAN COUNT ON, SOONER OR LATER

Letters To The Editor

IMPRACTICALITY OF PERSONAL SNOW REMOVAL

Sir: I quite agree with Mr. Matchett's letter in the Saturday issue of the Examiner, inasmuch that the clearing of snow from city streets should be completed in time to serve factory workers.

The horse-drawn plough is out-moded for this work but his suggestion that each person clean his own portion of sidewalk would still not serve the factory worker. Most people, if they are walking, leave for the factory at about 6:30 a.m. The man who does not have to be at the office until nine o'clock would certainly not leave his warm bed at six a.m. to shovel his sidewalk before 6:30.

As we have a very large lot, my husband would have to start shovelling at 4:30 in order to have our walks cleared before he went to work. That is, provided he knew it was snowing. Most people do not know, until they awaken, that there has been a snowfall. It would mean every man setting his alarm an hour or so earlier—taking a look at the weather—then either crawling out into the snow, or back for a snooze.

Toronto has the "do it yourself" system and ask anyone what Toronto streets are like for a day or so after a storm. My husband had occasion to tramp around a certain district in Toronto searching for a friend's house one evening recently. The night before there had been a snow storm, and up until the following evening the streets in this particular district were just a cowpath.

The "do it yourself" system may be ideal where there are a number of houses jammed together, close to the sidewalk, on a small street, and there is a healthy man in the house. In many cases it would be quite a hardship. From where I sit I can see three such homes. The house on the large corner lot across the street, where the mother of a family of small children is alone most of the week while the husband travels; the widow across the street and the elderly couple a few doors up. All very large lots which would cost over a dollar to have cleaned and whose occupants could ill afford this addition to the cost of living.

Spring-time slush is inevitable when so much snow has to leave suddenly. It is not a condition peculiar to the last few years, nor to the city of Peterborough. Ploughing slush may even off the walking surface but the water has to run back into the centre of the side-walk again—there is nowhere else for it to go. Slush pushed to the side of the walk frequently freezes, making a barrier that is difficult to get a plough through if a storm should follow.

City engineers could have overcome this condition by building sidewalks a few inches higher, then forbidding citizens from grading their boulevards and lawns up to sidewalk level. However every inch added to the height of a city street costs a great deal of money and engineers, like every other civic official, are severely criticized for the money they "get away with".

The South End, years ago, used to be well ploughed. Then came a number of years when it was ploughed by a man who owned a horse that seemed to stop ever few feet to rest. The last year or so it has been much better again. The lot of the snow-plough man is not as easy as some would suppose. Frequently, during a bad storm, he must go over his route three times. As each route takes three hours, that is hard work for man and horse in all weathers. I watched the elderly man who does our route plough through two huge drifts three times during the last storm. That was a great effort for the man and the horse, and it also took time—time when someone was perhaps wondering "Where is that man with the plough?".

Snow-ploughing our sidewalks possibly does not cost more than $5,000.00. If that amount were taken from our taxes it would not have any effect but if the service were taken away and the onus put on the property owner it would be an awful headache for hundreds of people. It would need a man to police the streets, vacant lots would have to be accounted for, and I think we would all have much more to complain of than at present.

Yours truly,
SPRING FEVER.

INSISTS ST. PATRICK WAS SCOTCH

Sir: "Historian's" epistle on the probable birthplace of St. Patrick is founded too much on supposition to be taken seriously.

He has taken advantage of the fact that I stated that the Saint's birth place was near Dumbarton "in Scotland".

Allow me therefore to amend that statement to read, "near Dumbarton, in the ancient kingdom of Strathclyde, which is now part of Scotland".

"Historian" may, if he wishes, delve into the past, and will doubtless discover that the Scots kingdoms of Strathclyde and Dalsiada were in existence in the year 389, and had been for many moons before anyone knew that there was such a place as the vaguely stated "west country".

Furthermore "Historian" is surely drawing overmuch on his own imagination when he says that at that time nobody "considered whether he was an Englishman".

Let me remind him that what now constitutes England, was at that time but a Roman colony, and these same Romans had finally been forced to build forts and walls, to protect them from the northern kingdoms which "Historian" would have us believe didn't know whether it was Scots or English.

Perish the thought!

J. GILCHRIST.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. (Isa. 55: 6-9.)

◇ ◇ ◇

The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness.

Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness.

If thy whole body therefore be full of light, having no part dark, the whole shall be full of light, as when the bright shining of a candle doth give thee light. (Luke 11: 34-36.)

'Personality' Desks

No doubt it could only happen in Hollywood. But a news item describing a new union headquarters building in that city—its saffron facade, its pink pillars, glass walls, tropical gardens and "executives' desks built to suit their personalities"—leaves one wondering if this latest development in the management-labour relationship may be the beginning of a new trend.

It was not inappropriate, of course, that the Musicians Union local should have opened its new headquarters with a big party and lots of music. The 15,000 guests found a 12-hour entertainment that included a continuous television broadcast, a radio show starring top flight actors, and other features.

But it is the matter of the "desks built to suit the personalities" of their users that intrigues us. If this movement spreads beyond the lush California scene, what may we expect to be provided for Messrs. Petrillo, Reuther, Green, Murray and others? And shall some great granite block be roughhewn for the use of John L. Lewis?

Likely Pick Weslock Top Amateur Golfer

TORONTO, March 21 (CP) — The Ontario Golf Association's annual rally here Thursday is expected to select Nick Weslock of Windsor for the second straight year as Canada's leading amateur golfer.

The OGA annually announces its list of the 10 ranking Canadians and last year chose Weslock as winner of the Pickens Trophy. This time Weslock is said to be unchallenged for the honor, on his showing in the Canadian open and the Ontario open. He was low amateur in the Canadian open and he won the Ontario open.

Names of the 10 will be officially announced at a meeting that will be conducted by Charlie Watson, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

MacLachlan Heads Ont. Lumber Dealers

TORONTO, March 21.—(CP).—Ian MacLachlan of Kingston, was elected president of the Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers' Association at the 33rd annual convention here Monday. Other officers will be named later.

Annual report submitted by the retiring president, H. M. Claridge of Sudbury, indicated that 1949 was probably the best year in the Association's history due to the keen demand for houses and the rapid icrease in building supplies.

Other reports were submitted on Workmen's Compensation and accident prevention labor relations and transportation and deliveries.

TVL All Stars In Tie With Trenton

CAMPBELLFORD, March 21—(ENS)—A deadlocked exhibition game had about 300 fans on their feet many times in the Campbellford arena on Monday night, when the TVL all-stars, a team made up of players mostly from Marmora and Campbellford, and the Trenton 6 RD Air Force team played to a 5-5 tie. The score pretty well indicates the play, which was fast and clean. Both goal keepers played well as did every player on the two teams.

The all-stars took the lead early in the first period and added a second counter at the 16 minute mark, but two minutes later, Trenton put one past Laverne, then got another about half way through the second period to tie the score. Trenton was leading by one goal but Lavender of the all-stars flipped one past Tomassini with only 25 seconds of the last period remaining to tie the score. In the last three games, the Trenton goalie has been robbed of a win in the last 30 seconds of play.

Line-up:

Campbellford-Marmora Combines—Goal, Laverne; defence, Hamilton and K. Trumble; centre, Stewart; wings, E. Trumble and Lavender; alternates, Webb, Robinson, Blake, Hay, Harrington, Darrah, C. Trumble, Gray.

Trenton 6 RD—Goal, Tomassini; defence, Schmidt and Ewing; centre, King; wings, McConkey, and Lalonde; alternates, Johnson, Forget, Christie, Zinck, Wesley, Attrill, Spence, [illegible]ion. Referee, Owe[illegible]

Legion Defeats Markham To Open Playdown Series

Dishing up their old fight here last night, Legionnaires turned back Markham Millionaires 5-3 before a full house at Civic Arena to open their best-of-seven OHA senior 'B' playdown series ... probably the quarter final series as the remaining teams knock each other out on the road toward a provincial title. The next two games will be in Oshawa on Thursday and Saturday. Markham were more than half an hour late arriving last evening.

It was 1-0 for the Ellis outfit in the first frame and they had a 3-0 edge to end the second. The Millionaires fought back furiously in the third to outscore Legion 3-2, butthe locals kept fighting, too, to earn the duke by that score. Both teams played fast, hard but clean hockey with the 10 penalties evenly divided.

Ross Starred

Ross Nicholls shone in the home net, turning back repeated attacks by the fast-stepping and husky visitors in the green sweaters. Johnny Godfrey also starred on defence, while up front Sixty Coombs and Bill Crowley caught the eye with some fine work, though there was not much choice in the forwards. Bert Hill was also effective, and Chum Fryia looked good after a layoff of eight weeks owing to an injury. Bell, the two Forgies, F. Scott and Stunden stood out for the losers in this tussle.

Markham pressed for a space in the speedy first heat and Nicholls had to be good when Montgomery was gated for high-sticking. He was back when Coombs scored on a slat shot in close, on a forward pass from Hill, with Godfrey also aiding. Play was hot and even through this stanza with B. Forgie almost netting one right inside. Burns got the nod for elbowing, and Markham tore in hard again, but he returned with no damage done and Legion had its inning with George Scott off for holding late in the chukker. He got back with no further scoring marked, and play was up and down speedy and pretty even the rest of the route.

Made It 3-0

Fryia and then Singleton made good tries to open the middle period. Burns was chased for tripping, but Legion held all their attack. A Vitarelli - Rochetta thrust aws close and then Crowley made it 2-0 from Rochetta and Burns on a slap shot at defence on a passout. Doug Mortimer added one on a quick breakaway., going right in fast to hit a corner, with Markham all up the ice and pressing hard. G. Scott was waved over for tripping and later Crowley got it for charging, but no damage resulted.

The Millionaires poured it on in the third and had a little edge on play. Bell got their first counter from Brennan on a pass-out at close range early. Montgomery was back from a hooking penalty when Clement intercepted a pass and slammed a screened shot home to make the count 3-2. Stuce went over for high-sticking and H. Forgie followed for tripping, making them two shy, but all were back when Fryia took Parnell's pass and slithered through to outguess the goalie. Coombs salted it away from Hill on a corner passout right after. G. Scott was penalized for tripping as Rochetta nearly tallied on a breakaway, Markham still forcing play. He was back and Singleton got their last one from Bell and F. Scott in a scramble. They pulled their goalie and were fighting furiously, but held by Legion at the gong.

Markham—Goal, Stunden; defence, G. Scott and F. Scott; centre, Singleton; wings, Brennan and Bell; alternates, Stuce, Watson, Jewett, B. Forgie, H. Forgie, Rumney, Baker and Clement.

Legion — Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnell, F. Mortimer, Fryia, Hill Stewart, Coombs, D. Mortimer, and Montgomery.

Referees — P. Patterson and H. Morrison of Toronto.

The summary:

First Period

Legion—Coombs (Godfrey, Hill) 6:40
Penalties—Montgomery, Burns, G. Scott.

Second Period

Legion—Crowley (Rochetta, Burns) 10:00
Legion—D. Mortimer 10:30
Penalties—Burns, G. Scott, Crowley.

Third Period

Markham—Bell (Brennan) 3:31
Markham—Clement 8:00
Legion—Fryia (Parnell) 12:11
Legion—Coombs (Hill) 13:10
Markham—Singleton (Bell, F. Scott) 17:35
Penalties—Montgomery, Stuce, H. Forgie, G. Scott.

The annual Kiwanis bonspiel takes place all day next Monday. Chairman Jack Allen tells us that he has a full entry, with rinks coming from Timmins, Kirkland Lake, Orillia, Chatham, London, Hamilton, Toronto, Oshawa, Cobourg, Lindsay, Belleville, Kingston Pembrokek and Peterboro. There will be three major trophies and the boys are looking forward to a big time.

Miss H. Fanning, Mrs. Dr. McCartney, Mrs. J. Fanning, Mrs. M. Holt Dr. W. D. Clark, N. Hamley, B. Scott and H. R. Hartin are playing in the mixed bonspiel at the Toronto Granite Club on Wednesday.

As we will be away on Wednesday our column will be missing, but we'll be back Thursday, with maybe a lot of wild ideas and a few good stories.

S. Lowe's rink, playing in the mixed in Toronto Monday, didn't do so well. They just couldn't get going. And just in passing we wish to say that Mr. Lowe sold the Raymond sewing machine late last evening.

NHL Players Making Rush For Top Scoring

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)—With the National Hockey League's first regular 70-game schedule finishing next Sunday night, players this week will be making a last-minute rush to capture individual honors.

Team standings already have been decided, except for second place. Detroit Red Wings have clinched the championship and captured the emblematic Prince of Wales Trophy for the second consecutive season.

The Red Wings have 86 points—36 victories and 14 ties against 18 losses—and have two games to play, both at hme.

Battling it out for second position in three games this week—meeting only once—will be Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs. Each club has 72 points.

New York Rangers and Boston Bruins also have games to play but the Rangers are sure to win the last play-off slot. The Rangers lead Boston by six points and three victories from Boston coupled with three losses for New York would deadlock the teams in points. However, New York has won five more games than Boston over the season's play to date and this would give them the edge in case of a tie.

Most To Play

The hapless Chicago Black Hawks have the most games to play—four. But the cellar-dwelling team from the windy city was eliminated long ago, having a mere 48 points to show.

Detroit's left-winger Ted Lindsay seems assured of winning first place in the individual scoring race. With 76 points—23 goals and 53 assists—the native of Renfrew has set a new team record because this is the first time in NHL history that a Red Wings player has run up such a high score.

Lindsay also may shoot for another scoring title during the week. His total in the assists field is only one short of the current NHL record of 54 set by Montreal's Elmer Lach in the 1944-45 season.

Eight points behind Lindsay is Detroit's team captain, Sid Abel, with an even 34 goals, 34 assists while teammate Gordie Howe is holding his own spot with 66 points, four ahead of Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal.

D. Curtis And K. Grier Win Badminton Titles

The local badminton juniors won two titles in men's singles and mixed doubles, playing in the Central Ontario tourney at Bowmanville. Don Curtis took the men's singles, and he teamed up with Kay Grier to win the mixed doubles over M. Boulden and J. Elliott of Port Hope 21-9, from Varcoe and Sleep of Bowmanville 21-17 and the final from Wonnett and Woolley of Bowmanville 6-15, 18-16 and 15-10.

In ladies' singles, K. Grier defeated J. Sears of Port Hope and lost to C. Smith of that town. O. Shunk lost to J. Wonnett of Bowmanville, G. Todd was beaten by N. Varcoe, S. Bagnall defeated G. Martin and lost to A. Jackson.

O. Shunk and S. Bagnall beat C. Martin and D. Webber in ladies' doubles, won from E. Smith and K. Paxton but lost to Beamish and Jackson. K. Grier and G. Todd beat J. Carter and I. Hutchison, won over C. Gilbert and M. Short of Oshawa, and lost to Varcoe and Wonnett.

N. May lost to Windspear of Oshawa in men's singles, and Don Curtis defeated F. Ott, D. Sleep, B. Harwood and J. Woolley. Curtis still has another year of junior play, while N. May is a first-year player. S. Bagnall also went well for a beginner. O. Shunk, K. Grier and G. Todd are more experienced players. The senior players lost to the Strathgowan Club, winning but one match.

Douglas Of Barons Leading AHL Scorer

NEW YORK, March 21 (CP)—Les Douglas of Cleveland Barons today officially was declared the American Hockey League's leading scorer for the 1949-50 season.

Leading since the first week of the season, the veteran playmaker of the western division champions finished with an even 100 points on 32 goals and 68 assists.

Douglas also finished on top in 1945-46 season while with Indianapolis Capitols. Douglas will receive the Carl Liscombe Trophy and the $300 league bonus which goes to the leading scorer.

Ab DeMarco placed second to Douglas with 94 points. John Chad of Providence finished third with 90 points.

Tickets Pay Off

SIMCOE, March 21 (CP) — Several years of purchasing sweepstake tickets has finally paid off for a Simcoe man, Eddie Adair, manager of a local shoe store. His ticket was drawn in the Irish Sweepstake on the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England on March 25. Adair drew a 100 to 1 horse Saint Field. If the horse wins he is in line for a prize of $77,500.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Fred Atkins, Australian heavy mat champ, headlines the main pro grapple card here Thursday. The hard rock from down under goes against Warren Bockwinkle in the main bout, and this one should see some tough, tough wrestling, indeed. Bockwinkle hasn't shown here for some time but will be remembered as the "policeman" who softened up a lot of big fellows as they climbed the ladder in this game. The Aussie fears no one and mixes some clever mat work with rugged stuff, opponents frequently getting hurt in his scraps. Semi-final has towering Hi Lee in against Steve Stanlee, the Golden Boy, while the prelim is between Johnny Barend and Al (Krusher) Korman. Three first-class bouts in this show for the large city and district following.

Ontario Baseball Association will hold its annual meeting on April 14-15 at the General Brock Hotel in Niagara Falls, the last convention being in Peterborough a year ago. Nominations, constitutional amendments and resolutions must be mailed to Secretary W. J. Snyder, 162 Sanford Ave., North Hamilton, by April 1, which isn't too far away. Committee meetings on April 14 with the general session starting the next morning. Cy Whatley of this city is on the OBA executive. Local clubs or leagues, having business with the OBA this year, should hold early meetings.

Pretty Hefty Payroll

We note in the London, Ont., paper where the Intercounty Baseball League has set a salary limit of $3,500 a month for clubs, which is just $100 less than the limit in Class "B" pro ball. Yet, these intercounty teams are supposedly senior amateur ball clubs! It is a fact that they play about a Class "C" calibre of the diamond game with the lineups studded with stars worthy of their hire. And they draw huge crowds, quite comparable to professional turnouts. They might just as well go out-and-out pro, since it now looks like the government will take a bite out of their proceeds in future as it does in taxing professional sports.

* * * * * *

Well, that's one the Legionnaires don't have to worry about. That 5-3 win o'er Markham here last e'en. They'll no doubt have plenty of worries ere it's over, being a best-of-seven serial. Next two are in Oshawa on Thursday and Saturday, then back here Monday. Legion won the toss for the deciding game if it ends in either five or seven. Markham have to grab Oshawa ice when it's available, and they agreed to open here last night if Legion would play the next two in the Motor City. A goodly crowd on deck last p.m., and the Millionaires are drawing around 2,000 in Oshawa for their "home" playoffs.

* * * * * *

Markham Has Class

They're a good outfit, big, fast and smart, playing it ... and never giving up. Legionnaires are good, too, and have that coming-in fighting spirit that breaks the hearts of many an opponent. They just don't give up. Earned the win last night but had to be at their best going in and checking back. With some fine work at defence and in goal for the Ellis crew. Fryia is back again and will be a help, but the whole team clicked well as a unit in this game. They appear to be hot again for the playdowns and will be tough to stop, but we're not writing this series off that easily, nossuh! It'll be a tough, tough one before the finish, with the betting pretty even for a time yet, we expect.

Jim Edwards of the Church Hockey League, which is playing floor hockey in the "Y" these weeks, announces these games for Friday: St. John's vs. St. James at 7.00, followed by Mark St. vs. All Saints in peewee play, and All Saints vs. Mark St. at 8.00, followed by St. James vs. Salvation Army in bantam tilts. He also says there'll be an important meeting of managers and coaches of teams in this circuit at 7.30 tomorrow evening in the "Y", and urges every club to be represented. The church loop had its outdoor hockey washed out this season when it was so mild back in January and early February; but floor hockey has helped out some.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Metro Prystai, centre player with the Chicago Black Hawks, injured in Saturday night's clash with Toronto Maple Leafs, is "resting comfortably," hospital officials said Monday night.

His condition was described as "satisfactory" but the young National Hockey League star is still under observation for a possible concussion. He was bodychecked by Bill Ezinicki in the last few seconds of the game which the Leafs won 2-1.

Ezinicki was given a charging penalty and Bill Tobin, president of the cellar-dwelling Hawks called it a "deliberate charge." Conn Smythe, managing director of the Leaf club, retorted that Tobin's charge was "unfair" and that it was a clean bodycheck.

Winnipeg City Council Monday night ruled that officials of the Puffin Ski Club must prove their organization does not discriminate against Jewish citizens before they may build a projected ski jump.

The club's application to use a piece of city property was referred back to the public works committee.

Ald. M. J. Forkin said the club previously had expressed a decision to bar Jewish applicants.

Prague's only Monday morning newspaper ignored the news of Aja Vrzanova's decision to go into exile. The Czechoslovakian beauty is the women's world figure skating champion. The controlled radio also made no mention of it.

But Czechs, who had expected the black-haired Miss Vrzanova to become an exile since she retained her crown March 8 in London, got the news from the voice of America and the BBC.

Five players on the Pittsburgh Hornets, American Hockey League farm team of the Toronto Maple Leafs, were recalled to the National Hockey League team Monday.

Hornets were eliminated from the AHL playoff Sunday, but the Leafs are battling Montreal Canadiens for second place in the last week of the National Hockey League schedule.

Forwards Les Costello, Fleming Mackell and Eldred Kobussen, defenceman Tim Horton and goalie Al Rollins will join Leafs in practice this afternoon and will be available for the game between Leafs and Montreal Canadiens here Wednesday.

Alan McFater of Toronto won an unanimous eight-round decision over Buddy Hayes of Boston Monday night in the main bout of a professional boxing card at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. McFater weighed 137 pounds, Hayes 129.

In the semi-final Billy Fifield, 164, Toronto, won on a technical knockout over Billy McCoy, 167, of Port Huron, Mich., in the fifth round of a scheduled eight round match.

In a preliminary, James J. Parker, 191, Toronto, won a technical knockout over Amos Dorsey, 186, St. Catharines, in the third round of a six-rounder.

WINS SPLIT DECISION—Robert Villemain of France, shown at right, took a split decision over Kid Gavilan of Cuba last night in Montreal before a huge and partisan crowd. The French fighter gave away three inches in height to his dusky opponent but had a nine-pound pull on the weights, scaling 158 pounds. Gavilan had been a slight betting favorite.

Norwood Hockeyists Capture New Trophy

MARMORA, March 21 (ENS). —Norwood Circle C hockey team became the first holders of the F. M. Rutherford Cup by virtue of their win over Marmora in the latter's rink on Monday evening by the score of 9-5. The ice was a little poor as the game started, but became good after the first period. The winners won through superior combination. Andrews starred in netting the puck four times. The game was scrappy at times and in the final period several penalties were meted out by the referees. Only a small crowd witnessed the encounter, which winds up the league's activities for the season.

Norwood — Goal, Stinson; defence, Robson and Garden; centre, A. Scott; wings, Andrews and Rusaw; alternates, Wrightly, Fairfield, W. Lobb, McMillen, H. Scott, Walden, C. Lobb, A. Lobb, D. Webb.

14 Clubs Entered At Swimming Meet

CHICAGO, March 21 (AP) — Fourteen clubs, including two Canadian entries, will compete in the fourth senior national synchronized swimming meet at the Illinois Athletic Club Friday and Saturday.

Solo competition has been added to the program for the first time. The St. Clair (Detroit) Community Club will defend its group title and Chicago's Town Club will seek to retain the dual crown.

Entered from Canada are the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club and the University of Western Ontario.

C's Off To Elmira

CAMPBELLFORD, March 21—(ENS)—The bantam hockey team supported by the Campbellford Rotary Club, will travel to Elmira on Wednesday for a game in that town for the Ontario championship. It may be decided to play a third game on neutral ice, but that is to be decided later.

On the way to the game in Elmira, the boys of the Campbellford team have ben asked to appear as guests of the "Happy Gang" for their radio show, broadcast at noon each day from a Toronto studio. This will be quite an experience for the lads and they are eagerly looking forward to it.

Private cars will transport the team to Elmira for the game. Campbellford now have a one-goal lead on the round.

Villemain Takes Split Decision From Gavilan

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)—Stocky Robert Villemain of France used a 10½-pound margin to wrest a split decision from Cuba's dusky Kid Gavilan here Monday night in the main bout of a boxing card that attracted 11,745 fans.

The fight marked the first appearance of the swarthy Frenchman, a six-to five betters' favorite in Montreal. Gavilan was making second showing here. Last year he set the all-time indoor Canadian gate record when $55,612 was contributed by a capacity crowd to see him score a decision over France's Laurent Dauthuille.

Monday night's fight gross was officially put at $47,899 by promoter Raoul Godbout. It fell far short of expectations.

The fight was a free-swinging affair which at times reached a furious pace with the two battlers standing toe-to-toe in the centre of the ring taking the best each had to offer.

Harder Puncher

Villemain was by far the harder puncher, landing solid body blows. But the flashy Cuban's two-fisted attack seemed to puzzle the Frenchman who at times kept his distance.

The Canadian Press score card called the fight a draw, giving each fighter four rounds and with two even. Judge Rene Ouimet gave Villemain the only dissenting vote of the three judges. He favored Gavilan with five rounds, Villemain four and one even. Judge Johnny Gow voted the opposite while Dr. R. Geoffrion gave six rounds to Villemain, two to Gavilan and two even.

Bobcaygeon Captures Third OMHA Crown

LINDSAY, March 21. — The Village of Bobcaygeon has won its third Ontario Minor Hockey Association championship in three years. The bantams took the "D" crown by defeating Princeton, 9-5, to win the series, 13-5.

George Nicholls paced the winners with four goals, while Ross Poole fired three. Morley Thurston and Ralph Finley were the other marksmen. George Church shot two for the losers, while Warren MacGregor, George Spicer and Charles Graham scored singletons.

About 400 fans, about half the village population, were on hand for the presentation of the Ken G. Waters Trophy by OMHA convener Dane Found of Orono. In 1948 Bobcaygeon won the juvenile "C" title.

Central Gains Final With A 5-1 Victory

Central defeated Prince of Wales 5-1 yesterday to take the Public School Hockey League senior semi-final series, and now meets Confederation in the final. It was close all the way with Mongraw scoring from Rowley, in the first and, after Downer got one from Pagett, Gardner notched another with Rowley aiding to make it 2-1 for Central.

Central had an edge in the second to pepper Evans. Gardner hit the twine twice, once aided by Rowley to make it 4-1, but Evans shone in the losers' net. In a rough third chukker, Prince of Wales tried hard and Faiers was gated twice, once on a major, Brockwell getting two penalties and Noble one. Mongraw got the lone tally from Gardner and Rowley. Teams:

Prince of Wales—Goal, Evans; defence, Faiers, Speirs; centre, Downer; wings, Brockwell, Pagett; alternates, L. Clarke, N. Clarke, Krogh, Coit, Barrie.

Central—Goal, Delahaye; defence, Noble, Brooks; centre, Rowley; wings, Gardner, Mongraw; alternates, Rowe, Patterson, Heffernan, Martyn.

Referees: E. Druery, and D. Lawless.

Hanks Lead Way

MILLBROOK, March 21 (ENS) —Ladies' bowling high single for the week here went to Barbara Harkness with 276 as Albert Olan led men with 320. Ruth Collins has high three for the season of 713 and Ruth Richards leads the ladies with 333. Weldon Coulter tops the men for the season with an 818 triple, while Charlie Farr's 346 single is still best. The team standing to March 18: Hanks 60, Bankers 54, Aberdeens 52, Vegetarians 51, Chek-r-Chix 46, Merchants 44, Rinky-Dinks 38, Dingalings 36, Sawbones 35. Lancashires 34, V-Eights 26, Broadway Blues 23, HBCs 21, and Pipe Twisters 19.

Spitfires Leading Favorite Trounce Biltmores 5-1

By The Canadian Press

Windsor Spitfires are back in form.

With last night's 5-1 victory over Guelph Biltmores the Spitfires re-established themselves as favorites to cop the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship. Down 2-0 to the surprising Biltmores in the best-of-seven finals, the Windsor crew roared back with all the fire that carried them to a 4-1 victory over Toronto Marlboros in the best-of-seven semi-final series.

With Toronto Marlboros established as the OHA Senior A champions, attention is focussing on the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals. Last night Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and North Bay Black Hawks played to a 3-3 overtime draw in the third game of the best-of-five final series.

Sault Ste. Marie now has a 2-1 lead in games and needs only a tie to advance to the All-Ontario series against the champion Dukes.

Waste No Time

Windsor started early last night and, to the delight of 5,600 home fans, rapped in the opening goal at the 34 second mark of the first period, Earl Reibel doing the honors. Just four minutes later it was 2-0 when Jack Bailey rifled a forty-footer into the corner.

Continuing their power attacks, the homesters clicked for two more in the middle period, Mike Delich counting his first of two and Vic Howe rapping home the other.

Guelph finally hit pay dirt in the third. Frank Bathgate followed Mike Delich of Windsor with the Biltmores' only tally at 13.08.

Louis Preparing Make Comeback

ODESSA, Tex., March 21 (AP) What appears to be probably the worst kept secret of the year will "leak out" Saturday.

Joe Louis, who "retired" as heavyweight boxing champion of the world, is giving every indication that he will announce a comeback.

The Brown bomber finishes his exhibition tour of the United States Saturday at Waco—and there, he says, he will decide whether he will return to the championship firing line.

All along the way Louis has shown he's preparing for another title fight. He is carrying only 230 pounds—15 above the weight he assigned himself. He has had more than 20 fights since Feb. 2, including three that went the full 10 rounds.

The 35-year-old Louis says he doesn't need the money but not to be surprised if he agrees to a bout with Ezzard Charles, the National Boxing Association champion. If it comes off it'll be next September in New York.

Cobourg Gets Lead

COBOURG, March 21 — (ENS) —Cobourg Legionnaires won the first of the OABA play-off games with Brampton here by the score of 44-33. The return game will be played this week in Brampton and the winner meets the western group winner for the intermediate "C" basketball title for Ontario.

The locals started the pace early in the first quarter and chalked up 15 points to the visitors' three. Brampton loosened up in the second quarter to record 12 points while Cobourg only added six but locals took the half 21-15.

The third quarter was close with Brampton adding five and Cobourg chalking up six points. Both teams speeded up the game in the final chapter, Brampton getting 13 points and Cobourg registering 17.

Brampton: Browning (14); Russell (4); McLean (7); Woodill Galaway (3); Evans; Howell; Lyons (3); Gifford (2); Anderson; Mathews.

Cobourg: Jamieson (8); Hamilton (6); Hircock (10); McGuire (2); Quigley (4); Bevan (3); Allender (2); Wilson (3); Lane (2); Holman, Galley (4).

Church Letter On Labor Pleases Union

QUEBEC, March 21 — (CP)— Jean Marchand, secretary-general of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, said Monday night that a pastoral letter of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Quebec on social doctrine and labor problems "made us very happy because it clarified certain things much in dispute in high places."

The letter, signed by all 25 members of the episcopate in Quebec Province, advocated gradual reforms in industry to achieve the sharing by "organized labor" in "management, profits and property." It expressed support for the 90,000-member CCCL and urged Roman Catholic workers to join its syndicates.

At Montreal,, Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, said Monday night a pastoral letter issued by the Roman Catholic episcopate in Quebec Province is a "real social code."

The letter, he said, contains "enlightening directives and accurate answers concerning top-ranking questions in our modern social and economic life."

Mr. Picard said the CCCL executive committee will meet in Joliette, Que., during the week-end to study more fully the letter's contents.

Trapped On Ice Flow

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 21 (AP)—Reports that three men are being swept to sea on a swiftly-moving ice floe from Cook Inlet near Anchorage brought a concentrated search Monday by civilian and military aircraft. The men were reported seen on a 150-foot floe just before dusk Sunday night. A helicopter was dispatched to investigate the report, but its search was cut short by nightfall.

Freedom Committee Requested By Senator

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario), calling successfully for a Senate committee on human rights and fundamental freedoms, said Monday night Canada's "social arrangements are far from ideal but apparently the only crusaders we fear are the Socialists."

He told the Senate he deeply regrets "the weakness during my generation of the intellectual and enlightened Liberal reform movement largely due to two great wars and two smaller ones."

"Our social arrangements are far from ideal but apparently the only crusaders we hear are the Socialists. Their movement is based on discontent engendered by the injustice so manifest in our economic arrangements. People are prone to fly from the evils they know to others they know not of."

The chamber approved his motion for a committee to consider and report on rights and freedoms "what they are and how they may be protected and preserved and what action, if any, can or should be taken to assure such rights to all persons in Canada.

DeHavilland Meeting Ends In Deadlock

TORONTO, March 21.—(CP).—A meeting between the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) and the management of the DeHavilland Aircraft Company Monday failed to break a deadlock over wages at the company's suburban Malton plant.

The 500 employees will take a strike vote March 28.

George Burt the union's Canadian director, took part in Monday's negotiations. The company refused to grant a four-cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to Sept. 1, as proposed by a Conciliation Board. The company claimed inability to pay the increase.

Should the workers go on strike, union officials said, the union will revert to its original demand for a 15-cent-an-hour wage boost, plus two additional statutory holidays and a union shop.

Hydro To Pay Municipal Taxes

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — The Ottawa hydro-electric commission this year will voluntarily begin paying municipal taxes in much the same manner as a private corporation.

Frank Plante, commission chairman, said Monday night that the commission has decided to take advantage of legislation passed by the Ontario Legislature last year allowing publicly-owned corporations like the commission to pay all municipal taxes except school taxes. Payment of the taxes is not mandatory.

He said the decision will mean that the commission, which supplies electricity for some 60,000 customers in the capital, will pay about $300,000 annually to the city of Ottawa in taxes.

The Ottawa commission is believed to be the first in the province to take advantage of the legislation. However, some officials here said they understood the Toronto Hydro Commission is considering taking a similar step.

Car Strikes Work Bus No Passengers Hurt

The Norwood-Havelock work bus was struck in the rear by a car at Lansdowne and Park sts. at about seven a.m. Monday, but no one was hurt.

No damage was done to the bus which was driven by Jack Patterson, Havelock. Slight damage was done to the grill and front bumper of the car. All passengers were transfered to another bus to be taken on to their work.

Resigns Extra Job Keeps Pt. Hope Plant

UTICA N.Y., March 21.—(AP).—George L. Brunner, Jr., resigned Monday as president and a director of the Brunner Manufacturing Company, makers of air compressors and refrigeration supplies.

Brunner said he had resigned to devote full time to the Brunner Corporation (Canada) Limited, of Port Hope, the firm which employs 50 workers, also makes compressors and refrigeration equipment. Brunner's resignation is effective April 1

To Use Huskies In Manoeuvres

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP). — The Army is planning a tactical manoeuvre for the sub-Arctic next winter that will be even more realistic than Exercise Sweetbriar in what it aims to do. It may involve the use of teams of husky dogs for the first time as part of a modern Canadian operational force.

The Navy and Air Force are planning a joint anti-submarine manoeuvre of some two or three days' duration off the Nova Scotian coast in the early summer.

These plans, added to big, costly Sweetbriar, largely-overlooked Sundog, the present international naval war games in the Caribbean and others of a lesser breed, total up to one thing:

With all three forces building up their operational or fighting strength, the era of the peacetime exercise has settled in. They cost a lot of money but their lessons are vital and invaluable if blunders are to be avoided in any actual emergency.

The two now being planned point up probably the two greatest headaches confronting defence headquarters— the modern submarine and the Canadian North.

NO NORWEGIAN VISA

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP). — Canadian visitors to Norway who hold valid Canadian passports no longer require Norwegian visas to enter Norway, the External Affairs Department announced Monday. The relaxation results from an agreement just concluded between Canada and Norway.

Youthful Gordon-Walker Inherits Job, Problem

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 21 (CP). — Youthful, pipe-smoking Patrick Gordon-Walker took the big hop from Under-Secretary to Minister —and inherited a prickly problem.

Almost as soon as he took over his new desk, Gordon-Walker had to deal with the controversial case of Seretse Khama.

"This would have to happen to me," the 42-year-old former Oxford history tutor sighed at a press reception. A week earlier, he had been elevated from Commonwealth Under - Secretary, earning £1,500 ($4,630) a year, to the £4,000-a-year job of Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations with a seat in the Cabinet.

That was last Feb. 28. Less than two weeks later, Gordon-Walker went before the House of Commons to explain the Government's decision on Seretse Khama, Chief-designate of the Bamangwato tribe, who has been banned from the Bechuanaland Protectorate for at least five years.

Emerges Unbowed.

Under close questioning from Conservative Leader Winston Churchill and others, Gordon-Walker emerged unbowed from his first parliamentary test.

Dingle Foot, defeated Liberal candidate in Cornwall North at the Feb. 23 general election, praised the new minister for an "adroit performance."

"Seldom in recent years," Foot wrote in the independent Sunday Observer, "has the House of Commons witnessed a more skilful exhibition of ministerial stonewalling."

Son of a British judge of the Indian Supreme Court in Lahore, Patrick Chrestien Gordon-Walker came to Britain as a boy, was educated at Oxford and entered Parliament at a by-election in October, 1945.

Cheerful, energetic, with a reputation for budgeting his time skilfully, he has been compared with L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs. "I expect you wouldn't find him very different from your own Mr. Pearson," a friend said.

Something New Film Follows Book Exactly

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 21 (AP). —After years of being stalled, John O'Hara's famed novel, "Appointment In Samara" will finally reach the screen.

"We are going to do a revolutionary thing with the book," says producer Jack Skirball. "We are going to film it as it was written." Of course, some of the sexy stuff will be omitted.

"Samara" has been on film schedule for many years, but never reached the production stage. Skirball now believes he has the censorship problem licked —but he doesn't say what he's going to do about the ending. A suicide is the final note.

He would like Henry Fonda for the lead, if Henry can be separated from "Mr. Roberts."

Notes 'n' Stuff

Roy Rogers is hoping for a boy. He and Dale Evans are expecting in August, and they want a lad to be a companion for their son, Rusty. They have two daughters. Roy is proud of his fancy gold, silver and rubied saddle, which he has insured for $50,000. He won't ride in it; it's just for show.

Joe E. Brown is in town for a month's vacation before taking "Harvey" to Hawaii and Australia. He denies that the rabbit will become a kangaroo for the Australian engagements.

Police won't be happy with some of the new films. Cop brutality is treated in "Where The Sidewalk Ends," "The Detective Story," and "Mad With Much Heart."

Odd Bits

Mark Stevens is happy to be playing an action role in "Prowl Car." He says no more musicals for him . . .

Jane Russell gets a glamor wardrobe in "Smiler With A Gun," her first picture in more than a year.

"Winchester 73" will be a blow to those seeking a better break for Indians in the movies. The Injun slaughter will be terrific. . .

Canal Opens April 7

PORT COLBORNE, March 21 (CP)—The Welland Canal will be opened April 7, the canal administration said Monday. Engineroom crews already are aboard the Canada Steamship Lines freighters Donnacona and Midland Prince at nearby Humberstone. These vessels are expected to move as soon as the canal is opened. Sarnia and Colonial Steamships vessels berthed here have not started outfitting.

ON HUNGER STRIKE—Jules Sioui is shown here abed at home in Leretteville, Que., Indian reservation where he has been on a diet of sweetened water for three weeks in protest against action against him by the crown. Freed of a seditious conspiracy charge, the 44-year-old Huron still faces trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud and to disturb the peace. They were laid as a result of his activities for an organization seeking an independent government for the Indians of North America.

Queen's Carpet Arrives

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — Queen Mary's carpet which arrived in New York Monday aboard the Queen Mary will be displayed at the National Gallery March 26-28, the United Kingdom High Commissioner's office has announced. Elaborate precautions have been taken to protect the famous rug which took the Queen mother eight years to work. A special casket of solid English brown oak with bronze feet has been designed for it by leading British architects.

Uncover Red Plot

SINGAPORE, March 21 (AP) —Police said today they had seized a Red agent's diary which revealed a Communist plot to seize control of the Singapore labor movement. Police found three pieces of white human skin in the book. They said information contained in the book enabled them to arrest three Chinese members of the Malayan Communist party.

Charges Slander

PRAGUE, March 21 (Reuters)—The Czech Minister of Information Vaclav Kopocky, Monday said the 140 western newspaper correspondents in Czechoslovakia two years ago had been cut in numbers because "most of them devoted themselves exclusively to a slandering campaign against Czechoslovakia." The minister reporting to a parliamentary committee, did not give the number of foreign correspondents still in the country. Observers here believe there now may be no more than half a dozen.

Britain Would Train Engineering Students

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)— First steps in a Canada-wide survey aimed at eventual establishment of a program of training senior Canadian engineering students in British industries and universities were taken here on Monday.

McGill University engineering professors met with two British educationists to discuss plans to bring to the attention of Canadians the training facilities available in the United Kingdom.

The British educationists, Sir Arthur Fleming, director of research and education with Metropolitan Vickers Ltd. of London, and Dr. William Abbott, engineering education adviser to the British Ministry of Education, are making the survey.

They will try to determine how many Canadian student and graduate engineers would want to take further training in the UK and what financial arrangements can be made.

No Beef Shortage In Saskatoon

SASKATOON.—(CP)— Saskatoon branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers sponsored a "Bring Your Beef" tea.

The guests brought plenty. These are some of the complaints they registered about merchandise and food sold in Canada:

Men can buy two-pant suits Why can't women buy two-skirt suits? Blouses are much too short to tuck in.

Cotton lace on some nylon slips takes too long to dry. Some nylon lace turns grey with washing, while the nylon slips stay white.

It's almost impossible to buy yard goods to equal the quality of fabrics in better-grade ready-made dresses.

The inside finish in men's boots is too rough, and feet get sore from standing all day. Nylon stockings should be graded in length to save time for saleswomen and handling of the stockings.

Mop handles too often are poorly finished, rough and splintery.

It is impossible to buy babies' sweaters in pre-shrunk wool.

Fruit packaged in cellophane spoils quickly. A special bag should be designed for carrying fish because paper parcels are inclined to drip.

Omemee To Organize Chamber Of Commerce

OMEMEE, March 21 (ENS) — The citizens of Omemee and district decided, at a meeting held recently in the Council Chamber, to organize a Chamber of Commerce.

At this initial meeting there was a good turnout of businessmen. Harry V. Smith was appointed chairman and A. Stephenson, secretary. Some of the functions of a Chamber of Commerce were outlined by Mr. Smith, and objectives were discussed. A tentative body of directors was nominated and they will be presented at the next meeting along with such nominations as may be made from the floor.

This follow-up meeting will be held March 27, at 8 p.m. A representative from the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce will be present to assist in complete organization and to further define the functions and enlarge on the possibilities of the Chamber.

Asks For Writ

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — Speaker Ross Macdonald informed the Commons Monday that he has asked the chief electoral officers to make out a writ for a by-election in Toronto Broadview, held by the late T. MP's Suggest Longer Holiday

OTTAWA, March 21. (CP) — Opposition parties indicated in the Commons Monday they would prefer a longer Easter recess than that suggested by the government.

Prime Minister St. Laurent already has suggested the chamber adjourn the night of Thursday, April 6—the day before Good Friday—and return Monday, April 17. This would mean a recess of approximately 10 days.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, asked Monday for an early decision so members could make travelling plans and said he felt that Holy Week—the week preceding Easter Sunday—also should be included in the recess period. This would mean the recess would begin about Friday, March 31.

Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, said he, too, felt that the chamber should adjourn earlier. His party members, all from Alberta, had a long way to travel to go home.

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre), CCF whip, interjected: "That's our view, too."

Mr. St. Laurent was absent, and Trade Minister Howe suggested the question be taken up today.

RATLESS ALBERTA—Alberta is believed to be the only rat-free area on the North American continent. And the provincial government wants to keep it that way. So John M. Brown, provincial entomologist, is leading Alberta's campaign against an expected rat invasion. A young brown rat was killed recently in Edmonton, one of the few that have been found in the province. Here Mr. Brown holds the rat and in the background is a government poster warning of the rat invasion.

Goes With Opposition

One Liberal member—George Cruickshank (L—Fraser Valley) ranged himself with the opposition and said he wanted to see "Canada served first rather than the United States." His riding is in the Pacific Coast area that would be served by the gas line.

Other speakers included George Murray (L-Cariboo), E. T. Applewhaite (L-Skenna), Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra), Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East), Gordon Higgins (PC-St. John's East), W. Chester S. McClure (PC-Queens), Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), Julian Ferguson (PC - Simcoe North), R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon), Paul Hellyer (L-Toronto Davenport) and L. E. Cardiff (PC-Huron North).

The Senate approved a motion by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario) for a committee on human rights and fundamental freedoms. The committee will study freedoms and their protection and preservation and indicate what action should be taken to guarantee them.

Approves Export

In the Commons, Mr. Drew said he was for the export of Canadian surpluses, but added: "Let us follow a policy of Canada first in the use of the resources which we possess."

Mr. Coldwell recalled that Canadians not many years ago had been "hewers of wood and drainers of water" for the United States because they had allowed their resources to be exported. Every time Canada allowed her resources to be exported, she encouraged the flow of young Canadians to the U. S.

Mr. Ferguson urged the Chamber to "stop and think what we are going to give away to the USA." As a Canadian, he wanted to protest the "continual giving away of our resources."

Keep Birthright

He appealed to Liberal members to join the opposition in saying they would not give a Canadian birthright to American interests. He was sure 90 per cent of the Liberals did not realize what the pipe-lines legislation was for. Most of them would simply move the way the government told them to vote.

Mr. Cardiff said if British Columbia could obtain Alberta natural gas, he was sure industries in the Pacific coast province could develop industries which would help to relieve unemployment during the winter months.

He said he knew nothing about oil or gas lines, but he did know that if the lines were built in Canada they would provide employment.

Mr. Knowles suggested the legislation be withheld until Federal legislation could be amended to provide that any company receiving incorporation would have to build its line in Canada.

Mr. Murray, Mr. Applewhaite and Mr. Hellyer suggested the measure be given second reading.

Opposition members who spoke on the measure followed the pattern of their leaders—that Canadians be given first choice on Canadian resources and that the legislation not be adopted until the company guaranteed an all-Canadian line to the coast.

Smash Ice Jam

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)— The Federal government icebreakers N. B. McLean and Ernest Lapointe smashed through a heavy ice jam at Vercheres, 25 miles east of here, Monday and were reported moving upstream toward Montreal. By Monday night, the ships were expected to be within six miles of their destination—the oil docks of Montreal East.

First American-built locomotive to make a successful demonstration run was Peter Cooper's "Tom Thumb," on Aug. 28, 1830.

Worker Fined For Slashing With Trowel

Found guilty of assault by hitting his workmate with a bricklaying trowel, John Leonard Staley, Toronto, was fined $40 and $5.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court today.

Staley pleaded guilty to the charge, but said the man he hit, John "Scotty" Preston, Toronto, had been aggravating him. He said they had been working side by side laying bricks at the new Hydro transformer station near Lily Lake in Smith township.

Preston had criticized the way Staley had been laying bricks.

"If he didn't like the way I was working, he should have told the boss, who could tell me if he wasn't satisfied," Staley said.

"I'm certainly sorry for cutting Scotty," he added.

Swung backward

He said Preston had come up to him in a bullying manner and he had swung backhand at Preston with his hand in which he held the trowel.

However, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw pointed out that Preston had two slashes across his face. One of the cuts affected Preston's eye, but it is not known yet how seriously. He also said Staley had a record of violence.

Corporal Lloyd McClure, of the provincial police, testified when he went to question Staley March 10, the day of the incident, Staley was all packed up and ready to pull out of the city.

Staley had been in jail since then, unable to raise bail.

Window-Smashing Spree

County Council Balks Order Why More Useless Alarms?

Peterborough's County Council is plenty irritated over a long list of fire precautions ordered at the jail and courthouse by the Fire Marshal's office. Much too expensive and in some cases unnecessary, they say. In turn they have a few complaints themselves.

Recently it was found that an automatic fire alarm system installed at the Old People's Home, Lakefield, was seriously defective and it had been inspected and passed by the Toronto office.

Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield told County Council today, at the opening of the two-day session, that 17 thermostats in the building had never been connected.

For about 18 months the residents at the Old People's Home have thus had an illusory protection.

Bought and Approved

What sticks in the crops of most of the members of Council is that it was the Fire Marshal's office that ordered the installation of that particular equipment costing $2,247. Bids from companies other than the one chosen —although cheaper — were not allowed.

Then, because of delay, the Fire Marshal issued a court order to hurry the installation process up. An inspector from the office then approved the fire alarm equipment.

The equipment has never been satisfactory and a recent inspection by three men from the Dominion Fire and Burglary Alarms Ltd., Toronto—the firm that had the contract for putting it in—revealed that 17 of the thermostats had never been hooked into the circuit.

Presumably, Mr. Grant contends, that was the situation when the governmental official gave it the OK.

To Get To Bottom

The upshot of the whole affair is that Mr. Grant, chairman of committee, and Warden Norman Wilson are going to visit the Attorney-General's Department to get to the bottom of the whole thing.

(The Fire Marshal's office comes under the Attorney-General's Department.)

One of the recommendations of the Toronto office is that an automatic fire alarm system be installed at the courthouse. But it is not viewed with favor by the Council.

"Had we any guarantee from the company that the system would work correctly?" inquired Reeve Ernest Leeson of Havelock.

"Yes, it's in the contract," said the county clerk and treasurer, Mrs. Jennie Spurway. She added that the company was now under new management which would complicate any proposed legal action.

The moral of the thing, suggested Mr. Grant, was "put not your faith in inspectors."

Criticize Inspection

Apart from the thermostats not hooked up there is another defect. The first alarm bell begins ringing sometimes, even when not triggered off. Recently Fire Chief Allan Clark of Lakefield had to be called during the night to shut it off.

"It wasn't properly installed and it hasn't been giving the service it could have," said Mr. Grant. "It is interesting to note that the Fire Marshal's office inspected it and passed it. Certainly a cursory inspection."

Reeve Harry Reid of Otonabee, chairman of the property committee outlined the extensive list of fire precautions called for in the courthouse and jail.

New Precautions Asked

Chief George Smith of the Fire Prevention Bureau, Peterborough, and Inspector G. Alexandra of the Fire Marshal's office made a joint inspection of these premises.

The main hall should be separated into three compartments, according to the report received from Toronto. Other extensive renovations were asked for.

Council decided today to get a price on the main-hall structural operations (at the two archways) and on the cost of installing fire escapes from the north and south ends of the building.

A report will be made back to Council in June.

Two fire extinguishers for the second floor have already been purchased as have five small and one large one for the jail.

A fire blanket has also been brought for the jail.

Other recommendations for the jail have not yet been considered.

No Winter Underwear

COBOURG, March 21 (ENS) —Asking for a jail sentence of 30 days because he had no winter underwear and wanted a warm place until the fine weather, James Head, Nova Scotia transient, did not get his request in Cobourg police court Monday.

He appeared on a charge of vagrancy, which was withwithdrawn, and was then sent on his way. Free lodgings in jail were not provided without reason, the man was informed.

Equalize Rents For Last Two Housing Projects

Assent to equalization of the rents charged by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for the houses of its two last projects was recommended to the council by the committee of the whole Monday night.

The motion by Ald. A. B. Burrows, seconded by Ald. Herbert Young, stipulated that the rents for the 1948 project of 226 houses are not to exceed the present rates of $34.50 and $37.50 for the several types of dwellings.

The corporation's proposal was renewed by John W. Wocker, district administrator, in the absence of W. W. Scott, Toronto, who had arranged for the appointment with the committee, but is now ill with pneumonia.

Amend Agreement

The recommendation provides for an amendment of the Corporation's agreement with the council. Some of the houses of the last project of 100 units are already occupied. Progress expenditure has been indicating that these houses, identical with the 226, are likely to cost in the final accounting more than the average for the 226. Circumstances of location of the 226, concentrated in several fairly adjacent areas in the southern part of the city, were more favorable to the contractor, Reynolds Construction Company, who is also building the final 100.

Ultimate cost of both projects has not yet been determined. Mr. Wocker said some landscaping remained to be done at some of the 226-unit houses, but should be completed by early summer. The last one was rented a week ago.

Basis Fee Set

Basic rent to be charged by the corporation was fixed in the agreement at 60c for each $100 of cost of building and completing the premises. There was no undertaking by the corporation with the tenant as to the final rents to be charged when all the costs were compiled.

Some of the last 100 houses were located in Ashburnham for the special purpose of distribution with a measure of uniform development of the city, instead of placing them all in the south end. On some of the eastern streets difficulties of grading were encountered, for example, which increased the unit cost over the average cost of the houses in the south end.

Mr. Wocker said that because of this differential the final rent of the 226 houses should be slightly lowered, and the rents of the last 100 should be slightly increased over the $34.50-$37.50 charges which are now being paid, if the proposed amendment was not approved.

Equalization of rents over the 326 houses was fair, Mr. Wocker said, because there had been no guaranteed rents to any of the tenants; the houses in the one project were the same as in the other; difference in rents for the same type of house would be regarded as unfair by the occupants of the last 100 houses; the entire 326 houses were built for the accommodation of ex-service men and their families, some of whom with more war years to their credit were deprived of that priority in favor of others who were given immediate preference on account of larger families.

Avoid Disparity

Mr. Wocker plainly intimated that, if the council did not recognize the merits of the case as presented by the corporation, the rents of the last 100 houses would have to be increased probably by one dollar a month to $35.50 and $38.50. Eventually the rents of the other houses, with somewhat less cost involved in their construction, would be slightly reduced. Mainly for harmonious relations with all the tenants, the corporation wished to avoid that disparity.

Possibly, Mr. Wocker said, the rents of the last 100 houses might have to be increased twenty-five cents a month, or some such difference, depending on the ultimate information as to cost.

It was said in discussion that the $37.50 house in Peterborough was renting for $40 in Cobourg, $40.50 in Port Hope and $42.50 in Belleville. Efficiency of the local contractor, it was said, was a substantial factor in this advantage for the Peterborough tenant.

The proposal of equalization was first broached by some of the municipalities comprising greater Winnipeg, Mr. Wocker said. He recalled that the rentals of $22, $25 and $30 for the first houses built for munitions workers by Wartime Housing, and of the first houses for ex-service men at $22, $27.50 and $30 had been increased only when municipalities including Peterborough had insisted on a re-adjustment of local tax payments.

It happened in the choosing of locations for the 1948 and 1949 projects that some of the units of each were built on one street. He sited McKellar St. as an example. If the rent for a house on one side was higher than for the same type of house on the other side, it was obvious that tenant relations with the corporation might develop some friction. Equalization would avoid discrepancy and criticism.

Diesel Locomotive Engines Made In Local CGE Plant Give Million Dollar Pay-Roll

The diesel electric locomotive industry means a great deal to the citizens of Peterborough, J. H. Ratcliff, manager of the Transportation Division, Apparatus Department, Head Office of the Canadian General Electric Company in Toronto, told the Rotary Club Monday. Working in conjunction with other locomotive-making companies Mr. Ratcliff said that the C.G.E. is producing 10 sets a month in the large program to dieselize the railroads. Each set takes 75 man hours to build. An additional 15 could be produced a month.

Mr. Ratcliff said that the Diesel sets build up a labor payment in the Peterborough plant of a million dollars a year at the rate of 10 sets a month which could be raised to $2,500,000 if production were at full capacity.

Approximately 4,000 steam locomotives in Canada have to be converted Mr. Ratcliff said. If all these were replaced immediately the diesel-factory boom would be tremendous, but would fall off sharply as the replacement market was filled.

Diesels Popular

Diesel electric locomotives are rapidly becoming popular with the people because of their smoothness and cleanliness and with the crews because of their reliability and safety. The railroads, he explained, are turning to Diesels because of the large saving. Up to 25 per cent has been saved on one haul, he added.

Large railroads find the Diesels more economical because they are available 23 hours out of the 24 in the day. The steamer is seldom available more than 75 per cent of the time.

The storage and handling of oil for the locomotives is cheaper and easier than that of the coal, he said. Diesels can get the same energy out of one car of oil that a steamer can get out of 12 cars of coal. The cost of fuel is therefore much less. The small maintenance required for the Diesel locomotives also cuts down on operating costs.

Three Models

Three types of Diesel locomotives, are in use, the speaker explained: switcher, freight and passenger, and road switchers. The switchers weigh from 25 to 115 tons and are used mainly in railroad yards. The streamliners and freight locomotives weigh about 125 tons and develop 2,000 to 2,200 horsepower a unit. The road switchers are used on the branch lines and weigh about 115 tons each. They have a 1,500 horsepower unit. Some road freights have two or more Diesel "locomotives" units. The A unit (locomotive) has a cab for the engineers while the B and C units are similar to streamlined boxcars.

Advantages of the Diesel engine over steamers are: smooth power; great reserve and ability to have great power at speeds; power can be placed where desired; cleanliness and almost total quietness, simplicity of management, simple braking.

Mr. Ratcliff was introduced by Harry Northrop and thanked by T. F. McArthur.

NINE BIDS EXPECTED

Nine contracting companies are working on the plans and specifications for Peterborough's city hall. That information was received by the council Monday night from the architects, Marani and Morris, of Toronto.

A. L. ELLIOTT, K. C.

YMCA Board Names Officers

A. L. Elliott, K. C., was re-elected president of the YMCA Monday night at a meeting of the Board of Directors. D. A. Loomis and Dr. R. C. Honey were re-elected first vice-president and second vice-president respectively.

J. F. Richardson was elected treasurer and F. M. Banks was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Charles Lacheur. Mr. Banks will complete the year of Mr. Lacheur's term.

Chairmen of the committees are house, C. S. Cummer; physical, J. L. Gillespie; boys, P. M. McCarrell; membership, S. G. Payne; financial, J. F. Richardson; world service, R. C. Simmons.

SWIMMERS GET $50

A grant of $50 to the Ornamental Swimming Club was passed by the council Monday night to help pay the expense of their trip to Chicago. It was made on the basis of the advertising the young women of the club would obtain for Peterborough in their competitions across the border. The motion by Ald. P. J. Anglesey and Ald. A. B. Burrows expressed regret that this year's budget restricted the amount of spending for such grants.

Pentecostal Seek Old Hospital As Bible School

Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada have been enquiring about the possibility of buying the old Civic Hospital property for the establishing in Peterborough of a residential Bible School.

They have informed the council that they are interested if "the price is within their means". A committee of the Assemblies has examined the buildings, and their impression is that the hospital building is the most suitable to their needs of the various properties which they have visited.

Council on Monday night authorized Mayor Swanston to name a subcommittee to deal with the disposal of the old hospital and report back to the council.

Mayor Swanston has appointed Aldermen Waddell, Dewart and Braund.

Question Of Costs

Rev. W. B. Greenwood of the local Pentecostal Assembly told the Examiner today that "we are definitely interested in the hospital property, and it is only a question of whether we can pay the sum at which the city council values it."

If it were established here the Bible School would attract students from Ontario, Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

"The attendance would be from 150 to 200 students with a staff of seven or eight teachers," Mr. Greenwood said. "The course is three years and the term is from October to May. We now have a Bible School in Toronto, but it lacks residential accommodation. We have two other Schools in Canada, one at Saskatoon and the other in Victoria. Our eastern school would probably include some students from the United States as well as from the provinces from Ontario to Newfoundland. We are confident that our Bible School would be a great asset and blessing to Peterborough."

Mr. Greenwood said that, if the transfer of the activities of the Civic Hospital are completed as early as the Board of Governors expect, the first term of the Bible School would begin here in October. Rev. Tom Johnston of Toronto is president of the eastern Bible School.

PEI Follows Ontario Lead On Drunk Drivers

By The Canadian Press.

Prince Edward Island plans to follow Ontario in stiffening the penalties against drunken drivers.

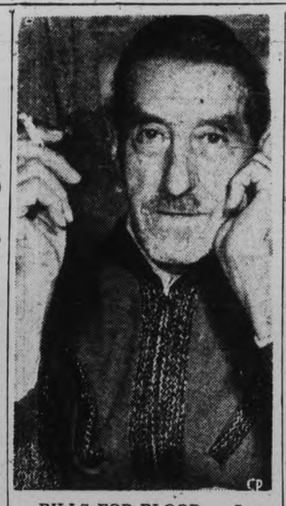
Provincial Secretary Arsenault told the Legislature at Charlottetown Monday that it is planned to copy Ontario's example in requiring persons convicted of drunken driving or other offences involving the use of a motor vehicle to prove financial responsibility before a licence is re-issued.

But Mr. Arsenault said he did not intend to justify the government's action in failing to proclaim traffic law amendments that would have provided for compulsory motorcar insurance.

"Human nature being what it is, if everybody is insured everybody thinks 'why be careful,'" he said.

Plans For Tourists

At St. John's Premier Smallwood told the Newfoundland Legislature of government plans to develop the tourist industry. He said it was lucky that Newfoundland had few tourist cabins, because she could try for a better standard than the other Maritime Provinces through proper legislation in the early stages.



The Ontario Legislature gave first reading to a measure amending the Municipal Act to make school teachers eligible to sit on municipal councils.

The Manitoba Legislature approved a resolution to donate a clock to the Newfoundland Legislature, and gave second reading to a bill prohibiting clauses in real estate property titles which discriminate against any race.

During the debate at Winnipeg opposition members said Winnipeg citizens are not satisfied with the present education grant in relation to grants to other districts. They estimated the Winnipeg grant at seven per cent, compared with 31.4 per cent for the rest of Manitoba.

Compares Vernon Cardy With Lipton On Publicity

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)—Vernon G. Cardy, retired hotel magnate and horse owner awaiting sentence for violations of foreign control board regulations involving $200,000, was compared in criminal court Monday to the late Sir Thomas Lipton for his ability to develop publicity.

The comparison was made by Arthur Joseph Lallemend, head of the International Publishing Company, who said that, while Sir Thomas publicized England through his yachting ventures, Cardy did the same with the success of his horse shows in Canada and the United States.

"Such publicity, if paid for in U. S. dailies," he told Judge Gerald Almond, "would have cost at least $20 a printed line."

He added that newspaper publicity which comes about automatically in the form of news, is the most valuable.

The hearing was held Monday, with the consent of the Crown, to allow defence counsel Raymond Noel to make representations to the court on behalf of Cardy before sentence is pronounced Friday. Defence has opposed a Crown request for a $100,000 fine and a jail sentence.

Cardy pleaded guilty March 10 to the charges for which the maximum penalty is double the amount involved plus 12 months in jail.

A main dish that has everything! Easy to prepare and economical, Chateau Cheese has the protein value of meat, fish or fowl. And it has the smooth, mellow, flavour only Borden's Chateau gives!

1½ cups canned tomatoes
¼ cup finely chopped onions
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
¼ lb. Borden's Chateau, diced
1 tsp. butter
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Place tomatoes, onions and green pepper in frying pan and simmer over low heat about 20 min. or until onions and green pepper are tender. Add taste-tickling Chateau Cheese and butter and cook, stirring occasionally until Chateau is melted. (Chateau Cheese melts as smoothly as it spreads and slices.) Add eggs, salt and pepper. Cook until eggs are done, stirring constantly. Serve at once, on hot buttered toast, to the whole family. (Borden's Cheeses are all highly digestible.)

The IUE-CIO is engaged in a vigorous campaign which will enable it to re-apply for certification in the Peterborough G.E. plant.

The citizens of Peterborough are naturally interested in this struggle, the outcome of which will have far-reaching effects upon the community.

The citizens of Peterborough, and particularly the workers in G.E., are entitled to information regarding the second phase of the IUE-CIO campaign.

Q. Can the IUE-CIO re-apply for certification?

A. The IUE-CIO have been informed by competent legal advisers that they can immediately re-apply for certification.

Q. Can the IUE-CIO use the membership cards submitted in its first application?

A. According to the best available information, the Ontario Labour Relations Board does not recognize a membership card that is over three (3) months old. Yellow cards of the IUE-CIO that are outdated must be re-signed on the standard white card of IUE-CIO.

Q. What happens if the UE signs a contract before the IUE-CIO enters a second application?

A. In such an event, the IUE-CIO would have to wait another ten (10) months to re-apply.

Q. Has the IUE-CIO the bargaining strength to secure a better contract than the UE?

A. The IUE-CIO has the support of the majority in the Peterborough G.E. - - has the support of 7,000,000 members of the CIO and 400,000 members of the Canadian Congress of Labour - - has the support and respect of public opinion. The IUE-CIO has only one objective - - to serve the interests of its members and to improve and raise their standard of living. The IUE-CIO can secure a better contract than UE.

The UE has not the majority support in the plant. The UE has consistently denied the workers in G.E. their democratic right to a government supervised vote and has thus destroyed any semblance of unity that they formerly possessed. The UE, by its consistent and slavish subservience to Communist policy and leadership, has become an outcast from the ranks of organized labour and has lost the support of public opinion. The UE has neither the bargaining strength nor the intention of securing decent contract gains for G.E. workers.

Q.—How can the GE workers prevent the UE from signing a sell-out contract or leading them into suicidal strike action in the hope of extracting a few crumbs from GE?

A.—The immediate and effective response of GE workers to the IUE-CIO campaign will enable the IUE-CIO to immediately re-apply for certification — will enable the IUE-CIO to place before the Labor Board such overwhelming evidence of their majority that a plant vote will be inevitable—will enable IUE-CIO to secure for GE workers the contract improvements and democratic trade unionism to which they are entitled.

Spring Fever Hits Britain Flowers 3 Weeks Early

By WILLIAM BOSS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

That March 21 business is so much nonsense—spring has come to Britain already. Two swans majestically announced the fact last week, cruising in out of the blue to land in with a splash in the sun-swept Thames. It's their mating season, and their coy progress down the flood-swollen river is a sign of the breaking of the shackles of winter.

The gardener cutting the lawn for the first time last week had to be careful to avoid the yellow and blue crocuses in careless bloom. He worked in shirt sleeves in a 55-degree sun, leaving rough circles to be trimmed later around the trunks of almond and wild-currant trees already in full blossom.

Week-end fishermen, who all winter have patiently lined the river banks to angle "fruitlessly" in the freezing tide, now have been joined by owners of pleasure craft moored on either side of the stream.

At nearby Kew Gardens it's the same. The keepers announce that their daffodils are just about ready to bloom — three weeks early — and say massed beds of tulips, narcissus and polyanthus will soon follow.

Even the Ministry of Works has caught the fever and announced there will be new flowers in front of Buckingham Palace this year. The palace gardens will sport red Bartigon tulips, while the windows in Whitehall will be brightened with purple and pink cinerarias, hydrangeas and geraniums.

Travel Increase

Travel agents estimate at least 620,000 Britons will holiday on the continent this year—100,000 more than in 1949.

Easter reservations alone have caused 46 flights to be laid on to Paris for Holy Thursday — five times the usual number and twice last year's service for the same day. More than 100 special flights to various European centres have been arranged for Easter travellers.

Predicts Telephone-Television Will Be Common In 50 Years

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, March 20 (CP). — Telephone-television, by means of which telephone users can see each other, newspapers brought into the home by radio, planes taking off and landing without a pilots hands at the controls . . .

Most of these developments in the field of communications are possible right now, says Cmdr. C. P. Edwards, Deputy Minister of Air in the Transport Department. Almost certainly, they will be in extensive use by the end of the 20th century.

Discussing in an interview the probable developments in the field in which he is an authority, Cmdr. Edwards foresaw the day when advances in the use of radio aids to navigation will greatly reduce or eliminate the number of accidents due to poor visibility in the air, on the ground or at sea.

Use Facsimile

He expects facsimile — the mechanical reproduction of writing, printing or pictures between two points — to supplement telegraph communications to a large extent.

He foresees the day when facsimile radio sets will bring printed newspapers into the home and telephone-television making it possible to see as well as hear a person during a telephone conversation.

Telephone-television is technically possible now. Through the use of screens, cables and other special equipment, it is possible for persons to see one another during a telephone conversation. But the costs of the service are such that it is not being placed on the market at present.

Cmdr. Edwards said in an interview that development of moderate-cost network facilities will be a boom to the spread of television to most parts of Canada.

He added:

"The technical problems of setting up a television program network have already been solved.

Boost Television

"There is little doubt that in the years to come, the number and capacity of these (relay) communications circuits will increase greatly, with a corresponding reduction in the cost per channel, this in turn should give a great impetus to the whole field of television.

He thinks that the transmission of newspapers through facsimile radio is being held up by administrative problems and costs. One problem: Who will pay for the newspaper brought into the home by radio?

Facsimile equipment can rapidly transmit a page of print by radio or landline. Special receivers would be required in the home.

Recently invented in the United States is a system—called Ultrafax — that can transmit the contents of a book in a matter of minutes. This is done by photographing the pages on movie film and transmitting the film over an ordinary television system. It may come into wide use in the years ahead.

Fly Without Pilot

Scientists are perfecting radio aids that will enable an airplane to take off, fly and land in a distant city without human intervention.

A Canadian invention enables a plane pilot to tell how far he is from an airport.

Cmdr. Edwards says there is vital need for a radar device that will enable a pilot or a ship captain to identify the craft showing on his radar screen. This is one of the developments he expects in the years ahead.

"We can expect that the use of radio communications in other fields will also expand greatly," he says, "particularly as new equipment is developed to operate at higher and higher radio frequecies, thereby making available more and more spectrum space for new and expanded services."

Senators Laud Ukrainian Group

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — Canada's 500,000 Ukrainians, or most of them, came in for sustained eulogy in the Senate Monday night. The tributes stopped short at the small minority of Ukrainian-Canadians some Senators said are Communists.

Four Senators paid tribute to the contributions of the big majority of Canada's third largest racial group, to their activities in peace and war on behalf of their adopted land. They did so as the chamber approved in principle a bill to incorporate the Ukrainian National Federation.

Senator A. W. Roebuck (L-Ontario), piloting the measure, said it was a routine legislative item but one of "wide significance." The Federation has been active for 18 years since it was organized to combat undesirable attitudes. It had earned "an enviable reputation."

Senator Roebuck said the government's citizenship branch had told him the Federation is strongly anti-Communist and there was no reason why it should not be incorporated.

Here are some suggestions I would like to pass along to you . . . recipes I know you'll want to serve often.

EASY RICE PUDDING

3 cups milk, scalded
½ package (¾ cup) Minute Rice
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Combine hot milk and other ingredients; then pour into a greased 1½ quart baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 45 minutes, stirring once after 15 minutes, again after 30 minutes, and again after removing from oven. If desired, place pudding under broiler for a few minutes to brown. Serve warm or cold. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

RAISIN RICE PUDDING

To the above recipe for Easy Rice Pudding add ½ cup raisins and a few gratings of nutmeg.

CHICKEN CURRY WITH CURRANT RICE

Combine 1 pkge. (1½ cups) Minute Rice, ¼ cup dried currants, ¾ teaspoon salt, and 1¾ cups water in saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil. Cover, remove from heat, and let stand 10 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons butter. Meanwhile, combine 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup, ½ to 1 teaspoon curry powder, and ½ cup milk in another saucepan; mix well. Add 1 cup diced cooked chicken. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Place over low heat until thoroughly heated, stirring occasionally. Serve with hot currant rice. Makes 4 servings.

Here's a quick, new way to avoid meal-time monotony. Marvelous pre-cooked rice . . . the only rice of its kind — now on sale at grocers!

Crafts Essential to Happiness Speaker Tells Local Guild

"A handicraft centre, tax free, rent free and with cleaning woman supplied, established in Peterborough by the Recreation Commission, would be the latter's assurance that tax money spent on crafts was being utilized by as many citizens as could be interested." Guest speaker Monday evening at the Peterborough Handicraft Guild annual meeting, Miss Ruth Home of Toronto, made this suggestion in answer to a caution given the 21 paid-up members of Commission Chairman Col. R. J. Bolton. She was addressing a gathering of 50 craft workers in the YWCA recreation room.

As reason for such an extension of facilities she pointed out that this is a period of history when handicrafts are being revived, and it is a process that will continue in the community for many years. Crafts are as old as man and are in the records of thousands of years BC.

"Canadians have lost the art because they have been so busy growing up and making money in a pioneer country," she said. "They grabbed onto the systems of mass production, and machinery and have made amazing progress considering their centenary will not be until 1967. Intuitional ability to create has been sacrificed, and it is essential that it be recovered.

"Learning how to use the fingers brings about a corresponding intellectual development," stated Miss Home. "It has been learned from historic records that man has been happiest when he was synchronized in that way." She suggested that not only does each person developing a craft also develop his brain, but crafts can become a family endeavor that will gain unity for parents and children in a common interest.

In these days when manufacturers are seeking to eliminate work for the consumer with canned goods, cake mixes, etc., and workers' hours are being reduced, there becomes more need for crafts to allow self-development, the speaker pointed out. She referred to the controversy on Sunday sport in Toronto which was opposed by the majority of social workers because it was to be professional sport rather than offering public participation.

"Many people confuse crafts with time-filling occupations, such as bridge," said Miss Home. "They should be looked at as works of arts and compared with other works of art. They differ from hobbies in that emphasis is placed on the object." She also stated that craft has no sex and can be just as interesting to men as to women. "Interest of those taking it up will be retained indefinitely as they continue to learn, for there are no 'short courses' in this sort of work."

Crafts can take on the state of commercialism as work advances and Miss Home passed around pieces of pottery, wood carving, metal work, knitting, weaving, samplers and hooked rugs which have been prepared for sale by Ontario crafters.

Mrs. F. E. Hooper introduced the speaker and she was thanked by Mrs. James Turnbull.

Miss Home is a teacher at the Ontario College of Art, a staff member of the Royal Ontario Museum, and executive secretary of Ontario Branch, Canadian Handicrafts Guild.

Six Guilds Report On Craft Work Elect Mrs. Parker

Mrs. G. C. Northey, retiring president of Peterborough Handicraft Guild presided at the annual meeting Monday evening in the YWCA recreation room. Minutes of the last meeting and six executive meetings were readby secretary Miss Jean Scott, who also reported as treasurer a balance of $3.75 on hand.

Reports of the six Guilds were given as follows: Home Arts, Mrs. I. F. McRae; Arts and Crafts, Mrs. J. Hornal; Weavers, Mrs. H. Steggles; Potters, Mrs. E. J. Kallay for Mrs. G. Reinhardt; Leathercraft, Mrs. R. H. Parker; Metalcraft, an oral resume by Mrs. J. G. Wharry in absence of the secretary.

New president Mrs. R. H. Parker, was called to the chair later and closed the meeting. She will be assisted in conducting the Guild's business by Mrs. E. R. Frost, vice president, Miss Jean Scott, secretary, and Mrs. C. B. Waite, treasurer. Guild representatives will be appointed later.

Springtime Tea Held at Home Mrs. J. Rutherford

A successful early spring tea was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rutherford, 328 London Street, by the Parent Teachers' Association of St. Peter's Parish, on Sunday afternoon.

The crowd of guests was welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford and Association president, Mr. W. J. Cunningham.

White tapers in silver candelabra illuminated the attractive tea table, set with centrepiece of tulips and daffodils in full bloom on the lace cloth. Spacious rooms were charming with potted tulips and hyacinths.

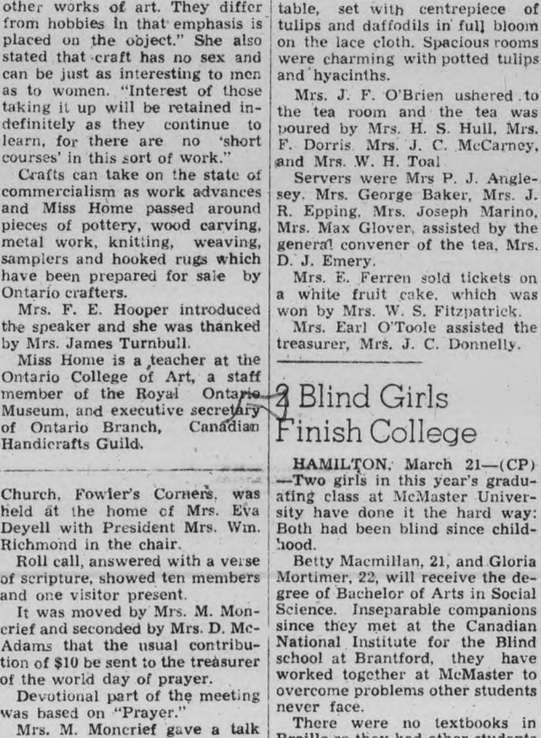
Mrs. J. F. O'Brien ushered to the tea room and the tea was poured by Mrs. H. S. Hull, Mrs. F. Dorris, Mrs. J. C. McCarney, and Mrs. W. H. Toal.

Servers were Mrs P. J. Anglesey, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. J. R. Epping, Mrs. Joseph Marino, Mrs. Max Glover, assisted by the general convener of the tea, Mrs. D. J. Emery.

Mrs. E. Ferren sold tickets on a white fruit cake, which was won by Mrs. W. S. Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Earl O'Toole assisted the treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Donnelly.

2 Blind Girls Finish College



HAMILTON, March 21—(CP)—Two girls in this year's graduating class at McMaster University have done it the hard way: Both had been blind since childhood.

Betty Macmillan, 21, and Gloria Mortimer, 22, will receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Social Science. Inseparable companions since they met at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind school at Brantford, they have worked together at McMaster to overcome problems other students never face.

There were no textbooks in Braille so they had other students read aloud to them. And they developed a shorthand system so that they could take notes during lectures.

Examinations posed a problem at first. Later they were transcribed into Braille at the Brantford school.

After graduation Betty plans to continue her studies, then become a CNIB social worker. Gloria says she hopes to tour Ontario as a CNIB teacher.

Tears No Longer Effective In Getting Woman Her Wish

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 and [illegible]y nothing to cry about because I have the most loving and understanding of parents, and adorable boy friends, a nice home and many friends. But I cry about everything. I cry when I hear a person receive honor or praise. I weep over the unhappy. I burst into tears when I enter a hospital or meet a train or when I hear the voice of someone who is calling long-distance on the telephone, and, of course, I simply dissolve at all the touching scenes in the movies or at a play. How can I break myself of the habit?

LOUISE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The only way to cure yourself of being too emotional is just to use your will power and refuse to permit yourself the luxury of slopping over.

Was Effective Trick

For a long time women got their way by using hydraulic pressure on men. Whenever they wanted a thing they just sat down and cried for it until they got it. There seemed to be some peculiar quality in tears that melted down men's backbones and made them so mushy and soft that women could do with them as they pleased. And so tears became the great feminine graft.

But today tears have become taboo and it is almost as rare to see a woman weep as it is to see a man. Maybe it is because tears don't do make-up any good. Maybe it is because a woman who wept when she lost in a game would be despised as a bad sport. Maybe it is because men have found out that drying a woman's tears is the most expensive occupation they can even engage in. But, however it is, women don't use their ducts as much as they used to do.

Perhaps it is because they have discovered that the modern man wants a girl to be always gay and cheerful and smiling and bright-eyed and has no time for the lachrymose maiden who always has troubles to tell and requires comforting. For men are always fair-weather friends to women.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a very small apartment and my younger sister boards with me, as our parents are dead. We are both business girls. My sister has an abominable disposition and is very selfish, but I feel that I have to keep her with me as she does not make enough money to board in a good place and because I want to protect her as much as I can.

Now I am engaged to a man whom I love very dearly and he objects to the sacrifices I make for my sister and to her monopolizing my little apartment with her friends so that he and I have to go out in order to be alone together. We quarrel about this and things have reached a stage where it is about to break up our engagement. My sister knows this and does not try to help at all by going out occasionally with her dates. What am I to do? Give up my fiance, romance and future married life with the man I love or break with my sister and send her out on her own to get along as best she can? I am heartbroken over the problem.

ELINOR

ANSWER: It seems to me that your selfish sister is not worth the sacrifice of all your love and happiness. Evidently she thinks of nothing but her own pleasure and convenience, and she takes that at your expense. You are the worthwhile member of the family and the one who deserves happiness.

Perhaps forcing her to depend on herself would be the making of her. It often is, and I have seen more than one spoiled girl and boy regenerated by going to live among strangers who literally made them behave themselves and accord other their rights.

Evidenly your fiance is jealous of your sister and, like lots of other selfish men, he is perfectly willing to sacrifice you to himself, but he objects to your being sacrificed to anyone else. If he really considered you at all, he would understand your sense of responsibility to your little sister, and that no matter how badly she treats you, you feel that you cannot turn her out to shift for herself in a world that is full of dangers for your girls.

And he would know that in a little while she will marry or go off herself, and that the problem will automatically end.

DEAR MISS DIX: When a girl of 25 and a married man of 30 fall hopelessly in love what is the solution? The man has told me that he cares for me, but we both realize that marriage is impossible. A young man wants to marry me. Shall I marry him and try to forget?

E. A. L.

ANSWER: The only solution of the problem, if the man does not want to divorce his wife, is for you to break up the affair, and accept the inevitable. Believe me, this will make you a lot happier than will dragging out a hopeless and compromising love affair. Don't try to heal your hurt heart by marrying the other man. That always seems to me such a cowardly and low-down thing to do, trying to save yourself at another's expense.

FIRST ISLAND TO FALL

Guam, a volcanic island, was the first United States Pacific outpost to fall to the Japanese in 1941.

What's Right

You and your best friend have a difference of opinion and you think the friendship is over.

WRONG WAY: Complain to everyone you know about how the friend let you down.

RIGHT WAY: Keep your grievances to yourself.

WILL REMOVE SIGNS

TORONTO, March 21 (CP) — City council Monday decided that all over-hanging signs on downtown Yonge street must be removed by Dec. 31, 1951. The vote climaxed a long controversy that started when signs in some downtown sections of the main thoroughfare were removed temporarily during construction of the north-south subway.

Our Chef SAYS

For Tomorrow's Lunch or Supper Try:

PEPPER POT SOUP

A hearty, he-man soup—sturdy enough for the main dish at luncheon or supper; a rich broth full of savoury solids—tender white meat, succulent vegetables, all seasoned by a knowing hand.

6—In Memoriams

DRURY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Drury, who passed away March 21, 1945:
To one we will never forget
His absence to us is a sorrow
His loss we will always regret.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

DRURY—In loving memory of a dear son, William Drury, who passed away five years ago to-day:
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Lovingly remembered by mother and dad.

DRURY—In loving memory of William Stanley Drury, who passed away March 21, 1945:
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of one who once sat there.
—Sadly missed by George and Margaret McNabb and family.

DRURY—In loving memory of a dear brother, William Drury, who passed away March 21, 1945:
While you, dear brother, rest and sleep,
Your loving memory we'll always keep.
—Ever remembered by his sister Annie and brother-in-law Abe.

HAYES—In loving memory of Walter M. Hayes, who passed away five years ago today, March 21, 1945:
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
His weary trials and troubles are passed,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my sincere thanks to attending doctors, nurses and staff of Peterborough Civic Hospital, Rev. Fred Craik and the W.A. of St. James' Church; also many thanks to friends who sent fruit, flowers, cards and other gifts during my recent illness in hospital.—W. K. (Ken) Sloan.

Mrs. Roy Humphries wishes to thank the attending doctors and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy and all who sent flowers and cards; also Rev. Mr. Cole of Hastings, at the time of the sudden death of her dear husband.

The sisters and brothers of the late Roy Humphries take this opportunity to extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and floral offerings, also the attending doctors and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital and to the kind and thoughtful friends and neighbors for their assistance extended in the loss of a loving and dear brother.

Province Pays $60,407.24 On Housing Job

City Clerk Outram reported to the council Monday night a message from A. E. K. Bunnell of the provincial department of planning and development that payment to the city of $60,407.24 had been approved. This is the government's contribution in financing the Peterborough ex-service men's housing project of 1948.

The city bought the land and supplied domestic services for the 228 houses, the last of which was let to a tenant last week. Total cost was $120,314.

It may be recalled that the Ontario government undertook to pay half such detail cost, that is one half the expenditure for land and services, but their part of the assisted financing was not to exceed $600 a house.

Peterborough acquired the land and put in sewers, roads and so on. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation supplied the money. Actually, in that stage, the city did not spend a cent on the property preliminary.

Mr. Outram explained that the government's cheque has to be paid to Central Mortgage, reducing by half the city's liability for land and services. The remainder will be repaid to the Housing Corporation over a period of ten years.

City Council Will Support Paving Program

City council decided Monday night to present a statement to the Ontario Municipal Board supporting its paving program for this year.

This course was recommended to the board of works after the reading of a letter from Elliott and Chandler acting for Lock St. petitioners opposing the local improvement plan of paying for the paving of that street in the 1950 program.

"I think we should prepare our own brief to the Municipal Board for their consideration when they sit here to deal with this bylaw," Mayor Swanston suggested. "Some people do want the paving and are willing to pay for it."

"I think they all want it," said Ald. H. Dodds, "but they want some one else to pay for it. It is a repetition of the experience of last year. I think we should have some one state our case for the city as a whole. The program is prepared by our city engineer who knows what streets need it most."

The date of the Municipal Board hearing has not yet been announced.

Residents of Burnham and Romaine Streets objected to the frontage charge levy of the local improvement plan last year, and the Municipal Board acceded to their petition that those streets be omitted for the 1949 paving project.

OBITUARY

ROY HUMPHRIES

WESTWOOD, March 21 — The many friends in the district were greatly shocked to learn of the sudden death of Roy Humphries on March 14.

He was taken suddenly ill on Sunday eve and although the best of medical aid was obtained, he passed away early Tuesday morning.

A sorrow stricken wife, the former Rena Shearer and the brother and sister will greatly miss the affection of a devoted husband, a thoughtful and loving brother. Deceased, who was the second oldest of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Humphries was member of St. Andrew's United Church, Westwood.

Possessing a kind and friendly disposition, he was greatly esteemed by the many friends in Asphodel who deeply morn his loss.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. N. Cole who spoke words of syampthy to the bereaved ones; a beautiful solo, a favourite hymn of the deceased was sung by Mrs. Russell Shearer.

It was a large funeral, cortege which wended its way to Westwood on Thursday afternoon where the deceased was laid to rest on the pine crested hill. Six life long associates and neighbors acted as pall bearers. They were: Howard Fife, Scott Fife, Bert Lynch, Ernie Warner, Gordon Warner, Scott Elmhirst.

Floral tributes were beautiful and numerous and were borne by Wellington and Gerald McKee, Donald and Ray Thomson, James and John Moore, James McKenzie and Gavin Shearer.

SEEKS TO INTEREST GROUPS

John Sparrow, director of apprenticeship training at the CGE will speak to students at PCVS Wednesday on apprenticeships. This is one in a series of group talks arranged by the vocational guidance department of the school. Last week the engineering group met and next week the students interested in medical courses will hear Dr. Russell Morgan.

Parking Stickers Done

Parking stickers for 1949 are no more good now than 1949 licence plates, Chief Constable John Thompson warned today.

He said he has not been pressing truck drivers, who normally buy the parking stickers, until they had their 1950 licence plates. But now that the 1949 licence plates have been declared no longer usable, he feels that truck drivers should have their 1950 parking stickers as well.

2 Youths Guilty Shooting Up Boy's Property

Two youths were placed on one year's suspended sentence each when found guilty of damaging a hat and a ski by shooting at them, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

Roland Brier, 16, Albertus Ave., was charged with damaging the hat of eight-year-old Frederick Harrison, son of Noble Harrison, first line of Smith township.

Hugh Bertram, 17, Monaghan Rd., was charged with damaging the young boy's ski by shooting through it twice.

A third boy, 14 years old, appeared in juvenile court. He held a shot gun against young Harrison's stomach threatening him "in a jocular way." His case was adjourned a month.

Took Pot Shots

Provincial Constable Roy Feeley testified the eight-year-old boy's hat had been taken off and the youths took pot shots at it lying in the snow.

The ski was also shot at while lying in the snow.

One of them laid the barrel of his gun along the back of the head of another and shot at the hat.

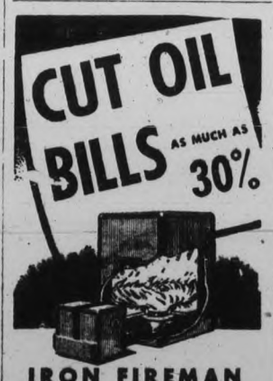
"The boys in the district must learn they cannot go shooting indiscriminately. The boys' parents are very foolish to allow them to go out with guns when they handle them in that fashion," Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said.

Magistrate Philp warned them if they did not handle guns with care then they were too young to have guns. He branded the boys' acts "more than foolish."

Pedestrian Run Down Walked Into Car

Stepping into the path of an oncoming car, George Paudash, Oshawa, was knocked unconscious for a short time and taken to Civic Hospital Monday night.

Paudash had a gash over one eye and a cut lip. Civic Hospital authorities report he will be discharged Wednesday.



Driver of the car, Harvey Seabrooke, Sherbrooke St. W., told Traffic Officer Claire J. McGillen he had been driving south on George St. He saw Paudash start to cross George St. from east to west at McDonnel St. then stop.

When the Seabrooke car was about 10 feet from the man, Paudash stepped in front of the car and the left corner of the front bumper hit him, knocking him to the road.

Witnesses to the accident corroborated the story that Paudash walked into the car. Constable McGillen reported that Paudash had been drinking. Constable William G. Scott had been driving a short distance behind the Seabrooke car and got Kaye Funeral Home ambulance to take the injured man to hospital.

LOSES FINGER

Mrs. Francis Wilkinson, 77, of Millbrook, had her finger amputated at Civic Hospital Monday after catching her hand in the wringer at her home. Her other fingers were less badly injured.

Charge Filed Against Sander With County Medical Society

MANCHESTER, N.H., March 21 (AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander has a new hurdle to clear before he can return to good standing in New Hampshire's medical profession.

Dr. Lloyd L. Wells, secretary of the Hillsboro County Medical Society, disclosed Monday night that a charge had been filed with the organization against the young country doctor.

The state board of registration in medicine already has a hearing pending to determine Dr. Sander's right to continue the practice of medicine. The hearing will be held April 12.

The disclosure that a charge had been filed with the county society came a few hours after two Roman Catholic hospitals announced Dr. Sander had been banned from practising in the institutions.

The 41-year-old physician was acquitted March 9 of murder in the death of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59, a cancer-ridden patient.

Charge Not Disclosed

The nature of the charge filed with county society was not disclosed.

The county group's constitution provides that charges may be preferred "by reason of (1) criminal offence, (2) gross misconduct as a citizen or physician, or (3) violation of the society's by-laws."

The society's board of censors can recommend (1) Dr. Sander be reprimanded, (2) that he be exonerated of the charge, or (3) that he be expelled from the society.

The society does not have authority to revoke Dr. Sander's licence. That power is held only by the state board of registration in medicine.

The Catholic hospitals barring Dr. Sander are the Notre Dame and Sacred Heart, both in Manchester.

The ban, approved by Msgr. Matthew F. Grady, Catholic Bishop of Manchester diocese, is "forever."

The bishop attacked euthanasia (mercy killing) Sunday in a sermon. He did not mention the Sander case which prompted wide-spread discussions on the merit of euthanasia which is forbidden by the Catholic church.

Bringing Eggs Out Of Storage

Eggs are already coming out of storage three to four months earlier than was expected, according to trade reports.

The Chanticler is up on his feet and crowing again for the wholesale price is four or five cents over the government's 38-cent floor; and retailing at around 45 to 48 cents.

There has not been any storage for the last three weeks according to one source of information and the biggest plant in the city has no eggs in the refrigerator. The market it was said appears to have been correcting itself, aided by the decimation of flocks that began early in January in a flurry of excitement that drove some producers right out of the business.

Farmers who kept on whistling while passing that graveyard are now looking at a year that may turn out highly satisfactory. Canadian business is active and promising. Another big building year is about to start and industry is still rolling along in high volume. Employment, officials say should increase soon and prospects appear to be almost at bright as last year. Labor conditions appear to be steady.

The provisions trade comment is briefly that effects of shortage which was no anticipated until late summer or fall are already appearing. Part of the cause was the reaction of panic by some farmers who got rid of flocks at the first sign of price weakness during the January upset.

"I'm just on my way to the bank"

He is just one of the hundreds who during the day will drop into the branch bank around the corner.

Savings depositors with their pay cheques . . . retail merchants with the day's cash . . . people consulting the manager about loans, others cashing cheques . . . it is all part of the daily work of the branch bank.

In ten years the number of accounts maintained by bank depositors has grown from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000.

This shows how Canadians have come to count on their local banks for a great variety of services. The banks keep pace with the growing needs of the nation.

Say Trade Fair At Toronto Be 40% Bigger

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

. . . It's time again to talk of the Canadian International Trade Fair, a type of show which Canada has pioneered on this continent and which will be held May 29-June 9 in Toronto.

It is patterned after similar events in Europe and is in effect a mammoth sample room where exhibitors from many countries display their goods to buyers from all over the world. Except for certain specified days it is closed to the public and the aim is to provide facilities where traders can get together in calm and do business.

Started in 1948, it now is in its third year and probably more than 30,000 buyers and sellers will see it.

Fair headquarters, rounding up information available to date, has issued a 48-page release describing the exhibits and has this to say:

Bigger Fair

The fair will be much bigger than in 1949 — approximately 40 per cent bigger — with greatly increased international participation, and greater variety of both industrial and consumer goods.

There'll be just about everything: furs and fashions, tractors and trinkets, textiles and toys, along miles of aisles crammed with the products of 30 nations.

A reflection of current trade promotion trend is the preponderance of overseas exhibitors, who will account for more than 70 per cent of the total space. In their drive to earn more dollars, many countries have sharply increased the scope and variety of their exhibits.

From information on hand the present ranking according to the amount of space definitely allocated is as follows:

England, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Italy, United States, Australia, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Scotland, Spain, Sweden, India, the Netherlands, France, Pakistan, Portugal, Hong Kong, Switzerland, Jamaica, China, Northern Ireland, Bahamas, British Guiana, Isle of Man, Wales.

NOURISHING FOOD

The protein content of fish is generally higher than that of many other foods.

See Union War Shaping Up

VANCOUVER, March 21 (CP)—A union war involving 1,400 seamen is shaping up here.

Threat of violence loomed when Dick Deeley, Vancouver agent for the Seafarers' International Union announced that the SIU already has begun action to replace the West Coast Seamen's Union.

Action of the SIU, he said, followed a Canada Labor Relations Board verdict that the WCSU was no longer recognized "as a trade union."

James Thompson, port agent for the WCSU, did not reveal the stand his union would make, but said:

"We have contracts with British Columbia operators running through to October, 1950."

Predict Violence

Shipping officials said they foresaw a recurrence of the violence which swept the waterfront when the same two unions came to blows in 1948 and 1949. They said they had not yet been approached by the SIU.

SIU announced its intention to take over bargaining rights from the WCSU and gain representations of more than 600 WCSU seamen, mostly on deep-sea ships.

At Ottawa a Labor Department spokesman said he had no information on any move by the Seafarers' Intenational Union to take over bargaining rights from the West Coast Seamen's Union.

The spokesman said a union lacking certification by the Labor Board could not use provisions of the Labor Act to force employers to bargain. Under the act employers are required to bargain with a certified union.

$15,000 Fire Damages Brockville Warehouse

BROCKVILLE, March 21 (CP)—Fire late Monday night caused $15,000 damage in destruction of the warehouse and garage of the Brockville Co-operative Society. No one was injured.

An adjoining private [illegible] owned by James Stover also was destroyed. Lost in the blaze were three motortrucks, a quantity of roofing tile, wire fencing and egg crates.

The blaze for a time disrupted Canadian Pacific telegraph wires and service was later restored.

Complete Course Given On Homes And Marriage

HAVELOCK, March 21 (ENS)—Certificates were presented at Havelock United Church on Sunday to members of the class which recently completed the course "Christian Marriage and Homes," conducted by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh.

Those receiving certificates were Joan, Edith and James Thompson, Albert Smith, Eleanor Scott, Kenneth Nobes, Helen Robinson, Betty Post; Ethel Menzies, Bruce Melville, Brenda Lucas, Robert J. Hill, Elva Gerow, Philip Chevalier, Beulah Chase, Gordon Bales, Earl Agnew, Marie Vanderburgh, Mrs. James Watson, Robert Watson, Audrey Newell, Marie Whitney, Lois Wilde, Jack Southward, James Watson and Jack Rowat.

The class also comprised four members of Knox Presbyterian Church who will receive their certificates through their own church headquarters. They are Beverley and Shirley Bennett, Elaine and Joan Graham.

Minister Quotes Essay

At the end of the course the members were called upon to write essays on Christian Marriage.

During his sermon on Sunday, Mr. Vanderburgh referred to the one written by Bruce Melville which stated: "Homes were at the root of our forefathers' conception. Homes turned many a wilderness into a community. Homes have been the background of democracy. They are the assembly line of national character and character is the strength of the nation.

"It can be the final bulwark against the impact of materialism and the 'isms'. That is why forces out to destroy democracy attack home life.

"If there is a conflict of wills in the home, the answer to that is to find a third will that both parties accept with enthusiasm—God's will."

A solo was sung by Mr. Carter and Mr. R. Dooley sang the tenor solo in the anthem.

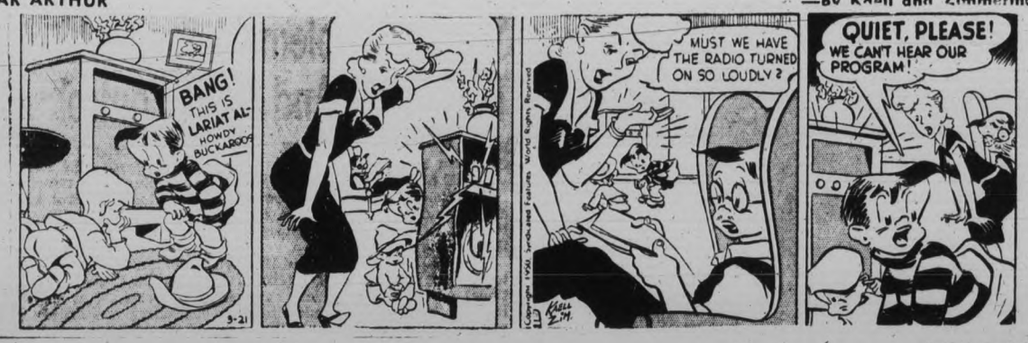
years of banking progress

In 1875 Imperial Bank of Canada opened its doors for business.

The future looked dark. Banks and business houses were collapsing. Thousands of disheartened Canadians were moving to the United States.

But on through the panic of '79, in and out of successive national crises, and into the years of "Canada's Century" Imperial Bank of Canada held firm, and grew from strength to strength, unassisted by mergers or amalgamations.



This year Imperial Bank of Canada celebrates its 75th Anniversary. With its shining faith in Canada's future, it looks confidently ahead to a still more impressive national development.

Report Pope May Appoint 3-Man Cabinet

VATICAN CITY, March 21 — (Reuters) — Pope Pius may appoint a three-man "cabinet" of newly-created cardinals to head a reorganized government of the Roman Catholic Church, usually reliable sources here said Monday.

The three new cardinals would be appointed in May, these sources said, and under the guidance of the Pope they would direct all the church's internal administration and foreign relations.

The move was believed part of a widespread plan by which the Pope hopes to strengthen the central government of the church as a major step in combating atheistic Communism throughout the world.

It was understood that three of the church's most promising and able prelates would form the "triumvirate."

Chief of them was expected to be 59-year-old Msgr. Alfredo Ottaviani, assessor of the Vatican holy office, who would be responsible to the Pope as "Prime Minister" of the new cabinet.

Reports indicated the others would be 62-year-old Msgr. Domenico Tardini and 51-year-old Giovanni Battista Montini. They already are responsible, under the Pope, for the church's foreign diplomacy. Under the proposed reform they would have the rank of cardinals and the title of Chiefs of Section.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

POLAR EXPLORATION, begun nearly 400 years ago, really boomed during the first half of the Twentieth Century. This scene shows the SS North Star in the Antarctica during one of the expeditions of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, famed explorer of both poles. Both the North and South Poles were first beheld by a man during the early years of this century. Admiral Richard E. Peary is credited with discovering the North Pole, on April 6, 1909. A rival claimant, Dr. Frederick A. Cook, for a while enjoyed world-wide hero worship on the basis of his claims. He was later discredited and branded as an impostor. Norwegian Roald Amundsen takes credit for having been the first man to see the South Pole, on Dec. 14, 1911. The poles, earth's last frontier's, still tempt explorers.

Britain Starts Helicopter Service In June

LONDON, March 21 (CP) — Britain's decision to go ahead with the world's first scheduled helicopter service doesn't mean an era of regular hover-plane hops from city to city is at hand.

Experts say high operating costs will rule out for several years service between city rooftops and outlying airports, and between "rotor-stations" located in the centres of big cities.

Britain's pioneer run goes into operation June 1. Twice a day single-engine Sikorsky helicopters will fly between the west coast port of Liverpool and Cardiff, in South Wales.

The 135-mile trip will take one hour, 20 minutes. Passengers will pay a fare of about sixpense (7¾ cents) a mile single, less for a round trip.

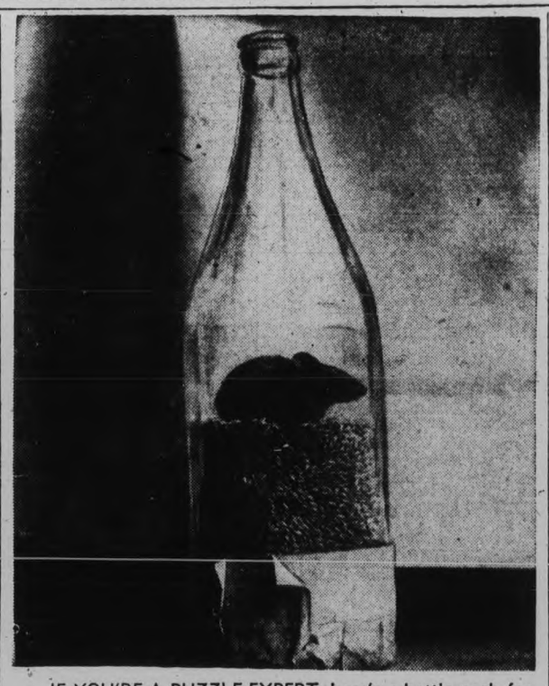
To Foot Bill

The service isn't a commercial proposition, except that British-European Airways will operate it on regular airline formula. Every trip will lose money. The government will foot the bill.

"There is no such thing as an economical helicopter," said Lord Douglas of Kirtleside, chairman of British European Airways. "When there is, we will operate it."

Sponsor of the Liverpool-Cardiff service is the Ministry of Supply, which has charge of aircraft development and is interested in the experimental aspects of the project. At the same time it satisfies a demand by Welsh authorities for air service on this route.

Take Three Passengers



The single-engine helicopters carry only three passengers. Maximum revenue per trip will be £10 10s ($32.55) while operating costs will approximate £33 ($102.30).

"If we fixed the fares so as to cover the cost, then nobody would pay them," said an airways official.

Not much extension of helicopter service is looked for until a two-engine machine is available. The Ministry of Supply has one of these, the Bristol 173, under development.

IF YOU'RE A PUZZLE EXPERT, here's a bottle-neck for you. The story that came with this picture from Sydney, Australia, was this: The mouse squeezed himself through the neck of the bottle, then began to eat the birdseed in it. The more he ate, the lower down in the bottle he went—and the bigger he became. He spent a whole day in the bottle, the story goes, until someone found him and set him loose. How? that's the bottleneck. Nobody explained that.

Electronic Machine Miracle Calculator

LONDON—(CP)—An "electronic brain," which remembered 256 10-digit numbers at a time and can make calculations 1,000 times faster than a girl with a desk computor, is being developed by the National Physical Laboratory.

It is known as "Ace" —automatic computing engine.

When completed sometime this summer Ace will have 43 brain cells, each about six feet high. It is hoped that the machine will surpass the big electronic calculator completed at Cambridge University and said to be the most advanced in the world.

Instructions are fed into the machine in the form of figures on punched cards. Ace automatically converts these into "decimal binary tables," a code of ones and noughts in which the figure 56, for example is represented by 111,000.

Then Ace turns them into pulse patterns, seen as a green line on a screen, juggles with them, decodes the result and hands out the answer again in punched cards.

Ace can deal only with practicalities and not with theory. But the big machine is expected to be of invaluable use to scientists engaged is aero-dynamic and atomic energy research.

Similar Problems Being Met In Narcotic And Atom Control

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAKE SUCCESS N. Y.—(CP)—International control of atomic energy and of narcotic drugs are two United Nations' problems that have much in common.

Some U. N. quarters would like to see the examples of international co-operation which have brought reduced drug addicition applied to study of the problem of atomic controls, deadlocked by East-West conflict.

It's a new twist on an old idea. The League of Nations prepared a memorandum in 1932 on the similarities between the problems of the narcotics traffic and the trade and manufacture of arms.

The U.N. Assembly has called for exploration of all possible avenues of agreement on international atomic control.

Here are some of the similarities in the two problems:

Atomic energy and narcotic drugs both have dangerous and useful properties; in both cases control, to be effective, would be required from production of raw materials to final use; control is for social reasons although political considerations loom large also in the atomic question; a control plan for both narcotics and atomic energy would have to be universal to work effectively.

A basic difference is that control of atomic energy would be of little use unless it could prevent violation. So for atomic control a continuous system of inspection is necessary. In narcotics, however, correction even after violation is useful.

Proposals for an international narcotics police force have been put forward but have not found acceptance, with arguments of national sovereignty standing in the way. That's the same tack taken by Russia in rejecting the plan for atomic control approved by 46 of the U. N.'s 59 members.

International Agency

The U. N. has no immediate plans for an international narcotics force but there is in the making a proposal for an international purchasing and selling agency which would have a world monopoly in opium.

So far, control of the narcotics trade has been gained by moral pressure exerted through eight international conventions one or more of which have been signed by 71 countries including Canada. The conventions provide for limitation, manufacture and sale of narcotics for medical and scientific needs.

The next step toward acceptance of the proposal for an international opium agency submitted by Turkey, India, Iran and Yugoslavia, is to discuss it in the U. N. commission of narcotic drugs.

Canada's representative on the 15-country commission is Col. H. C. L. Sharman, former R.C.M.P. expert on narcotics. He is regarded as a world authority on the problem.

The third U. N. group in the chain of responsibility for the existing system of international control is the eight-member Permanent Central Opium Board, primarily concerned in watching "the course of international trade in narcotic drugs."

Looking into the East-West aspects of the problem, U. N. officials note that Russia has co-operated in narcotics control in the past and could be expected to agree to the proposed international agency.

Red Demonstrations Rigidly Suppressed Throughout Italy

ROME, March 22—(CP)—The Italian government met a Communist strike challenge today with a massing of police strength that put 3,000 persons under arrest in Rome and rigidly suppressed demonstrations throughout the country.

There appeared to be only scattered violence as a result of the 12-hour country-wide general strike called by the Communist-led Italian Confederation of Labor.

The call was isued after a clash Tuesday night between police and farmhands carying red banners in a village in central Italy. Two farmhands were killed.

The confederation is protesting government proposals to increase the country's police force and authorize bans on political demonstrations that have taken the lives of several persons in recent days.

Country Normal

An interior ministry press officer said that despite the strike the life of the country was "developing normally." He said the strike was effective in the large industrial organizations and less efective in medium sized industries.

Four bomb explosions rocked Rome as the Labor Confederation called out its 5,000,000 members.

Two of the explosions wrecked district offices of the Communist and Christian Democrat parties. The other two caused no damage.

More than 1,000 strikers had been arrested in Rome by midday as they tried to gain access to a square in which the Labor Confederation, defying a police ban, had called a meeting.

Health Dept. Has New Section

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP). — The Health Department today announced formation of a new section to study problems of potential health hazards caused by increased use of radioactive materials and radiation-producing apparatus.

Dr. G. H. Guest,, former head of the Health Radiation Branch in the National Research Council's atomic energy project at Chalk River, will take charge of the work.

The new radiological health section will function under the department's Industrial Health Division and was made necessary because more and more radioactive materials are being distributed in Canada, Dr. K. C. Charron, chief of the division, said.

The new section will deal with radiological health problems referred to the Federal Health Department, act as a source of information on radiological health for other government departments, and assist provincial and local health agencies in kindred problems.

Scientist Not Certain Can Make H-Bomb

PASADENA Calif., March 22.—(AP).—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prizewinning scientist, says he is not at all certain that man can make a hydrogen bomb.

He is frankly skeptical that any man-made device will ever split the earth asunder.

But it is true, he says, "that we and our possible adversary now possess the instruments to destroy each other."

Millikan is 82 today. In an interview, the man who first did atomic research, observed:

"With all the talk about the hydrogen bomb, Im not yet convinced that its at all certain we can build such a bomb. Of course, if it were possible to make the hydrogen in all the seas combine at once into helium, we probably could explode the whole earth and transform it into a nebula. However, I'm still skeptical."

Advise UK Not To Recognize Seretse

Report Commission Inquiry Too Dangerous To Be Published

LONDON, March 22 (Reuters)—The official commission of inquiry which inquired into the chieftainship dispute in the Bamangwato Tribe of Bechuanaland, has unanimously advised Britain against recognizing Seretse Khama as tribal king, the government disclosed today.

The commission—whose report has been kept secret—also recommended that Seretse be exiled from his tribe.

In a white paper published today on Britain's thorniest empire problem for years, the government gave its reasons for refusing to publish the commission's report and for banning Seretse and his white wife from his native Bechuanaland for five years.

Certain arguments were advanced in the report and views expressed which could not be accepted by the government and with which they could not associate themselves, the white paper said.

Won't Publish Report

"The danger that such parts of the report would be quoted without it being made clear that they had not the approval of His Majesty's government is so great that His Majesty's government have decided that the report cannot be published," the document went on.

It added: "His Majesty's government must, however, state categorically that the judicial enquiry unanimously advised against the recognition of Seretse.

"It expressed belief that in these circumstances Seretse's absence from the Bechuanaland protectorate was essential to the peace and good order of the Bamangwato Reserve, and that a period of direct rule would be in the best interests of the Bamangwato.

"It further advised that Tsheked I (Seretse's uncle and former regent of the tribe who opposed his nephew's marriage to his white wife, Ruth Williams) should not be permitted to return to the reserve.

Seretse is being allowed to return temporarily to Bechuanaland to collect evidence for an interitance lawsuit and be with his wife when she has her baby in June.

Spend Too Much On Research

OTTAWA, March 22—(CP)—Lovell Carroll, Montreal counsel, contended before the Board of Transport Commissioners today that the Bell Telephone Company of Canada is paying money for research services which have nothing to do with telephone business.Mr. Carroll offered the argument during cross-examination of George D. Edwards, Director of Quality Assurance at Bell laboratories in the United States. Mr. Edwards is the sixth witness called by Bell in the hearing by the Board of an application for an average boost of 20 per cent in Ontario and Quebec telephone rates.

Mr. Carroll questioned Mr. Edwards about work at Bell laboratories and was told that research is being carried out on transmission facilities for television as well as telephone.

Previously, the board had been told that Bell of Canada will pay more than $1,000,000 this year to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, half-owner of Bell Labs, for research services.

At one point in today's cross-examination, Hugh Wardrope, assistant chief commissioner, asked Mr. Carroll what he was getting at.

Mr. Carroll said he wanted to show that Bell Labs were doing a considerable amount of work which wasn't directly connected with the telephone business; and that Bell of Canada was paying for a lot of research service which was outside the scope of telephone operations.

He would argue that Bell of Canada was thus spending too much money on research services.

194 Patients Evacuated From Burning Hospital

SYDNEY, N.S., March 22—(CP)—Fire swept through an old wooden building of a mental hospital today but all 194 patients walked calmly to safety. Officials said the fire started when a male patient stuffed a burning cigaret down a ventilator. Hospital officials estimated the loss at nearly $500,000. The old four-storey building at suburban Sydney River was destroyed. Firemen kept the flames from spreading to a newer building, a scant 12 feet away.

Only the fact that the fire started slowly enabled the evacuation of all patients from the hospital, officials said.

No one was injured.

Orderly Evacuation

The patients in the old building —112 men and 82 women—left the building in an orderly manner All were taken to the new building.

Many patients were at breakfast when flames were discovered and officials said they had little difficulty removing the patients. There were no stretcher cases.

Once the flames gained headway, they spread rapidly.

The ruined building contained all stores and supplies for the hospital.

Receive Offers To Adopt Quads

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 22 —(CP)—Ossie Hargreaves, father of Sault Ste. Marie's quadruplets, said today he and his wife have received several offers for adoption of the baby girls, now 5½ months old.

"A number of offers have come from many different parts of the country," he told a reporter. "Most of them have been made in an offhand manner to persons outside the family and we have not yet considered any one of them seriously."

He said the possibility of putting the babies out for adoption arose from financial troubles incident to the care of the quadruplets.

15% Increase For Cabarets

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — Cocktail lounges and night clubs which provide elaborate variety entertainment soon will have to charge 15 per cent more for their drinks.

Amendments to the Hospital Tax Act, introduced Tuesday in the Legislature by Premier Frost, provide for taxing cabarets and night clubs on a basis similar to theatres and other amusements, starting April 1.

A tax will be imposed for the first time on dances where no food or liquor is served.

On lounges and dining lounges —popularly known as cocktail bars and nightclubs—the old tax was 20 per cent up to a maximum of 40 cents on a $2 cover charge. The new bill provides for a tax of 15 per cent on admission prices up to $6 and a flat $1 for those over $6.

The amusements taxes in Ontario are devoted to payments for hospital grants.

Earth Shocks Rumble Across Philippines

MANILA, March 22—(AP)—A series of earth shocks ranging from feeble to fairly strong stretched across Mindanao Island in the southern Philippines Tuesday night. There were no immediate reports of damage.

The first quake was recorded at Surigao on the northeast tip of the island at 5.30 p.m. (4.30 a.m EST Tuesday). Intermittent shocks were felt until 9.05 p.m. when the heaviest tremor occurred.

Lighter shocks were felt for almost six hours longer at Cotabato on the southwestern Mindanao.

Misinterpretation of Signal May Have Caused Wreck

CARLETON PLACE, March 22 (CP)—Misinterpretation of a brakeman's three-word signal may have caused the freight train wreck at Ashton Station Saturday in which two men were killed.

Engineer George Wilson, testifying at an inquest Tuesday night into the deaths of the two men, said his front-end brakeman gave the signal "that will do" as his extra freight pulled into the Ashton siding to allow another freight to pass.

Wilson testified that the signal normally meant that the rear of the train was clear of the main line and the whole train standing in the siding. As a result he stopped with the rear cars of the freight still on the main line.

Front-end brakeman William K. Bangs said the signal had meant only that the train had reached the proper point from where a single box car, to be left off at Ashton station could be uncoupled and moved into another siding on the opposite side of the main line.

The second freight, train No. 89, crashed into the rear of the extra freight in a blinding snowstorm early Saturday killing No. 89's engineer Travers A. Short and fireman George Hannan, both of Ottawa.

Following taking of evidence last night, the inquest was adjourned until April 4 to permit brakeman Thomas C. Gilmer, injured in the wreck and now in hospital, to give evidence.

Girl 13 Ends 21-Month Tour

SAN JOSE, Calif., March 22.—(AP).—A 13 year old girl's telephoned plea "send the F.B.I. for me, please," has ended her 21-month trans-continental travels with a 52-year-old man.

Sheriff's officers placed Florence (Sally) Horner in a juvenile detention home Tuesday night after finding her in an auto court They were awaiting word from her mother, Mrs. Ella Horner of Camden N.J., about sending Sally home.

Sheriff Howard Hornbuckle said charges of transporting a female across state lines for immoral purposes would be filed today against Frank La Salle, unemployed mechanic.

The bobby soxer said she had telephoned her sister, Mrs. Susan Panara, 23, in Beverly, N.J., for help. She did not explain why she hadn't reported her whereabouts to relatives since shortly after she disappeared.

Want To Learn If Cod Talk When They Woo

OSLO, Norway, March 22 — (Reuters). — Microphones, cameras, powerful undersea lamps, sound recording and echo apparatus with scientists to operate them, left here Tuesday in the Norwegian research ship G. O. Sars to find out whether codfish talk to each other when they woo.

American scientists have found out that herrings have the "Hya, Babe" and the "come down and see me some time" know-how, Norwegian icthyologists recall, and add that there is no reason to suppose that their cod is in any way a bashful fellow.

Anchoring in the cod spawning grounds, the scientists will lower their equipment down to the cod's boudoir—180 feet down If she says anything to him, or he says anything to her, the world can expect to hear about it next week.

Defence Says Head Wound HurriedDeath

Woman Actually Dead When Second Shot Fired Lawyer Argues

COBOURG, March 22 — (CP and Special to The Examiner)—The Crown asked today that Ralph Kilbon be convicted of murder because of his admission that he fired a rifle bullet into his wife's brain to "finish her" after she tried to commit suicide.

Kilbon is accused of the "mercy killing" of the 54-year-old mentally-ill woman. The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

The defence contended that Mrs. Irene Kilbon was dead — "legally, medically and from a standpoint of common sense" — before Kilbon fired the second shot.

"Ralph Kilbon is no killer," said defence counsel J. J. Robinette. His action, seeing his wife in the agony of a self-inflicted stomach wound, was "an act born or love or confusion of thought," said Mr. Robinette.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said there is no dispute that Kilbon's motives were of the highest. But he added:

"There is no onus on the Crown to show motive. We have to show intent. It has been established that it was his intention that his wife should die and died quickly. . .

"No one can say actually how long she would have survived the first wound. The only conclusion from the second wound was that it hastened her death.

"You may say, 'If she were going to die anyway from the first wound, why punish this man?' . . .

"Would she have lived longer? Where can you draw the line?

"The law says you cannot hasten the death of anyone and there I let the matter stand."

Hastened Death

A main defence witness, Dr. Arthur M. Doyle, of Toronto, said the head wound hastened Mrs. Kilbon's death. But she had "no hope of recovery" from the self-inflicted wound. As soon as the first bullet entered her stomach," "the patient was medically dead."

"She was an intelligent woman who knew she was going to the mental hospital at Whitby," said Mr. Robinette. "Her husband, on that fateful morning, went out for a pail of water. While he was out, she got the gun and shot herself.

"He finds her lying on the floor, picks her up and places her in the chair. No one can tell if she were alive or dead then. He saw her suffering and he committed and act born of love or confusion of thought. He made no effort to conceal anything . . . this man was no killer . . .

Farmers Want Marketing Plan

OTTAWA, March 22—(CP)—Canadian agriculture officials today began drafting recommendations designed to make marketing legislation uniform across the country and to regulate interprovincial and export farm trade.

More than 100 delegates representing the federal government, the 10 provinces and farm organizations met behind closed doors to draw up the recommendations that will later be presented to provincial governments.

Opening sessions Tuesday of the two-day dominion-provincial conference, sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, were spent discussing implications of a national marketing scheme.

CFA legal counsel R. H. Millikin told delegates that every province except Quebec now has legislation under which provincial marketing boards can operate to regulate marketing of products within their own boundaries.

Due to constitutional limitations, however, the legislation cannot apply to inter-provincial and export trade. A federal statute—the Agricultural Products Marketing Act—was approved last year to extend provincial marketing board powers into the interprovincial and export field.

Received By King

LONDON, March 22 (CP) —Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, today was received in audience by the King at Buckingham Palace. Later Viscount and Lady Alexander lunched with the King and Queen. The Governor-General is making a private visit to Britain. He and Lady Alexander arrived by an R.C.A.F. plane March 15 and return to Ottawa next week.

Lie Proposes 20-Year Peace Program

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, proposes a 20-year peace program to relax international "tensions" and "bring the cold war to an end."

Calling for periodic meetings of "foreign ministers or even heads of governments" to discuss controversial issues, Lie said in an address here:

"I do not think the world can safely delay taking the first steps on this road of negotiation and conciliation. The danger of an indefinite continuation of the cold war in this age of the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb and bacteriological weapons is too great."

The UN official made his peace proposal in a speech Tuesday night at the National B'nai B'rith annual convention dinner.

No Meetings Yet

Lie pointed out that top-level meetings within the 11-member Security Council are called for in the UN charter and that so far none has been held.

If they were to be held in the future, he said, they should be devoted to a periodic review of outstanding issues before the UN and be accompanied by "quiet and private consultations among the foreign ministers."

"Great results should be expected from any one of these meetings," Lie cautioned. "Their success or failure should not be measured in terms of decisions reached, but in terms of step by step progress toward better understanding and the restoration of an atmosphere of mutual concidence . . ."

Lie said that the UN offers "many other possibilities" for ironing out differences of opinion among countries and added:

"I think we should use all these resources in order to try to bring the cold war to an end."

He's Not Superstitious Has Fingers Crossed

BELLEVILLE, March 22—(CP) —H. C. Stoliker of Belleville is not superstitious, but he is keeping his fingers crossed, hoping that his good luck stays with him for Saturday.

Tuesday, Stoliker, an employee of the Canadian National Railways here, was informed that he had drawn a horse in the Army and Navy Sweepstakes on the Grand National Steeplechase to be run at Aintree, Eng., Saturday. Mr. Stoliker drew the horse Atomic.

Even if his horse doesn't finish in the money, he stands to win close to $500 for drawing a horse.

Ask Federal Government To Repeal Law On Chinese Immigration

Delegation Presents Brief To Harris Asking Chinese Be Given Equal Rights Enjoyed By Europeans

OTTAWA, March 22—(CP)—The Federal government today was asked to repeal the present Chinese Immigration Law and give Chinese the same immigration rights enjoyed by Europeans. The request was made in a brief presented to citizenship Minister Harris by a delegation representing the Committee for the Repeal of the Chinese Immigration Law. The Committee is made up of groups of non-Chinese and Chinese residents throughout Canada.

Emphasizing that no request was being made for implementation of a policy of extensive oriental immigration, the brief made three specific requests:

1. That the Chinese immigration law be repealed and everyone in Canada brought under one immigration law "free from the present form of racial discrimination."

2. That the new law provide that the wife and children, regardless of age, of people who are legal residents of Canada be admissible. Under the present law Chinese residents cannot bring children over the age of 18 into Canada and a Chinese must become a naturalized citizen before he can bring his wife and children here.

3. That the law be extended "so that, in proper cases, a reasonable number of Chinese who do not fall within the class of wives and children, may be admitted to permanent residence in Canada."

Reasonable Request

"Our request (for repeal of the law) must be a fair and reasonable one otherwise the standing committee of the Senate on immigration and labor would not have unanimously recommended its repeal in March, 1949," the delegation said in the brief.

"Moreover, it must be fair and reasonable, otherwise so many leading Canadian newspapers would not have come out in editorials in favor of its repeal.

"Otherwise we would not have the support of such large and representative Canadian organizations as the United Church of Canada, the Roman Catholic Church of Canada, the Anglican, Baptist and Presbyterian Churches in Canada, the Canadian Jewish Congress, the Canadian Congress of Labor the Council of Women, the Association for Civil Liberties, the Canadian Co-ordinating Committee of Youth Groups, to mention only some."

Goes Through Ice Belleville Lad Saved

BELLEVILLE, March 22 (CP). Dropping through the honeycombed ice as he attempted to cross the Moira River, seven-year-old Billy Pennylegion narrowly escaped drowning Tuesday night. The lad dropped through the ice into seven feet of water and was rescued by Gordon Sanford, who had seen the lad olaying near the river bank. Billy was taken home where it was found he had not suffered any ill effects.

Would Suspend Game Licence After Conviction

TORONTO, March 22 (CP). — The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters today presented to the Ontario Legislature Fish and Game Committee its recommendations regarding game.

The brief, read by President H. V. Sutton, asked that non-resident deer hunters be required to be accompanied by a licensed guide. Guides would be prohibited from carrying firearms.

Junior licences for hunters under 16 years of age accompanied by a licensed parent or guardian should be issued, the brief said.

As an experiment, professional hunters should be paid to kill wolves and other predators.

Use of snares should be outlawed in the following townships: Tay Matchedash, Edonte, Orillia Tiny and Oro in Simcoe County, and Morrison Township in the district of Muskoka.

Sale of jack rabbits, cotton-tail rabbits, and hare should be prohibited, the Federation said, and the bag limited to six.

5-Year Suspension

Hunters or anglers twice convicted of breaches of regulations should lose their licence for five years.

A brief submitted by the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association asked that the Ontario Government seek to have a uniform wolf bounty for all Canadian provinces. The Department of Lands and Forests should give "serious consideration" to control of private camps used as unlicensed tourist camps.

WOULD SUSPEND

Prepare Bylaw Sunday Games

TORONTO, March 22.—(CP).— A special bylaw will be prepared to permit the Maple Leaf Baseball Club to hold games here, Board of Control decided today.

A second bylaw will be prepared later designating other Sunday activities and locations where they may be carried on, the Board decided.

Mayor Hiram McCallum told the board the International Baseball League schedule must be arranged immediately if other clubs in the loop were to be given the opportunity to make arrangements for home stadiums The Maple Leafs play in the International League.

Prairie Farmers Get Extra Payment

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Prairie farmers are going to get an extra payment later this year from the wheat, oats and barley pools operated by the Canadian Wheat Board.

Trade Minister Howe told the Comomns Tuesday the payments will be made after the end of the 1949-1950 crop year—July 31 this year—when all sales have been completed.

The payments are expected to be 10 cents a bushel on oats, 40 cents a bushel on feed barley, and 50 cents a bushel on malting barley.

He did not estimate the amount of the wheat payment.

Doctors Were All Wrong Mrs. Heart Lives To Full

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 22 (AP)—The doctors were wrong—Mrs. Heart is alive today, and "living to the fullest."

The $10,000 the unidentified Oklahoma City widow rationed herself last March for the year doctors said would be her last is almost gone.

But . . . .

"I was ready to give up before" says the woman who was told a heart condition would kill her in 12 months, "but it's different now."

Mrs. Heart says her health is better, and she's convinced she has a future.

Mrs. Heart says she gave hundreds of dollars away. None of the money, though, went to persons who wrote her for financial aid.

The letters—some 30,00 of them —came to the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman after she appeared at the newspaper office, told her story, and frankly asked for help.

Mrs. Heart said she had been so occupied with making money that she hadn't learned how to enjoy it. And she wanted the year which was to be her final one "completely enjoyable."

The newspaper, pledged to secrecy, agreed to ask its readers for advice.

"I have filled a book with notes I took from those letters," she says. "Especially the letters from doctors telling me I had no reason to give up hope. And from people who had lived long past the time they were given to die."

Mrs. Heart travelled. Later she sought additional medical advice.

"I've a self-confidence that I never had before in my life," Mrs. Heart says.

Sunday Sport Limited To 4½ Hours

Legislature Dissolves Injunction In Espanola Case

TORONTO, March 22—(CP)—A government measure providing for Sunday sport in municipalities which register approval by a straight majority in a plebiscite of municipal voters, was introduced in the Ontario Legislature. Toronto and Windsor have already approved Sunday sport in such votes.

Another bill dissolves the injunction which was to become effective April 4, to prevent waste disposal in the Spanish river from the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company's plant at Espanola. The company had contended that if the injunction was made effective it would be forced to close down.

A third government measure establishes an Ontario Racing Commission of not less than three and not more than seven members. The Commission will have authority to issue or revoke licences of race-track operators, owners, drivers, jockeys, valets, exercise boys, tradesmen and others.

The Sunday sport bill sets forth that a municipality which has approved the question may decide in a by-law what type of sports may be played on Sunday. The hours for such sports are limited to the period between 1:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

The provincial act gives a municipality power to hold Sunday sports by over-riding the Federal Lord's Day Act, which prohibits Sunday games where admission fee is charged.

Up To Municipalities

Introducing the bill, Attorney-General Porter said a municipality may order a local-option vote on Sunday sport at its discretion. But if 10 per cent of the voters by petition demand such a vote, then it must be held. The same percentage is required for a petition to repeal the Act's provisions. On this point Mr. Porter said that neither Toronto nor Windsor need hold another plebiscite.

The bill does not allow horse-racing on Sunday. On the hours restriction, Mr. Porter said "the government is most anxious to preserve the essential features of the Sabbath day and believes that anything approaching a wide-open Sunday is most undesirable. The religious aspect of the day should be regarded by everybody as being of primary importance. It is also good that the day should be a day of rest as far as possible from work."

Claim Damages

The Espanola bill, while dissolving the injunction against the plant which is the chief industry in the town 30 miles west of Sudbury, at the same time preserves the right of residents of the district to claim damages as a result of pollution. Mr. Porter said he had not put into the bill any provision for arbitration of differences between the company and local residents. If there was any request for such a provision the government would consider an amendment.

The company had taken some steps to reduce a pollution and the Ontario Research Council was studying the situation to discover what else could be done. "It was the view of the government that no matter how necessary an industrial operation may be, there is a responsibility of the company to do its utmost to exercise every precaution known to science to minimize as far as possible the pollution of a river or damage to adjoining property," said Mr. Porter.

Not Authorized

Budget debate opened with L. E. Wismer (CCF-Toronto Riverdale) claiming that the government last year spent $16,000,000 of the taxpayers' money without authorization. Ordinary expenditures had been $223,000,000 compared to the $207,000,000 authorized last session. Mr. Wismer also declared Premier Frost, who is also Provincial Treasurer, should have shown a surplus of $24,735,000 rather than $1,004,000 —the amount applied to the sinking fund should have been shown as surplus.

And some of this surplus could have been used to provide cash relief for unemployment, instead of going into the sinking fund, he said.

J. G. Brown (L-Waterloo North), noted that Premier Frost had told the Legislature he had reported a surplus in the last seven budgets. "Might I say that if during the past seven years the Provincial Treasurer had shown anything but a surplus he would not have been worthy of the name of provincial treasurer," said Mr. Brown. He warned that "the honeymoon is over."

Mr. Brown predicted Ontario will be faced in 1951 with its first deficit in eight years if it fails to collect five per cent of personal income tax now collected by the Federal government and refrains from drawing on the Liquor Control Board's reserves.

Admits Murder Over Woman

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 22 (AP)—A slender, greying barber who told police he was too little to carry the body of a big man, admitted Tuesday night the butcher slaying of a window washer.

Detective Clint Seward said 56-year-old Clarence Taylor broke down after 12 hours of questioning and told a grisly tale of how he shot and killed George Willis Baldwin, 54, March 13, because of an argument over a pretty young woman.

The woman, identified as 19-year-old Mrs. Goldie Juanita Wilson, was held without charge for questioning.

The detective said Mrs. Wilson admitted being present when the shooting occurred. He said she apparently knew that Taylor three days after the shooting sawed the body in half and dumped it in Flossmore, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

Stock Prices Settle Into Narrow Rut

TORONTO, March 22 (CP). — Prices settled into a narrow rut as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Volume for the first three hours was 561,000 shares.

Industrials opened on an easier tone but steadied and pushed into slightly firmer ground. Papers were strong in the groupings and steels also firmed. Refining oils, liquors and textiles sagged.

Trading was dull in base metals and golds. Junior gold producers showed penny declines and seniors were mixed. Key base metals slipped. Labrador Exploration was a firm spot, bounding ahead 60 cents at $5.10.

In Western oils, steady demand carried Royalite to a new high at 10⅜.

Kilbon's Act Speeded Death Of Wife

Woman Already Dying When Husband Fired Second Shot

COBOURG, March 22—(CP and Special to The Examiner)—The "mercy-killing" murder trial of 56-year-old Ralph Kilbon nears its conclusion today. Defence Counsel J. J. Robinette is expected to present his case in the shooting of the retired engineer's mentally-ill wife after she allegedly tried to commit suicide with a rifle.

If the defence completes its case early enough there is a possibility Mr. Justice Dalton Wells will make his charge to the Supreme Court Jury, today.

Kilbon, who admitted firing the second shot, testified Tuesday that "I do not consider that I committed murder." His testimony came before medical evidence that the allegedly self-inflicted wound would have been fatal to the woman but she was alive when the second shot was fired.

Dr. Harold Gold, 29, testified that his autopsy on the 54-year-old woman disclosed that the bullet which pierced her brain caused her death though she already was dying from a stomach wound.

He was called in after Mrs. Kilbon was found dead Nov. 1 in her favorite rocking chair in the kitchen of her rambling farm home in South Monaghan township. The farm is some 20 miles south of Peterborough.

The partly-bald Kilbon told the court that he left the kitchen of his home to get some water. "When I came back she was lying on the floor and the gun was on the table. She asked me to lift her and put her on a chair. I couldn't bear to see her suffer and shot her in the temple."

"She suffered from an incurable disease that affected her mentally. She was packing that day to go to Whitby (Mental Hospital) and I had no idea she was going to take her own life."

Dr. Gold said he believed the head wound hastened death, in reply to a question by Mr. Justice Well. He said death from the head wound would have occurred in five minutes to 30 minutes and from the stomach wound five minutes to one hour.

'I think the head wound caused death in this case," said the pathologist.

Dr. A. L. Russell, who attended the woman, said he was called to the Kilbon home shortly after 9 a.m. Nov. 1. "Mr. Kilbon said to me: 'There is a mess inside.' He said she had shot herself and he had finished her because he couldn't stand to see her suffer and had shot her through the left temple."

To defence counsel, Dr. Russell said that the characteristic of a Huntington Corea patient would develop into a "suicidal tendency."

Court Admits Statement

Provincial Constable Don Nicol of Cobourg said that he and Corporal Douglas Wilson went to the Kilbon home on the morning of November 1. At this stage of the trial the jury was excluded as counsel agreed admissability of the statements.

The constable said he recorded Kilbon's statement in his note book and that Kilbon signed it.

Reading from the statement, Constable Nicol quoted Kilbon as saying "I left the room while she was sitting in the chair to get some water. When I came back she was lying on the floor and the gun was on the table. She asked me to lift her up and put her on the chair. I couldn't bear to see her suffer and shot her in the temple. She suffered from an incurable disease that affected her mentally. She was packing that day to go to Whitby and I had no idea she was going to take her life. I do not consider that I committed murder."

The gun, a .22 lever action rifle, had a broken stock. A cartridge case was in the breach, the constable said.

Dr. Gold described both wounds in the woman's body as mortal wounds.

"Would such a wound as the head injury be fatal?" asked Mr. Deyman. "I think so."

"Would such a wound as the abdominal wound have been fatal?" "Yes."

"Can you tell which was caused first?" Mr. Deyman continued. "I believe the abdominal wound."

"What makes you believe that?" "The amount of bleeding in the wound."

"Are you able to say whether she was alive when the second shot occurred?" "I would say she was alive."

"Why?" "Because of the amount of bleeding in the head wound."

Questioned further, Mr. Deyman said the head wound would at least hasten death, because both wounds were mortal in themselves.

Mr. Justice Wells asked "Could the head wound alone have caused death?"

"Yes," Dr. Gold answered. "In a matter of minutes."

The stomach wound, he added, would cause death in from five minutes to an hour."

"Is it possible to tell which wound caused death?" His Lordship continued. The doctor answered: "I would think the second wound—the head wound — caused death."

Under cross-examination, he said the moment Mrs. Kilbon suffered the stomach wound she was a dying woman. She would probably have died within a few minutes.

"As far as your evidence can go both injuries could or might have caused death in the same period of time?"

The doctor hesitated. "Yes," he replied finally.

Defence Says

"Legally, medically and from a standpoint of common sense, she was dead after that first bullet . . ."

Mr. Robinette said the Crown did not prove Kilbon guilty of murder.

"The Crown has to show beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused committed a wrongful act and that because of a wrongful act her death resulted," said Mr. Robinette. "You have heard the medical evidence and the Crown has failed to establish its case."

The case is expected to go to the jury, composed largely of farmers, late today, after addresses by Crown counsel and the presiding judge.

Dr. Doyle said the stomach wound Mrs. Kilbon inflicted on herself caused severe damage to the aorta, a main blood vessel.

"Could one tell which wound caused death?" asked Mr. Dalton Wells, presiding at the murder trial of Kilbon.

"An examination would not tell exactly which wound caused death but I would say that after the aorta was pierced the patient was medically dead,", said Dr. Doyle.

"One final beat of the heart would be sufficient to produce the blood found in the brain."

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman asked: "Would the second (head) wound hasten her death?" Dr. Doyle said it would.

Kilbon, 56-year-old retired engineer, was quoted Tuesday as saying he fired a shot into his wife's head to "finish her" because he could not bear to see her in the agony caused by the stomach wound.

A policeman said Kilbon told him after the woman's death:

"I do not consider that I committed murder."

A defence medical witness said Tuesday either of the two wounds would have been fatal. Dr. Doyle, a University of Toronto specialist in psychiatry and neurology, was asked by the Crown whether the bullet which entered Mrs. Kilbon's temple, fracturing the skull on both sides, would cause death.

"I could say it could," he replied. "But even with such a serious head injury, it is possible for a patient to survive."

Patients Have Lived

Ordinarily, a person suffering such a head injury would die, said Dr. Doyle. But there were cases in which a patient lived despite a bullet in the brain. It depended on the damage to particular parts of the brain.

Dr. Doyle's earlier testimony was similar to that of a pathologist who testified Tuesday for the Crown.

Dr. Doyle said the wound Mrs. Kilbon inflicted on herself severely damaged the aorta, a main blood vessel which supplies blood to the lower limbs. The main vein return to the heart also was pierced by the bullet which entered her stomach, he said.

"The effect of the damage to these blood vessels would be instantaneous collapse and I would expect the patient to die very quickly. There would be no hope of recovery. . . I would expect a patient to die within 10 minutes.

"The shot through the aorta would be fatal without any doubt."

Dr. Doyle said he examined Mrs. Kilbon last Oct. 2, less than a month before her death, and found she was suffering from Huntington's corea, a nervous disease which degenerated important nerve cells in the brain.

"It is a hereditary disease and leads to depression and a tendency to suicide," he said. "She admitted to me that she wanted to die and said she had made an attempt at suicide. I recommended to her husband that she be committed to a mental institution."

The Crown's case against Kilbon was completed Tuesday in one day.

Defence Witnesses

Opening the defence this morning, Dr. Arthur M. Doyle, Toronto, was the first witness called by J. J. Robinette. Dr. Doyle describe the aorta, which was pierced by the bullet that entered the abdomen of Mrs. Kilbon as one of the main blood vessels of the body, supplying blood to the lower limbs. The main vein which returns to the heart was also pierced by the abdominal bullet.

"The effect of the damage to these blood vessels would be instantaneous collapse and I would expect the patient to die very quickly. There would be no hope of recovery. Rupture of these blood vessels immediately causes a complete reduction of the blood pressure and collapse of the whole circulatory system. I would expect a patient to die within 10 minutes. The shot through the aorta would be fatal," Dr. Doyle said.

Dr. Doyle who specializes in psychiatry and neurology, is on the staff of the University of Toronto.

"I examined Mrs. Kilbon in my office on Oct. 2, 1949 and found that she was sufering from Huntingtons Corea, a nervous disease which degenerates important nerve cells in the brain which control the movement of th limbs. The patient's movements often become so violent that a patient will fall down. In earlier stages of the disease, the patient is able by mental concentration to control to some extent the muscular spasms. In time the grey cells become affected and if the patient does not die from something else, mental illness occurs.

"It is a hereditary disease and leads to depression and a tendency to suicide. She admitted to me that she wanted to die and said she had made an attempt to commit suicide. I recommended to her husband that she be committed to a mental institution," testified Dr. Doyle.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman asked Dr. Dolye the effect of the bullet that entered Mrs. Kilbon's temple, fracturing the skull on each side, and if it would cause death.

"I would say it could. But even with such a serious head injury, it is possible for a patient to survive," said Dr. Doyle. Ordinarily they would die, he said, but there were cases where a patient lived with a bullet in the brain. It depended on what brain structures had been penetrated.

"Would the bleeding in Mrs. Kilbon's head indicate the heart was functioning when the head wound occurred?" asked Mr. Deyman. Witness replied that it would depend on the extent of the hemorrhaging.

"Could one tell which wound caused death," His Lordship asked.

"An examination would not tell exactly which wound caused death, but I would say that after the aorta was pierced the patient was medically dead. One final beat of the heart would be sufficient to produce the blood found in the brain," replied Dr. Doyle.

"Would the second head wound hasten her death?" asked Mr. Deyman. Dr. Doyle replied that it would.

Mr. Deyman asked him if Mrs. Kilbon was able to perform an act which would require fairly accurate muscular co-ordination. "If alone and by acute concentration, she could manage to do things that required pretty fair co-ordination," he replied.

"Could she thread a needle?" Mr. Deyman asked.

"It would be very difficult," Dr. Doyle replied. "It would only be by accident," he added.

Mrs. Bella Greene, Toronto, a school girl friend of Mrs. Kilbon said that Mrs. Kilbon told her in October last that she hoped she got to the mental hospital before she did something to herself.

E. H. Northey, Lakefield druggist, said that Kilbon was devoted to his wife.

"He was wonderful to her," witness said.

There were no crown witnesses or defence witnesses in the ordinary accepted sense of the word, Crown Attorney Harry Deyman told the jury. Rather they were responsible people who had come forward to tell the facts as they knew them. The background of the case was the happy married life of the Kilbon couple. It was evident that great sympathy had been shown to Mr. Kilbon but justice was not administered on grounds of sympathy. Mr. Deyman reviewed the details of the shooting.

Not Concerned With Motives

"No one disputes that his motives were not of the highest. We are not concerned with motives. There is no onus on the crown to show intent. It has been established that it was his intention at the time that his wife should die and die quickly. Dr. Gold told you that either wound was fatal. On that all the medical evidence agrees. Dr. Gold told you that in his opinion she was alive when the second shot was fired. Kilbon himself said that when he found his wife shot she asked him to pick her up and place her in the chair. Those were the words of a woman who was conscious and knew what she was saying. Dr. Gold was very fair and if he erred at all it was in favor of the accused. No one can actually say how long she would have survived the first wound. The only conclusions from the second wound was that it hastened her death. You may say if she were going to die anyway from the first wound, why punish this man. Would it have hastened her life by five minutes, ten, longer? Would she have lived longer?

Where can you draw the line? The law says you cannot hasten the death of anyone and there I let the matter stand," concluded Mr. Deyman.

Present Plan To Develop Cheese Market

SEIGNIORITY CLUB, Que., March 22 (CP)—The future of Canada's cheese industry depends, to a great extent, on whether you, as a Canadian, will eat the equivalent of two cheese sandwiches a week.

T. B. Cooper of the Kraft Cheese Company, Montreal, suggests this today in an address before the National Dairy Council. Mr. Cooper is a newly-elected director of the dairy organization.

With the cheese industry fearful of what will happen when the 1950 Anglo-Canadian cheese contract comes to an end in December, Mr. Cooper expresses the urgent need to expand and build up the Canadian market for cheese.

"If Canadians ate the equivalent of two cheese sandwiches per week," he says, "we would achieve a home-consumption figure of 91,000,000 pounds per year."

"We never would have to worry very much about market conditions outside our own border."

Blames Ignorance

Probably the biggest single obstacle in the path of selling more cheese to Canadians is ignorance, Mr. Cooper says.

Despite the fact that cheese is the backbone of the dairy industry, "many do not know whether the product is made of milk or of cream."

Recently, his company had a survey prepared by an advertising agency to determine how many women knew what Canada's best-selling dairy product overseas, Cheddar, was.

The name, which simply denotes plain old Canadian natural cheese, drew from 219 of the 445 women in the survey the comment that it meant sharp cheese; seven claimed it was processed cheese; 11 thought it had something to do with color; nine thought it was a trade mark and 22 thought it was a kind of cheese that was not processed.

Only 27 of the 445 women said it was simply natural cheese. The kind of cheese the British relish and are showing their delight by buying 85,000,000 pounds this year from Canada.

Another sales trouble, too, is that selling practices are "antiquated and outdated."

FOUR OF A KIND—On a farm at Matsqui, BC, 21 miles east of Vancouver, these quadruplet lambs were born. The farm is owned by D. S. Blacklock and here Miss Heather Blacklock congratulates the mother on the rare feat. The mother is a four-year-old Cheviot ewe which has taken many top honors at Fraser Valley fairs.

DP Fears Return Hangs Himself

CUSHING Okla., March 22.—(AP).—A displaced Ukrainian who apparently was so obsessed with fear he would have to return to Russia hanged himself Tuesday.

The body of Jackin Saij, 37, was found dangling from rope tied to a garage rafter.

Acting coroner H. D. Strong said Saij was confused by a radio broadcast which reported that convicted spy Valentin Gubitchev was being deported to Russia.

Mrs. Saij told Strong her husband understood little English but was an avid radio listener, attempting to learn the language.

She said he heard the word "spy" on the news report of Gubitchev and confused it with his name, pronounced "Sy." She said he thought he was intended for deportation.

Find No Overlapping Of Groups In Dartford

DARTFORD, March 22 (ENS)—The weekly farm radio forum was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Grills and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Grills. Topic for discussion was "Are there too many organizations that overlap in our community." It was agreed that there were not.

This was followed by a program of readings by Donald and Wayne Pollock, musical selections by Victor and Stanley Morrow, a contest and stunts.

A lunch was served. The president, Raymond Richardson, moved a vote of thanks to the Grills family for opening their home for the evening.

The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Muriel Darling when all men over 30 years of age will take part in the program. The lunch committee will be Mrs. George Broadworth, Mrs. Cliff Broadworth, Mrs. Arthur Ward and Irvin Atkinson.

DDGM On Official Visit To Marmora Masons

MARMORA March 22 (ENS)—Right Wor. Bro. C. D. Crosby, DDGM of Prince Edward district paid his official visit to Marmora AF and AM 222 on Monday.

A banquet was sesved in St. Andrew's Hall by the Women's Association of that church. Wor. Bro. C. R. Whittemore, master of the lodge, was toastmaster. After "the King and Craft," "Grand Lodge" was proposed by PDDGM C. H. Buskard. The toast to visiting brethren was proposed by IPM C. C. Watson. A vote of thanks to the ladies was given by Bro. Rev. J. M. Brownlie with Mrs. T. J. Bateman replying. Bro. Rev. J. M. Brownlie also submitted the junior warden's toast.

The lodge session was marked with the initiation of a candidate in which his father and father-in-law, who were among the visiting brethren, were allotted a part.

R. Wor. Bro. Crosby also addressed the brethren.

Indians Getting New Deal From Ottawa

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Canada's 135,000 Indians are going to get a new deal.

That was made clear in the Commons Tuesday when Citizenship Minister Harris disclosed that legislation establishing a new bill of rights for the Red men probably will be introduced by the government within the next month.

The question now, he said, is what procedure to follow to give Indian bands a chance to have their say on the contents of the legislation, product of a long study of the Indian question by a parliament committee a couple of years ago.

Opposition members immediately suggested what should be done to improve the Indian's lot.

The Indian question emerged as one of the salient features of what was an odds-and-ends day in the Commons. It came up as the chamber considered supplementary estimates of $65,986,459 required to close out the government's 1949-50 fiscal year.

Want Treaty Rights

John Diefenbaker (PC - Lake Centre) said Indians wanted full citizenship rights. At the same time they wanted full treaty rights preserved. The treaty rights exempt them from taxation and give they hunting and fishing privileges.

John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge), suggesting a commission be appointed to deal with complaints from Indians, said the way they had been treated was a "scandal." Treaty rights had been flagrantly and callously disregarded.

Works Minister Fournier, reporting on the cost of renovating an Ottawa residence purchased as a home for Canada's Prime Ministers, said it would take $135,000 to repair the main building and $30,000 to work on other buildinds on the property.

Because of the age of the building the government had been unable to get a final estimate of the cost.

Young People Study Hymns And Scripture

MILLBROOK, March 22 (ENS)—The inter-church young people's group met in Grace Presbyterian Sunday school rooms on Monday with Don Spicer, the president, in the chair. Paul Sanders gave a talk on hymns based on scripture, assisted by Keith McGregor, who read the scripture passages. The group sang the hymns under discussion with Christina Bland and George Ingham at the piano.

The Millbrook group was entertained on Tuesday at a St. Patrick's Day party by the YPU of St. James Church in Peterborough. Preceding the party the Millbrook young people were in charge of a devotional period. Those taking part were Anne Dawson, Paul Sanders, Helen Fallis and Don Thompson.

For next Monday the young people have reserved a block of seats for the picture, Samson and Delilah.

LOBA Raises Funds To Help Those In Need

MILLBROOK, March 22 (ENS)—The LOBA No. 1066 held a benevolent card party Monday in the Orange Hall. There were 14 tables playing progressive euchre.

Mrs. Charles Manley won the women's high prize and Mrs. Delbert Olan, the women's low. Walter Fallis won the men's high, and Donald Fallis, the men's low.

The draw on a large box of chocolates was won by Albert Olan.

The party was under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Abbott, worthy mistress, and Mrs. John Thompson, was in charge of refreshments.

Donations were made to add to the proceeds of the party.

Wallace McKee of Sudbury presented a brief on behalf of the new Ontario Trappers Association.

It asked that the present $25 bounty on wolves be doubled and made to apply to pups as well as adults. A bounty should also be paid on bear and fox.

A trapepr should not lose his licence after only one conviction without having his case reviewed by wild-life supervisors.

An applicant for a trapper's licence should be required to satisfy the Inspector of Traplines that he is capable and qualified.

Would Advance Date

Bert Taylor of Belleville asked that opening dates for deer hunting in the French and Pickerel river watersheds be the first Monday in November rather than Nov. 10.

Mr. Taylor said thousands of dollars of equipment was lost when camps were frozen in.

Lumbering tote roads no longer gave access out of the bush.

In the absence of Mr. Douglas McKay of Norwich, Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the fish and wildlife division, told the committee a petition had been submitted protesting the use of ferrets in hunting.

Clayton Glover of Windsor asked that hours of pheasant shooting on Pelee Island and Essex county be from sunrise to sunset rather than from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mr. Glover said game wardens found it impossible to prevent hunters shooting before the 8 a.m. deadline.

Raid Tax Office

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP).—Five bandits held up a South Philadelphia branch of the city tax office Tuesday and escaped with at least $17,119 in cash and some $31,000 in cheques. "They may have gotten more," said receiver of taxes W. Frank Marshall. He said the total stolen — probably in excess of $50,000—will not be known until an audit is made.

Rap Professor For Impossible Milk Solution

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Mar. 22—(CP)—A Macdonald college professor today was criticized for offering "impossible solutions" to the problem of maintaining the Canadian market for surplus milk.

M. G. Simpson of Toronto, Managing Director of Canada Dairies Limited, said certain suggestions made by Professor G. L. Burton to cut milk prices were made "probably with the best of intentions, but seemingly while not in possession of all the facts."

The Agricultural Economics professor of the Ste. Anne De Bellevue, Que., University, in a speech Tuesday before the annual meeting of the National Dairy Council, offered a variety of solutions for boosting bottled milk sales.

One of these was to grant the customer a price cut for buying more than one bottle of milk at one time. Another was reducing hauling charges from the farmers gate to the dairy plant. A third was to save by distributing less milk to homes and more to stores.

Couldn't Be Done

On the suggestion that the price on two or more bottles be reduced, Mr. Simpson said: "How on earth can this be done on the distributors margin of one-fifth of a cent per quart? Where is the money to come from? Will we charge the pint and one-quart customers more?"

"No, I do not think Dr. Burton was in possession of all the facts. And I am sure no learned gentleman would have approached this question if he realized that fluid milk advanced little more than half the advances of other foods."

Elected President

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP)—John C. Udd of Brockville Tuesday was elected president at a meeting of Sheraton, Ltd., which recently acquired control of the Cardy Corporation interests embracing five eastern Canadian hotels and a Laurentian resort. A. L. Caron of Montreal was named chairman of the board. Mr. Udd and Mr. Caron are also directors in the organization.

GOING, GOING, GUBITCHEV—Valentine Gubitchev, convicted with Judith Coplon on spying charges, boards the Polish liner Batory, in New York, bound for Russia. The Soviet engineer's 15-year sentence was suspended on condition he be deported and "never return" to the United States.

Young People's Group In Discussion On Sin

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22—(ENS) — The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith presided, in the absence of the president, at the meeting Monday of the St. John's Young People. The meeting was in charge of the culture convener. An invitation from Tabernacle YPU to have a hard time social on Tuesday was discussed.

The culture convener was Tom Fox. Hymns were followed by a scripture reading by Jack Petherick. Dr. Smith led a discussion on sin.

Ron Chapman read some humorous excerpts and a violin and piano duet was played by Gerald and Donald Young.

Walter Elliott presented two songs and Cozette Archer played the piano accordion. The remainder of the evening was spent playing games.

John Kierans Dies

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP).—John J. Kierans, 81, a Philadelphia newspaper man for a half century, and one of the first syndicated columnists, died Tuesday. He worked on the Philadelphia Record, the North American, and the Public Ledger, and for about 30 years wrote a column about theatrical people which he syndicated to 30 newspapers in the United States and Canada.

Chosen Delegate

QUEBEC, March 22.—(CP).—The General Council of Quebec Catholic Syndicates (C.C.C.L.) Tuesday night at a meeting decided to send a representative to Rome during the Roman Catholic Holy Year. Rene Belanger, vice-president of the Council and president of the Quebec Municipal Employees was chosen as the Council's delegate.

Kinsmen Hold Ladies' Night At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22.—(ENS).—The Kinsmen held their annual ladies' night at Edgewater Park on Monday which was attended by 81 people.

President Harry Ayrhart presented Past President Dr. Bruce Britnell of Warkworth, who is a member of the Campbellford club, with the Kinsmen's past president pin.

Dr. Britnell gave a toast to the ladies and Mrs. George Vice replied.

During the entertainment there were songs by Georgina DeCarrol, piano selections by Gwen Watson and Jacqueline Potter of Warkworth. George Nicholls played the piano and Gordon Bailey, cartoonist, entertained.

Song leaders were Jim [illegible] and W. Calaghan.

Sgt. at arms was Mur[illegible] Stephens. Dancing to the Edgewater Park orchestra lasted until about 2 a.m. Visitors attended from Toronto and other distant places.

At the table Grace was said by Rev. Jim Richie of Warkworth, who is a member of the Campbellford club. A turkey dinner was served.

U.R. Welcome Club At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22—(ENS—The UR Welcome Club met Tuesday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Vice-president Mrs. Ron Hazell was in charge. For the devotional period Mrs. Howard Hogle was at the piano and Mrs. Fred Rabethge read the scripture lesson.

Mrs. Howard Hogle entertained at the piano and Rosina Grills gave a reading.

A house meeting will be held April 13 at the home of Kenneth Kingston, Alma Wallace and Stewart and Helen Hay to prepare the program.

May 4 was set tentatively as the date for entertaining two clubs from other churches. Lunch was served.

Say Truman Government To Drop Seaway Opposition

WASHINGTON, March 22. — (AP).—There is strong indication that President Truman's administration has dropped plans to oppose New York State's jurisdiction over St. Lawrence seaway power—if and when developed.

If this be true, New York has scored a significant triumph in the battle of the St. Lawrence.

It means, perhaps, the end of the United States Government's efforts to federalize the power development. It lays to rest suspicions, expressed by many New Yorkers, that the Government was planning a development like the Government - run Tennessee Valley authority for the U.S. share of the St. Lawrence power.

Such a proposal is pending. It was advanced by a federal power commission examiner in making an intermediate decision denying the New York power authority a licence to develop, with Ontario, the power potential of the river.

Hasn't Acted

The commission has not acted upon the examiner's recommendation, nor is it expected to do so in the immediate future. First, the commission must hear oral arguments on exceptions to the recommendation, now tentatively set for April 5.

The change of face within the Truman administration, if such is the case, was not won without considerable effort. The behind-the-scenes struggle has been going on for months.

Herbert H. Lehman, New York's 72-year-old Democratic senator, has taken a leading part in insisting that his state be given jurisdiction over the power as provided in the federal-state accord of 1933.

Under the accord, the power facilities of the St. Lawrence are to be constructed by the federal Government and turned over to New York. The state, the accord specified, would reimburse the Government for what it spends in constructing the power works.

Fear 41 Lost

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 22—(AP)—The steamer Miranda sank Sunday 45 miles from Keelung, Formosa, with a possible loss of 41 crew members. Eight men were rescued. Two bodies have been recovered. The Miranda left Keelung for Japan Saturday with 4,600 tons of gold and copper ore en route for refining. Survivors said heavy seas caused the cargo to shift and sink the 3,275-ton vessel.

Take Sterling Payment

WASHINGTON, March 22. — (AP).—The State Department has suggested to American oil companies that they agree to accept about 70 per cent payment in sterling when they sell their oil in the British area. Informed officials said this plan was presented Friday as the basis of a "compromise" proposal to settle a long-standing argument with Britain. Most of the major oil companies, it is understood, feel Britain should be asked to pay about 60 per cent in dollars and only 40 per cent in sterling.

Talking Canada Into A Depression

In his address to the nation last night the Prime Minister warned against the danger of talking Canada into a depression. We are glad that such a warning has come from such a source, for there is a real danger that by gloomy talk, baseless forebodings and exaggeration of every temporary setback we can create a sense of misfortune in this country which will discourage a great many people and be harmful to business. Of course we cannot talk ourselves into a real depression, if trade continues to be good and the attitude of the business world optimistic. But foolish talk can blind us to opportunities and favourable conditions which lie under our noses, and it can create real discontent. As the Prime Minister said, 1949 was the best business year in Canada's history, and 1950 may not equal it; nevertheless everything points to a better business year in 1950 than this country has been used to in the past.

• • •

Talk of depression has been heard here in Peterborough. Yet a survey of business prospects in the large industries of the city makes it clear that this is going to be a very busy year in Peterborough, just as it is going to be a busy year everywhere in the country. We have our difficulties, and of these the maintenance of our export trade at the 1949 level is the greatest. But our domestic needs are still far from being satisfied, and they will keep us busy for some years to come.

• • •

The depression of the 'thirties hit Canada hard, and there are people in the country who seem to live in constant fear that those days will come again soon. But Canada's depression was part of a world depression, and there will be no repetition of such a calamity without a long period of warning. Those who are in the best position to know—statesman and industrialists—see no sign of anything of the kind. Let us put away unprofitable fears, and concentrate upon making the best of the thriving times which now exist. That is the most practical way of avoiding a depression.

Sensible Dr. Millikan!

We agree with the Christian Science Monitor that the Order of The Turning Worm should be immediately conferred upon Dr. Robert A. Millikan, the distinguished American scientist. Dr. Millikan has done what every public speaker of any experience has longed to do upon several occasions.

It appears that Dr. Millikan was recently asked to be the principal speaker at a banquet in New York. When the dinner was over there followed a succession of speakers, ending with the one who was to introduce the star turn of the evening, Dr. Millikan himself. Dr. Millikan then rose and delivered himself of this model address:

"At this hour, I fear the mind is too weary to listen to the speech I have prepared. I had intended to discuss one of the chapters of my new book, 'The Road to Peace'. Any of you who are interested may read the book."

We should like to think that Dr. Millikan had established a precedent for the guidance of all speakers in the future. He knew very well that his audience had been worn out before he was allowed to address them; he knew that he was wasting his time.

The human tolerance for oratory is limited. One good speech, lasting thirty or forty minutes, is all any group can take and maintain its interest at the highest pitch. If the attention of the audience has been vitiated by other speakers, and by long introductions, the principal speaker is at a great disadvantage.

It takes several hours of hard work to prepare a forty-minute speech. Good speeches are the distillation of much thought. It is ridiculous for groups to ask speakers to give time to the preparation of a speech, and then expect those speeches to be given under the worst possible circumstances.

We recall attending a banquet in Ottawa several years ago to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mackenzie King's leadership of the Liberal party. Everybody, it seemed, felt obliged to make a speech. Oratory was poured out in English, in French and even in Gaelic upon the heads of the numbed audience. When Mr. King was permitted to get to his feet it was almost eleven o'clock, and the endurance of his hearers was in ruins.

Dr. Millikan has struck a blow for public speakers—a much-abused minority.

Late Spring, Late Easter

Spring came in with surprising softness, as if trying to make up for her tardiness, like a young bride an hour late in meeting her scowling husband. There is no denying that spring is late—not unusually late, just late. We must have an adjective for spring's arrival. It is early, quite early, late or very late. Never on time. As a matter of fact, even the natives of this district could not say what was her proper time.

So we agree that she is late this year. Sap has not started to run into tins hanging from maple trees. Mounds of snow still blot the streets, ice breakers on the Great Lakes have hardly started to plough. Little Lady Grey and Ernest Lapointe are finding the going "tough", their skippers say, in their attempts to free Montreal harbour.

Fortunately, Easter is also a little late this year; not really very late, just a little. There are still a couple of weeks in which the sun can put on the heat for the Easter bonnets. Next year we shall not be as civil about a late spring as we are now. Next year Easter Sunday arrives two days from tomorrow, March 25. So spring had better be decently early, if it is not to be blasted in these columns.

Old Age Begins At 39

An official of the Family Welfare Association of Montreal recently said, "old age, in the commercial field, begins at 39". She knew what she was talking about, for it is part of her work to help people get jobs, and she has found that after forty the chances of changing employment, or getting a new job, are decidedly poorer than they were before. This is a depressing piece of information, but we think that it demands examination.

Would it be more accurate to say that for untrained men and women, old age begins at 39? We have made some enquiries among employers of skilled labour, and we have not found one who felt any hesitation about taking on a worker at any age up to seventy. A man who knows a trade may lose a little speed as he grows older, but there is also the likelihood that he will gain in accuracy. Further, it must be pointed out that in many skilled trades it is the union, not the boss, who decides how fast men shall work, and unions do not set an unreasonable standard. We have seen men well advanced in years doing, apparently, a thorough and satisfactory job in many kinds of skilled work, and we have not been able to discover that they felt any apprehension about losing their jobs. To name two trades only, masons and cabinet makers are so hard to find now that any greybeard who can do a day's work can take his pick of employers.

It is the untrained workers, surely, who find that age tells so hardly against them? The men and women who have never mastered any kind of work understandably find it hard to get jobs as they grow older. The ability to acquire new routines and new sets of details declines as life moves on, and the untrained worker finds that younger and quicker people are pushing him aside.

To suggest that in all kinds of work old age begins at 39 is surely an exaggeration. For many workers the best is still to come at that age.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Communists almost brought off a strike of gondoliers in Venice. But so far Petrillo has done nothing to stop them from singing at their work.

The Nash-Kelvinator people are providing their employees with a pension scheme yielding $100 a month. From such a source, this will naturally be spoken of as "a cool hundred."

A traffic specialist in the U.S.A. says the safest time to drive your car is between 4 a.m. and 7 a.m. on Tuesdays. Just the time to load the family into the machine and go for a country spin!

There are some terribly bitter fellows in the newspaper business. The Galt Reporter says: "A wife is one who stands loyally by a man in all the troubles he would have avoided if she hadn't married him". That's no way to talk about man's best friend.

From The Critic's Notebook

A FEARFUL JOY, by Joyce Carey (Michael Joseph).

THIS is the most recent of Joyce Carey's admirable novels to reach Canada. Mr. Carey, who has been a well-known novelist in England for several years, has recently burst upon the U.S.A. as a Great New Discovery, and his novel "The Horse's Mouth" (reviewed in this column about fourteen months ago) is a sensation there. Canadian readers who like to be in the forefront of modern taste with their reading would do well to get hold of "A Fearful Joy" at once, and thus to steal a march on their American friends.

Like all Carey's recent books, it is a revelation of character. The character in this instance is Tabitha Baskett, born, we gather, about 1875. Tabitha, who has the education and instincts of a lady, manages none the less to lead an exceedingly rackety life. She is, in her time, the mistress of an art connoisseur, the wife of a munitions magnate, and a hotel-keeper. The evil genius of her life, and also the source of the fearful joy which gives the book its title, is a worthless but inexhaustibly vital fellow named Dick Bonser. He turns up in her life every time it appears that utter respectability is about to claim her, and he makes quite certain that it doesn't.

The curious fact about Tabitha is that she never sees her life as the reader sees it. She never quite realizes how shady it is, in some respects, or how selfish she has been, or how old she has grown, or how her religion serves as a disguise for the fretfulness of old age. Like most of us, she has an endless capacity for self-justification and self-deception.

The book, like all Carey's novels, is extremely rich in incident. He throws away in a few lines what a more economical novelist would swell into a chapter. He hustles his story along at a rattling pace, and the book and Tabitha's life are finished before Tabitha and the reader fully realize what has happened.

It is an admirable book, by a modern master. Highly recommended. R.D.

THE OUTLANDER, by Germaine Guevremont (McGraw-Hill).

THIS book, four times a prize-winner in its native French, is a magnificent contribution to Canadian literature, and it is to be hoped that it will receive as much recognition in the English-speaking provinces as it has in France, the United States and in its native Quebec. Madame Guevremont is obviously a writer of great worth and enormous ability and has a wonderful insight into the characters of the people about whom she writes. In most precise language, the author has managed to convey a story of a very small Quebec village so intense that every action of her characters, however menial, seems fraught with a special meaning in relation to the story, and yet the setting is so peaceful that one might be in another century, in another world.

In the creation of this atmosphere Madame Guevremont has performed a minor miracle, so completely does she transport the reader beyond the noise, the stress and strain of modern towns. It is comforting to know that in this vast country of ours there still exist settlements and hamlets such as the one portrayed in "The Outlanders" where people live who ask nothing more than good weather for their harvests, good shooting to fill their tables and kindly neighbours to help pass the time during the long winters.

The story is that of the Beauchemin family. Didace is the father, a strong farmer who takes pride in his strength and ability to work his own property, and who is disgusted and ashamed of his weakling son Amable and daughter-in-law Phonsine who live with him and to whom the farm will eventually belong. Suddenly into their lives comes a stranger. He enters one night asking for a meal and a night's lodging and he stays for months. The old man takes a fancy to him—seeing in his youth and vigour himself as a young man. Together they run the farm, saw the logs, and even build a boat. The effect of the stranger's presence is felt by the neighbours too and Angelina, who is to inherit the neighbouring farm, falls in love with him. Eventually, unwilling to be tied down by marriage the stranger takes to the road again and disappears as mysteriously as he came, leaving no word.

It is later learned in the village that he has died overseas in the first world war but by that time old Beauchemin has sought consolation elsewhere; he has remarried. The primary aim of the marriage is that he shall have more sons who will be stronger and better Beauchemins, and it turns out badly and causes a final break with the weak Amable, who leaves home after a quarrel. It is in his absence that Beauchemin learns his daughter-in-law is, at long last pregnant and he and she together go to find Amable and bring him home, where he should be at the birth of his child. They are unable to find him and the journey and the search prove too much for the delicate Phonsine, who is brought to an early confinement. Whilst her baby is being born Beauchemin learns that his son has received mortal injuries in an accident at the docks where he has been working. This leaves the baby as the only hope of survival for the Beauchemin name. The baby is a girl who is named Marie-Didace for her grandfather. When the child is six the old man dies, and his death is followed almost immediately by that of his second wife. Phonsine's mind becomes impaired and as the book closes she is left in the care of neighbouring women, whilst the men all lend a hand to keep the farm from perishing and Angelina, who has mourned for the stranger and never married, takes the little Marie-Didace to live with her. It is a very simple story told with much dignity; life and death go hand in hand here and the greatest sorrow is the death of one's blood when there are no sons to carry on the name. This is a very real story of the habitants written by someone who really knows them and who understands and loves the Canadian country life. I don't think this book will be forgotten by anyone who reads it, and everyone should read it because it bids fair to become a Canadian classic. Whittlesey House may be justly proud of this publication which is now being translated into four other languages.

"DID YOU HEAR ABOUT EINSTEIN'S NEW LAW OF GRAVITY?"

Immunization From Mother's Milk

By MAURICE GOLDSMITH

IMMUNIZATION of pregnant and nursing mothers may finally put an end to the deaths of newborn babies from such killers as diphtheria and whooping cough. During the dangerous first few months of life, according to recent scientific research, infants can thus gain additional powers of resistance until they can, themselves, undergo vaccination. This new advance in the fight against disease is foreshadowed in experiments now being carried out at the world famous Pasteur Institute in Paris.

Behind this work lies the recognition that infectious diseases—a serious threat to the unborn and newly born child — must be fought through the mother.

It has been known for some time that during pregnancy there are anti-toxic substances which circulate in the blood-stream of the mother and pass into the foetus through the placenta. These give the child a natural resistance to certain infections.

However, immunization acquired in this way is not lasting. These research workers have discovered a method of securing this. It is possible to do so by ensuring that from birth the child is fed exclusively on the mother's milk.

Until this work, done by MM. Lemetayer and Nicol, it was believed that the anti-toxins which give immunity to the child were transmitted only through the placenta. New disease-protection possibilities were discovered, however, by an analysis of colostrum—a liquid secreted by the mammary glands of women shortly before the birth of a child and during the first few hours after the birth.

The presence of a large quantity of anti-toxins was found in the colostrum of mothers who had been immunized against diphtheria. These anti-toxins, it was believed could give an important reinforcement to the immunity already transmitted by the placenta.

Strong anti-diphtheria and anti-tetanus immunity, through the appropriate vaccinations, were given to several women before they gave birth. Samples of the colostrum liquid were taken from each women during the first eight and twelve hours after birth, and before the first feed. Analyses showed three things: first, that the colostrum contained variable quantities of anti-toxins; second, that each newborn child had at birth a quantity of anti-toxins proportional to the immunity received by the mother; and third, that the immunity of the child was only slightly reduced after birth when it was breast fed.

The conclusion that may be drawn is that it would be advisable to immunize all mothers just before confinement, so that the immunity transmitted to the child through the placenta is maintained by the milk. The stronger the vaccination, the longer will the immunity last. Proof of this was given when a foal, whose mother had been re-vaccinated four months after birth, kept this immunity for several months more, whereas normally the immunity ended towards the fiftieth day after birth.

These doctors at the Pasteur Institute feel that the vaccination of a pregnant woman is a guarantee that the infant will be rendered immune from certain childhood illnesses, especially in the case of tetanus for which there is no natural immunity.

Again, the diphtheria anti-toxin, which is derived from a natural source, has been discovered in the colostrum, but was not present in the milk on the tenth day. Thus, it is advisable to give artificial immunization, which is more lasting.

IT is possible to transmit, through the mother, a reinforcement to natural resistance to infection by children. "It is interesting to note that Dr. Philip Cohen of New York—states Marguerite Clark, in her book "Medicine on the March"—has urged that all mothers be inoculated against diphtheria and whooping cough during the last three months of pregnancy." This is the time when antibodies and anti-toxins pass most easily from the mother to the child. The immunity will not only protect the pregnant woman against these diseases, but will immunize her baby for the first few months of his life until he is ready for his own inoculation schedule. The shots may cause a mild local reaction in the mother but they will not harm the pregnancy.

These experiments—of which I have given but the barest outline — are of fundamental importance. First, they give authoritative reinforcement for a call to inoculate pregnant and nursing mothers. Second, they may put an end to the old controversy about the merits of artificial as against breast-feeding. This is a problem of importance mainly in the more industrialized areas of the world where artificial feeding has largely replaced mothers' milk as the principal source of sustenance for infants.

It is known that newborn children who are artificially fed are, on the whole, less resistant to illnesses such as tetanus, diphtheria and whooping cough.

In any event, the scientific case for the oft-repeated claim that "the mother's milk cannot be replaced" has been further reinforced.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

What man is he that desireth life, and loveth many days, that he may see good? Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking guile. Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it. (Ps. 34: 12-14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Do they not err that devise evil? but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good. (Prov. 14: 22.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. (Matt. 7: 21-25.)

The wicked flee when no man pursueth: but the righteous are bold as a lion. (Prov. 28: 1.)

Letter To The Editor

SAYS MARGARINE BOOTLEG PRODUCT

Sir: Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few comments about the cheap shirts that are coming in from Japan which is (termed) unfair competition and the man that had the hard cider in his basement which is called bootleg whiskey. Well here is my point. If it's unfair to bring in cheap shirts from Japan, why is it not unfair to the farmer to manufacture cheap margarine and ruin a branch of farming which is most essential to the farmer (why)? Then why was that man that had bootleg whiskey in his basement fined heavily when the large plants are allowed with the government's approval to manufacture millions of pounds of bootleg butter (why)? It's strange indeed.

Thanking you, I remain,

A READER.

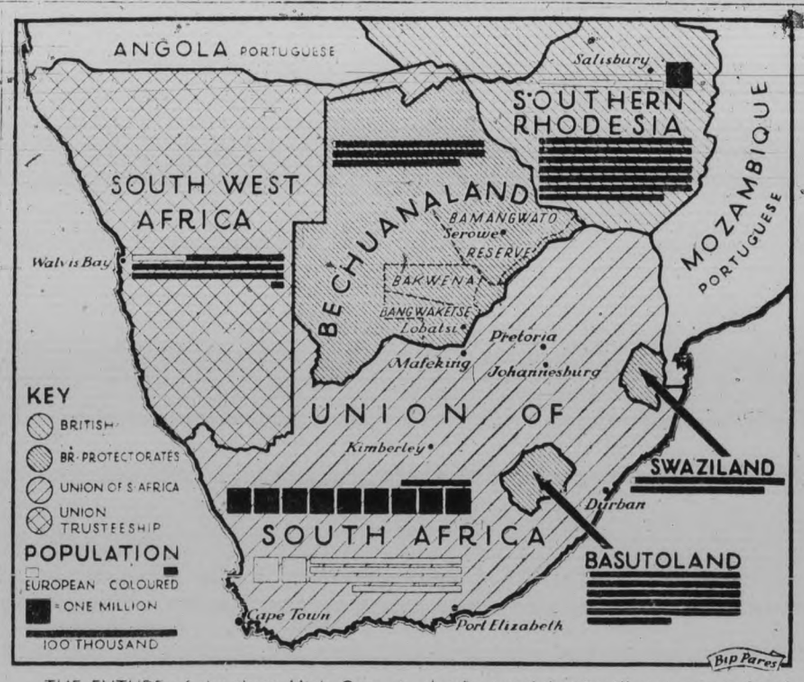
Sees Deficits Owed By CNR Made Surplus

OTTAWA, March 22 —(CP)— Canadian National Railways' recurring deficits might be transformed into sizeable surpluses under present conditions by the $1,000,000,000 capital reorganization plan proposed by the company, a CNR official indicated to the Royal Commission on Transportation Tuesday.

T. H. Cooper, CNR vice-president and comptroller, submitted a theoretical income account for 1949 showing a surplus of $13,698,000 based on the assumption that the plan had been applied and that current freight-rate levels had been in effect for all of 1949. The actual deficit for 1949 was $42,000,000.

However, Mr. Cooper did not express the view that present conditions would continue long enough to enable the government-owned company to achieve substantial surpluses even should the plan advanced last week by Donald Gordon, CNR head be put into play.

Other Factors



For one thing, he said, his figures did not take into account possible wage increases—now under negotiation — or further increases in the prices of materials. Also, there was some possibility that the company might have to shift to depreciation accounting, which would draw more money out of current revenues for the replacement of worn-out equipment.

He did show, though, that the Gordon plan would add an estimated $30,700,000 to the CNR's income account. This would be done by:

1. Eliminating annual interest payments of $21,700,000 to the Federal treasury through the shifting of government-held CNR obligations from the interest-bearing to the non-interest class.

2. Drawing $9,000,000 a year interest on a capital fund of $300,000,000 which the company wants the government to set up for it in acknowledgement of the government's "indebtedness" to the railway.

The other factors involved in swinging the 1949 deficit to an assumed surplus consisted of additional revenues from freight-rate increases had they been in effect for the full year.

THE FUTURE of the three High Commission Territories in Africa — Basutoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland — are now under discussion. Both South Africa and Southern Rhodesia have staked a claim to the incorporation of Bechuanaland, while the Union also demands jurisdiction over Swaziland and Basutoland. This map shows the relative disposition of these five territories and of the racial composition of the populations. The British Government has clearly stated that it will not agree to handing over these territories to the European-dominated States without prior consent of the colored people. Seretse Khama, Chief-designate of the Bamangwato — the dominating tribe in Bechuanaland — has been forbidden to return to the reserve for the next five years, although he is to be allowed to return to Lobatsi until his wife's child has been born. Then he will be required to leave the territory entirely.

Canadian Mayors Will Get Memos

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP)— A challenging little memo was mailed to the mayors of more than 250 Canadian cities and towns today.

The memo, published by the Canadian Welfare Council, asks a number of pointed questions intended to stimulate interest in youth welfare.

Distributed by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities to all its members, the pamphlet "Youth In Your Town" tells civic officials some of the things Canadian youth would like to see in their home-towns.

"Delinquency, the annual trek of thousands to the United States, these and other symptoms suggest that something is lacking in our planning for the welfare of Canadian youth," George Mooney, executive director of the federation, says in a letter accompanying the memo.

The pamphlet is part of the Canadian Welfare Council's youth in your town project under which community hearings will be organized across the country for the purpose of seeking what it's like to be young again.

Taking the form of a mid-century stock-taking of youth welfare, the hearings will involve teachers, parents, civic officials, youth workers and young people themselves.

Urges Consumer Cost Be Cut To Boost Bottled Milk Market

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Quebec, March 22 (CP)—A Canadian university professor suggests that one of the most promising ways of expanding the market for bottled milk is to cut costs and pass part of the cut to consumers.

G. L. Burton, professor of agricultural economics at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., told the National Dairy Council today that besides the idea of square bottles there are at least three novel sales boosters that may help build up the Canadian milk industry. They are:

1. Distribute less milk to homes and more to stores. This distribution avenue cuts hauling costs and permits cheaper milk to the consumer.

2. Grant the customer a price cut for buying more than one bottle at a time.

3. Reduce the cost of hauling milk from the farmer's gate to the dairy plant.

Five In Panel

Prof. Burton was one of five dairy officials participating in a panel discussion on the Canadian dairy future. The council is in the second day of a three-day annual conference.

Other participants were E. G. Silverwood of London, Ont., president of Silverwood Dairies Ltd., L. A. Atkins of Vancouver, manager of the Dairyland division, Fraser Valley Creasery Ltd., W. Frank Jones of Toronto, president of the Borden Co. Ltd., and J. S. Turnbull of Regina, manager, Saskatchewan Co-operative Creamery Association.

Elaborating on his cut-costs theme Prof. Burton said a recent study of distributing costs in New York shows that by distributing milk to stores, rather than to homes, a saving of 5½ cents a quart can be made.

He suggested that the current practice of charging the same price no matter how many bottles a customer buys offers no incentive to sales.

He offered instead the idea of printing a blue ticket for two quarts, an orange one for three quarts and possibly a yellow ticket for four quarts and selling these tickets for proportionately lower prices than the one-quart ticket.

As to trucking costs, "there is some evidence that these trucking charges are too high. Some modification of the way in which trucking charges are determined may be called for."

Increase Judges

VICTORY, B.C. March 22 — (CP)—Number of judges in the British Columbia Supreme Court will be increased from six to seven under terms of an amendment to the Supreme Court Act introduced in the legislature Monday. The amendment was seen as easing some of the burden of the judges, who have said recently they are finding difficulty in keeping pace with the increasing tempo of their work.

HOLIDAY IN BANFF: "Could you let me know the minimum cost of a 10-day stay in Banff Springs Hotel? How long does it take to get there? What is the return fare? Cost of a lower berth? Is there any less expensive place I can stay in that vicinity?"

A single room at Banff Springs Hotel is nine dollars per day. This does not include any meals. Restaurants are plentiful downtown and not too expensive. The trip takes three days. Costs $128.25 first-class return ticket or $100.95 tourist. Lower berth first-class is $19.05 one way. Tourist berth one way is $9.55. There are less expensive hotels than the Banff Springs Hotel. By writing to Banff Tourist Information Service you can get a list of all hotels in the district.

CIVIL MARRIAGE: "Has a civil marriage ceremony ever been performed in Ontario or Canada by a magistrate?"

No civil marriages have ever been performed in Ontario. We understand that in British Columbia and Saskatchewan certain commissioners have been appointed who may perform civil marriages.

GRADUATE PHARMACIST: "My sister, a graduate pharmacist of the University of Dublin, expects to visit me and stay for perhaps a year or two. Would she be eligible in the Tamblyn stores as a pharmacist?"

Only the Ontario pharmacy degree is recognized in this province. In some cases English pharmacists have approached the Board of Governors of the College of Pharmacy and have been given pharmacy standing. But each request from outside Ontario is handled individually and the decision made by the board.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Canada is assured of the British Empire Games in 1954, but which city will be chosen to play host still remains a mystery.

Ken Yost of Winnipeg, national secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Tuesday said bidding for the honor almost has reached a feverish pitch. Last time the Games were held in Canada was in 1930 at Hamilton.

Montreal, Vancouver and Toronto are going all-out in an effort to obtain their cities as the site. Some reports say Vancouver is prepared to put up at least $20,000 a year starting this year, to get the classic.

Montreal was slated to be the site of the 1942 Games, but lost out when they were cancelled due to the war. For that reason, many Montrealers feel their city should be given first priority for the 1954 competitoins.

Mervyn (Red) Dutton of Calgary is the new Stanley Cup trustee, succeeding the late P. D. Ross of Ottawa, it was announced Tuesday by J. Cooper Smeaton, co-trustee of the trophy representing world hockey supremacy, at Montreal. Dutton has long been prominent in hockey circles as player, manager and later as president of the National Hockey League. He filled the presidency for several years after the death of Frank Calder and refused a further appointment because of his business interests in the West. He was succeeded by the present incumbent, Clarence Campbell.

The 1950 national figure skating championships start at Washington today, and both Dick Button and Yvonne Sherman are back to defend their titles. Of the two, Button should have the easier time. He has just returned from London, where he won the international championship for the third straight time. Miss Sherman, 19, may be in for more trouble. The New York miss finished third in international competition, as compared with fifth for Sonya Klopfer, a 19-year-old New Yorker.

President Ralph Misener of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers Tuesday night announced that the club has signed its first United States football import of the season Buddy Tinsley, 25-year-old former all South-west Conference tackle and a regular tackle with the Los Angeles Dons for two years, signed a contract with the Western Interprovincial Football Union club Tuesday.

At Toronto, the National Soccer League, Western Section, has petitioned the Dominion Football Association to change champion declaration dates from July 14 to August 14 and change the Dominion Cup competition from August to the end of September. The league felt that the present method of operating the Dominion Cup competition places too much hardship on the competing teams and makes entering it a financially unsound proposition. They said moving the Cup date would build spectator interest.

Caps Swamp Flyers Reds Down Indians

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals and Providence Reds jumped into the lead Tuesday night as the American Hockey League playoffs got away with a pair of Series B games.

The Caps swamped St. Louis Flyers 7-1 while Providence downed Springfield Indians 6-4. Both series are best-of-three.

Series A, a best-of-seven affair, starts tonight between Cleveland Barons, champs of the league's western division, and Buffalo Bisons, top team in the eastern section over the season.

Omemee Victors

Omemee Hornets defeated Lindsay Bowlaway Juveniles in Omemee by a score of 8 to 4. Omemee paced by the Fox brothers and Stephenson enjoyed a 4 to 1 lead to end the first period increasing this by an equal score to lead 8 to 2 at the end of the second period. For the final Lindsay outscored the winners 2 to 0 and had the better of the play. Six penalties for minor infractions kept the Hornets buzzing to keep the enemy from their hive.

Line-ups;

Lindsay: goal Williams; defence Phillips, Hayes; centre Caley; wings, Hickson, Johnson; alternates, Truax, Spratt, Finlay, Wakelin, Lockwood.

Omemee: goal Lanciault; defence Brown, Fisher; centre H. Fox; wings D. Fox, Stephenson; alternates: Crawford, Evans, Morrissey, Lytle, O'Donnell.

Referees—Orlie Crawford, Jas. Evans.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Many more or less amateur sports clubs in the province are viewing with alarm the government intimation that 15 per cent of gates may be taxed "all sport where it can be proved that athletes are paid to play." That includes quite a few sports going under amateur guise, but how are you going to prove it? And if the sleuths do put the finger on certain branches of athletics—notably senior and junior "A" hockey, baseball ala intercounty, some lacrosse clubs, Big Four football, etc.—it might prove quite a job collecting sufficient to make it worth while. However, if the tax is imposed, it's bound to hurt major sports and do a whole lot of damage to minor ones, as well as hitting Mr. John Fan harder.

* * * * * *

Strikes us this is strictly a nuisance tax, aimed at those who play or watch games. This same government spends a lot of money every year on encouraging athletics as part of a physical fitness program. A tax on amateur athletics—even where they aren't as amateur as they might be—will work against the governmental policy. It will create further deception, also, which can hardly be considered in the best interests of sportsmanship. Perhaps we are just one of the many who are born tax dodgers where the government is concerned, but we are definitely against the idea.

Second Of The Sawoffs

Legionnaires leave at six tomorrow night for Oshawa to play Markham Millionaires at 8.30 there in the second of their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" playdown serial. A lengthy affair, but it should prove right interesting to the fans in both cities. Likely a real tight battle before a winner is declared to step into the provincial semi-final series. They play again in the Motor City on Saturday, the fourth fray being back here next Monday. A fifth or seventh deciding game will come to Peterborough, as Legion won the toss, and this might prove highly important next week.

* * * * * *

Sarnia Sailors ousted Chatham as Brantford took London, so it looks like Sarnia and Brantford in one bracket of playoffs, while Beaches of Toronto meet the Dixie group winner up in that area, as Legion and Markham strive to knock each other out. These appear to be the only senior "B" survivors now, and it just might still happen that the Markham-Legion winner would go into OHA finals, instead of semi-finals. However, the Markham officials says this present series up this way is just a quarter-final one. Well, we won't worry unduly about that—main thing is to get by the classy Millionaires, and then look toward the next hurdle along the playdown path. They all really count from here on in.

Deciding One On Friday

Don Anderson advises that the fifth and deciding game of the OHA junior "B" group finals will be played in Oshawa on Friday night at 8.30. Both the Bees of Oshawa and the local IOOF-ers have won two games on home ice in this best-of-five series, and the Motor Citizens have the odd game on their surface for finishing first in the schedule. They were mighty lucky to beat Bun Kingdon's hustlers in their last start down that way, and Oddfellows can capture the group crown Friday if they play their best hockey. It will be a hot old game and no doubt will draw some fans from here, as well as a hefty Oshawa turnout.

* * * * * *

Word comes from Tom Staves that the OHA intermediate "B" playdown series between Marmora and Lakefield Indians will be a best-of-five affair. It opens tonight in Belleville, with the second game here Friday at 8.30 p.m. in Civic Arena. Rest of the sawoffs arranged when and where ice is available, as natural ice is again taking a beating around the district. These are the two classiest clubs in the surrounding district and should stage a swell series. Quite likely a lot of TVL and Lakefield fans will come to town Friday for the battle here. Indians are minus Ernie Nicholls—out with an injury—but have a lot of familiar faces in Joe Blewett, Percy Nicholls, Les Burton, Jack Jopling, etc.

Rickey Makes Best On Deal

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of Brooklyn Dodgers, seems to have plucked another ripe plum from a fruitless orchard.

The Dodgers' Deacon, in a deal with the Philadelphia Athletics last winter, acquired pitcher Dick McCahan, a young gent with some promise but a supposedly dead right arm.

Rickey gave up third baseman Kermit Wahl from the Montreal farm. In addition, Rickey pried $25,000 from Connie Mack to complete the deal.

McCahan had a respectable 10-5 record with the A's in 1947. He even hurled a no-hit, no-run against Washington. But his arm went sour in 1948 and he was sent to Buffalo of the International League last season. It was there Rickey picked him up.

Assigned to Brooklyn's Montreal farm team, McCahan pitched for the Dodgers Tuesday, against Fort Worth. And off his performance, Rickey has come up with another "steal."

McCahan hurled the first three innings, allowing one infield hit and one run. He fanned three and walked three. But, more important, after the workout the husky hurler remarked: "I haven't thrown like that in almost three years."

Top Mat Talent For Local Fans

Steve Stanlee

Peterborough and district wrestling fans continue to have top mat talent served up to them in entertaining dishes and this Thursday night in the Brock will be no exception. Fred Atkins, the Australian heavyweight champion is in the main bout here against tough Warren Bockwinkle, of St. Louis, in what will likely be a hard slugging match from start to finish. Bockwinkle wrestles real rough but the Aussie is not only a clever big man with plenty of ring experience, but he can trade blows with the best of them. Nor does he hesitate to do so, if opponents want it that way.

Huge Hi Lee faces Steve Stanlee in the semi-final and this, too, ought to be a heated bout.

The prelim has Johnny Barend tacking Al Korman, a real ring villain. It should be a standout show.

BOWING OUT—Jockey Ted Grantham flies from the saddle as his mount Causeway buries head and forelegs into the ground during the running of Richmond Handicap in Hurst Park, England. Austerity, 5, with George Kelly aboard, runs by safely and unimpressed.

Thinks Rookies May Determine Ball League Race

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 22, (AP)—The coming National League baseball race, says Billy Meyer of Pittsburgh Pirates figures to be so tight that the emergence of a single brilliant rookie for any one of several contending clubs could determine the outcome.

And, adds the silver-thatched pilot of the Pirates with a trace of annoyance, it is about time that the post-war world produced a few youngsters of genuine big league calibre.

"I don't know where they are, but they're bound to come along pretty soon," said Bill. "The best of the old timers are going over the hill. Where are the good young ones who are going to take their place?

"Maybe this will be the year. Maybe I'll find that I have a couple of great boys, and if I do we could be right up there in the race. The league is that closely balanced. If I don't find them. . . ." He left the sentence dangling with an expressive shrug.

Bill said he "supposes" that everybody will pick Brooklyn to do it again, but makes it plain that he doesn't consider the Dodgers one of the great ball clubs of all time. He feels, rather, that they sneaked in last year while Boston Braves were fighting among themselves and St. Louis Cardinals were nursing their aches and injuries.

"Look where the Phils finished" he remarked. "Third. And just because they had some good youngsters who were in, there hustling and didn't care anything about the reputations of the pitchers they were facing. Actually, they're not a solid ball club. Eddie Sawyer did a great job with them."

"The bigger the better" doesn't always make sense!

Why pay for what you'll never need? . . .

WHY pay for extra seating space you seldom use? A Hillman has ample room to meet all your family's normal driving needs—with comfort. It's easier to park, too—and takes far less garage space than bigger, bulkier cars.

Let's consider safety! Any engineer will tell you that good balance, not dead weight, keeps a car on the road. That's why a Hillman handles and steers so beautifully. And in an emergency, it's not mere size that counts—it's heavy-gauge steel and one-piece frame and body construction. The Hillman has both!

Let's consider economy! Why use 100% more gas to haul an extra ton of useless weight? The Hillman's new, bigger, "PLUS POWER" engine packs plenty of power for smooth get-aways, easy hill-climbing and speedy highway cruising. You get all this with a gas consumption of up to 35 miles per gallon!

The Hillman is here to stay! A permanent, constantly increasing network of Parts and Service outlets is serving thousands upon thousands of happy, enthusiastic owners from coast to coast.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Mercurys Likely Capture Crown

LONDON, March 21 — (CP) — Edmonton Mercurys—barring a 1,000-to-1 upset today—have won back the world amateur hockey title for Canada, but they plan no let-up in the final game with Sweden.

As far as the westerners are concerned, the contest will be something of a grudge match. They want revenge for the only defeat they suffered on the Continent in their pre-tournament swing, a 5-3 reverse in Stockholm early this month.

"We played in slush two inches deep that night," Edmonton coach Jimmy Graham recalled. "They must have shut off the freezing unit to get it that soft. Two nights later, in the same weather and the same rink, the ice was hard as concrete.

"We're going all out to whip the Swedes. We want to beat the hell out of them—and you can print that."

The game is scheduled for 2.45 p.m. EST and it is expected the world cup will be handed to the Mercurys immediately after the contest.

Only a crushing defeat by the Swedes, enough to reverse the whole goal average trend, would give second-place United States a chance to nose out Canada—if the Americans piled up a fat win over Norway.

His Ticket Drawn

COLDWATER, March 22 (CP) —A 42-year-old barber, Fred Hawke, was notified Tuesday that he had drawn Caughoopy on his ticket in the army and navy sweepstakes for the running of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, Eng., Saturday. Mr Hawke is married and has two daughters, Sharon, six, and Glenda, three.

Leafs, Canadiens Collide To Decide Second Place

By HARRY ECCLES

Two of the four teams in the Stanley Cup playoff can relax until the cup semi-finals open March 28. They're Detroit Red Wings, who have clinched the National Hockey League title, and New York Rangers, who got the fourth and last playoff spot by an eyelash.

But the two others are tied for second place, and Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens promise to pack Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens to the roof when they collide tonight. Players on the team finishing second each get $500 from the league, while players on the third-place team get $350.

The money angle isn't nearly as prominent as the fact that the team finishing third will have to meet Detroit in the semi-finals. Neither Toronto nor Montreal is anxious to tackle Detroit in the cup openers.

Maple Leafs brought up five players from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League for the closing drive of the season.

Canadiens reach Toronto today with coach Dick Irvin reportedly worrying over various injuries. But Canadiens have an edge over the Leafs this season, with five victories against four losses, plus three ties.

In other games tonight New York Rangers are at Detroit, and Chicago Black Hawks are at Boston.

Score Every Period

At New York Tuesday night the Hawks scored in every period to beat Rangers 6-3. Their goals were evenly divided between Bep Guidolin, Bert Olmstead, Gaye Stewart, Doug Bentley, Gus Bodnar and Roy Conacher. Goal-getters for the Rangers were Ed Slowinski, Tony Leswick and Dunc Fisher.

Rangers suffered a severe setback to any hopes they may have in the cup playoffs when centre Edgar Laprade received a knee injury. Laprade had only recently returned to action after missing nine games, and Tuesday night suffered torn ligaments in his left knee. It is expected he will be out of action for the rest of the season.

Nova Scotia Discusses Unemployment

By The Canadian Press

Unemployment occupied the Nova Scotia legislature Tuesday as the seaside province house opened its new sitting and joined other legislatures now in session across the Dominion.

The speech from the throne announced plans for public works projects which included new highways, bridges and schools. The speech said unemployment is "of greatest concern" to the government.

Robert Stanfield, making his debut as Progressive Conservative leader challenged the Liberal government's contention that most unemployment was caused by conditions beyond provincial government control.

The Quebec Union Nationale government came under the fire of Liberal leader George Marler who said it keeps provincial taxation higher than any other Canadian province by over-spending. Opening debate on the budget speech he said Quebec taxation amounts to $44.30 per capita, twice the figure it was when the government came into power in 1944.

Raps Sales Tax

The throne speech debate ended in the New Brunswick house when opposition leader Hugh Mackay said that a provincial sales tax, if imposed, would be "one of the most synical actions ever carried out by any government."

(There has been no government comment on widespread recent rumors that such a tax is planned.)

The slow-moving budget debate continued at Charlottetown where William Hughes (L—5th Kings) said future federal grants based on the per capita income of the provinces should be considered seriously at the forthcoming Dominion-provincial financial conference.

NEW AUSSIE INDUSTRIES

Since the end of the war, 38 industrial projects, each involving expenditure of at least £1,000,000 ($2,400,000) have been announced in Australia.

CONFERENCE PERSONALITIES—Some 300 Canadians and Americans are taking part in the American College of Surgeons meeting at the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal. Rev. Hector Bertrand, of Montreal, president of the Catholic Hospital Council, centre, was moderator at a discussion of nursing problems. Spaak Requests Leopold Stay Away From Belgium

BRUSSELS, March 22—(Reuters)—Belgium's former Socialist Premier, Paul-Henri Spaak, who led the drive against exiled King Leopold's return Tuesday night appealed to the King to stand down in favor of his son, Prince Baudouin, "around whom all Belgians will rally."

Spaak advised the King to stay away from the country and be content with the "moral victory" of a majority in the recent referendum. Spaak's appeal was published as an open letter in Socialist newspaper Le Peuple.

Formation of a new Belgian cabinet was held up Tuesday, apparently by hardening Liberal opposition to the return of Leopold.

Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens, whose Catholic-Liberal coalition cabinet fell Saturday because of lack of agreement on the King's return, had announced earlier he would form a new coalition team. His hopes were dashed Tuesday after the Liberals issued a communique.

But the premier did not rule out a second coalition. Asked if such a solution still was possible, he said: "Many things are possible." He denied that he planned an early trip to Switzerland to see the King again.

Delaying Tactic

Circles close to the government said a Liberal call for party discipline along the lines of the party's official opposition to the King's return was regarded as a "delaying tactic" by the anti-Leopold faction within the party.

But Spaak has been given a free hand by his party's fiercely anti-Leopold chairman, Max Buset, to negotiate with Eyskens on a solution in the national interest, it was learned.

The fact that the Socialist Party has given Spaak a free hand implies a softening of its standpoint and probably acceptance of a formula providing for the King's return for a limited period only.

He would then be succeded by 19-year-old Baudouin, Duke of Brabant.

Hockey Fan Topples Out Open Train Door

WINCHESTER, March 22 (CP)—George Jennings, 27, of Winchester, was recovering in hospital Tuesday from injuries suffered when he toppled through an open door of a moving train at nearby Merrickville, Ont.

Jennings was one of many hockey fans returning from the Ottawa St. Pat's-Inkerman Rockets hockey game at Smiths Falls on the Canadian Pacific Railway "hockey special" Sunday night.

He was brought to hospital here suffering from a badly injured shoulder, a painfully split left ear and undetermined head injuries. His condition is not serious.

Indian Trade Possibilities Under Review

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

India's import policy for the first half of this year is summarized in the current edition of the India Commercial News, issued by the India government trade commissioner in Toronto.

Says the News:

Capital goods and machinery essential for developing industry once again enjoy a high degree of priority. There is a more liberal policy for raw materials than in the previous half-year. Raw materials such as raw silk, non-ferrous metals and heavy chemicals will be allowed entry more liberally if these come from soft currency areas.

Need for drugs and surgical instruments is recognized. High priority is given to newsprint. Import of motor parts will continue to be permitted from all areas.

Interested Buyers

The News reports inquiries from Indian firms interested in buying in Canada silk bolting cloth and woven wire cloth for flour milling machinery. Other Indian firms are interested in selling here raw wool, tanned skins, spices, textiles, leather, piecegoods, yarn and embroidered goods.

Other items:

Considerable interest has been aroused by the possibility that India may be able to export coal to Canada.

Large deposits of bauxite (from which aluminum is made) have been discovered in the Bombay presidency with total reserves placed in the neighborhood of 30,000,000 tons.

Nice Business

Canada has been doing a very nice post-war business with India, though it is threatened by currency difficulties and the fact that the balance of trade has been very much in Canada's favor. In 1949, for instance, Canada sold to India goods worth $72,551,000 and bought from her goods worth $26,233,000, leaving a favorable balance for Canada of $46,318,000.

Some of the more important Canadian sales to India in 1949 were locomotives and parts, automobile parts, copper ingots, bars and billets and electrical apparatus. Our chief purchases there were tea and jute, the latter a plant fibre used for canvas and cordage.

Towne Togs Win By Single Point

Though losing in St. Catharines by a 33-26 score last night, the local Towne Togs took their LOBA intermediate "B" semi-final cage series over the Merry Macs of that city by a single point. The round score was 59-58, the Togs' lead here just barely holding out to give them the series in a thrilling return playoff joust. The happy local lasses arrived back in Peterborough around five this morning.

Hy Smith's squad faced a tough task on the strange floor and after such a long trip, but they fought furiously in a fine showing as tension mounted toward the end. The good St. Kitts' team really turned it on and began whittling down the Togs' lead, making it a real close fit in the final few minutes. The Togs now go into provincial finals.

A Large Crowd

A huge crowd saw the scrap, which was 6-6 in the first quarter and later 20-10 for St. Kitts as they started a puzzling criss-cross system. Early in the third, the Saints went up on the round by five points but Togs changed their style in the fourth to a person-to-person defence and it paid off. Dot Callan, Joan Dunk and Polly Stewart came through with baskets to give Togs a point lead. They went further ahead as they pressed but St. Kitts came back with four tall forwards out in the final seconds. Time out helped Togs and they held a point lead at the finish.

The crowd gave Togs a cheer in their come-back fight in the third, as they hadn't the size but showed plenty of scrap. They got nine of 22 fouls as Merry Macs got 15 of 31. The scoring was spread around for the winners, with no individual stars, the whole crew going well. V. Cole and H. Jenkinson topped the losers. Teams:

Togs—D. Callan 5, M. Kennedy, J. Dunk 3, J. Vass 8, D. Saunders, B. Stewart, J. Castle 2, P. Stewart 7.

St. Catharines—A. Gannon 3, A. Cole, H. Jenkinson 8, D. Gayden 4, M. O'Flahert 3, V. Cole 13, S. Cooke 3.

Later in the season, Gehrig withdrew permanently after 2,130 successive league games, crippled by a form of paralysis.

"My Irish Rose" Makes Hit At Sacred Heart

By JILL BURRIDGE

The club room of the Sacred Heart Church was packed beyond its capacity Tuesday night for second of two evening performances of an Irish comedy, presented by the Young People's organization of the church.

The play My Irish Rose, was a light-hearted 3-act comedy about an Irish country colleen who marries into wealth and title, and faces new problems of high society life in the city of Dublin. Of course, it takes her unspoiled Irish spirit and courage to see her triumphantly through it all.

The cast had a sympathetic and good-natured audience, and responded by giving enthusiastic performances. As the Irish Rose herself, Doreen Coss had a charming personality and a good voice that was pleasant to hear. Theresa Walsh as the maid Pegeen, and Ray Fitzgerald as "the laziest man in County Kildare," Shawn McGilly, got a particularly good response from the audience, with their broad brogues and jolly Irish humour.

The group made excellent use of their very small stage facilities and both settings were simple and effective. The first act, a country garden, had a genuinely sunny outdoor effect; the second act really did suggest a well-appointed room in a wealthy home, although the minimum of props were used. Costumes were well planned and executed, and on the whole, the play was as easy to watch as it was to hear.

Sprightly Music

There were additional aids to the spirit of the evening, notably the sprightly Kerry Dance in the second act, performed by the cast with swirling skirts, laughing voices, and lively fiddle accompaniment. This was something of an achievement on the tiny stage. The use of Irish music to begin and close each act added a pleasant flavour.

Misses Margaret and Olive Chretien entertained during the intermission with two brief duets. Their voices were unaffected and refreshing, and well balanced. The audience also heard numbers by the members of the Peterborough Accordian Club.

In the cast were: Tom Murray, as Colum McCormack; Clare Grady, as Maurice Fitzgerald; Paul O'Dette as Terry Creigan; Kevin Hurley as Archibald Pennywitt; Clark Ferren as Michael Pepperdine; Ray Fitzgerald as Shawn McGilly; Velma Bell as Ann Mary McCormack; Betty O'Shaughnessy as the widow Hannigan; Margaret Fitzgerald, as Eileen Fitzgerald; Marie Grady, as Lady Agnes; Theresa Walsh, as Pegeen; and Doreen Coss, as Rose Creigan.

Greatest Threat Not Understanding

Not only World War III, but numbers four, five and six, menace the peoples of the world unless they can begin to understand each other, Richard G. Lewis, editor and publisher of the Canadian Broadcaster and Telescreen, said in an address to the Sales and Advertising Club Tuesday night.

Far more than atomic and hydrogen bombs and all the other horrors that have been thrust upon us in the name of civilization, our inability to achieve this understanding is the reason why there are those who feel that here is their cue to utilize their hateful and destructive 'isms and 'ologies to gain domination of the world by subordinating it, by force of arms, to their will, Mr. Lewis said.

Need True Union

He said it now appeared to be too late to try to understand these belligerent people, meaning Russia and its satellites.

Because of this it was vitally necessary that a truly united association of nations show them the world wants peace, but that if they want to make trouble, it is there, ready and waiting for them, he added.

But the belligerents look out at the rest of the world and see the people divided. They see family life split up in divorce courts by nothing but lack of understanding.

The belligerents see churches torn to rift by trivial matters of ritual . . . that they defeat their whole purpose."

Management and labor are constantly at each others throats and almost every country is avidly eyeing its neighbours' borders.

It was just such conditions in the world which encouraged Kaiser Wilhelm and Hitler to launch their attacks, Mr. Lewis declared.

Great Lack

Only lack of understanding with one another, in the home, in the factory or in God's great universe, can precipitate the kind of misery and disaster that has been going on so long that the children of many of you, born in the last 45 years, believe it to be an essential part of and parcel of this unhappy world, where plans must be qualified with some such phrase as: 'Unless we have another war,' the speaker said.

This understanding must be promoted by each individual through his home, church and social life. The individual's life should be "as productive, as fruitful, as happy as you make it. That's the starting point for world peace," Mr. Lewis declared.

Mr. Lewis was introduced by Russ Baer and thanked by Toby Westbye.

Movie Stars Have Own Ideas Of Oscar Plan

HOLLYWOOD, March 22 (AP) —Oscar, who is Hollywood's biggest target better start ducking again.

The Academy Awards affair which will be held tomorrow night is Hollywood's most criticized as well as its most publicized event. Everybody has his own idea of how the oscarizing should be handled. So the AP Hollywood Forum put this question to a number of film performers:

"How do you think the Academy Awards can be improved?"

Ida Lupino—"I think it's time the public was let in on the voting. After all, the audiences are the final judges of motion pictures. Let the industry pick the technical awards, but leave the major selections to the movie goers."

Ronald Reagan—"How can we improve the Academy Awards? Improve pictures."

Sentimental Choice

Lizabeth Scott—"Hollywood is full of sentimental and loyal people who are apt to vote for sentimental reasons rather than for real merit. The awards might be more accurate if film critics all over the world were included in the voting. However, that would make the academy more impersonal I see nothing wrong in voting for sentimental reasons. I do it myself."

Lucille Ball—"Many great performances are overlooked because they are given in obscure pictures. We should get a chance to vote on all pictures and performances, whether it's a western from Republic or an epic from some other studio."

Mark Stevens — "Academy Award will never be completely fair because the voting is sentimental and prejudiced. There's no way of eliminating the human element. An actor gets a vote because he needs a break or loses a vote because someone doesn't like him. Voting is often on the basis of personality, which is contrary to the purpose of the academy."

Becoming Problem

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP) — Dr Charles U. Letourneau, superintendent of the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital here, said Tuesday that the ever-growing number of handicapped persons eventually will "lead us to ruin unless something is done about it." Addressing the annual meeting of the occupational therapy centre, Dr Letourneau said "we now are faced with a serious social and economic problem which we must solve in the interests of our own self-preservation.

To Spend 10 Million

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton told the Commons Tuesday approximately $10,000,000 will be spent on the purchase from the United States of component parts of the American-designed F-86A aircraft fighter to be built in Canada. Replying to E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops), he confirmed press reports that American jet engines, radio and radar apparatus and armaments still on the secret list will be purchased for the construction of the F-86A.

Overcome By Fumes

DETROIT, March 22 (CP) — Eighteen persons were given hospital treatment Tuesday night after carbon monoxide fumes swept over a crowd of nearly 300 bowlers in a Dexter Boulevard bowling alley. Four of the injured were rendered unconscious by the fumes. In all, 35 persons were affected by the fumes. One-third of them fainted in the alleys. Most were teenage girls.

IF YOU CAN'T GO TO SCHOOL, the teacher comes to you. That's the kind of treatment young pupils at the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal, get—and they love it. These three youngsters are having an afternoon arithmetic session with one of the three regular teachers, Miss Joyce Wood.

Polish Government To Seize R.C. Church Properties

By JOHN MILES
(Special to The London Observer and Peterborough Examiner)

LONDON, — At least 25,000 monks and nuns in Poland will be affected by the Government's decision to expropriate church farms and estates of 250 acres and upwards. At the same time the Primate and 21 Catholic bishops who control large ecclesiastical estates will be forced to leave them and see their lands turned into collective farms.

The exact amount of land thus affected has not yet been disclosed. But in 1945, when the Government, for fear of embittering public opinion, left church land undivided, their total acreage was estimated to be about half a million.

Of this, the bishops were stated to control some 150,000 acres and the various monasteries and convents about 200,000. The rest belonged to parish clergy and was divided into small holdings. These are not included in the present government measure.

A special characteristic of the Polish countryside, especially in South-Eastern areas, was the large estates owned and managed by monasteries and the even larger ones belonging to convents. It was an age-old custom amongst the Polish nobility that unmarried daughters had to enter convents, bringing their portion of land with them as an endowment.

In this way some of the convents became wealthy land-owning institutions. Several convents in Eastern Poland owned thousands of acres of arable land and valuable timber-producing forests. Their wealth dated back to the 18th century when hundreds of the sons of Polish noblemen fell in the battles with the Cossacks, and the daughters of the rich noblemen in the area had no alternative but to remain single and in the end enter convents.

Action A Warning

The Polish Government's decision to nationalize these lands after five years of hesitation is another drastic step against the Catholic Church. It is — in the words of the Polish press — a warning to the Matholic heirarchy and retaliation for the firm opposion of the bishops to the Communists and their constant loyalty to the Vatican.

It is significant that the bill to seize the larger church estates was introduced into the Sejm (Polish Parliament) only a few weeks after the issue of a Pastoral letter in which the church leaders denounced the government for their arbitrary and oppressive policy towards the Catholic Church. This letter greatly infuriated the Communists who did not expect to be challenged with such firmness by the leaders of the church.

But there were also other reasons why the Government adopted this policy, not the least of them being the attitude of the Kremlin, where Polish Communists have frequently been chided for tolerating the possession of large estates by the princes of the church. When the Polish Premier, M. Cyrankiewicz, visited Moscow last year he was asked, it is said, why in the whole area "from Stettin to Archangelsk it is only on Polish soil that the church owns such large estates."

Approved In Moscow

The bill that M. Cyrankiewicz has now introduced into the Sejm for the seizure of these lands will have the wholehearted approval of Moscow. At the same time it will deprive the church of its main source of income.

Furthermore, by turning the income from these estates into a special fund to pay "deserving patriotic priests" — as the new bill expresses it — the regime will be in a position to pay handsome salaries to those of the poorer clergy who, for one reason or another, have been wavering between loyalty to the Primate and loyalty to Bierut, the President of Poland. It has long been the policy of the Communist regime to try and bribe some of the weaker and poorer clergy and thus induce them to support the new system.

The fact that many of them, the sons of land-hungry peasants, will be left with their small holdings undivided by the government bill, is also meant to be an additional bribe designed to turn them into loyal supporters of the Communist regime.

Demands Mayor Make Apology

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP). — The Ottawa City-Nepean Township "feud" over annexation settlements flared up anew Tuesday when Nepean Reeve Thomas Keenan demanded an apology from Ottawa's Mayor E. A. Bourque before re-opening the Westboro Town Hall to 20 locked-out city employees

Reeve Keenan took strong exception to a remark by the Mayor likening to the Russian blockade of Berlin, Nepean's action in locking out the city employees who staff tax offices in the hall.

The lockout action was taken Friday with Nepean officials charging the city with failure to carry out settlement terms in Ottawa's partial annexation of Nepean Township in January.

Reeve Keenan said he became aware only Sunday night, following a meeting with Ottawa city officials, of the Mayor's previous "blockade" statement and said: "Nobody is going to call me a Communist and get away with it."

He said if he had known previously what the Mayor had said there would have been no meeting with Ottawa officials at which a joint committee was set up to solve the annexation problems.

Found Innocent

BRANTFORD, March 22 (CP) —Arthur Leonard Burham, 28 Six Nations Indian farmer Tuesday was found innocent by an assize court jury on a charge of manslaughter arising out of a truck accident in which Orville Davis was killed Sept. 30. Davis was injured when thrown from the back of a truck driven by Burham when it overturned in a ditch. Davis was picked up and placed behind a clump of bushes. He was found 10 hours later and taken to hospital where he died within a few hours.

Court Orders Lumberman Pay $309 Back Wages

A total of $309.51 back wages was awarded two Apsley men, David McDonald and Raymond Caldwell, who had been employed by Ernest Caldwell (no relation) in a judgement by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., in police court Tuesday.

Ernest Caldwell had operated a lumber company in Apsley until some time near the end of 1949 when he sold it to Kenneth S. Currey, Toronto.

Representing Ernest Caldwell, W. J. Arthur Fair, K.C., argued that the two men had been paid off in full by Currey and they had no claims against his client.

Neither man was sure when the company had been sold, but presented their time book and a statement McDonald prepared showing what hours they had worked during the summer and fall and how much money had been paid to them.

McDonald said he had been paid as a carpenter at the rate of $1.25 an hour and had paid $1.50 a day board. He said $136 was still owing to him.

Raymond Caldwell testified he had been paid in full to October 15 on the basis of $5 a day as a laborer cutting in the bush. But since then payment of his wages had lagged behind and $173.51 was still owing to him.

Newspaper Awards

NEW YORK March 22 (AP) — The Geist Foundation-Newspaper Guild of New York awards were presented Tuesday to writers on New York city newspapers for "distinguished contributions" to interfaith and interracial understanding in 1949. Recipients were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt for her column "My Day"; Ted Poston and Olvert Pilat, both of the New York Post, and Seymour Marks of the Long Island Press.

Pass 77,000 DP's

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Some 77,000 displaced persons have come to Canada through the auspices of the International Refugee Organization, External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday. This total does not include D.P.S. who came to Canada privately or through other organizations.

Expect Cripps Introduce Austerity Budget

LONDON, March 22 (CP) — One day next month—only an exclusive few know the exact date—the House of Commons will listen solemnly to a two-hour exercise in economics, delivered at a rate of approximately £70,000,000 ($93,000,000) a minute.

The speaker will be Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and his text will be Britain's 1950-51 budget address.

From a red dispatch box, said to be the same one that William Ewart Gladstone used as long ago as 1860, Sir Stafford will produce a bundle of typewritten notes — the outline of a speech more important than ever before in regulating the country's economic picture.

Income tax now absorbs about 40 per cent of the national income. State spending is on a level unprecedented in peacetime.

Therefore there is more than usual intrest in how the state spends its money.

In a recent broadcast, a BBC commentator estimated that the tax collector's takings in one recent week equalled the whole of David Lloyd George's budget of 1909, and was twice Gladstone's budget of 1860.

There is general agreement that this will be another austerity budget, the third Sir Stafford has introduced since he replaced Hugh Dalton at the treasury.

Budget forecasts are usually futile—for obvious reasons the government must keep the stock exchange guessing—but early predictions are that Sir Stafford will make really determined efforts to reduce government spending.

Economies are expected in the national health service, now costing about three times as much as originally estimated.

Increased taxation is considered unlikely. In his last budget address, Sir Stafford said "there is not much more immediate possibility of redistributing the national income by way of taxation."

Even when dried indoors... EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

Surf gives you Sweeter Washes

...whiter, brighter to look at!

...fresh-air-sweet to smell!

Surf contains a wonderful detergent which not only removes every last trace of dirt and grease, but of "dirty clothes" odour, too! Your wash is really sweet and clean—and it smells that way!

Surf gets clothes so deep-down SWEET and clean you can actually SMELL their freshness—even when you have to hang the wash indoors!

But Surf does even more than that. It saves you hours of labour because, with Surf, you don't have to rinse your clothes unless you want to!

Surf—the Surf that's now at your grocer's—has the magic power of grabbing and holding the dirt in the wash-water, so when you wring out the water you actually wring the dirt out with it.

And when you don't rinse, Surf's purifying ingredient continues working in your clothes, to keep them sweeter . . . in the linen closet or bureau drawer! So, if you prefer to rinse, add a little Surf to the rinse water.

Those rich, long-lasting Surf suds do 3 times the work of ordinary washday soaps, in the hardest water. They make short work of your grimiest, heaviest things, yet, they're safe for your sheerest stockings—your prettiest dresses . . . for baby's delicate things.

So get a couple of packages of Surf and try it next washday. It's especially developed for no-rinse washing. All the Surf your grocer now has is the amazing no-rinse Surf in the same familiar package.

"ORDINARY" CLEAN! Though you may think your wash is perfectly clean, a faint "musty" odour often betrays the fact that some remnants of dirt, grease or scum are still clinging to the fibres. Rinsing won't get rid of this . . . but Surf does!

SURF CLEAN! Even without rinsing Surf removes every last trace of dirt, grease (and scum) . . . every trace of odour, too! That's why it gets your clothes so white, so bright . . . so soft . . . so wonderfully sweet to smell!

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By DON GRANT

A troop of Scouts will be organized in Eastern Ontario to join the Canadian contingent to the American Jamboree in June and July. The jamboree is the Boy Scouts of America show, and they have invited the Canadians to attend.

The camp will be held at Valley Forge near Philadelphia from June 30 to July 6 with some 40,000 scouts and leaders from Mexico to Alaska attending. Those present must be registered scouts holding the rank of 1st Class, 14 years to 18 years old as of May 15. Each Scout will have to produce a certificate of health including proof of smallpox vaccination. The cost per boy is $100.

Particulars regarding the equipment necessary is in the "Scout Leader." It would be good to have Peterborough represented and anyone interested should get in touch with their scouters and group committees. Applications should be sent to the attention of the Local Scout Association in care of W. G. Shiner. The financial part is the work of the boys concerned with the group committee and nothing definite can be stated regarding the local association giving aid at present.

PAPER COLLECTION

Another drive for paper will be made by the scouts and cubs throughout the city April 11. The people of the city have never let the boys down in this way of obtaining funds to carry on work throughout the year. The scout officials hope the citizens will support the boys. Remember, Tuesday, April 11, paper collection.

ST. JOHN'S REUNION

All former and present members of St. John's cub pack, scout troop and rover crew will be assembling April 14 for a grand reunion to celebrate their coming of age. Any former club, scout or rover who has not been contacted is asked to get in touch with Price Morris, 12 Inverlea St., at once. The present name list is incomplete owing to many addresses being not known.

St. John's troop was started in 1928 with the first boys training under present Commissioner G. E. Groombridge, then a scout of the St. Luke's troop. The cub pack started along its way that same year under the leadership of William Coleman, who died after returning from the leaders' training course at Gilwell. Frank R. Pammett then took over the position as cubmaster.

In 1938 another branch was formed, the rover crew. Mr. Groombridge left the troop to take over the leadership of the crew, with Fred Ford being promoted to the scouter of the troop.

GIVES WELCOMING HAND

The scouting hand of welcome is out to Ron Starr, back into the game with the Mark St. Church Troop. Ron has taken over the troop while their leader is away in a Toronto hospital.

ON SICK LIST

Word has just arrived that John Biddle, one of the senior boys of the St. Luke's troop, has had quite a spell of sickness and is still confined to hospital. He is coming along as well as can be expected. Good hunting, John.

CAMP RESERVATIONS

All group committee chairmen, scouters and cub leaders, should send in their applications at once, in writing to Jim Houghton, 545 Murray St., for reservations at the camp grounds. One or two are already in and applications for the use of the association tents have been acknowledged.

CUB LEADERS' COURSE

All cub leaders and interested people are reminded that the cub course is underway this evening at All Saints' Church at 7:30. Nils Norenus and Art Jackson will be on hand to give the course a hearty sendoff.

ST. LUKE'S PACK

Donald Storey led the grand howl which was followed by a ball relay. During the test work Jack Darwin and Bill Harvey were sent out to pass the message. The redflower program was performed by the Blue Six under sixer Michael Tunnicliffe. He played "Old MacDonald Had a Farm" on the flute and "O Suzanna" on the mouth organ. Peter Salonius sang "The Navy."

After the program Wilfred Lentz was presented with his 1st star; Everett English, his 2nd star; Darrell Greenly, his team players badge, and Jack Watson his artist badge.

Tests were passed by: book balancing, Donald Morrison; time, Bob Depallario; hopping, artist, collectors, George Sanderson; skipping, Fred Nurse; signalling, Everett English; boot cleaning, William McNabb, Darrell Greenly, Donald Storey, George Storey; kontos, Bill O'Neil; artist, Peter Sanderson, Darrell Greenly.

The St. Luke's Pack are sorry to lost Grant Janeway, who left the pack to live in Oakville. Grant will be a member of the St. Jude's Pack there.

ALL SAINTS' PARADE

Postponed from Scout Week, the church parade of the 5th Peterborough, All Saints' group, was held Sunday evening. Twenty-four cubs under Akela Mitchell and assistant cubmaster Woodman, 14 scouts under Scoutmaster Davies, eight rovers under Skipper Art Rose were in attendance. A company of Girl Guides under Guider Betty Jones was in the parade.

The Ladies' Auxiliary under Mrs. James Morley were out 24 strong with the scout group committee to complete the group.

The color party was composed of senior sixer Foster, scouts King and York.

Rev. William Kibblewhite welcomed the scouts to the church and in his message spoke particularly of the application of backbone in scouting principles. The scouts laws were re-affirmed. The re-presentation of the flags concluded the service.

SCOUT PROFICIENCY BADGES

The required tests and examinations passed, the following Scouts have been awarded proficiency badges by the secretary of the local association since November: St. John's, David Simpson (Winter Sportsman); All Saints', Bob Scriver, Lee Barry, Tom Krogh (entertainer's); Park vin Johnson (marksman's); Park Hill, Doug. Perrith, Ron Reynolds, Wayne Hamilton, Carlos McMillen, Bud Reynolds, Garnet Alexander, Malcolm Wiley, Fred Hillier, John Hynes (Plumber's), Ron Reynolds, Fred Hillier, Jim Ridyard (swimmer's).

CUB AWARDS

Charles Johnson, secretary of the local association announces the cub awards since November as: St. John's, Jim Baker, Bob Baker (collector's); St. Luke's, Everett English, Peter Anderson, Arthur Clarke, Terrance Mulcahy, Bill McNabb, Peter Salonius, Fred Nurse, Gordon Sanderson (collector's), Terry Reid (gardener's), David Beggs, Bob Pearce, Terry Reid, Donald Storey, Peter Hayden, Fred Nurse, Mike Tunnicliffe, Lionel Harvey, Ron Hopcroft, Terrance Mulcahy, Jack Watson, Peter Sanderson, Gordon Sanderson, Darrel Greenly (artist's), Everett English, Ronald King, Peter Hayden (homeden (homecraft), Everett English (toymakers), Mike Tunnicliffe (Swimmer's), Darrell Greenly, English (team player's); All Saints', Scott Morley, Jim Parker, Keith Latchford (team player's), Ken Auldebrooke (swimmer's), Mickey Foster (house orderly), Gar White(artist), Mickey Foster (gardener's).

SKJAK REUNION

Twenty-three members of the Skjak Rover Crew, the rovers who attended the rover moot in Norway last Summer from Canada, held a reunion at Camp Samac in Oshawa over the weekend. The boys plan to hold the reunions from time to time as well as keeping in touch with one another with a monthly newspaper.

At the Oshawa reunion, slides and movies of the trip were shown. Sunday, the boys held their own service.

Rover Jim Webb attended the affair as Peterborough's representative. Jack White, the other Peterborough rover to go to Norway, was unable to attend.

Rover Webb projected slides at the Lions Club meeting at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club Monday. He was on a Scouting goodwill trip with Rover Doug. Harris. The boys were accompanied by Commissioner Groombridge and president of the local association, B. I. Burgess.

SCOUTING AROUND

Winnipeg — Boy Scouts from various West Winnipeg troops are being formed into a Community Service Troop by RCMP Constable George F. Challoner, District Commissioner for Scouting in West Winnipeg.

Ottawa—His Excellency Viscount Alexander, as Chief Scout for Canada, has appointed Jackson Dodds, CBE, of Montreal, as Canada's first Deputy Scout Chief. Mr. Dodds, who has been active in Canadian Scouting for 25 years, has been Dominion Commissioner since 1947, a position that is superseded by the post of Deputy Chief Scout.

Flin Flon, Manitoba—To provide an artificial arm for a 13-year-old French boy, injured in an explosion of a hand grenade in April, 1945, some 16 groups of the Boy Scouts in Flin Flon are raising $150. The aid to the French boy is being forwarded through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

New Loblaw Supermarket Completed In Eight Months

Eight months from the day tenders were accepted for the construction of the new Loblaw Supermarket to the opening of its premises of business on George St., is almost a record for a structure of its size in Peterborough, or anywhere else. It is also evidence of this company's spirit of advancement from the few small self-serve stores which were first opened about 30 years ago.

The Peterborough store will have all the most modern features, a 100-foot self-serve meat counter with a meat cutting room in the basement below; streamlined grocery, fruit and vegetable counters widely spaced to provide traffic room for 175 shopping buggies and more employees in attendance to expedite busy shoppers.

To enlarge on these three features:

The meat section "card" system has been eliminated and in its place attendants will call their orders to the cutting room on an intercommunication system.

Shelf space throughout the store has been utilized to the last possible degree to make room for larger goods display stands and wider aisles.

Check-out counters have been installed at both front and rear entrances of the store to save shoppers additional walking. The fleet of 175 shopping buggies are arranged along the store's expansive plate glass front. There will be more frozen and frosted food counters and refrigerated dairy counters than are usually found in stores of this kind.

The best service in Peterborough has been assured with a competent trained staff of 75 employees under the able management of Carl Greensides. The meat department is in charge of R. Orr.

Dog Saves 4 Lives

HENSALL, Ont., March 22 (CP) —A stray dog taken in as a children's pet was credited Tuesday night with saving the lives of his "family" as flames raged through their house. Mrs. Floyd Adair was sleeping downstairs with her three small children when she was roused by the barking of the dog. She opened the door to the upstairs and was met with a burst of flame. She called the Hensell fire brigade, and guests of a reception in the town hall helped carry furniture to a neighboring house.

Awarded Scholarship

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — William A. Stickland, University of Toronto schools instructor, has be awarded the $3,000 William Pakenham memorial fellowship in education. Mr. Stickland, at present on an Ontario government scholarship at the Sorbonne, Paris, plans to use the fellowship to study Spanish at the University of Madrid next year.

OAC Professor To Speak On Roses, Lilies

"Roses and Lilies" will be the subject of an illustrated talk by Professor J. C. Taylor of the Department of Horticulture, OAC, at the YWCA next Monday night.

Secretary W. C. Wilks says "This is very special." In his announcement, he speaks of Prof. Taylor as an outstanding authority on those flowers, fluent lecturer and contributor of articles to flower magazines.

"We'd like to greet him with a full house," Mr. Wilks said, "because we know he deserves it and flower lovers will profit from his talk. Everybody is welcome — at the YWCA, corner of Simcoe and Aylmer Streets. There is no charge, but a silver collection would help defray expense."

Membership fees are coming in fast, and for this centennial year and effort, the Society is hoping for a new record in that respect.

In his boost for this meeting, Mr. Wilks quotes a verse with the following line: "Who loves not roses, knows not beauty's smile." He says that for those who are thinking of planting either lilies or roses this year, the talk by Prof. Taylor should be a great help.

Roundhouse Fire

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. March 22 (CP)—Fire gutted the Montrose roundhouse, office and stores of the New York Central Railway Tuesday night at a junction point two miles south of here. Company records and equipment of engine crews were lost in the blaze. Damage is estimated in excess of $10,000. Cause of the fire is not known.

Begins Jail Term

SYDNEY, N.S., March 22 (CP)—Dan Jack MacLean for eight years chief magistrate of this steel city, left Tuesday to begin a three-year term in the maritime penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B., for manslaughter. MacLean was sentenced Saturday, two days after a supreme court jury found him responsible for the death of long-time friend Joseph MacKinnon, 63, Sydney's registrar of voters.

OUT OF HIDING—William Nesbit (right), one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals, is questioned by Police Chief Charles Tierney in St. Paul, Minn., after Nesbit surrendered without a struggle near a cave where he had been hiding for four months. He had been spotted by a group of boys who notified police.

Many Big Producers Interested In Using Oshawa Movie Factory

By JOHN PATERSON

TORONTO, March 22 —(CP)— Canada's first big steps in the field of motion-picture production may turn out to be giant seven-league strides.

A group of Canadian financiers is behind a plan to purchase the 475-acre estate of R. S. McLaughlin at Oshawa, 30 miles east of Toronto, and turn it into a movie factory. The plan, now in blueprint stage, calls for the erection of film-processing buildings and studios for production of motion pictures for theatres, industry, government documentaries and television.

R. G. McMullen, spokesman for the financial interests, told the Canadian Press in an interview that Michael Powell and Eric Pressburger, internationally-known British film producers, are "definitely interested" in the project.

"Although the deal for the property has not been completed," Mr. McMullen said, "we can say that we have been approached already by producers in England and the United States, by advertising agencies and others interested in using our facilities for the making of movies.

Used For Rentals

"We intend to establish studios and film-producing facilities for rental to anyone interested in making movies in Canada.

"The plan calls for an entirely new approach to film producing which will make unnecessary the huge, expensive overhead often found in Hollywood and England."

A start is planned for next summer. First, full-scale production will be by the British team, noted for it's work in "Red Shoes" and other films. It may not be possible for a start on entertainment movie in 1950 but by next year it is hoped to have everything in readiness.

Until Canadian technicians can be trained to the high calibre required for important motion-picture production, it will be necessary to "import" experts, Mr. McMullen said.

Eventually, the plant will be as fully Canadian as possible.

He's Not Particular

OTTAWA March 22 (CP) — Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday in the Commons he has no knowledge of a report that Canada will buy $900,000 worth of steel in Germany. Replying to G. K. Fraser (PC — Peterborough West), Mr. Howe added: "We buy steel wherever we can. It might happen. German steel is just as good as any other steel."

Fruit Crop Down

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Canada's 1949 commercial fruit crop had an estimated value of $42,708,000, down 11 per cent from the preceding year's total of $48,149,000, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday night. Among the individual crops, only pears, cherries and apricots were higher in value. The crop in Ontario was down to $13,193,000 from $15,018,000.

No Publicity Senator Peeved

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — The way to get into the newspapers, one Senator told his colleagues Tuesday, is to talk about a cat that adopts a mouse.

The advice came from Senator Donald A. MacLennan (L-Nova Scotia) and it was inspired by an article in an Ottawa newspaper. The article, he noted, said the Senate is no longer news, that its debates are by no means outstanding, and that it may be on the way out.

Senator MacLennan proceeded to pay tribute to Senate speeches of this session and last. He had heard such facetious remarks about the Senate in the Commons. They came from people who had no "hope of getting here themselves."

Any Commons speeches about the Senate he had ever heard were "as insipid and as colorless as saltless porridge."

Returning to the newspaper, he noted that in the same edition as the article it carried an item about a Jersey City cat named Minnie adopting a mouse. That, he said, is news. That is the sort of thing to talk about to get into the papers.

Cattle Truck Overturns

MARMORA, March 22 — (ENS)—A truck loaded with 14 head of cattle overturned on the railway tracks after colliding with the rear of a train at the CNR crossing Monday. The livestock were unhurt and Keith Hayes, driver of the truck, also escaped injury.

Provincial Constable T. Lummiss of Madoc investigated.

Convict Man Of Slaying Trio

KOCIUSKO, Miss., March 22—(AP)—A jury Tuesday night convicted Leon Turner, 38-year-old white man, in the slaying of three Negro children. The jury was not able to agree on punishment, and in such cases life imprisonment is mandatory under Mississippi State law.

The State had demanded the death penalty for Turner. Defence and prosecution alike asked the jury to ignore prejudice and passion in its deliberation.

The defence had hinted broadly that manslaughter would be the correct finding in its opinion.

The verdict was one of the rare instances in which a white man has ben convicted of slaying a Negro in Mississippi.

Turner was charged with murder in the Jan. 8 pistol slaughter of Ruby Nell Harris, 4; Mary Burnside, 8; and Frankie Thurman, 12. Thomas Harris, 27-year-old tenant farmer, was wounded.

209 Ontario Bulls Compete For Ribbons

TORONTO, March 22 (CP)—Some 209 Ontario beef bulls, competed for prize ribbons Tuesday which will influence prices when the animals climb the auction block today.

In the Hereford class, Domino Monarch 13th took the championship ribbon and Old Orchard Monarch 3rd the reserve champion colors. Both bulls are owned by Earl Brand of Forest, Ont.

Bandolier of Maple Grove 23rd owned by Lloyd Mack, was judged top Aberdeen Angus and Eric Bandolier of Hillcrest 10th, shown by Earley Brothers of Kerrwood, Ont., claimed the reserve ribbon.

Truck Driver Can't Remember Crash, Fined $10

Murray L Lambshead, Lakefield, was found guilty in police court Tuesday of careless driving involving an accident which, he testified, he did not remember.

Evidence showed that the truck he was driving smashed Feb. 26 into the rear of a large bus which had stopped for passengers on Highway 28 at the junction with Highway 7A, nine miles south of Peterborough.

He said he remembered driving behind the bus and smelt fumes from the bus from time to time coming up through the floor of his truck.

Just before the truck ploughed into the rear of the bus, said Mrs Lambshead she shouted to her husband, looked at him and saw his eyes were shut.

Lambshead suffered a broken nose and cuts around the face, but his wife had no injuries except a few bruises.

Parked Car

Driver of the bus, John Collins, said when he drove over the crest of the hill just south of the highway junction, he saw a car parked on the right side and passengers waiting to board his bus. He had just stopped his bus ahead of the parked car when he felt the blow from behind. No one in the bus was at all shaken up.

Bert Gardiner, who lives three miles south of Millbrook, said he had driven some people over to Highway 28 to catch the bus. He was outside the car to flag down the bus when it came.

He saw the truck come over the hill behind the bus. An instant before the crash he heard the squeal of brakes.

Magistrate Philp said he did not disbelieve Lambshead's story, but intimated his loss of memory could be accounted for by the blow on the head he had received. He fined Lambshead $10 and costs.

Claim Boys Set Fire To Crate On Railway

A fire believed started by boys burned the wooden crating of a large CGE generator which had been loaded on a CPR flat car standing in the CPR yards Tuesday about six p.m.

It was spotted by railroad yard men and they put it out without calling the fire department.

Sidney Ward, CPR claims clerk, told police some boys had been seen playing near the railroad yard a short time before the fire was discovered.

It is believed little damage was done either to the generator or to the flat car.

$4,200 To Civic For Full Cost Rural Indigents

County Council's finance committee Tuesday afternoon recommended a grant of $4,200 to pay the full cost of maintaining indigent county patients at Civic Hospital.

This must still be approved in open council but it has already been included in the estimates.

The committee made its recommendation after a visit from a four-man delegation led by John R. Marshall, chairman of the Civic Hospital board of governors, and Mayor M. J. Swanston. T. T. Rodger, treasurer of the board, and John M. Hornal, superintendent of the hospital were the other two.

Instead of the expected $1,500,000 the new Civic Hospital would cost $3,500,000, the joint city council-hospital board committee stated. And the delegation asked that the contribution of the county be raised to help meet this extra expenditure.

At present Council levies half a mill for the two hospitals—two thirds or $3,053 going to Civic and one-third or $2,105 going to St. Joseph's.

26% From County

In a brief which he presented to Council, Mr. Marshall stated that 1018 of the patients admitted to Civic last year were from the county; this number was 26.1 per cent of total admissions. In 1948 this came to 944 or 25 per cent, and in 1947, 856 or 22.5 per cent.

"The history over the years has indicated that roughly 25 per cent of the use of the hospital has been by the Peterborough County patients," said Mr. Marshall. "On this basis the county, if it wants to be joint partners with the city, should subscribe $875,000—or 25 per cent of $3,500,000—to the capital costs of the building."

He suggested that the county should at least assume the cost of their indigent patients. In 1949 these were provided with 900 days of care.

$4.75 Indigent Deficit

The average daily cost last year for a patient in a public ward was $9 a day, said Mr. Marshall. On each of these the hospital received about $1.25 from the province, $2.50 a day from the county (the minimum fixed by statute), and 50 cents, also from the county, to reduce the rate of public ward patients.

This left $4.75 a day to be borne by the hospital, or, in the final analysis, the city taxpayers. The loss in 1949 on these patients was $4,275 (900 x $4.75).

To wipe out this deficit caused by county indigents, Council granted the $4,200 to Civic.

The alternative was a raising of the public ward rates, Mr. Marshall said.

F. P. Burke Succeeds Yelland Legion Branch President

F. P. (Paddy) Burke was elected president of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion at the annual meeting in the Legion Hall Tuesday. He succeeds Harold Yelland who has been president for the past two years. Three years ago Mr. Burke was president of the branch. George McNabb was elected first vice-president and H. G. Kelsey second vice-president. The executive for 1950 will be Albert Mason, J. B. Chambers, Frank Frape, Frank Bell and Robert Graham. Two other men will be appointed to the executive later. Harry Gabbutt was elected sergeant-at-arms for the next year.

Annual reports were given by: finance, Claude McWilliams; entertainment, Lou Durkin; membership, Harry Kelsey; investigation, Clare Stuart; sports, Robert Graham; recreation, Frank Bell; special events, Garfield Torrance; sick and welfare, Albert Mason; property, Arthur Wagstaff.

One new member was initiated at the meeting, Cecil York. Six other men were voted on and passed for initiation at a future meeting, Charles Arthur Barnes, J. R. Stevenson, Victor Brown, Robert W. Brown, Thomas Joseph Casey and Douglas C. Barringer.

Commission Plan Sports Week

A proposal will be made to the Centennial Committee by the Recreation Commission that a Sports Week be held during the summer. The commission would manage the week with the co-operation of the football, softball, baseball, lacrosse and other sporting teams. The suggestion that such a week be held to celebrate Peterborough's Centenary was made by Recreation Director Alex Sinclair.

Date suggested for Sports or Recreation Week was at Civic holiday. The annual Legion picnic and parade on Civic holiday would be a start for the week. Each sporting group in the city would then co-operate with the commission to produce some tournament, games or regatta to fill out the week.

Mr. Sinclair suggested that the Civic Arena with its artificial ice plan could put in ice for a curling bonspiel and a hockey game. He gave as an example the mid-summer curling bonspiel held annually in Nelson, B.C. The event has become so popular there that the number of rinks has to be restricted, he said.

William Bennett, chairman of the girls' sports committee, warned that during this week most of the factories in the city are closed down for holidays. The effect of the holidays he explained with the Girls' Softball League two years ago as an example. Hurrell Dodds said that perhaps Labor Day week would serve just as well.

R. J. Bolton, chairman of the commission and also a member of the Centennial Committee, said that they have already been approached by sporting organizations to hold special days such as Aquatic Day and Horseracing Day. He added that the commission had to decide whether they were in the position to take charge of these athletic events. The committee, he said, would be delighted to have the Recreation Commission take it over.

A Sports Week committee was proposed by Mr. Sinclair and C. Collins, chairman of boys' sports, was named its chairman. Wilfred Langan was appointed assistant chairman of the newly-formed committee. They have power to add to their committee.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

TO ATTEND MEETING

Several members of the Peterborough Board of Education are expected to attend the special meeting of the Ontario Urban School Trustees Association in Toronto on Friday when a study will be made of the new provincial grant system.

IRWIN TO COMMISSION

The Recreation Commission were informed Tuesday by letter from K. S. Wightman that Murray Irwin of the Board of Education will serve as their representative on the commission. The Recreation Commission had previously turned down three suggestions by the board because they wished to have a member of the board.

CAR DOOR DAMAGED

The door of a car was smashed by another as it was opened by Mrs Leonard Byrd, 385 Mark St., who was about to get out of her husband's car while it was stopped for a red light at George and Charlotte Sts. Tuesday. Mrs. Byrd was not hurt. She had opened the door as Anton F. Seidel was driving his car on the right of the Byrd car to make a right turn from George St. into Charlotte St. Constable William G. Scott investigated.

Verbal Blasts By The Score; "I'm Insulted"

Mrs. Joseph Hamilton of Stony Lake wheeled into the County Council chamber Tuesday afternoon and let go a verbal blast that nearly shook the rafters.

After about 45 minutes of denunciations and charges—levelled against a host of organizations and individuals in the city and county — she left abruptly. It took another 10 minutes before Council had recovered sufficiently from the prolonged outburst for them to continue the county's business.

She bitterly assailed the Civic Hospital Board of Governors for not dealing with local merchants and farmers and also for asking the taxpayers for more money.

The Peterborough Examiner was criticized for refusing to publish some of her letters and at least one reporter was accused of plagiarizing her material.

(..."but I know how to put my ideas before the public and that's one of the reasons I'm here this afternoon.")

Others Under Fire

Various chambers of commerce took a beating too. Among them were the Peterborough chamber, the Jaycees and the Lakefield chamber. James Fraser, manager of the Peterborough branch had been particularly rude, she said.

As a matter of fact, Mrs. Hamilton recalled, the Council itself had been rude in letting her sit there for a good proportion of the afternoon without giving her the floor.

But when she got it she held onto it.

As a matter of fact the tirade lasted so long that finally Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood stood up and started to speak:

"Mr. Warden, I came here today to get some business done..."

Insulted

"All right, Mr. Ferguson, you've insulted me before," said Mrs. Hamilton. "I'm going now. I've never been so insulted in my life."

Among the others raked by Mrs. Hamilton before she made her and hasty departure were the Provincial Police, Peterborough socialites (whom she accused of misconduct..."there's no drunkenness or vice at my place"), Fred DelaFosse, former city librarian, local historical societies ("I started the history of Peterborough"), summer resort inspectors, (bogus or otherwise), and unnamed trespassers and thieves on her property.

If the latter two types persisted in haunting her property this summer "there'll be shooting," she promised.

Before reaching the end of her angry speech she handed around clippings of some of her printed letters for the Council members to look at.

After nearly an hour's interruption Council resumed.

Appoint Cyril Shaver To CNR Lindsay HQ

Cyril E. Shaver formerly trainmaster at Brantford, Ont., has been appointed assistant superintendent of the CNR, Belleville division, with its headquarters in Lindsay.

Mr. Shaver began his career with the CNR in 1922 as a relief clerk at the London East station. He worked there at different jobs until 1942 when he was promoted to assistant yardmaster.

Two years later he was moved to Sarnia as general yardmaster and, in 1947, was promoted terminal trainmaster at Windsor. From there he was moved to take the same position at Brantford in 1949, until his latest promotion to Lindsay.

PAY TRIBUTE

Prior to the business session at the Recreation Commission Tuesday the members paid tribute to their late vice-president, Gordon Armstrong who died suddenly last week. R. J. Bolton, chairman said the commission has suffered a loss that cannot easily be made up.

Dine On Farm As Hollywood Out On Lawns By Shrubs

W. M. German suggested in a talk to Peterborough Junior Farmers at the Normal School Tuesday night a practical and attractive answer to the question: "How are you going to keep them on the farm?"

Plant trees and shrubbery around a spacious lawn, and add the Hollywood note of outdoor dining, at the end of the day, and at least for Sunday suppers.

That was the plain inference from his talk on landscaping the rural home. The attendance was around sixty, half of the members were girls, who are briefed from time to time in graceful living by distaff experts of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Farmers have ample elbow room for whatever leisure they can fit into their work program. They are free from neighboring windows. They have their own expanse of acres, pleasant isolation, all the possibilities of developing the idea of more outdoor living. They have experience in growing things, and the young people of today are looking more than ever to the pleasant side of life, the little grace notes of domesticity.

More Gracious Living

Some farmers here and there around the country have found their own way to more lawn use, following their own ideas and tastes. But, if the landscaping and lawn-making project which Mr. German outlines to the Tuesday night meeting takes hold, there is likely to be gradually an exodus from the confinement of the living room to the spaciousness of the side lawn.

Mr. German also told his young audience that this country was growing, as they could see, towns and cities were overrunning their boundaries into the townships. This movement was going to continue, and rural property was becoming more valuable for housing purposes. The planting of trees and shrubs and hedges was an investment in beautification that would pay off in added value whenever such a farm home changed hands.

Burritt Mann was chairman of the meeting, one of the most largely attended of the season.

FRED L. ROY

Highly Acclaimed Photographer Fred L. Roy Dies

Frederick Lewis Roy, 308 Rubidge St., a Master Photographer, award of the Photographers' Association of America, died this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital after an illness of about a week. He had suffered a setback in health several years ago, but had recovered and resumed his work quite actively until Christmas. Since then he had relaxed during the winter, but had been frequently at the studio.

Mr. Roy was one of the outstanding photographic artists of this country, a past president and honorary member of the Ontario Society of Photographers, and a member of the Photographers Association of America. He had received 25 awards for photography in Canada and the United States, with a reputation which had attracted many notable men to his studio.

Born 69 Years Ago

Mr. Roy was born in Belleville in 1881, son of Robert Maitland Roy and his wife, Maria Flagler. As a boy he came to Peterborough with his parents, when his father, an outstanding photographer in his day and founder of the Roy Studio, chose this city for his future. The son gradually learned the intricacies of light and lens, shading and other refinements of the art, and assumed full charge of the studio at his father's death. The Roy works had been an artistic feature of the city's life for at least three generations.

Fred L. Roy was a charter member of Peterborough Rotary Club and its first president. He had also been president of the Boy Scouts Association, president of Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, a member of the Exhibition Board for years, and had been an alderman of the city council in 1940-41. For two years he was chairman of the parks committee, succeeding the late Ald. Walter Stocker in that post.

Mr. Roy was also a life member of the Red Cross Society, and member of its executive. His hobbies were golf and fishing, but first and foremost photography of the outdoors.

Kawartha Film

He was commissioned to do a publicity film of the summer attractions of this district, and produced the beautiful "Call of the Kawarthas" in technicolor. It has travelled far and wide in Canada and the United States, shown before Chambers of Commerce, Sportsmen's shows and many other assemblies of people interested in wild life and natural beauty. It was one of his most notable creations, and is still in use.

Mr. Roy leaves his wife, the former Mona M. D. Cavanah, one son Rob Roy, and sister, Mrs. J. G. M. (Gladys) Jamieson; his nephews and nieces, Robert M. Roy of Hamilton and Wallace J. Roy of Napanee; Miss Margaret Denne, Toronto; Mrs. Wm. Simms, Kitchener; Gordon Jamieson and Fred Jamieson, Oshawa; and grandson Rob Roy Jr.

He was a Past Master of Corinthian Lodge AF & AM. He had been continuously in business here since 1896, and by his art and interest in nature he had contributed largely to the development of the tourist business of the Kawartha Lakes. His pictures had a wide circulation. One of them was noticed in a magazine only last week. It was that striking shot of a local cranery with the broad-winged birds in flight over their nests.

One of the recollections of Mr. Roy's broad experience and reputation was the permission which was granted to him of sailing in the grand review of the British Fleet at Spithead before his Majesty King George V in 1935. In 1930 he won the first prize gold medal at the international and golden anniversary of the Photographers' Association of America.

The Examiner said of him a few years ago: "Peterborough has always found difficulty in deciding whether Mr. Roy's art found its most graphic and subtle expression in portraiture or the scenes of nature, in the studio or the great outdoors. The public has been attracted probably with equal conviction to both forms, content to leave precise verdicts to the experts."

One of Mr. Roy's finest portraits was that of the late W. G. Morrow, former Mayor and managing director of Toronto Savings and Loan Company. His bequest of more than $600,000 was a gift to the people of Peterborough specifically for the new city hall. Presumably that Roy portrait will find permanent and conspicuous place in the new municipal building when completed.

The body is resting at Mr. Roy's late home, 308 Rubidge St. until 1 p.m. Saturday. Funeral service at St. John's Church at 2 p.m. will be conducted by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

County Council To Require $210,511.75 In 1950 For A Mill Rate of 18.66

To meet its commitments for 1950, the Peterborough County Council must raise $210,511.75, a levy of 18.66 mills. This was the recommendation of the finance committee Tuesday afternoon at the two-day March session. The increase of $48,875.54 over the 1949 figure represents an extra levy of 4.416 mills. It is believed to be the largest estimate in the history of Peterborough county. (A mill raises approximately $11,000. The 1949 equalized assessment was $11,093,493.)

At the statutory meeting in January the clerk and treasurer told a slightly stunned Council that the deficit for 1949 amounted to $35,963.98, or more than four times the 1948 figure.

The wiping out of this deficit —$22,157.64 on county roads and $13,806.34 on current expenditures—is the No. 1 aim of the finance committee for 1950. And it represents nearly three-quarters of the increase.

Higher costs and salaries are chiefly responsible for the rest of the 2.814 mill increase on the levy for current municipal purposes.

One Major Project

A breakdown shows that an extra mill has been levied for roads, chiefly to retire some of the deficit. Only one major project has been planned for the year by this committee—improving the Stony Lake road at Hamblin's Corners in Dummer.

Six and three-quarter mills will be for road maintenance and the extra quarter will have to cover all construction costs. In 1949 six mills were set aside for roads.

Two debenture payments will also have to be met.

A debenture on the Chemong causeway is due. The first of five annual payments, it comes to $6,678.75.

Another $10,051 is the second of 15 annual debenture issues for the county's contribution of $120,000 to the Civic Hospital. The total contribution was $150,000—$30,000 being paid in cash.

Education estimates of $8,734.55 cover the costs to four municipalities not included in the High school area districts. The outsiders are Douro, Dummer, Galway and Ennismore. This levy is made according to the equalized assessment, but affects only the four municipalities.

Council members looked closely to see if they could prune any more from the estimates, but decided 18.660 mills was as far as they could safely go.

A non-recurring item (payment on the fire alarm system in 1949) allowed them to cut $2,200 from the Old People's Home account. But this was more than balanced by an extra $4,200 being given the Civic Hospital to defray the costs of indigent county patients.

Other estimates were generally the same or slightly up on last year. The county assessor's estimate was carefully scrutinized and the figure of $8,500 approved. In 1949 it was $6,701.

Revenue From Forest

Reeve James Humphries of Asphodel said he thought there should be more revenue coming in from the county forest area, 10 miles north of Norwood. It was his understanding, he said, that the hiring of a caretaker would not be an extra expense as the man could about pay his own salary by such projects as wood-cutting.

Last year there was an expenditure of $5,130, including the installation of a telephone line to the caretaker's house in the 4,600-acre area. 1950 estimates call for receipts of $150 and disbursements of $2,500.

Community Fund Drive Exceeds $75,000

The Red Cross and Community Chest objective of $75,000 has been exceeded. At 11 a.m. today the total figure was $75,711.18 and subscriptions are still being received. The fund is expected to stay open another week.

The total, which was less than $70,000 when the campaign officially closed March 10, has increased largely because of the efforts of the retail division. It has added nearly $5,000 to the total since March 10. Its objective had been set at $16,500 and it has now subscribed $13,902.45.

Subscriptions from other divisions are as follows: Special names $22,615, industrial $32,734, women $5,933.15, children's pennies $526.58.

Break Box Car Seals

The seals on the doors of four CNR box cars were broken and one door was opened Tuesday evening while the cars were parked on tracks at Princess St. and Gladstone Ave.

The culprits are believed to be boys. Constables Victor A. McConnell and William A. Scott questioned two boys near the scene of the incident. No charges have been laid.

Gave Wrong Address

Gerard Clancy, 21, charged in police court Monday with receiving stolen money, gave his address to police incorrectly as 556 Rogers St. He had not been living at any fixed address for some time prior to his arrest.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. R. J. Wharry and Thomas Allen were welcomed to the Recreation Commission Tuesday night. They are newly-appointed members and will serve on the commission for three years. R. E. MacDonald and William Bennett were welcomed back to the commission. They were re-appointed for another three-year term.

Monsieur Guy Quite Happy Among Grinning Skeletons

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, March 22—(CP)—Medical students all over the world known Monsieur Raymond Guy—the men who deals in bones and skeletons. In his bright-lit west end office, skulls grin at customers from green, baize-topped tables; skeletons, hanging inside glass-fronted cupboards, smile a hideous welcome.

Those who wish can buy a complete skeleton for £30 ($93). Or they can acquire ownership of a skull with a full set of teeth for £10.

"Business? It is so-so," said Monsieur Guy, absent-mindedly patting the shining skull of a deceased African native. "I buy bones for this work mainly from Africa and Austria, where supplies are plentiful.

"We sell a lot of bones and skeletons to commonwealth countries and the United States. The demand from the commonwealth is particularly pleasing, as it shows more and more people there are taking up the medical profession."

Aways Busy

Fitting the bones together keeps Monsieur Guy and his staff of five—all men—busy 5½ days a week. For there are 206 bones in every complete skeleton.

"Occasionally we have a rare find when all the bones are from the same body. Very rare. We can tell that this is so by the easy way they fit together. Naturally, such a skeleton is more expensive—and it is so interesting."

M. Guy, who queues daily for a ride to work on a London bus looks like an absent-minded professor and sometimes behaves like one.

"I never take samples home," he said "because I am afraid I might leave them on a bus and give someone a fright. We, of course, are so used to them."

Foot Costly

A human hand can be bought as cheaply as 15 shillings, but a foot costs twice as much because feet are in greater demand.

"At present more and more British shoe shops are buying feet for display purposes. Good for trade but rather difficult as it leaves us with so many hands in stock."

M. Guy is described on his calling card as a human osteologist. In the top left-hand corner is a portrait of a grinning skull.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

HIROSHIMA, Aug. 6, 1945. A spectacular, mushrooming atomic cloud billows 20,000 feet into the air, informing the world that man had harnessed a power so great, so dreadful as to overtax the imagination. Only one more atomic bomb was to fall on Japan—at Nagasaki two days later—before World War II ended. Those two bombs alone killed more than 100,000 and injured many thousands more. Since them, the awful A-bomb and its possible successor, the infinitely more powerful Hydrogen Bomb, have been objects of more speculation, more research, more fear, than any other phenomena achieved by man. How to control atomic energy's power to kill, while exploting its marvelous peacetime potential, is the most vital problem of the Twentieth Century.

Cracking Down On Late Drivers

TORONTO, March 22 (CP)—Police cracked down on some Ontario cities Tuesday on motorists still driving with 1949 licence plates.

In many communities however, the law seemed to be granting an extra unofficial period of grace for tardy drivers.

More than 700 were spotted in Toronto and will be summonsed for not obtaining 1950 plates before the March 20 deadline.

Provincial police of the Woodstock detachment said they are charging some 30 motorists. Woodstock city police said few 1949 plates were seen Tuesday and that no charges were laid.

St. Catharines city police were taking it easy but in suburban Grantham township more than 100 summonses were issued.

Additional leeway was being granted to motorists in Kingston, Oshawa, St. Thomas and Brantford. Windsor police said they don't intend to start stopping cars until today. Galt withheld the pressure because licence offices were unable to handle Monday's 11th-hour rush.

Five Legion Branches Meet In Apsley Hall

APSLEY March 22 — (ENS) — The zone meeting of the Canadian Legion was held in the Legion Hall here on Sunday. Members of branches from Peterborough, Lakefield, Warsaw, Norwood and Havelock together with the Ladies Auxilliary from Peterborough were present and zone leader S. H. Hopkins of Lakefield presided.

The local Ladies Auxilliary served lunch.

E. B. HAWKEN, who has been appointed assistant to vice-president, personnel, Canadian National Railways, with headquarters at Montreal. Mr. Hawken was formerly superintendent of pensions and staff registrar.

Still Interested In Horses On 98th Birthday

James Rollo, a retired farmer from Seymour township, who now lives with his niece at 231 King St., will celebrate his 98th birthday on Thursday. Born on the family homestead three miles north of Campbellford, he is a link with pioneering days in that Hastings county community. He helped his father, Granville Rollo, clear the land with oxen and thinks they were better beasts for ploughing than horses.

Mr. Rollo's great passion was the raising of blood horses and was especially fond of a boisterous stud by the name of "Black Dick." His liking for horses has not lessened through the year and, though city delivery horses are very few, the sound of them travelling the pavements still attracts him to the living-room window.

Hard work has been the reason for his longevity, thinks his niece, Mrs. R. A. Tate, for he has never been bed-ridden for any length of time. Lately, he sleeps a good deal, reads a little and before his hearing became impaired, enjoyed listening to church services on the radio.

He is a strict Presbyterian of the old school and believes that Sunday should be spent in rest and devotion. Mr. Rollo was member of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, for many years and was a former elder. He did not belong to any fraternal organizations and never married.

The eldest remaining member of a family of nine children of Granville Rollo and Mary Jane Lumsden, Mr. Rollo looks back on almost a century of hard work and a strict code of living.

Most of his boyhood friends have gone long since but one of them, Michael Sullivan of Campbellford, and he get together occasionally to talk of old time when they sawed huge amounts of firewood with a four-team horsepowered drag saw. He seems doubtful of present-day standards of a day's work.

Belmont WI Starts To Write Its History

HAVELOCK, March 22 (ENS) —A committee to compile the history of Belmont Women's Institute has been formed and includes Mesdames G. Smith, H. Scott, W. Smith and W. Ketchen. The branch was organized in 1914.

Mesdames G. Gawley and R. Vansickle were conveners for a St. Patrick's Day program which included two songs by Mrs. W. Goadsby, reading by Mrs. W. Smith, a piano solo by Sandra Vansickle and a recitation by Jo-Ann Kennedy.

Mrs. Charles Ellis, president, presided for the business session. There were 25 members and three visitors present. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Vansickle were Mesdames James Toms, R. McCutcheon, W. Aunger and Allan Hubble.

Chatham Girl, 16 Dies From Gas Fumes

CHATHAM, March 22 (CP) — Diane Adams, 16, who with her companion Eleanor McQueen, 16, was rescued Sunday from a gas-filled home at Tilbury, died Tuesday in hospital here.

With her mother in the hospital, Miss McQueen had asked her friend to stay with her Saturday night. Neighbors became suspicious Sunday when they saw no activity about the home and, noticing the odor of gas, broke in.

Both girls were unconscious. Doctors worked on Miss Adams all Sunday to revive her, and removed her to the hospital Monday morning. Union Gas Company officials said the flame in the circulating gas burner had gone out because the vent pipe had been pushed too far into the chimney. They said the company had not installed the heater, nor had it been asked to inspect the installation.

Denies Book Ban

LONDON, March 22 (Reuters) —War Minister John Strachey on Tuesday denied as "utterly without foundation" charges that he had tried to suppress a book criticizing the East African peanut scheme when he was Food Minister. The book, "The Ground Nuts Affair," was written by Alan Wood, Public Relations officer of the Overseas Food Corporation, government body which administers the scheme.

Want Settlers in N. Ontario

TIMMINS, March 22 (CP) — The Northern Ontario Migration committee Tuesday forwarded a resolution to Premier Frost of Ontario and various Ontario government departments, urging that "immediate steps be taken to colonize the vast area of northern Ontario during a period of unemployment."

The committee to attract settlers to Northern Ontario's clay belt is made up of representatives of northern municipalities, Chambers of Commerce, farm and other organizations under chairmanship of Councillor J. B. Bartleman of Timmins.

The resolution drafted a meeting Monday night, and released on Monday, said that "mines resources are not inexhaustible, and no time should be lost in colonizing the northern mining areas and clay belt region while mines continue operation and a ready and prosperous market exists."

It said large numbers of unemployed who were reared on farms or having farming experience, desire to settle in the north.

The project should be considered as a capital investment, since it would bring the same measure of success as was obtained from mining investments, and would be of a permanent nature, the resolution added. Farming communities should be centralized close to urban centres to provide markets and such services as roads, electric power and schools.

Toronto Investigates Chance To Tax Hydro

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum said Tuesday he would look into possibility of imposing full civic taxes on the Ontario and Toronto Hydro Commissions and on provincial liquor stores.

He said the city of Ottawa collects full municipal taxes, except school tax, from the Ottawa hydro system and he added:

"If Ottawa can do it, there is no reason why the Toronto Hydro can't be taxed."

At present, the Toronto Hydro pays full taxes on land but not on its buildings. It pays property and business taxes on retail stores and full taxes on Hydro-owned lands not used for Hydro purposes, but it does not pay school taxes. Last year the Toronto system contributed $182,078 in taxes to the city treasury.

CWL Sponsors Bingo In Hastings Town Hall

HASTINGS March 22 (ENS) — The CWL held a bingo in Hastings Town Hall on Friday. J. Mulholland called the numbers for bingo and 15 games and three specials were played. Prize winners were as follows: L. McKay, two; F. McKee, Mrs. J. Calberry, B. Lynch, Mrs. V. Brown, Mrs. Fallis, J. Mulholland three, Mrs. Doumoulin, Mrs. Sargeant and Mrs. B. Barton. Specials, Mrs. S. Blackbourne, Miss F. McKee, Mrs. B. Barton.

A draw was held when Mrs. L. Dumoulin won a set of dishes, Mrs. F. Coveney a wool blanket and Miss Helen Lynch an electric clock.

8 Killed In Crash

ROCKFORD, Ill., March 22 — (AP)— Eight persons, including a family of four were killed on Monday night in a head-on crash between an automobile and a heavy oil truck. The truck driver was not hurt. The scene of the accident, near Rockton, was "wagon wheel curve," also known as "death curve." Dead included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rinehart, their two daughters, aged 1 and 5, and Rinehart's brother, Raymond.

Ten Lawsuits Filed By Witnesses

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP) — Ten lawsuits for a total of $36,000 damages were filed Tuesday by A. L. Stein, Montreal counsel for the Jehovah Witnesses, on behalf of Olive Lundell of Toronto and Winnifred Parsons of Sarnia.

Miss Lundell and Miss Parsons each claim $5,000 from the Laurentian city of Joliette, Que., for what they termed "seditious libel," allegedly contained in a resolution passed by city council, printed and circulated.

The two women evangelists of the religious sect charged that the resolution approved their removal from Joliette last December 14 when they were approached by a group of young men, told to enter a taxi and then were driven to Montreal.

(At that time, Montreal police said the Joliette men had sought to have the two women arrested for "annoying" the population of Joliette with their door-to-door visits.

14 Co-Defendants

Fourteen members of the Joliette charter of the Knights of Columbus, a Roman Catholic men's organization, are named as co-defendants in the two actions against the city, because they allegedly instigated the council's resolution.

Two Joliette newspapers—L'etoile Du Nord and L'Action Populaire—are named as defendants in separate actions for $5,000 each for the printing and circulation of articles concerning the two witnesses of Jehovah.

The other suits, for a total of $16,000, were laid against Joliette citizens for their part in "abducting and kidnapping" the two women.

Miss Parsons and Miss Lundell moved to Joliette last summer from New Brunswick after they were evicted by citizens of Edmundston, N. B. They had lived in Joliette with an English-speaking woman resident of the predominantly Roman Catholic community.

Mission Band Meets At Whittington Home

SPRINGVILLE, March 22 — (ENS—The Mission Band held the March meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Whittington. Mrs. Clifford Johnston was in charge of the study book and Billy Kellar read the scripture.

Mrs. Mervin Edgerton led prayer and Joyce Seymour presented the peace report; Nelson Edgerton the temperance talk.

Plans were made for a crokinole party to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Seymour also for the Easter thankoffering meeting on April 14, when the Mission Band children will entertain their mothers.

Refreshments were served by Keith Johnston, Ilda Linstead and Mrs. Clifford Johnston. Games followed.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT receives from Wayne C. Grover, archivist of the United States, the first box of the indexed letters of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, at the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library, Hyde Park, N.Y. The letters, copies of almost every letter he wrote and almost every letter he received after he began his public career, became public property in the brief ceremony in the public library. It took almost two and one-half years to index the more than five million letters.

Bevan Hands Out Newspaper Code

LONDON, March 22 (Reuters) —Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, sternest critic of the British press, Tuesday ventured into London's newspaper quarter to tell newspapermen what he thinks of them.

Individually, he told a meeting, they have higher standards than journalists in other countries. One reason was that they wrote shorthand, another that they knew what they were writing about.

"I have had experience with journalists in other countries who ask questions they obviously have no idea about, take no notes at all, and then write from inspiration, so that when you read in the press afterwards what you are supposed to have said you are staggered," he said.

But he added that he wants a better sense of integrity and objectivity in the British press. British newspapers themselves were their own worst enemies.

He thought it would be excellent if a voluntary or statutory institution were established to build up codes of newspaper conduct.

Sick Insurance In Canada Preferred To Ottawa Plan

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP)— Arthur J. Swanson General Superintendent of Toronto Western Hospital, said Tuesday that the present voluntary hospital system and use of Blue Cross and other pre-pay schemes can solve the problem of the growing need for hospital care for everyone.

Mr. Swanson made his observation, as against government-sponsored health plans, before the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons.

He said the supply of hospital beds in Canada is "still far below demands but the shortage has been solved to a certain degree by new techniques. One was by shortening the time patients remain in hospital beds, freeing facilities to serve a greater number of persons.

R. Fraser Armstrong, Superintendent of Kingston General Hospital, said need of hospital care has become one of the main necessities of life, like food and shelter.

New drugs, new techniques and new procedures had contributed to the comfort and quicker recovery of patients but had also increased hospital operating costs, he said. Further scientific advances were bound to raise costs still further.

Mr. Armstrong saw the revenue equation of a hospital made up of three components: public bodies, voluntary contributors and paying patients. When there is a deficit, "the hat is passed around."

Awarded $156,937

LOS ANGELES, March 22 — (AP)—Clara Dawson, 60, schoolteacher Monday was awarded $156,937.55 for injuries suffered May 11, 1948. She had just helped one of her pupils board a streetcar when a bus and truck crashed. She pushed another student to safety, then was struck by the bus. Doctors testified she would never be able to work again.

Queen Alex Daffodil Tea Successfully Held Tuesday

Daffodils, of course, keynoted decorations in the kindergarten room of Queen Alexandra School Tuesday afternoon when the Home and School Association took over for the annual Daffodil Tea. They were complimented by the use of crystal for the table setting on a white Madeira cloth, and matched by the yellow candles. Also much admired were antique glass comports used for the refreshments.

An innovation during the tea was a presentation to Miss Ruth Telford of the teaching staff whose wedding will take place early in April. Mrs. O. J. Hayward, Association president, made a brief address as she presented a silver cream and sugar with tray to Miss Telford.

As tea-room accommodation was not sufficient at times, line-ups formed in the hall where the home baking table was set up, and possibly contributed to the heavy purchasing. Mrs. G. Norris and Mrs. W. Dorrington had a bountiful supply of goods on hand for the opening but every crumb had disappeared at five o'clock. Assisting them with the sales were Mrs. C. Lawe, Mrs. O. Axford, Mrs. Dalahaye and Mrs. Gordon Millen.

Mrs. R. Baker took tickets at the door, assisted by Mrs. F. Shaw. Guests who brought their children left them in care of Mrs. P. Evans and three Grade 8 girls.

On entering the tea room a welcome was extended by Mrs. Hayward and Mrs. P. Dallin, vice-president. Mrs. Arthur Black, general convener of the tea, was acting as hostess.

Supplying a background of soft music during the tea were Mrs. A. Bacon, Mrs. K. Kingston and Miss Mary McBride.

Tea was poured by Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, Mrs. R. K McKee, Mrs. A. W. Nelson and Mrs. C. McBride and served with dainty refreshments by Mrs. D. Snelgrove, Mrs. Geo. Coleman Jr., Mrs. S. Munro, Mrs. Charles Fraser, Mrs. B. Bell, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. H. Cherney, Mrs. G. Boucher, Mrs. G. Cheatle, Mrs. R. W. Stewart, Mrs. H. Mason, Misses I. Connolly, G. Cox, R. Telford, B. Hart, O. Armstrong, and H. Staples.

Mrs. G. Gatfield was in charge of all tea assistants and Mrs. G. Hutchinson was convener of the food. Assisting to replenish plates were Mrs. R. Sager, Mrs. J. Arnott, Mrs. J. R. Healy and Mrs. E. A. Outram.

The regular meeting of the Buckhorn WI was held on Tuesday evening in the school room of SS No. 10 Smith. In the absence of the president, Mrs. W. Shearer, Mrs. B. Hall presided. As the next meeting is the annual business meeting, all conveners were requested to have their reports ready. The branch recently started at Selwyn will be the guests of Buckhorn WI in April. Mrs. H. A. Shearer and Mrs. S. Wood were appointed to bring the records of the branch up to date.

Mrs. G. Harrison, as convener for education, was in charge of the program. Community singing of Irish songs was enjoyed, Miss Melba Pavey playing the guitar. The guest speaker, Major Anderson, PSI, spoke on education, now and at the turn of the century. He deal with it under the following heads: school building, community activities, organization, discipline, and curriculum. Mrs. Harris explained some of the newer methods in teaching reading and arithmetic to primary pupils. The story of that Saint Patrick was told, followed by an Irish duet by Miss Melba Pavey and Miss Lenore Armstrong.

All enjoyed a St. Patrick contest, after which lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

BRIDGENORTH SCHOOL

"Around the world with Miss Jamieson" would be the title of a travelogue given Tuesday evening at Bridgenorth Home and School meeting by Miss Anne Jamieson, former teacher at the Prince of Wales school, Peterborough.

She took the audience on a verbal tour, travelling west from Ontario, and stopping for periods of time in Honolulu, New Zealand, Australia, China, Burma, India and British Isles. The schools, methods of education and farming in these places were the strong points of interest.

Community singing opened the program, Mrs. C. Telford accompanying.

Principal, Mr. B. Patterson, read a pamphlet on the proposed revised curriculum for next September and open discussion on this followed.

The legend of Qu'Appelle Valley, one of Pauline Johnson's poems, was read by Mrs. R. Jopling to commemorate the birthday month of the Canadian poetess. The Rev. D. P. Morris gave a reading on the life story of Robert Louis Stevenson.

A vote of thanks to Miss Jamieson was moved by Mrs. C. Payne.

The annual meeting was announced for next month and all members urged to attend.

Mrs. J. Murray, social convener supervised the serving of lunch.

Formal Weddings Becoming Usual Costing $2.00 Up

TORONTO, March 22 (CP)—With the starting gun of another mating season about to be fired, here's a style note on present day wedding trends.

First, simple weddings attended by a few close friends are fast disappearing. Now 100 to 150 guests take in the average formal wedding at a cost to the bride and her family of $500 to $600 and at times plenty more.

Then evening weddings are becoming increasingly popular, especially in hot summer days.

A survey of last year's 11,000 weddings in Toronto shows the city's two largest bridal planning bureaux handled about one-third of them.

Largest single item is the catering, usually planned three months in advance of the day but depending on the season—earlier for a summertime wedding. For an average 150-guest spread, this item will total $200.

Church rentals in some cases are booked up to a year in advance for a Saturday wedding.

Some weddings have run into thousands of dollars. There have been many $5,000 splashes in this city. Highest handled by either bureau was a $40,000 splendor handled for an out-of-town customer.

But you don't have to follow the trend. Wedding authorities say you can have a simple informal ceremony with eight to 10 guests for $50.

50th Year Dinner Civic Alumnae To Be Held May 5

Mrs. H. I. Walker, Downie St., was hostess Tuesday evening to the Civic Hospital Alumnae. President Mrs. M. Pringle conducted the meeting and Miss Ruby Cranfield read minutes in absence of the secretary.

Miss Jean Gillespie gave a detailed report of plans being made for the 50th anniversary celebration and dinner for the forthcoming graduating class which will be held at the Empress Hotel on May 5.

Resignations of Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. J. Thornton were accepted.

Mrs. W. Jones was appointed editor of the "White Cap Bulletin." Mrs. W. Young will be general convener of the Purple and Gold tea and bazaar to be held November 4 in the YWCA. It was decided to send a delegate to the RNAO Convention in Toronto April 27 to 29.

Mrs. Walker served refreshments to members and she was thanked for her hospitality by Mrs. R. Taylor.

Trinity Auxiliary Organizes Visiting Campaign

Afternoon Auxiliary of Trinity United Church met Tuesday in the ladies' parlor with Mrs. A. Legon presiding and Mrs. H. T. Crosbie as pianist.

Community friendship secretary Mrs. W. Edmondson reported 19 house and seven hospital calls made during March. A visiting campaign has been organized and each member has been asked to call on church members in her district.

Towels and wash cloths were received for the bale for the Angola mission in Africa.

Mrs. A. B. Gates read a short item on temperance. Five dollars was voted for use in buying supplies for the mission band.

Members were invited to attend the "All Nations" meeting of CGIT groups at George St. church on Wednesday evening, March 22.

Mrs. D. B. Gordon's group was in charge of the program, which took the form of a radio broadcast, on the chapter "In health and healing" of the study book. Mrs. Charles Spearin acted as the announcer, assisted by Mrs. D. Clayton. Mrs. A. B. Gates, Miss T. Mather, Mrs. H. Crosbie, Mrs. Wm. Donaldson, Mrs. N. Andrew, Mrs. T. Stanley, with Mrs. Gordon playing softly between announcements. The scripture lessons were read by Mrs. A. B. Cunningham. Mrs. D. Clayton and Mrs. Wm. Foley closed the meeting with prayer. A social half hour was then enjoyed.

Red Cross Awards Go To 38 For Home Nursing

Reward for effort in attending a five-month course of lectures in home nursing came this week to 38 Peterborough women, mostly housewives and mothers. Having qualified in practical work as laid down by headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society they became graduates and received certificates and pins, presented by Mrs. Chas. Ray, Peterborough branch president.

At start of the course last October there was an enrolment of 47, but some found it impossible to attend all lectures and attendance of more than 75 per cent was a requirement. A group of 10 entered the class half-way through and they will complete the course when lectures start next fall, and receive awards at that time.

Graduates of the '49-'50 class are:

Mesdames Clifford Beno, Meryl Carr, Quentin Dantzer, Wallace Fowler, Jill Foley, Stuart Frey, Donald Fallis, Marjory Griffin, Kenneth Holbrook, Wm. Harrington, Fred Kylie, Elizabeth McKinstry, Rose McAvella, Robert McClennan, John McManus, Wm. P. Martin, Jean Pearson, Arthur Parker, Earl Quinlan, Harry Rudkins, Stanley E. Stacey, James Southgate, Cora Taylor, Bernard Thompson, Wilbert Wildman, Allan Worsencroft, Richard W. Williams.

Misses Dora Brumwell, Isabelle Brown, Thelma Boomhower, Mae Cowan, Doris Cunningham, Hazel Doney, Lillian Foster, Doreen Keliele, Alma Leach, Kaye Richardson, Edna Tripp.

Mrs. S. O. Shields instructed the class, with the assistance at each meeting of three other graduate nurses, Mrs. Maitland Forsythe, Mrs. Arthur Malby and Mrs. John Bryett.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, lectured the class on communicable diseases, Dr. Donald Clarke, child specialist, presented a paper on child care, Dr. Ralph Honey lectured on dental hygiene, Miss Mary Ross, in charge of VON in Peterborough, outlined care for home confinements, and Mrs. W. B. Gordon, graduate dietitian, lectured on dietetics.

Mr. W. Ross Payne gave his services as projectionist when films were shown in connection with the course.

Women Don't Vote In 12 Countries

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 22 (CP)—A United Nations survey showed today there are a dozen countries where women haven't the legal right to vote or hold public office.

The survey, made at the request of the U.N. commission on the status of women, listed the countries as Colombia, Costa Rica, Egypt, Haiti, Honduras, Iran, Iraq Hashemite Jordan, Lebanon, Liechtenstein, Nicaragua and Switzerland.

No elections are held in Ethiopia, Saudi Arabia and Yemen.

Eligible Widower Searches For Wife At Fifty-eight

DEAR MISS DIX: How does a shy man go about finding a wife? I am a widower 58 years old, but my health is excellent. Fair income. Two children both married and living away from home. Fairly easy to get along with. University graduate. Prefer woman between 45 and 50 years of age. Not younger. You may wonder why I can't find a wife for myself since I have been married, but I didn't find her. She found me. Besides the eligible women of my acquaintance were also acquaintances of my wife and somehow I can't think of any one of them filling her place.

MR. TIMID MAN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should say that in these day the trick is for an eligible widower to stay single.

Plenty Of Willing Women

There are always a large number of widows and spinsters who are lonely and who would like to marry, and they require no ardent and romantic courtships. So if you desire to marry, just put yourself in an attitude to receive the blessing, as old-fashioned Methodists used to say, and Heaven will answer your prayer for a wife without even bothering you to utter it. The best advice I can give you is to summon up what hardihood you can and go out to parties and places of amusement where you will meet women and where you will give them a chance.

I think you make a mistake in not considering the women who are your and your wife's old acquaintances as eligible candidates. There are no more comfortable people to marry, none who are likely to make more satisfactory husbands and wives than the men and women we have known all our lives. At your age you cannot expect to revive the passions of youth or be very romantically in love, but you can have a warm friendship for some woman that will be a comfort and a solace to you. And what woman would fit so well into your life as one who has the same habits and traditions as you have, who knows the same people, who has the same memories, and who knows how to cook and keep house the way you are accustomed to?

So I think you cannot do better than let some sensible widow or old maid who was your wife's friend, marry you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What would you do if you were married to a man who is cold, hard-hearted, indifferent and blind to everything, as I am? He never kisses me. He never smiles at me. If I look pretty, he doesn't see it. If I look ugly, he doesn't know it. If I am sick he never sympathizes with me. If I am blue, he never cheers me. If I am tired, he never appreciates what I have done. If I cook nice meals, he eats them in silence. If I cry myself to sleep, he scorns me. If I spend money he doesn't care. If I save money, he doesn't mention it. But I am crazy about him. I never expect to be happy. What must I do? Must I carry on and spend the balance of my days in heart hunger and tears, or must I go off and forget it all? I can support myself.

POLLYANNA

ANSWER: Apparently your husband is the incarnation of all the faults a husband can have and then some, and I wonder that you love him still. However, since you do, and since there is no chance ever of reforming a man who doesn't know that he is breaking your heart and probably considers himself a prize matrimonial package, why don't you reform yourself.

For I suspect that you are one of these women who enjoy being neglected wives, and that most of your troubles are imaginary ones. Even from your letter I judge that your husband isn't the brute that you imagine him to be. He is just the ordinary mill-run of unsentimental husbands who doesn't see why he should go on every day telling you that he loves you and that you are the most marvelous woman in the world when he spends his life giving a living example of his feeling toward you.

So my advice to you is first to stop pitying yourself. Just think how lucky you are to have a good home and a man to support you.

If your husband doesn't kiss you and you pine for kisses, take the initiative and do the kissing yourself. But don't make the mistake of thinking that because a man is not demonstrative he is lacking in affection. Lots of people just don't know how to publicize their emotions.

And quit crying. Use your tear ducts less and your funnybone more and see if you can't establish a better relationship with your husband. For you must be making him as unhappy as he is making you. That is the solution of your problem. Not packing up and leaving.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A few years ago I was quite prosperous, but my business failed and now I have been brought to poverty. I have a daughter who is comfortably married and has considerable earnings aside from her husband's salary. I spent many thousands of dollars on my daughter's musical education, out of which she now makes a good income. She has a car, a fine home and enjoy all that is best in life, wheras I am going about in rags unable to make a living. In your opinion should this daughter assist me at this time of her separate earnings?

R. J. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I not only think it is her duty, but that she should regard it a privilege that she should be able to repay some of your kindness to her, and she is an ingrate and lacking in all natural feeling if she does not do so.

Special Summertime Camps Helped By Easter Seals

TORONTO,—(CP)—More than 500 Ontario youngsters will spend carefree, sunshine-filled holidays this summer in specially equipped camps.

They will be enjoying only one of the benefits of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children which, in the last year, has treated and trained 2,100 children. Top-flight specialists have set up clinics where the youngsters have learned to become self-reliant and often self-supporting.

The society has blossomed from a small idea into small staff doing a big job. It has three objectives: To provide enough nurses to direct every crippled child in Ontario to medical treatment; enough holiday camps suitable for every crippled child; opportunity for every child to learn a skill or craft.

The objectives are within closer reach this year than ever before. Eleven nurses, each in her district, is seeking the children and arranging medical treatment.

Three summer camps will be in operation. Variety Village in Toronto, and Woodeden near London, are pilot schools on which, it is hoped, others will be patterned to fulfil the final objective.

The organization utilizes skills and facilities in existence. It has the financial backing of an army of men, members of more than 150 service clubs in the province.

Use Field Nurses

The society relies on the nurse in the field. She is qualified as an orthopedic consultant under the Ontario health department, which she represents in field studies on poliomyelitis surveys.

Working with school teachers, public health nurses, doctors and others, she hunts out children suffering from paralysis orthopedic handicaps (such as loss of arms or legs), harelips or cleft palates.

Occasional clinics for serious cases are arranged by her. The clinics are composed of leading specialists, including teams from the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. Treatment is prescribed: stays in hospital, therapy, operations, what ever is needed. Children requiring major treatment go to the Hospital for Sick Children.

The nurse keeps tab on the youngster. Where parents cannot afford long trips to centres where massage and therapy are provided she teaches the mother or a sister. Soon she may be able to report the child able to attend local schools or the society's schools for vocational training.

Next month the society and affiliated service clubs will seek public aid through sale of Easter seals. Purchases will mean treatment, holidays and health for crippled children now hidden in rural towns, northern cabins and in city slums.

What's Right

A boy telephones you for a last-minute date and you would like to go with him.

WRONG WAY: Feel that you must pretend that you already have a date in order to impress him with your popularity.

RIGHT WAY: Accept the invitation. If he enjoys the evening he won't wonder why you didn't have a date, but will feel that it was just his good luck that you didn't.

4 Negro Girls Die

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 22.—(AP).— Four small negro girls died here Tuesday when flames swept their home. Mary Pirtle, mother of the children, said she had left them alone to go a short distance into town to get some laundry.

14 Horses Burned

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 22 —(AP).— Fast-spreading flames swept a barn at the Washington county fair grounds Tuesday night, killing 14 harness race horses and causing loss estimated at more than $100,000. C. W. Hughes, superintendent of the fair grounds, said the horses were valued at $3,000 to $10,000 each and the barn at about $15,000.

Warsaw Players Capture Cribbage Trophy

Competition for the R. Knox trophy for cribbage doubles was held Tuesday night in the Peterborough Crib and Bridge Club rooms. Teams from DeLaval, Lakefield, Lindsay Peterborough and Warsaw were contestants. The winners were Messrs Banks and Boots of Warsaw with a score of 967 which is only one short of possible. A tie between Messrs. Bimmington and Jenkins of Lakefield and Miller and Cooper of Peterborough with a score of 947 for second place. Other scores were:

Hampton-Hudson 944 Lakefield; Galvin-Hopkins 941 Peterborough; Lee-Allan 938 Lakefield; Chambers-Gordon 937 Lindsay; Babbs-Airriess 936 Peterborough; Kemp-Tully 935, Lindsay; Haggerty-Graham 931 Peterborough; Bonisteel-Workman 929 Lindsay; Moir-St Thomas 926 Lindsay; Parcells-Payne 917 Warsaw; Patterson-McCann 915 Warsaw; Sharpe-Rogers 908 Warsaw; Robertson-Jackson 905 Lindsay; Richardson-Montgomery 901 DeLaval; Allen-Peacock 882 Lakefield; Halstead-Woodcock 869 DeLaval; Lucas-Robertson 868 Peterborough; Eadie-Payne 867 Lakefield; Chappell-Morris 853 Lakefield; Stevenson-Denault 838 Lindsay; Sharpe-Banks 814 Warsaw; Carpenter-Guppy 814 Peterborough.

Announcement was made that the singles competition for the L. Yeates Cup will be played on April 4 and that entries can be mailed to the club rooms 408½ George St.

He intimated it would be necessary to raise the public ward rates from $5.50 to $6.25 a day otherwise. Plus the provincial grant and revenue from extra services such as X-rays, operating room and special drugs this charge would meet costs.

On the old basis it would also have been necessary to raise the semi-private rates to $8 to patients outside the city. Through taxes city patients would contribute sufficient to make up the difference.

County's Present Scale

At present the county pays nothing an private patients, 25 cents a day on semi-private patients, 50 cents on public ward patients, and the statutory amount of $2.50 plus the 50-cent public ward charge on all indigents.

A motion by Reeves Melville Johnston of North Monaghan and James Gifford of Ennismore—to apply the Civic Hospital portion of the half-mill hospital levy toward wiping out the indigent patient deficit—was defeated.

"We'd be just financing the way of the fellow who pays nothing," said Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood. Public ward and semi-private patients should have some consideration too, he felt.

Motion Accepted

The result of the successful motion is that $4,200 will go toward wiping out the indigent patient deficit at Civic, and the half-mill may be used at the two hospitals as before.

Mr. Gifford pointed out that a similar demand was not coming from St. Joseph's.

"We have another hospital giving the same service to county patients," he said, "and they are not asking for any other consideration. We should have been informed of this request in January—that's the proper time."

There were no dissenters to the successful motion

Mr. Marshall told the members that the hospital was bound to take patients "if there is accommodation."

In reply to a question from Mr. Gifford, he said about 25 per cent of patients were covered by prepaid insurance.

"In many cases these pay only so much a day, however. There is only one I know of that pays the full cost—the Blue Cross."

Doctors Under Blue Cross

Mr. Johnston asked what the board chairman thought of the suggestion "th doctors be assessed for working in our workshop."

There is merit in the idea, stated Mr. Marshall, but the catch was: How to put it into practice.

In lieu of services to the hospital, the board has undertaken to pay Blue Cross premiums on doctors and their families. Formerly doctors were given free hospitalization and their families had a 50 per cent discount.

The saving is about 100 per cent, said Mr. Marshall. Last year the outlay was about $700.

OBITUARY

GEORGE WHITRED

George Whitred, an employee of the Hastings tannery for 48 years, died today at his residence in Hastings in his 86th year after a short illness. He was the husband of the late Annie Maude Graham and the son of the late George Whitred and Sarah Reid.

Born in Norfolk, England, Mr. Whitred came to Canada when he was seven years old. He first lived at Birdsall where he obtained his education. He then became a resident of Hastings. There he was a member of S. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Surviving are four sons, Cecil and Walter of Hamilton, Everett of Toronto and Stewart at home, two brothers, Timothy and William, both of Hastings.

Funeral will be held Friday from his residence where the service will be conducted by the Rev. J. N. Ritchie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Burial will be at the Trent Valley Cemetery, Hastings.

$100,000 For Grass

GUELPH, March 22.—(CP).—The United States Golf Association has spent more than $100,000 to make possible the best type of golf course grass, Dr. Fred V. Grau of the U.S.G.A. told a conference of turf specialists at the Ontario Agricultural College Tuesday. It takes a minimum of 20 years to develop and prove a new grass, he said.

Get New Nickname

TRAIL, B.C., March 22.—(CP). —This mining city in the Rockies let it be known Tuesday that it no longer is the "smoky city." From now on, the nickname will the "silver city." The "silver city" title—derived from silver output of a mining company here —was proposed by the board of trade and approved by city council.

Must Sign Name

BOSTON, March 22.—(AP) — Newspapers in Massachusetts printing letters to the editor would have to carry the name and address of the writer under a bill approved Tuesday by the State House of Representatives. Violations would be punishable by a $25 fine.

Watchman Tied Up Found In Boiler Room

LONDON, Ont., March 22 (CP) —Bound and unconscious, Benjamin Cradduck, 79, was found early today in the boiler room of the German Eckert plant where he was a watchman.

He was trussed with wire and a sack had been pulled over his head. Police said they believe he was beaten by thieves and carried to the boiler room.

Cradduck was taken to hospital. Investigators reported that he had a large swelling on his head.

Police started an inquiry to see if anything had been stolen from the east-side plant.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

NEW FACE FOR BASEMENT SPACE

Many a basement is getting its face lifted these days. The old fashioned cellar is giving way to modern, livable rooms.

One material being used to help make basements neat and attractive is Johns-Manville's White Finish Asbestocel. Asbestocel is an improved insulation for pipes and hot water storage tanks that are exposed to view. It is sparkling white and cleans easily with a damp cloth. It does not shrink, will not pull apart at the joints, and can't burn! Moreover, Asbestocel save many times its cost in fuel. In fact, it can cut your fuel needs up to ten per cent every year!

Cadogan Retires Replaced By Gladwyn Jebb

LONDON, March 22 (Reuters) —Sir Alexander Cadogan., Britain's "perfect diplomat," whose suave but hard-hitting speeches often riled Rusia's delegates, is retiring from his post as permanent British representative on the UN Security Council, the Foreign Office announced today.

Sir Alexander, who is 66 this year, and has had 42 years in the diplomatic service, will be succeeded by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, who at 50 is a leading Foreign Office expert on the United Nations.

Sir Gladwyn, Deputy Under-Secretary of State at the Foreign Office with the personal rank of ambassador, is known as one of Britain's hardest-working dilpomats. He sometimes spends 12 to 14 hours daily in committee work, then returns to put in several more hours in his office.

A tall, dour figure, with a high forehead, he has a quiet manner cloaking a strong personality.

Bevin's Deputy

Knighted in February last year he was one of the officials who worked out plans for the United Nations organization and deputized for Foreign Secretary Bevin as head of the British delegation at the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference in June, 1946.

Other changes announced today were:

Sir Pierson John Dixon, Ambassador in Prague, to replace Sir Gladwyn Jebb at the Foreign Office.

Sir Donald St. Clair Gainer, Ambassador in Poland, to be Permanent Under-Secretary in the Foreign Office, replacing Sir Iyone Kirkpatrick, recently appointed High Commissioner in Germany.

Charles Harold Bateman to be Ambassador in Warsaw. Bateman is now Assistant Under-Secretary supervising the Northern and Southern Departments of the Foreign Office.

PROPPED AGAINST THE DOOR where her young owner had sought shelter from the flames is the little stuffed doll that had been Yvette Degonghe's companion in death. Firemen found her body after the flames that destroyed the interior of her parent's home in Mackayville, Que., had been extinguished. Two other children, Yvonne, five and her brother Robert, were saved by a neighbor.

Children's Aid Plans Selection Of 1950 Officers

The Children's Aid Society elected the following to form a nominating committee prior to the annual meeting May 2:

Mrs. C. Pilon, chairman; Fred Ash, James Dutton and W. Grady.

A total of 390 families was known to the society during the month, of which 35 came to the attention of the staff during February.

Of the new situations 20 were families referred by personal application, other societies, police, relatives, employer, doctor, relief officer and neighbors. The problems presented were juvenile delinquency, poor physical care of children, non-support, lack of supervision of children, lack of resources for medical care, desertion and investigations in regard to family allowances.

In one instance a four-year-old child was found to have been without any supervision over a period of approximately seven hours. It was not until two days later that the parent contacted the society in regard to this child. On a charge of neglect against the mother, she was found guilty and the child made a ward on a temporary basis so that the parent could have the opportunity of proving her interest and of getting a home together for the child.

Seven Given Care

Seven children came into care. Two were applications for adoption of children who had been in the homes for several years, one was a private placement for adoption, one child referred to earlier who was made a temporary ward, three born out of wedlock, two of whom are being fully maintained by the parent, and the third made a temporary ward.

Four adoptions were completed and one ward reached her majority.

One child admitted to care was placed in the Shelter, three were placed in foster homes for the first time and one child moved from one home to another.

Medical and dental care for all children in the Shelter and in boarding homes has been completed.

Eight Unmarried

Eight unmarried cases were dealt with, two being requests from other societies to interview the alleged father, three requested assistance in planning for their babies and three made their own plans. One agreement and one court order for maintenance were completed.

The staff atended 37 hearings in Family Court. Fourteen were in regard to juveniles, six were in regard to wardship and charges under the Children's Protection Act and the other hearings referred to non-support and assault.

Mrs. L. Maguire reported for the Shelter committee that the Oddfellows gave the children tickets for the play-off games in the arena and took them there by car. Mr. and Mrs. M. Powell donated two tickets.

Mrs. F. W. Ross donated two tickets for a play in St. James' Church. Two Collegiate boys attended the basket ball games in Toronto.

Receive Donations

Donations were acknowledged by the Shelter committee from Mrs. Ward, Red Cross rooms; Junior Welfare League, Eatons; Mrs. L. Yeotes, PCVS, Mrs. Offa Williamson, George St. United Church, Mrs. Stevenson, 565 Water St.; M. W. Fowler, Game Warden Trotter and Trinity Young People's.

The sewing committee's report acknowledged sewing done bythe Young Married Couples' Class of Murray St. Baptist Church and St. James' Sunday School. The following people sewed:

Mesdames G. Pammett, A. Smedmore, Max Middleton, K. Jones, N. Barrie, L. Gibson, W. A. Post, C. R. Murduff, W. K. Sloan, A. W. Clark, L. H. Bird, G. H. Rowe, M. Hess, J. Finnie, F. W. Ross, M. W. Fowler, F. E. Geary, B. Pitchford.

Donations were acknowledged from Mrs. A. Smedmore, Group 3 WA, George St. United Church; per Miss E. Dewart, leader Mrs. W. F. Connal, Mrs. Helson, Charlotte St.; Mrs. Stan Gillespie, Lock St.; Mrs. Tobin, 556 Rogers St.; Mrs. H. G. McGinness, Mrs. R. Brooks, Omemee; Mrs. Wood, 748 George St. N.; Mrs. Ben Reid, Miss C. Hodgens, Junior Welfare League, Mrs. H. Dibben. League, Mrs. S. Shepard and Mrs. H. Dibben.

One hundred and thirty six articles were mended and 14 new ones were made.

Chrysler And Union Swap Peace Bids

DETROIT, March 22 (AP)—Company and union negotiators Tuesday night swapped peace bids in an effort to settle the Chrysler pensions strike which began 56 days ago.

The company's offer was its first since a week before the walkout of 89,000 workers started Jan. 25.

The proposal by the United Auto Workers (CIO) was its second since the strike started.

No details were made public on either proposal. However, both are believed to be general enough to bring a quick settlement. They are reported to cover both the pension dispute from which the strike stemmed and numerous other issues raised in recent weks.

Get 11-Day Recess

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — The Commons will take an 11-day Easter recess starting the evening of Wednesday, April 5, and extending to Monday April 17. Prime Minister St. Laurent told the chamber Tuesday he will introduce a motion to that effect today. He originally had suggested a recess from the night of Thursday, April 6, to April 17.

Find No Trace

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 22—No trace was found Tuesday of three men reported seen drifting to sea on an ice floe in Cook Inlet. Meanwhile, reports of fliers sighting khaki jackets on the drifting ice were spiked oy a helicopter pilot and a reported who said the "jackets" were merely paper bags full of garbage.

Mining Centres Concerned Over Tax Loss

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — Harry Nixon (L—Brant) Tuesday night asked in the Ontario legislature if some legislation could be introduced to guarantee mining municipalities definite amounts to compensate them for loss of taxes on mines. The municipalities tax mines only on profits and not on property values.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar said the municipalities are getting more money than they would receive if mine properties were assessed on their physical value.

CCF leader E. B. Jollife objected to the payment of $834,000 "as may be directed by the minister of municipal affairs."

No individual should have the discretion to dispose of such a large amount of money "especially when it can have such important political consequences as the minister of mines (Welland Gemmell, PC—Sudbury) well knows."

Mines Minister Gemmell said there has been a notable decline in the number of new cases of silicosis among miners in Ontario in the last five years. The number of new claims allowed as entitled to compensation in the event of disability was 26 last year compared with 54 in 1945. The figure was 68 in 1946, 46 in 1947 and 33 in 1948.

A. A. MacLeod (Lab. Prog.—Toronto Bellwoods) said pulp and paper operators who held land tracts of woodlands could be required to restore the lands they hold by lease to the Crown but mining operators who prospected and claimed property such as Steep Rock iron ore deposits held their rights in perpetuity.

18 Days In Jail For Stealing 18 Trees For Fuel

A 19-year-old Hastings youth, William Smith, was sentenced to 18 days in jail, one day for each tree he admitted stealing when he appeared Tuesday in police court before Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C.

Provincial Constable David W. Coffey testified Smith had stolen 22 trees Feb. 26 from the land of Ideal Location Co. Ltd., Lakefield, bordering the Trent river, near Hastings. Smith admitted taking 16 or 18 trees.

The constable said Smith had drawn the logs home for fuel, where he lived with his mother.

"What possible excuse could you have for doing a thing like this?" Magistrate Philp asked Smith.

"The only excuse was to keep warm," Smith answered. He said he had tried to buy firewood from a Hastings man, but the wood seller had his truck stuck in the bush and couldn't get it out.

He said he had money to buy wood, but when his supply at home was finished and he was unable to buy any, he went out and cut down 16 to 18 trees.

Magistrate Tells Pole Assault Not Allowed

An assault charge against Stephan Yuchno in police court Tuesday ended in a lesson for the Polish immigrant in the workings of Canadian law. Constable Edward Niziol interpreted explanations of Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., in police court Tuesday.

Yuchno pleaded guilty to striking and kicking his partner, Jan Czerniawski, on an Ennismore farm, but was puzzled why he should be brought into police court when Czerniawski had not required a doctor's attention.

He was told by the Magistrate through Constable Niziol, that any assault was against the law except under very special circumstances.

Yuchno was placed on suspended sentence for one year.

Czerniawski said, also through interpretor Niziol, that there had been considerable trouble between himself and his partner for some time. The immediate cause of the assault he said was that he went into the barn to get some reason Yuckno did not want him to have it.

With a third partner, who like them is a Polish immigrant, the two men have been farming the Ennismore land for some time.

LOBA Sponsors Play For Roseneath Folk

Delegates appointed to attend Grand Lodge in Cobourg on April 12-13 are Worthy Mistress Sister Edna Parker, Deputy Mistress, Sister Lena Andrews; alternates, Sister Lila Kirk and Sister Mary Small.

Kidnapping Children Red Crime—Pearson

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Liberal and Progressive Conservative members urged the government in the Commons Tuesday to take action against Communist-dominated countries for the abduction of children from Greece.

A. Wesley Stuart (L-Charlotte) and Harold Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton), asked that the government bring "every bit of pressure" possible to bear on these countries.

Mr. Fleming said the total of children kidnapped from Greece and spirited behind the Iron Curtain now reaches 28,000.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said he agreed that of all of the crimes the Communists this was the "most vicious."

The matter twice had been brought to the attention of the United Nations, and a resolution to facilitate the entry of the International Red Cross behind the Iron Curtain had been adopted.

He still hopes the Red Cross would be allowed to enter the Communist-dominated states to look for the children. He said the president of the International Red Cross will be in Ottawa shortly. He would ask him about it and "follow it up with anything we can do."

Police Visit Detroit To See Files

Hope To Put Finger On Evidence Of Windsor Gambling

TORONTO, March 23 (CP) — Attorney - General Porter said Ontario Provincial Police are in Detroit today investigating charges that vice is rampant in the neighboring Canadian city of Windsor.

If the investigators uncover enough evidence to warrant appointment of a Royal Commission, "one will certainly be named," Mr. Porter said in an interview.

"No decision has yet been reached whether we will intervene in the (Police Commission) inquiry taking place at Windsor, but you can be assured that if the Provincial Police present evidence of a nature which will warrant our intervention, by Royal Commission or otherwise, my department will certainly intervene."

The Detroit conference, he said brings together Douglas Bell of Chatham, special crown counsel in the inquiry which was adjourned last week, and Harry Toy, former Detroit police Commissioner.

Says He Has Details

Toy has said he knows details of alleged vice and rackets in Windsor and offered to testify before the police commission if invited. His offer had not been accepted when the inquiry was adjourned to enable Bell to seek permission to examine Detroit police files.

The Windsor inquiry was launched after Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan, convicting bootlegger Joseph Assef, referred to the fact that Assef's illicit business apparently had been "unhampered" by Windsor police.

Mr. Porter said there have been "a lot of wild statements" about the Windsor situation.

"But so far there has been no concrete evidence to support the charges that vice is rampant in Windsor. It's all very well for people to come forward and make wild statements but for my department to intervene we must have something on which to base a case."

Urge Toronto Start Fund To Help Quads

TORONTO, March 23 (CP) — A suggestion that a fund to help Sault Ste. Marie's Hargreaves quadruplets be set up here under city auspices was made today by David Balfour and Allan Lamport, members of the Toronto Board of Control.

Controller Lamport said a Toronto newspaper today quotes the Sault's Mayor Herbert Smale as announcing that civic officials in Sault Ste. Marie will do nothing further for Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hargreaves, who are reported considering offering their 5½-month-old babies for adoption because they are financially unable to provide proper care.

Mayor Smale's announcement was "callous," Controller Lamport told reporters.

"If there ever was a chance for Toronto to help, it's in this case," he said. "We should ask Toronto services to institute a campaign for the quads and the city could give its blessing and do anything we can to help."

Controller Balfour said he and Controller Lamport will ask the Board of Control to sponsor the fund, with city hall employees working on the administration work.

"It's really up to the provincial government to help this family, but since they can't get the help, I'll ask Toronto to do the job."

War Dept. Investigates Woolwich Arsenal Fire

LONDON, March 23—(Reuters)—War Department officials are investigating a big three-hour fire which broke out early today in the Great Royal Arsenal at Woolwich, near London. Police made a close check of persons going in and out of the four massive main gates.

More than 80 firemen, using "walkie-talkie" apparatus and 10 hoses, put out the flames, but a big storage and office building was severely damaged. It was one of the London area's biggest fires this year.

Firemen still were "damping down" the embers when workers arrived for the early morning shift.

Workers Suspended

Several employees were suspended in an anti-Communist purge at the arsenal last year. The Communist party admitted that one of them, Nellie Prouse, sold copies of the Daily Worker at the arsenal gate.

The arsenal has been Britain's chief armament producer. During the Second World War its research scientists produced such deadly weapons as "torpex," the most powerful underwater explosive.

Its 1,365 acres of works, sprawling along 3½ miles of the Thames waterfront include a gun factory, torpedo works, laboratory, and carriage, army ordnance and naval ordnance departments.

After the Second World War its 34,000 workers—the wartime peak—were cut to about 9,000 and most of them went over to manufacturing peacetimes goods. These ranged from giant turbine shafts to locomotive whistles.

The last big fire at the arsenal was in August, 1947, in an office in the waxing works.

Convict Posing As Constable

TIMMINS, March 23—(CP)—A nattily-dressed, 28-year-old ex-convict who used the name of a policeman slain in a gun battle at Sudbury last year, is wanted on charges of forgery, false pretences and impersonation.

Detectives said they are hunting for Jean Dubois, alleged to have cashed three cheques on the account of Constable Gerald Dault, one of three persons killed by gunfire when a Sudbury factory worker went berserk last summer. The other victims were a second policeman and a bystander.

Police said Dubois registered at a Timmins Hotel Feb. 24, flashed a police badge and said he was a Sudbury detective. He gave his name as Gerald Dault, investigators said. The hotel keeper cashed cheques for $24, $40 and $15.

The next night, police said, the man used the "police badge" to gain admission to a Timmins dance hall.

Dubois sneaked out a side door of the hotel, carrying his luggage, police said. They described Dubois as five feet seven inches tall. He has reddish wavy hair and is well dressed.

Detectives said he recently completed a term for armed robbery and is known to go under five aliases.

Workers Toss Grenades At Policeman

Armored Troops Free San Severo; Danger In Foggia

ROME, March 23—(AP)—Italian armored troops smashed a Communist-led uprising today in San Severo. Fifteen police and three civilians were injured, some by exploding hand grenades, in bitter street fighting.

The troops occupied Communist headquarters and the Chamber of Labor in the town of 38,000 in southeast Italy before order was restored.

Demonstrators isolated the town with road blocks and threw up barricades in the streets, they were protesting the death of a worker at Parma Wednesday during the country-wide general strike called by the Communist-led Italian Confederation of Labor.

Small police units tried to pierce the roadblocks. They were attacked with hand grenades. An armored column was then rushed to San Cevero, near the big wartime air base of Foggia.

Situation Tense

The situation in Foggia, a city of 64,000 about 200 miles southeast of Rome, was tense. Demonstrators there gathered in front of the Chamber of Labor headquarters. Police, reinforced by units of an artillery regiment, were on guard against any outbreak of violence.

Over most of Italy workers went back to their jobs. An exception was Parma, where the one death occurred yesterday. There the Chamber of Labor ordered the strike continue for another day in protest against police firing on demonstrators. Eight police and seven other demonstrators were injured.

Wilgress Delegate

OTTAWA, March 23—(CP) Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, will represent Canada at a meeting of the North Atlantic Defence, Financial and Economic Committee opening in London March 29. Edward Ritchie, Canadian member of the permanent working staff of the committee, will assist Mr. Wilgress.

Australia Uses Crimes Act Halt Disorders

CANBERRA, Australia, March 23 — (Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today in the House of Representative that the government had decided to invoke the Crimes Act to combat industrial disorders at present existing in Australia.

The Crimes Act gives the government emergency powers of a widespread nature such as immediate arrest and the banning of meetings.

Governor-General William McKell today issued a proclamation under the Act.

Menzies said those convicted of offences under the proclamation would be liable to imprisonment, and if they were not born in Australia would be liable to deportation.

The proclamation declared there was a state of serious industrial disturbance prejudicing or threatening trade and commerce with other countries and among the states of Australia.

Won't Fool

Menzies told a tense house: "we will deal with Communists here once and for all. We will carry the fight to the Communists."

If the Communists decided to fight the Australian people, he said, the Australian people would fight back and make it clear they "will not tolerate lawlessness and violent attack on the normal processes of peaceful trade and commerce."

Menzies said legislation would be introduced soon to deal with the Communists but in the meantime the government proposes to use existing powers under the proclamation.

South Monaghan Farmer Freed By Jury In 'Mercy Killing' Of Wife

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells Critical Of Expert Testimony Given By 29-Year-Old Toronto Pathologist

COBOURG, March 23—(CP and Special to The Examiner)—Ralph Kilbon is a free man today, acquitted of a charge of murder in the mercy slaying of his mentally-ill wife in their rambling, 18-room home in South Monaghan township. The quiet, semi-bald retired engineer, described by neighbors as a respected citizen, Wednesday was acquitted by a Supreme Court jury to which he had calmly admitted the "mercy killing" of his 54-year-old wife.

Dressed in a grey suit, the 56-year-old gentleman farmer told reporters: "I was not surprised at the verdict. I feel that what I did was a selfless act."

Will Return To Farm House

He was immediately set free and said he would eventually go back to the farmhouse where his wife, Irene, died Nov. 1, after she attempted to commit suicide by shooting herself in the stomach.

At the two-day trial, Kilbon was quoted as admitting that he fired a shot into his wife's temple when he found her slumped in their rural home, 15 miles northwest of this Eastern Ontario town.

He summoned police and told them: "I do not consider that I committed murder."

Defence Counsel J. J. Robinette told the jury of eight farmers; a blacksmith, a foreman and two laborers that what this man did was done from love or the confusion from his worried state.

Mr. Robinette said the Crown failed to prove that Kilbon's shot caused his wife's death and there was repeated evidence that the wound Mrs. Kilbon inflicted on herself was a mortal one.

She suffered from Huntington's corea, an incurable disease which caused mental deterioration and

Rapid Decline Reported In Divorce Rate

OTTAWA, March 23 (CP) — Canada's divorce rate is dropping rapidly.

At least it did during the last two years, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday night in coming up with some cold, hard, but nevertheless heartening facts.

In the last two years the national divorce rate fell from 65.3 to 44.9 per 100,000 population. Only Nova Scotia and Quebec showed increases.

On the Pacific coast apparently things were not as happy as they could have been. British Columbia was second behind Ontario in the number of divorces granted last year but the coast province's rate of 133.8 divorces per 100,000 population exceeded the rest of the country by a wide margin. However, it was down from the province's 155.5 rate of 1948.

The 1949 divorce total for Canada was 5,911 compared with 6,881 in 1948. But this was still well up on the comparatively domestically peaceful year of 1940 when the national total was 2,369 and the rate a mere 20.8 per 100,000 population.

Ontario had 2,376 divorces in 1949 compared with 3,107 in 1948, and British Columbia 1,491 compared with 1,683. Alberta's divorce total fell to 594 from 651; Manitoba to 411 from 477; New Brunswick 202 from 211 and Prince Edward Island 20 from 49.

Reeve Squirms As Wife Talks

PICTON, March 23 (CP) — A housewife rose to defend a county health unit Wednesday while her reeve-husband, opposed to the unit, squirmed in his seat.

The scene occurred at a meeting of Prince Edward County Council which will decide today whether to discontinue its grant to the county health unit, for economic reasons. The unit is financed by equal county and provincial grants. Last year each contributed $11,000.

Mrs. Hugh Macdonald, the housewife, said farmers get assistance from agricultural representatives and their wives should be afforded an equal service from the health unit for their children. Her husband, reeve of Bloomfield has expressed opposition to the unit on several occasions.

Several councillors said they were not impressed by the more than 1,000 signatures on the petition. They claimed many people signed their names without regard to the import of the petition.

Pair Given 10 Years In Brantford Rape

BRANTFORD, March 23 (CP) —Two 30-year-old district men, Wilfred Abbott, and George Grechulk, were sentenced Wednesday to 10 years in penitentiary for raping a 44-year-old married woman.

They were convicted by an Assize Court jury last week. Crown evidence was that the woman was waiting for a taxi to take her home from a hotel beverage room when she accepted a ride with the two men.

In pronouncing sentence, Chief Justice J. C. McRuer said it was "one of the most revolting cases I have ever had to try."

"Not only did you rape this woman but a doctor testified she received 12 blows, som of them quite serious."

Former German POW Wins 1st Class Honors

MONTREAL, March 23 (CP)—Willy Gottschalk, the 29-year-old former prisoner of war who 11 months ago was given a year to make good in Canada or return to Germany, chalked one up for himself today.

He was awarded a certificate of proficiency with first-class honors in chemistry from Montreal Technical Institute. Now the seaman is so confident authorities will let him stay in Canada that he intends to marry soon and settle on a southern Ontario farm.

Gottschalk was recaptured last March, 2½ years after he escaped from a farm at Tillsonburg, where he was working as a war prisoner. He was first captured in November, 1939, when a British warship seized his ship, the Henning Oldendorf, in the North Atlantic and was in prison camps in England, Scotland and finally Canada.

Ten Arrested Stealing Styles

PARIS, March 23.—(AP).—Ten persons have been arrested for trafficking illegally in the styles of famous fashion houses.

Police said a group of women were engaged in buying a few models each, copying them and selling the whole set to foreign dressmakers. French law stringently protects the rights of fashion designers to profit from their work.

The ring of copyists, police said had connections in Italy, Switzerland, Brazil and Lebanon.

DP Invades Rideau Hall

OTTAWA, March 23 (CP) — A 23-year-old Yugoslav DP found loitering in Government House who said he was the bearer of a "secret message" was remanded for a week when he appeared in police court Wednesday on a vagrancy charge.

The man was identified as Djahid Djelic of no fixed address. Police said he was arrested March 20 when discovered by a cook at Rideau Hall standing on a stair-landing outside the bedroom of Viscountess Alexander, wife of the governor-general.

RCMP are still investigating the case of the man who pleaded "not guilty" in clear, explicit English when brought before the court. His remand was to allow time for mental examination.

How the man gained entry to Rideau Hall has not been disclosed. Government House cook Roy Partridge testified he found the man on the landing. The man refused to disclose his business to the cook, who then called police

Six Die In Crash

AYLESBURY, Bucks., Eng.—March 23 (Reuters)—An RAF Anson plane nose-dived into a field near here today and burst into flames, killing the six occupants. It was the third fatal air crash in Britain in three days. A twin-engined Bristol freighter plane crashed in South Wales on Tuesday, killing the pilot and three passengers.

Aid For Korea

WASHINGTON, March 23—(CP)—The European Recovery administration has approved new foreign aid totalling $9,497,000 for Western European and Korea. The largest grant was for $2,250,000 and will be used by Korea to buy fertilizer in the United States and Canada.

Old Statesman Answers Crisis

BRUSSELS, March 23 (AP) — Count Henri Carton De Wiart, Belgium's oldest statesman, has been called on to convene with the country's most venerable political heads to try to solve the bitter question of King Leopold's return to the throne.

The 81-year-old Count was given the consultative job by acting-Premier Gaston Eyskens, whose coalition of Social Christians and Liberals government fell last week because it failed to unravel the sticky problem.

The Count immediately called for a solemn council of state to convene today—the first in Belgium since 1914 when the Germans invaded the country. The aged royalist was at the head of that council also.

Leaves $949,847

LONDON, March 23—(AP)—Hon. Peter Beatty, wealthy race horse owner who plunged to death from a hotel window last October rather than face blindness, left an estate valued at £306,399 ($949,847) probate of his will disclosed Wednesday. Beatty, 39, was the son of the late Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty.

Bradley In Hague For Defence Talks

WASHINGTON, March 23. — (AP).— Gen. Omar Bradley leaves today by plane for the Hague, the Netherlands, to go over regional defence plans with top military representatives of the 12 Atlantic Treaty allies.

Prior to his departure Bradley conferred with State Secretary Dean Acheson. Francis H. Russell State Department Director of Public Affairs, said Wednesday that Acheson will visit London, probably in May, to discuss pact defence problems.

Bradley, chairman of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, will preside at a meeting of the military committee of the North Atlantic Treaty countries March 28. The announced purpose of this conference is to consider the accomplishments of five regional planning groups. These groups are planning for the defence of northern Europe, western Europe, southern Europe, North America, and the North Atlantic Ocean.

Worst Winter Blizzard Paralyzes Brockville

BROCKVILLE, March 23 (CP) —This eastern Ontario community threw its now fighting machinery into high gear today in the teeth o one of the worst blizzards to hit this area within recent year.

Snow began falling late Wednesday and has all but clogged city streets. City Engineer O. T. Heuston reported at noon that although all snow equipment was at work, they were fighting a losing battle.

The highways department warned all motorists that highways are dangerous. Transport service is running behind time.

Vancouver Hoodlum Gangs One Up On Police Force

VANCOUVER, March 23 (CP) —Hoodlum gangs, heedless of police and a wave of public indignation, are continuing their inexplicable quarrel with citizens, the law and rival juvenile factions.

Destructive sorties of the zoot-suited youths began five months ago with the near-fatal stabbing of a youngster. An apparent climax was reached Wednesday night. Police blamed teen-agers for a fire that destroyed a large storage barn.

The gang members, armed with spring-knives—known as "shivs" — brass-knuckles — and lead-weighted rings, roam in organized groups, destruction apparently their sole aim.

Last week at a teen-age dance, rival gangs from several districts started a free-for-all outside the hall despite the presence of eight police prowler cars, numerous plainclothes men and a paddy wagon.

Police, probation officers and youth workers estimate there are eight to 12 organized gangs in the city.

Members of a suburban Burnaby gang claim they can raise a fighting force 100-strong.

Police Chief Walter Mulligan last week organized a four-man "youth guidance detail" to smash the gangs.

Many reasons are given for the outbreak of brutality and vandalism, brutality that includes kicking a rival in the face with heavy boots until he is unconscious.

Hubert S. Banner, vice-president of the Vancouver Boys' Club Association, said today he blames public apathy and the lack of parents' interest in the activities of their children.

Searchlights, Red Carpets Accompany Oscar Award

HOLLYWOOD, March 23 (AP) Oscar, still a little pale from last year's near demise, will make his 22nd appearance on schedule tonight.

Searchlights, stars, red carpets and all the conventional trappings of the annual motion picture academy awards have been assembled, yet the level of enthusiasm along Movie Row definitely is sub-standard.

For a time, while major studios withheld monetary support, it appeared that the yearly bestowal of honors might pass into history. But the producers finally came through with a financial shot in the arm for Oscar.

Up for best picture of 1949 are "All the King's Men" (Columbia), "Battleground" (MGM), "The Heiress" (Paramount), "A Letter to Three Wives" (20th-Fox) and "Twelve O'Clock High" (20th-Fox).

Best actress nominees are: Jeanne Crain ("Pinky"), Olivia De Havilland ("The Heiress"), Susan Hayward "My Foolish Heart"), Deborah Kerr ("Edward, My Son") and Loretta Young ("Come to the Stable").

Nominated for best actor are Broderick Crawford ("All the King's Men"), Kirk Douglas ("Champion"), Gregory Peck ("Twelve O'Clock High"), Richard Todd ("The Hasty Heart") and John Wayne ("The Sands of Iwo Jima").

Academy officials are somewhat disturbed by the likelihood that 20 per cent of the nominees will be absent, on location or abroad, when the ceremonies start at 11 p.m. EST in the 2,800-seat RKO Pantages theatre.

Awards presented tonight will be the result of balloting among some 2,000 Academy members. Nominations were made by vote among 10,950 workers in the industry. More than 25 professional categories and a long list of technical achievements are represented in the tally.

Says Western Envoys Arming Terrorists

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 23 (AP)—Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek today accused western diplomatic missions here of arming "terrorists" against the state. He also charged the western countries with sending spies here in the guise of religious missionaries.

Regarding the diplomatic missions, Nosek told parliament police put down two attempted revolts against the state last year. He claiced these plots were engineered by "British spies."

He cited Capt. Philip Wildash, former British military permit officer, as one of the spies. Wildash was expelled last year on charges of anti-state activities.

"We have proved cases," Nosek declared, "in which some members of the diplomatic corps from the west . . . helped criminals, desperadoes and frauds cross the border illegally."

Say Alaska Will Be U.S. Fortress

Big Building Program At Outside Bases Started For Defence

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP) — The United States military forces are embarking upon a huge building program at bases outside the continental limits of the U.S., especially in Alaska.

They propose to spend on these bases about $239,409,000 of the $665,000,000 they are asking Congress to authorize for military public works.

The idea is to safeguard the U.S. from a sudden "sneak punch," possibly with atomic weapons.

The announced bases that will be strengthened range from Alaska to Okinawa, Hawaii, Kwajalein and Johnston Island in the Pacific to Bermuda in the Atlantic, up to Labrador, over to the Azores; Libia and Saudi-Arabia.

Alaska apparently is to be made into a bristling air defence fortress. A total of nearly $117,861,000 is to be poured into that frontier nearest Russia.

Many Devices

The air force proposes to spend about $43,637,000 for such items as units of the radar "fence," long-range weather stations and highly-secret "interceptor stations" capable of eavedropping on messages 1,000 to 2,000 miles away.

Net Income Of CGE Reduced $793,704

TORONTO, March 23.—(CP).—The Canadian General Electric Company today reported net income of $4,506,375 in 1949, a decrease of $793,704 from 1948. Net earnings represented 4.3 cents of the sales dollar as against 5.5 cents in 1948.

The annual report shows orders received during the year were $102,295294, and sales billed were $103,828,020. Current assets amounted to $31,247,468; current liabilities totalled $11,343,056, leaving a working capital of $19,904,412, a decrease of $1,380,350.

Fixed assets at cost totalled $43,668,607, a decrease of $3,463,776. Capital expenditures amounted to $5,970,954, compared with $7,722,423 in 1948; assets dismantled or sold totalled $2,507,178, the major portion of which represented facilities sold to a subsidiary company.

Liberals Oppose Civil Marriages

TORONTO, March 23—(CP)—Liberals in the Ontario legislature and two CCF members Wednesday voted against the principle of civil marriages shortly before the House gave second reading to a new marriage act.

The 14-man Liberal group, along with C. H. Millard (CCF, York West) and T. H. Isley (CCF, Waterloo South), supported an amendement by Harry Nixon (Lib., Grant) expressing disapproval of civil marriages and asking that the bill be not given second reading. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 63 to 16.

The House then unanimously approved the bill which also provides for registration of clergy of non-denominational groups such as the Salvation Army, sets out regulations for marriage by publication of banns, and assists persons who can not prove their wife or husband is dead but wish to remarry.

169 Bulls Sell For $91,755

TORONTO, March 23 (CP) — Some 169 bulls were auctioned for a total of $91,755 Wednesday as the Ontario Beef Cattle Improvement Association's annual sale moved into its second day.

Top price was $1,500, paid for an Aberdeen Angus steer, Bandolier of Maple Grove 23rd and owned by Lloyd Mack of Rockwood, Ont. The animal was judged champion Angus Tuesday.

Ransom 12C, a Shorthorn bull owned by the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, was bought by Maple Cattle Breeders' Association for $1,300.

Average prices were $550 each for Herefords, $553 for Aberdeen Angus and $517 for Shorthorns.

CNR-TCA Deficits Discussed In Commons

OTTAWA, March 23 — (CP) — It was railroad day in the Commons yesterday.

Railroads and allied transportation problems came before the Chamber as it passed $65,986,459 in further supplementary estimates to clean up government expenditures in the 1949-50 fiscal year ending March 31. The Chamber then voted $239,801,620 of interim supply to cover government expenses for the next two months.

One of the major debates of the short Wednesday afternoon sitting swirled around the deficits of the government-owned Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines before Trade Minister Howe said they could be examined next week by the House committee on railways and canals.

The CNR showed a deficit for 1949 of $42,043,028; TCA's deficit was $4,317,594 on domestic and Atlantic services.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, pounced on the TCA deficit, citing figures to show how it had grown in recent years, and demanded a full explanation.

Blames World Crashes

Mr. Howe, the minister who reports to parliament for TCA, gave a number of reasons—crashes around the world which had discouraged air travel; empty seats on TCA's winter flights across the Atlantic and investment in bigger planes to double the seating capacity of the aircraft.

Quebec Indians At Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del., March 23—(AP)—A band of Quebec Indians gathered on the banks of the Delaware River today wearing plastic helmets in place of their tribal headdress.

The "weapons" they carried were rivet hammers.

The Indians, mostly from the Caughnawaga reservation near Montreal, are veteran "high steel men" employed by the American Bridge Company to work on the huge span to be erected across the river from a point south of Wilmington to New Jersey.

Fred Montour, one of the first to arrive, related that Caughnawagas have been building bridges since 1886, when their skill was discovered during the construction of a Canadian Pacific Railway bridge over the St. Lawrence.

Need Understanding

MONTREAL, March 23 (CP)—No other institution has a greater stake in mutual understanding, education and peaceful living together than the newspaper, Leonard W. Trester, Washington, D.C., told the Advertising and Sales Executive Club of Montreal Wednesday. Mr. Trester is chairman of the committee on advertising of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Jailed Two Days

MONTREAL, March 23 (CP) — Merchant seaman John Morris was fined $10 and sentenced to two days in jail after he pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge of disobeying an officer's order while his crew was moored in Cuba last spring. Morris had been sought in connection with trouble aboard Canadian Victor during the Canadian Seamen's Union strike. He was arrested Tuesday.

created tendencies toward suicide.

At the trial, police and neighbors quoted him as saying his wife shot herself while he was outside getting a pail of water—shortly before she was to have gone to Whitby Mental Hospital. She was conscious when he found her. At her request he picked her from the floor and put her in the chair. Then he fired the bullet in her head.

Medical witnesses for both the Crown and defence said both wounds were severe enough to cause almost immediate death.

Said Mr. Robinette: "When Kilbon fired the second shot Irene Kilbon was dead; legally, medically, and from the standpoint of common sense."

Kilbon said he would go to New York with his brother for a rest and later would return to his farm in South Monaghan. "I am going to try and pick up from where I left off. I don't know how successful it will be. I told the police I did not consider I committed murder. I feel that what I did was a selfless act."

Judge's Address

In his address to the jury, Mr. Justice Dalton Wells said a proper and dispassionate verdict should be given by a jury in a criminal case.

"I am asking you for a careful, full investigation and to make an honest decision, unaffected by prejudice or shrinking from duty, based on an honest and just consideration of the facts.

"If there is a reasonable doubt as to his guilt, then it is your duty to acquit him. The mere fact that he has been arrested and charged does not mean he is guilty. By reasonable doubt, I mean an honest doubt. If there is not a moral certainty of guilt, then there is a reasonable doubt, and an accused man is entitled to the benefit of that doubt," he said.

"If Kilbon's act accelerated her death, although she was suffering from the effect of some other disease or act, in her case a self-inflicted wound, then he caused her death," declared His Lordship after reading the section of the Criminal Code relative to hastening death.

"If you find he accelerated her death, then he killed her, and it would come within the definition of murder as I have read it. While people may feel that an inflicted death may be justified, the fact remains that the law still considers such an act as murder.

"Newspapers have referred to such cases as 'mercy killings,' but as far as the law is concerned, it is not 'mercy' killing but 'murder' killing. The law will stand until it is changed, and the place to change it is not in the jury chamber but in Parliament," His Lordship said.

He went on to caution the jury in its consideration of the medical evidence because medical opinion varied and the jury should proceed with due caution in its interpretation of the medical opinions given in evidence at the present trial. Continuing he said that Kilbon told police he did not consider his act as murder. Kilbon was in no position to know if her first wound was going to be fatal, and when he said he had "finished" her he was assuming that she was dying. Medical evidence was that when the inferior vena cava was shattered her life blood spilled into her body.

"Her circulatory system then collapsed. I ask you how long could she have possibly lived under those circumstances," he said.

His Lordship said that he felt that when Dr. Gold had become more experienced over the years, he would not be so dogmatic and positive in his opinions. But Dr. Gold told Mr. Robinette on cross-examination that both injuries were fatal in themselves and both would have caused death in a matter of minutes. "I think that what Dr. Gold admitted on cross-examination was the same as Dr. Dolye. Therefore it seems to me that it is impossible to determine which wound caused death and there is such a substantial doubt that the Crown cannot establish its case beyond reasonable doubt," declared His Lordship.

The Times of London gives a salute to Canada with a current special edition entitled "1950 Survey of Canada and World Trade."

The 32 pages are lavishly illustrated with nearly 100 pictures and maps. There are air views of Canadian cities and dozens of industrial and scenic views, among them pictures of the automobile plants at Windsor and Oshawa.

The Canadian National Trade Fair, coming up May 29-June 9 at Toronto, gets a big play. More than 100,000 extra copies, additional to regular circulation, have been put out.

In a front-page introduction the Times says in part:

"In a world which has tended since the war to divide for many purposes into separate groups, Canada and the United Kingdom share one thing in common. Neither belongs exclusively to any group of countries, and each has the distinction almost peculiar to themselves, of being a link which joins the separate groups together and helps to unite them in one family.

Many Other Ties

"The United Kingdom belongs to the Commonwealth, with all the privileges and obligations which that entails, but has also close special ties and is bound by many common interests and traditions with Europe; withal, she insists on remaining primarily herself.

"So Canada likewise cherishes her membership in the Commonwealth, with her inheritances of British and European culture, but will not and cannot let that impair her intimate contact with her great southern neighbor, in the same way she finds the best and indeed the only answer to her problem in being essentially Canadian.

Citizens of World

"Both countries are intent on being citizens of the world at large. Both belong by nature to more than one group of nations and have a great part to play in fusing the separated groups together."

A message from Prime Minister St. Laurent, welcoming visitors to the Trade Fair, states:

"It is our conviction in Canada that the restoration of trade on a multilateral basis is essential to the maintenance of the economic strength of the world, and that lasting peace and security in the world depend as much on economic as on military strength."

There are articles by M. Grattan O'Leary, associate editor, the Ottawa Journal; G. V. Ferguson, editor, the Montreal Star; John Fisher, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation commentator; by Federal and Provincial ministers, industrial and scientific leaders.

J. A. Bickell, Oshawa Dies At 80; Churchman

James Alfred Bickell, 80, of Oshawa, died Tuesday. He had been seriously ill but recovered and enjoyed good health until taken ill two weeks ago. Mrs. Bickell, the former Annie J. Emerson, is known to many people in Peterborough.

Mr. Bickell was a lifelong resident of the Oshawa district and proprietor of the insurance agency which bore his name.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Bickell, he was born in East Whitby township on February 15, 1870.

An active member and elder of Simcoe Street United Church, he had served as Sunday School Superintendent of Metcalfe Methodist Church and later held a similar position in King Street Methodist Church.

Predeceased by his first wife, the former Sarah Jane Crowe, on March 20, 1941, he leaves his wife, the former Annie Emerson and one daughter, Mrs. E. L. Petley (Olive) of Toronto.

The Rev. J. K. Moffat, minister of Simcoe Street United Church, conducted the funeral in Simcoe Street United Church today. He was assisted by Rev. J. S. I. Wilson. Burial was in Bowmanville Cemetery.

Exchange Envoys

NEW DELHI, March 23 (AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman said Wednesday negotiations have been completed between India and Communist China for exchange of diplomatic representatives. He said Sardar K. M. Panikkar, former Indian ambassador to the Nationalist government, will probably be India's ambassador in Peiping.

N.Y. Producer Dies

NEW YORK, March 23—(AP)—Arthur Hopkins, 71, who produced or directed 80 plays during a long theatrical career on Broadway, died Wednesday of a heart ailment. Hopkins went to work as a reported after leaving High School; did theatre press agent work for a while, then turned to theatre production and became one of Broadway's leading producers.

Obituaries

C. HERMAN WHITCROFT

While holidaying at Clearwater, Fla., C. H. (Whit) Whitcroft, of Franklin, Mich., a former Peterborough resident, died suddenly last week. He was in his 50th year.

His mother, Mrs. Laura Whitcroft, lives at 313 Stewart St.

Mr. Whitcroft was born and educated here attending Queen Mary and PCI. He was the son of the late William Whitcroft and Laura Webber. He left Peterborough in 1918 and went to Toronto and later to St. Catharines and Walkerville.

For a number of years he lived in Seattle and then he moved to Detroit. For several years he also lived in Chicago. He studied drafting and engineering and was the works manager of the Mechanical Handling Co., Detoit.

Besides his mother he leaves his wife, the former Olive Holland, two sons, William and Fred, and a daughter, Doris.

The body will be taken to the Comstock Funeral Home upon arrival at the C.P.R. station, 8.40 p.m. today. Service will be from the funeral home Saturday, 2.30 p.m. the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

JOSEPH BENNETT

A member of the DeLaval Company's Quarter Century Club, Joseph Bennett, 88 Park St. south, died today in the Civic Hospital after an illness of two months. He was born in Reading, Berkshire, England, 63 years ago, the son of the late Samuel Bennett and Rhoda Hill. His wife is the former Jane Hayward.

Mr. Bennett came to Peterborough 26 years ago from Cobourg where he had lived 15 years after migrating from England. He was an employee of the DeLaval Company for 26 years. Mr. Bennett was a member of the Peterborough Bowling Club and the Salvation Army.

Surviving are his wife, one son, Frank John, at home, five sisters, Mrs. J. Wood (Emily) of Vancouver; Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer and Mrs. J. Brinklow (Florence), both of Medicine Hat; Mrs. E. Johnston (Rose), of St. Anne de Bellevue, and Mrs. D. Clement (Edith) of Peterborough.

The body will be resting at the Kaye Funeral Home until Saturday noon when it will be taken to the Salvation Army Temple on Simcoe St. for the service at 2 p.m. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

THOMAS JAMES RYAN

A lifetime resident of Otonabee township, Thomas James Ryan, died early today in hospital after almost two weeks' illness. Mr. Ryan, who was in his 77th year, lived on Lot 29, Concession 5, Otonabee (RR 1 Indian River).

He was born in Otonabee, son of the late Michael Ryan and Elizabeth Sullivan.

Left are his wife, the former Elizabeth Doherty; a daughter, Mrs. Walter Barry (Dorothy), Peterborough; two sons, Raymond of Calgary and Joseph at home; a sister, Mrs. Hannah Doherty of Peterborough; three brothers, William of Calgary, Dennis of New York City, and John of Douro. He also leaves four grandchildren.

The funeral will be from the residence at 8:30 a.m. Saturday to St. Joseph's Church, Douro, for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH WILLIAMSON

After a lingering illness Mrs. Elizabeth Williamson of 164 Prince St. died Wednesday in hospital. She had been a resident of Peterborough for the past 35 years.

The former Elizabeth Hyland, daughter of the late Andrew Hyland and Mary Fitzgerald, she was born and educated in Blackstock, Ontario.

Mrs. Williamson leaves two sisters—Mrs. James Parr of Blackstock and Mrs. Levi McGill of Peterborough—and a stepson Elgin, also of Peterborough. Her husband the late Robert John Williamson died in 1927.

She was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The funeral will be at the Comstock Funeral Home, Friday at 2 p.m., the Rev. C. G. Boyd officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

To Present Mace

VICTORIA, B.C., March 23 (CP) —A mace, British Columbia's gift to the Newfoundland legislature, will be presented April 5 at St. John's by B.C. Finance Minister Anscomb. Mr. Anscomb, who made the announcement Wednesday, will make the presentation on behalf of Premier Byron Johnson now in Britain.

Prisoner Freed To Die At Home

DETROIT, March 23—(AP)—A broken old woman serving a life prison term for a crime of passion was free today to go home and die of cancer.

The children of Mrs. Minnie Lambert, 61, came here to take her home.

Governor G. Mennen Williams commuted her sentence Wednesday after he was advised by doctors she had only six to 10 days to live. For the last 18 years she has been a prisoner in the Detroit House of Correction.

Her children pleaded with the Governor for her release "so she won't have to die in prison."

The woman was convicted in 1932 of first-degree murder for plotting the shotgun slaying of her husband, Darius, so she could marry his brother, Albert.

Prices Move Narrowly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 23 (CP) — Prices moved in a narrow path on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Volume for the first three hours was 715,000 shares.

Royalite Oil featured western oils, climbing ⅜ to 11 and touching a new high at 11⅜ in brisk dealings.

Industrials were mixed. Most changes were held to fractions as the majority of the li . pushed upwards. Papers, steels and refining oils were firmer while textiles, agricultures and constructions sagged.

A handful of key gold producers brightened in slightly increased trading. Consolidated Smelters again dipped in a quiet base metal list.

Move Graveyard For Big Dam

ST. GEORGE, Man., March 23. (CP)—They're even going to dig up the graveyard to make way for the wheels of progress in this erstwhile - slumbrous village of 550.

Some 95 miles northeast of Winnipeg on the banks of the Winnipeg river, St. George is smack in the middle of the $20,000,000 Pine Falls power project. When completed in 1952 a dam will spread water over the north and south banks of the river, where trim farm buildings, a school and the parish cemetery now nestle.

Paper work is due to start soon on the task of picking up the lower section of the village and moving it to higher land. Some buildings can be salvaged, but many will be torn down. The town's largest structure—the Roman Catholic church — will remain untouched.

The feeling of the villagers is somewhat mixed. At first there was consternation at the thought of moving the cemetery, but now it is accepted as inevitable.

Harbor Revenues Increased In 1949

OTTAWA, March 23—(CP)—Traffic and revenues of harbors administered by the National Harbors Board showed improvement during 1949.

Transport Minister Chevrier Wednesday tabled in the Commons the annual report of the board. It showed that cargo tonnage was six per cent higher than in 1948 and revenues 10 per cent.

The report said a large increase in grain shipments contributed to the improvement. In addition, petroleum and its products, anthracite coal, cement and iron ore moved in greater quantities. However, there were decreases in bituminous coal, lumber, pulpwood, logs, wood-pulp, wheat flour and general cargo.

100 Children Saved

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 23—(AP)—A hundred children of the Colorado School for Deaf and Blind were led to safety Wednesday when a $500,000 fire gutted the main building here.

Making The C.N.R. Pay

Mr. Donald Gordon, the new president of the Canadian National Railways, thinks that he has found a method of making that annual money-loser show a profit. This is good news. For many years the C.N.R. has dragged along a burden of debt, and its deficits have been made good by the taxpayers of the country. If Mr. Gordon can make it pay its way, he will have earned the gratitude of every Canadian taxpayer.

* * *

We do not pretend to understand his scheme; it is a complex study in finance and in railway management. Some of those who do understand it question whether it will work as well as Mr. Gordon imagines. But their disbelief has been expressed in very moderate terms. It is plain that they are impressed by Mr. Gordon's proposals, even if they do not wholly agree with them. There is one point which the critics have made, however, which will command widespread agreement; it will be unfair if the C.N.R. is given advantages over its privately-owned competitor, the C.P.R., merely because it can call heavily upon government funds. The C.P.R. has served Canada well, and has made money, without having a government for a fairy godmother; it should not be victimized now to support any theory of public ownership.

* * *

Mr. Gordon is one of Canada's financial wizards. If he has really found a way to make the C.N.R. pay his wizardry will command admiration far beyond our Canadian boundaries. And the tonic effect of financial respectability upon the employees of the line itself should be great enough to alter the character of the C.N.R. substantially.

Newfoundland To Cater To Tourists

Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland told that Province's legislature of his government's intention to go into the tourist business. Heretofore Newfoundland has had transients on business, not tourists pleasure-bent. Premier Smallwood remarked that he was rather relieved that the Province had almost no tourist cabins and the like, for now it can get off to a clean start, with high standards, and no third-rate shacks to license. If it were not that the tourist business has been a bonanza to this district for a quarter-century we could wish that our slate were clean; the lake shores still open, the highway front at Bewdley still innocent of gas stations, garages and hot-dog stands.

How refreshing it would be to start all over. But we cannot. Instead, there must be the slow, awkward business of improving on what we have, tearing down when possible, and painfully reaching higher standards of tourist accommodation and scenic attractiveness, restoring our flora and fauna, and restocking our lakes. We have had a good tourist past, and if we watch our step, we can have an even brighter future. But one cannot help but envy Newfoundland, building from bed-rock.

Stinking Soap

Professor Bertsch, head of the department for chemicals in the Ministry for Industry of the "German Democratic Republic", (known otherwise as eastern and Communist Germany), has published an article in an official Soviet newspaper about their synthetic soap. It is in reply to readers' complaints that the ersatz soap stinks.

He says: "There is no doubt that our present soap does not yet compare in its odoriferous qualities with what we were used to. We can in no way object to the reproach that our soap 'stinks', to stick to a simple, straight-forward expression. It annoys us in the Government as much as it does the housewife. But we consider it decisive that our soap is produced from raw materials which we can produce synthetically on the territory of our democratic Republic—not from materials that stink in a different sense . . . . Admittedly the West German soap does not stink. But it is produced chiefly from vegetable oils which are bought with Marshall dollars from the world's capitalist hemisphere. Fortunately our soap does not stink in that sense".

This is only one segment from the apologist's article—a libretto for soap opera bouffe. Soft soap, synthetic East German style. While we laugh as West Germans are laughing over the article—we can take some glee that even the soft soap in the capitalistic west has a more attractive smell than the Communist propaganda.

Peace Now, But Not By A 20-Year Plan

Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of United Nations, has proposed that there be a twenty-year peace plan to relax international tensions and to bring the cold war to an end. It is a great idea, but, we think, unrealistic. Not that we believe that war is absolutely inevitable within the next two decades. However, the preservation of peace during that time cannot come as a result of such a long-term plan, especially a plan devised by U.N. It will have to be piece-work, by the major powers directly.

Notwithstanding the present dangerous tensions, and the armaments race, present day people have advanced politically. In any other century, even in the first quarter of our own, could international affairs have come to such an awful pass and war been avoided, as it has in these last three years? In no period of civilization in the last thousand years have the basic causes of world upheaval been more portentous, deeper, more pervasive than the present fission between two modes of political thought, and two systems of society. At no other time in history have the weapons for waging war been so numerous and deadly. Yet despite the tensions which make for war, and the weapons with which to wage it, war has been avoided.

If society's political maturity is not keeping abreast of its scientific and mechanical cunning, political man is wiser, more mature than ever before. For, somehow, in the face of all the odds, the nations, leaders and international groups have successfully avoided war in these years when, by the logic of history, war could not be avoided.

Community Campaign Success

Ten days after the scheduled closing of the Community Fund campaign to raise $75,000 for local welfare work, the goal has been reached, and surpassed by $1,000. It was in sight by March 10th, and the committee wisely continued the campaign quietly to allow various canvassing groups more time to make up their allotments. The successful end to the campaign is a tribute to the generosity and good sense of the contributors, to the work of the canvassers, and a guarantee that the welfare organizations supported by monies from the Fund will be able to continue their good work throughout the year without financial impediments.

We have only one slight regret—that the objective was not reached within the one week's campaign. Perhaps next year attempts will be made to get reports and subscriptions into headquarters early in the week, so that before the scheduled end, canvassers and citizens alike will know whether final spurts are necessary.

How To Lower The Car Insurance Rates

Montrealers pay the highest automobile insurance rates in the country. They are disturbed about this, and point out that in Vancouver where the ratio of motor fatalities per hundred thousands of population is greater, the rates are lower. The Dominion Board of Insurance Underwriters has figures up its sleeve to show why there is the difference in rates. Insured persons in Montreal made nearly twice as many claims as those insured in Vancouver.

One way, therefore, to get a reduction in a district's insurance rates, is to reduce the number of claims. And the surest way of reducing the number of claims is not to rely on people saying to insurance companies: Oh, don't bother paying. I'll pay. The best way to reduce the number of claims is to reduce the accident rate.

If all other arguments fail to convince drivers that they must use greater care on streets and roads, perhaps the dollar argument will succeed. In general, districts which have fewer car accidents have lower insurance rates. Rates are always highest in the big cities.

One other remedy Montreal motorists might seek. They could move to a smaller place like Peterborough, where the rates are lower. We would welcome them, provided they left their accident-propensities at home.

Shakespeare Memorial Theatre

By ANTHONY QUAYLE
Director of the Memorial Theatre

ON the banks of the river at Stratford-upon-Avon stands a severe and simple building which is one of the best known theatres in the world. The present Shakespeare Memorial Theatre is only seventeen years old, yet it is internationally famous. Visited by a quarter-of-a-million people every year from all the corners of the earth, the theatre itself, and the festival of Shakespeare's plays which is held there every season, have become so established that they now carry the reputation of an English tradition.

❖ ❖ ❖

WHEN Shakespeare died in 1616 play acting was forbidden in Stratford. His anniversary was not publicly celebrated until nearly 150 years later. Even then his plays were not performed there. Dances, banquets and fireworks were organized by the great David Garrick himself—but no plays! Charles Edward Flower, a prominent resident in Stratford in the last century, began in 1874 a scheme for building a theatre for the town. He had always visualized Stratford as a centre of pilgrimage for the lovers of Shakespeare, with an important theatre of its own, and he presented a two-acre site on the banks of the river for this purpose. He met with the most violent opposition in the local and the National Press. But nothing deterred him, and on April 23, Shakespeare's birthday, in 1879 the first Memorial Theatre was opened with a Shakespeare Festival. From that time, Festivals were held for a few weeks every year; but it was not until 1923 that they lasted for six months.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN 1886 Frank Benson gave his first season at Stratford, which started an historic association lasting for nearly thirty-five years, broken only by Osmond Tearle's Company from 1889-1890, and Ben Greet's Company in 1895. Frank Benson began the golden years at Stratford: the reputation of the theatre spread, the audiences increased, people came from overseas to visit the town, with its old streets and timbered houses and its theatre, and Charles Flower's dream was realized. During the last years of the first World War the Memorial Theatre was closed, but Benson returned for the 1919 season, ending his long association the following year. For his services to the British Theatre—particularly for his work at Stratford—he was knighted by King George V. The sword used at the ceremony was a theatre sword brought from the property room at Drury Lane. In 1925 King George granted the Memorial Theatre a Royal Charter of Incorporation. Then, in 1926, like two other famous theatres—Drury Lane and Covent Garden—Stratford's theatre was burned to the ground: only the museum and library, containing priceless books and other treasures, escaped the fire. The world was shocked by the disaster, with one notable exception; Bernard Shaw announced, "I'm glad to hear the news. It will be a tremendous advantage to have a proper modern building."

❖ ❖ ❖

THE fire did not stop the festival. For the next six years it was held at the local cinema, while the Chairman of the Board of Governors, Sir Archibald Flower, began a world-wide campaign for funds to rebuild the theatre. Thanks to his enthusiasm, and the strong backing of the press, nearly a quarter-of-a-million pounds were subscribed to the fund. American contributions alone amounted to some £125,000. In 1929, three years after the fire, the foundation stone of the new theatre was laid.

The new Memorial Theatre, which was opened by the then Prince of Wales in 1932, does not attempt to imitate its Gothic predecessor. The design is bold, simple and modern, the rose coloured brick matching the colour of the surrounding half timbered Tudor houses. The theatre accommodates 1,200 people, as opposed to the old theatre's 800, and possesses many ingenious mechanical contrivances.

❖ ❖ ❖

SINCE the earliest days a series of famous theatrical personalities have controlled the annual festival, but in September 1946 the Governors appointed Sir Barry Jackson to be the first sole Director of the Theatre. The whole administration and work of the theatre came under his control, and the theatre became a self-contained unit, with its own workshops, and sewing rooms in which all the scenery, properties and costumes were made.

The 1946 and 1947 seasons were notable for many brilliant productions, including Love's Labours Lost, done in the style of Watteau, and produced by Peter Brook, now Director of Opera Productions at London's Royal Opera House, Covent Garden. Michael Benthall produced a swift and beautifully coloured Merchant of Venice, and Paul Scofield emerged as one of the most important Shakespearean actors of today in a series of fine performances.

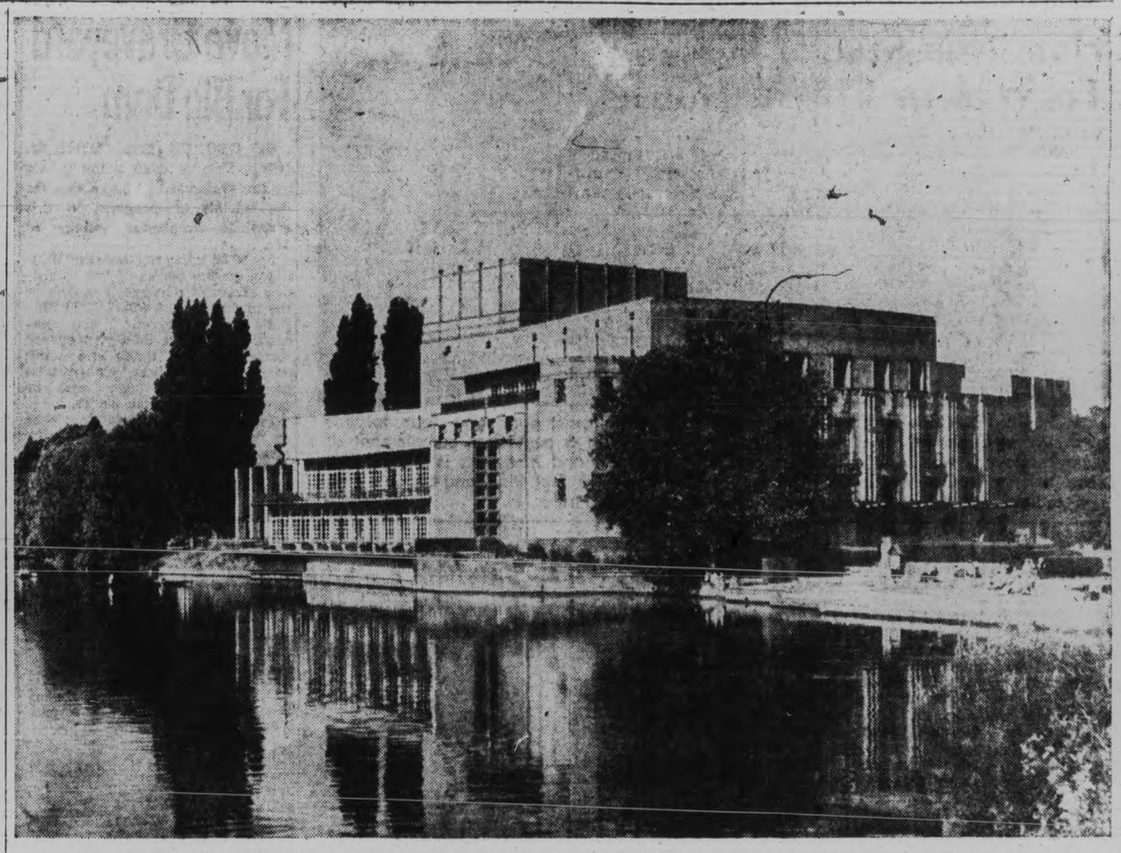
THE 1948 Festival was the longest season on record: it was extended a further month by public demand, and did not end until October 30. Two hundred and ninety thousand people saw the plays, more than ever before, and there was a capacity house at nearly every performance. During this festival, which secured a high measure of critical praise, the theatre presented King John, The Merchant of Venice, Hamlet in Victorian dress (which created much argument and discussion) and The Taming of the Shrew—all these were produced by Michael Benthall, whose work here and at Covent Garden has established him as one of the youngest and most successful producers in Britain. Godfrey Tearle, son of Osmond Tearle who played in Stratford in the 'nineties, and a very famous stage and film actor for many years, returned specially from America to appear in the Festival, and made one of the biggest successes of the season playing the title role in Othello, with Diana Wynyard as a lovely and moving Desdemona.

Many other notable players were among the 1948 cast—the celebrated dancer and actor Robert Helpmann, Ena Burrill, Esmond Knight, and Paul Scofield.



I myself first came to Stratford last season to act, and also to produce the seldom played Troilus and Cressida and The Winter's Tale.

❖ ❖ ❖

SINCE then I have had the great fortune and honour to take over the directorship of the theatre.

The Festival this year, opening in early March and extending to the end of September, will be the longest in history.

The company is proud to be acting Shakespeare's plays in the town of his birth, and filled with an ardent hope that they will be adding to theatrical history.

THE SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL THEATRE stands on the banks of the Avon river at Stratford. One of the most perfectly equipped theatres in the world, it provides amply for the comfort of its audience. The terrace on the river which may be seen above is crowded at every interval in the performances with people taking refreshments, or simply enjoying the air of a fine evening. The building is a fine example of the best tendencies in modern architecture. (See Third Column).

Letters To The Editor

SAYS RUSSIAN ANTI-SEMITISM A LIBEL

Sir: Re your editorial on March 17 entitled "Strange Rumours From Russia".

Permit me to inform you, sir, about the so-called "Jewish Labour Committee" who is announcing to the world that Russia is putting into effect a strong anti-Semitic policy, for the past two years.

This committee is none other than the remnants of the Trotsky group, who conspired with Hitler Germany and Fascist Japan to make war on Russia. Failing miserably in their ugly mission then, they are now pinning their hopes, on their desire that the "cold war" will turn into a shooting war; that they might come to power in Russia when it will be defeated. These are the people, who want the world to believe them in their smear against the Soviet Government.

I have before me, a Jewish Labour paper, published in Toronto, last Thursday. In it I found a news item, quoting Pravda March fourth, of this year as its source of information. The item stated that hundreds of Jews had won the Stalin awards, in the highest positions of science and industry.

Now, sir, it is a well known fact that the Soviet Government, as well as the new democracies in Europe, are supporting financially, the cultural and educational institutions of all minority peoples, including the Jewish.

From the above, you can see that anti-Semitism exists only in the minds of the hypocrites in the Trotsky group, who call themselves the Jewish Labour Committee.

I am, your truly,

INFORMED.

PENALTY FOR NON-VOTERS

Sir: Numerous persons, mostly English, state, Canadians are politically inferior to Europeans. This statement is difficult to debate, when one has never travelled to Europe; but it appears right, when confronted with the statistics of the voting in England and Russia. The high vote percentage in Russia is more amazing, when no opposition party is present and only a vote of "Yes" or "No" is possible to the platform presented.

To create more political enthusiasm in Canadians, a fine, or the loss of their franchise, should be imposed upon those who do not use their franchise. The only people who do not exercise their right to vote are those who do not consider the privilege worth the effort. Those who are prevented from voting due to illness or business would be exonerated.

Yours truly,

VIRGO.

TAX BURDEN DISCOURAGES HOME OWNERS

Sir: I read with interest Mr. Rodney Adamson's suggestion during the Throne Speech debate in the Commons recently.

Mr. Adamson is Prog. Con. member for York, West.

He suggests that property owners should be allowed exemption for municipal taxes on income taxes. The suggestion is sound and logical because as he pointed out, under the present system property owners are doubly taxed.

The home owners build up a municipality. They maintain its administration, they aid in its cultural development, educationally. To encourage building homes and home ownership is good policy. However if you penalize the home owners with a heavy tax burden it only creates discouragement in building or owning property within a municipality. We see that all around us in the building that is going on in the country, and townships close to Peterborough.

Peterborough has struck a 49.5 mill rate for 1950. This is the highest in its history and incidentally one of the highest in Ontario.

If for some reason Mr. Adamson's suggestion could be proved unsound why then can't some legislation be introduced to reimburse cities like Peterborough who are expanding fast and require so much municipal expenditures to keep up with growing pains? A financial grant from the Federal treasury based on a percentage of their assessment would help considerably in lowering a mill rate that heaven only knows what it will be in the next few years.

Hamilton Man Scrapes By To Win In British House

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 23—(CP)—It was a long, hard haul to the House of Commons, but E. H. C. (Ted) eLather of Hamilton, finally made it—by 903 votes. After a strenuous campaign — three speeches a night and five on Saturdays — the six-foot, sandy-haired Canadian just scraped home as Conservative candidate in Somerset North, one of Britain's largest constituences. He started his campaign more than three years ago.

In the Feb. 23 election he polled 23,953 votes compared with 23,050 for his Labor opponent, Mrs X. Field, and 5,573 for A. E Whitcher, Liberal.

Leather didn't wait long to go into action. The new Parliament was just three days old when he rose to make his maiden speech on a favorite theme—the British Empire.

Black Letters

"I was born in a free, independent nation that is still proud to call itself a member of the British Empire," said Leather who served as a captain in the Toronto Scottish Regiment during the war.

Pointing at a handful of notes he added: "I write that in block capitals — British Empire, not Commonwealth."

Leather, unsuccessful in Bristol South in the 1945 election, roused one of the biggest cheers at the 1948 Conservative conference in Llandudno, Wales, when he said that Empire means "staying alive."

"If it succeeds I stay alive," he said. "If not I shall get out my tin hat and go out again into the mud of Europe."

In his Parliamentary debut, he said Britain must place greater reliance on her own strength and vigor than on paper treaties.

"That strength can be based only on a strong foreign policy, and a strong foreign policy must be based on the British Empire."

Canada Slighted

Leather said the Labor government had treated Commonwealth countries "shamefully" in the last five years. The president of the Board of Trade, Harold Wilson, had denied this.

"He denied it in Canada with some very interesting and technical arguments," the new Conservative member told the House "But he knows the people of Canada think it is true. It is the old story of where there is smoke there must be somebody smoking."

Leather intends to combine his new Parliamentary duties with his insurance business here. He lives in an eight-storey "typical" London home near the Houses of Parliament with his wife, the former Shelia Greenlees of Hamilton, and their five-year-old daughter, Hope.

Hold Funeral Service

VANCOUVER, March 23 (CP)—Funeral services will be held today for Norman Lee Lauchland, 68, retired manager of Canada Rice Mills. He died in hospital Tuesday. Mr. Lauchland, a native of Oshawa, came to Vancouver in 1914. He retired as manager of Canada Rice Mills two years ago.

Former Retailer Wins Oscar

Harvey E. Henry, former Peterborough clothing retailer, now of Ottawa, was awarded the "Oscar" of the Retail Men's Wear Association of Canada in Toronto during the recent Canadian Men's Style Show. The award was given Mr. Henry as "the merchant making the greatest contribution to the advancement of the retail men's wear trade in Canada in 1949".

Mr. Henry is Vice-President of the Association and a past president of the Ottawa association. He laid the foundations for his successful career in the employ of the old Peterborough firm of Merrill and Meredith and later with C.D.S. He left Peterborough for Ottawa in 1930. His elderly mother, Mrs. R. Henry, and his sister, Mrs. Harry Williamson, live on Reid street.

Tiny Mouse Who Thought He Was A Kitten Learns He's Mouse, Dies Of Broken Heart

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 23 — (AP) — A tiny mouse who thought he was a kitten died Wednesday of the rodent equivalent of a broken heart.

There wasn't any official autopsy, but those who knew him said they were certain he must have died of grief when he learned he was. . .well, just a mouse.

He had sauntered up Monday to a cardboard box in a corner of an express company shed and plunked himself down among the new litter of three kittens produced by Minnie, a cat with a fearsome reputation as a mouser.

But motherhood must have changed Minnie.

Minnie just looked, then lolled on her side and let the newcomer in. He joined quickly in the family routine, frolicked with the rest of the brood, cuddled up beside Minnie for his midday nap and came to believe. . .well, that he was just another kitten.

Call Newspapers

But someone in the shed called the newspapers. They sent reporters and photographers who peered inquisitively and fired flashbulbs at the family for hour after hour.

At first the mouse leaped happily about the box jutting his whiskers forward to put his best profile within camera range. Everybody looked at him, purred silly kittenish noises at him and made him think he was just the prettiest litte one in the brood.

But the continued attention the second day got him slightly worried. Those who knew him said he must have suspected that perhaps he wasn't just like everyone else in Minnie's family.

When the photographers came again last night, the mouse lay quietly back in the box and sudded in a worried way next to Minnie.

This morning he was found dead. His friends who knew him said he must have seen his reflection in some camerman's lens and found out. . .well, that he was just a mouse.

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote restful comfort."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and her stomach became quite upset. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying — and quieted down."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easily crushed to a powder, if desired — prompt in action. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 29 cents.

Don Gallinger's hopes of a professional baseball career with the Philadelphia Phillies appear to be over. The youngster, who was suspended from organized hockey two years ago on gambling charges, said in Kitchener Wednesday he had received word from Joe Reardon, director of the Phillies' farm system, that an invitation to try out at the National League's Clearwater, Fla., training camp has been cancelled.

Gallinger, a third baseman, hopes it is all a misunderstanding. When he arranged with the Phillies' scout Joe Sartoria for the try-out, he wrote Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, asking if his National Hockey League suspension would affect his baseball status.

Gallinger said Chandler told him he would consider his case when the matter arose.

Gallinger was suspended indefinitely by NHL President Clarence Campbell when gambling charges were levelled against him and Billy Taylor, both members of the Boston Bruins. Taylor was barred from organized hockey for life.

The English international soccer team which will tour Canada and the United States this season will play at least three games in Ontario, two in Toronto and a single game in Windsor. The first game in Toronto will be on May 24 against an Ontario all-star team with the second set tentatively for June 14 against another English eleven, Manchester United. Windsor will see the internationals June 17. A Western Ontario team will supply the opposition.

Charles J. Murray, the man credited with giving Jack Dempsey his first major fight in the East, died Wednesday at his home in Buffalo after a long illness. He was 61. Murray, a sports promoter in Buffalo for many years, was last active in attempts to obtain a National Football League franchise for Buffalo three months ago. For several years prior to the formation of the All-America Conference, of which Buffalo was a member, Murray promoted NFL exhibition games in Buffalo.

At Los Angeles, Glen Davis Wednesday cast his athletic future with the Los Angeles Rams pro football club. Passing a number of attractive offers from major-league baseball organizations, the 25-year-old "Mr. Outside" of army fame formally signed a one-year contract with the Rams.

Mercurys Reign As World Hockey Champs

LONDON, March 23 (CP)—An intermediate team from Edmonton — the hustling, hard-checking Mercurys—reign today as 1950 world hockey champions.

They'll sail for home Wednesday, donning at a jaunty angle the crown worn in previous years by such good Canadian teams as Toronto Granites, Varsity Grads, Edmonton Superiors and Trail Smoke Eaters.

The Mercurys wrapped up the title Wednesday by downing Sweden 3-1 for their seventh straight victory in the 10-day tournament.

The last five triumphs came in the final round-robin. Edmonton polished off Switzerland, the United States, Norway and Britain after defeating Switzerland and Belgium in their preliminary series.

The Mercurys clear-cut superiority over all comers restored to Canadian hockey some of the prestige which slumped on this side of the Atlantic last year when Sudbury Wolves lost out to Czechoslovakia at Stockholm.

There was only one fly in the ointment, the Czechs weren't here to defend the title. A Czech government ruling kept the iron curtain squad in Prague.

Most hockey observers, however, believed Edmonton would have taken the Czechs into camp by at least a half-dozen goals if they'd shown up. They pointed to Sweden's 5-0 victory over Czechoslovakia in Prague this winter, looked at Wednesday night's Canada-Sweden result and drew the obvious conclusion.

Norm Hawley's rink with Mrs. M. Holt, Mrs. J. Fanning and Dr. D. W. Clark will return to the Granite Club on Friday to play in the final rounds of the week-long mixed rink bonspiel. They qualified late Wednesday afternoon when they defeated Hamilton Vics by one shot in a well-played game. As for our own rink, we didn't do too well—lost our first game by a one-sided score, won the second by a real photo finish and then lost the third to Gar Meech, High Park, 10-8.

Playing today in this same bonspiel are Mrs. T. Doughty, Mrs. Dr. Morgan, Mrs. V. Selkirk, Mrs. L. Browne, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. J. Watts, T. Doughty, Dr. R. Morgan, V. Selkirk, Dr. R. Clark, Dr. C. McKee and Dr. McCartney.

Tonight we begin group playoffs for the Harry Foote Memorial Trophy.

The semi-final round of the President's Cup playdowns between SOE No. 3 and Treasurer's No. 9 played at the LOL hall last Thursday resulted in the defending champions being eliminated by the Sons in the third game.

First game was tied twice and the Sons scored a two to win it 7-5. The second game went to the fire-fighters 9-7 and the third and final game went again to the league champions for the 1949-50 season by a score of 9-2. That score did not indicate the closeness of play as one ball on many ends was keeping from the score sheet 2, 3 or 5 opposing balls. Three very close matches. The results of the other semi-final game are not at hand between Big Bens No. 1 and St. George's No. 2.

The draw for the final round of the President's Cup for next week is the winner of Big Bens No. 1 vs. St. George's No. 2 against SOE No. 3. In the league games one of Legion No. 9 postponed games was played against Legion No. 5 with the following result: First game was tied 6-all in the seventh frame, tied again in the ninth end with the Old Sweats taking it by a final score of 11-7. The second game was tied 5-all in the sixth end, and tied again in the eighth frame and then the Posties finished strong enough to take it 9-8. The other postponed game between Legion No. 7 vs. Legion No. 6 scheduled for Tuesday night was cancelled because of the election of officers at the Legion and must be played Friday, March 24, at the Legion.

Members, please notify your skips just how you want the prizes presented this spring, at a banquet, at a stag party or at a membership meeting. Don't be lay this matter any longer, so your skips can phone the executive.

World heavyweight champion Jimmy Braddock turned down Max Schmeling's guarantee of $350,000 for a heavyweight title fight in Berlin. It was 13 years ago tonight that Braddock made that decision and instead elected to meet Joe Louis in Chicago. He lost his crown when knocked out in the eighth round of the bout with the Brown Bomber.

Two girls' basketball playoffs tomorrow eve in the YWCA gym, commencing at eight sharp. It'll be Nurses vs. Neill's in the opener of their best-of-three senior finals, followed by Black's vs. CGE to start their intermediate two-in-three finals. Both important games and they should be keenly contested. Our congrats to Towne Togs on edging out St. Kitts to go into LOBA intermediate "B" finals. Playing either at London or Stratford in the first game next week. PCVS midget boys hit into OABA playoffs in a tourney at St. Catharines on Saturday to declare a provincial champ. And Marines tote a 12-point lead into the return game of intermediate "A" semi-finals in Hamilton Saturday.

Oshawa scribe is pleased with the senior ball setup for this year. The Motor City crew got permission from the COBL to go into the Toronto Viaduct League, playing senior "A". As he points out: "The COBL, with Brockville, Smiths Falls and Kingston all in, along with Picton, Napanee, Batawa and maybe Belleville, would have meant long trips for Oshawa. In the Viaduct Loop, with Peterborough on the east and New Toronto on the west, and the Viaduct Park only an hour away, the matter of travelling expenses and lost time should be easier for the local club this year, and it will bring many new faces to Oshawa."

* * * * * *

Good Thing For City

The same is true of Peterborough, even though we aren't as centrally located as Oshawa and will have more 100-mile trips. However, those hauls are easier than the jaunts to Kingston and Brockville and not much longer than Belleville. Not by the front highway. And it'll be nice to see new teams, with Oshawa—and they were senior "A" champs of the loop last year—besides New Toronto and the three metropolitan teams which will prove interesting to local baseball fans. There'll be many hundreds more out this year here under floodlights in Riverside Park in the cool of an evening after a hot day.

* * * * * *

Local senior ball officials haven't been idle. Told they'd have to raise $15,000 ere the city council, through the Recreation Commission, would advance the rest of the money necessary for lights on a loan basis, they've gone right to work. Have more than half that sum pledged now and hope to be ready to report to the Commission this week-end, and to the council Monday. As early action is a "must" if lights go up this year here. Companies, merchants and individuals are responding well, knowing this will be a paying proposition and city-owned, with the money all paid back to the city. And it will prove a distinct asset to Peterborough for sports and other purposes.

Most Important Tilts

Both our remaining OHA clubs see important action the rest of the week. Legionnaires are off to Oshawa tonight to tackle Markham Millionaires in the second of their best-of-seven senior "B" playdown series. It may be provincial semi-finals, depending on the OHA draw. Legion are one up. Same squads go there again Saturday night, and return here Monday for the fourth game. A fifth or seventh deciding game would be staged on local ice. Our junior "B" Oddfellows meet the Bees tomorrow eve in the Motor City in the deciding game of their group finals, so that's a highly important playoff. Hop to it, fellows.

A few nights back the provincial police around Belleville staged a hockey exhibition there with the Quinte fire fighters, and it ended up in a 6-6 draw. A skating race and other entertainment were served up for a crowd of nearly 3,000. Yeah, a dandy turnout and about $800 was raised for polio victims in connection with the "March of Dimes" campaign. That's a worthwhile work and those responsible are to be congratulated for its success in Bella Villa. Why couldn't such an affair be arranged here in the near future? And which side will challenge first—the husky provincial cops or the doughty firemen?

Keene Champs Rural League

KEENE, March 23 (ENS) — Harold Coon's goal on a breakaway after 14 minutes of overtime gave Keene the fifth and deciding game over Downer's Corners for the Otonabee Rural Hockey League championship here. The well-matched teams had two wins each and this clincher was a thriller throughout before a full house in the new Otonabee arena. Downer's tied the game at 3-all with only 30 seconds remaining of regulation time, and the sudden-death overtime was the rule for the third game in a row in this tight series. Downer's took the third and fourth games this way after Keene had won two.

Coons played a lot of hockey all night and stood out for the victors, Renwick and Brown also going well. Tom Mather was steady as usual in the winner's net. For the losers, Corrigan made many fine saves in the goal, with Batten and Howard Burns effective, and McIlmoyle good defensively. Everyone played hard on both clubs in clean, close hockey to terminate the first season for this circuit. The last part of the series was well handled by referees Leggitt and McArthur of Peterborough.

Local Squads Still A-Hunting For Basketball Crowns

Two championships swing on the results of basketball games for local teams in games out of town this Saturday. The Peterborough Outboard Marines will be trying for their second Southern Ontario intermediate "A" title in four years in Hamilton and the Peterborough midget Collegiates will be in St. Catharines for the All-Ontario honors.

Doug. MacPherson's Marines have a slim 12-point lead in their two-game series points-to-count with the Hamilton Strand Cycles. If they manage to pull the series out of the fire they will be headed north to Sault Ste. Marie for the All-Ontario title.

The Cycles only started to move in the late stages of last Saturday's game in the Collegiate. Their systematic play trying to pull the locals out of their zone defence will be a definite threat on Peterborough's 12 points. Forwards like Carrigan, Peall and Baril have tricky passing plays which momentarily stumped the Marines here. Backed by speedy Tom Casey, the Hamilton cagers will be hard to take on their floor.

Over in St. Catharines the Collegians coached by Bev Goulding will be playing in a tournament for the All-Ontario midget title. Four teams will be playing off in the afternoon with the winners entering the final game in the evening.

Strong Contenders

PCVS had little trouble in knocking off the Regiopolis College quintet and will be strong contenders for the championship. Coach Goulding is taking nine players along to the contests. Most of them have extraordinary height for boys under 16 years. Cunningham, Stewart and Johnston are all six-footers. Hempstead, pint-sized is a zippy player setting up the bigger boys close in. Others to see action will be Fowler, Grafstein, Batley, Pammett and Boorman. All the players were in the College games.

Next week Towne Togs will be playing the first of the L.O.B.A All-Ontario final games in either Stratford or London. The local lasses picked off the St. Catharines Merry Macs by one point on the round Tuesday to take the semi-final. This is the first time the Togs have ever reached the finals. Last year they lost out in the quarter-finals to Toronto Clifton's. The second game of the home-and-home series will be in Peterborough in two weeks. Two local league girls' playoffs are booked for the YW Friday night.

Canadiens Pulling Ahead Scrape By Toronto 2-1

By JACK GRAY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Montreal's irrepressible Canadiens have pulled a game ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs in the see-saw struggle for final second-place standing in the National Hockey League behind Detroit Red Wings. And this time they may be there for keeps.

The Canucks scraped by the Leafs 2-1 Wednesday night, pulling a well-nigh final-minute goal by rightwinger Norm Dussault out of their last-ditch-effort basket.

The crucial (for the pocketbook) nature of the contest between these old-time rivals brought out a near-record for a week night of 14,578 fans. They were attracted partly by the fact that a stake of $150 for each player was at issue. The NHL pays $500 apiece to the players of the club finishing second and $350 to members of the third-place club.

Thus Canadiens took over a commanding lead for the final two games of the season. Their 74 points to Toronto's will count when they tangle with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins.

Down New York

In other games Wednesday night Detroit fattened its league-leading advantage by downing fourth-place New York 8-7, and Chicago defeated Boston, only other team to finish out of the four-club playoffs, 7-5.

Dussault's game-winning score in the game at Toronto came with 61 seconds to play, breaking up what looked like a tie game up to that point. Leafs' Joe Klukay scored in the initial period. Then the Canucks came back in the second with Rip Riopelle scoring, assisted by Glen Harmon and Floyd Curry.

The victory gave the Montrealers a lead in their meetings with the Leafs during the season, Canadiens winning six contests to Leafs' four, while four were tied.

Detroit's rampaging wings rang up eight goals in the free-wheeling last two periods in defeating the Rangers.

Some 13 players from both teams shared goal-getting honors. Only double scorers being Detroit's George Gee and Leo Reise.

Submerge Bruins

In the Boston contest some 12,049 fans saw Chicago's Roy Conacher fire home three goals as the Black Hawks submerged the Bruins. Two of them came in the final stanza when Chicago scored six times to overcome Boston's early lead.

It was Conacher's second three-goal game of the season. The previous one, also against the Bruins came Christmas night. Only other player with a pair of three-goal games during the season is Detroit's Gordie Howe.

Hawks' centre Metro Prystai, who went to a Toronto hospital Saturday night with head cuts after being checked by Toronto's Bill Ezinicki, was discharged on Wednesday. His injury was the cause of some high words between Chicago officials and Leafs' managing director Conn Smythe.

But Wednesday night all was forgiven. Prystai saw the Leafs-Canadiens game sitting with Conn Smythe.

Windsor Trips Guelph 4-2 In Overtime

By The Canadian Press.

After last night's performances the Ontario hockey picture, both senior and junior, looks like an airtight race right down to the wire.

It took ten minutes of overtime before Windsor Spitfires came up with a 4-2 win over Guelph Biltmores to square their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series at 2-2 and in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals North Bay Black Hawks edged Sault Ste. Marie Grey Hounds 5-4 in extra time to deadlock their best-of-five finals at 2-2. One game was tied.

It was the second win in a row for the Spitfires on Windsor ice after dropping the first two games in the Biltmore arena. Mike Delich supplied the winning marker at 1:30 of the overtime frame and Earl Reibel notched the clincher when coach Alfie Pike pulled goaler Dennis Mooney in favor of an extra forward.

The clubs split tallies in the opening period and see-sawed through a scoreless middle stanza. Jim Anderson's Windsor goal at 13:36 of the third period loomed large but less than a minute later the Biltmores got it back when Aldo Guidolin rammed home the deadlocker.

Eddie Stankiewicz potted the other Spitfire goal while Herb Dickenson, playing superbly in the playoffs, garnered the other Guelph goal.

Robinson Knocks Out Costner In Brief Tilt

PHILADELPHIA, March 23 — (AP)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson's welterweight crown rested more securely than ever on the veteran boxer's head today after his short-order knockout of George (also Sugar) Costner.

Robinson, who weighed 154 pounds—four more than Costner—caught the Camden contender with a hard right after 30 seconds of action. The champion then switched to the body for a few blows, landed another right on Costner's jaw and finished him off with a left hook to the chin at 2:49 of the initial round of their scheduled 10-round bout.

BASKETBALL PLAYDOWNS

Montreal YMHA Wednesday night at Montreal scored a 58-41 victory over Toronto Tri-Delis in the first game of a best-of-three series for the Eastern Canadian basketball championship.

Dussault Goal May Cost Irvin $2,000

TORONTO, March 23 (CP) — Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens gladly offered $100 to Norm Dussault when the little winger scored the goal that sank Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 Wednesday night. But Conn Smythe, managing director of the Leafs, suggested that it might cost Irvin a lot more.

Smythe thumbed through the National Hockey League bylaws and came up with section 25, which he interpreted as providing a $2,000 fine for any club official who offers, pays or agrees to pay a bonus or other reward as a special inducement to a player to win a game or series of games.

Irvin was reported to have offered the $100 to the man who scored the winning goal as he talked to his players in the Canadien dressing room at the end of the second period. The score was tied 1-1 at the time.

After the game, Dussault said he'd give $25 apiece to Billy Reay and Maurice Richard, who set up his tally with 61 seconds to play.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL and the man who decides who gets fined, was a spectator at the game, but could not be reached for comment. Irvin, still out no more than $100, was on his way home to Montreal with his club.

Mission Circle Plans Dinner

MILLBROOK, March 23 (ENS) —Mrs. Bruce Dawson was hostess to the Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church on Tuesday, with Mrs. M. F. Hobbs, president, in the chair. Mrs. Homer Ouellette and Miss Jean Burnham were chosen to write letters to Miss Margaret Smith, the only member of the Circle studying for full time missionary or deaconness work, at the United Church Training School in Toronto. Each month two members volunteer to write.

It was voted that a special collection should be taken at the May meeting for the March of Dimes.

It was voted also that the April meeting should take the form of a supper meeting, to which the girls of the CGIT and their mothers should be invited. The committee appointed to be in charge of the supper included Mrs. D. Lunn, Mrs. Melville Ball, Mrs. Laurence Winslow and Mrs. Arnold Fallis.

It is planned to have a special speaker and the CGIT will carry out their affiliation ceremony. It will also be the Easter thankoffering meeting.

Mrs. Hobbs read an invitation from Cavan WMS to meet with them on April 5, when they will have as guests all the women's missionary groups from Millbrook and surrounding districts.

Mrs. Henry Gray was in charge of the worship service. Mrs. E. Powell, Miss E. Thorn, Miss J. Burnham and Mrs. B. Ingham gave scripture readings. Mrs. A. Fallis was at the piano.

Mrs. Hobbs conducted a group discussion on the study book. She also read a letter from Miss Jean Stewart, the Circle's special missionary. Miss Stewart told of travelling with her Chinese helper, Miss Helen Penn, by chair, rikshaw and boat to close mission stations before the coming of the Communists. Parts of the return trip were made by boat, truck, and finally by bus to Chungking. The letter was written November 28, just a few days before the Communists took over the city without fighting.

Mrs. E. Powell, stewardship secretary, gave her report.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. David Lunn, Mrs. Henry Gray and Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

Illegal Betting Big Business

TORONTO, March 23 (CP) — Unlawful betting has become big business in Ontario Commissioner W. H. Stringer of the Ontario Provincial Police said Wednesday in his annual report for 1949 tabled in the legislature.

For some people illegal gambling has become their principal, tax-free lucrative livelihood, the report said. There were bookmakers in every major town and city in the province. There was daily communication between these people and the larger United States cities.

Law enforcement officers urgently needed some legal means of ending improper use of telegraph and other communication services.

"Some serious thought and positive action might very well be undertaken by the authorities and legislative bodies concerned," the commissioner said.

Twentytwo telephones had been seized in raids on betting houses, he said. In some cases telephones were used exclusively for transmitting horse-racing information.

There were 396 prosecutions 358 convictions, 32 dismissals and nine withdrawals in connection with betting charges. Fines imposed totalled $19,505 and money seized $9,911.

Great Economic Expansion In Canada Noted In The First Half Of The Century

Written For The Canadian Press By J. U. BOYER
President, Canadian Banker's Association

MONTREAL March 22 (CP)—The first 50 years of the 20th Century saw a truly remarkable expansion in the Canadian economy. If we have faith in our country and its destiny and have the wisdom to follow the same economic laws and principles that guided us in the first half of the century, there is noting to prevent us from attaining still greater stature and a still more abundant life.

Fifty years ago Canada was as a child compared to her status today. For instance, total bank deposits in January, 1900 were $269,000,000. On Sept. 30, 1949, they touched $6,915,000,000. Current loans, a measure of commercial activity, were $301,000,000 at the turn of the century, compared with $2,408,000,000 on Sept. 30, 1949. Securities held by banks totalled $36,000,000 in 1900 and on Sept. 30, 1949, they represented $4,463,000,000.

Remarkable Growth

The banking figures demonstrate the remarkable growth of the Canadian economy in 50 years. The increases stem from many causes, among them being the opening of the west, the gradual industrialization of the country, the discovery and development of mineral and forest wealth - all combining to create jobs, distribute wealth and produce a standard of living no worse than second among the nations of the world.

I expect to see, in the next 50 years, steady, perhaps spectacular, growth of the Canadian economy. The oil fields of Alebrta, titanium deposits in Quebec and the iron ore of Labrador and Ungava should remind us that we still have great raw material resources to develop and turn into jobs and wealth.

It should be borne in mind, however that Canadian prosperity depends largely on world markets. We cannot isolate ourselves from outside influences and events, the play of outside forces as we learned through two wars and are learning today through international currency difficulties. What may happen outside is the great imponderable as we try to look ahead.

Security Market

Looking back for a moment, one of the highlights of the last 50 years, from a straight financial point of view, was the creation of a security market here in Canada. Until the First World War, Canadians looked abroad, chiefly to London, as a source for capital and were not, themselves substantial buyers of bonds and stocks. No loan of even $5,000,000 had been subscribed in Canada until Sir Thomas White, the Minister of Finance, launched the first war loan in 1915.

Another highlight of the first half of the century was the establishment of the Bank of Canada in 1934, to operate as a central bank and fiscal agent of the government. It exercises a regulatory function on the Canadian economy and on periods of economic and business fluctuation. It is also Canada's bank of note issue. Its influence has been profound in wartime and in peace.

More Branches

As for banking developments in the next 50 years. I would expect to see many more branches opened as the population increases and demands grew for banking services. There may even be new banks established because the existing institutions hold no monopoly of the field.

In the last 50 years there has been, particularly in Canada and what have become known as the western countries, a wider participation by the average person in the general field of finance and a sharing in the profits of industry and development. You might call it an extension of the democratic process, and I have every reason to believe it will continue and expand in the years to come.

You can follow this general principle in other directions. Fifty years ago in Canada public participation in finance was practically unknown. Today it is the accepted, indeed the desirable, thing and I fully expect it to grow in the years to come.

Director Says Movie Stars Just Children

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD March 23 (AP)

The reason movie stars get into so many headlined scrapes, says director Alfred Hitchcock, is because "they are really children."

This is not likely to endear him to members of the Screen Actors Guild. We were discussing Senator Edwin Johnson's proposals to curb allegedly immoral filmsters. Hitchcock offered his own idea of why actors do things that draw such criticism.

"Why, they are really children," he declared. "You could hardly expect them all to be adult when at least a third of their lives is spent in make-believe."

The director cited Ingrid Bergman as an example. He knows the Swede well, having directed her in three pictures. He believes she got into her present difficulties because "in many respects she is quite naive."

He added that over-publicizing of movie stars has greatly increased public censure when they get "out of line." Now that the public knows the lives of the stars so intimately, it is up in arms when film favorites are involved in scandal.

Old Days Different

"In the old days," he recalled, "the real lives of the stars were separate from their screen personalities. For instance Mary Pickford was merely a beautiful, curly-headed child to the public. Stars became legendary figures.

"It is significant that there were only three big scandals in the silent era—Wally Reid, Fatty Arbuckle and William Desmond Taylor." (Reid was involved in a dope scandal; Arbuckle was acquitted after three trials for manslaughter in the party death of an actress; the murder of director Taylor brought in several film names but was never solved.)

FORTY MEMBERS of the Rawdon Junior Farmers, and Rawdon Junior Institute (above) enjoyed a bus trip to Ottawa. The group toured the Royal Canadian Mint, and saw the coining of Canadian money. Following a visit to the National Film Board the group was met by George White, MP for Peterborough-Hastings. He accompanied them on a tour of the Parliament Buildings and arranged for them to see parliament in session.

See Peace Restored In Annexation Field

OTTAWA, March 23—(CP)—Peace apparently was restored Wednesday night in the annexation feud between the city of Ottawa and Nepean township with recommendations for a "working basis" at Nepean town hall where 20 city employees have been "locked out" since Friday.

The recommendations resulted from day-long conferences between officials of the two civic bodies. They will be considered as soon as possible by the Ottawa Board of Control and the Nepean hall is expected to be re-opened to Ottawa employees shortly on a "share-the-space' basis.

Prescott Shipments Hit 14,300,000 Bus.

OTTAWA, March 23 — (CP) — Shipments of grain from Prescott elevator in 1949 amounted to 14,300,000 bushels compared with 4,700,000 bushels the year previous, a report of the National Harbors Board showed, tabled in the Commons, stated Wednesday.

The accounts showed a surplus of $114,000 compared with a deficit of $39,000 in 1948.

Shipment of grain from Port Colborne elevator were 37,300,000 bushels compared with 18,600,000 bushels. Accounts showed a surplus for the year of $194,000 against $62,000 in 1948.

After 'Fair' Verdict Kilbon Calmly Leaves Court Dock For NY Rest; To Farm Again

By MURRAY B. SMITH (Examiner Staff Correspondent)

COBOURG, March 23—Pinched-featured Ralph Kilbon, who has been a prisoner in the jail here since last November 1, walked out of the court room at 4:15 yesterday afternoon a free man—freed by a jury which found him not guilty of murdering his wife. The quiet, studious-looking man, wearing unpressed tweeds, sat expressionless throughout his trial and his calm demeanours varied not the slightest degree when the jury foreman pronounced the "not-guilty" verdict. Ralph Kilbon's eyes darted toward the line of jurymen as they filed into their seats from the jury room late yesterday afternoon. Then he looked to the front and sat with placid features. What emotions stirred beneath his calm exterior, can only be guessed, but at any rate he was as dispassionate during the pronouncement of the "not guilty" verdict as he was throughout the rest of his trial.

Ralph Kilbon looked like a man who was at peace with himself and his God. Perhaps it was because as he told newsmen late, he expected a "just and fair verdict" and being confident of such a verdict felt no fear. However, judging from the history of the accused, he was a man who felt he had committed no murder, and if the verdict had been the reverse, would have met it with a clear conscience.

Testimony of Consideration

Ralph Kilbon's heart must have warmed beneath his calm exterior as he heard witness after witness for the Crown describe him as a man whose devotion to his wife had been of the highest degree. He must have been moved within when he heard his deceased wife's sister tell the court that the accused had been most considerate of his wife. Even Mrs. Kilbon's sister seemed eager to tell the court that Kilbon had been most kind and devoted to his wife.

It was the most unusual murder case ever to be heard in the counties' court room in Cobourg. In one day the Crown presented its case. In a half day, the defence had concluded its testimony. In swift succession counsel in the case addressed the jury. Mr. Justice Dalton Wells' address was concluded at 3.00 p.m. and at 3.05 the jury were in their chambers deliberating on the evidence.

"Gentlemen of the Jury" . . .

At four p.m. it was apparent that the jury was about to bring in their verdict. Sheriff Fred C. Richardson solemnly warned the court spectators that there was to be no demonstration after the verdict was returned. There was the usual breathless hush when the sheriff intoned the court ritual "gentlemen of the jury have you arrived at your verdict—". The foreman stood up. Time stood still for a brief moment and then he said—"not guilty". There was a relaxation of tension that was sensed rather than heard.

"I agree with your verdict as a proper one," said His Lordship simply, when the foreman of the jury sat down.

Defence counsel J. J. Robinette moved for discharge of the prisoner. His Lordship turned from the jury and addressed the prisoner. Ralph Kilbon stood up and awaited the judge's words.

"You have been found not guilty. You are discharged and may go," said Mr. Justice Wells.

Open Dock Gate

A court constable opened the gate of the prisoner's dock and Ralph Kilbon walked quietly out of the court room a free man. His sister, Mrs. William Wood, a resident of New Jersey, embraced him as he stepped out into the town hall lobby and his brother, Roland, member of the editorial staff of the New York Herald, grasped his hand warmly.

Interviewed by reporters after he left the court, Ralph Kilbon smiled his appreciation when a stranger, who had been among the court spectators, shook his hand and congratulated him on being free again.

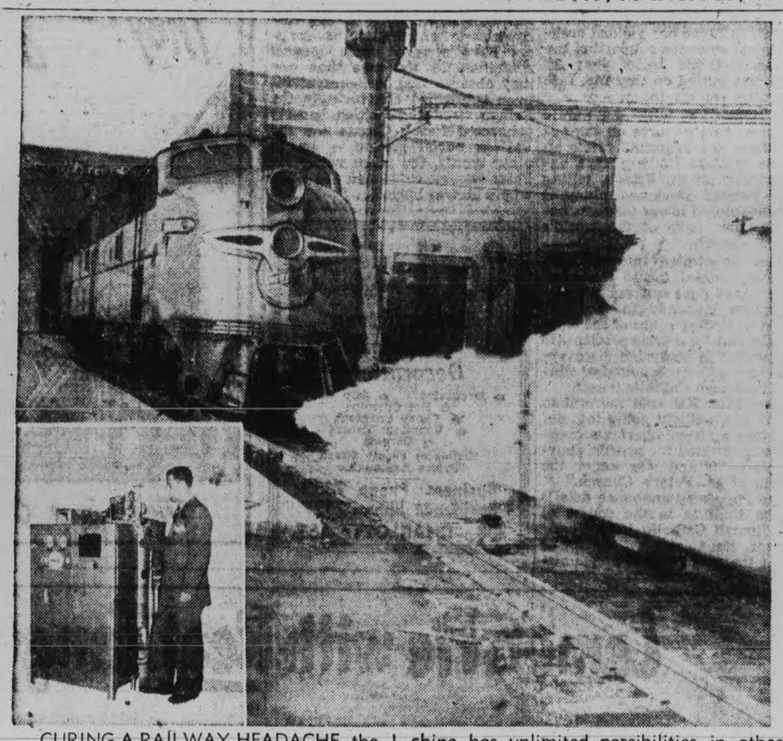
"Were you surprised at the verdict?" a newsman asked Mr. Kilbon.

Mr. Kilbon seemed surprised more at the question.

"No, I was not. I felt that a fair and just verdict would be returned by the jury," he replied.

Going To New York

Asked about his future plans, he said that for the present he would go to New York with his brother and take a rest.



"Later, I will come back to the farm in South Monaghan township and try and pick up where I left off. I hope I succeed in doing so. At no time have I felt that I committed murder. I told police that I didn't consider murder had been done. I felt that what I had done was a selfless act," he said earnestly.

Drift Fishing Favored In Kawarthas

Recommendations by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce Resort Operators' Section and the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association were presented Tuesday to the Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature.

James Fraser presented the following recommendations: that there be no change in the opening date of May 15 for the pickerel season for 1950; that the drift fishing regulations applying to the counties of Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham and Victoria be rescinded and that drift fishing be permitted in these four counties from May 15 to June 30, allowing the use of artificial bait; that the minimum fine of $50 for the first offence be applied to all infractions of the game laws regarding the taking of bass and maskinonge out of season as well as undersized fish and exceeding the game limit; that Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association go on record along with the Resort Operators' Section as protesting the increase of $1 as applied to fishing licences for non-resident anglers for the year 1950.

Six recommendations were made by Arthur Elmhirst of Keene for the Rice Lake Tourist Association. The association recommended that the angling licence fee remain the same; that the fishing season open the same date as last year; that fishing from a drifting boat be permitted; that Rice Lake should be restocked with pickerel; that there be a limit on the number of pan fish and that two game wardens from the training centre at Dorset be placed at Rice Lake.

CURING A RAILWAY HEADACHE, the first power generators (inset) built in Canada will heat diesel passenger trains, a problem which was formerly a worry for railwaymen. At present two plants are producing the generator, officials say the machine has unlimited possibilities in other fields. They are now going through first trials in engines of the CPR, CNR and Ontario Northland Railways on runs between Montreal and the Maritimes, Toronto and Winnipeg.

Gifted Students In Concert Of Excellence

By ROBERTSON DAVIES.

Three promising young Canadian musicians were heard in the concert sponsored by the local branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association in PCVS auditorium on Wednesday night; they were Barbara King, soprano; Marguerite Learning, a violinist, and Ray Dudley, pianist. All three are advanced students at the Royal Conservatory, and we venture to say that none is yet old enough to vote. Their concert had a delightfully youthfully quality—fresh and bright as spring flowers—and also a high standard of musicianship.

Miss King has a small, even, pleasing voice which did not seem to this listener to be entirely a soprano; she may yet prove a contralto. She has not yet the volume or the emotional range for Beethoven's "Die Ehre Gottes aus der Natur," but on the other hand her singing of Bach's "Prepare Thyself Zion" was admirable. She was at her best in the group of Nova Scotian folksongs which made up her second group. At this stage in her development it looks as if Miss King's intelligence and taste are going to be her best friends throughout her career, and as singers with these qualities are never too many it appears that she has an interesting and successful career before her.

Fine, Full Tone

Miss Marguerite Learning plays with a fine, full tone and she has great technical dexterity. If a word of friendly criticism is permissible, she has not yet mastered the art of illuminating a longish work like the Mozart Concerto in A major; that is to say, she does not sufficiently subordinate the fireworks and ornamental passages to the principal themes. She showed no lack in this respect in her group of short pieces, and she will certainly gain in variety of expression in another year or so. She plays with great spirit and directness at all times.

Style and Energy

Mr. Ray Dudley plays the piano brilliantly, and he carried off a heavy evening's work with style and energy. His two short Scarlatti sonatas were played with taste and charm though with perhaps a shade more sentiment than was needed. But Mr. Dudley is a pupil of Alberto Guerrero, who plays Scarlatti superbly, and we may be sure that this will right itself; the experience of a lifetime may be poured into a Scarlatti sonata, without too much alteration of the tempo. But it was in the heaven-storming Wanderer Fantasy of Schubert that Mr. Dudley showed us his quality. He can produce a big tone, and he can sustain the romantic excitement of a heavy work like this from start to finish; with these qualities and what they imply, it is plain that all other things can be added unto him. In Ray Dudley Canada has a pianist of remarkable promise.

The three artists united to perform Bizet's "Agnus Dei" at the end of the program. The concert was not heavily attended, and those who stayed away missed a most rewarding evening by three young artists of importance to this country.

Sea Cadets To Take Over Wharf For HQ On Little Lake

American tourists travelling the Trent Canal system this summer will be met in assailorly fashion at George St. wharf on Little Lake. The Peterborough Sea Cadets of RCSC Howe are planning to take the buildings and the land as permanent headquarters.

Representatives of the local cadet corps met with city council and representatives of other civic organizations Wednesday in the Public Library. Their plan to take over the two buildings, one a closed shelter and the other a pavilion, and to be responsible for the care and maintenance of the land, met with general approval.

Lieut. William Thomas, commanding officer of RCSC Howe, and Lieut. Stewart Gardiner, second in command, along with other representatives of the Cadet Corps, presented a model of the proposed layout of the wharf. Charles Shaw, of the Navy League of Canada, presented the corps with $500 as the first payment on the venture.

Lieut. Thomas said the Cadets hope greatly to improve the conditions of the area as well as to make things much easier for the American tourists entering Peterborough "through its water gateway."

The pavillion will be sheeted in, insulated, windowed, and painted white and blue. Inside it will be sub-divided into six instructional bays for the Cadets. The other building will be painted and remodelled for an office and storage room.

As soon as the Cadets move into their buildings, they will become their permanent headquarters. Their present ship in the Bradburn Building will be vacated. The corps' three boats will be anchored near the wharf.

Lieut. Thomas said the Cadets plan to have at least one cadet at the wharf throughout the day during the summer to meet American and Canadian tourists travelling the canal system. They will help the tourists in every way possible. Gasoline and fresh water will be supplied for the travellers as well as information regarding supplies and directions.

Why Not Profit From Forest? Council Asks

Revenue from the County Forest Area, 10 miles north of Norwood, is not sufficient to suit the economy-minded 1950 County Council.

The Council, budgeting to wipe out the 1949 deficit of nearly $36,000, takes a poor view of the anticipated revenue of about $150.

Before the March session adjourned Wednesday afternoon Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield, chairman of finance, said the matter should be discussed more fully. Previously, Reeve James Humphreys of Asphodel had expressed dissatisfaction with that item of the estimates showed a $2,500 disbursement for the Forest Area and only $150 revenue.

Not To Be Liability

Committee members Rork Ferguson, Stewart Clysdale and Warden Norman Wilson were all unable to say exactly how much progress had been made in wood cutting and making fence posts. The chairman of Reforestation, John McColl was not present.

Referring to the Forest Area, Mr. Humphries said: "It was not set up to be a liability; we thought it would pay its way. It's a nice place in there and I think it should pay its way."

Most of the revenue would come from cutting logs—and possibly making lumber. There was some difference of opinion among the councillors whether it would pay to sell the logs or dabble in the lumbering business.

"It might be better to contract it out," said Mr. Barrows. "Applicants for the job of caretaker in that area looked on themselves as caretakers and not workmen. They were not interested in logging. . . . It certainly is dangerous and difficult for one man."

He described the Forest Area as a "headache" which would remain that way for some time.

The upshot of the discussion was that the committee was instructed to make a thorough investigation of what could be done in the area. A report will be brought in at the June session.

Provides Witness To Prove He Stopped

A charge of failing to stop at a stop street was short-circuited in police court today when a crown witness, Clifford Vincent, Peterborough, testified the accused man, Eric Foster, Toronto, had stopped.

The charge had been laid as a result of an accident March 3 at Reid and McDonnel Sts. Foster, travelling west on McDonnel St., met in collision with a car driven by Fred A. Dummitt, RR 3, Peterborough, south on Reid St.

Dummitt said he saw Foster approach the corner and go on into the intersection without stopping. About $500 damage was done to Dummitt's car.

When Vincent testified he had been driving behind Foster and had seen him stop at the stop sign before going on into the intersection, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked that the charge be dismissed.

369 PARKING TICKETS

Motorists are keeping up their parking payments at the city hall, City Clerk Outram has reported that in February the one-dollar penalty tickets amounted to $369. Total collection for the month amounted to $4,536, including $1,019 from the police court, $1,624.38 from parking meters, and $115 from bridegrooms.

Court Releases Hancock On $10,000 Bail

Aubrey S. Hancock, 35, Toronto, was released today on $10,000 cash bail to appear in police court again April 13 in answer to a charge of forgery believed to connect him with a $100,000 car finance swindle.

Twenty more charges, 10 of forgery and 10 of false pretences concerned with 10 contracts, will be laid when he next appears in court.

Mrs. Marion Lankin, charged as Marion Hancock who was living with Hancock in Peterborough and Vancouver as Hancock's common-law wife, was remanded to the same date on $250 cash bail.

Hancock was arrested in Vancouver after a four-month search by police. Paul Imming, believed to have been his partner, is still being hunted.

The two left the city in the first week of October and two weeks later Colonial Finance Co. of Toronto revealed they had been cheated of at least $100,000 by making loans to finance about 80 phoney used car sales.

In most cases no cars changed hands. Both Hancock and Imming were operating as used car dealers.

Bail had been originally set at $20,000, but was reduced today. The $10,000 was raised by a relative.

Bush Farmers Ready For Sap

Maple bush farmers in eastern Ontario are dusting off their buckets and tidying up the evaporating sheds in readiness for the syrup season that is almost here.

Renfrew hatcheries are booked to capacity for the last of March and April. Demand for chicks has been steadily increasing this month, as reported in the weekly summary of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Some of the counties indicate the prospect of a seed scarcity as the spring sowing season approaches. In Brant registered Cartier oats "are very scarce." Oxford says there will be quite an acute shortage of clover and grass seeds. In Ontario county red clover, alfalfa and timothy "are very scarce." Dufferin says small seeds "are very expensive."

Cattle Prices Hold

Cattle prices are holding stoutly. Elgin reports one farmer who, the other day, sold five grade cows for $300 each.

In Northumberland auction sales reflect a keen demand for all farm livestock, and good grade cows occasionally reach $250. And in York "the continued strength of livestock prices is encouraging to our producers. But, the current increase in feed prices are offsetting this to no small degree."

American buyers are active in the dairy cattle market in Ontario county.

In Russell county at the eastern tip of the province, grade cows are bringing $200 to $250 and registered $400 and $500. Registered heifer calves are selling for $90 to $125 "and hard to find."

Two Drunks Ten Each

Pleading guilty to a charge of drunkenness, Tatuo Teraniski, 34, of Charlotte St., was fined $10 and costs or 10 days by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today.

Stanley Peters, 67, of 185 King St., pleaded guilty to being drunk and was fined $10 and costs or 10 days.

VETERANS' NAMES COMMITTEE

The Elizabeth Smellie Branch, No. 452, of the Canadian Legion, has undertaken the large, important work of collecting the names and addresses of all veterans of this district who served in foreign wars, including the South African. This women-veterans' branch, which is not just a women's auxiliary to a Legion branch, has set up a special committee to deal with the names. It is holding its first filing meeting tonight in the committee room of the City Hall.

Council Passes School Bylaw

County Council passed a bylaw Wednesday approving of North Cavan area and South Monaghan joining the Peterborough Suburban High School Board.

About 65 students attending PCVS from those areas are affected. Actually South Monaghan students have been coming to the Collegiate for the past several years but until September 1949 some of the North Cavan ones were attending Millbrook Continuation School.

Chief difference is that the Peterborough Suburban High School Board will now have to supply the transportation. Since September it has been doing so in any case but have been billing the public school area boards.

About 20 of the students are from South Monaghan and 45 from North Cavan.

At present the Peterborough Suburban Board buys its education from the Peterborough Board of Education as it has no secondary school of its own. Its chief job is arranging student transportation.

Every day five buses, a station wagon and four taxis are hired by the Board to take the rural students to and from Peterborough.

The bylaw must still be approved by the Department of Education. It is retroactive to January 1, 1949.

Eight Windows Of Bus Broken, Boys Are Blamed

Eight windows and the windshield of a Ferguson Coach Lines bus were broken while the bus was parked in a King St. parking lot. The same boys it is believed set fire to a generator crate on a CPR flat car and broke 14 panes of glass at Gibbons and Knox at Charlotte and Louis St.

Many cushions were also thrown out of the bus into the snow and mud. Some of the damage was done Sunday and the rest was reported to police Wednesday.

The boys broke the windows at the rear of the Gibbons and Knox building Sunday with snowballs.

The wooden crate was set on fire Tuesday evening and was put out by CPR yardmen before too much damage could be done.

The damaged bus is useless until the glass can be replaced and the cushions cleaned. Detective Sergeants W. A. Clarke and John Stevenson are investigating.

Easter Parcels Planned By UEFB

By F. G. MANN

The Ontario executive of the United Emergency Fund for Britain, has been working towards the sending and distributing of food parcels in the United Kingdom. A considerable amount of supplies has already been forwarded to the London warehouses for that purpose, and more is on the way. This city and district's effort has been in parcels for the namesake city of Peterborough in England.

There is some $70 on hand towards a contribution for Easter parcels, the latest contribution to which have been received from the lady who gives under the name of "In As Much" and Miss E. Cochrane.

These parcels as noted from actual photographs taken on the spot in Peterborough, England, are going to quite elderly people, who really are the ones who stand most in need of them.

The local committee of the fund would be glad to receive the contributions of all who in this district would care to have a share in this city at this time. Donations may be left at any bank in the city or the Examiner office, or forwarded to the chairman of the local branch, Fred G. Mann, at 199 London St., City.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Members of the Rotary Club plan to attend the funeral of Fred L. Roy in a group on Saturday afternoon in St. John's Anglican Church. Mr. Roy was the first president of the Peterborough club.

Farmer Loses Eye

SOUTH WOODSTOCK, Me., March 23—(AP)—A farmer lost his right eye Wednesday when it was punctured by a cow's horn. Arthur Thurlow, 45, went into the cow's stall to give it feed. As he leaned over to empty his pail the cow swung its head, hooking a horn into Thurlow's eye.

Claim Evidence Of Finding Body

NEW YORK, March 23. (AP)—Ten years of digging in long-hidden grottoes below St. Peter's Church in Rome has yielded archaeological evidence supporting the Roman Catholic belief that St. Peter was buried on that site, Life Magazine reports today.

In connection with the publication of first pictures on the excavations, the magazine prints an article by Msgr. Ludwig Kaas, administrator of St. Peter's, telling how Vatican workmen plumbed the unexplored lower passages beneath the have of the world's largest church.

They penetrated into a pagan cemetery buried for 16 centuries. Msgr. Kaas does not say the explorations launched in 1939 resulted in finding relics of the chief apostle, but he asserts a scientific commission is analyzing discoveries which give archaeological support to Roman Catholic tenets.

Pope Pius XII said more than a year ago, without going into detail, that archaeological discoveries demonstrated the apostle's burial place "is and was under the cupola of St. Peter's Church."

The Pope may announce details of the findings in the course of this Roman Catholic Holy Year.

Msgr. Kaas says:

"At the present time a commission of reputable archaeologists is preparing the publication of its scientific conclusions on the discoveries to which some newspapers' have already made inexact reference. in the meantime one may observe that the excavations have confirmed convincingly the Roman tradition which closely connected Nero's Circus and the Vatican burial ground — or, in other words, the place where St. Peter was executed and the place where he was buried . . ."

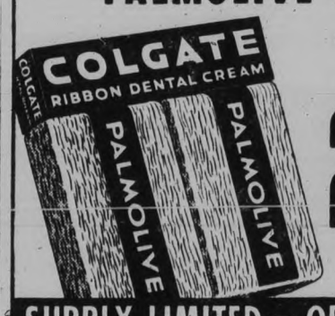
Will Reorganize RCEME Reserve

MONTREAL, March 23 (CP)—A plan for the complete reorganization of the reserve force of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers is being put into operation in Quebec Command and will be adopted in the other four army commands soon, it was announced Wednesday night.



A press statement from Quebec Command said the plan is aimed principally at cutting training and administration costs "drastically."

The press statement said the announcement of the new plan was made by Defence Minister Claxton.

RCEME is the corps whose responsibility is to to repair and keep functioning the army's equipment.

"The reorganization," the statement said, "calls for larger but fewer RCEME reserve force units and includes those RCEME personnel who at present are carried on the war establishments of units of other corps. These new and larger reserve force units are built up on the basis of technical troops of related trades."

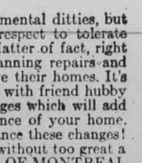
I'm willing to wager that, once you've tried Blue Ribbon Coffee, you'll agree it's the most delicious coffee you've ever tasted!

My Idea of a wonderful beginning to a Lenten meal is a piping hot bowl of any one of the delicious HEINZ SOUPS! There are eighteen varieties to choose from—all of them "tops" in taste! That's why Heinz Soups are so popular with so many wives who like to delight their husbands! Yes, Heinz Soups are savoury to the last sip—so when you serve any one of them—Cream of Tomato—Vegetable—Puree Mongole—make the serving extra large! And they're every bit as delicious in stews—with fish—in sauces—as they are served as a first course!

It's Enough To Turn Your Head —the compliments you get when you've done yourself proud with a beautiful cake. And isn't it easy—with SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR. For Swans Down is especially made for better cake making—expertly milled, sifted and sifted until 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. It has taken the "if" out of my cake baking. Lighter, fluffier and thoroughly delicious cakes—for party or for everyday—are not just matters for conjecture, but absolute certainties. Whether it's a chocolate, angel-food, layer or plain white cake, I know it will be perfect made with Swans Down Cake Flour.

Running Out Of Ideas for tasty Lenten meals? Then you'll be glad to know that on every package of KRAFT DINNER there are several helpful suggestions! Delicious "Kraft Dinner"! It's a wonderful macaroni-and-cheese combination that cooks to tasty lightness in only 7 minutes! It's so very easy to prepare . . . and so wonderfully economical. So for truly economical—completely delicious—Lenten meals . . . ask your grocer tomorrow for "Kraft Dinner"!

Buy Some Bright Yellow Ribbon to tie around this most wonderful Easter Gift!...the famous MORPHY-RICHARDS fully AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC TOASTER...from you—with love to your mother—your sister—your daughter! Or—from your husband to you! This fully automatic toaster with its wonderful new improvements will be a prized household possession for many and many a year! The excellent work of skilled British craftsmen—its cost is amazingly low . . . just $22.50 at leading department stores and dealers! Write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.—for this free booklet describing the wonders of the Morphy-Richards Electric Toaster! It's full of facts you'll want to know!



I Don't Have To Tell You that every girl wants smoother, prettier, longer-lasting curls after a home permanent! Well—they're yours when you give yourself a RICHARD HUDNUT HOME PERMANENT! You see, it's really the Waving Lotion that makes all the difference in a "perm"—and the Waving Lotion used in the marvelous Richard Hudnut Home Permanent is 22% more effective than other home permanent waving lotions! That's a scientific fact, proved by independent research experts! That means stronger, springier curls that stay and that respond like magic to your combing! So now you know why Richard Hudnut is my choice and why I urge you to make it your choice, too!

A Tumbledown Shack may be all very well in sentimental ditties, but most of us have too much self-respect to tolerate any disrepair about the house. Matter of fact, right now many of my friends are planning repairs and additions to beautify and improve their homes. It's really a lot of fun to get together with friend hubby to plot the little—or big—changes which will add to the attractiveness or convenience of your home. And here's the perfect way to finance these changes! ...If you're able to repay a loan without too great a strain on the family budget, you'll find that the BANK OF MONTREAL will be glad to advance you a Personal Loan to cover home-improvement expenses. Why not pay a call—with your husband—on your nearest B of M manager tomorrow? You'll find him interested and helpful—and you'll be pleased at the low cost, too! Only 27 cents a month for each $100 borrowed, when repaid in 12 monthly instalments!

Less Than A Penny A Bowl for so much good nourishment? Yes, that's the low cost of delicious 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT"! No wonder it's a breakfast favourite in so many thousands of Canadian homes! 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" cooks to satin-smooth deliciousness in just five minutes of boiling. It's so good—and so good for you . . . for, did you know?—it provides Iron and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. Try it—soon! That's specially tasty sprinkled with raisins or apricots, brown sugar and cream!

Now At Last the lemon "famine" is over...and there are p-l-e-n-t-y of fresh California lemons for everybody!...plump, ripe, juicy, fine ones, too! That's why you can afford to buy them by the dozen again and use them liberally in all the ways you used to...in desserts, fruit and vegetable juices, salad dressings and pies, tea and other treats. A word to the wise, though...for the finest, juiciest lemons on the market be sure to ask for fresh California SUNKIST Lemons when you buy!

There's Something About Brassware that's very homelike. Brass candlesticks that glow in candlelight—brass door-knockers that give a cheery welcome to guests. Possibly that's why there's been such a revival of brassware in home decoration. It's perfectly in tune with contemporary furnishings—perfectly beautiful when it's polished regularly! But be sure to polish it with BRASSO! It's so very easy to use—for, you see, this polish is made especially for brass!

Lovely Hair Is So Important a part of personal appearance that any new discovery in shampoos is worth investigating. That's why I first tried KREML SHAMPOO with the new "miracle" ingredient called "Folisan" that leaves your hair fairly singing with cleanliness. I'm sold! What a marvelous shampoo! It leaves even lifeless-looking locks radiant with natural sheen—for Kreml Shampoo has a natural oil base. Doesn't dry out your hair as shampoos based on a detergent formula tend to do! Since seeing is believing—why not take this grand opportunity to try out Kreml Shampoo now...a 30c bottle of Kreml is yours for just 10c! Simply write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.—enclosing 10c and I'll send you a regular 30c bottle of Kreml Shampoo!

A Letter From A Reader Says:—"I'm so glad I read about ZONITORS in your column! It's difficult to find out about the best method of feminine hygiene as it's not a widely discussed subject. I'd just like to say that Zonitors are as effective as I'd hoped they'd be!" Yes, thousands of women find Zonitors the most satisfactory method of feminine hygiene. These greaseless—stainless—snow-white vaginal suppositories are daintier—more convenient—powerfully germicidal, yet absolutely safe to delicate tissues! For frank facts about the important subject of feminine hygiene—simply write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.—and I'll send you a free booklet in a plain wrapper.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Girl To Marry Widower Fears Memory of First Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think it is possible for a widower to love his second wife as much as his first? I am 20 years of age and very fond of a widower who is five years my senior. He is very dependable and seems devoted to me. Still, every time I think of this other woman I feel as if I will only play second fiddle in his life. Yet in my estimation he is the finest man I have ever known.

Dorothy Dix

BETTY LOU

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Very often a man loves his second wife better than he did his first. It all depends upon circumstances and which of the two women he finds most congenial. Which one is really his soulmate, as the phrase goes.

Start New Chapter

It is ridiculous to say that you feel that you will play second fiddle in this man's life. His first marriage is a closed episode. You start a new chapter in his life. And it is foolish for you to be jealous of his first wife. You should be thankful that you have no rival other than the poor dead lady in the cemetery. The women to fear are the live ones.

Generally speaking, second marriages are happier than first ones and widowers are better husbands than first husbands because, for one thing, they have been tamed and domesticated and, for another, they have learned about wives from their first mates. They are professionals, so to speak, while the man who is having his first experience in matrimony is an amateur.

The widower does not expect so much of marriage as the young husband does. He knows that a home is an expensive luxury that takes money to keep up, so he doesn't have hysteria every month when the bills come in. He knows that a woman who has to do her housework can't always look like a fashion plate and be waiting for him with a glad, sweet smile. He knows there are times when a woman is tired and cross and has a headache and is grouchy, just as he is. So he takes matrimony on the chin instead of the nerves, and thinks that it strikes a pretty good average after all.

And every first wife leaves her successor a legacy in tenderness and patience from her husband that she never had. For there are very few men who ever look down on the faces of their dead wives without a bitter regret for harsh words they have said, for impatience that they have shown, for the little things that they might have done and did not do that would have made life happier for them.

So marry your man, my dear, and be glad that you are No. 2.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A man and a girl are engaged, but no plans have been made for the marriage at any definite time. Both of them are attractive and have been accustomed to a lot of attention from the opposite sex. The man's business is a travelling position which takes him out of town much of the time. This leaves the girl lonely and, as she is popular, she asked her sweetheart's permission to make dates with other boys. He agreed and decided to go out with other girls himself. Will this weaken their love and attraction for each other? What will happen after marriage when this going out with others must necessarily be stopped, and their company is not sufficient to meet each other's needs?

L. A. K.

ANSWER: Marriage is one thing and an engagement is another. As I understand your proposition, the reason this girl and boy crave companionship is because they are separated and lonely, and that as long as they were together they were perfectly satisfied with each other's company and desire no other.

That will still doubtless be the case when and if they marry. Married people are in less danger of boring each other than are engaged people because they have everything in common and can spend endless hours talking over trivial details of their daily lives and discussing the most fascinating of all subjects—themselves.

I do not see how it will weaken the tie between the girl and the young man for them to go about with others during their enforced separation. Real love, the sort that any man and woman ought to have to marry on, immunizes its subject and makes him or her safe, no matter to what charms and graces he or she is exposed. A man and woman genuinely in love may enjoy the company of others and admire them and still not waver an iota in loyalty to those to whom they are betrothed.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Two men want to marrry me. A is brilliant. Has prmise of advancement. Likes the things that I do and his tastes are congenial with mine. B has no job. No prospects. Doesn't care for any of the things that I enjoy. He will probably never amount to anything. Yet I love him. Please help me to decide between the two.

✧ ✧ ✧

PERPLEXED

ANSWER: B has only a physical attraction for you. That won't last and as soon as it is over he will bore you to death. He is a bad bet.

Woman's Hair Described As Her Crowning Glory

By MARGARET LANCASTER

Down through the ages, romantics and poets have referred to a woman's hair as her "crowning glory". Never do they attempt to describe a beautiful woman without reference to her hair.

So, if there's a lack of flattering comment about your hair style lately, make has a try at have it done the Spring 1950 way.

It may be really so or it may be simply to "look short." The length of hair should be selected according to face, figure and personality, but bowing to current fashion, it should appear short.

Peterborough hairdressers have the advantage of knowing their customers more personally which enables them to cut and dress to a well-thought-out design that seems truly to belong to the face.

There are fewer curls, more waves and absolutely no friz. Permanents this year will merely give the hair body to make it turn and twirl and stay where it is wanted. Those fortunate to have a natural wave may not need any artificial aid, but every head of hair is going to require constant attention for neatness and frequent visits to a cutting expert to be up to standard. Heads will appear to be polished because every hair is gleaming from cleanliness and brushing.

Select a new hair style with these points in mind:

Only a young, cherubic face is able to wear the simple, unadorned, very short and straight hair style.

Hair done close at the side with height on top seemingly lengthens a round face. "For the square face have height above the brow, curving lines and width at the temples to soften face angles.

Many interesting faces are patterned in a vague diamond shape —wide through the cheekbones narrowing at brow and chin. For them—there is one unbreakable rule: don't bare the forehead.

To widen a long face keep hair long enough to fluff at the sides, partly hide the neck and give background to the lower part of the face. A centre part is usually disastrous.

The oval is considered the most beautiful of all forms and those lucky enough to have this type of face have few problems. They can adopt any length of hair, any styles that takes their fancy.

Exciting news for those who can't produce shining smoothness with a good brushing is "hair cosmetics." They will darken or intensify natural hair color, or lighten and brighten it. Grey streaks can be blended practically to the vanishing point. And they will do wonders for that depressing thing called "mousy" hair. They are not dyes and last only from shampoo to shampoo.

Mrs. W. Gordon Hall Elected Regent Municipal Chapter

Mrs. W. Gordon Hall was elected Regent of Municipal Chapter, IODE, for a second term at the annual meeting Wednesday evening, and four of her executive were returned to office.

Five new executive members are: First vice-regent, Miss Mary Medd; second vice-regent, Mrs. C. M. Scott; treasurer, Miss Mary Curry; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Hudson Hall; Echoes secretary, Miss Jean Hamley.

The re-elected are: Secretary, Miss Marjorie Benson; organizing secretary, Mrs. Robert Allin; educational secretary, Mrs. C. L. Upper; standard-bearer, Mrs. M. E. Clarke.

Fifty members of IODE and two members of COE (Children of the Empire) were at the dinner meeting, representing seven primary chapters and two junior chapters which compose Municipal Chapter. Membership was reported as 476, an increase of 23 over last year. Another primary chapter will be formed shortly of senior girls from the Mary K. Birdsall Chapter, COE.

The Regent urged a united effort for greater achievement in this jubilee year of the Order. She stressed the grave responsibility resting on the women elected to office, whose duties were outlined by Mrs. C. M. Scott. "You are called upon for the highest type of leadership and to work in utmost co-operation," Mrs. Hall said.

A recommendation by the executive that Mrs. A. W. Turner be named honorary regent of Municipal Chapter for 1950 was approved. Mrs. Turner will be the first honorary regent. She was the first regent of this chapter of which she was made a life member when she retired last year.

The secretary's report, prepared and read by Miss Benson, was a concise and accurate summation of IODE activities in Peterborough and Lakefield during the past year. Notable was the 50th anniversary service of intercession and re-dedication held February 12 at St. Paul's Church. Members have suggested such a service become an annual event.

Most money-making projects of the primary chapters have been undertaken to raise the $2,258.68 they have donated towards furnishing rooms in the new Civic Hospital. A promise has been

6—In Memoriams

FORSYTHE—In loving memory of our only son, Pilot Officer E. B. (Sonny) Forsythe, 425 Alouette Sqdn., accidentally killed at Tholthorpe, March 23, 1945, rests in Stonefall Cemetery, Harrogate, England.
Blow softly winds, where earthly flights have ended,
Shine warmly sun, where broken pinions lie,
Though fallen, he to glorious heights has risen.
Immortal flies for aye the starlit sky.
—Mother and Dad.

FORSYTHE—In loving memory of P/O Bruce "Sonny" Forsythe, Alouette Squadron 425, who was killed on March 23, 1945, at Tholthorpe, England.
In life loved and honored,
In death remembered.
—Ever remembered by his sisters Joyce and Frances and their families.

GORDON, Hosanna—In loving memory of dear Dad, who passed away March 23, 1949.
His memory is my keepsake,
With which I'll never part;
God has him in His keeping,
I have him in my heart.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Aurora and son-in-law Pat.

GORDON, Hosanna—In loving memory of a dear father and granddad, who passed away March 23, 1949.
We cannot clasp your hand, Father dear,
Your face we cannot see;
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.
—Sadly missed by son Reg. and daughter-in-law Sally, and family.

GORDON, Hosanna — In loving memory of a dear father and granddad, who passed away March 23, 1949.
You ofttimes said I'd miss you,
Those words have proved too true;
I lost my best, my dearest friend,
Dear Dad, when I lost you.
—Sadly missed by son Clayton, and daughter-in-law Rita, and family.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear dad, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our minds,
For the days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
We'd give it, yes and more,
To see the face of Dad dear,
Come smiling through the door.
—Sadly missed by daughter Lenore, and son-in-law Clifford.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear dad, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
There is a face that is haunting us ever,
There's a voice we are longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection and heartache,
Dear Dad, for you.
—Ever remembered by wife and daughters Aurora and Monadel and son Henry.

GORDON, Hozanna—In loving memory of a dear father and granddad, who passed away March 23, 1949:
Dear Dad:
God saw what was before you,
And the pain you would have to bear,
So smiling down upon you,
He took you to His care.
And somewhere back of the sunset,
Where loveliness never dies
You live in the land of glory
Mid the blue and gold of the skies.
—Sadly missed by son Norman, daughter-in-law Margaret and family.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of David Mahood, who passed away one year ago today.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by Aunt Muriel and Uncle Noble.

6—In Memoriams

MAHOOD—In loving memory of our dear grandson, David Lawrence, who was killed one year ago today.
There is no final parting
For all are in His care,
And those who seem to leave us
Are waiting for us there.
Where we shall meet our loved ones
And understand at last,
That dawn is always waiting
After the night has passed.
—Lovingly remembered by Grandma and Grandpa Mahood.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of a dear little boy, David Lawrence Mahood, age 7, who was accidentally killed one year ago, March 23, 1949.
We loved him, ah, no tongue can tell
How much we loved him and how well.
God loved him too, and thought it best
To take him home with Him to rest.
—Treasured in memory by Mummy Daddy, Glenn and Evelyn.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of David Mahood, who passed away March 23, 1949
"One year has passed
But still we fret
The one we loved
We can't forget."
—Sadly missed by Grandma and Grandpa Quick and Teddy.

O'TOOLE—In loving memory of Edward O'Toole who passed away 12 years ago today.
You're not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
—Lovingly remembered by Rita, Thelma, Ken and Jerry.

given that as long as each chapter maintains the room it has furnished it will receive recognition of the donation through a plate on the door, this plate to be removed at the time maintenance is refused. Jeanette Scott Chapter purchased an oxygen tent for the nursery in addition to their donation.

Many donations were made to the various IODE funds, some financial aid was given adopted schools, and prize money and trophies to PCVS students. Sizeable sums were sent to Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, by Major Bennett and Otonabee Chapters and Peter Robinson Chapter sent $200 to the university student it is assisting. Catharine Parr Traill Chapter gave $70 toward the Lakefield arena, and $25 in prizes to highest entrance pupils in the school there as well as prize money for children's section at Lakefield fair. Lieut. Col. Agnes Neill Chapter has given a $200 bursary to a student nurse at Civic Hospital and will give the same amount for this purpose each year. Mary K. Birdsall Chapter purchased 240 children's books for rural school libraries.

Most chapters have concentrated on post war and child and family welfare work in addition to educational.

Mrs. Wm. Nash was highly commended for again carrying on the work of child and family welfare convener in outstanding manner. She reported a total of $1,612.30 was spent in monies and donated goods last year, and gave the details under nine headings: health services, handicapped persons, child care, recreation services, families in their own homes, homeless, aged or infirm, Christmas cheer, and miscellaneous. Under the latter she listed $60 spent by Jeanette Scott Chapter on dental work for a needy school girl.

Much of Mrs. Nash's work is conducted in co-operation with the Children's Aid Society which does the investigating. A needy family in the city is being supplied with one quart of milk per day during March by 57th Regiment Chapter. This will be another chapters. The family has tinued in the coming months by also been outfitted with necessary clothing through purchases and donations.

Mrs. Geo. Groombridge, post war convener, also received grateful thanks for her work which has been enormous this past year. She advised that $1,794.90 had been spent by the chapters for knitting, sewing and food parcels, and the latter included some gifts of food that members brought to meetings. There were 250 food parcels valued at $676.75, and a total of 1,064 articles valued at $815.60.

Greater interest in having films shown at meetings was reported by Miss June Fraser, film convener, all but three chapters having used them several times. In Empire study, convener Mrs. E. Huddart, of Lakefield, reported that topics of current interest had been shown preference with Communism having the greatest appeal. Organizing secretary Mrs. Robert Allin advised of interest in forming an IODE chapter shown by a group of women in Omemee.

Mrs. H. Baker reported on finances of Municipal Chapter; Mrs. C. L. Upper as educational secretary; Miss Jean Hamley on publicity; Mrs. H. Wilson as convener for ex-service personnel; Mrs. M. E. Clarke as standard bearer. Mrs. D. W. Clarke as corresponding secretary advised that 77 notices of Municipal Chapter meetings are sent to members each month.

Monthly meeting of Municipal Chapter preceded the annual meeting. Mrs. W. G. Hall was appointed the delegate to the annual meeting of Provincial Chapter being held in Hamilton, April 19 to 21.

Mrs. Nash, reporting for child and family welfare, noted the articles of clothing provided by Mary K. Birdsall, Jeanette Scott, Major Bennett and Agnes Neill Chapters for members of the needy family mentioned above.

In closing, Mrs. Hall expressed appreciation to the committee in charge of dinner arrangements, Mesdames M. E. Clarke, R. Allin, G. Barns, G. H. Cutmore and Miss Jean Fraser. Mrs. D. Munro was pianist during presentation and retirement of the flag.

Appoint Burton Power Chairman

ALBANY, N.Y., March 23 (AP)—Governor Thomas Dewey Wednesday nominated John E. Burton as chairman of the State Power Authority. His job would be to direct an all-out fight to prevent what Dewey's Republican administration has termed "federal encroachment on State power rights" in the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers.

Dewey Long has favored development with the province of Ontario of the power facilities of the St. Lawrence without the seaway project which forms the other portion of the long-proposed St. Lawrence development. President Truman, however, has said that if the development ever is approved by the federal government it will be a combined power-seaway development with Canada.

Burton has long been a political associate of Dewey's. Wednesday's nomination, along with those of several other of the governor's advisers to State posts, aroused speculation that Dewey is breaking up his "team" and plans to retire from politics.

Planning Conference

WASHINGTON, March 23 — (AP)—The A.F.L. announced Wednesday it will hold a two-day organizing conference here March 24 and 25 in its drive to attract 1,000,000 new members in 1950. The A.F.L. now claims nearly 8,000,000 members.

Campbellford Citizens Play Cards For Funds To Help Build Memorial Hospital For Town

CAMPBELLFORD, March 23 (ENS)—Citizens of Campbellford have adopted the habit of playing Canasta with a remarkable zest. The game is being played by all sections of the community to raise funds for building a new memorial hospital.

To date $211.60 has been raised for the fund at Canasta parties. The total is growing every week.

Groups of citizens gather at each other's homes during the week to play two hands of Canasta. A lunch is served and the players pay 50 cents a person. The highest score of each table is recorded at Gibson's Book Store and the highest score by April 30 will win a mantel radio.

Hostesses for last weeks' games were Mesdames W. Kingston, A. J. Armour, W. J. Cochrane, J. Dunsmoor, P. Deneyes, A. Putnam, Miss F. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. G. Mitchell.

Trio Overdue

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 23 (AP)—A man, his wife and their 14-month old daughter are overdue on their 350-mile dog team journey from Old Crow in Yukon territory, to Fort Yukon on the Yukon river. Herb Wilson, Fort Yukon commission, Wednesday told the marshal's office that Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Hughes and their child set off from Old Crow March 6, expecting to reach Fort Yukon in 10 to 14 days.

Great Cancer Control Within Five Years

WINDSOR, March 23—(CP)—Health Minister Martin said Wednesday night that within five years every province in Canada will have "unexcelled" cancer control facilities.

Federal contro grants are making it possible for the provinces to extend their laboratory and pathological services, said Mr. Martin in a speech prepared for delivery before the Windsor Lions' Club.

The grants also were enabling the provinces to employ and train more cancer specialists, to provide them with more radium, to establish more free biopsy services and to carry on programs of health education essential to a successful fight against the disease.

Reject Application

OTTAWA, March 23 (CP) — The Canada Labor Relations Board announced Wednesday rejection of an application by the West Coast Seamen's Union (Canada) for certification as bargaining agent for unlicensed crew members employed on vessels operated by Vancouver Barge Transportation Limited.

To Die For Murder

PRAGUE, March 23 (AP) — One man was sentenced to death by a Moravian state court Wednesday and 13 others were given prison terms ranging from four years to life on charges of murder, espionage and anti-state activities. The defendants were accused of murdering a state security policeman and spying for France, the United States and the Vatican

2 Nazis Acquitted

MUNICH, March 23 (Reuters) —A German civil court Wednesday night acquitted the former Munich Gestapo Chief and S. S. Colonel, Oswald Schaeffer, and his deputy, Dr. Richard Levkeuchner, on two charges of crimes against humanity. They were charged with manslaughter of east European slave workers and of causing bodily injuries by whipping prisoners.

Has To Quit Force

BOWMANVILLE, March 23 — (CP)— Constable Bernard Kitney, 34, has resigned from the local police force because he "can't get enough money." He said he was earning just enough money to stay off relief. He plans working in a local chemical plant, after 12 years of police work.

Planes Raid Shanghai

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 23 (AP) —Chinese Nationalist planes hit Shanghai again Tuesday and crews were ready to battle any Red planes which might challenge them. No hostile planes were seen. Air force headquarters said extra precautions were taken because three strange planes appeared and then fled during an air raid on Shanghai Monday.

Rival Contracts Prove Problem

VANCOUVER, March 23 (CP) —A move by the Seafarers' International Union (AFL) to take over contracts of the rival West Coast Seamen's Union brought cautious comment Wednesday from West Coast deep-sea operators.

"We've signed a contract until Oct. 15 with the WCSU and we intend to honor it," said one prominent shipping man. "There has never been any trouble with West Coast operated ships and we don't want it to start now."

Other operators declined comment, saying they had written the Labor Department in Ottawa asking for clarification of the status of the rival unions.

The SIU claims the West Coast Union, successor to the Canadian Seamen's Union, has "no status as a trade union within the meaning of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act."

Some 18 ships and 800 men are involved in the dispute.

WI Studies Social Welfare

WESTWOOD, March 23 (ENS) —Twelve members of the Women's Institute met on Tuesday in the Town Hall for the March meeting.

Social welfare was the main subject of the meeting, and an address entitled "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine" was prepared by Mrs. James Thompson and read by Mrs. E. W. Sargent. A reading by Mrs. Aubrey Wood followed the thought of the address.

A short talk on the motto was given by the convener, Mrs. Fred Neilson and names of women prominent in social welfare were given in answer to the roll call.

A shamrock contest was won by Mrs. H. Neilson and Mrs. F. Neilson. A display of handicrafts included braided and hooked mats, an afghan, fancy pot-holders, etc.

The president, Mrs. W. Post, conducted a lengthy business discussion. Members were invited to attend Achievement Day at the YMCA on Apr. 1 and also a bazaar and tea by the Haultain Women's Institute at the YWCA on the same date.

Plans were made for a bingo party on Wednesday, April 12 in Westwood Hall.

Mrs. L. Hutchinson and Mrs. A. Wood were in charge of a social period at the end of the meeting.

2 People Electrocuted

ORLANDO, Fla., March 23— (AP)—A six-year-old girl was electrocuted trying to save her puppy from a grounded power line Wednesday and her mother died trying to save her. Deputy Sheriff J. J. Mitchell said an investigation is being made of how two 4,800-volt wires came to be on the ground. The puppy touched one of the wires first, Mitchell said. Little Isabel Yorton tried to help the dog, and then Mrs. Edna Yorton, 56, went to her daughter's aid.

Sentenced For Revolt

LIMA, Peru, March 23 (AP) — A Peruvian war council Wednesday night imposed sentences against navy officers, crew members and civilians indicted in connection with the abortive Callao revolt of Oct. 3, 1948. Domingo Castonon, navy non-commissioned officer, was sentenced to death. He was accused of killing the commanding officer of the cruiser Bolognesi. Two other defendants received prison sentences of at least 25 years and a number of others received lesser terms.

BANKERS' ASSOCIATION HEAD—J. U. Boyer is president of the Canadian Bankers' Association. The 51-year-old general manager of the Provincial Bank of Canada entered the bank in 1918. Mr. Boyer was born in St. Andre Avellin, Que.

Nab Counterfeiter

CHICAGO, March 23—(AP)— A 12-year hunt by United States Secret Service Agents ended Wednesday with the seizure of counterfeiting equipment and a Swedish alien. He is Hugo Hedin, 57, whom agent Harry Anheier described as a perfectionist whose spurious bills could be detected only by experts. Anheier said his men had been hunting Hedin since 1938.

Removed From Job

MINEOLA, N.Y., March 23— (AP)—A grade crossing watchman has been removed from duty by the Long Island Railroad for being asleep when a train passed his post. The watchman, William Frecentese, worked at a crossing in Rockville Centre a short distance from the scene of the Feb. 17 wreck that killed 32 persons.

FOR WHAT PURPOSE... WHICH GLASSES

Once upon a time eyeglasses were supposed to be the emblem of wallflowers or bookworms. Maybe the unstyled, unstreamlined spectacle of yesteryear were pretty grim, but all that is changed now. Today's smart glasses are a hallmark of distinction in men, an accoutrement of glamor in women—besides fulfilling the all-important purpose of preserving vision.

No less an authority than Emily Post once exclaimed that many young, good-looking women used to have a notion that eyeglasses were unbecoming. "They had the idea that glasses alone proclaimed their errors of vision. But to every beholder eyes that can't see are as blank and groping as though the mind were drugged. Moreover, eyes straining to see invariably squint, and distress shows in unmistakable lines of strain. And as for what eye-strain does to the nervous system, and what a wrecked system does to a woman's beauty, health, and disposition, I leave to your own observation."

Eyeglasses express and enhance personality, and in many cases add beauty to faces. They bring uneven features into balance by increasing or narrowing the width at the temples, by shortening or lengthening the nose, by making the eyes appear closer together or farther apart.

"Your glasses are the best friends you will ever have. As for their effect upon your appearance, remember that a happy face, swift grace of motion, and, above all, eyes that are keenly responsive are immeasurable assets of beauty and of charm."

With a nostalgic glance toward the past, and a keen awareness of the lively present . . . the passing fashion parade approaches this memorable Mid-century Spring. In artful combinations of the then-and-now, the new styles capture the exciting spirit of this historic year . . . and create a fascinating, feminine personality

General Effect In Styles Is Simpler Unfussy In The Modern Way; Men Move Towards Ease And Comfort

By MARGARET LANCASTER

With 13 shopping days before the Easter parade, The Peterborough Examiner today presents the annual fashion edition. More than 60 advertisers indicate in these pages the type of goods each has selected for Spring, 1950, and pictures and special articles point out style highlights of the season.

London Express Service.

Used as a guide, they will enable teener, career business woman, young housewife, matron, average man, sportsman and executive to choose a tip-to-toe ensemble of distinction, reflecting individual taste.

The general effect this Spring is simpler—unfussy in the modern way. Women's skirts will definitely be shorter—far below the knee still, but a good inch or so shorter than they've been wearing. Their hair will be short, smooth, neat and glossy. Men are slow to make important changes in their clothing but the trend is ever toward ease and comfort. They will have more width in jacket shoulders, with a square effect. Fewer will order three-piece suits, preferring to select slacks and sport coast for the coming season.

Women Spend More

Getting back to the women, who, every year, are credited with spending the most for fashion's sake.

Nine of every ten will choose a suit for spring wear, tailored but not too rigid looking, for suppleness is noticeable in all the styles. Something red is a "must" this Spring, probably the hat, maybe a bunch of flowers at the throat, or perhaps the handbag — which will be longer and roomier. Those who resist the perennial spring appeal of navy will show great strength of will for it is offered this year in greater variety than ever before. With it goes the "white touch," a dominant style feature of '50, also used to offset neutrals, and the checks that are so greatly favored for suits, coats and tailored dresses.

It's generally acknowledged a short "topper" spring and the ultra-short ones and belted-in versions are newest. Many of them make the third piece of a suit-ensemble. But keep an eye on the fitted, full-length dress coat with white pique accents.

EXQUISITE HATS in new straws and fabrics trimmed with Nylon flowers, rhinestones and fine feathers are found at Jane J. Horsfield's shop.

Millinery Closely Allied

If "suit" and "spring" have become synonyms, as Peterborough store windows would indicate, closely allied is "millinery."

The word, this year, refers to a hat that hugs the head, or a sailor, its brim ranging to several inches in width. But, as always, the Easter bonnet, will be gay and feminine, with flowers to be sure, but not in such abundance, ribbon bows and all manner of veilings. For casual wear later, are the new burlap cloches featured by one milliner. They are extremely smart and colorful.

Color-matching accessories is a new fashion trend this year. Pink is being suggested as an accent for pink, and yellow for yellow, two every popular colors of the year. They can be used later linked with natural color linen and shantung dresses. Gloves are longer, accounted for by the shorter sleeves.

White pique blouses are to star under the suit and they will have interesting buttons. Blouses are also being made with many tucks in nylon, dobby cotton, dotted swiss and crepe, mostly in white, and mostly sleeveless.

The airy new shoes, blossoming out in a garden of colors, put spring in the step. Always in good taste, whatever the season, the pump this year is lower cut and has a higher heel. In dressy footwear, pencil fine strippings attach to the sole and wind up to the ankle, giving a fragile look.

Now for the luxurious touch of fine lingerie. Actually—shouldn't milady's first purchase toward a new spring outfit be fresh, dainty underthings? No matter how expensive and well tailored her outer ensemble, she will look more radiant and attractive if she has the feeling of being completely well-dressed.

Create For The Figure

Stylists create for "the figure" which this year emphasizes a small waist, rounded hips and a curved bosom. Well constructed undergarments to mold meticulously will aid in displaying the style lines in the most expensive outfit. Because there are so many sheer blouses the lace trimmed slip is favorite, and because of the many bare neck and shoulder dresses, that will appear more in sun fashions, the strapless brassiere is becoming essential to the wardrobe. Every woman now knows the advantage of choosing practical nylon lingerie, available in the city in every type of garment. Hosiery shades are light for Sring,—and choice of heel can mean a lot to the costume.

With men's fashions more in the news recently, and since most of their buying is influenced by women, a tip in this direction may prove valuable:

Color can make or break the man, so follow this motto for the correct combination: "One dark; one bright; one light." Dark is the suit, bright is the tie, light is the shirt. Socks should match or blend with the tie. Always put a white shirt with a navy suit. Conservatism is the sign of distinction.

And now a word to men only: An Easter Sunday gift in high fashion, sure to plase and go well with the finest outfit — lovely fresh flowers in corsage, bouquet or plant form.

New Dept. Added

The Allan B. Collis store has opened a new costume jewellery department featuring "CORO" Jewellery, the finest name in costume jewellery today . . You'll be really amazed at the beautiful selection of "CORO" jewellery designed to flatter your Easter ensemble, from scintillating rhinestone necklaces and bracelets to ever popular and beautiful pearl chokers, single and multiple strand necklaces . .

A Word About Low Prices

When Smart Set talks low prices, hundreds of Peterborough and district women know what we are talking about. For many, many years now, Smart Set Shop has catered to smart thrifty women who know a bargain when they see one.

A low price tag on any piece of merchandise only means a bargain when that particular item is desirable and really worth having. Otherwise you might just as well throw your money away.

Day after day we offer desirable merchandise at low prices. Sometimes we advertise items at ridiculous prices (low of course). That's because we wish to clear certain lines or maybe we bought something that we should have left alone and only give-away prices will move them.

However, we do not scream Sale all the time because we don't have to, but when we have something to really get excited about, we'll let you know and this is one of those times.

COOL SHARKSKIN or gabardine in pastels LEFT is a smart outfit for the city man in hot weather. Mother and daughter RIGHT wear matchmate frocks in pastel shade backgrounds for flowers and sunbonnets. Shirred detail eliminates buttons and snaps. Daughter's dress has attached panties.

Small Hat Is Important To Top Sleek Short Hair

The new season hat are superlative. The small hat continues to be important to top sleek, polished-looking short hair.

Large hats with scooped, to-one-side brim accents will be seen for more formal occasions as the season progresses. Dramatic black straws with feather and velvet accents, trims of beads, fake jewels and demure veiling, will make their appearance at the cocktail hour and for semi-formal dinner-date wear.

Millinery straws for Spring and Summer repeat all the delectable, new colors of the season. Shiny, smooth and rough straws create a fashionable frame for contrasting straw embroideries, fruit, flower and butterfly trims, velvet and satin bows, and lots of gauzy, rich-hued silk flowers.

Spring will see many sailors on deck in straws, of course, with narrow to wide brims and worn either level or with a forward-tilt.

Simple bonnets in gay felts have high, round crowns with cloche brims. They're trimmed with whip-stitching, ribbon and bows.

Chinese Influence

The Chinese influence turns up in the millinery scene in coolie hats with tiny visors and peaked crowns with flower treatments inspired by Ming gardens in little pillboxes patterned after mandarin skull caps.

Millinery in the mood for madness a group of hats presented every sason for the ultra-sophisticate shows umbrella hats, paillette-spangled Renaissance berets snoodback styling and all sorts of striking, manipulated brims and crowns.

Look for golden haze and cream ivory felts; these are pale tints reminiscent of "winter white". See lighter-than-navy-worn with red. Frost navy and black and an "in-the-pink" hat or spark-up beige and other natural-color nuances with one touch of navy.

TWO PIECE COCKTAIL gown bares its shoulders to disclose a bonbon bow and stand away pockets. In celanese taffeta.

Spring Felt Hats Light in Color

Light is the keynote for men's hats for Spring! 'Light in color —light in weight! Well-dressed men will be sporting hats in pale grey, blue-grey, tan, and light shades of green.

In keeping with the campaign for comfort in men's clothes, the spring hats will rest easily on male heads to give a casual wearability and a "lightheaded" ease.

Brims will be slightly narrower and crowns slightly lower than in last fall's felt hats. Bound edges will continue to be among the best-sellers. The ever-popular snap brim will be the style leader although hatters predict the homburg will stage a comeback. Prints, dots, stripes and other novelty bands will grace both spring felts and summer panamas and CRAVATA TAKES to an elaborate pleated skirt, balanced by a trim tailored bodice in a sophisticated junior dress by Graceline featured by Lyda Telford.

Belts Are Wider In Bright Colors

Encircle your waistline with broad flourish and bright color! Wrap a wide, soft belt 'round your middle for a smart accent and a waist-defined silhouette.

Pastel velvets and velveteens, lightly boned to stay-up well, give grace notes to every ensemble. Soft, crushed leathers in candy and confetti colors are shown in new widths for extra smartness. Capeskin, tissue kid and supple cowhides are new leather luxuries and boast fake-jewel, medallion and novelty bangle adornment. Buckle treatments are bold and lavish. Patent, either natural or plastic, gleams brightly in combination with velvet.

Interesting texture treatments such as scalloping, braiding and twists, add three-dimensional smartness to belts and make them an important accessory.

THIS SEASON EATON'S are putting their best foot forward into spring in Shortie Coats. The model, Miss Rose Miller, is shown wearing one of the many variations in styles of these flattering practical coats. This one features a slightly flared back, with cut-away open front and long notched revers. The sleeves are large and roomy. . .the pockets are emphasized with large flaps. It is done in a soft wool "whipcord" fabric in beige-mix.

Big Sleeves In Dresses

Look closely to the Spring dress collection and you'll find that the really big news is — big sleeves! Light weight stiffening tricks up full, short flounces, ruffled capelet sleeves, sleeves puffed below the shoulders.

Other popular sleeves styles are long sleeves with easy fullness, kimono variations and tight sleeves that boast wide, deep cuffs.

Slimmer lines are called for by the full sleeves for a well-balanced silhouette. Rippled peplums jut out slightly over straight, sheathed skirts. Side drapery and flanges break up the monotony of the slim-lined frocks.

Images of the 1920's make their appearance in all the dress collections and accent the slim sheath . . . the long torso and the short evening gown.

Shorter skirts, uneven hemlines and decollete necklines are all '20 influences. The bloused back bodice is important for some fashions . . . a taut smooth bodice for others. In all instances, the natural waistline is quite clearly defined.

Pleats, slashes and side drapes add interest to skirt lines.

Copy-cat Fashions Find Favor Mother, Daughter

"In duplicate" . . . that's the fashion theme for casual dresses for mother and daughter. Tricky, young-in-spirit frocks and play-clothes that give young-ones a grown-up air . . . and proud mamas, a young and carefree one!

Fabrics shown in these mother and daughter collections are gay gingham plaids . . . dotted swiss . . . soft-to-the-touch percales and other combed cottons. Trims are bright rick-racks, cotton laces, ruffles and embroidered detail.

Young daughter fashions for Spring and Summer are available for the toddler to nursery miss in sizes three to six and for grammar-school girls and junior teens in sizes seven to fourteen.

Kids adore them . . . mothers love them, and happy family groups will be seen coast-to-coast in go-together fashions.

Junior Miss Hats Bright and Gay

Li'l girl hats are sweetly simple and offer a light-hearted look to perky, young ensembles. For Easter and Spring bonnets, the tot to teen set have a choice of rough, shiny or smooth straw hats in a veritable collection of colors.

Classic felts are presented in bright reds, true navies, and all the candy-flavored pastels.

There are young bonnets with lifted brims. . . beret types . . . demure poke bonnets and even cloche variations.

Simple straws are trimmed with ribbons, bright field flowers and trick button detailing.

For casual wear, there are clever little plaid and velveteen hats with matching handbags. Felt beanies in bright, bold shades are big news again.

Blouses Lavish Ultra-Feminine

It's a banner year for blouses! Nylons and printed silks are the banner fabrics . . . and sheers of all kinds for "cool" news!

Cool cuts are headlined in halter types blouses, narow-strapped styles which replace sleeves. Plunge necklines, peter pan collars, jewel necklines and convertible collars of all sorts are important, too.

Tie silks, handkerchief and grass linens, imported sheer batistes, crisp organdies are high vogue fabrics. Washable tissue failles in all shades of the rainbow will hold their important places in the blouse picture.

COLORFUL CORDUROYS

Corduroys take on the colors of the season and make their appearance in coral rose, cocoa brown, mint green, light aqua and gold. Coordinated corduroy ensembles team up in skirts with matching jackets weskits, slacks toppers and shorts.

A SUIT DESIGNED for your Easter parade. . . For warm spring days and cool spring evenings you'll want this really smart suit. . . Cuffed pockets at the yoke line, rounuded hipline all designed for a narrow, slimming silhouette. . . See this creation at Pulver's Ladies Wear.

MINES MAI SAFER
The miner's safely lamp was invented in 1816.

Short Coats Most Favored In New Season

Toppers step into the limelight for Spring-into-Summer wear and designers consider the topper as much an important accessory to a smart wardrobe, as a hat, bag or gloves. These toppers will range in length from the brief-briefs to the classic 36 inch length.

Topper collections show tremendous variety . . . belted or full . . . some have a distinct Chinese influence . . . others are so short they barely reach the waist . . . and have a cape-flavor. These have rippling backs, dipping in the back and free-swinging.

Suede cloth, fleece, bright tweeds in pastels, muted stripes overplaids, pastels and high shades make color and fabric news in topper collections.

The dress-coat . . . in other words, the completely feminine silhouette . . . is the good word for full length dressy type coats. These styles accent the dropped shoulder line, sleeves that can be worn long or bracelet length, bloused backs, draped-out sides. Fitted coats in lightweight fleeces, tweeds, gabardines and broadcloths are important.

Include Mantle-Type

Wrappy tweed coats include the mantle-type collar coat . . . some are collarless and unbelted . . . others have self-fabric ties.

Real or make-believe capes add distinguishing notes to coat collections. The chesterfield appears in three-button fitted versions. Plenty of pockets, dropped shoulders and interesting yoke detailing are smart highlights you'll see over and over again.

Casual fabrics, crisp and nubby monotone tweeds, two-tone fleeces find top favor in the coat groups. Frogs closings trim mandarin styled coats . . . embroidered emblem pockets and velvet trims are some of the unusual detail that add brilliance to Spring coats.

Flared, tweed travel coats, always favored for many-purpose wear, have many new versions. Shapely yet full, the coats are in seven-eighths and full-length versions; some of the smartest in ombre tweed, novelty checks or bright nubby woolens.

Widened sleeves look smart on tweed coats. Look for corded seams swelling the sleeve above the elbow, other coats in bright fleece have-poniting "fins" of fabric that give an illusion of width near the cuff. Some of the new short toppers show full-gathered sleeves.

Swagger Feeling

Although set-in sleeves hold their own in most coat collections, dropped shoulders are the biggest of the new fashion details. Seamed several inches below the natural shoulder line they are combined with normally slim sleeves and with understated flounce versions. They take on a swagger feeling, a feeling that is increased by use of flounced push-up sleeves.

It's a wonderful fashion story in coats this year . . . soft and feminine . . . running a gamut of distinctive detail and trims . . . in a variety of styles that give the grand illusion of distinctive elegance!

THE CHARMING MODEL, Miss Rose Miller pictorially illustrates for Eaton's the season's newest trends in that every-popular Easter Suit. The slim reed-like skirt is topped by a "blousey" jacket . . . the effect being attained by a belted, nipped-in waist, with bloused back and "batwing" sleeves. The angled cut of the coat, the cuffed sleeves and the large collar that may be worn high-up or flat, are all new spring features. With it the model is shown wearing a Navy straw hat trimmed with pink, jewellery and gloves in matching pink and navy shoes and bag.

MORE T-SHIRTS
T-Shirts will be colorful . . . gain in popularity . . . and a featu . . . of the regular-type T-shirt is th . . . bright for spring and summer . . . the addition of a breast pocket . . . gaucho-type shirt continues to carry cigarettes or other items . . .

New Handbags Super-Colored

It's Spring—and the sort of thing that means news in fashion, is the lavish use of color in handbags. Soft-as-butter leathers, too, are used to wondrous advantage for new handbag styling.

Superbly styled classic oblongs, framed pouches and barrel-bulge bags retian their popularity for wear with tailleur ensembles. Navy, black, brown, green and red in true hues are presented in polished calf leathers. Balenciaga remains a suede shade. Soft, supple-as-tissue calfskins, lambskin and doe-suedes are color co-ordinated for every wardrobe need.

And many handbags, wear bright linings . . . velvet, faille, suede and calf are brilliant with "red" inside stories!

Faille and patent flare with shirred and draped treatment. Shoulder bags are roomy and have a luggage look. For casual wear, huge medallions and royal emblems grace the flap-closings of bold shoulder bags.

Handbags are handled one, wide one . . . or two, narrow ones, but handled they must be!

Fashion decrees the small bag for Spring . . . but small as they look—they are ample and roomy. For color loveliness, for leather luxury . . . for that final fillip to a smart costume . . . it's in the bag!

Ladies Wearing Kilts for Golf

In the trend to trousers and in the mood for pleats, fashion has taken a fancy to kilts! These are short skirts for tennis, golf, other active sports or spectator wear.

Pleated in kilt style, these smart separates are worn with strapless or sleeveless over-blouses. Pleated shorts with kilt-styled fronts are designed for action sports.

Kilts team up with cool-tops in the nautical theme; middie blouses and middie jackets are the navy scorers.

Authentic clan plaids in paper-weight woolens, plaids, overplaids and stripes in lustrous chambrays, new-colored denims and homespun cottons appear in these new kilt flashions.

OF CRETAN ORIGIN

Bull fighting is supposed to have originated in Crete, ancient land of the Minotaur.

BOYISH IN MOOD, the accordion-pleated skirt LEFT with white rayon crepe blouse is topped with a butcher linen jacket. The simple printed bolero costume in a candlestick print CENTRE has a mandarin collar, jet buttons and cuffed, three-quarter length sleeves. The dress is girdled with a wide, scalloped patent belt. RIGHT the corded trim is repeated on both suit and coat of the three piece ensemble. There is a drop shoulder and sleeve yoke effect of intricate cording.

Candy Colors Tempt Young

Tempting flavors . . . countless delicious colors are presented for tots to teens. Butterscotch, caramel and ginger are bright woolen colors. Cool strawberry, raspberry and lime sherbet colors flash across the cotton scene.

Sportswear and gay casuals look to orange, grapefruit, cucumber and red apple shades.

Melon, lemon and ice-cream white are important topper color cues.

Cocoa and chocolate are also in the mood for Spring.

Honey-gold and peach are soft and subdued, young-in-mood colors that seek favor with the soda-pop and coke set.

Out of the flower-beds and vegetable garden come the inspiration for the lilac tones, the beige shades, the many greens and the host of reds that will add brilliance and beauty to the Spring ensembles for three-to-sixteen fashion-wise misses.

ALL NYLON and handsome too! A country-club shirt with new waist-band styling. The sport coat is the popular Breckenridge model shown in various colors and fabrics.

Comfort, Casualness, Color Foremost in Men's Wear

The Canadian male IS interested in fashion, as applied to his personal adornment, say manufacturers of men's clothing and accessories. New ideas in men's wear find a ready acceptance, providing they are not extreme and bizarre. Particularly during the last decade have men begun the gradual swing to changes in their apparel.

1950 sees men's fashions soaring to the high C's . . . comfort, color, casualness! At long last, men are beginning to wear the very things they've wanted for years but have hesitated to don for fear of ridicule.

Leading the parade of definite changes in men's wear, suit and coat fabrics will be lighter in weight and designed for wear around the calendar rather than restricted to a definite season.

Emphasizing greater comfort for all-round purposes, the new fabrics will be available in a greater variety of color than ever before. Blues, greys and browns will be favorites, but modified greens, bolder plaids, and more imaginative mixes will come in for their share of the limelight.

No Radical Changes

There will be no radical changes in suit styles, but early predictions point to single-breasted models stealing the lead from the dressier double-breasteds. As in the past, the coats will be three-button models, many with pa... pockets.

Trousers will continue to be pleated. Men like them because they're comfortable, and though seldom admitted, give the illusion of a diminishing waistline. Trousers cuffs will rest on top of the shoe. No tendency is noted toward shorter trousers, although high touted in vain for some time.

For men who demand formality in their everyday dress, the double-breasted models will come into play. The three-button coats, with two of the three buttons usable, will lead the single-buttoned, extreme drape coat.

All suits and coats will be generously cut, giving ample room through the shoulders and armpits, and again emphasizing comfort with perhaps even a dash of swagger.

Ties will tend to lose their gaudy Christmas-gift look of past seasons. Though they will retain all of the bright colors and verve, patterns will be less extreme, more appealing to the eye. Polka dots will continue their return to high popularity, and more geometric patterns will be seen in the better haberdashers.

Shirts Are Bright

Sport shirts will go all out for bright gaiety. The way to boldness in sport shirts has been paved by smart dressers in the perennial resort sections and will catch on, all over the country. Fabrics will be lighter, cooler, and styles will be roomier.

Although the finely tailored, long-sleeved shirts in gabardines and wools will be popular with the more conservative males, short-sleeved cottons in tropical prints will occupy more space in men's wardrobes.

Men's shoe styles are notoriously slow to change, and although this year will see no radical changes, the trend to comfort and casualness will continue persistently.

Leisure moccasins will be worn even more than during the past year. And, graduating from the strictly sportswear classification, the crepe soled shoe will be given more versatility. With close edging and maximum flexibility and comfort, it's slated for new popularity in the shoe field. Suedes, in various colors, will continue to be favored by men who like something different.

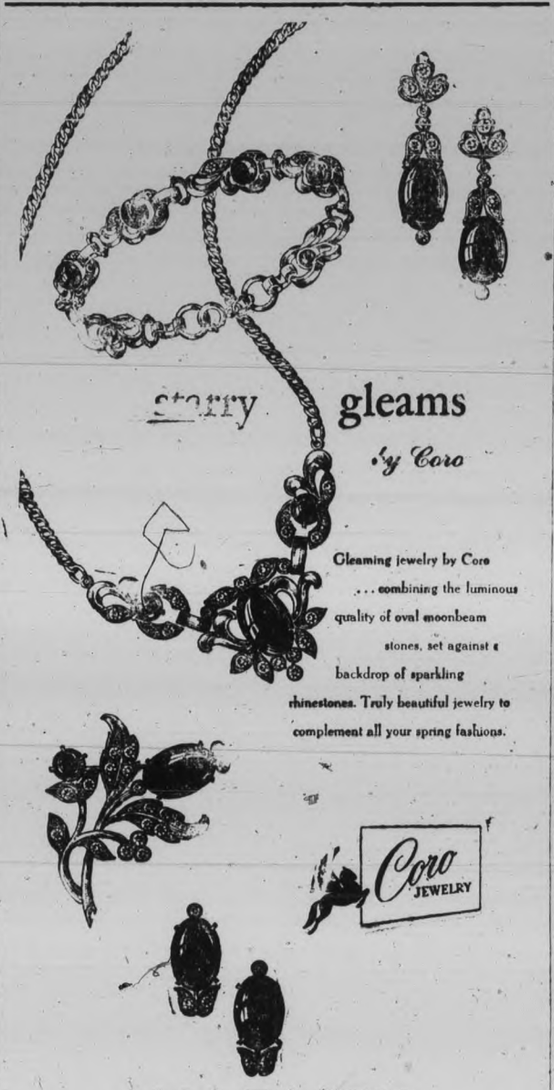
MISS VERONICA SHANNON of Zeller's staff models an all-wool green charmaine cloth suit (Top) in four-button single-breasted style with double flap treatment on hips . . . with smart button trim. The skirt is straight with side slits. The beige shortie coat (Bottom) is of whipcord in 36" length with four-piece box back, notched collar, cuffed sleeves and slit pockets. The small off-the-face straw hat is in profile style with large taffeta and mohair bow on the side. Accessories include brown suede pumps, brown bengaline bag and simplex fabric gloves. —Morris Duke Photo

Open Season For Shoes

Shoe fashions put women on their toes with a new, nuder look in footwear styling. This season's collections spotlight the "strip-tease" sandal . . . slip, trim straps that grace the vamp of the shoe and gently curve up the instep and to the ankle.



In darks, brights, pastels, ombre and multicolor combinations, they hold promise of being the smartest accents to the feminine, frilly look of Spring. Shantungs, linens, nylons and cottons are used alone or in leather combinations. You'll see them in exotic prints . . . in novelty dots and stripes. Wear them in their natural tones or tint and dye them to match favorite ensembles.

Cocktail and evening shoes are glamor-wise and exotic; they show off in velvets, stains; have jewel trims, and are elegance personified.

Cool mesh pumps and sandals are sure to be given a warm reception with hot-weather fashions. Patent leather . . . es a significant come-back in low-cut sandals and pumps. Color news in patent are are the new frosty pastels.

MEAT PRODUCTION

Australian farms produced 971,400 tons of meat in the year ending June, 1949, which was 24,300 tons more than in the previous year.

Century Shirt Spring Feature

BOND'S again lead for spring with the newest shirt sensation that is sweeping the country. . . the "CENTURY" by Van Heusen the shirt with the soft collar that won't wrinkle. . .ever. . .will remain smooth and neat even after a full day of action! The patented miracle collar won't wilt on wrinkle because of its one-piece construction. So easy to launder . . . collar is two ways easier to iron. . .it irons flat, because fold line needs no ironing wrinkles can't be ironed in, because there's no lining to buckle. . .this all adds up to the Van Heusen "Century" the newest and finest shirt that money can buy.

THIS CRISP border-printed pique sun dress is fresh and cool when the summer heat reaches its height. Its heart-shaped bodice gives a lovely uplift.

SlimmingSilhouette Short Jacket Suits

For the Easter Parade for warm Spring days and cool Spring evenings you'll want at least one smart suit for your wardrobe.

Fullness above the waist . . shirred and bloused bodices, lend a general softening of the suit silhouette. Dolman and unmounted sleeves too, give the figure a look of ease.

Skirts are slim and comfortable, featuring slit hems for walking comfort; narrow, inverted pleats that break from the knee and soft, pin-pleated or shirred waistline detailing.

Principal interest is focused, however, on jackets. Short jacket suits, both fitted and boxy with the shortest of them coming to an inch below the waistline and the average at the hipbone length. Make a note to watch for the return of the "Eisenhower" jacket . . . the bellhop and the lumberjacket. Check the popularity of weskits to match or contract classic, two-piece suits.

You'll find matching toppers . . . capes and boleros, teaming up with all skirts. Velvet is introduced after a long absence as dress-up trims on many jackets.

Jacket hip pockets are prominent, there are double pockets, make-believe pockets and buttoned-at-the-back pockets. Torso styles are significant and make their appearance in cocktail-type and dressmaker costume suits. They are often lavish with shirring and drapery and gently follow the natural silhouette.

All the new and exciting woollens are used in the suit collections . . with gabardine still the ranking favorite . . checked woollens are "very good this Spring" and will be shown in two-colors, window-pane checks, houndstooth and shepherd checks. Worsted tweeds, sharskins and new interpretations of the perennially popular birdseye fabrics, will be seen over again.

For Spring—suits are significant . . suits are simple suits are sophisticated and all are suit-able for your 'round the clock wear.

THE YOUNGSTERS will have fun in the sun in these washable cotton cabana outfits from Gay Togs. The border prints feature sand and water motifs in gay colors.

Capes, Boleros Ensemble Look

Toss a jaunty cape over a slim-sheathed dress or suit . . . . slip into a brief bolero and you will wear the "ensemble look" that is the keynote of the Spring '50 fashion theme.

From shoulder-hugging capelets to loose, hip-length styles, capes are big news. Suits, coats and dresses with simulated or detachable capes are another expression of the idea.

METEOR'S HOLE

The largest known crater punched in the surface of the earth by a falling meteorite, 4,000 feet across and 600 feet deep, is in Arizona.

Easter Petals In Headlines

By KAY SHERWOOD

Fragile as a flower and just as pretty are the airy Easter bonnets for 1950.

Petal shapes, borrowed from roses, dahlias, chrysanthemums, field flowers and leaves, blossom on hats of every design from the bicorne to the face-framing picture hat.

Designer Braagaard, for example, takes two stylized leaf patterns in natural leghorn straw and overlaps them at the tips to form the gently curling brim line for a bicorne. Black velvet ribbon outlines the brim and circles the crown to tie in a flat bow at the side.

Chrysanthemum petals in stiffened white cotton organdie curl around the face in Braagaard's profile cloche, which covers the right ear and leaves the left exposed. The petals are stitched to a white braid straw crown which hugs the head.

Layer upon layer of pale pink silk rose petals are used by designer Walter Florell to make a fluffy, medium-sized picture hat with a forward-ptiched brim line. Two roses of a slightly deeper pink, tied with dark green velvet ribbon, are poised on the top side of the brim.

Bright petals of colorful red poppies, buttercups and mimosa wave atop a lacy straw bonnet designed by Sally Victor. The flowers, massed at the front of the turned-up brim, are tied with green velvet ribbon.

Curling dahlia petals of pink organdie form the flattering face-framing brim of a big picture hat designed by John-Frederics. This confection has a pink horsehair crown.

LAST AERIAL PUSH

During 1945 up to March 15, Canadian fighter and fighter-bomber squadrons flew 10,575 sorties over northwestern Europe.

CLOSE TO SUN

Mercury, smallest planet in the solar system, is the nearest to the sun and takes only 88 days to complete its orbit around the sun.

Navy Blue Scores This Spring, Reds, Pinks Finding Favor Also

It's fashionable to sing the blues for Spring . . . sing it out in full-scale from soft, touched with the sky blue . . . to true, blue navy. Harmonize your spring tune with tints and tones of the bright primaries to mellow mixtures.

Leading the color parade is navy . . . dark and glowing and the perfect foil for the brilliant white touches demanded by fashion.

Borrowed from the water-color artists are the clear, glowing shades of fruit colors . . . pumpkin . . . cherry . . . raspberry . . . plum . . . lemon and lime.

From the jewel family comes the vivid jade green, turquoise blue, ruby, and topaz tones.

Shocking pink makes a dramatic entrance into the fashion scene again. From the mountains and the plains . . . from the deserts and the forests . . . from the lakes and the oceans, come such dramatic demi-tints as buttercup yellow, to desert gold . . . seafoam green to leaf green . . . robin's-egg blue to blue-black . . . lilac to wild violet!

Reds are royal . . . for complement and for compliments! You'll see reds ranging from blush pink to the fiery brilliance of cardinal red. Wear red with white, with grey, with navy and black . . . add a dash of red to honey gold and beige . . . frost it on chocolate and cocoa tones.

Spring black will take beautifully to all the pale, sparkling pastels . . . to the striking intensity of frosty whites.

What a wonderful season for color! What exciting opportunities to mix and match your colors from Spring's fashion palette.

Light, Airy Accessories Reveal Hints 1920 Parade

Underwriting the mobile, airy "1950 Look" of Easter fashions are accessories that are light, graceful, and frequently give a nostalgic hint of the 1920's.

Patent leather, for example, which enjoyed its heyday 30 years ago, shines as brightly in 1950's shoes, handbags and belts. Long fox stoles swing out as jauntily as their earlier counterparts. Pointing up the light look of accessories are two-toned effects, cut-outs, scallops and embroidered trimmings.

Fur stoles which dangle to the hemline make a luxurious display of soft, pale-toned pelts. Glacier blue fox, for example, is worked into one outstanding scarf that mantles the shoulders and falls to a point below the hemline of a suit.

Today's patent leather is soft and pliable, and is turned out in pastels, navy and grey as well as glossy black.

For supple, airy shoes, patent is confined to strippings or shell soles to leave plenty of open space for comfort afoot. In some new two-toned sandals, the gleam of black patent shell soles is played against the mat finish of suede or fabric straps.

With the new pliability, neat little patent leather handbags can be manipulated with accordion folds at the sides to afford roomy interiors when the bag is opened. Gold trim adds more shine, and interiors are spiced with bright linings of red or yellow.

Two-toned effects are carried into gloves which set off slim cuff-lines. Some gloves turn back scalloped edged cuffs to show off contrasting linings. Others are accented by contrast stitching, appliques or cut-outs. Embroidered motifs dress up the backs of white or chamois-colored gloves.

To Go With Easter, Nostalgia's an Accessory

Formal Wear Goes Colorful

Give a man dress clothes that feel as good as they look and he'll jump at the chance to go formal! That seems to be the reason for the noticeable increase in men's formal apparel at less-than-state occasions. The dinner jacket has departed from the still conventional look and the smart changes in style, fabric and color have given impetus to the movement to get men to "dress up" more often.

For spring and summer, tropical weight fabrics are emphasized, one of the most popular being a crease resisting cotton, giving maximum comfort to wearers. Featherweight gabardines also find favor wherever shown.

But color in dinner jackets makes real news this season! Midnight blue leads the field, with battleship grey and burgundy not far behind.

The six-button double breasted jacket with self facing will be seen most frequently, but the shawl collar in a double-breasted model is becoming increasingly popular.

FOR THE YOUNG FRY fine poplin swim shorts in a variety of colors are topped with a bright print T-shirt suitable for playing by the water.

GIANT CATARACT

The Sutherland Waterfalls in New Zealand have a drop of 1,900 feet and are among the tallest and most beautiful in the world.

PLAID AND MONOTONE three piece ensemble and suave, dressy plain worsted suits are both smart city wear. The jacket of the ensemble LEFT is gently curved over the hips, carried pocket accent and is multi-buttoned. A simple kick-pleat gives easy grace to the skirt. The matching hat carries the same detailing of the suit. LEFT the suit with tailored yoke line has a gently nipped-in waist. Tailored in worsted fabric, it is presented in glowing colors. The trim skirt has the patented "Drum Skirt" with inner lining to keep it from sagging or stretching.

Long Silhouettes Popular Gloves

There's more color—more fabric interest and detailing 'on hand' in the glove collection for the new season. Gloves go to all lengths for every sleeve treatment, every ensemble need.

Longer silhouettes in the four to six-button length are by far the popular choice for tight-at-the-wrist sleeves and below-the-elbow sleeve lengths. Brief shorties will hold their own with cuffed and ruffled sleeves.

Wrist detail with cut-outs, embroidery, buttons, tucks and shirring for accents, give a costume-look to fabric gloves. Pleated cuff detail, diagonal stitching and color-accented fingers are all highlights from the new collections.

The gauntlet glove with plain, lined or contrast cuff is designed to fold-back for greater versatility. Many of the new gloves are intricately shirred.

White is the favored accessory color and yellow and chamois shades with step blithely with red, navy and black.

Demand Slim Hips

Spring fashions call up a need for definite figure control! With slim lines coming into the fashion spotlight, light weight foundations for warm weather are necessarily important.

The various skirt treatments demands flat hips, front, back and at the sides . . . corsets and foundations will slim the hips all around and define the natural waistline. The tubular look also requires less exaggerated bust lines.

Bare tops, whether strapless, built-up, scooped or with thin straps will put at least one strapless bra in almost every woman's wardrobe.

Sheers offer many possibilities for color-coordinated bras and slips.

And, there is a growing acceptance of the one-piece garment for the smooth, sleek lines it gives under the new, slim dresses.

A PRETTY TWO piece cotton dress for a young public school girl has no sleeves and allows plenty of freedom. Suitable for play and everyday wear in the summer.

THIS RAINCOAT can be worn with the hood tied under the chin or as a cape collar. Fashioned by Alvinna in iridescent faille it features a self tie belt.

THE ULTIMATE in dramatic styling direct from Hollywood. Three button one button double-breasted full-shouldered straight hanging drape lounge embodying all the features a smart dresser demands. See these at Dunn's Tailors.

New Silhouette Gives Drama To Fashion Scene for 1950

In the mood of the classic and the functional that is generally sweeping the world of art and design . . . fashion for 1950, too, wears a new look of sharp perspective. Based upon the new, bold freedom of dress first manifested in the phenomenal '20's, the look now is created for the modern woman in a modern world.

Fashion points up the slim trim skirt, the look of natural shoulders, hips and waistlines . . . clearly defines them with sculptured jackets and restrains them subtly with a midline modesty of not-too-long, not-too-short skirt lengths.

The new season . . . the new year . . . the new half-century sees the coming of the sports-wear-theme in fashion . . . the sweater look, pleated skirts on everything from bathing suits to formal wear . . . the shirtwaist look in fun and formal clothes . . . the little-boy look in every phase of fashion! The straight look is newest . . . the full, circular skirt is still good fashion. Skirts rise to 14 to 15 inches.

New Sleeve Treatment

The most important trends shown in all collections are dramatic, new sleeve treatments . . . bloused, balloon, flounced and lantern like. A slim, straight silhouette, loosened up with bloused backs and ruffled detail.

Costume suits for the "ensemble look" are predicted to be the biggest theme for Spring. In all the variations of dress and jacket . . . blouse, skirt and jacket . . . suit and coat or with cape combinations are the headline fashion-news items.

Intriguing interests in the d to bare mood are e strapless or very decollete dresses or blouses worn with a cover-up bolero, jacket, capelet or sweater.

Pockets are prime in their importance for decorative quality, placed above or below the waistline, at the back or jackets, huge single pouch-pockets, clusters of smaller ones — but above all, plenty of pockets.

The suit silhouette wears a clean, classic look . . . bloused and belted jackets . . . boxy jackets to the waist or to the hipbone and unusual collar treatment.

Coats are exciting! Sleeves run rampant with dramatic treatment . . . long or push-up, deep cuffs . . . capelet trimmed. Toppers, too, are tops for the new season . . . they vary in length from fingertip to the waist . . . with 20-24 inches being the winning lengths.

Look for bright, contrasting linings in coats, jackets, capes!

Look for the Oriental influence in every phase of fashion.

Look for pleats and more pleats . . . look for pockets.

Look for a captivating, bewitching collection of flattering fashions in all the shops! . . . whether miss, junior or half-size figure . . . Spring '50 fashions will entrance you, beckon you to new smartness!

PINWALE CORDUROY in brother and sister jumper suit with zippered pop-over jackets from Gay Togs are as handsome as they are practical. Brother wears royal blue and sister chooses yellow.

GLOVES FOR GLAMOUR in Spring wear a graceful, animated air. These long, turn-back cuffed gloves are hand sewn and made of suede in a rainbow range of pastels and basic shades.

Forget Quarrel Become Artist

LONDON—(CP)—Fifteen years ago artist Stanley Spencer, now 57, told the Royal Academy: "I will take care you never have another picture of mine."

He resigned from the academy, high temple of British art, because two of his controversial modernistics paintings, "Lovers" and "St Francis and the Birds," were rejected by the hanging committee.

Wounds healed by the years, Spencer has just been re-elected an associate of the academy. His works have been best-sellers Toronto and Vancouver are among cities whose galleries have acquired one or more of Spencer's pictures.

U.S. Preparing To Launch Anti-Red Program Across Southeast Asia

Believe Time Has Come To Back Up Promises With Definite Action, Feel Communists Building Strength There

WASHINGTON, March 24—(CP)—The United States is about ready to launch an anti-Communist aid program for southeast Asia. Top officials foresee a long uphill fight to block Red expansion beyond the borders of China—with success by no means certain. Key Congressmen will get a detailed look at the situation next Monday. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup, who has just returned from a survey mission for State Secretary Dean Acheson, will report then to Congress.

Jessup made an initial report to Acheson Thursday on his sweep through the Far East from Japan to India. He was expected to confer with the Secretary further on measures which may be undertaken in the economic, political and military asistance fields.

One project reported under consideration is to speed token aid shipments to Indo-China and Burma, the two most threatened countries. Acheson's associates believe the time has come for the United States to back up with action its repeated promises of help.

Building Up Strength

Responsible informants say there is evidence that the Chinese Communists, working with Communist leader Ho Chi Minh in Indo-China, are already building up their strength by supplying Ho with arms. They have large forces, estimated at 500,000 men, north of the Burmese and Indo-China borders.

The central problem which confronts Acheson and his advisers, as they face up to final decisions on action, is said here to be shaped by two main facts: the disorganized or weak conditions of the southeast Asian countries generally and the deep-rooted bitterness against the western colonialism of former years. The Communists are making capital of both facts, exploiting weakness where they can and propagandizing the moves of the western powers as colonial imperialism.

Officials here feel there is better than a 50-50 chance of holding the Red tide in check. But they also feel the difficulties are great, especially in Indo-China, which is regarded as the critical point of the struggle.

Ross Trimble Dies

TORONTO, March 24—(CP)—Ross Trimble, former coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders football team, died today. Trimble's four-year-old daughter Mary died Sunday just an hour and a half after she entered hospital with a rare throat infection. Trimble, 48, gained prominence in the football field in the late 1920's when he was credited with winning two Canadian championships for Toronto Balmy Beach.

Disarming Too Much Ike Warns

Big Mistake To Show Great Weakness Against Russ Strength

NEW YORK, March 24 — (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said Thursday night that in the present atmosphere of world tension the United States has reduced its armaments below the safety level.

And, he said, the heads of government around the world know that the U. S. has done so.

The Supreme Allied Commander in Europe during the Second World War cited universal disarmament as a major, ultimate key to true international peace.

But he emphasized that the US cannot safely trim its defences, even to the point it already has, "until we have certain knowledge that all nations are doing likewise."

To show weakness, in the face of Soviet strength, he said, is "well nigh as criminal as war itself."

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia University, addressed about 1,200 persons at the first in a series of Columbia sessions dedicated to international peace.

Peace Formula

He said the "formula for success" in obtaining real peace is fourfold:

"First, justice, freedom and opportunity for all men; second, international understanding; third disarmament; fourth, a united nations. . . with a police power strong enough to earn universal respect."

But, with a view to present world conditions, he said:

"America has already disarmed to the extent—in some directions even beyond the extent—that I, with a deep concern for her present safety, could possibly advise. . ."

Know Weakness

He said that the "heads of government everywhere, even the most suspicious and fearful," know that the American arms program has sunk below the level of reasonable defence.

This has happened, he said, although "a war of aggression remains a constant threat to peaceful nations."

He said this threat would continue as long as one power — plainly Russia—"builds and maintains a military machine beyond the recognized needs of reasonable security."

Eisenhower discounted any chances for a true peace based on any "single, 'high level' conference."

"Any agreement, though it should bear the seal and ribbon of every chancellery in the world" he said, "is worth no more than the confidences placed by each signer in the good faith and integrity of the other."

No Confidence

Such confidence, he said, does not exist today.

But Eisenhower did not rule out the need for top-level world conferences.

"By all means," he said, "let us continue to confer, especially with the view and purpose of reaching the required level of mutual faith and confidence, or —as a substitute—of developing practical and mutually enforcable measures and reciprocal arrangements calculated to lessen the danger of war."

He added that it is "far better to risk a war of possible annihilation than grasp a peace which would be the certain extinction of free man's ideas and ideals."

Union Pressure Too Much, Closes Down

132 People Out Of Work When Taxi-Fleet Operator Shuts Up Shop

TORONTO, March 24 (CP)—A large taxi-fleet operator, involved in union contract negotiations, said today he will close up shop Sunday.

Kenneth R. Wallace, president of De Luxe Cab, Ltd., didn't blame it all on union demands. He described them as just part of the squeeze," along with rising costs and government restrictions.

He said his fleet of 82 cabs will be taken off the street. Some 120 drivers and 12 other employees will be thrown out of work when he goes out of business.

De Luxe has broken off negotiations with Local 488, taxi drivers' union (AFL). The union still is negotiating with 20 other cab companies in Toronto. They want a five-day 45-hour week instead of the present six-day 48-hour week, increased commissions and more paid holidays.

Wallace G. Smith, union secretary, said the drivers are not asking De Luxe for any increase in their base rate of $32 a week but want commissions raised to 35 per cent when their weekly take exceeds $80, instead of 33 1-3 per cent on anything over $96.

Mr. Smith said if De Luxe goes out of business, the union will insist that the city revoke the 82 cab licences it holds so that they will be available for other drivers. He said a letter to this effect was sent Thursday to Labor Minister Daley of Ontario and Mayor Hiran McCallum.

Thousands Protest King's Return

Furious Crowds Battle Police In Brussels In 24-Hour Strike

BRUSSELS, March 24—(CP)—Former Premier Count Henri Carton de Wiart today abandoned his attempt to form a government after bitter rioting in which parading Brussels demonstrators wrecked 200 street cars during a 24-hour "warning strike" against the return of exiled King Leopold III.

The 80-year-old politician had been striving to break the deadlock which followed the indecisive 57.6-per-cent vote for the King's return in the referendum March 12.

Angry crowds battled armed police in the heart of the capital as more than 300,000 workers in the city and French-speaking Walloon provinces staged the protest strike, called by the Socialist-dominated General Federation of Labor.

University students, defying 200 gendarmes with rifles, gas masks and tear gas bombs, burned effigies of priests, chanting "down with the clergy" and "abdication."

About 5,000 workers joined the parade at the start near the Socialist Party headquarters. They carried slogans saying "Abdication." It was good humored at the outset, but as the number of marchers increased their mood turned surly and violence flared.

Tie Up Traffic

The street cars were running in defiance of the Socialist call for a general transport walkout. The parade, held despite a police ban, tied up traffic for almost two hours in the busy Brussels shopping district.

Paul-Henri Spaak, Socialist Leader, told the paraders before they began to march that return of Leopold would lead to "grave trouble for our country."

The Socialists and other anti-Leopold forces say the advisory referendum which showed 57.68,

Can't Find Distress Signal

EDMONTON, March 24—(CP)—A two-hour aerial search by a flying doctor of the area 20 miles south of Fort St. John in northern British Columbia today failed to reveal any trace of a distress signal reported tramped out in the snow there, Air Force officials reported here. The signal was reported to have been seen Thursday by the crew of a United States Air Force plane and was considered a possible clue to the whereabouts of a C-54 transport lost two months ago with 44 aboard. Dr. George M. Cormack of the pioneer settlement at Fort St. John flew over the area in his light plane in an attempt to trace the signal.

Air Force officials said no further planes would be sent over the area, known as the Peace River block, unless further reports are received. They said the doctor is well acquainted with the region and would likely notice any signal.

Farms are scattered throughout the area, and officials said land clearing operations might have been mistaken for a distress message.

Found tramped out in the snow and outlined by tree branches were the letters "I F." This is the Air Force code for "serious injuries, doctors required, food and water needed." The signal is on the airway route used by planes flying to and from the Arctic.

Fort St. John, in the northeast corner of British Columbia and near the jumping off point of the Alaska Highway which passes through it, is about 350 air miles northwest of Edmonton.

City Treasurer To Handle Quad Donations

TORONTO, March 24—(CP)—Toronto's city treasurer is prepared to handle donations to assist the parents of Sault Ste. Marie's Hargreaves quadruplets—but, so far, no money has come in.

The treasurer, G. A. Lascelles, Thursday was appointed official receiver of any gifts sent to civic authorities here on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hargreaves. His appointment was announced after Mayor Hiram McCallum rejected a suggestion that this city should organize a fund.

The father of the 5½-month-old babies said last week that financial difficulties over caring for the children had led him to consider offering the quads for adoption.

A Toronto radio station which has organized a fund to assist the Hargreaves family announced today that it has raised $700. About $100 was donated Thursday night.

Wants To Keep Babies

In Sault Ste. Marie, Mrs. Hargreaves, 26, told a reporter today that she would do her best to keep the babies.

"I love them too much to let them go," she said. "If the worst comes to the worst, we'll board them out, two by two, with friends here."

Mrs. Charlotte Barclay, of Stratford, who has raised 11 children, Thursday offered to take the quadruplets and care for them for two years. She told Mrs. Hargreaves in a telephone conversation that there still is room for more children in the Barclay's 11-roomed house.

Fake Publishers Nabbed By Police

DETROIT, March 24—(CP)—A Kitchener couple, said by police to have sold a $100 share in a book they were alleged to be publishing, have been arrested on charges of larceny by trickery and with defrauding hotels.

Police identified them as Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shertzel.

Police said they were arrested after investigation of the share-selling complaint.

Police say the couple could not produce the novel but did have a large sheaf of unpaid Detroit hotel bills. Investigators report they skipped out on two Detroit hotels in the last month after running up large bills.

8-Inch Snowfall Snarls Up Ottawa

OTTAWA, March 24 —(CP)—City snow-removal crews today began the task of clearing away an 8½ inch snowstorm which covered the capital and district with one of the heaviest falls of the season.

The heavy wet snow hampered traffic and two passenger trains were held up for two hours as a result of the storm when a swing engine was derailed by ice and snow conditions near Carleton Place. Damage to the engine was considerable but no one was injured.

The small village of Maxville, 65 miles southeast of Ottawa, was plunged into darkness Thursday night when heavy snow snapped power lines in the district. Telephone communications were also disrupted for a time when live power wires fell across telephone lines.

Believe London Girl To Get Sight Back

NEW YORK, March 24 (CP)—The eyesight of a London, Ont., girl to be carried soon, is clearing gradually, the Eye Bank for Restoration said today.

Doreen Stoutenburg's sight is "clearing more" every day, a spokesman for the bank said today.

The 19-year-old hairdresser's assistant underwent a corneal graft operation March 15 and since has made "good progress" and the delicate surgery is expected to be "successful," the spokesman said.

Eye bank officials declined to give further information and would not say when Miss Stouenberg would be released from hospital.

British Scientist Refuses To Make Bomb

LONDON, March 24. (CP) — Outstanding members of the British Atomic Scientists Association have roundly condemned hydrogen bombs as instruments of war.

One of the scientists, whose views were disclosed Thursday in the news bulletin of the association, said flatly he would refuse to work in development of the hydrogen bomb.

Dr. G. O. Jones of Oxford declared: "no one pretends that the development of hydrogen bombs can be anything else but a war measure—no new peacetime blessings are promised to salve the consciences of scientists and the public.

'And if I, personally, am asked to help in developing a superbomb, I shall say, 'No, I am sorry, it is too disgusting'."

No Danger

On the other hand, Professor Otto Frisch, who worked on the atomic bomb, said the world is safe from disintegration — at least — through any explosion by a hydrogen bomb. Frisch, Austrian born and a naturalized British subject said:

"I can reassure you there is no such danger. Neither air nor water nor any of the common rocks, could act as a nuclear explosive, even at the very highest temperature.

"All the nuclei contained in air, water, or rock are quite stable Water does contain heavy hydrogen, but far too little to be significant. So there is no danger the whole earth will go off one day."

But the hydrogen bomb would be bad enough.

"A hundred square miles devastated is probably no exaggerated estimate."

Professor M. Born of the University of Edinburgh and Dr. F. C. Champion of King's College, London, both referred to the "prostitution" of science they said is involved in the manufacture of atomic weapons.

A woman physicist, Professor Kathleen Lonsdale of University College, London, opposed not only atomic weapons but military weapons of all kinds.

Attlee Defeats Food Criticism

LONDON, March 24 —(AP)—The government Thursday night defeated by a 48-vote margin a Conservative attempt to trim down a supplementary estimate to meet food costs in the fiscal year ending in April.

It was Labor's largest show of strength in the new parliament elected Feb. 23.

The test came in the first "snap division," or surprise vote, of the session. The life of Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet was not at stake.

50 Millions In China Affected By Bad Famine

HONG KONG, March 24 (AP) —Reports indicated today Communist China's famine has hit possibly 50,000,000 persons. For one-fifth that number, the food situation is reported desperate.

There is no way of learning the true situation behind the bamboo curtain.

But this is what reports reaching here say:

Where famine strikes, disease thrives. Plague, smallpox and diphtheria are rampant in Anhwei, Shantung and Kiangsu provinces. Animals are dying fast in the food-short land. And March floods have washed out spring plantings.

Famine victims are fleeing central and south Shantung province areas.

A Canton report said "nine out of 10 farmers in the East River region 18 miles northeast of Canton are moving south in search of food as all rice stocks are exhausted."

Chinese Communists say the famine is not their fault. Critics assert bitterly that the Reds shipped foodstuffs to Russia when they knew China would need it.

Moreover, they blame the Reds for affronting the West from which help has come in the past.

Some missionaries say the Reds will have to swallow pride and appeal for help. This would give the West a magnificent opportunity, they say, to win back the Chinese and strike a telling blow against Communism.

Requests Commons For 2 Priority Days

OTTAWA, March 24—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today gave notice he will ask the Commons to give government business priority next Monday and Wednesday—two days which normally would have been allotted to private bills.

It was understood the move was an effort to clear the Commons order paper before the House recesses April 5 for Easter.

Deputy Prime Minister Assassinated By Czechs

OTTAWA, March 24—An Ottawa paper today quoted Frantisec Nemec, former Czech minister to Canada, as saying he has received "definite word" from behind the Iron Curtain of the assassination of Zdnek Fierlinger, Deputy Prime Minister of Czechoslovakia. Mr. Nemec, who left his post at the Czech Embassy to remain in this country, also said Rudolf Slansky, Communist party secretary in Czechoslovakia, had been seriously wounded.

He told the newspaper he was satisfied his information was authentic, but that he had no details except that the two men were both shot at the same time.

Fierlinger, who was known as a quisling because he delivered over to the Communists after their coup the support of the Social Democratic party which he led; served as Czech ambassador to Russia during the war, Mr. Nemec said.

Knows Too Much

"He knew everything," the former ambassador added. "Perhaps he knew too much."

Slansky, who was also in Moscow during the war, was regarded generally as one of the most important men in Czechoslovakia because of his high office in the party.

Mr. Nemec said his information was "sketchy" but "quite accurate" and that he had "good sources of information."

De Gasperi Asks More Authority

ROME, March 24.—(AP).—Premier Alcide de Gasperi is seeking authority for strong measures to quell Communist uprisings which have spread violence, bloodshed and work stoppages throughout Italy.

The leader of the ruling Christian Democrat Party warned his deputies that difficult times are ahead.

The Conservative newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia, which supports the government, called Wednesday's Communist - led general strike a Moscow-directed "spring offensive." In an editorial it declared:

"We are at the beginning of a heavy battle designed to unhinge the order and strength of the Democratic state. The Communists' plan—according to Moscow orders—is to inflict new mortal blows on democracy in France and Italy."

De Gasperi told Christian Democrat parliament deputies Thursday he wants "authority to be strong." His demand stemmed from recent general strikes and clashes between Communist demonstrators and police in various sections of the country.

Beer Sentence Called Absurd

TORONTO, March 24 (CP)—Austin Ross, counsel for a man sentenced to one month because his 17-year-old daughter took a "sip" of beer, said today he would appeal the sentence while Toronto lawyers termed the sentence "ridiculous" and "absurd."

Walter Hooey, 47, was jailed Thursday after his daughter, Ivy, testified she sipped the beer at a St. Patrick's Day party "to tease daddy" after her father had ordered her not to drink.

Elmer W. Brandon, reeve of suburban Swansea and a lawyer, termed Magistrate Arthur L. Tinker's decision "ridiculous."

"There are many sections of the liquor control act which need to be revamped in the light of such decisions," he added.

Ernest Bogart, K.C., said the decision placed much too heavy an onus on parents to see their children do not drink.

"In any event the legal age to which a parent has to support a child is 16 and this girl was 17 and responsible for her own support and maintenance," he said.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Tinker said the father was responsible because he had the beer in place where his daughter could get it.

Relieved of Duties

LONDON, March 24 (Reuters) —Dr. Alexej Cepicka, Czechoslovak Minister of Justice, at his own request has been relieved of his duties as secretary-general of the central action committee of the national front "for reasons of overwork," the Prague radio said tonight.

Makes Three Attempts To Crack Garage Safe

BURKS FALLS, March 24—(CP)—A persistent safe-cracker finally obtained $380 from a garage safe here early today after making three attempts to open it. A young Sudbury man was arrested in connection with the robbery as he hid in the garage pit.

The man, now in North Bay district jail gave his name as Jean Bernard, 24. Shortly after his arrest by provincial police officers, he said: "I wasn't going to starve."

Using garage tools, the safe-crackers first chiselled off the safe hinges. That method failing, he then chiselled off the safe dial. That, too, failed to crack it.

In desperation, he humped the safe over on its face and chiselled a hole in the back of it—at the exact spot where the cash box was.

Start Inquiry In School Fire

HAMILTON, March 24. (CP).—Detectives and officials of the Ontario fire marshal's office today were investigating a fire in Strathcona school that left one classroom badly damaged and caused smoke damage to the main floor.

Firemen were called early today when the blaze broke out. Firemen managed to confine the blaze to its starting point and extinguish it. "It would have been away from us in another 10 minutes" said Deputy Chief Jerry O'Connor

There were traces of vandalism and authorities hunted for evidence of arson. Papers had been strewn about, various rooms ransacked and in one room was found a feminine undergarment pinned to the wall by a knife. Entry had been gained through a fire exit.

Has Strange Malady

KINGSTON, March 24 (CP)—The disease that killed baseball player Lou Gehrig has taken the life of Douglas Harold Rogers, 15, of Tweed. The boy died in hospital here Wednesday from what doctors said was multiple sclerosis, a hardening of the tendons. Until he became ill last weekend he was active in many sports. He had played all winter for the Tweed Rockets midget hockey team.

Wolf's Terror Reign Ends One-And-A-Half Step Dead

BIG RIVER, Sask., March 24.—(CP). — Scraggly - furred "one-and-a-half step's" reign of terror has ended.

The giant wolf, savage killer of farm animals, cunning eluder of hunters' wiles in the Big River and Bodmin districts 65 miles northwest of Prince Albert, was found shot Wednesday.

The final chapter in the life of the gaunt, grey timber wolf was as bloody as the ravages that put fear into the hearts of all who saw the three-paw marks of his give-away limp in the snow.

Late Tuesday night Alan Muir heard two dogs barking on his father's farm. Picking up his rifle he fired at a large animal in the barnyard.

The animal dropped, then rose, ran off.

Muir, with a friend, Leo Tardiff, followed the bloody trail next morning and found the body a half-mile away.

One-and-a-half step was originally thought three-legged.

Examination proved he had four, but only one was good. His lame front leg, about two inches short, had been caught in a trap. One rear leg had been broken and had set. The other rear leg showed marks of injuries.

Woman Killed In Car Smash

LONDON, Ont., March 24. — (CP).—Mrs. Lavina Price, 52, of Straffordville, died in hospital here late Thursday from injuries received earlier when the automobile in which she was riding went out of control on a highway near Tillsonburg.

In serious condition in local hospital is her daughter, Mrs. Helen Bartlett, 29, of Straffordville. She has head injuries and a fractured leg.

In Tillsonburg Hospital with minor injuries are Mrs. Price's husband, Edward, 56, and Mrs. Ann Jackson, 34, also of Straffordville.

Police said the car driven by Price apparently was passing a truck when it hit a soft shoulder, sending it into the ditch. It skidded 54 feet and crashed into a tree.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Price leaves five sons.

2,000 Babies Born At Outpost Hospitals

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — More than 2,000 babies were born last year in the 29 Red Cross outpost hospitals throughout Ontario, it was reported today at the 30th annual meeting of the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The hospitals admitted 8,486 patients and performed 4,225 operations; 13,425 children were examined in the thousands of home and school visits made by Red Cross outpost nurses.

Six hospitals were opened last year and another will be completed soon at Steep Rock, it was announced to the 600 delegates. Four — at Nipigon, Huntsville, Wiarton and Burks Falls—serve territories not previously covered by the Red Cross. Two others—at Bancroft and Port Loring—replace outmoded structures.

Four Burned Severely In Oil Blaze

Well Gigantic Torch In Sudden Fire; Try To Quell Flames

EDMONTON, March 24 — (CP)—About 50 sweat-smeared oil workers today prepared to snuff out an oil well blaze with a nitro-glycerine blast after working all night by the eerie light of the rampaging Pacific Petroleums' Excelsior No. 2 driller, 12 miles north of here.

Four men were injured in the fire.

As the well spewed flaming natural gas 200 feet into the air, the fire fighters Thursday erected large tripods on either side of the well and struck a cable between them. The one-quart charge of nitro-glycerine will be slid along the cable until it is directly over the well head. Then the charge will be exploded.

It is hoped the blast will snuff out the blaze by choking off the oxygen supply. A quart of nitro glycerine is equal to a full case of dynamite.

The well became a gigantic blow torch about noon Thursday as a production test was being prepared. A "cement squeeze job" gave way in the Viking sand about 2,730 feet below the earth's surface. A tiny spark ignited escaping gas.

Run For Lives

The drilling crew of seven men at the well head heard a screeching roar, saw water leap into the air and took to their heels. Four of them could not run away fast enough and suffered severe burns.

In satisfactory condition in an Edmonton hospital are Allan Holt 23, Egremont, Alta., John Allen 24, Bon Accord, Alta., Norman Dease 23, Leduc, Alta., and Carl Tabler, Alliance, Alta. All are expected to make a rapid recovery.

All day and all night the wild well, which had struck gas but no oil, burned furiously with a roar that could be heard more than five miles away.

Before the fire is brought under control it will have burned up about 6,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas, its estimated daily potential gas production from the Viking sand zone. There still is a possibility the well will be completed as a gas producer after the fire is put out.

Broken Power Lines Hamper Rescue Work

PORT CREDIT, March 24 (CP) —While broken power lines hissed and crackled around them, five men worked for half an hour early today to rescue an unconscious man and woman from the cab of their wrecked truck.

Mrs. Gilbert McCorvie, 43, was taken to a Toronto hospital in serious condition after three policemen, two garagemen and a cab driver pulled her from her husband's truck. Gilbert McCorvie was charged with dangerous driving.

Police said McCorvie sideswiped a Toronto Transportation Commission bus, crashed into a hydro pole carrying 64,000 volts and brought the wires plunging down.

The recent March weather has been dominated by a succession of storm centres moving rapidly across the map. The one which brought snow and rain to Southern Ontario on Thursday is along the Atlantic seaboard this Friday morning on its way toward Newfoundland. Another disturbance in this series, now over Southern Minnesota, is headed for Michigan. As it approaches Southern Ontario, warm air coming up from the Mississippi Valley will bring mild weather to most of the province today and occasional light rain to south western counties by this afternoon.

On Saturday, the day will be dull and wet over the southern half of the province as this next storm travels along the Lower Lakes during the day.

Forecasts:

Eastern Lake Ontario and Haliburton regions: Cloudy with occasional sunny intervals today. Intermittent rain Saturday. Continuing mild. Winds light today. East 15 Saturday. Low tonight and high Saturday at Trenton 40 and 45, Killaloe 35 and 40.

Summary for Saturday—Mild. Intermittent rain.

SNOW BANK VICTIM — Mrs. Pauline Moloney, 40, wife of the owner of the Waterbury, Vt., Inn, a ski resort, was found dead in a snow bank at the rear of the inn. Police said she had been murdered.

Deny Interest In Gallinger

TORONTO, March 24.—(CP).—A Toronto paper in a staff dispatch from Clearwater, Fla., today quotes Joe Reardon, director of the Philadelphia Phillies' farm system, as saying that Don Gallinger has not been invited to try out with the Phils.

Gallinger was formerly manager of Waterloo Tigers.

"We are not sufficiently interested in Gallinger as a ball player to query his status with (Baseball) Commissioner Happy Chandler," Reardon said.

He referred to a statement by Gallinger that he had written Chandler in regard to his status in the light of his suspension from the National Hockey League several seasons ago. Gallinger claimed that he had been offered a tryout with John Sartoria.

Said Reardon:

"Sartoria is not a Phillies' scout, but . . . has recommended players to us. He has never received money from us, nor have we ever signed any players he recommended."

Minor Changes In Border Forms

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP) — David Sim, Deputy Minister of Revenue for Customs, said today there have been minor changes in border-crossing forms but that regulations this year will be practically the same as last year.

He was commenting on a report from Niagara Falls that new customs regulations would be brought down April 1 requiring all Canadians to sign triplicate papers before leaving the country.

Mr. Sim said the same system in use in the past for highway tourists will be in force again this year. This requires a person crossing the border by car to fill out forms before receiving the border-crossing card which he retains for the balance of the season.

The system was essentially unchanged, although a few minor alterations had been introduced into the form. Basically the questions and the border-crossing card will be the same.

Find Two Prisoners Sleeping In Attic

TIMMINS, March 24.—(CP). — Two prisoners who escaped Thursday from Monteith Industrial Farm, 40 miles from here, today were found sleeping in the attic of a building in the village of Monteith.

Ward St. Amour, 25 and Leonard A. Smart, 26, were quietly brought back to the farm. They were picked up after a Monteith garage operator reported hearing noises in his attic.

They were said to have made a short six-mile trip to Porquis and back. Prison farm officials and provincial police spent the night scouring the countryside.

St. Amour and Smart, both from the North Bay area, will face charges of escaping custody this afternoon at Iroquois Falls, police said.

Emergency Network

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) —The Federal Communications Commission Thursday moved to set up a country-wide emergency radio network to function in any large-scale disaster such as a surprise attack on the United States. Commission officials said the network is intended to maintain communications over wide areas in any disaster, including floods, earthquakes, hurricanes, explosions or armed attack.

Sunday Sports Threshed Out

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — After lengthy debate in which legality of the measure was attacked and defended, the Ontario legislature late Thursday night gave second reading by 59 to 20 to the government bill permitting commercial sports on Sundays in municipalities which have approved it by a local vote.

The division saw several members crossing party lines. A. W. Downer (PC - Dufferin-Simcoe) voted against the measure, while among supporters were CCF opposition members and both Labor-Progressives.

Premier Frost said that the government's legal officers were in no doubt about the validity of the bill, and in this connection he said that municipal government is a part of provincial government.

CCF opposition leader E. B Jolliffe said there was a question whether the bill was within the powers of the Ontario government. As it stood the bill became law when given royal assent. If, instead, it became law on proclamation the government would have a chance to get the opinion of the courts on its validity before it went into effect.

Upsurge of Opinion

Toronto and Windsor have already approved Sunday sports by local votes. Premier Frost told the legislature that Toronto's vote was "an unmistakable supsurge of public opinion." Many persons might ask the cause for the opinion in Toronto and Windsor.

"People of large cities and urban areas have not the advantages others have," said Premier Frost.

Steelmaster Runs Against Soskice

SHEFFIELD, England, March 24 (AP)—A steelmaster whose company is slated for nationalization will run against a Labor minister in a by-election in this steel city April 5.

John P. Hunt, 42, managing director of the Hallamshire Steel and File Company, was chosen Thursday night as the Conservative-Liberal candidate in the election in Sheffield's Neepsend division.

Sir Frank Soskice, solicitor-general, has been chosen as the Labor party's candidate. The Communists entered a third candidate—E. L. Moore, 39, Sheffield schoolteacher and war veteran.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee reappointed Sir Frank as solicitor-general even though he lost his seat in the House of Commons in the general election Feb. 23.

Col. Harry Morris, who was elected a member of parliament from the Neepsend division on the Labor ticket with a 19,000 majority, resigned to enable the solicitor-general to run there.

30 Million Trust Fund Offered By Chrysler

DETROIT, March 24 (AP) — Chrysler Corporation today offered to set up a $30,000,000 trust fund to back its promise to pay $100 a month pensions to its 89,000 striking employees.

The offer came as the strike, which has made idle 140,000 workers altogether, was in its 59th day.

There was no immediate comment from the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

The main issue in the long strike has been the method of providing pensions. The union has insisted that they be paid out of a trust fund. Chrysler previously had insisted on backing pensions by its "promise to pay."

Tie Up Desk Clerk

TORONTO, March 24.—(CP).—Three men, one of them armed, bound and gagged the desk clerk at the Warwick Hotel on Jarvis Street in central Toronto early today and escaped with $225 from the till.

FORMALITY LICENCE

The layman would probably regard it as a bit of red tape, but the council this week had to pass a bylaw executing a licence, virtually permission, to lay in the bed of the river between Burnham and McDonald Points the sewer and water mains that were placed there last summer. It appears that the bylaw authorizing the expenditure of $615,000 on the sewage disposal plant could not be registered until the licence was attached. It requires a fee of $10 payable by the city.

MPP's Protest Heavy Trucks On Highways

TORONTO, March 24 — Protests about overloading by highway transports were heard in the legislature Thursday and some opposition members suggested these heavy vehicles should be banned. Insisting that the maximum of 14 tons was too great, William Dennison (CCF, St. David's) claimed he had seen highways shake as these heavy loads rumbled over them.

Ross McEwing (L., Wellington North) declared the heavy transports were not only ruining highways, but were providing unfair competition to the railroads. J. D. Baxter (L-Prince Edward-Lennox), said some drivers, when crossing the railway bridge west of Bowmanville, kept their doors open ready to jump in the event it collapsed.

J. B. Salsberg (LPP, St. Andrew), doubting whether it would be possible to ban transports, said a realistic approach to the matter would be to assess them more heavily. He recalled reading that somewhere in the U.S. it had been estimated the cost of repairing and maintaining roads used solely by passenger vehicles was $350 a mile, compared with $4,000 a mile on highways used by transports.

Highways Minister George Doucett said the weights for trucks hadn't been changed for years and he couldn't understand why the matter was raised at this time. At the Dominion-Provincial highway conference, he had opposed a suggestion from British Columbia that the maximums be increased.

Buys Church At Auction Sale

BRAMPTON, March 24. — Garage mechanic Allan Weiss Thursday went out and bought an 81-year-old country church. The price was $325.

Weiss attended the auctioning of Mount Olivet Wesleyan Methodist Church, built in 1869. The little brick church has been closed for worship since 1940.

Interior fixtures were also sold. Thomas Reid bought the church organ for $1.50. The pews were purchased by Jason Shaw, garage owner. He will use them to seat patrons at implement demonstrations.

Mr. Weiss bought the church with the stipulation he move the structure from the grounds within a year. He said he would tear the building down and use the materials to build a home. Proceeds from the auction will be used in the upkeep of a nearby cemetery.

Western Oils Continue In Moderate Demand

TORONTO, March 24 (CP). — Western oils continued in moderate demand as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The remainder of the market moved in a narrow path at slightly lower levels. The volume for the first three hours was 613,000 shares.

Pacific Petroleum held the spotlight in Western oils, climbing 25 cents to a new high at $5. Royalite Oil, strong feature of recent climbing Western oil markets, was held in check.

Industrials slipped quietly. Papers, climbing leaders in recent sessions, led the downward trend. Steels bucked the trend for some moderate advances.

Base metals tended easier on losses ranging up to 15 cents. Consolidated Smelters and Noranda, leaders in the industry, held firm.

Senior golds lost fractions, while junior producers showed balanced gains and losses. MacLeod-Cockshutt traded briskly, advancing to a new high in early trading, but losing the advantage in mid-session.

Morrison Wants To Say It With Signs Wants Newer, Better British Advertising

LONDON, March 24. (CP).—Herbert Morrison wants to "say it with signs" in a brighter Britain.

The Deputy Prime Minister called in a speech for new and better advertising signs.

"Advertising is a part of our life," he told the Association of Master Signmakers. "On your advice and craftsmanship rests the appearance of British village, town and city life."

Morrison heaved a nostalgic sigh for the shop signs of 200 years ago.

"The three sugar loaves of the grocer, the three rabbits of the furrier, the three nuns of the linen draper—it's a pity we lost them.

"I like to think of the cheesemonger standing beneath his sign which might have been a dairy maid, a milk churn, or the perfumer under his civet cat.

"There was a fishmonger whose sign was the whistling oyster — there's imagination for you."

May Boost Salaries

VANCOUVER, March 24 (CP) —The Vancouver Sun said Thursday in a newspage story that British Columbia is getting ready to pay higher salaries to the people who run the province. It reported that plans are in hand to increase Premier Byron Johnson's salary from $9,000 to $15,000 annually, to boost the pay of 10 cabinet ministers from $7,500 to $10,000 a year and that the leader of the opposition get $3,000 instead of $2,000 as at present.

CLEARING CITY HALL SITE

Imperial Oil Company has agreed to remove at their own expense the gasoline tanks of their service station on the east side of George St., opposite Confederation Square, bought by the council as part of the city hall site. They are also given additional time of one month for completion of the work. City Clerk Outram expects to have definite information before the council next week about arrangements for demolition of buildings already purchased in that block.

Bills Studied To Establish Floor Prices

OTTAWA, March 24—(CP)—The government's power to establish widely-sought floor prices for the products of Canada's farms and fisheries moved a step loser to permanency in the Commons Thursday.

In an atmosphere of general agreement, the Chamber gave first reading to bills to strip the time limit from legislation providing for floor prices. As the statutes now stand, they must be extended yearly. With passage of the bills, they will become permanent.

The House also gave first reading to a bill to continue the administration's power to negotiate food contracts with Britain.

The floor-price legislation provided the big debate of the day. Opposition members, while they generally approved of it, felt that the government could go further by way of providing stability for Canadian farmers. Their demand either was for so-called "parity" prices or fixed prices posted in advance.

Guilty Of Carelessness Driver Fined $15

Pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving, Michael Minicola, 436 Driscoll Terrace, was fined $15 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court today.

In a second charge of leaving the scene of an accident Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw offered no evidence and the charge was dismissed.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw said Minicola, had hit the left front fender of a parked car then driven up over the curb in making a right turn from Water St. to go east on Hunter St. He had been drinking but was not drunk.

The parked car was owned by Anthony Caccavella, 571 Braidwood Ave.

Bevan Asks House For Billion Dollars

LONDON, March 24—(AP)—Health Minister Aneurin Bevan handed parliament a bill for £392,935,000 ($1,218,098,500) today to run the National Health Service for the year starting April 1.

This is £34,425,450 more than the estimate for last year, which was £358,509,550.

Sir Stafford Cripps, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, already has warned Bevan publicly that the figure 1950-51 is the ceiling. Sir Stafford told the House of Commons no further expansion of the service can be permitted.

Doctor Must Get Consent Patient For Blood Sample

COBOURG March 24 (ENS)—Taking a blood sample without the consent of the patient, might leave a doctor open to a suit for assault damages, Mr. Justice Dalton Wells commented Wednesday during the trial of 18-year-old Harvey Lingard of Bewdley on a motor manslaughter and a dangerous driving charge.

The Crown alleges that Lingard was the driver of a car which, on the evening of October 15, upset in the ditch while travelling from Roseneath Fair. A passenger in the rumble seat, 10-year-old Nancy Davis of Bewdley, died from injuries said to have been sustained in the accident.

With the jury excluded, considerable evidence was taken in regard to the admissability of the blood sample reading. His Lordship ruling that, while the circumstances were somewhat unusual, the evidence could be admitted.

Dr. W. E. Wilkins of Cobourg said that Nancy Davis was dead when he examined her after the accident and that she had sustained a fracture of the skull and also a fractured neck.

Murray Sissler of Castleton, a witness of the fatal accident, said he was on his way home from Roseneath Fair when an old car passed him. He said his own speed was 35 miles an hour and that the other car was going much faster than he was.

It was swinging from side to side as it headed south and in one of its gyrations it struck the rear of a car ahead of it and then went out of control and off the road. A girl and a boy were riding in the rumble seat. He went over to the scene and found the car lying on its left side.

The little girl was lying on the ground on one side of the car and a youth was on the other side of the car. Two other passengers were at the car.

Smelled Alcohol

Dr. D. H. Gear said he was on his way back from the Fair when he came upon the accident scene. He said he could smell a strong odour of alcohol from the driver. Dr. Gear said he took a blood test at 6:30 p.m. at the hospital. They had asked Lingard if he would submit to a blood test but he was semi-conscious and neither gave his consent nor refused.

Dr. Gear told the court that in view of the fact that it was a fatal accident, he felt that a blood test should be taken. It was as much for the protection of the accused as anyone. After it had been taken he gave it to Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine.

In admitting the blood sample evidence, His Lordship declared that a doctor taking a blood sample without the permission of the peatient, was committing a technical assault and that Lingard if he desired, could sue the doctor for assault damages.

Declines Comment

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP) — Justice Minister Garson declined Thursday to say in the Commons whether prosecution had been recommended last year in the case of an alleged price-fixing combine in the flour-milling industry. Both John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) and George Drew Progressive Conservative leader, sought to find out whether counsel had recommended prosecution against the companies but Mr. Garson declined to give the information.

Spanked Daughter

BEVERLY HILLS Calif., March 24 (AP)—Mrs. Lorraine Michel testified Thursday that she spanked her adopted daughter, child actress Lora Lee Michel, because the girl told a fib—but did it with her hand, not a hair brush. The 55-year-old foster mother took the witness stand in her trial on child-mistreatment charges, and denied them. Conviction could bring a maximum sentence of six months in jail and $500 fine.

Files 250,000 Suit

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Mrs. Agnes S. Knickerbocker, widow of H. R. Knickerbocker, war correspondent and radio commentator, who was killed with 44 others aboard a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines plane at Bombay last July, has filed a $250,000 damage suit gainst KLM. She complained that the death of her husband, a Pulitzer prize winner, was due to "wilful misconduct in the operation" of the air liner. Thirteen other news reporters died in the crash.

Refer Questions

BONN, Germany, March 24 — (Reuters)—The Allied High Commissioners decided Thursday to refer to their governments the question of the reorganization of the West German coal, iron and steel industries. A communique said they deferred discussion of a draft law providing for the reorganization to "enable governments to complete a study of the proposals in relation to existing Anglo-American military government law."

Want Unemployment Office For Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 24 — (ENS — Dr. Frederick G. Robertson, Liberal MP for Northumberland, told the Campbellford Liberal Association Thursday he had asked the authorities for a temporary or part time unemployment insurance in Campbellford. He wanted to eliminate the necessity of unemployed people travelling to Peterborough to make claims.

Dr. Robertson said that although 330,000 were unemployed in Canada at the present time, the situation was seasonal and peculiar to certain areas.

Dr. Robertson thought Canada should have a long range policy of immigration to increase the population. He thought the people already here should be looked after first.

Dr. Robertson said the way to prevent a depression was to keep money in circulation. He spoke of the price support program his government had instituted. He did not believe Canada was heading for a depression. The Liberal party was pledged to give the farmers support, but they became panicky a few months ago when the prices of some commodities began to drop.

Pensions High Cost

Dr. Robertson spoke about the agitation for the abolition of the means test for the old age pension. He believed it should be on a contributory basis. The public had to pay for the pensions and the government did not think it should spend the money of the people in this manner.

He said if everyone in Canada were given the old age pension on reaching the age of 65, it would cost the provincial aid federal governments combined about 526 million dollars for 1951. This would increase to 682 million in 1961 and by 1971 the cost would reach about 808 million dollars. It cost about 135 million dollars a year now, at the present rate.

Dr. Robertson said the government had allotted three quarters of a million dollars this year for research on cortisone and ACTH, the new arthritis medicants. It required about 400 thousand hogs to produce one pound of ACTH and 28 processes to develop the final drug. It was now being produced in minute quantities in Canada, although it had not been put on the market for the general public. It was hoped to be able to produce the drug synthetically at some future date. This, he claimed, was made possible by the Liberal government's health program.

Thanks Women

William Hogle, president of the Association, extended thanks to the women for their support during the last election campaign. He spoke of the present government's achievements.

Although Canada's population was only 14 million compared with 144 in the U.S., this country was the third largest trading nation in the world. On a per capita basis Canadian foreign trade was about four times that of the U.S.

Alberta was now only second to Texas as an oil producing area. The standard of living there was highest of any country with the possible exception of some parts of the States.

Mr. Hogle said there was little poverty in Canada and not too many millionaires. The U.S. had more of both.

Litter-Carrier Knocks Farmer Unconscious

COBOURG, March 24 (ENS)—John Gibson, a Grafton farmer, was treated in Cobourg hospital Wednesday for head injuries received when a litter-carrier support broke and struck him on the head. Mrs. Gibson found him lying in a semi-conscious condition underneath the litter carrier track. A medical examination revealed he had concussion and had a cut scalp but he was otherwise uninjured.

Engineer Indicted

MINEOLA, N. Y., March 24 — (AP)—Jacob Kiefer, engineer of the eastbound train in the disastrous Rockville Centre railroad wreck Feb. 17, was indicted on a second degree manslaughter charge Thursday night. Kiefer was accused of running through a red stop signal and causing the death of 32 passengers in the head-on collision of two Long Island Railroad commuter trains.

Death Pilgrimage

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 24 (AP)—Mrs. E. R. DeBusk made a pilgrimage of death Thursday. She told police she led three of her six children to a creek, drowned two of them, and lost her nerve before she could drown the third and commit suicide. She said she was estranged from her husband and was despondent because a married man with whom she had been going threw her aside.

Forest Dennis Heads Liberals At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 24—(ENS)—Forest Dennis was elected president of Campbellford Liberal Association Thursday, when the nominating committee, headed by Walter S. Wiggins, presented the new slate of officers to a meeting of the Association in the Parish Hall.

Other officers elected were Ray Connor, vice president; Carl Maier, secretary; Ward chairmen—ward one, Hector MacArthur; ward two, Harry Bennett; ward three, George Braham and ward four, Fred Bausch.

Charge Of One-Party Rule Causes Tumult

OTTAWA, March 24.—(CP).—J. M. James (L, Durham) stirred the Commons to transient tumult Thursday in taking exception to a quoted statement by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC, Nanaimo) that "certain members of the Liberal Party are calling today for elimination of all opposition."

The climax came when the Speaker, Ross Macdonald, said the opposition has the privilege to make that sort of statement any time it sees fit. He was applauded.

Mr. James brought the "very serious matter" up as a question of privilege, quoting a report in Tuesday's Kingston Whig-Standard. The report was of a speech by Gen. Pearkes for whom, he said, "I have the greatest respect but I regret that he has fallen from grace and adopted an attitude . . ."

At this point George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, took exception and the House began to stir. Mr. James, continuing, said the heading of the story said "Canada nears one-party state, is charge of Gen. Pearkes here."

He quoted the general as saying "certain members of the Liberal Party are calling today for elimination of all opposition." Members of the opposition parties began to bellow, "Sit down," at him steadily, and the speaker intervened to give his opinion.

Mr. Macdonald said he doubted from what he had heard that any question of House privilege was involved. He suggested Mr. James show the article to him personally.

Civil Marriage For Ontario

There will be general satisfaction throughout the province over the action of the Legislature in approving civil marriage. This reform has been hanging fire for several years, and at last it is to be made a reality. It was interesting to observe that all but a few members approved of the bill to institute civil marriage from the first; those who opposed it did so upon grounds which did not stand up well to criticism. There is no evidence to show that civil marriages are undertaken with less sense of responsibility than church marriages, or that they result in a larger proportion of divorces. Nor will it be an easy matter to contract a civil marriage; in some respects it will be more difficult than marriage in a church.

• • •

Civil marriage will relieve the clergy of the vexation and indignity of performing marriages for couples who are not church adherents. It will also make it possible for people who conscientiously object to church marriage to be united without undergoing a ceremony which incorporates elements which are, to them, meaningless. The introduction of civil marriage in Ontario is a move of liberal reform of which the present government may be proud.

Scholarships Abroad

The Brazilian Government has announced the institution of an annual scholarship valued at $1,200, to be awarded a Canadian graduate for six months' study in Brazil. Such scholarships are of inestimable value, not only to the students awarded them, but to the country in which they study and their own native land.

Until fairly recently most travelling scholarships which Canadians could be awarded, or were financially able to accept, were given for study at American or British universities. The United States universities have been especially hospitable and encouraging to Canadian students. As a result the bulk of our post-graduate students have done their advanced studies in the U.S.A. Scholarships to Britain have been fewer and more difficult to obtain.

Since the war the number of foreign scholarships available to Canadians has been greatly increased, partly through government agencies. It is a trend to be encouraged. It is particularly cogent that a Latin American country should invite Canadian students, for our mutual national relations are becoming increasingly intimate and the problems which unite and divide us can be well faced by good students on the spot. Scholarly inbreeding in a country, or even on a continental scale, can be obstructive or debilitating. On the other hand, study abroad cannot help but be refreshing, and of great advantage even on the broad international plane.

Enthusiasm For Flogging

The members of the British House of Commons are being urged at present to restore flogging as a punishment in cases of assault. In particular they are being flooded with propaganda from the Women's Guild of the Empire, an organization which has a large membership and which may be assumed to speak for a large body of female opinion. The London Daily Mail recently took a poll on flogging among its readers, with this interesting result: 80 people were against it, and 63,871 were for it.

It would be curious to know how many of these people were women. Women in Britain have for a century or more shown a remarkable enthusiasm for flogging, particularly for men convicted of rape or the assault of women. At the Women Conservatives Conference in May, 1939, there was a most remarkable demonstration "Deploring those sections of the Criminal Justice Bill which seek to abolish corporal punishment". Two or three speakers who ventured to state the case against flogging were wildly hooted down and one commentator on the meeting used such strong terms as "animal unreason" and "mass hysteria" to describe the opposition to reform which was shown.

The question of flogging has been debated this week in the House of Lords. Flogging has only been abolished for a matter of two years and the Government is very understandably resisting the pressure to bring it back. The Lord Chancellor, Viscount Jowitt, has pointed out that there is no reason to believe that flogging acts as a deterrent upon criminals. He may, perhaps, have quoted the remarks of the late Professor Hilton, who maintained that: "Persons who have given their minds and hearts and lives to . . studying how to diminish the causes of these attacks on women and children, how to treat those who display a proneness to sexual violence . . . have been coming with one accord to the conclusion, based on deep knowledge and wide experience, that the flogging of sexual offenders is not only in itself for the most part a brainless brutality, in that many of them are mentally afflicted and need treatment rather than punishment; but that instead of providing a deterrent it excites depraved passions and in doing so actually creates criminals."

It will be interesting to see whether the weight of public opinion forces the British Government to put flogging back in the book of penalties. It would be even more interesting to see whether such a move really had a deterrent effect on criminal assaults. During the last nine months there have been 711 cases of assault and sexual assault before the courts in Britain. Whether the flogging of the criminals—which actually means returning assault for assault—would do anything to crush the evil is an open question. The point which we wished to make, however, is that the enthusiasm for flogging in Britain today looks rather more like cruelty masquerading as justice, than like justice itself.

Be Careful Who Hunts Your Witches

To our way of thinking, one of the strangest things about the present witch-hunt for Communists and subversive persons in the U.S. civil service is the fact that one of the chief hunters is Senator Joseph McCarthy. Senator McCarthy is a lawyer who was disciplined by the bar of his native state for alleged unethical conduct; he has also been in trouble with the U.S. treasury for faulty income tax returns. He does not seem to be a fortunate choice for a committee which is to investigate the behaviour of other people. And as we mentioned in these columns earlier this week, Senator McCarthy recently boasted that he would name fifty-seven government employees who were Communists or sympathizers; the very first one, Miss Dorothy Kenyon, proved not to be a State Department employee, and decidedly not a Communist. Senator McCarthy, it appears, is something of a clown. It may also be mentioned that a previous chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, Parnell Thomas, is now in jail for behaviour which, if not un-American, was certainly contrary to American law.

If loyalty tests and witch-hunts are to be tolerated, is it wise to entrust them to men of this stamp? Surely this is the quickest way of ensuring that nobody with much self-respect or intelligence will enter the government service? Many branches of the civil service demand high qualifications, and people who possess them can get good jobs outside the government. Will they ever think of government service if they are to be at the mercy of irresponsible, ignorant and imperfectly honest men? For—this is important—the dirt which these men throw is sticky; the exonerations which follow their mistakes are not widely published.

If a country must have witch-hunts would it not be wiser to take greater care in choosing the hunters?

NOTE AND COMMENT

Dorothy Lamour says that "a girl tastefully posed in a scanty costume is a cultural achievement." Very true, and the weather for culture will soon be here.

The mountain state of Sikkim, near Tibet, is to become an Indian protectorate. A handy state to include just in case India should wish to let slip the dogs of war.

In Amherst, Mass., a taxi company allows passengers to decide what they think a trip is worth. Much would depend, of course, on the talents of the driver as a conversationalist.

For the first time in history, the state of Mississippi is trying a white man for the murder of a Negro. To ask whether this was the first time a white had murdered a Negro in Mississippi would be downright rude.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: I used to see estimates of the cost of the first Great War. Has anybody come up with the cost of the recent one? Which was the more expensive?

ANSWER: The first war, according to one figure I have, cost the nations of the world taking part 84 thousand million pounds. According to a provisional estimate in money terms made in 1946 by the Bank of International Settlements, the last war cost 338 thousand million pounds, four times as much as the Great War. The last war cost, it is estimated, more than all the past wars Europe has fought since the Middle Ages. The U.S.A. alone spent as much on the Second World War as all the nations of the world spent on the first.

The total cost, in monetary terms, of the last war works out—at $4 to the pound, on which the figure I give above was postulated —to $1,352,000,000. In terms of an ordinary Canadian, it means that if every man, woman and child of this country were given a share of that money, each would have $100,000. A man, his wife, their parents, and four children together would be worth a million dollars; a pretty family fortune.

This suggests an excellent way to avoid another war with all its grievous costs, other than merely monetary. Let all the nations which intend to fight it, or could possibly be involved, estimate the amount it would cost them. Let them then send that money to a pacific, honest, industrious country like Canada (a sort of oblation to the gods), and then NOT have the war. All the nations would be spared the bloodshed, and every Canadian would be so rich that as a people they could buy Right and Left, stimulate trade wherever and whenever stimulus was needed, absorb all exports, and thereby remove one of the basic causes of war—restricted markets and over-production. It's a thought I pass on to the U.N.

APROPOS the foregoing: What would my readers do with a million dollars unexpectedly plopped into their laps? I would be interested in learning the various ways each would administer and spend his million. All through the year readers ask me questions, so it's fair I ask a question of you. What would you do with a million dollars? Please send in your replies—but please do not make them long-winded or merely flippant. I shall enter the most interesting solutions in this column.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR ALPHA: Please note how this gentleman of the wild-eyed and pink-tinged Left harasses our trusty and well-beloved Members—Quo usque tandem abutere Catilina, patientia nostra?—and piles on unwanted hours of toil on our devoted civil service and does not even include our fair city among others? (The writer enclosed the official printed report of the proceedings in the Ontario Legislature on March 3rd, and marked the section where the members give notice of motions. Mr. MacLeod (Labour Progressive member for Bellwoods, Toronto) gave notice of twenty different questions he wanted information about, relating to houses destroyed by fire in various cities, lives lost, patients in mental hospitals, homes for the aged, etc.)

ANSWER: Perhaps the present Legislative Assembly needs a touch of Ciceronian oratory and commination. "How long, for heaven's sake, will you try our patience, Cataline" would become "For the love of the good God and not of Moscow, how long, O MacLeod of the L.P.P., do you think we are going to stand for that sort of flim-flam?" Actually, the Hon. Member may have some worthy points to raise, some rat in some back alley to smell out. I await, not hopefully, justification of his costly questioning. It happens in Ottawa as well as Toronto, that members will blurt out questions which keep civil servants working for days hunting the answers — at great cost—and often enough the questions were unnecessary and the answers so expensively secured are never referred to again or applied.

Some questions do elicit from the Government interesting bits of information. On the same day in the Assembly, Mr. Houck, Liberal member for Niagara Falls, got from the Minister of Lands and Forests the information that the small Department magazine "Sylva" cost the Department $12,417 in 1949, $18,665 in 1948. It was begun in 1945-46, in which year the cost was $2,527. The same questioner was also told by the Minister of Agriculture that 142 municipalities in the province had received grants for community centres since January 1948. In the list are Cobourg, Oshawa, Woodstock and St. Catharines, each of which got $5,000.

DEAR SIR: Will you please tell me what the Chemong Causeway, replacing the Floating Bridge, cost?

ANSWER: The total cost was $255,058.36. The County's share, including interest charges and legal fees was about $35,000. The Department of Highways' share was 80 per cent. or $202,046.69. The city of Peterborough contributed a set amount—$10,000. Ennismore paid a little over $1,000 as its special share. Incidentally, the old wooden bridge fetched, in bits and pieces and as salvage, $2,500.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: Your information about the Bishop's House on Hunter Street, which you gave last week in your note on the first Roman Catholic Bishop of Peterborough is not exact. The priests' house property may have been bought in 1887, as you said, but not the Bishop's House. If it was built by that year, it was not Church property then; a private family lived in it.

RESPONSE: Thank you for the correction. The house was built by Senator G. A. Cox, as an investment enterprise. One source of my information gives the date of the building as 1906 or 07; another as well before 1900. The latter is more probable. The first occupants were the family of J. H. Roper, retired manager of the local Bank of Toronto branch, who leased it from Senator Cox. (Mrs. R. H. Fortye of Gilmour Street is a daughter of Mr. Roper.) They lived in the house until it was sold to the Bishop. I shall try to get more definite information next week. I hear that it was a very cold house. Undoubtedly now there are better heating facilities, for when the diocese took it over as the Bishop's residence, it was renovated. At that time the Mansard roof was removed.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: Spring is sprung, and pineapples are in town, the first fresh fruits of the year. My hausfrau bought one yesterday as big as a pumpkin for 35 cents. Nearly all our pineapples in post-war years have been imported from Cuba. This points to a beneficial trade agreement with that West Indian island. I do not know whether or not we have to pay for them in American dollars. Before the war many of our pineapples came from Hawaii, an American dollar dependency.

Letters To The Editor

APPROVES PERSONAL SNOW CLEARANCE

Sir: In regard to Mr. Matchett's letter of Saturday — also that of "Spring Fever", I quite agree—Re the cleaning of sidewalks on the basis of—"Do it yourself" as Toronto, London, and other progressive cities do, when snow storms exist—so that, after each storm—the walks are cleaned off, and made decent for pedestrians to use.

In fact, in the more progressive cities mentioned above, Householders are fined if they refuse to clean up, after each storm — also this makes for less slop and slush to wade through—and drainage is better, so the water gets away quickly.

The writer never saw a city, known for its cleanliness—so full of water and holes everywhere — even on George street — the main street of the city, motorists have to dodge holes—and take chances of bumping into other cars to avoid broken springs, and where their taxes go to and what for, I don't know—but what I have seen suggests that, a sumptuous profit must be made by wreckers —and quite a lot of this expense should be charged to the city, I was talking to a motorist the other day who admitted that he had to have two new springs for his car, just because of the bumps I speak of here.

Generally speaking, the roads around the city are bad—very bad—and the ONLY place you see a sign "BUMPS" between here and London—yes even to Windsor—is Peterborough—surely something can be done about such conditions, so that motorists encouraged to visit the city can at least enjoy their visit and not have to lap the car up for any length of time because of such roads.

Getting back to the sidewalks condition—if every householder was given to understand, that it was to his or her benefit—to clean off the walks, and show some interest, both outside and in—it would be better for all concerned.

One sees householders ignore the snow and dirt, which leads right to their front door—left right there for people to wade through—yet expect to keep house clean and tidy—so for that purpose—(just to show they know the dirt is there alright) they put papers down to walk on—meaning, they don't like the dirt, but don't mind plenty of it right at their front door—outside— and this, even if the floors are ONLY plain boards—and not hardwood.

Yes I believe it would be far better, to have the same law as Toronto and London etc.—then the germicide squad would have less to do to clean up.

Yours for a cleaner city — also a healthy one.

H. GILBERT

FLYING SAUCER INTIMATELY OBSERVED

Sir: I noticed in a recent press report that flying saucers had been seen in Toronto. I have not, myself seen any of these phenomena in Peterborough, but the news prompts me to relate the following interesting experience.

A few years ago, the year of the short corn (you may remember it was so short the sparrows had to go down on their knees to eat it) I was ordered to investigate a reported case of sabotage in the sand mines in Morocco. One evening I had been dining with two of the nobility, Georgian Bey and Mustapha Nother, and was returning to my quarters when I saw a flying saucer. It was, as I well remember, round, and the size varied according to how close or how far away it happened to be. My hands and knees were rather sore, so I lay down and watched the saucer, round in shape, I think I said it was.

It landed a few yards away and the smallest giant I have ever seen dismounted from it. He was about 21 inches short, and as soon as he reached the ground he commenced to revolve in an anti-clockwise direction.

When his gyrations were over he prepared to remount, but noticing me lying near he wobbled across to me. He had a head complete with the usual number of ears, eyes etc., but as he wore a long white cloak I could not say whether he had legs or not. He came over to me, leered hideously at me and hopped aboard his saucer. Seating himself comfortably on a long pointed pole, he stepped on the gas and flew off in a general direction. I crawled over to measure his footprints but he had left none, and this accounts for my suspicion that he was not equipped with feet. I never saw him again, but doubtless it was he or his confederates who were seen in Toronto.

Yours,

J.G.

ST. PATRICK RE-INVENTED

Sir: I must correct Mr. Gilchrist, who says that my letter about the birthplace of St. Patrick was founded upon supposition. It was, on the contrary, founded upon the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and Mr. Gilchrist has so far given no authority whatever for his curious belief that Patrick was in some way associated with Dumbarton, which was not a Christianized part of Britain in the Fourth Century.

But I understand Mr. Gilchrist's intention. Of late the Russians have been enjoying themselves and amusing the world by claiming the invention of the telephone, wireless telegraphy and other marvels. Mr. Gilchrist represents a Scottish desire to re-invent St. Patrick in the same fashion and for the same purpose. And with, I may say, the same amusing result.

HISTORIAN.

APPRECIATED BRITISH HOSPITALITY

Sir: Let us have an end to this useless bickering re hospitality in England and Scotland. During the war I had occasion to spend many leaves in England and Scotland. I found that both the English and Scottish folk, according to their means, did their very best to give the Canadian soldier a bang-up time. I like to think I speak for the majority of Canadian servicemen when I again repeat—in most instances, we were accorded a most refreshing and spontaneous hospitality in all parts of the British Isles. Incidentally, I didn't marry over there, and my ancestors were Scots.

H and S Holds Fathers' Night

HASTINGS, March 24 (ENS)—The March meeting of the Home and School Association was fathers' night. Principal Douglas Thurston presided.

Mr. Thurston announced that the shows would be resumed now that the hockey season was nearly over. The first one is scheduled for March 24th and the picture to be shown is "Bambi" in technicolor.

Mrs. C. M. Baker was chosen delegate to attend the Home and School convention in Toronto on April 11, 12 and 13.

A sweater knitted and donated by Mrs. Patrick Fitzpatrick was on display and tickets are being sold for a draw on the sweater to be made at the April meeting.

Roll call showed Grade 3 the winners. A letter was read from the WMS of Trinity United Church suggesting the field secretary of the Temperance Union as a speaker at a future meeting.

On motion of Mrs. Crate and Mrs. Baker, Len Switzer was appointed chairman of the theatre committee.

The questions in the question box were answered. L. W. Humphries lead a sing-song, accompanied by Mrs. G. Thompson.

Funeral Service Held For Charles Hannah

CAVAN, March 24 (ENS) — A funeral service for Charles Wesley Hannah, Seventh Line, Cavan, conducted at the MacPherson Funeral Home Saturday by the Rev. T. G. Husser, was followed by a service held by L.O.L. No. 79 Millbrook, of which Mr. Hannah was a member .

He died Thursday in a Peterborough hospital after only a few hours illness.

Mr. Hannah was born in Hamilton township August 15, 1884 and was the only son in a family of three. He had been a member of the Orange Order for 48 years, recently transferring to Millbrook branch. A farmer most of his life, Mr. Hannah had been farming until a few days before his death. He raised nine children, all of whom survive him. His wife, the former Mildred Wheeler, died seven years ago.

About 12 years ago Mr. Hannah bought the William Williamson homestead on the seventh line, and made it his home.

He leaves four daughters: Mrs. Edgar (Irene) of Port Hope; Mrs. Earl Ireland (Bernice) of Cottesloe; Mrs. Dermot Laverty (Marion) of Lindsay and Mrs. Ernest Boyles, (Bertha) of Wallace Point; five sons, Bernard at home, Thomas of South Monaghan, Milton of Kitchener, Clayton of Wallace Point and Lynn at home. One sister Bertha, predeceased him. His elder sister, Mrs. Agnes Hannah lives in the U.S.A.

Pall bearers were Jack Armstrong, John Alewell, John McKnight, Hal Argue, Wilfred Elson, Roy Hunter, Thomas Douglas, and Alfred Coyte. Burial was in Gardiner's Cemetery.

The financial statement was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Fred Norris, showing a balance of $300.20. The members used their new theme song and plan to continue using it at the meetings.

Samples of every day cards used by members were on display. Many orders were placed for boxes of cards.

Plans were made for the April meeting with Mrs. Ivan Thackeray and Mrs. Neil Sherwin as joint hostesses. The program committee will be Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite and Mrs. Rae Brown.

Members Entertain

Mrs. Neil Sherwin, program convener, announced entertainment by the following: Mrs. Fred Norris, reading; Mrs. Bart Thackeray was in charge of a musical contest, the winners Mrs. Ella Brown, Mrs. Charles Sandercock; Mrs. James Thompson sang; Mrs. Alfred Pringle was in charge of a shamrock contest; Titles of Old Songs was the name of contest by Mrs. Rae Brown.

Rev. R. C. White attended. Lunch was served by the hostesses.

Schmidt Gets Trophy

BOSTON, March 24 (AP) — Milt Schmidt, captain of the National Hockey League's Bruins, again has been voted the Elizabeth C. Dufresne Trophy as Boston's outstanding hockey player of the home season. The trophy, awarded for the 25th season on vote of hockey writers, will be presented to Schmidt Sunday night when the season ends here.

Springville YPU Holds Study Of Missions

SPRINGVILLE, March 24 — (ENS)—Springville YPU had a study of Missions on Sunday, when Carl Preston had charge of the meeting. He was assisted by Roger Hanbidge, Howard Johnston, Harley Cathcart, Ivan Rowan and Eleanor and Doreen Bowles.

Hazel McIntosh, in opening the meeting, asked the group to repeat the 23rd Psalm, after which she told several stories on the life of Jack Miner.

The next meeting will be held on Friday with the recreation conveners, Myrna Seymour and Raymond Kelk in charge.

An invitation was received to attend a program on March 30 sponsored by Omemee and Bethany YPU at which Charles Dodds wil present a program of music.

For recreation the 21 members present were divided into three groups and acted Bible stories and hymns.

Wm. Wanamaker Dies At Home In West

BONARLAW, March 24 (ENS) —Word has been received of the death of William H. Wanamaker, 88, prominent farmer, at his home in Grand Coulee, Sask. He was a descendant of the Dutch who came to America with the pilgrims on the Mayflower in 1620.

He was born in Prince Edward County, Ameliasburg township, and received his early education at Belmont, Ontario. He married Alma McConnell at Blairton in March 1888.

They moved to the west in 1890 and in 1901, with a family of five children, moved to the Grand Coulee district.

Mr. Wanamaker, together with the Hon. W. R. Motherwell and Peter Dayman, drew up the original draft of the Grain Growers Association. An active community worker Mr. Wanamaker was interested in all worthy projects.

He curled with the Regina Curling Club during the 1948-49 season. He was well known in this district and west of here and was a cousin of the late Mrs. Jesse Barlow.

A funeral service was held in Carmichael United Church and burial was in the family plot, Regina cemetery.

Critics Laud Sculptor's 'Lazarus'

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, March 24 — (CP) — Sculptor Jacob Epstein has carved a miracle. It is a massive portrayal in stone of Lazarus, the man Jesus raised from the dead.

The figure, more than seven feet high and weighing 1½ tons, stands erect like a monolith, its human form emerging through a wrapping of funeral bands.

"I have tried to express the idea of a man coming from death to life," said the 70-year-old American-born sculptor of the work called "Lazarus."

Critics lavished praise on the carving. Rating it among Epstein's major achievements, the Daily Telegraph critic said "no other living sculptor could come as near to realizing the subject."

Said the Manchester Guardian of the carving:

"The head is contorted, as it might be looking for the light after four days in the grave. But the rest of the body—a powerful one — clearly lies beneath the winding-sheet, hinted at rather than expressed."

Not Controversial

Epstein, whose more than 40 years in Britain as a sculptor have seen many storms rage around his works, said he didn't think "Lazarus" would be controversial.

"I hope not," the artist said. "But then I have never intended any of my works to be controversial."

Epstein's first major work, a group of 18 figures to decorate the British Medical Association building in the Strand, was attacked by newspapers and religious bodies. That was 42 years ago. Since then his monumental carvings of religious subjects have periodically raised critical rumpus.

Bockwinkle Gets Top Bout Over Scrappy Nanjo Singh

Warren Bockwinkle, 245,—a wrestler of the McCready type—disposed of colorful Nanjo Singh, 230, in straight falls at the Brock last evening to feature the weekly wrestling show of three piping bouts. Replacing Fred Atkins, the doughty Hindu, handicapped somewhat with a bad leg, tried every knavish trick he knew to outwit his strong opponent but to no avail. Bockwinkle caught him off balance from the ropes at the 10-minute mark in the second heat, crashed him face downwards and applied a painful leg scissors to win decisively in a stiff battle.

Had An Edge

Singh held a fair margin in the first heat, punishing his strong opponent with a series of toeholds and head scissors and a few hefty elbow smashes with knees thrown in. At the 15-minute mark, however, when he clamped his cobra hold on Bock, after the latter had evened the score fairly well on the rough exchanges around the ropes, Referee Maxwell disqualified the Banjo for striking him and thus Singh lost a fall he had virtually won otherwise. It was popular verdict too.

Sky-Hi Lee at 290 arrived late from the east to take the semi-final bout, last on the card, from popular Steve Stanlee, the blond 232-pound Adonis whose golden mane and beautiful frame might make even Theseus envious. Lee's great height and power proved a big factor in this, the liveliest battle of all, despite Stanlee's superior skill and mat wizardy with which he matched his giant opponent at every turn. It was speed against strength, much of the way. The towering Lee picked his rival up twice, tossed him to the mat but was repaid with a series of flying mares, after both had left the ring at the seven-minute mark in a wild flurry. Finally Stanlee booted Lee to the ropes and out together they went to the floor. As Lee climbed in Stanlee pulled him back but himself was treated likewise and clipped with an elbow as Lee again slid back into the ring in time to beat Maxwell's count. But not Stanlee. Thus a popular favorite lost one at the 18-minute mark of a bout packed with mat action.

Went To Draw

Johnny Barend and Al Korman wrestled to a 30-minute draw in the preliminary. Korman at 228 held an eight-pound margin over his rival but the boys were evenly matched and fought a hard duel with Korman the villain of the piece most of the way, roughing it up plenty. A punishing series of arm stretches and locks had Barend in difficulty in the early stages but the latter rallied well, gave his tough opponent plenty of punishment in the corners and both men were glad to hear the timer's gong.

It was a fine card all the way before a hefty gallery.

Nurses play Neill's at eight tonight in the YW gym to open their best-of-three senior girls' basketball finals. Black's tackle CGE at nine to start their intermediate two-in-three final playoffs. Plenty of keen competition a sure thing as the lasses begin to really play for keeps. Towne Togs, resting on their laurels after making provincial intermediate "B" finals, await word on the championship series which will start in Western Ontario sometime next week. PCVS midget boys are off to St. Kitts tomorrow for the OABA championship tourney. Outboard Marines tote a 12-point lead tomorrow to Hamilton in their OABA intermediate "A" semi-finals. This is a good cage centre.

Otonabee Rural Puck Loop finished up this week with Keene ousting Downer's Corners in overtime of the deciding game to take the title. A nifty series before a full house in the new arena. Keene is primarily a curling district in the winter months but hockey got quite a boost there this season since the arena was built. An energetic executive lined up an interesting district circuit and some nifty tussles were staged before goodly galleries. They also had peewee, midget, juvenile and industrial puck play, and that's a fine start toward a TVL or OHA entry another year.

About Puck Playoffs

While our junior "B" Oddfellows are away tonight — settling their group finals in Oshawa—Civic Arena will be busy enough this eve as Marmora and Lakefield clash. Second of their best-of-five OHA intermediate "B" series, Lakefield being one up. Lot of district, as well as city, fans will likely take this one in as they are smart, well-matched squads. Legionnaires go back to Oshawa again tomorrow evening to play Markham in their senior "B" four-in-seven series, the fourth game being here on Monday night. No doubt another full house at Civic to start off the week as time is starting to run out for one of these two clubs.

* * * * * *

Penalties proved costly to Legionnaires last p.m. in Oshawa as they dropped a 4-2 verdict to Markham. Twice Legion penalties cost goals but, while the reffing was rather lax, the players didn't blame that on their loss. "We weren't playing hockey", was the general admission afterward, and that's a fact. Not their best hockey by any means. Or it may be that the Millionaires' close checking kept 'em from clicking. In any case, Goalie Ross Nicholls had more tough ones to stop than the Markham netminder. Not one of the Legion lines played up to form, in our opinion, and the defence didn't cover too well in front of their cage. Just one of those games.

* * * * * *

They'll Fly Tomorrow

But that's a good one to get out of the system. They'll no doubt be flying Saturday down there and should go ahead again in this serial. We feel quite confident that they can erase the Millionaires within the next week, but they'll have to hustle all the way. Freddy Mortimer couldn't make the trip last p.m. and he was missed. There was a surprisingly good crowd on deck for two out-of-town teams, something like 2,000—and many were from Peterborough. The arena management expects a whopping gallery of Markham, Peterborough and Oshawa fans for the Saturday night fixture as a week-end outing and a keen puck match beckons.

Warren Bockwinkle got rid of Nanjo Singh in two falls at the Brock last e'en in the main match, Atkins failing to make connections. Hi Lee almost didn't arrive from Montreal, either, but finally came late and the semi-final was put on last. It was a hot scrap, too, with Lee laying popular Steve Stanlee to the disapproval of the faithful. Barend and Korman battled it out to a mat draw in the prelim. Nanjo the Banjo was doing okay for himself at one time but was getting away with some illegal stuff and cuffed Referee Bert Maxwell for interfering. The pudgy house dick of the Royal York promptly disqualified the villainous Hindu.

Hither And Yawning

Badminton club finals go tomorrow evening in the Market Hall and the public is invited free of charge.... Shockey's again clinched the men's City Bowling League title last evening....Annual open soccer meeting will be Monday at eight p.m. in the "Y" to elect officers, etc.... Corvettes rolled high single in the YM senior girls' bowling circuit....Don Penniston is out as coach of Hershey in the AHL as crowds drop off....Omemee and Cannington settle their ORHA series in Lindsay on Monday....Blewett scored three when Lakefield edged Marmora 10-9 in Belleville the other night. Hill and Rochetta got the Legion markers last p.m. with Coombs and Fryia each earning an assist; Rumney was in on two for Markham ... PMHA-ers will have to see action next week to wind up playoffs ... Herb Payne is keeping busy on OHA assignments around Central Ontario as a referee....And that concludes today's instalment.

Bowling Notes

Jay Bees rolled high pinnage this week in the YM men's senior bowling league, having 3255, just two better than the Artists. Jay Bees also had top single game of 1169. K. Burnham led in threesomes with 806, including a nifty single leading score of 373. Other good counts were: V. Coleman 778 (285, 287), R. Dyer 732 (297, 271), R. Suddards 719, R. Bennett 701 (270), and these singles: G. MacDonald 282, 264, H. Fisher 280, E. Dixon 271, N. Routley 271, J. Dormer 263 and G. Walton 260. Standing to date: Artists 84 points, Commercials 80, Aberdeens 78, CPC 73, Jay Bees 68, Quakers 62, B'nai B'rith 51, Tip Tops 50.

Lucky Strikes and Tigers made clean sweeps of their games over Bombers and Commandos in the YM senior lasses' league. Aces and Glengarry's took two points from Corvettes and Hurricanes respectively. Mary Gimblett rolled high three of 724, followed by Joan Alexander with 674, E. Pearcy 648, Betty Pogue 637 and Gladys Pinch 604. Helen Reid hit top single of 269 as M. Mahood had 268, M. Gimblett 265, Thelma Grierson 256, M. Dinsdale 246, E. Pearcy and M. Gimblett each 241 counts. Corvettes had high single effort of 1058 for the evening.

Finals Staged Saturday In Badminton

Local badminton club finals will be played tomorrow night, commencing at 7.30, in the Market Hall. M. Baker meets M. Charlton in ladies' singles, this pair being finalists in the Central Ontario singles at Trenton. M. Baker beat J. Elmsley in semi-finals while M. Charlton won from R. McKee. A. Gonnett and J. Elmsley go in ladies' doubles against M. Charlton and M. Baker, the first duo winning over McKee and Mathias, and the other couple defeating Rose and Vass.

R. Charlton plays V. Taylor in men's singles, the former being last year's champion while Taylor is in finals for the first time, having beaten W. Elmsley as Charlton ousted E. Johnston. In men's doubles, D. McNaught and R. McDonald pulled an upset to eliminate V. O'Donoghue and R Baker, and they now meet E. Johnston and R. Charlton who put out Taylor and Elmsley.

Mixed Doubles

Mixed doubles have the Bakers against the Charltons, the former being champs last year while the Charltons were finalists at Trenton. In consolation ladies' singles, S. Bagnall meets C. McHugh, while W. Graham takes on J Fletcher in men's singles. Men's doubles have Graham and J Downie against R. White and A Conlin. C. McHugh and K. Geale take on K. Messervey and R. Kingan in ladies' doubles, as I. Jones and R. White play either G. Lundy and A. Conlin or M. Elson and R. Duggan in mixed.

Club members are reminded that the annual meeting follows the finals. Former members, prospective ones and the general public are invited to witness these matches and take in the meeting. There is no admission charge to games. Grant Henry, club member and Dominion doubles champ, will umpire some of these matches. The club has enjoyed its best year since before the war.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The curling program for the next few days:

Tonight—Group playoffs continue.

Saturday—2:00 pm., men's bonspiel. 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m., Sturgeon Trophy.

Monday, all day—Kiwanis bonspiel.

Tuesday evening—Vice-skips' bonspiel and Leads and Seconds bonspiel.

The group play-offs got under way last evening and the brand of curling was good. It was easily seen that the practice all winter was having its effect. There were no really one-sided scores.

7:00 o'clock results—T. Ryan won from J. Johnson; R. Best won from F. Stenson; J. Dutton won from F. Green; J. Welsh won from N. Hamley.

In the Granite mixed rink bonspiel yesterday, Dr. R. Clark's rink came through with three wins and play in the finals today. T. Doughty and Dr. McKee were both eliminated. T. Doughty lost two and won one and Dr. McKee lost two straight.

4th Game Senior "B" Playoffs

MARCH 27

MONDAY

Markham Evens Up Series With 4-2 Win Over Legions

Markham Millionaires took a 4-2 win over Legionnaires in Oshawa last night to even up their best-of-seven OHA senior 'B" playdown series at a game apiece. Nearly 2,000 fans—many from Peterborough—saw another close game, with the victors earning the decision. They stage their next one also in Oshawa this Saturday, and the fourth one back here on Monday. The score was 2-0 for Markham in the first and they outscored the Ellis crew 2-1 in the third after Legion got the only goal of the middle chukker. While the referees were lax, they were not one-sided, the eight penalites being evenly divided. Many of the Peterborough fans complained of inefficient refereeing and of the fact that the larger ice surface bothered Legion, but the Legionnaires themselves said afterward that neither was the cause of their defeat—that they lost because they didn't play their best hockey.

A FINE JOB — Goalie Ross Nicholls did a fine job for Legion last night in Oshawa as Markham took a 4-2 win to even up their senior "B" puck series. The Millionaires outplayed the Ellis outfit, but Nicholls was in good form to keep the score down.

Checked Closely

While play generally was fast, it was not a crowd-pleasing game as both sides checked closely and took few chances. Markham were in oftener for close-in shots and Ross Nicholls had a busy evening compared with the winners' goalie. Legion just did not click up to their best form, none of the forwards starring over the whole route. Nicholls was the only Legion member that rated a special mention for his showing on the game. Markham played smart hockey and had a little edge in both the first and third periods.

Perry went off early for interference and later Burns for hooking, this one costing a goal when Ball buzzed in close with Singleton's pass to sink it. Later, Bruce Forgie made it 2-0 from Rumney with a slap shot around defence, owing to some poor covering-up in front by the wings. Clement went over for interference, but Legion did not have their power play clicking last night. It was fast and pretty even toward the end of the initial inning.

Got One Back

Legion pressed hard early in the middle heat, especially when Fred Scott was gated for hooking, but he was back when the visitors finally hit the mark, Bert Hill scoring in a scramble in close, with Coombs and Fryia in on the deal. Play was fast and pretty even in this chapter with plays piling up rapidly on both goalies' doorsteps, and each netter having to hustle to keep the disc out, as the fans roared. Bell and Montgomery roughed it up briefly and drew minors near the finish but nothing happened in their absence during the close-checking frame.

Nicholls made several fine saves early in the third as Markham pressed again. Crowley went over for tripping and it cost another goal, this time Watson from Clement in close. With all back, play was speedy and pretty even, but Markham made it 4-1 when Rumney got around the defence with passes from Baker and Fred Scott and his shot glanced off a skate. Montgomery got right through but missed when Perry held him, the latter drawing a penalty. He was back when Crowley nearly netted one as Legion battled hard. Rochetta finally got one back as he skirted defence fast alone and picked a corner of the cage neatly to make it 4-2. A penalty to Rumney late in the period failed to change the count.

Legion — Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnell, Fryia, Greenlaw, Hill, Coombs, Stewart, D. Mortimer and Montgomery.

Markham — Goal, Stunden; defence, G. Scott and F. Scott; centre, Singleton; wings, Brennan and Bell; altrnates, Stuce, Watson, Jewett, B. Forgie, Rumney, Baker, Clement and Perry.

Referees—P. Allen and K. Holmshaw.

The summary:

First Period

Markham—Bell (Singleton) 13:03

Markham—B. Forgie (Rumney) 15:14

Penalties—Burns, Clement.

Second Period

Legion—Hill (Coombs, Fryia) 10:04

Penalties — F. Scott, Bell, Montgomery.

Third Period

Markham—Watson (Clement) 5:05

Markham—Rumney (Baker, F. Scott) 9:06

Legion—Rochetta 15:06

Penalties— Crowley, Perry, Rochetta.

Over-Confidence Has No Place With Canadiens

By ALBERT HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens aren't taking their second place standing in the National Hockey League too lightly.

Although a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday may put them into the Stanley Cup semi-final round with the weakened New York Rangers, the Canadiens still have two tough games ahead—in Montreal Saturday night against Chicago Black Hawks and in Boston Sunday against the Bruins.

If the Habs can buck those two tail-end teams and clinch second place, then Toronto will be pitted against the rough-and-ready Detroit Red Wings, sitting mightily on top of the league.

This matching of teams would be almost a reversal of the 1949 hockey classic when Montreal lost to Detroit and Toronto downed the fourth-place Bruins. The Leafs then walked off with the Stanley Cup in the final series with Detroit.

But coach Dick Irvin has warned his Canadiens not to take Rangers for granted. With Chuck Rayner, Tony Leswick and Frankie Eddolls resting up, it appears the New Yorkers are getting into shape for playoff time.

"In fact we had better not take the next two games for granted," said Irvin. "The Hawks or Bruins might knock us back into third place."

Cracking Whip

At Toronto, managing director Conn Smythe cracked the whip over the third-place Maple Leafs and ordered two practices a day to prep them for the semi-finals starting next Tuesday.

Aiming for their fourth straight Stanley Cup, the Leafs hope to remedy their past mistakes by a few doses of hard work—and a couple of replacements. Fleming Mackell, up from Pittsburgh of the American League, will replace right-winger Howie Meeker Saturday when Leafs meet Bruins. And goalie Turk Broda may be given a rest with rookie Al Rollins of Pittsburgh subbing in the nets.

None of the eight rookies who performed for the Boston club against Chicago Wednesday night—when Hawks downed Bruins 7-5—will be used against Leafs because of the importance of the game to the Toronto club.

1st Sunday Game In Toronto May 7

TORONTO, March 24—(CP)—If a bill now before the Ontario legislature becomes law and Toronto passes an enabling city by-law, permitting Sunday sport, a double-header between Jersey City Little Giants and Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League on May 7 will be the first of 11 Sunday dates in Toronto for the Leafs this summer.

George Jamieson, secretary of the Toronto Ball Club, said the dates have been arranged by the International League pending approval of Sunday commercial sport in cities that vote favorably in municipal plebiscites. Toronto and Windsor have already held such votes.

The City Parks Committee Thursday recommended that the International League team be given permission to play Sunday baseball and the recommendation now goes before city council.

Nick Weslock Chosen No. 1 Golfer

TORONTO, March 24—(CP)—Nick Weslock, of Windsor, low amateur in last year's Canadian open and winner of the Ontario open, Thursday night was announced as Canada's No. 1 amateur golfer.

The list of national rankings made by Hillis Pickens, of Montreal, publisher of Canadian Sport Magazine, was announced at a rally sponsored by the Ontario Golf Association attended by many leading figures in the golf world. Among others, the rankings are accepted as official by the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association. The Pickens Trophy is the only award in connection with the list.

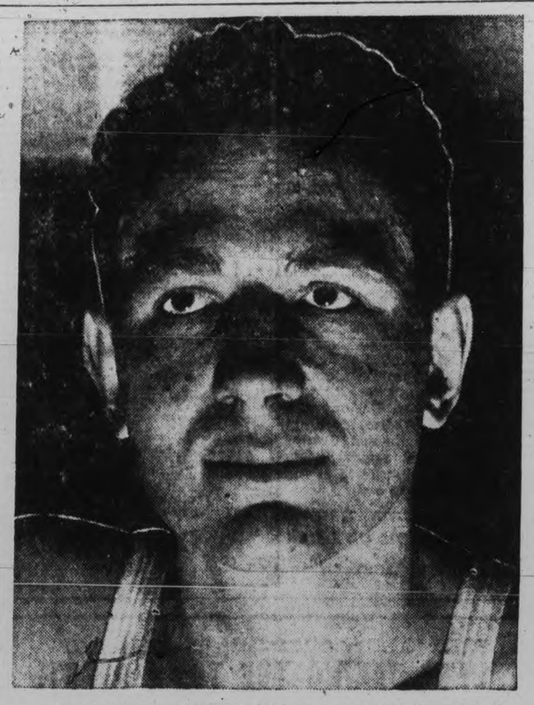
Weslock, a Detroit resident who plays most of his golf out of the Windsor Essex Club, was chosen as Canada's top amateur because of fine showings in two tournaments.

He was low amateur in the Canadian open at the St. George's Club in Toronto last year and won the 1949 Ontario open against one of the strongest fields in the competition's history.

Bill Mawhinney won low medal honors in last year's Willingdon Cup play and placed second in the listings. The Vancouver resident reached the quarter-finals of the Canadian amateur and bowed out at the last hole to Montreal's Tommy Riddell.

Big Ice Fools C's

CAMPBELLFORD, March 24—(ENS)—A crowd of more than 2,000 people watched the Elmira bantam hockey team defeat Campbellford by a score of 15-1 in Waterloo on Wednesday night. There was no ice at Elmira, due to the mild weather, and the game was played in Waterloo on artificial ice. The Campbellford boys had never played on artificial ice before and this, coupled with the fact that they were somewhat stage-struck by the huge crowd in a large arena, and an ice surface much larger than their own, probably accounts to a great extent for the beating.



Elmira have been champions of the OMHA for the past two years, and ran that into a three-year straight championship by their win on Wednesday night. The championship cup was presented to the captain of the Elmira team, J. Totzke, by the vice-president of the OMHA and a representative of the same association from Galt. Glen Wilson, captain of the Campbellford squad, shook hands with the winning captain and congratulated him on behalf of the Campbellford team.

This is the first year the Campbellford team has been in organized hockey, and although they did not capture the Ontario championship, they can be proud of the fact that they did reach the finals, and were successful in all but their last game. The Elmira team had more difficulty in turning back the Campbellford team, than any other team in the last three championships. The two were quite evenly matched, and the 15-1 score does not indicate the play fairly. Had the home town boys been used to the artificial ice surface, it would have been a different story. They went to Elmira with a lead in goals on the round.

The lone Campbellford tally came about half way through the third period, when the Wilson, Field, Dooher line combined on a clever play that outwitted the Elmira defence, and completely fooled the goalie.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Professional Golfers' Association of America Thursday reinstated Bobby Locke, British open champion banned by the PGA since dodging several American tournaments last July.

Locke now may compete in PGA-sponsored tournaments, effective April 15.

The return of the knickerwearing sharp shooter from South Africa to United States competition was approved by a vote of the PGA's 12-man executive committee at Chicago.

The reinstatement was announced by the PGA president, Joe Novak. He said the action followed receipt of a letter from Locke in which he applied for reinstatement and apologized for the dodging.

Canada's World Amateur Hockey champions, Edmonton Mercurys, Thursday night at London were given a reception at Canada House, and J. A. Christenson's cup overflowed when Canada's governor-general dropped in.

"Wasn't that nice, isn't it grand," said the Edmonton business man who backs the club when Viscount Alexander came in to congratulate the team on their clean sweep of the tournament and on recapturing the world title for Canada.

Viscount Alexander spoke briefly to each player and tentatively invited the club to Rideau Hall in Ottawa early next month.

The Mercuries sail from Liverpool March 29. If the Governor-General, on a private visit to Britain, is home in time for the team to break their journey at Ottawa, he plans to receive them at his official residence April 5 or 6.

Horses from seven Canadian provinces and seven American States have been named for the $15,000 Canadian cup and the $6,000 Maple Leaf cup in harness races to be run next summer at Toronto's new Thorncliffe raceway.

The entries are for the major stake races during the raceway's 42 nights of racing, scheduled to start July 3.

Nominations will not be complete for several days. Under the rules of horse-racing, the association must accept any entries postmarked before noon, March 22. As entries still are on the way here from points in western Canada and the United States, the lists will remain open until all the letters have been examined.

Members of the Commons at Ottawa Thursday applauded the feat of Edmonton Mercuries on Wednesday in winning the world hockey championship.

A. F. Macdonald (L-Edmonton East), rose on a question of privilege at the House opening to pay tribute to the Mercuries, western Canada Intermediate champions last year.

Amid applause he said the team had regained the world hockey championship for Canada without suffering a single defeat.

Big Jim Thorpe returned on Thursday to professional sports in another step of his "make a million" campaign.

The almost-legendary Sac and Fox tribe Indian, who was named the greatest male athlete of the half-century in an Associated Press poll of United States sports experts entered the pro wrestling world as a manager.

Matchmaker Ed Don George of the Buffalo Upstate Athletic Club announced that Thorpe had approved a three-month contract as manager and second for Sunny War Cloud, a 24-year-old Indian wrestler.

World champion Dick Button wasn't up to par Thursday, but he piled up a substantial lead at the midway mark in the United States figure-skating championships at Washington.

The 20-year-old Harvard sophomore scored 942.1 points out of a possible 1,050 in the compulsory school figures. Button, four times national champ and two-time world titlist, was 50 points under his expected showing.

However, the Englewood, N. J., star possessed a comfortable lead over the rest of the field after this first-half performance. Hayes Jenkins of Akron, Ohio, was second with 881.7.

Reds Whip Indians

By The Canadian Press

Providence Reds and Indianapolis Capitals Thursday night moved into the semi-finals of the American Hockey League playoffs in straight games. The Reds whipped Springfield Indians 6-4 while Indianapolis rallied in the third period to knock out St. Louis Flyers 3-1. In the opening games last Tuesday of the best-of-three "B" series, Caps beat Flyers 7-1 and Providence whipped the Indians 6-4.

Refuses To Play

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 24 (AP)—Hazel Scott, Negro pianist, refused to play before a segregated Negro-white audience at the University of North Carolina here Thursday night. However, she went on with her concert when the auditorium was cleared of all but university students. It was the second of two Scott appearances at the university. Wednesday night she played before a segregated audience. But afterward she said she did not know Negroes were seated in a separate section because she had arrived late.

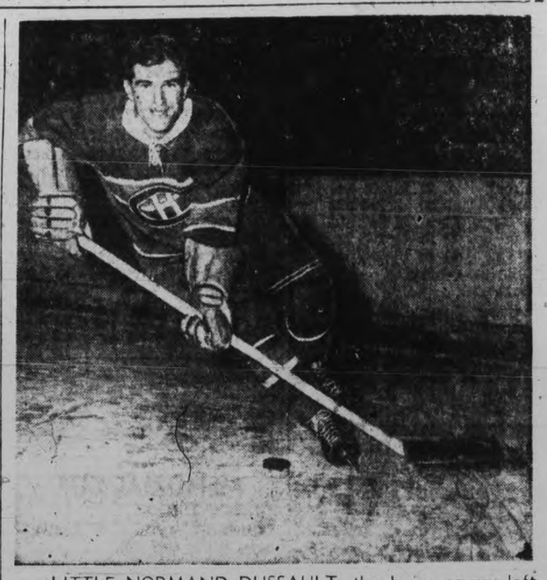
Not Taxing Gains

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP) — Revenue Minister, McCann told the Commons Thursday his department is not collecting taxes on capital gains. He was replying to Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) who asked the minister "if the officers of his department, in collecting capital gains, are acting on the instructions of the department."

Say Freebooter Aintree Favorite On Saturday

AINTREE, England, March 24 (CP)—The vanguard of an expected 100,000-plus crowd had already gathered in this town today to attend Saturday's renewal of the Grand National steeplechase, toughest race in the world and expected to be tougher than ever this year.

Aintree's fearsome 30 fences that the field has to clear on the four-mile and 856-yard run have been rebuilt. Even the world-famous, treacherous Beecher's Brook is a stiffer jump than last year.



The rebuilt bridges already have taken their toll during the race meet here. Of 30 horses that started in two steeplechase events on the opening day of the four-day meeting, only five completed the course without a spill. At that rate, only about nine of the field of approximately 50 which will face the barrier Saturday can be expected to complete the course.

That makes picking a winner of the big race—on which the Irish Hospitaly Sweepstakes are decided—about as easy as predicting the winner of the next British election.

The favorite now is Freebooter, a 15-2 shot and twice a winner over the track. But a flood of late money has shown on Princess Elizabeth's Monaveen, and has cut the odds on the royal steed to 100-9. Some bookmakers expected Monaveen to be a favorite by post time.

C. R. Sadler Dies

LOS ANGELES, March 24 (CP)—Charles Robert Sadler, 75, an actor, whose movie experience went back nearly 40 years, died Thursday. In keeping with his wish, his body was turned over to a hospital for research. It was Sadler who posed for Norman Rockwell's painting "The Old Swiss Watchmaker."

LITTLE NORMAND DUSSAULT, the hurry scurry left wing on the revised Canadien Punch Line, came up with the goal that may have clinched second place for Canucks against Leafs in the NHL race. Dussault scored in the last 61 seconds of play breaking the 1-1 deadlock in the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto.

Roseneath Victors

ROSENEATH, March 24 (ENS)—Lillian Bigwin, left winger of Roseneath girls' hockey team scored six goals when Roseneath defeated Grafton girls 10-3 at Roseneath on Wednesday evening. Special credit is also due Joy Parker, playing defense for Roseneath. Scorers were Lillian Bigwin 6, Eleanor Brown 2, Carolyn Marsden 1, Elgin Marsden 1. Grafton goals were scored by Pat Kernaghan 2, Kathleen Lawless 1.

Roseneath—Goal, Doris Robins; forwards, Elgie Marsden, Carolyn Marsden, Lillian Bigwin; defense, Joy Parker, Eleanor Brown; alternates, June Linton, and Donna Pringle.

Grafton—Goal, Kathleen Lawless; forwards, Patricia Kernaghan, Florian Lawless, Jean Wiley; defense, Shirley Johnston, Barbara Beatty; alternates, Ruth Bates, Margaret Drumm, Ann Heenan.

Rule Tax Authorities Exceeded Their Authority, Grant Appeal

OTTAWA, March 24 —(CP)— The income tax appeal board Thursday allowed appeal of an 85-year-old Toronto widow against a $434 tax assessment and criticized the revenue minister and his officials for exceeding their authority in certain cases.

The judgment, signed by W. S. Fisher and counter-signed by Fabio Monet, board members, declared that Mrs. John F. Brown of St. Clair Ave. W., did not have to pay the tax, charged against her by the revenue department in 1946.

The case grew out of a legacy left by her husband, John Franklin Brown, made up of income from a number of houses in Toronto.

Checking this legacy, the department estimated that in 1946 Mrs. Brown had an income from estate of $12,444, on which $10,306 was allowed for depreciation, leaving a net taxable income of $2,138.

However, in reviewing the estimate, the board found actually the estate had no income in that year after all depreciation and interest had been deducted.

The board further found that, although a payment of $5,100 had been made to Mrs. Brown that year, the money actually came from the estate's capital and not from income.

"Further," said the judgement, "the Crown did not challenge the fact that the trustee... had claimed depreciation in conection with the rented buildings (part of the estate) and that, no doubt, a depreciation account was set up in the estate books to take care of this item."

Mr. Fisher declared he has yet to find a case where the revenue minister or his officials can order a trustee to pay a legacy from some particular source.

"Indeed, I would be surprised if any one could find such a case, as it would mean that the functions or duties of an executor to administer an estate could be usurped by the revenue minister or his officials under some power which they presumed they had."

Mrs. Brown's husband died 20 years ago. He was owner of Brown's Brass Rolling Mills in New Toronto which is now incorporated in the Anaconda mills there.

Public Accountants Will Be Licensed

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — Ontario public accountants will be licensed by a bill introduced Thursday in the Legislature.

Licences will be issued by a public accountants council, made up of 15 members, eight named by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, five by the Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario and two to be elected by Public Accountants who are not members of either body.

Exempt from the provisions of the Act are public accountants employed by any public authority or a bank, loan company or a transportation company incorporated under federal legislation.

Reagan Answers Hitchcock Tongue Lashing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 24 — (CP) —Ronald Regan, hardy defender of the acting craft, today aimed a left jab at Alfred Hitchcock and a right cross at Senator Edwin Johnson.

Director Hitchcock became the target when he remarked Thursday that "actors are really children," living partly in a make-believe world. That, he declared, is why they get into headlined scrapes.

Regan, president of the Screen Actors Guild and an extremely vocal gent, made this reply:

"I agree that the Taaingsa ? ?

"I agree with Mr. Hitchcock that stars are over-publicized. But this is not a publicity we seek and we would be happier without it.

Work A "Drain"

"I agree that the nature of our work— dealing in simulated emotions— does have an effect on us. You can't come home after spending the day portraying grief, rage or insane fear and not be emotionally drained.

"I agree that we are such children that we have managed to create and run an organization (the S. A. G.) that is second to none in its contribution to the motion picture industry.

"I agree that we are such children that every year we gladly participate in government bond drives even though we are discriminated against tax-wise as is no other group.

Hits Johnson

Regan's blows were not so gentle when aimed at the Democratic senator from Colorado who has proposed federal licensing of films and actors to curb "immorality and lewdness" in the movies.

"Senator Johnson's immunity on the senate floor does not grant him immunity from being a gentleman," said Regan. "I believe he put over a cheap political trick to get his name in the papers in an election year."

Hanger-on

He said Hollywood has "the same camp followers of any Boom Town. They are the fringe of cafe society, the ones who get their names in the headliness."

"But the senator will find that most of Hollywood gets up early, works hard and goes to bed early."

African Chieftain Pays Last Visit To Kingdom

LONDON, March 24 (CP) — African Chieftain Seretse Khama left London Thursday night for a short visit to his kingdom before a five-year exile is imposed by the British government.

Seretse, who is fighting to keep his throne with his white queen, a former London typist, motored to a Southampton suburb on the first leg of his journey. He continues his trip today by flying boat.

Seretse was barred from the chieftainship of the Bamangwato tribe, in the British protectorate of Bechuanaland, on the ground his rule might cause unrest and dissension in his country.

The respite before his banishment was granted to permit Seretse to gather evidence for a lawsuit and to be with his wife, the former Ruth Williams, for the birth of the baby they expect next summer.

Tell Labor Leaders To Strive For Peace

HULL, Que., March 24 (CP) — Labor leaders in the Canadian paper industry were told Thursday that they should strive for "peace and harmony" with employers.

Chester Jordan, president of the Quebec and Eastern Canada Council of Paper Mill Unions, told delegates attending the 16th annual council convention Thursday that "an upset in the industry would mean a rupture in the Canadian economic structure."

The industry, he told more than 90 convention delegates, has the largest capital investment, largest employment and wage figure and brings the most American dollars into Canada of any industry in the country.

"It is the responsibility of this convention to establish a program to be submitted to manufacturers in negotiation that will bring peace and harmony throughout the ensuing year in the industry."

Bees Mighty Choosy Of Work Conditions

VANCOUVER,—(CP)— British Columbia farm experts got a few important tips recently on how to handle that energetic but independent hired man—the bee.

"I won't attempt to explain the theories of the honey-bee," H. A McMahon of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Saskatoon, Sask., told a conference of B. C. Agronomists here. "He has too high a form of civilization.

Mr. McMahon did, however, explain how to cope with the idiosyncrasies of the bee.

A honey-bee won't go near alfalfa if there is clover near; the bumble-bee will go for both and the leaf-cutter bee prefers alfalfa.

So if there are only honey-bees in the area, a grower wanting a heavy set of alfalfa pollinated by bees should see there is no clover nearby to distract them.

Bees are also averse to working the inner areas of fields, and Mr McMahon suggests that clover and alfalfa fields should be not more than 10 rods wide, to get maximum pollination by the bees.

Named Consultant

SMITHS FALLS, March 24 — (CP)—Harry D. Callan, president of the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, said Thursday that he has accepted a position as municipal industrial promotion consultant in the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. Mr. Callan is proprietor of an electrical equipment firm here He expects to take up residence in Toronto shortly.

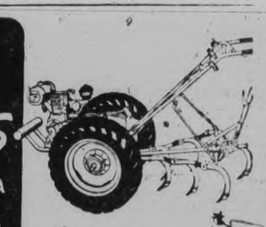
Toronto's Subway To End Bottleneck

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP) — Toronto's new subway, when completed in 1953, will eliminate one of the worst traffic bottlenecks on the North American continent.

H. W. Tate, assistant general manager of the Toronto Transportation Commission, Thursday said in an address before the Engineering Institute of Canada that the subway will turn Toronto's Yonge Street from an avenue of delays into a stream of fast-moving vehicles.

Street cars will be eliminated, giving up the road to buses and motor cars. The subway will be able to carry a maximum of 40,000 passengers one way.

30 Airmen Die In Four Crashes



A series of widely separated military plane crashes Thursday left a total of 30 airmen dead or missing.

Two United States Air Force planes, one a huge B-50, crashed within a few hours of each other. The B-50 blew up in mid-air over the Arizona desert, killing 12 of its crew. Two others bailed out. At Rome, N. Y., a C-47 transport crashed and burst into flames during a driving snowstorm, killing a captain and injuring four others of the crew.

Six men died in the third fatal air crash in Britain three days when an RAF twin-engined Anson trainer nose-dived into a field in Buckinghamshire.

In South America, land, sea and air forces were searching for an Argentine navy plane which disappeared with 11 on board on a flight in the remote area of Tierra Del Fuego, near Cape Horn.

SON SAVES FATHER IN STORMY BAY OF FUNDY

Charles Ferguson, of Lorneville, N.B., gets dad to shore despite sleet storm and five-foot waves

1. The two men had set out in a tender to reach their fishing motorboat, anchored about 75 yards off the rocky Bay of Fundy coast. It was a wild winter night and both men wore heavy clothing and hip-length rubber boots to protect them from the sleet and high wind.

2. About 100 feet out the boat was swamped by the giant waves and both men were thrown into the icy water. The elder Ferguson could not swim and Charles, 24, had to swim with one arm, holding his father with the other. The young man was able to kick off his boots, but the heavy clothing and 5-foot waves made progress slow.

3. Numbed and exhausted, Charles finally got his father to shallow water . . . rolled him over to remove the water-soaked coat and dragged him out of danger. For his courageous, almost super-human effort, we are indeed proud to present Charles Ferguson with THE DOW AWARD.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Sunderland Man Has Pistol Used In Battle Of Waterloo

SUNDERLAND, March 24—William T. Bagshaw, of Sunderland has in his possession a muzzle loading horse pistol, which his great-grandfather, William Bagshaw brought to Brock Township, when he emigrated from England to Canada on April 9, 1817. This unique weapon was used by his grandsire in the Battle of Waterloo, where he was enlisted in the British Cavalry.

This pistol, upon examination proves to be a firearm of the finest workmanship and materials. The gun is approximately 10 inches in length; the barrel has six revolving type chambers made of the best and most excellent steel of that early date. It's stock is made of the choicest of red woods overlaid with silver platings, beautifully engraved and carrying the inscription "J. R. Cooper's patent." The whole pistol is a model which speaks of the excellent materials and craftsmanship in which the world's workers vied at that date of long ago.

The present Wm. Bagshaw, of Sunderland, says "My great-grandfather carried this pistol as he rode in the Battle of Waterloo in which the English fought against Napoleon Bonaparte, and out of which my grandfather was fortunate to emerge alive.

Mr. Bagshaw explained that each of the revolving six chambers in the barrel of the gun had to be muzzle-loaded with gun powder and wadding, which was sealed with a bullet at the gun's point and cap at the trigger end. Thus six bullets could be fired without re-loading. The pistol has been passed on as a family heirloom from its first possessor to his descendants in the succeeding generation who bore his name William, thus, it has been passed to the present William T. Bagshaw, from his father, William Bagshaw, who in turn inherited it from his father, who was William Bagshaw, son of the earliest Bagshaw pioneer.

Family Record

It is interesting to note from entries made in an old family Bible which Mr. W. T. Bagshaw now of Sunderland, has in his possession and which was presented to his great-grandfather's mother, in November 5th, 1757, that his great grandsire was born February 13, 1783 in the Parish of Allstone, Field County Staffordshire, England. He emigrated to Canada on April 9, 1817, and became Squire Bagshaw and Justice of the Peace, marrying, burying, surveying farms and settling disputes.

He was also the first postmaster of Brock. His wife, the former Sarah Bolton, who was born on June 29, 1786 at Horham, Suffolk, England, did not emigrate to Canada until two years after her husband. During the wait in England between 1817 and 1819 she went in mourning as his letters had gone astray and she thought him dead. However, finally a letter was received by her saying that her husband had 200 acres of good land in Canada in Brock Township, County of Ontario.

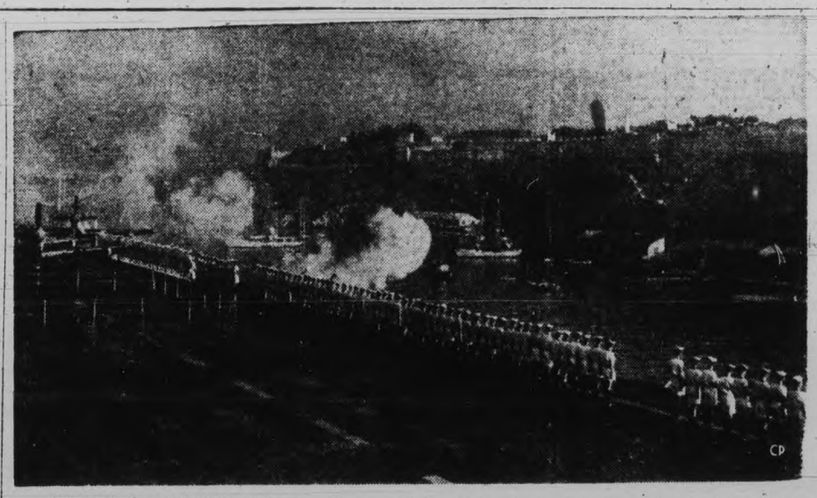
Sailed With 8 Children

Accordingly she set sail for Canada on Easter Sunday, April 18, 1819, with her eight children. It took 11 weeks and three days to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a sailing vessel. On account of a broken leg, her husband, William Bagshaw, did not meet her at York, now Toronto, so with the children, she walked some 45 miles to Quaker Hill, near Uxbridge, where they stayed three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Bagshaw and family, thus reunited, were building their shanty, on Lot five, concession 9, Brock on Christmas Day, 1819. Here, with courage, prudence and toil, these pioneers laid the foundation of the present Bagshaw family, which spreads over a wide territory in North America today, their own family increasing to 17 children, of whom 14 lived a long life.

It was from here the Bagshaw family had to travel, on foot at first, later by ox cart, through the blazed forest wilderness, or later over the corduroy roads made by laying logs side by side and covered with earth, to Whitby or Toronto, some 55-60 miles, to buy and sell such products as grain. Their house was small and built of logs, the chinks being filled with wood and mortar, made from burnt limestone. The roof was made of basswood troughs. After a time glass was carried some 60 miles from Toronto for one window.

The furniture was home made with a ladder to reach the upstairs room. The fireplace was large enough to take a "backlog", then another log was rolled to it and the split wood piled above and the fire was lit. The family gathered around the fireplace at night and told stories, the father and young men smoking, while the women and girls spun wool into yarn. Books and newspapers were very scarce and precious.



The second home of the Bagshaw family was built in 1830 on the same site as the former one out of round hewn logs. It was a large substantial building, and the home of the present Mr. Bagshaw's grandfather. In 1890 it was torn down and in its place a splendid stone house was erected by William Bagshaw, father of the present Mr. Bagshaw. This fine residence with its excellent materials and beautiful architecture still stands today, a noble heritage for succeeding generations.

Today it is the residence of Mr G. H. Bagshaw, who holds the original deed of the land from the crown, and who is a brother of William T. Bagshaw.

Mr Bagshaw spent the first 27 years of his life on this fertile 200-acre farm in Brock, until his marriage to Miss Mary Glendenning 46 years ago. At that date, in 1903, he bought the Samuel Shier property which is known as Lot 5, concession 5 Brock and called Clear Spring Farm. In 1914 he replaced the frame house with a splendid red brick house which stands there today.

Canadians Warned About Complacency

KIRKLAND LAKE, March 24—(CP)—The president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Thursday night told Canadians not to feel too complacent about their present high standard of living.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Kirkland Lake district Board of Trade, Mr. R. A. Bryce said "If we believe that we can now rest on our laurels and just let wealth pour into our pockets we are sadly mistaken."

"We must constantly battle to make certain the factors that have made possible our development to date are not changed or removed.

"We must not forget we are primarily a trading nation and as such we must keep our fingers on the pulse of international affairs. Conditions elsewhere in the world are not remote from us in Canada."

East End London Shopkeepers Would End "Petticoat Lane"

By JOHN CARLOVA

LONDON, March 27 (Reuters)—Shopkeepers in London's east end are pressing local authorities to abolish "Petticoat Lane."

Contrary to its name, Petticoat Lane — a narrow quarter-mile stretch officially called Middlesex Street—is one of the most rowdy and raucous marketplaces in the world.

The story is told of the man who had his watch stolen as he entered one end of the lane, then had it sold back to him before he could get out the other end.

Milling thousands of bargain-hunters throng the market-place every Sunday morning. Pushing and shoving, they jostle each other about the long lines of stalls and barrows.

Dealers in the lane handle everything from puppies to pot-holders, from herrings to hat-racks and from jeeps to jewels. One section is devoted entirely to animals and pets, another to fish and smoked eels—a delicacy of the surrounding working-class district.

Redouble Efforts

Established shopkeepers in the area—badly blitzed during the war—have long sought to have the market condemned or cleaned up. Lately, as rebuilt sections of the area have risen from the ruins, they have doubled their efforts.

Chief complaint against the market is the claim that it provides a dumping ground for stolen and smuggled goods.

Secondary complaint of the shopkeepers is that the market will "lower the tone" of the rebuilt area.

People who live in the district—mainly garment workers—laugh at this possibility. No amount of rebuilding they say, can ever make the lane "posh." they recall that it was once called "Hong Lane," the setting for some of the more squalid scenes in "Forever Amber."

Later it became known as Petticoat Lane because of the number of women in the district who ran out to shops and taverns in their petticoats.

Newspaper Guild Applies To Board

TORONTO, March 24—(CP)—Application has been made to the Canada Labor Relations Board by the American Newspaper Guild for certification as bargaining agent for editorial employees of Press News Limited, subsidiary of The Canadian Press.

Announcement of the application was made Thursday by Charles E. Crissey, international representative of the ANG.

The application followed decision of the Labor Board to take a vote of Canadian Press editorial employees as to whether they want the guild as bargaining agent.

Spring Romances Thrill Bird Enthusiast

TORONTO, —(CP)— When it comes to making love, Hollywood Lotharios could learn plenty from watching the birds in the backyard of Samuel S. Ireland. Mr. Ireland is a bird watcher and he knows.

For years he has made a hobby of feeding and watching the feathered folk that frequent his yard, and he says there is interest in every scene.

"Their romance of early spring is something to look at," he said. "No female ever got better attention from her sweetie than the cardinal. The male even puts the food in her mouth."

Mr. Ireland, who came to Canada from England 42 years ago, has been studying birds at his home near the Humber River in west-end Toronto, for more than seven years.

His first attempts to feed them were frustrated by squirrels that invaded the feeding troughs and stole food. But Mr. Ireland, who is also interested in animals, didn't declare war on the squirrels. Instead he outsmarted them by building troughs they couldn't raid. Then he built feeding accommodation for his furry-tailed friends. He finds them almost as interesting as the birds, though somewhat more greedy.

He saw one squirrel fill itself so full of cherries that when it tried to run away it tripped over the stems protruding from its mouth.

Chickadees are the favorite birds that visit his garden.

"They're cute and tiny and come right up to your hand," Mrs. Ireland said.

But all varieties of feathered wildlife are welcome. So far this year grosbeaks, blue-jays, pheasants, cardinals, sparrows and starlings have visited the feeding grounds. Later in the year blue indigos, red-wing black birds and cow birds will appear.

Although flocks of birds share the Ireland hospitality outside, only one is allowed indoors. He is Dick their pet canary.

Scottish Dentist Makes £18,000 In Six Months

LONDON, March 24 (Reuters)—Somewhere in Scotland there is a dentist who made £18,000 in six months under Britain's national health scheme.

This was disclosed Thursday in the annual report of Sir Frank Tribe, Comptroller and Auditor-General. The dentist remains anonymous—which may be just as well, considering the effect this financial aftermath of the free treatment might have on the Scots taxpayer.

The dentist, who employed one assistant, treated nearly 3,000 patients between July 5, 1948, when the scheme began, and the end of that year. The Dental Estimates Board authorized payment for this period of £18,000. A few of his cases were investigated, and his money was cut—by £250.

It was decided in future he should submit prior estimates for treatment except examination or emergency work.

Get Too Much

It was disclosed, that 59 per cent of the dentists under the health scheme in England, Wales and Scotland were earning more than was intended.

The receiving gross incomes from the service exceeding £600 a year totalled 1,300. Fees have been cut by 20 per cent, but recent Scottish figures show that many dentists are still getting money at much higher rates than the scheme intended.

Seven of the Scots were paid more than £12,000 a year.

Sir Frank Tribe's investigations show also that large sums were being spent on medicines and drugs of doubtful value or unnecessarily expensive.

Health Minister Aneurin Bevan is considering cuts in the cost of the health service. Originally estimated to cost £167,000,000 in the current financial year, the cost will be about £450,000,000.

Farmers Agree Organization Helps Prices Up

NORWOOD, March 24 (ENS)—Trent River West Farm Forum agreed Monday that farmers' organizations have been of immense value in their struggle for adequate prices for their produce.

Debating whether there were too many organizations in some rural districts, some thought there was too much overlapping and that, for example, all dairy organizations might be grouped together. Some farmers belonged to too many clubs and a few held office in three or four.

The organizations were top heavy with too many reports required at head offices in Toronto. These took up time that could be spent to much better advantage discussing vital problems of prices, marketing, etc.

In this connection, it was said that rural school teachers were seriously handicapped by the multiplicity of reports demanded by the Department of Education in Toronto and the farm organizations should protest against this injustice.

Want Own Machinery

This group was gratified with the findings of all the Ontario Forums last week regarding the co-operative use of farm machinery. Farmers should have sufficient income to buy the necessary machinery to sow and harvest their crops at the right time, it was felt.

The Forum commented on the government recommendation that a board of 12 members control the agricultural and affiliated colleges of Ontario. It disagreed with the suggestion that only five of these members be chosen from the Federation of Agricult ure and thought the number should be raised to eight.

It was pointed out that comparatively few graduates of OAC and of the Veterinary College return to farms and should therefore have smaller representation on the board. The Women's Institute was not wholly a farm organization and should not have a member on the board.

A secretary and committee were appointed to look after the beginning of the Forum next fall. After a recreation period, the hostess served lunch.

Lions Club In Millbrook: Allot Funds For Baseball, Town Hall, Etc.

MILLBROOK, March 24 (ENS)—Plans to give financial support to a number of projects in the community were made by the Lions Monday when they met in the waiting room.

The sum of $275 was voted for use of the baseball club, of which $75 was for seats in the agricultural grounds for spectators and the remaining $200 was for uniforms.

The second project was the renovation of the auditorium in the Town Hall for which $500 was voted.

The Lions plan to put in a hardwood floor, to renovate the stage, remove the old balcony and to paint the walls and ceilings. The $500 is to cover the cost of materials only. The labor is being donated.

The property held in trust for the Lions Club is to be turned over for the sum of $100 to Millbrook and Cavan committee as a site for the proposed community rink.

One hundred dollars was also voted for two needy cases where there has been illness.

Jack Allen was voted a director to replace Harold Bigelow who moved to Port Hope recently.

On Saturday night, the Lions will hold a bingo in the interests of the local Orange Lodge.

G. A. Spicer, the president, was in the chair at the meeting. At its conclusion the Lions were hosts to the Lady Lions Club when a film of the International Lions Club convention held last July in New York City to which the local club had sent delegates, was shown. Refreshments were served.

Montreal School For Ballet Wins Praise

By ALBERT HUNTER

MONTREAL, March 24 (CP)—Eleanor Moore Ashton, a vivacious, wide-eyed brunette with a flair for the artistic, is doing her utmost to foster a home-grown Canadian ballet.

For five years she has been developing the project system of teaching, believed unique in ballet, and now directs four projects with 500 young pupils and six student-teachers.

"It's an ideal way to build a solid foundation for a future Canadian ballet," the 31-year-old mother of a dancing daughter said in an interview.

"We don't pretend to compete with recognized professional companies," she added, "but we are establishing some uniformity in teaching and dancing methods."

2 Brilliant Dancers

One of her most brilliant students, 12-year-old Margaret Mercier, was accepted by Britain's outstanding Sadler's Wells Company during its recent North American visit. Another budding ballerina, Vanda Intini, now 11, will audition for the company on its next visit to Canada.

The project — all in suburban Montreal cities—are divided into classes of 20: for "babies" under six years, and for older children, largely between the ages of eight and 12.

Promising students then enter the "junior ballet," a quasi-scholarship group which receives additional training besides that which they get in their own project. Finally, there is the Montrea, ballet—for the more accomplished dancers—which will give its first major public performance here April 17-18.

Splendid Idea

The project system has received high praise from Harold Turner, one of Sadler's Wells', leading male dancers. In a recent letter to the Montreal ballet, he said "the whole idea . . struck me as being a really sincere attempt to establish a real school of classical ballet. . ."

Of the energetic Montreal-born ballet teacher, he said:

"Eleanor Moore Ashton impressed me with her genuine love for the ballet, but what amazed me even more, was her knowledge of the technical aspect of the art."

Beaverbook Nearly Went Into Car Business In '20s

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, March 24—(CP)—Lord Beaverbrook might have switched his business genius from newspaper publishing to the automobile field had the Rolls-Royce Company heeded his advice to go into mass production. A disclosure that shortly after the First World War the Canadian financier briefly held control of the concern is made in "The Magic of a Name," the story of the stately car whose name is synonomous with wealth.

"The Beaver" argued the merits of Henry Ford's methods as against the painstaking ways of Rolls-Royce craftsmen. But he soon gave up the fight.

"The magic of a name" is by Harold Nockolds, motoring correspondent of The Times. It sketches the history of Rolls-Royce from 1904, when a one-time London newspaper boy Henry Royce, built his first car.

This is how Nockolds tells of Lord Beaverbrook's brief connection with the firm:

"An incident which might have drastically changed the very nature of the company occurred behind the closed door of the board room at Conduit Street; no whisper of it leaked out.

Gained Control

"This was none other than the acquisition of the financial controls of the company for a short time by Lord Beaverbrook.

"Unlike Lord Northcliffe, who acquired a similar British institution in the Times, and was content to let that newspaper remain unchanged in character, Lord Beaverbrook immediately urged the directors to abandon their hand-made methods of construction and employ the mass-production he had seen used with such success in the United States by Henry Ford and others.

"This suggestion was firmly rejected by the board with such convincing arguments 'the Beaver' realized he was wasting his time trying to press the change, for he had the greatest respect for the business acumen of the directors.

Made Improvements

"Before he gave up his control, he nevertheless did much to improve the internal organization of the company."

Nockolds discloses that in 1940 after the fall of France, a complete set of 20,000 drawings of the Rolls-Royce Merlin Aircraft engine was sent across the Atlantic in a warship to ensure the design would not be lost were a German invasion of Britain successful.

As Minister of Aircraft Production, Lord Beaverbrook arranged for the Ford Motor Company to produce Merlin engines in Detroit. But the late Henry Ford later backed out of the agreement and the contract was taken over by the Packard Company.

Anti-Submarine Boom Cleared From Thames

LONDON. — (CP) — A two-mile long section of the six-mile anti-submarine boom which stretched across the Thames Estuary from Shoebury to the Kent coast during the war, is being demolished.

The Admiralty decided to remove the remaining boom section following protests from fishermen and pilots that it interfered with shipping traffic in the Estuary.

During the war ships wanting to enter or leave the Thames River had to "ask for the gate." It was operated by two boom vessels which were often attacked by German planes. The floating section of the boom was removed at the end of the war but the fixed section, jutting into the Estuary from Shoebury, remained.

Has Baby At School

RIVERHEAD, N.Y., March 24 (AP) — A 15-year-old (Negro) girl, alone and unattended, gave birth to a baby in a school room during recess Tuesday at Riverhead junior high school, police disclosed Wednesday. Then, panicky she carried the infant out into the school yard and abandoned it under some trees in the midst of a snow flurry, the officers said. The event was not discovered for nearly half an hour. Mother and child were rushed to hospital where both are reported "doing nicely."

Electric Glass Provides Uniform Heat

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CORNING, N. Y.—(CP)—A new glass is a transparent stove that heats air or boils water for coffee. All you do is push a switch to feed electric current into the glass.

The glass has a transparent skin that conducts electricity, but resists enough to make the glass hot, up to 660 degrees Fahrenheit. The skin is a metallic oxide only about 16 - millionths - of - an inch thick.

This bit of glass magic is the latest development of Corning Glass Works. It is called E-C glass, meaning electrically conducting.

Heaters made of flat panels of this glass are being used to keep baby chicks warm in brooders, to dry textile yarns and dry the lacquer on plastic playing cards. These are the first field tests of the new glass, Corning said.

A coffee percolator of electric glass is being developed. Within 50 seconds, it starts water perking to make coffee. The coffee maker sits on a plastic base. Two electrodes carry the current to the electric skin coating the bottom of the coffee maker.

Good For Windshields

You might also have wall panels of electric glass to heat a bathroom. The glass is being used for ice-free windshields on the bridge of a ship in Arctic service. It could be used for auto windshields, if auto batteries were changed to supply alternating current.

The glass heaters have a range of temperatures, depending upon the resistance of the film and the power of current used, said Rushmore H. Mariner, director of new products at Corning.

In heaters, the electric glass saves space and gives uniform heat, he said. In the coffee percolator, the skin reflects heat inward to the water for high efficiency.

The glass used is one of the strong, though heat-resistant types used for cooking, and it can be fashioned into any shape. The electric skin is applied to the glass at high temperature. The skin is more resistant to scratching or to chemicals than the glass itself, he said.

The glass heaters have a guaranteed life of 1,000 hours, but are believed to keep working indefinitely, Mariner said.

Canadian Exports Decline $21 Million to Sterling Block

OTTAWA, —(CP)— Canadian's exports to Commonwealth countries, down $21,00,000 in January, are expected by government economists to be lower by $200,000,000 for the calendar year.

This reduction in sales may be offset slightly by increased exports to the United States but a big enough gap is expected to cause serious repercussions in Canadian trade.

The Commonwealth's cut-back in dollar spending is due in part to Sir Stafford Cripps' edict last June that sterling members of the Commonwealth must cut spending in dollar countries, including Canada, by 25 per cent.

Because of commitments, the program was slow to start. This year, say the economists, the 25-per cent reductions likely will blossom to almost full stature.

The main idea behind the reductions is to bolster the Commonwealth pool of dollars, controlled by the British chancellor of the exchequer.

The Commonwealth is implementing the plan to buy less from the dollar countries in various ways.

India, for one, has decided to buy no wheat from Canada and cut down on purchases of Canadian locomotives. She recently completed a barter deal to get the Argentine to supply 300,000 of wheat in return for jute. South Africa has reduced her purchases of Canadian machines and automobiles.

The United Kingdom is buying less foodstuffs from Canada and looks to Denmark t supply eggs and bacon.

Buy In Sterling Areas

Each Commonwealth country seeks sterling area sources of supply to substitute for former sources in the dollar area.

But not all of them have been able to do so. Pakistan, say the economists, likely will ask for an increase in her quota of dollars from the pool to buy more goods from Canada this year than a year ago. Pakistan needs a wide range of heavy industrial goods, particularly such items as armaments and railway equipment.

In all these reshufflings, Canada's exports to the Commonwealth this year are expected to be sharply below the $1,000,000,000 exported last year. The estimate is that it won't be the full amount of the 25 per cent—which would mean a reduction of $250,000,000—but rather a cut of about 20 per cent.

Canada is trying to increase the Commonwealth's dollar earnings by increasing purchases from the sterling countries. This is being done by diverting more dollars from the United States market into Commonwealth countries.

However, the economists believe this will not be sufficient. Dollar loans will be needed, and even though some countries show no anxiety for these loans at the moment, it is expected that once Marshall Plan aid comes to an end in 1952, they will be needed.

At the moment, too, heavy domestic demand for Canadian goods is cushioning the effect of the Commonwealth curtailment.

In January Canada's exports fell $15,800,000 below exports in the month last year. Increases in sales to the United States failed to cover declines in exports to the Commonwealth.

Shipments to the United States were valued at $130,000,000, a boost of $14,000,000 over the $116,000,000 in January last year. Sales to the Commonwealth totalled $62,000,000 down $21,000,000 from last year's $83,000,000.

Adjudicator Amazed At Drama Standard

SAINT JOHN, N. B., March 24 (CP)—British Adjudicator Maxwell Wray said Thursday night he was "amazed" to find that Canada's highest standard of amateur drama is equal to the best in England.

Many Canadian theatrical companies have never seen "a living professional show" whereas those in England see all professional productions, he said at the opening of the New Brunswick Regional Drama Festival.

Mr. Wray, now adjudicating his 10th regional festival across Canada, returns to Toronto following the three-day competition here.

Fishermen Plan Big Drive For Markets

OTTAWA, March 24 — (CP) — Canadian fishermen began marshalling their forces Thursday for an all-out drive to capture a larger share of the domestic and world markets for their products.

Spurred by government undertakings to aid in fisheries research, conservation and marketing, the Fisheries Council of Canada Wednesday placed itself on record as willing to make "a maximum effort" to carry out its share of the responsibilities to attain full and effective use of this country's fish resources.

J. H. MacKichan of Halifax, newly-elected council president announced passage of the council's maximum-effort resolution at a dinner meeting Wednesday night marking the close of the organization's fifth annual two-day meeting.

In closed sessions Wednesday, delegates from Newfoundland to British Columbia heard Stewart Bates, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, outline government plans to set up within a short time a separate fish inspection division.

Work With Industry

Mr. Bates also said the government was ready to work along with the industry in determining what joint efforts could be taken to build up quality fish products for all markets.

M. W. Mackenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, outlined the difficulties of currency exchange in the expansion of trade with other countries.

Sir Leonard Outerbridge, lieutenant-governor of Newfoundland, emphasized the need for provincial and federal aid in the fisheries research field.

It was doubtful, he said, if private capital could find the means to finance erection of modern refrigeration plants, the acquiring of expensive trawlers and draggers and building of by-product plants for fish now required.

Claxton Bill To Consolidate Defence Laws

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton Thursday night introduced in the Commons a resolution to a bill aimed at modernizing and consolidating in one statute all legislation respecting his department and the Canadian armed forces.

The legislation is the same as that introduced and passed by the Senate at the last session. Mr. Claxton began reading a lengthy explanation of legislation but as a result of a series of interruptions he did not complete his statement. He plans to do so today.

In introducing the measure before the Senate last year, Mr. Claxton said the 251-clause act will establish one piece of legislation applicable to all three services.

The provisions, subject to two year's work, included these main points:

1. To include in one statute all existing legislation relating to the defence department and the Canadian forces.

2. To provide a single code of service discipline making soldiers sailors and airmen subject to the same law.

3. To make all legislation applicable to service personnel. Previously the army and air force were regulated by the army and air force acts of the United Kingdom.

4. To provide for right of appeal from the findings and sentences of courts-martial and for a new trial on the discovery of new evidence.

5. To authorize use of active and reserve forces to meet a national disaster, such as a flood.

The bill would also make service justice uniform and make transaction of routine business more efficient and "expeditious."

Two Lawyers Confer On Bergman's Case

HOLLYWOOD, March 24 (AP) —A lawyer's conference, trying to settle the Ingrid Bergman-Peter Lindstrom marital troubles, broke up Thursday without agreement.

Both lawyers agreed they are hopeful of an out-of-court settlement in the interests of the Lindstrom's daughter. Earlier Dr. Lindstrom's set of conditions under which he would agree to a quiet divorce were handed to Greg Bautzer, Miss Bergman's lawyer.

Its terms included:

1. That under no conditions will Pia, 12-year-old child of the surgeon's marriage to the Swedish actress, "ever have contact with (Roberto) Rossellini or in any way come under his domination."

2. That he, Lindstrom, will have custody of the girl and that she will remain with him at all times.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

It was February, 1946. For the first time since the war's beginning, snowshoe clubs of Canada and the U.S. were meeting. Three thousand strong, they gathered at Lewiston, Maine, for the greatest congress in their history.

The stellar event was the traditional 10-mile marathon. In bright toques and blanket coats, Canadians and Americans swept across the course. When times were tallied, Canadians had taken the first three places in the marathon—and had shattered world records in the mile and two-mile events!

Traditionally, Canadians are skillful with snowshoes. Sportsmanship and team spirit keep us first in the field. Together, sportsmanship and team spirit help you, too. They keep your opportunities for work and play in Canada... unlimited.

Higher Standard Of Living Seen From Oil

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

You can cut more hay with a tractor-drawn mowing machine than with a man-wielded scythe.

That is a simple illustration by which a man can see his own power of production increased.

Not so easy to see in a personal way is how the power of a whole country and everyone in it is increased by the creation of power on a giant scale, such the Hydro-Electric developments and the discovery of oil fields.

Nevertheless, economists will tell you that your personal prosperity and standard-of-living is largely governed by the total amount of power in a country divided by the number of people in it.

Face Higher Standards

If that be so, Canadians apparently are headed for a higher standard-of-living.

John R. White, vice-president, Imperial Oil, Ltd., for instance, envisions Western oil sending a surge of activity throughout Canada which is not yet generally foreseen.

Speaking Thursday night at London, to the University of Western Ontario Business Club, he put it this way:

"Personally, I believe that the development of the 'petroleum age' during the last 50 years and the fact that the United States was the scene and origin of the major petroleum developments, had a direct, casual bearing on American living standards.

"Certainly we are accustomed to recognize that Britain's pioneering in steam led to that country's supremacy in the 19th century.

"If the prospect of self-sufficiency in oil for Canada means that it is going to be easier for us to boost our individual productivity to or even past the American level, then there is no reason why we cannot look for comparable standards of living and levels of business activity.

"We can look for a quickening of business, especially in those lines which we are accustomed to class as luxuries. We can look for greater mechanization, more emphasis on special service trades and specialty products. Completely new industries will develop and many occupations which now cater to the 'carriage trade' will find that mass markets have mysteriously opened up for them.

"Those are the sort of developments that history has taught us to look for when new sources of energy are placed at the disposal of a free and industrious people."

Meantime, while Mr. White was discussing energy from oil, the annual report of Canadian Westinghouse Co., Ltd., was pointing out that Canada by the end of this year will have increased her electrical-generating capacity by 20 per cent in four years. From 1946 to the end of 1949 1,300,000 horse power was added and another 800,000 horsepower will be added this year.

Marine Farming May Aid Problem Of World's Food

By CHARLES CROOT

COPENHAGEN, (Reuters)—Denmark is worried about her rights over the continental shelf which she shares with Britain, Belgium, France, Holland and the Baltic countries.

This shelf on which the continent of Europe and Britain stand, stretches far out under the sea from all the coasts of Europe. When it ends, the sea bed dives sharply to depths of several thousand feet. Similar shelves surround all the world's land masses.

Scientists have known of the existence of these submarine plateaux for years but recent investigations have shown that they offer enormous possibilities.

Borings into the Bay of Mexico for example, produced oil. Reports from various parts of the world spoke of the possibility of some sort of marine agriculture which could help to swell the world's supplies.

The question of national rights over parts of the continental shelves was at once raised. Chile started what might become a new "gold rush," with a claim to the ownership of the sea bottom for 200 miles out from the Chilean coasts.

International attempts to settle claims to the sea bed have been temporarily abandoned; but Dr. G. Cohn, head of a Danish government commission set up to investigate Denmark's position, commented:

"These claims are of the utmost importance, for not only the sea bed but also the air above the sea is involved.

"For Denmark, it is a difficult question. Denmark is on the same continental shelf as England, Belgium, France, Holland and the Baltic countries.

From a continental shelf point of view, does Denmark belong to Britain and the other countries belong to us—or what? It is vital to reach agreement with one's neighbors on this point if no international solution can be found.

Command of the continental shelf could also vitally affect the fishing nations of the world. Dr. E. Poulsen of the Danish Biological Institute said:

"Big nations which have not previously done much fishing might claim areas far out into the sea and drive off foreign fishermen. This might have serious consequences to Denmark, in, for example, the Barents Sea."

After expressing a belief that cultivation of the sea bed might in the future play a great part in feeding the world Dr. Poulsen outlined one of the difficulties in sharing out the bed between the nations.

"In a loch in Scotland, for example, nitrate and phosphates were poured into the salt water. The fish grew faster and bigger because the fertilizers improved the growth of sea weed. The tiny shell-fish and such, living off the weed, grew quicker and faster, and the fish who live on the shell fish in turn fared better.

"But, without international control, it will not be possible to do this everywhere. Fertilizer dumped into the sea above the Danish bed, for example, might well drift into the waters above a neighbor's bed and thus benefit the fishing catches of a foreign nation."

Newfoundland Cracks Down Pushes Slum Clearance

By The Canadian Press.

Premier Joseph Smallwood told the Newfoundland Legislature Thursday that he had "unutterable contempt" for the owners of slum dwellings in St. John's and said "we will not stand on ceremony with them."

Speaking in debate on second reading at St. John's of a government bill providing a $3,000,000 slum clearance program for the provincial capital, Premier Smallwood added: "we will take the land—in some cases pay for it and in others get it for nothing—destroy all condemned houses and level the area."

The New Brunswick Legislature expects to receive the government's bill for a consumer tax next Wednesday and there have been unofficial reports it will provide for a four per cent tax on retail sales. The Fredericton Junior Chamber of Commerce and other organizations have announced they will stage a public protest meeting in front of the Legislature buildings at Fredericton next Tuesday.

Would Take Lead

The Nova Scotia Legislature in throne-speech debate Thursday heard CCF leader Russell Cunningham declare that all political parties now are committed to more social services and the "welfare state." He urged Nova Scotia to take the lead by increasing old-age pensions and mothers' allowances and establishing higher minimum-wage levels.

The Prince Edward Island Legislature was on budget debate with Dougald MacKinnon (L-Queens) declaring fishermen in the island province should consider seriously the development of the scallop fishing industry.

Premier Duplessis told the Quebec Legislature that the bill to restrict activities of police and firemen's unions to their own localities was designed "to avoid disaster." It was intended to assure local control over such municipal employees.

Liberal leader George Marler opposed the measure, saying he felt police and firemen were loyal and that the bill would deprive them of strength in their efforts to negotiate working conditions.

Public Works Minister Willis told the Manitoba Legislature that Manitoba expects to start construction of its portion of the Trans-Canada Highway this year.

The Saskatchewan house in budget debate heard Liberal leader Walter Tucker assert that the CCF government had taken credit for some public debt reduction for which it was not responsible. He said the government claimed reduction of $73,000,000 since the CCF came to power in 1944, but that actually the reduction was $66,000,000.

Wrong Addresses Headache For PO

HALIFAX. — (CP) — John Davis of the Halifax Post Office staff has an unusual job. Officially he's known as the head of the directory service. Actually, he's the man who directs—or tries to direct—incorrectly addressed letters.

The Halifax office handles about 300 incorrectly addressed letters daily, he says. To guide the misdirected missives to the correct mail box, Davis has through the years acquired many unusual tools of trade. Among them are telephone directories from every major city in Canada, the Nova Scotia trade and industry index, and books containing the names of every street in Canada.

Last Christmas he had 25,000 incorrectly addressed greetings to handle. Right now the income tax department is causing him a few headaches. Companies are now mailing T-4 wage statements to employees. In many cases the employees have moved on, leaving no forwarding addresses.

But his biggest problem is trying to track down displaced persons. Most of these people from European camps arrive at Halifax, and in many cases the letters are merely addressed to "Halifax", with the writing a scrawl foreign to the Canadian eye.

The merchant marine also causes him trouble. Generally mail for the ship's crew is addressed simply to the ship.

The particular ship may be en route to port, or may have cleared for other harbors. Davis checks up on the ships in port first. Then if he has no luck, he starts calling shipping companies in the city, in the hope of tracking down the vessel's agent. Very few such letters end up in the dead letter office, though some have been known to circle the globe before catching up with the seaman and his ship.

Boston Bill Killed

BOSTON, March 24 (AP) — The Massachusetts House of Representatives changed its mind on Thursday and killed a bill which would have required letters appearing in newspapers to carry the name and address of the writer. Leading the fight against the measure, Representative James L. O'Dea, (Dem., Lowell) argued such a law would possibly lead to reprisals for anyone sending a letter to the editor.

Blame Short-Circuit

MONTREAL, March 24 (CP)—The Chinatown fire of March 2 which claimed eight lives and caused $1,000,000 damage Thursday was blamed on a possible short-circuit. Fire Commissioner Jean St. Germain, who investigated the blaze, reached his judgment in fire commissioner's court after hearing evidence from several experts and other witnesses.

Cattle Prices Advance $1 During Week

TORONTO, March 24 (CP). -- Cattle prices advanced fully $1 a hundredweight on a light supply this week at the Ontario Stockyards, the Dominion Marketing Service reported today. Calves, sheep and lambs were steady while hogs gained 25 cents a hundredweight.

The cattle run of 4,842 head was 777 under that of a year ago. Very few finished cattle were included in the offering. Medium to good weighty steers sold at $23-$25 with a few choice at $25.50-$26.50. Medium to good light steers were $22.50-$24 and good heifers sold mostly at $22.50-$23, and a few at $23.50. Medium to good cows were $17.50-$19. Canners and cutters were mostly $13-$15.50. Good bulls sold for export at $20-$21, with one at $21.50. Fed yearlings ranged in prices from $21-$26 a hundredweight. Some good stockers were sold at $20.50-$21.75.

Buying of beef cattle for export to the United States was below normal.

Calves totalled 1,241 head. Under a fairly good export inquiry, good to choice veal calves sold steady at $26-$29. Common to medium vealers were from $16-$25.

Hogs totalled 3,023 head. The market price was settled on Wednesday at $28.75-$29 for Grade A. Sows were $18.50 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts were only 113 head. Some heavy lambs sold at $27 and one lot of better weight lambs brought $27.50. A few sheep sold at from $7-$15 according to quality.

Saucers Just Venus

BUENOS AIRES, March 24 (Reuters)—Astronomers at the Argentine national observatory at Cordoba Thursday carefully explained to villagers that what they thought were flying saucers Wednesday and Thusday is indeed the planet Venus. Venus, they said, is apparently so much fatter and fuller at this time of year that she can be seen by the naked eye in daylight.

Bills Studied

other meeting of the Big Four powers.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, piloting the farm legislation, told the Chamber he has been urging Western farmers against depleting their herds through an overflow of sales to the high-priced United States markets.

Western herds have dropped by 2,000,000 head since the American market was reopened two years ago. If this trend continued, Western farmers would wonder what was happening to their production.

Canada, he said, always was scouring the world for markets for farm products, but the best market was at home. Farmers now were receiving from domestic sales a better price than they could get anywhere, with the possible excention of the cattle sales to the U.S.

Few Surpluses

There were few food surpluses. Cheese, for example, was in surplus only to the extent of 18,000,000 pounds.

As for government-held butter, this country consumed 1,000,000 pounds a day and the stocks now held soon would disappear.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, suggested a system of fixed farm prices, made known in advance, which would tell the farmer what he was going to get for his produce one, two or three years hence. That was being done in the United Kingdom and the system was working well. It had stimulated production.

Canada, he said, was going to have to consider barter arrangements for the disposal of her farm surpluses when the Marshall Aid funds provided for European markets were cut off.

Wants Formula

J. A. Ross (PC, Souris) and Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia) felt the legislation should contain a formula for fixing floor prices. The Minister of Agriculture should not alone have the power to establish the floor prices.

Robert Fair (SC, Battle River) and Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia) wanted parity prices which would give farmers prices which would bear some relationship to the cost of things they themselves had to buy.

Mr. Quelch felt the farmer now had a "large credit" with the government as a result of subsidizing" the consumers during the war through controlled prices.

Change In Envoys

AMSTERDAM, March 24 (AP) — Dutch newspapers predicted Thursday that Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens, Netherlands ambassador to the United States, is to be succeeded by Dr. Herman Van Royen, Netherlands ambassador to Canada. Van Royen, these accounts said, will be succeeded by Dr. A. H. J. Lovink, last Netherlands administrator for Indonesia.

Sunday Sports

People of these cities were good people. They said "we think we should be able to go to sports and games" on Sundays.

The vote to decide whether or not a community wanted Sunday sport was on the basis of the municipal franchise. "There have been representations for a vote on a legislative (provincial) franchise," he continued. "This occasions the large expense of enumeration and raises the question of a 60-40 vote in favor of adoption or repeal." The government's view was that the best method was a straight majority vote.

Mr. Jolliffe said it was "deplorable" that most people were interested in sport as spectators rather than participants. "I have no illusion where the principle backing for the affirmative vote in Toronto and Windsor came from," he said. "It came from sponsors of commercial sport." There was no doubt however that a great many persons who had no financial interest in sport had voted in favor of Sunday sport.

Bad Principle

The CCF leader said the principle that only those eligible to vote in municipal elections could vote for or against Sunday sport was "thoroughly bad. The people to whom this house is answerable are the people who vote in provincial elections."

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said the Lord's Day Act (a federal measure) allows wide latitude for engaging in sports on Sunday There was, however, a clear line between sports for which admission is charged and those for which it is not. Since a vote, under the bill, could be called on a petition of 10 per cent of voters, Sunday sport could be voted in and out of a community "within a couple of months."

Harry Nixon (L—Brant) said the legislature was under no obligation to implement "straw votes" held by Toronto and Windsor without authorization of the government.

Throw Out Bill

In a plebiscite held at Brantford voters approved the city's "going into the milk business," but the legislature had no hesitation in throwing out a private bill to implement the plebiscite.

Debate was adjourned on a motion by Agnes Macphail (CCF—York East) asking the federal government to eliminate the means test as a condition of old age pensions.

Premier Frost gave assurance the debate would be resumed before the legislature rises, after Liberal Leader Oliver had moved an amendment that the province pay 25 per cent of additional costs involved.

The amendment was ruled out of order because private members may not make motions requiring government expenditure. Premier Frost said such an amendment would involve perhaps $50,000,000 or $60,000,000, which the province was unable to bear.

Urge Amalgamation

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — Amalgamation of Toronto and 12 neighboring municipalities has been recommended by the Toronto and York Planning Board. Mayor Hiram McCallum announced Thursday. The board originally recommended unification of eight municipalities.

Spring Skiing, Corn Snow At Bethany

Spring skiing in the Peterborough area is expected to be good at Bethany over the week-end and poor at the Kempt's Hill. Other centres reporting good skiing are Hailebury, Kenora, Owen Sound and centres with fair skiing conditions are Barrie, Collingwood, Cobourg, Dagmar, Flesherton, Markdale, Fort William, Port Arthur, Orangeville and Toronto summit. There is no skiing at Huntsville or Midand.

Bethany has at least six inches of corn snow which provides fast skiing. The tows will be running Saturday and Sunday. At Kempt's Hill the slopes were spotty today with water in the valley. The skiing is described there as poor.

Alex Sinclair, recreation director, said today that the ski school has been cancelled for this Saturday. The poor conditions at Kempt's Hill force the postponement.

To St. Kits Saturday

ST. CATHARINES, March 24 (CP)—Myles Leeson of Merriton, secretary of the Ontario Basketball Association, announced today that four clubs would compete in the Ontario midget basketball round-robin tourney here Saturday.

They are Peterborough Collegiate, Toronto YMHA, Hamilton Westdale Collegiate and St. Catharines Collegiate.

E. DAVIE FULTON, Progressive Conservative MP for Kamloops, BC, is pictured being welcomed by Harley Weir, president of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club, to a meeting of the club Thursday night. In his address to the club, Mr. Fulton, who proposed the bill outlawing crime comics, called for immigration of 1,000,000 people a year to Canada in order to develop the country's resources. With Mr. Fulton and Mr. Weir are Gordon K. Fraser (left), local member of parliament and Harry Tewsley (right) club Registrar. — (Parks Studio Photo)

Water Supply Adequate On Site For New School

BRIDGENORTH, March 24. — (ENS.)—Well drilling on the proposed site for a new school building for S.S. 5, Smith Twp., was today declared successful. Although the ratepayers voted last week in favor of building the school on the site, which is close to the present school, no action was being taken until the presence of an adequate water supply was assured.

The firm of Faulkner and Sanderson has been drilling this week and on reaching 76 feet below the surface, pumped 406 gallons before 10 a.m today.

After drilling 14 feet a little water was found, but not enough for a well. Of the 76-foot well, 31 feet are through solid rock. Five inch casing was put down as the well was drilled.

The drilling was done on the east side of the present school building.

Enquiries about the cost of building a two-roomed brick school will be the next step.

County Municipalities' Bills Go Out; Smith Highest

The County Clerk and Treasurer has sent each of the 15 municipalities notice of its share in the 1950 estimates—the highest in the history of Peterborough County. Council passed the estimates Wednesday afternoon but there was a slight delay in mailing the individual levies because of a last minute adjustment. They decided to lop $2,200 off the Old People's Home because of a non-recurring item and give $4,200 to Civic Hospital to eliminate the deficit on indigent county patients.

This year the estimates reached the record high of $210,511.75 for a mill rate of 18.66. In 1949 the estimates were $161,636.21 for a mill rate of 14.244.

Smith and Otonabee, by far the two most highly assessed municipalities, must each raise more than $10,000 over the 1949 figure.

Here is a breakdown by municipalities:

Mun'pality	1950	1949
Asphodel	$ 20,315.70	$ 17,319.30
Belmont-Methuen	8,143.42	7,273.73
Burleigh-Anstruther	2,009.37	2,292.10
Chandos	1,488.53	1,404.34
Douro	24,516.75	17,707.54
Dummer	21,399.83	15,418.88
Ennismore	7,761.12	5,574.81
Galway-Cav'dish	1,641.82	1,077.17
Harvey	3,957.79	3,191.84
North Mon'ghan	9,444.42	6,687.97
Otonabee	42,456.98	31,912.98
Smith	44,439.56	34,188.73
Lakefield	10,190.79	7,814.78
Norwood	6,563.04	5,031.86
Havelock	6,182.63	4,740.18
Totals	$210,511.75	$161,636.21

The education levy comes to $8,734.55. It is shared by the five municipalities not in one of the three High School Area Boards as follows: Douro $3,762.04, Dummer $3,284.87, Enismore $1,301.76, Galway-Cavendish $250.50, and Harvey $135.38.

Burleigh-Anstruther, Chandos, Galway-Cavendish and Harvey are not levied for county roads.

In 1950 the sum of $107,075.12 is estimated for current municipal purposes; $72,424.59 for county roads; $5,546.75 for bridge maintenance and road construction; $8,734.55 for education; $10,051.99 for Civic Hospital debentures, and $6,678.75 for Chemong Causeway debentures.

SPRING IS TARDY

What main streeters have been saying all week is "O Spring, where is thy victory." The Examiner's fashion number was replete with ideas of new vernal plumage, stores are aweary of winter and its wool, but the sun is a vagrant fellow, and March has been a dull month, with such brilliant exceptions as today.

Frost To Open St. Joseph's?

The Sisters of St. Joseph find themselves in a mild dilemma about the opening of the new wing of their institution in Ashburnham.

Board of Governors of Civic Hospital and the council agreed to invite Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. St. Laurent, formally to open Peterborough's new Civic Hospital on May 20. Since then the suggestion has arisen that the first Minister might also open the new section at St. Joseph's. It is understood that there has been nothing official about the proposal.

Sister Priscilla said today that the management would naturally like to co-operate in every way with local arrahgements, but that the Sisters had previously wished to invite Premier Leslie Frost, leader of the Ontario government.

No Need Double-Header

"I think it would be nice to have two events instead of just one," Sister Priscilla said. "Peterborough has become quite an important hospital centre now, and I do not think we should rush the two openings into the one day. We would like to have a visit from the Prime Minister. We had not gone so far away in our thinking of our opening. Besides Premier Frost lives just next door to us at Lindsay, and Peterborough and his town have always been the best of neighbors. So, although nothing has been definitely decided yet, I believe that we will go through with our first idea and invite Premier Frost."

Horses Out? Rot! Cavan Farmer Denies Official

Sam Staples of Cavan is just beginning to recover from the shock of reading recently in the Examiner the comment of the agricultural representative in Wellington county to the effect that horse-drawn vehicles were reduced to scrap value, and generally that the heavy drafts were further than ever out of the economic picture and that even show horses were cheap.

"That's terrible," said Mr. Staples, and he probably meant its superlative implication. It appears that he wrote off to friends in western Ontario about the truth of that report, and has received replies which, he says, should be printed.

There is one on the Staples file from George Francis of Mt Forest, breeder and exhibitor of Clydesdales and Holstein cattle, and friend of Mr. Staples.

"He writes that there is still a good demand for horse-power implements up in his country, especially due to the Mennonite farmers in Waterloo. And thy're good farmers, too," Mr. Staples remarked. "Besides that, there is a good demand for aged, serviceable work horses, selling at auction and privately for an average of $100. Mr. Francis told me he knows three farmers who recently refused $100 for foals. Young horses are scarce and at a premium.

Buying 1,000 a Year

"Then there's Neil McKinnon of Hillsburg, Wellington county. He has been buying an average of 1,000 horses a year for the last three years. Export and local prices have been around $60 to $100. This year good colts are up to $75 and on to $150. Mr. McKinnon says high class show horses are bringing from $200 to $1,000.

Mr. Staples declares that the horses of Canada helped win the war against Hitler. They accounted for 50 per cent of the agricultural production, and as a lover of horses all his life he is not going to remain silent while someone is trying to push them into the ditch.

House On Street That Isn't

When William Lewington, 66 Auburn St., recently became interested in selling his house, he found in the course of the usual legal details that a section of the street long in use was not shown on the registered plan of the city.

Legally, therefore, that part of Auburn St., once Brown St., did not exist.

That was the information to the council this week by City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, requesting authority to register the necessary declaration correcting the oversight of expansion in that area of the city years ago.

On the registered plan of the city, Auburn St. was shown as stopping three or four hundred feet south of Dunlop St.

Street "Just Growed"

"In the course of search relating to the title," Mr. Huycke said "I found three statutory declarations by W. H. Moore, KC, who was for many years a member of the city's Utilities Commission. In a statement given in 1919 he said that in 1871, when he owned that block, there was a road in front of his property. It was at that time used as a public road."

Mr. Huycke remarked to the Examiner that there are some streets in Peterborough "which just growed like Topsy". One of them is Louis St., between Charlotte and King Streets.

"No one knows who bit it is there," Mr. Huycke said.

Plans Laid For RCAF Wing To Give Local Air Vets Club

Should present plans go ahead ex-airforce men and women are expected to form an RCAF Association "wing" in Peterborough.

One meeting of interested parties has already taken place and a pre-organizational meeting is in the offing.

Both the RCN and the Canadian Army veterans have well established organizations in Peterborough but up to the present the RCAF veterans have not formed a unit. RCAF ground and aircrews were widely dispersed among RAF squadrons during the Second World War and Canadian squadrons were a mixture of recruits from Halifax to Vancouver.

Consequently there were few airmen together from any one of the smaller towns or cities. And this has been considered one of the chief bars to their post-war organization.

Good Year To Organize

Because this is Peterborough's centennial year there is a special reason for seing the RCAF represented. At a recent meeting of the Centennial committee, trying to work out a schedule for Warriors' Day, it was observed that there was no official body to speak for the RCAF.

The ranking RCAF officer in Peterborough is Ross Thompson, a former wing-commander and historical officer of the RCAF overseas.

Others who attended the Wednesday night meeting to discuss formation of a wing in Peterborough were Russ Baer, Eldon Purvis, Percy Johnston, Ernest Adams, Doug Vaisey, Miss Grace Simpson and Miss Helen Mcfarlane.

At present there are 37 members-at-large of the RCAF Assoc. living in Peterborough. All the hundreds of other ex-airmen in the district are unaffiliated as yet. Throughout Canada there are at least 50 wings with some 8,000 members.

Association Aims

Among the aims of the Association are the following: encouraging the spirit of fellowship among all who have served in the RCAF (regular), Auxiliary Air Force, Reserve, Air Cadets and other components of the RCAF which may be formed; supporting the maintenance "of an adequate and efficient Air Force in Canada for the defence of our country"; sponsoring and encouraging aeronautics in all its branches.

There was some discussion on possibly forming an air cadet squadron in Peterborough should a wing be organized here.

Spring On Wing

Mrs. A. W. Clysdale, of 168 Brock Street, reports a heart-warming touch of spring color. This morning she saw two yellow goldfinches in her garden.

Fish Through Ice 5 Plead Guilty Fined $20 Each

Five men, two from Peterborough, pleaded guilty to charges of fishing through the ice during the closed season and each paid fines of $20 and costs in police court today.

The two Peterborough men were David Tucker, 33 Aberdeen Ave. and James Wharry, RR 3, Peterborough. The three others were Earnest E. Meadows, Toronto; Charles H. Campbell, Cobourg, and Walter Tucker, Apsley.

Discovered By Warden

The five, who sent in written pleas of guilty, were discovered fishing through the ice March 15 at the west end of Eagle (Anstruther) lake, by Game Warden Robert H. Trotter with the help of Game Wardens Stanley Windsor and Ray Simpson.

Among them the quintet had caught two lake trout. The five were part of a larger party camping at the east end of Eagle lake.

Peterborough county is one of the counties where it is against the law to fish through the ice for lake trout; it is a closed season. A few miles north, in Haliburton county, people may legally fish for lake trout during the winter.

New Dental Unit To Local Battery

Aching teeth will now be fewer and fewer amongst the strength of the 50th Heavy AA Regiment (Prince of Wales Rangers), RCA and the 37th Heavy AA Workshop RCEME. A dental office has been set up in the southwest tower of the Armouries and will be open on parade nights, Tuesday and Thursday.

Equipment for the new section of Peterborough's two reserve force units arrived Monday. It consists of A and B kits. The A kit has the chair, tables, cuspidors and portable drills while the B kit has the essential instruments for emergencies.

The new office will be under Capt. A. H. Ball of the 50th Heavy AA Regiment. Dr. Ball served with the Royal Air Force in Western Canada and then in England with the Canadian army during the war. He started his civilian practice in Peterborough in April, 1946.

Chair assistants are required to help Dr. Ball in his work of examining the teeth of the Administration and training staff of the armouries examining new reserve unit recruits, and attending to the emergency cases for the members of the 50th and the 37th regiments. Applicants for this position should preferably be former dental workers.

ADDRESS ENGINEERS

Guest speakers at the monthly meeting of the Peterborough branch, Engineering Institute of Canada, Thursday night were William J. W. Reid, Hamilton, and Col. Medland. Mr. Reid is president of Ottis Elevator Co. Col. Medland dealt with matters affecting the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario.

Wants Immigration Plan To Help Canada Avoid Absorption By United States

An immigration program to swell the population of Canada to two or three times its present level and thus promote Canada's development, was called for by E. D. Fulton, Progressive-Conservative member of parliament for Kamloops, BC, in an address to the Kinsmen Club Thursday. Western Canada, said Mr. Fulton, was underdeveloped. But with the recent discovery of oil and natural gas in Alberta, the means of industrializing the western provinces was at hand. But for industry to develop, Canada needed more people to supply the labor and to supply the market.

By starting such an immigration program which would bring people from the United Kingdom and desirable people from Europe, Canada could begin to resist being drawn willy nilly under the complete economic and political influence of the United States.

Mr. Fulton said he thought the United States was making no conscious effort to bring Canada under its influence, but there was a natural drift in that direction because of the very large differences in the size of the two countries.

He said he believed that by developing itself, Canada could do more for its own citizens and make a greater contribution to the welfare of the rest of the world than by being absorbed by the United States.

By thus pulling itself up by its own bootstraps, Canada could become "a great nation in our time" Mr. Fulton said. He hoped that Canada could then take a place as a leading country in a third group of nations which would include most of the British Commonwealth.

With a strong and influential third group, instead of having only a United States group opposed to the Soviet Union and its satellites, the chances for peace would be greatly improved, Mr. Fulton said.

Gordon K. Fraser spoke after Mr. Fulton and pointed out that Mr. Fulton had had his bill proposing banning crime comics adopted by the government, a rare feat in parliament for an opposition member.

Mr. Fulton was introduced by Emmett Sheehy and thanked by Harry Huff. Club president Harley Weir was chairman.

COUNCIL'S CONDOLENCE

On the instruction of the council in a motion by Aldermen Gillespie and Dewart, City Clerk Outram has written Mrs. J. Gordon Armstrong conveying to her the deep sympathy of the council in the death of her husband, and expressing appreciation of his valuable service to the community in his two years as an alderman and member of the council.

Junior Farmers Of Brooklin Birthday Tour

Junior Farmers of the Brooklin section of Ontario county are spending the day in Peterborough on their annual birthday bus trip. There were 21 members in the party, directed by Lynn Fair, agricultural representative. They were met here this morning by Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, and his assistant, R. E. Bell.

"It has been a custom with our Brooklin juniors to take a bus trip on their club birthday," Mr. Fair said. "This year we chose Peterborough. The program was arranged for us by Mr. Paterson. We visited Quaker Oats plant this morning, had lunch at Hooper's, and this afternoon we are visiting Canada Packers and De Laval factories.

"We were very hospitably received at Quaker Oats, and the rest of the day should be just as interesting. We are staying for supper and an early show before leaving for home."

Kinsmen May Sponsor Summer Theatre

The Summer Theatre will be sponsored by the Peterborough Kinsmen Club this year if the offer of Michael Sadlier is accepted by the club.

President Harley Weir informed members of the offer at a meeting Thursday night. They gave their tentative approval on a motion by Emmett Sheehy.

The final discussion will be considered by the club executive, Mr. Weir said, after it has been examined thoroughly. Last year the sponsor was the Civic Hospital.

Under the proposed arrangement, the Kinsmen Club will receive all admissions over 1,800 a week. The Queen Mary Auditorium has a weekly seating capacity of 2,400.

An emergent meeting of Corinthian Lodge A.F.&A.M. No. 101 is called for Saturday afternoon for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother Worshipful Brother Fred L. Roy. Brethren will assemble at St. John's Anglican Church for service at 2.00 o'clock. Brethren of sister lodges invited.

Robert E. Bell Appeals For Support Of Parents As Organization Of Five Clubs Draws Near — Maple Cattle Breeders Buy Five Shorthorn Bulls—"Norwood Fair Beaver Oat Derby" New Field Crop Competition — Miss Jean Bolton, Grand Champion In Home Economics At Kemptville Royal.

Junior club work is more than a kindergarten course in agriculture, says Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative. It is also a primary experience in social and community life.

Mr. Bell has been spreading junior club propaganda off and on through the winter, preparatory to the final step of organization in April. He has been appealing to parents and elders generally for their support. Initial response has been encouraging as indicated by the number of applications from boys and girls of the townships, and he is expecting just as many others by the time the first meetings are called.

Mr. Bell has five projects underway: two dairy calf clubs, one beef calf club and a forestry club all for boy and girls, and a tractor maintenance club for boys. They are young folk of the farms between 12 and 20 years inclusive, excepting the machine club which is for boys of 14 to 21 years.

"Calf clubs are essentially laid out to stimulate the interest of boys and girls in the feeding, care and management of their own stock," Mr. Bell said. "It places definite responsibility on a member at an age when his enthusiasm can be quickened by possession and the result of his own work. Boys and girls are given opportunity during the club term of visiting some farms and getting lessons in desirable features and types of cattle, in good farm practice as it is carried on at those farms, and generally learning the basis of building up good herds."

Mr. Bell said calf clubs should appeal particularly to the farm families of Peterborough, because dairying is a major source of income in this country.

"We are looking forward to two strong dairy calf clubs, instead of one. Areas have not yet been decided. That is a detail which has to wait until we have our final enrolment.

I would like to assure parents that we will give their boys and girls every attention. This club work has the sponsorship of the Junior Farmers, and I know they will be valuable helpers in the season's program.

When we talk about feeding livestock that should lead us into some phases of the economic side, good pasture practice, comparative values of feeds, and so on.

That has to do with the practical aspect of our club work, but there is also the personal element. Our Peterborough boys and girls are just as capable as any others in Ontario, and parents should give them the extra chance of preparing for the future that is provided by club work. They will meet and mingle with more boys and girls of their own age, learn to co-operate and strive together. That means development of community spirit, something farmers are stressing more than ever today."

Mr. Bell has been speaking at Farm Forum meetings and other affairs across the county since last fall. He has appealed to teachers for their assistance.

"We hardly expect to have as many members in the beef calf club as in the dairy group, but they have shown enthusiasm in the past and we are expecting a strong club.

Our forestry club is a new departure. Mr. John Bell, district forester, is going to help in this branch, and as the season moves on we hope to visit the county forest, and probably the Northumberland-Durham plantations and the provincial forestry branch at Orono."

Mr. Bell has mapped out a busy season beginning in April. With the active co-operation of parents he is confident that the junior club work in Peterborough this year can be a fine success.

CHAMPION AT KEMPTVILLE

Miss Jean Bolton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolton, River Road, Douro, was grand champion in home economics at the recent Kemptville Royal, the student competitions similar to the Royal at O.A.C.

✦ ✦ ✦

DURHAM BOYS WIN

Durham county teams coached by Ed. A. Summers, agricultural representative, won the junior farmers seed judging competition at the Quinte Seed Fair at Lindsay. Hastings county boys were second.

MAPLE MEETING MONDAY

Although the annual meeting of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association has been announced for Monday March. 27 at 1.30 p.m., the time has been advanced to 10.30 a.m. Several groups of Peterborough members are planning to attend.

✦ ✦ ✦

THRESHERMEN AT BELLEVILLE

Peterborough missed this month the annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Threshermen. They had been meeting here for years with Art McIntyre as secretary, and two years ago they collaborated with the Quinte District Seed Fair in a sucessful series of meetings in Peterborough.

Incidentally, friends of Mr. McIntyre will be glad to hear that he is able to be up and around at home, and is reported to be "coming along nicely."

Goldie McInroy was re-elected president of the Threshermen at Belleville this week. Ralph Garbutt and Vern Campbell of Peterborough are two of the three members of the executive. Directors are: Ed Dunn of Cameron; Charles Mills of Omemee; W. W. Dawson of Otonabee; Robert McAdam of Peterborough and James Reynolds of Foxboro.

✦ ✦ ✦

NORWOOD OATS CLUB

G. A. Brethen, president of Norwood Fair, sends information of its field crop competition this year in Beaver oats. He calls it the Norwood Fair Beaver Oat Derby "to raise the yield and quality of white oats in East Peterborough.

"The minimum sowing required is three acres, involving the purchase of six bushels of registered seed by each entrant. Already we have around 40 entries. That means purchase of approximately 700 bus. of the highest grade seed produced in Canada.

The economic importance of a project of this kind can be estimated when we consider that 600 bus. sowed this spring on better fields in this district should produce at a modest estimate of 50 bus. an acre around 15,000 bus. of good seed at harvest, which if sowed could mean a crop of around 400,000 bus. of high quality feed or seed oats in 1951."

Norwood directors have ordered 500 bus. registered No. 1 Beaver seed, and have arranged for a further supply. Their circular letter of announcement is asking farmers to send in their entries this week.

BOUGHT THREE SHORTHORNS

Maple Cattle Breeders Association paid $2,800 for three Shorthorns at the beef bull sale in Toronto Wednesday. Two were consigned by the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. One of them was O.A.C. Ransom 12C, born June 6, 1948, son of O.A.C. Ransom 23rd and O.A.C. Rosamond 25th, whose sire was Milhills Ransom. This bull sold for $1,300.

The other was O.A.C. Royal 15C, $800, born Sept. 1948; son of Uppermill Royal and O. A. C. Rosmond 45th.

The third bull was Glenurn Outlaw from the herd of Kenneth Deacon, Unionville, bought for $700.

The Maple Association are planning to have their Shorthorn division complete and in operation by the first of the month.

✦ ✦ ✦

CLUB LEADERS SCHOOL

Junior club leaders of east-central Ontario are coming to Peterborough Friday, March 31 for a day's training at the Normal School. The first session is at those junior farmers who are interested in the sponsorship and guidance of the department's 10:30 a.m. The club leaders are junior clubs. A. M. Barr, associate director of extension for the Ontario Department, will be here for the day.

SHORTHORN SALE

Victoria County Shorthorn breeders' sale is Tuesday March 28 at Lindsay exhibition grounds beginning at 1.30. The offering is 13 bulls and six cows.

HOLSTEIN SHOW HERE

The Black and White championship show for East-Central Ontario will again be held in Peterborough, as recently decided by directors of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. J. D. Innes of Woodstock will be judge. The date in October has not yet been set. The district comprises the counties of York, Simcoe, Ontario, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington.

The Association's grant of $625 has been increased to $1,000 for each of the four championship shows. The grant to the county Black and White days of which there were 40 in Ontario last year will be $100 each.

The eastern Ontario championship is expected to be an adjunct of the Ottawa Exhibition. Place and date of the western Ontario show has not yet been decided, but the West-Central championship will likely be held at the CNE if suitable arrangements can be made.

SCOTTISH VISITOR

"We are of no use to Canada or any other exporting nation until we can get onto our feet and pay for what we buy" said Maitland Mackie, Jr., of Aberdeen, Scotland, at Guelph this week. He is visiting United States and Canada to enquire into present agricultural practices.

He says there is a movement on foot in Scotland to put cattle back on the hills. Lord Lovatt of Commando fame is grazing 650 cattle in two glens which were previously roamed by some sheep and a lot of deer.

Mr. Mackie has developed an odd grazing program on his farm which results, he says, in more abundant grass after cattle and poultry have been eating it for two weeks.

This is a sample of his schedule for the cattle. They get an hour's grazing per day divided into three 20-minute periods. They start on No. 1 pasture, and after a few days move to No. 2. After a 20-minute meal on pasture No. 2 they go back to No. 1 to rest and refertilize No. 2. This rotation embraces five pastures. One acre used to be the requirement for one cow a summer. That has been cut to half an acre, and the cow gives more milk.

Grass silage is provided for winter, and his cows require no grain in summer. Mr. Mackie has more than 4,000 hens. Half of them feed on pasture and the rest on a cafeteria system. The birds in the fields are showing increased production at lower cost. In the cafeteria, a moving belt takes foot, grit and water past each cage one each hour and five minutes.

"With only half an acre of agricultural land per head of population we must make the most of every foot of our soil. In the main we do, but there are still some blank spots."

✦ ✦ ✦

EMBARRASSED BY ABUNDANCE

Storage of food bought by the United States government in its policy of supporting prices to producers is costing $237,000 a day, or $85 million a year, "and what will ever become of it all nobody knows."

That is a quotation from an illustrated article in this week's issue of Life under the heading The Great Glut "which at the moment has the government in the hole to the extent of about $1 billion, spent outright or tied up in loans on food which may never get to the market."

The author, Ernest Havemann, affirms that the government has enough:

Wheat to bake 12 loaves of bread for every man, woman and child in the world.

Corn to make all the corn starch corn sugar, corn syrup and corn oil that the U. S. will use in the next five years.

Butter to make a birthday cake for every child under 15 in the U. S. for the next 10 years.

Cotton to produce 54 house dresses for every U. S. woman.

Prunes to give every member of Congress a dish for breakfast until approximately September of the year 3239.

"The government also has considerable amounts of such other items as dried milk, turkeys, beans, grain sorghums, soybeans, cheese, wool, rice and linseed oil. It cannot throw the goods on the home market without pushing farm prices down beneath the level at which it is committed to support them. It cannot sell the goods abroad because it has priced most American farm produce out of the world market, and foreign countries are short on dollars anyway.

In fact it cannot do anything—except watch the surpluses grow and count them periodically to see how bad things are getting."

The writer ridicules the purchase of dried egg powder. He says the government bought 76 million pounds of this product at $98 million in the last two years. About 15 million pounds of it is stored in a huge quarry cave in the side of a hill near Atchison, Kan. For refrigeration of that quantity, the government pays about $22,000 a year for electricity to keep the machinery going and $136,000 a year on salaries for the workmen, and incidentals.

"That amounts to $138,000 a year, disregarding the close to $2 million invested in machinery and concrete floors."

EMILY

OF THESE FOUR WILTSHIRE SIDES produced by Emily farmers, three were labelled with first prize badges and the other a second, to give the township top honors in the bacon show at the Quinte District Seed Fair at Lindsay last week. Harold Scotchmer of the production service of the Dominion Department of Agriculture explained the comparative merits of the 24 sides displayed by farmers of six Victoria townships. Verulam rated second, and the other townships were Mariposa, Ops, Fenelon and Eldon. The bacon show was introduced at Peterborough two years ago with the cooperation of Canada Packers Limited, and was repeated last year at Kingston and again at Lindsay.

Medicine Man Still Reigns In Backwoods

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP). — Though the Maoris of New Zealand have generally accepted European medicine and hygiene, there still survives in the back country and the more remote areas strong faith in the powers of the tohunga—priest or medicine man.

Old herbal remedies handed down from the remote past still vie with sulpha drugs, penicillin and other modern remedies supplied free to Maori and European alike under New Zealand's social security system.

Health authorities were once strongly opposed to the activities of tohungas as lives were often lost through the reluctance of Maoris to visit a doctor and their superstitious belief in tribal cures, but most of the objectionable usages have disappeared now. Herbal remedies today are used mostly for minor complaints, for some of which they are fairly effective.

The manono tree provides a "universal remedy" for tohungas. They administer its roots boiled in water for internal disorders and many Maoris claim that it relieves pain almost immediately. The crushed bark is used for septic cuts and bruises and the berries when boiled produce a liquid which looks like iodine and is used for the same purpose.

Flax roots, too, are used for internal complaints. The outer covering is removed from the roots which are cooked for an hour in water. The black liquid is claimed to provide quick relief from pain. Skin complaints are treated with leaves of the koromiko, a native shrub, while the sap of the matai tree is used as a cure for sores and boils.

Doctors sometimes have to admit the superiority of native remedies, some of which are kept a secret by the tohungas.

A Maori suffering from a varicose ulcer was treated by a doctor without much change in his condition. Finally he consulted a tohunga who treated him with poultices prepared from dock leaves. The man returned to the doctor with his condition much improved and the doctor promptly recommended him to continue treatment from the tohunga.

GONE 21 MONTHS—Frank LaSalle (left), shown in San Jose, Calif., following his arrest, is being held for allegedly abducting and holding Sally Horner (right), 12, for 21 months. Miss Horner, a Camden, NJ, girl, is shown as she appeared before she vanished in June, 1948. She and LaSalle were found in a highway court near San Jose, after she made a long-distance phone call for help.

He May Not Be A Seabiscuit But Franco's Tops In North

KAPUSKASING, March 24 — (CP)—He may not be a Seabiscuit or a Citation but he's the best of his kind.

His name is Franco and he's a raw-boned, red-coated, 1900-pound horse that wouldn't hesitate to sink his ugly teeth into your shoulder if you stood close enough.

Nobody in this Northern Ontario district knows what sort of horse Franco is. He hasn't got a pedigree. Nobody knows his blood line or his age. He's just plain horse.

But, man, can he pull! when he leans into a load at Camp 40 of nearby Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company, he's a one-horse team.

And his intelligence is on a par with his brute power. Bushmen say he knows his job as well as they do.

No Fooling

Franco and another large horse once hauled a 19-ton load of logs 1½ miles on a sleigh. Maybe it's co-incidental that the other horse is dead now.

While Franco regularly "skids" 10 cords of wood a day during the cutting season, something he has been doing for the last eight years, a good average draft horse skids four cords and is retired after four years.

The animal's great strength and intelligence is supported by professional opinion.

"Franco is the greatest horse I ever saw or ever heard about," says Dr. Richard Hellings, staff veterinarian at Spruce Falls, who has supervised the care of more than 6,000 bush horses in 10 years.

"People ask me which is the best horse in the bush, a Clyde, a Percheron, or a Belgian. Then I tell them about Franco."

He figures the animal is between 12 and 14 years old. It was bought from a New Liskeard horse dealer eight years ago.

Finds Canadians Best Eaters In The World

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following impressions of Canadian life have been written for The Canadian Press by Roy Ferroa, a reporter attached to the Straits Times, an English-language daily published in Singapore. He has spent the last six months in Canada on a Canada-U.N.E.S.C.O. Fellowship to study and observe various aspects of journalism in this country.

By ROY FERROA

TORONTO, —(CP)—A nation of hungry people, that's what I think Canadians are. And having lived in your midst over the last six months, I ought to know.

During my travels in Canada from Vancouver to the Maritimes, I've met scores of Canadians who have asked me the one inevitable question: "Well, what do you think of our country?"

My answer: It's a big, immensely rich country, its population is meagre compared to its size—and its people seem to be the best eaters in the world.

Nothing please adi ns more to my mind, than a good meal. Try and get a seat at a drugstore counter or in a restaurant any day after 11 o'clock and you'll know what I mean. Don't you people ever eat at home?

Apparently some do, for George F. Heckman, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, reports that current sales in restaurants throughout the Dominion are down from two to 12 per cent.

This goes to prove that long before this, restaurant sales were very much better, that Canadians ate like mad outside (not in) their homes.

Some Impressions

Here are some flashbacks from the Canadian scene that have impressed me as a visitor:

Rich farmlands with mechanized and modern methods of agriculture. . .the vast network of railways and industrial centres working full blast. . . the House of Parliament and the Red Coats in Ottawa. . .the Chateau Laurier . . .Halifax harbor with its ships that have sailed the seven seas. . . the busy St. Lawrence river. . . your fire-fighting engines and police cars with screeching sirens part of the every-day scene in all the big cities. . . the many first-rate universities, hospitals and schools. . . my first football and ice-hockey games in Toronto. . . the Bonspiel in Quebec and the old-world charm of the Chateau Frontenac. . .the international dog derby on the frozen Rideau Canal in Ottawa. . .the thriving business done by Chinese landrymen and restaurateurs who run chop suey joints all over Canada.

Things that least impressed me: The futile arguments at ice-hockey games between players and referee (nine times out of 10 the player loses the argument and is sent to the penalty box, so why argue?). . .Toronto's controversy over an open Sunday (I'm all for an open Sunday). . . the length of Canadian winters (It's mid-March but the weatherman still predicts more snowfalls). . . some of your oldfashioned street-cars still running in Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal. . .the slipperiness of Quebec's sloping streets in Winter (baseball's famed dictum "Slide Kelly slide" ought to be Quebec's motto). . .the fact that Canada still has no national flag, anthem or national library.

Despite all this, I feel that Canada has much to offer anyone from food-starved Europe or Asia who wishes to come here and make this his home.

And back of it all, the country has Canadians whose forefathers helped write the history of this vast and growing land, built a fine new country and subdue nature through the sweat of their brows and with their bare hands. Much blood was spilled in the process. That is Canada's proud

1951 To Be Big Year For British Yachts

LONDON (CP). — The Yacht Racing Association is planning a series of yachting regattas to be held at various points around the coasts of Britain in conjunction with the 1951 Festival of Britain.

The series of events will begin on the Clyde at the end of June, and proceed via Ireland around the coast to finish with the Burnham Week about the beginning of September.

It is proposed to hold a "continuous regatta" in front of the festival site along the Thames River.

Lipstick Stays Put Good For Kissing

LONDON — (CP) — A small London cosmetics firm formed by three Royal Air Force men as a post-war enterprise claims to have found a liquid that will make lipstick kissproof.

The liquid is painted on the lips after application of the lipstick and will "fix" it for eight hours without retouching.

The three former airmen, Eric Turner, and Dave and Bob Aylott, have been experimenting for the last year at their small factory near London. Now they are ready to market their preparation at a price within the reach of the working girl.

Second Reading Given To Espanola Bill

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — The Ontario Legislature Thursday gave second reading to the government Bill dissolving an injunction which would have prevented the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company at Espanola from dumping waste into the Spanish River.

The injunction was returnable April 4 and the company has contended that if it were effective, it would be forced to close down its mill, chief source of employment in the town 30 miles west of Sudbury.

The Sewage Bill directs the Ontario Research Council to study conditions at the mill, and try to discover methods of eliminating or reducing pollution. Attorney-General Porter said the problem had been referred to the Research Council in "the widest possible terms," and was intended to apply to all similar cases.

"This Bill is not for the protection of any one company, but for the survival of the community," he said.

C. C. Calder (Lib.-London) asked that the Council be required to report on its studies within a definite period, perhaps before next July 1.

Cost of the investigation will be borne by the company.

William Dennison (CCF-Toronto St. David) suggested the Council's expenses should be shared by all the paepr mills in the province. J. G. White (PC-Kenora) said the companies would be put to enough additional expense installing extra equipment to carry out the Council's recommendations.

Expectant Mother Braves Flood Menace

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — An expectant mother refused to leave her home in suburban Long Branch Thursday night as flood-waters from the Etobicoke River swirled around her doorstep. Mrs. Alvin Todd said she would stay and "hope for the best" while her husband and two small daughters remained with her.

Many other residents however left their homes in the lakeshore community 10 miles west of Toronto as the flood waters began to rise, swelled by rain. Main cause of the flood was a 175-foot ice shelf blocking the mouth of the river. Dynamite was used on it late Thursday with little apparent effect.

Frost Doubts Night Racing Very Good Plan

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — Premier Frost told the Legislature Thursday night he questions whether night harness racing is in the public interest.

Mr. Frost said during debate on second reading of a bill to set up an Ontario Racing Commission that he suspected "certain interests" who wanted to promote night harness racing were "more interested in promoting mass gambling than the breeding of harness horses."

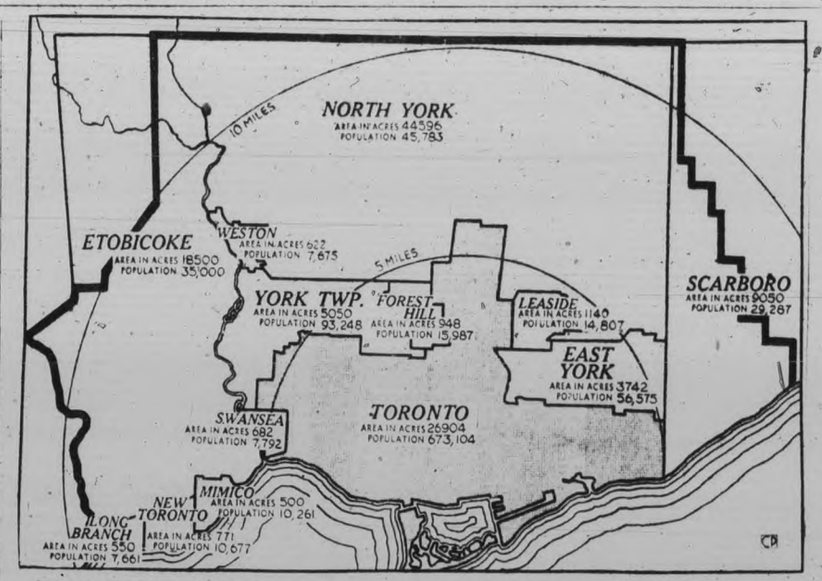
The Premier said Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow of Toronto will be asked to head the commission which will consist of three or four members.

The Premier said that for more than a year he has been "standing a bit in the way" of night harness racing. He described some of the problems connected with racing which he said he was unable to cope with without a commission.

Public's Interest

To be considered were the interests of the general public, breeders of thoroughbred and harness horses and owners of both types of track. The government's prime concern, however, was for the best interest of the public.

Race track gambling came under the authority of the Federal government. Betting at thoroughbred tracks was by pari-mutuel machines only, but at harness tracks bookmaking was allowed.



Bookmaking caused "more trouble in administration than anything I know of" he said.

"I wouldn't attempt to say what should be done. I don't know."

The bill gives the commission authority to "govern, direct, control and regulate" horse racing in all forms. It can issue licences to race track owners, jockeys, grooms, and other persons connected with the sport. It may include as many as seven members.

More Flying Saucers

NEWMARKET, March 24 (CP) —Wilford Needler, a taxi driver, said Thursday he saw a flying saucer the size of a car steering wheel flying at tree-top height over Newmarket, about 30 miles north of Toronto. He said he told Mrs. Evelyn Wheeler about it and she told him she saw one on Tuesday dipping and diving near the town limits.

EXPANSION PLANS — Preliminary meetings are being held this week to discuss the amalgamation of Toronto and 12 suburban areas into one big city. This map gives some idea of the extent of the plan which would give the city a population of roughly 1,000,000 as against its present 673,000 and an area of 113,000 acres compred with 26,904. Ten complete communities and portions of two others would become part of Toronto. Long Branch, New Toronto, Mimico and Swansea in the west; Weston, York Township, North York Township, and Forest Hill Village on the north; and Leaside and East York Township on the east would be no more. Approximately two-thirds of the area and 90 per cent of the population of Etobicoke Township on the west and one-third the area and two-thirds of the population of Scarboro Township in the east would be swallowed up. This map shows these various districts with their areas and population to be included in the amalgamated city. The shaded area is Toronto as it is today.

Lead Rugged Life On Timber Survey

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. — (CP) — Northern tree cruisers take in stride a daily grind as rugged as the Army's Sweetbriar.

Living in tents or primitive forestry cabins, two parties are working on a three-year project aimed at learning the extent and value of northern Saskatchewan's timber stands.

And the winter in snow-covered timberland and on wind-swept lakes in the Hudson Bay, Sask., and Montreal Lake regions is equal to that which faced troops in the big Yukon exercise.

"Only half-an-inch of frost on the bed roll this morning. Must be spring." That is a notation in the daily diary of Timber Cruiser Stan Shannon, working from a tent camp in the remote forest south of Hudson Bay.

He and George Horne, a fire-fighting smoke-jumper during the summer are measuring the diameter of every tree in a number of one-fifth-acre plots.

The facts they and their fellow cruisers gather are used in a government timber-research program.

Marshall Palley, forester in charge of the tree inventory, says the sample plots are chosen by a "random method to get an overall, unbiased picture" of timber resources. He sets 1952 as the probable completion date for the job.

"It's a rugged life," says Mr. Palley, who only a few months ago was stranded several days when ice froze his aircraft in a lake.

"With the flies and mucky muskeg in the summer and cold in the winter, there are actually only a few days in spring and fall when the weather is just right."

Live in Chicken Coop

TORONTO, March 24 (CP) — One suburban Toronto family is living in a chicken coop and 69 others are living in "fire traps," W. A. Johnston, sanitary inspector, said Thursday. All the families are in Etobicoke township. Among the 69, he said 29 are living in cellars, 16 in garages and 14 in condemned homes.

RCAF Develops New Type Of Airplane

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP) — Air force headquarters announced Thursday night that it is aiding in the development of a modified version of the North Star for long-range, high-altitude crew training.

The plane is expected to be delivered to the RCAF early this summer by Canadair, Ltd., of Montreal, which is sharing in the development cost.

Cost of the four-engined, pressurized plane to the RCAF, including the air force's share of development cost, will be "slightly more than $1,000,000" the announcement said. Total cost is reported to be between $1,500,000 and $1,700,000.

One fundamental difference in the modified version from the North Star now in the service will be the power units. The new plane will be equipped with American Pratt and Whitney radial engines developing a total of approximately 7,000 horsepower. Regular North Stars are powered with British Merlin In-line engines.

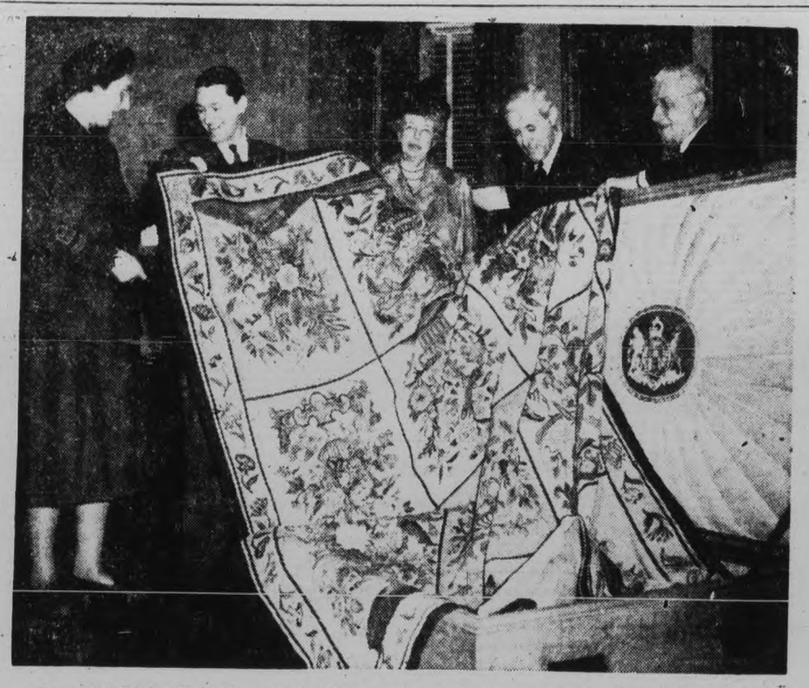
Auckland Mayor Has Finance Plan Empires Games

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. —(CP)—A suggestion that the British Empire Games Federation in London should be provided with capital of about $750,000 for future festivals has been made by the mayor of Auckland, J. A. C. Allum, who was chairman of the company which financed the 1950 games here.

Allum's plan is that the 1954 games in Canada and those which follow it should be conducted by the British Empire Games Federation with large-scale assistance from local organizations. He feels it is wrong that the federation should be virtually without funds.

Canada will face this problem as soon as the location of the 1954 games is fixed.



In New Zealand the controlling body, the New Zealand Olympic and British Empire Games Association, delegated the actual arrangements to an organizing committee consisting of representatives of Auckland sports bodies and the city council. Finance, however, was in the hands of a limited liability company, British Empire Games (N.Z.) Limited. Shares in this company were taken by Auckland firms and municipalities.

Contrary to allegations by certain Australian newspapers, the shareholders in this company never had any prospect of making a profit from the games. It was a non-profit company. All the shareholders did was to guarantee the organizing committee against loss, taking the risk of losing money if the games were not a financial success. The Empire Games company has control of financial policy to ensure that the games were run on economic lines but there was never any prospect of a profit being made.

As at present proposed any surplus from the games will go to the New Zealand Olympic and Empire Games Association to finance the sending of a sports team overseas and to encourage amateur sport generally.

It seems certain that there will be a substantial surplus. Receipts already total over $261,000 which considerably exceeds the estimated maximum possible takings. In addition film rights and certain other receipts have still to come in.

If Allum's plan is supported part of the surplus might go to the federation in London.

Shirts Or Collars Who'll Get Gypped

MANCHESTER, Eng. (CP). — Manchester's 4,800 bus drivers and conductors are wondering what to do about 38,400 white, semi-stiff collars. So is the Manchester Corporation.

It seems no one remembered that most of the bus men wear collar-attached shirts when new uniforms were issued in a "smartented up" campaign. The collars came, eight with each outfit, minus shirts.

Suggest the busmen: "Give us shirts to go with the collars."

Suggests the Corporation hopefully: "Most men should be able to find a detachable-collar shirt at home somewhere."

Find Electricity Brings Out Boy's Memories

BALTIMORE, March 24 (AP)—A 14-year-old schoolboy was undergoing brain surgery under a local anaesthetic.

The surgeon took a fine wire carrying a small charge of electricity and touched it to a certain area of the boy's exposed brain.

"I see two men sitting in an armchair," the youngster exclaimed.

The electrode was removed. The men in the armchair vanished.

Then it was touched to another area. This time the boy visioned "a man fighting."

Dr. Wilder G. Penfield, world-famed brain surgeon, told Johns Hopkins doctors Thursday night that the electrical charge had activated dreams the boy had stored away.

Dr. Penfield is professor of neurology and neurosurgery at McGill University and director of the Montreal Neurological Institute. He is giving a series of lectures at Johns Hopkins University.

Turn Dreams On and Off

He told how scientists are now able to turn memories and dreams "on and off" during brain surgery.

Each part of the brain has a particular functions. He explained that through electrical stimulation scinetiststs are finding the various centres that make us act, think—and dream —as we do.

Dr. Penfield gave several case histories showing that when the electrode caused a certain reaction in a patient, the same reaction recurred when the electric charge was applied to the same spot again and again.

One was that of the boy and his dreams.

Dr. Penfield described the process as "a startling discovery (that) should have profound significance in the field of psychology, provided we can interpret the facts properly."

He said that the experiments on 500 different cases have indicated that there is some mechanism of the brain that "inhibits"—presses back— other memory patterns in the same area as the one being "used" at the time.

Turn Up Clue On Man Missing For Year

VICTORIA, B.C., March 24—(CP)—The notation—"Disappeared under peculiar circumstances"—appears in the police file on William Romanuk, who vanished more than a year ago.

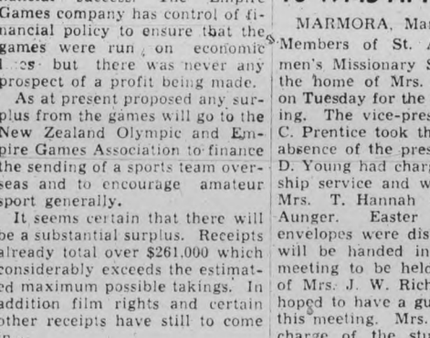
Interest in Romanuks disappearance was renewed Thursday when the Victoria Daily Times said it had learned police had evidence the missing man "might have run afoul of political enemies."

But city police and the R.C.M.P., both of whom have been called into the case, declined to comment on the probable fate of the 47-year-old logger.

The Times said in a newspage story that a suitcase in Romanuk's room contained Communist literature and membership cards. These articles were turned over to the R.C.M.P.

Also, the newspaper said, Romanuk was seen with three "mysterious" men the day he disappeared—March 7, 1949. This report came from John Beranchuk, a cousin of the missing man.

Romanuk's account at a city bank is being watched by police.



The account still contains $250 in cash and $500 in bonds.

Last withdrawal, police said, was made five days before Romanuk was reported missing.

CNR Physically Strong, Vigorous But 42 Million In Red Again

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP). — Physically strong and vigorous, but financially in the red again—that is the 1949 story of Canadian National Railways.

The government-operated 33,000-mile system hit the half-billion dollar mark in earnings for the first time in its 28-year history last year. But on its books it had $42,000,000 in red ink—$9,000,000 more than the 1948 deficit.

The 1949 annual report of North America's largest railway system was tabled in the Commons Thursday by Transport Minister Chevrier. It spoke of continued expansion and modernization, of new trackage and new diesel locomotives coming into operation. But the largest section was given to an explanation of its worsening financial position.

The CN's 1949 gross operating revenue totalled a record $500,723,386 compared with $491,269,950 the previous year. Operating expenses took $478,501,660 of this —up $13,771,690 from 1948—leaving a net operating revenue of $22,221,726 compared with $26,529,980 two years ago.

Operating Surplus

The financial statement showed that the CN actually had a net operating surplus of $4,057,907 before making provision for close to $46,000,000 in obligations held by the public and the government.

It has been the railway's claim that these fixed annual charges are responsible for recurring annual deficits and it is now seeking capital reorganization to cut them down.

The report said a five-per-cent drop in traffic during 1949, the extra financial burden of the newly - acquired Newfoundland railway and the fact that rates still were not in balance with costs all had had an adverse financial effect during the year's operations.

Tabled with the CN report was the annual statement of Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited. It also went into the red in 1949 but for a different reason.

Shortage of dollars in the West Indies cut freight trade 21 per cent of the company's revenue by $631,000 — $6,595,007 compared with $9,964,719 in 1948. Operating expenses were $6,582,608 compared with $7,320,614 for a 1949 operating profit of $12,399 compared with $644,105 in 1948. Payment of interest on bonds and government advances produced a deficit of $460,497 for the year compared with an over-all profit of $166,044 two years ago.

Passenger Traffic Down

The railway report made reference to the CNR case for increased freight rates. It said benefit of rate and fare increases granted during 1949 had been offset by a 9.7 per cent decrease in passenger traffic and 6.44 per cent drop in freight traffic.

The finding of the Royal Commission for Transportation, now considering the views and recommendations of the CNR for financial reorganization, "will be of vital importance to the national system," said the report.

During the year there was an outlay of $47,010,441 in capital expenditure of which $28,332,025 was for new equipment. The report said "Dieselization" of the line will continue and it is expected to add 29 more Diesel-electrics to the 148 the system now has in operation, mostly on freight hauls and in railway yards.

The CN system continued to be the nation's largest employer with 111,000 on its $311,000,000 annual payroll. Of every dollar the line made, payrolls took 56.8 cents of it.

Take Months To Decide Phone Rates

OTTAWA, March 24—(CP)—It will be months before Ontario and Quebec telephone subscribers know whether they're going to pay higher rates.

One reason is that a lengthy list of witnesses is still to be heard in the Bell Telephone rate case before the Board of Transport commissioners.

Bell Telephone Company of Canada is asking the board for permission to boost phone rates in the two provinces. The company now operates about 1,600,000 telephones in Ontario and Quebec. The proposed increase would give Bell a 20-per-cent boost in revenues.

At conclusion of Thursday's sitting, Bell's seventh witness, staff supervisor Harry E. McCrudden, was being questioned by Bell lawyer J. L. O'Brien, of Montreal. It was learned that he is far from the last Bell witness, although company officials declined to say just how many others would be called.

All witnesses are first questioned by lawyers, then cross-examined by various counsel for cities opposing the rate boosts.

After the hearing finishes with Bell witnesses, the opposition is expected to bring some of its own before the board. Then there will be general arguments, after which the board will begin considering the mountains of exhibits and evidence placed before them.

The board took a breather today at the end of the third week of the hearings. The hearing resumes Monday morning.

Testimony Thursday was devoted wholly to Bell's case. Mr. McCrudden told the board that a contract between Bell and its subsidiary, Northern Electric, is advantageous to the phone company.

He said Bell found it economical to stick strictly to the telephone business, leaving the manufacturing, purchasing and warehousing side to Northern Electric.

Mr. McCrudden said Northern Electric, 54 per cent of which is owned by Bell, sells to Bell at most favored customer prices.

Salads Needed to Perk Up Spirits in Dull Weather

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 24 —(CP)— Plenty of salads are needed to perk up the spirits this dull mid-season weather, and fruit salads are ideal for the light luncheon dish.

APPLE CUP SALAD—Core the apples and scoop out the pulp to make apple cups. Fill a bowl with cold water and as each apple cup is made put the cup in the water. This prevents the flesh turning brown.

Dice enough celery to equal one-half the apple pulp. Mix celery and apple pulp with one cup cottage or cream cheese. Blend with salad dressing.

Dry apple cups and fill with mixture. Serve on crisp bends of lettuce.

VEGETABLE SALAD— Ingredients: 1½ cups shredded cabbage; one cup celery; one-quarter cup chopped pimento; three-quarters cup small peas; three-quarters cup green beans; two tablespoons gelatine; one-half cup cold water; one-half cup mild vinegar; two tablespoons lemon juice; two teaspons worcestershire sauce; two cups boiling water; one-half cup sugar; one teaspoon salt.

Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Add vinegar, lemon juice, worcestershire sauce, boiling water, sugar and salt. Cool. When mixture begins to stiffen add remaining ingredients. Turn into wet mould and chill. When set turn out on bed of lettuce.

There's nothing like scrambled eggs with mushrooms for a good supper dish.

Ingredients: two cups sliced mushrooms; three tablespoons butter; eight eggs; two-thirds cup milk; salt and pepper to taste.

Saute mushrooms in butter until tender (two to three minutes.) Beat eggs slightly. And milk and seasonings. Pour into pan with mushrooms. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until mixture coagulates. Serve on toast.

SPANISH EGGS —Ingredients. six eggs; two strips bacon; one small onion (chopped); one tablespoon flour; two cups canned tomatoes; one green pepper (chopped); one cup chopped celery; salt and pepper.

Cook eggs until hard. Remove shells and cut in half. Cut bacon into small pieces and fry until crisp. Remove bacon from fat. Cook onion in fat for a few minutes. Blend in flour. Add tomatoes, green pepper and celery. Simmer for 20 minutes. Add bacon and salt and pepper to taste. Pour sauce over eggs. Serves six.

600 Guests Contribute $300 To Silver Cross Memorial

The Silver Cross Chapter of Peterborough, members of which are wives and mothers of men who lost their lives in the armed services and wear a silver cross presented to them by the government of Canada, received deserving tribute from the citizens when they held their annual tea Wednesday afternoon.

More than 600 guests attended the event and proceeds amount to more than $300. This sum will be used to complete the chapel in the new Civic Hospital which is being entirely furnished by the chapter and will house a memorial scroll with the names of all men in this district who gave their lives in the second war.

Special features which contributed largely to the proceeds were six draw prizes. At close of the tea winning tickets were selected, the three major prizes being drawn for by Mrs. J. A. H. Campbell.

Winner of an embroidered tea cloth is Mrs. B. W. Harvey; a set of towels, Mrs. S. Couper; a pair of pillow cases, Mrs. Luthier, of Chamberlain St.

A decorated hamper of groceries, donated by Mrs. A. Mason, was won by Mrs. Thos. Beatty. Mrs. M. Coward, of Keene, sent in a chocolate iced cake for a raffle prize and this was won by Mrs. Lebarr, Aylmer St., when Mrs. Jas. Ellis drew her ticket. A box of candy went to Mrs. Jack Richardson on a ticket drawn by Mrs. A. S. Williams.

Pale pink was the key color of decorations, seen in the bouquet of tulips, snapdragon and carnations arranged in a crystal bowl for the centre, and highlighted with pencil tapers in the flower shades. Lighted pink candles were on the tea table and atop the piano.

Tea pourers were Mrs. Edith Lelland, Mrs. C. S. Browne, Mrs. L. M. Freure and Mrs. J. E. Patte. Serving were Mrs. E. Pearse, Mrs. G. Young, Mrs. Forsythe, Mrs. M. A. Fitzgerald, Mrs. F. Burnham, Mrs. A. W. Martin, Mrs. E. Quirt and Mrs. E. Cowling.

Mrs. J. Young and Mrs. A. Williams convened the refreshments and assisted to replenish the plates and tea pots.

Mrs. Jas. Ellis played softly on the piano as the tea opened. Mrs. W. Davies and Mrs. A. S. Williams were hostesses in the tea room.

Convener of home cooking table was Mrs. F. H. Patterson who was assisted by Mrs. G. A. Brackenridge and Miss Henry. The sale of work table was in charge of Mrs. S. Gibbs with Mrs. H. P. Lang, Mrs. F. H. Cox and Mrs. E. White assitsing. Mrs. J. E. Gynane had charge of candy and was assisted by Mrs. E. Brady.

Mrs. J. H. Coones was convener of the draws and was assisted by Mrs. R. A. Dutton and Mrs. W. G. Morrow in selling tickets.

In the receiving line were president of the Chapter Mrs. B. W. Harvey, Mrs. B. D. Hall, representing the army, Mrs. F. C. Paterson, representing the navy and Mrs. J. W. Ebbs for the air force.

Mrs. E. Pruner, treasurer, was taking tickets, assisted by Mrs. T. Hendry.

Emotional Ills Cause Lost Time

MONTREAL — (CP) — More than 50 per cent of the ills suffered by Canadian industrial workers are caused by emotional disturbances Dr. H. Graham Ross, of Montreal, reveals on the basis of studies organized by the Industrial Relations Centre of McGill University.

In an article published in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Journal, Dr. Ross states that emotional ill health ranks only second to the common cold as a cause of lost time.

Dr. Ross explains that breakdowns are often caused by the modern-line tendency to break the jobs so that the workers often use motions which have no meaning to him in relation to the finished product.

Other causes are the lack of responsibility, the unpredictable flow of work, repetitive jobs, and jobs which make demands above or below the individual's capacity.

Ills may also find their sources in aggravating relations between the boss and his workers, Dr. Ross writes. Among the disturbing causes, he lists rejection of the worker by his fellow-workers or the boss, rigid job standards required by the boss and the lack of active recognition for work done.

Dr. Ross thinks that the aging worker, faced with uncertain future, and the physically handicapped are specially prone to emotional disturbances. Other workers who tend to get disturbed are those who show hostility, insecurity, and inferiority.

The remedy, Dr. Ross urges, is better co-operation between the medical and personnel department. "The industrial physician," he writes, "is in a position to provide guidance and direction to management for better health in industry."

Equal Rights Plan Of Communism 50-50 All Ways

BERLIN, March 24—(AP)—Communism is designing a new formula in Eastern Germany which may mean that father no longer "wears the pants' 'at home.

His wife no longer would even bear his name. She may have her own or both.

The impending law will climax a hectic campaign of the East-zone communists against what they call "decadent, bourgeois and capitalistic relics in private life.

With a glance at Russia they have told German housewives that to achieve "equal rights" they should follow the Soviet example and swap the kitchen for a factory job.

Many women are reluctant to respond to the "equal rights" campaign, because the other side of the "equal rights" obliges the wife to "earn 50 per cent for the support of the common household." The husband must make up the other half of the income.

Another paragraph of the draft law secures the wife the right "to dispose alone of the fortune she brings into or earns during the marriage."

It also abridges the exclusive right of the father to decide all questions of education and upbringing of children, and shares this responsibility with the mother.

Communist editorials have made it plain that a major purpose of the "equal rights for women" campaign is to provide East Germany's industries with female labor. The East-zone suffers which is expected to prevail for years to come.

Women Interested In City's Affairs

Twenty-five women Thursday evening attended an open meeting at which possibility of forming a women's organization to study and report on the government of Peterborough was discussed. The meeting was sponsored by the YWCA Public Affairs Committee and Miss M. McIntosh was chairman.

It was agreed that there was pressing need for such an organization but a definite decision on what will be done is not yet reached.

Tentatively, Mrs. Weldon Fanning is appointed to convene a study group on civic affairs and eight women are appointed to an assisting committee, which may be added to at the discretion of the convener.

A preliminary meeting of this committee will take place Tuesday evening, March 28.

PresentationMade Mr. Mrs. C. Cooke

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooke, who are moving from 124 Maude St. to a home in Harwood, were tendered a farewell party Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watson, 128 Maude St. The friends and neighbors gathered enjoyed a gay time together, singing and playing games. Mr. Wm. Jackson read an appropriate address to the couple and presented them with a purse of money. Mrs. Mabel Miller pinned a corsage of roses on Mrs. Cooke's dress.

OSCAR WINNERS—Olivia deHavilland and Broderick Crawford were awarded Oscars by Hollywood for their top performances in "The Heiress" and "All The King's Men". Best supporting actors were Mercedes McCombridge and Dean Jagger.

De Havilland and Crawford Win Hollywood's Oscars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 24 (AP)—Olivia De Havilland, the love-starved Victorian in "The Heiress," and Broderick Crawford, ruthless politico of "All the King's Men," won Hollywood's highest honor Thursday night—the Academy Award.

"All the King's Men" was named the best picture of 1949.

Radio actress Mercedes McCambridge was selected the best supporting actress for her work in "All the King's Men," her first movie. Miss McCambridge recently was married to Fletcher Markle, former CBC producer and writer in Toronto, now working for a Hollywood studio.

Dean Jagger, who played an army officer in "Twelve O'Clock High," snagged an Oscar as the best supporting actor.

Crawford, who once was consigned to the oblivion of Class B pictures, leaped from his seat when he heard Jane Wyman read his name as the winner. He could say little more than: "Thank God."

Miss De Havilland accepted the award from James Stewart with dignity becoming the fifth star in motion picture academy history to win the grand prize twice. Other double winners are Bette Davis, Spencer Tracy, Fredric March and Luise Rainer.

Other Awards

Other major awards: Direction, Joseph L. Mankiewicz for 'A Letter to Three Wives"; screen play, Mankiewicz for the same film; story and screen play, Robert Pirosh for "Battleground"; best motion picture story, Douglas Morrow for "The Stratton Story"; original song, Ffank Loesser for "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

Cecil B. De Mille was cited for his 37 years of creating film epics. Despite the fact that he has long been Hollywood's biggest money maker, De Mille's garish films never before have been honored by the academy.

Other special Oscars went to Italy's "The Bicycle Thief" as the best foreign language film and to Bobby Driscoll as the best juvenile performer.

The ceremony marked a renewal of the academy's old-time glamor. A dozen searchlights pierced the sky over the Pantages Theatre for Hollywood's biggest publicity stunt. A big crowd outside yowled for their film favorites and the actresses seemed to vie for lowest-cut-gown honors.

Theatre Groups Praised On Performance

KIRKLAND LAKE, March 24—(CP).—Performances by theatrical groups from Kirkland Lake and Timmins won an adjudicator's praise Thursday night at the start of Northern Ontario drama festival finals.

The program consisted of "Overlaid," by Robertson Davies of Peterborough, presented by a Kirkland Lake group; "Les Irascibles," given in French by a second group from here; and "The Patchwork Quilt," a phantasy performed by the Porcupine Little Theatre group from Timmins.

Tonight's presentations in the festival are "Boccaccio's Untold Tale" by a Kirkland Lake group and "Thursdays at Home" by players from North Bay. Tomorrow night the festival will close with "The Lovely Miracle," a Sudbury entry, and a French play, "La Bourrine," by a Timmins group. Announcement of the winners will follow the final presentations.

Acting Good

Dr. Pierre-Alain Belanger of Hawkesbury, the adjudicator, described the acting in "Overlaid" as "wonderful." He praised the off-stage voices and said the director, Helen Saari, "obviously knows what it is all about."

Dr. Belanger said the group that presented "Les Irascibles" showed "a lot of courage" in attempting the farce. However, he felt that the slapstick in the play had not been sufficiently emphasized and that possibly there had been under-acting.

Commenting on the Timmins play, directed by Mary Drew, he said the lighting effects were "pitiful" but had apparently been carried out under adverse conditions. He praised the players, especially Colette Poliquin and Rosetta Labrassa, and said all members of the cast "did wonderfully."

Land Too High Will Curb House Building

OTTAWA, March 24—Lack of reasonably priced serviced land, rather than shortages of labour and materials, likely will place the main limitation on home construction in 1950, the government's housing agency said in a report tabled Thursday in the Commons.

The Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., administrator of all federal housing legislation, said in its 1949 report that the "scarcity of serviced building lots, particularly in the large urban areas, is likely to prove more limiting on the volume of new starts than is the supply of labor and materials."

Despite the limitations, corporation officials estimated that 1949's record of 91,000 completed homes should at least be matched this year.

Seek Agreements

The report referred to the federal housing legislation passed at the last session and said there were indications that four or five of the provinces will seek Dominion-provincial agreements on joint housing projects. It did not name the provinces.

It was likely that participating provinces would join the federal government in seeking the co-operation of municipalities to remedy the shortage of serviced land.

The federal legislation authorized the corporation to put up 75 per cent of the cost incurred in joint projects for the development of land and the construction of houses for sale or rent. The provinces would pay 25 per cent and any profits or losses also would be split on a 75-25 per cent basis.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

Red treys seem to be one of the most confusing features in Canasta. I receive many questions like the following:

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—Play had proceeded for several rounds. Both sides needed 90 points for their initial meld. Finally one player drew from the stock pile, then laid down a joker and 2 aces. Now he discovered that he had a red trey in his hand, and he put it down on the table, drawing a card from the stock pile to replace it. This card happened to be a seven, and the up-card on the discard pile was a seven. Now the player wanted to use a deuce from his hand and the seven he drew, and take the discard pile.

Having overlooked the red trey until after he melded, was he entitled to draw a replacement card from the stock pile, and then pick up the pack?

✧ ✧ ✧

A—The best way to answer this question is to quote law 13 of the Official Canasta Laws of the National Canasta Laws Commission. When you read it, you will see that, although it may be common practice to allow a player to place a red trey on the table and replace it with a card from the stock pile any time before he has discarded, actually, after he has made his draw and melded, he is not entitled to put the red trey down on the table until his next turn to play.

Red Threes

"13. a. When a player draws a red three from the stock, he must immediately place it face up on the table and replenish his hand by drawing the top card of the stock.

"b. If the last card of the stock is a red three, the player who draws it places it face up on the table, melds if he can, but may not discard; and the hand ends at that point.

c. If a player picks up a discard pile containing one or more red threes (possible only if they were turned up initially; see Law 6), he places them face up on the table but does not draw from the stock to replace them.

"d. If a player is dealt any red threes as part of his original hand, he must place them face up on the table at his first turn to play and must replenish his hand from the stock either before or after his regular draw.

"e. If a player fails to replenish his hand for a red three and the error is not discovered until the next player has drawn, play continues without correction.

"f. When play ends, a partnership that has melded is credited with 100 points for each of its red three, or with 800 points for all four red threes. The same amounts are deducted if the partnership has not melded.

"g. When a play inadvertently fails to place a red three on the table at his first proper opportunity, he may correct the error without penalty at any subsequent turn to play. If the hand ends before this correction is made, the offender's side is penalized 500 points."

Getting back to the question, even if the player was permitted to play the red trey and replace it from the stock pile after he had made his regular draw and melded, under no circumstances couldl he then take the discard pile. If there were any additional melds in his hand that he desired to make, he could make them. Then he must discard, and his turn to play is over.

DOROTHY DIX

Successful Efficient Woman Rarely A Popular Person

DEAR MISS DIX: What on earth is the matter with me that people seem to dislike me so much? I am a college graduate, married, don't gossip, hard worker in church and fraternal circles. I succeed in whatever I undertake in a public way. I can play music; can speak or read papers, but never attempt to do any of these things unless asked, yet all the women seem to dislike me because I can

Dorothy Dix

PUZZLED.

ANSWER: Perhaps the reason you are not popular is because you are bossy. Most executive people are, even when they don't realize it. The talent of efficiency gets you where you are going, but it doesn't make you friends en route.

Perhaps it hurts the vanity of others to see someone succeed where they have failed or perhaps it is because all of us like to do things in our own way and we resent having someone assume authority over us and tell us just where we get on and get off.

Do You Feel Superior?

Or perhaps the reason you are not popular is because you feel yourself superior to the women with whom you are thrown in your club work. Perhaps you are not popular because you talk too much. I know a woman who has every good quality, but whom people avoid as they would the plague just because she has too much tongue. She seems to think that the whole world is dying to know every detail of her private affairs and she never lets anybody get in a word abou. theirs.

Perhaps the reason you are not popular is because you are not friendly yourself. You have got to meet people more than halfway and do a lot of liking yourself if you want to be liked.

If you are not popular, be sure the fault is in yourself. Everybody cannot be wrong about you

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My son is almost 12 years old. When he was 4 it was necessary for me to go to work in order to help with the household expenses and save a little money for the future. I could leave him safely because my mother-in-law lived with us. She has just died. I must continue working, as my husband lost his regular job, but between us we earn enough to pay the bills. My problem is the boy. Is it safe for him to be left alone from 3 p.m. until 6 p.m., when we get home? Can he be taught to take care of himself alone during these hours? How can I know that he is playing with the right children?

A WORRIED MOTHER

ANSWER: Can you not find some nice middle-aged woman who for the sake of a good home and whatever you can afford to pay her, would be willing to take your mother-in-law's place and keep an eye upon your boy. If you can afford it, it would be worth making many sacrifices for, because these are the formative years of your boy's life, and you want him to get the right start.

Of course, in reality a mother should be on her job, and when her children come home from school she should be there to welcome tem, with the cookie jar filled. She should know where what they are going to play and handpick their chums. But many mothers who might do this and see how their children spent their afternoons, do not do it. You at least have the justification of working so that you may give him a better home, a better environment and a better education than he could otherwise have.

So my advice to you is just to do the best you can and quit worrying over it. Any boy who has as conscientious a mother as ours has is mightly likely to turn out all right.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do some girls never fall in love? If so, why don't they? How can a girl tell whether she is really in love or not? EVA

ANSWER: Some girls never fall in love because they are not sentimentally inclined. Others because they never meet any man who comes up to their ideal, or who fires their fancy. You know when you fall in love by the symptoms. You just have that gone feeling. It is unmistakable.

Children Present Program At Parkhill School Tea

Children stole the show on Wednesday at the Parkhill school during the afternoon tea held by the Home and School Association. Kindergarten teacher Mrs Carl Brickman trained the young entertainers for their performances, and arranged and styled the costumes they wore.

Paul Holloway made a hit as he blushingly sang "Just because you kissed me good-night" and Spencer Tucker drew hearty applause with his song "I don't want to go to school," though it seems as yet he is averse to missing a day's classes.

Five little girls became spring garden flowers when they wore large flower petal headdresses. Joyce Durein was a forget-me-not, Sharon Hill a pink petunia, Sharon Ferguson a daffodil, Karen White a violet and Betty Ann Hughey a buttercup.

The "Easter Parade" rivalled anything that will be seen on board walks this year. Six little ladies in dainty floor-length gowns and hats, each carrying a colorful nosegay with streamers, were escorted by six equally young but very courteous gentlemen who wore black silk hats and tail coats and pants to match with gleaming white shirt fronts showing.

The parading couples were Lorraine and Wayne Harvey, Linda Parnell and Paul Holloway, Tracey Reynolds and Dougie Hewie, Rosemary Clark and Spencer Tucker, Marilyn Hallick and Bernie Montgomery, Janice Jones and Warren Ferguson.

Mrs. B. Holloway and Mrs. S. Tucker assisted Mrs. Brickman as pianists.

Truly works of art were the decorations made for this event and they too were designed and made by Mrs. Brickman.

A charming mural depicted a country scene in spring with the main characters a young farmer boy in overalls and a frisky young calf. On another wall there was an apple blossom tree that would surely evoke jealousy in any live robin that chanced to see his replica feeding a worm to four fat fledglings nested in its branches. Life-size silhouettes of Easter bunnies and a huge basket of colored eggs were on another wall beside a simulated flower shop window that displayed every type of potted plant that blooms in the spring.

All these decorations were on the tea room's three walls, the fourth being windows of the modern school front just completed this winter.

Here too was a charming tea table centred with a bouquet of tulips and daffodils cleverly arranged in a green enamel-lined silver dish and flanked with silver triple candelabra which held flickering yellow tapers. The table cloth was a beautiful sample of fine cutwork and was edged with fine lace.

Brightening the outer hall where a rushing sale of home baking went on were more flowers designed by Mrs. Brickman. The hollyhocks and lupins were so realistic guests felt it must surely be summer.

President Mrs. Floyd Parnell and vice-president Mrs. M. Bullied were receiving. Mrs. Bullied was also the general convener who supervised all the tea arrangements. Mrs. A. Seppala was hostess in the tea room.

Miss V. Squire and Miss B. Wright of the teaching staff poured the tea. Servers were Mrs. T. Griffin, Mrs. J. Essex, Mrs. J. Thorburn, Mrs L. Knox, Mrs M. Deering, Mrs V. Ferguson, and Mrs. H. Lewis. Plates were replenished by Mrs. L. White and Mrs. T. Sturgeon, while those helping in the kitchen were Mrs. A. Clarke, Mrs M. Pontin, Mrs. B. Hewie and Mrs. F. Elcombe. All the refreshments were homemade.

The home baking was sold by Mrs. S. Fulton, Mrs. R. Hood and Mrs. A. Robertson.

Mrs. W. Anderson and Mrs. B. Lincoln were at the treasurer's table.

SATIN overchecked faille in navy blue with frost white is used by Alvinna for a belted coat that is equally at home in sun or shower.

Australian Women Chose Fall Wear

SYDNEY Australia, —(CP) — While women in the northern hemisphere shop for new spring frocks, Australians are preparing their fall and winter wardrobes.

Most popular are the Australian-made knitted woollen suits and dresses in pastel shades. Following overseas styles of a moulded silhouette, unpadded shoulders and natural waistline, the dresses are in such colorful shades as a golden "beach sand" and a soft "pine cone brown."

To promote Australian woollens a series of murals was designed, depicting the four seasons in wool. the murals were 50 feet across and five feet high.

Farm Girl Designs And Decorates Air Terminals

NEW YORK — (CP) — Tiny Pamela Drake is one young woman who has made her childhood dream come true.

Gazing across the wide-open spaces of the Montana ranch where she was born, she used to dream of getting away and "going places."

Last year, as designer and decorator of airline terminals, she was constantly on the go, travelling as much as 5,000 miles a week between airports in the United States, the West Indies and Latin America.

Pamela started "going places" by way of the College of Fine Arts at Washington State University, working half-days for a decorating firm during her four-year course. Then came a job with an airline company, (Pan-American), combining secretarial and promotion work, until one day she submitted a design for beautifying one of the line's California terminals.

Not only was her design accepted, but she was sent to take over the decorating. That was six years ago, and the first of 22 such jobs she has handled.

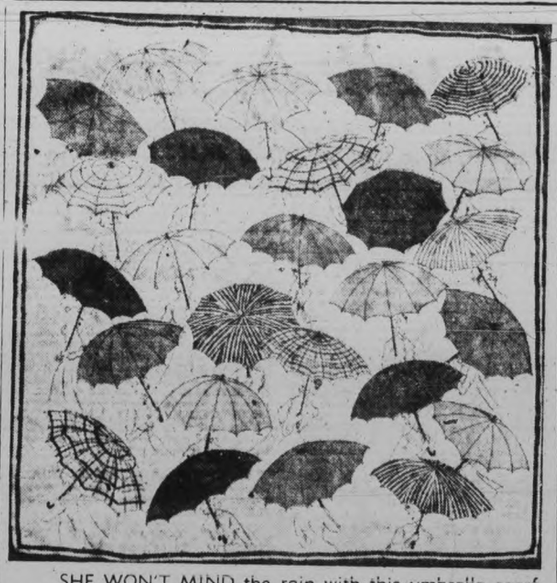
Each job presents its own challenge, for she works on the principle of using local materials and labor wherever she is working.

Learnt On Fear

"Being born on a farm was my first lucky break," she says "A farm is the best place in the world to form the habit of making the most of what happens to be around. That's what I do when I'm fixing up airports in the tropics."

She spends days the start of a new job just wandering around, absorbing atmosphere, visiting little shops and markets, talking to craftsmen.

"Ideas for design and materials take definite form after I get myself soaked in the personality of a place and its resources," she said. "I poke around talking with workers who could make curtains and chairs and a bar, and with artists who could paint murals that I design.



Uses Locality

"I use only what the locality offers. That's what air travelers like to see."

Sometimes it's necessary to teach the native workers how to make the things she wants.

"One think I am proud of," she admitted. "Wherever I have been I have left new industries at which native craftsmen are still working. After getting a start with me, they went ahead on their own.

This year, as a new venture, she is decorating aircraft interiors but hopes there will be the occasional trip to far-away places. The flights are good "for catching up on sleep," she says.

SHE WON'T MIND the rain with this umbrella scarf by Lillimar which is treated for water repellency.

6—In Memoriams

DAYNES—In loving memory of our dear Marie who left us March 24 1947.
Though her smile has gone forever
And her hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of the one we loved so much,
Her memory is our keep sake
With which we'll never part;
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.
—Sadly missed by mother, sisters and brothers.

HILL—In loving memory of Darcy Hill, who passed away, March 24, 1949.
His charming ways and smiling face,
Are a pleasure to recall
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
—Always remembered by Cathy.

HILL—In loving memory of a dear father, Darcy Hill, who passed away March 24, 1949.
Your last parting wish
We would like to have heard
And breathed in your ear
Our last parting word.
Only those who have lost
Are able to tell
The pain in the heart
At not saying farewell.
—Sadly missed by son Claire.

HILL—In loving memory of D'Arcy Hill, who passed away March 24th, 1949.
He passed away so silently
While we ate our evening meal.
Time will never fill the gap
Or tell just how we feel.

He is gone; gone forever,
But his memories stay behind.
And that sore, regretful feeling
That no one can define.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

LOWES—In loving memory of a dear husband and father George J. Lowes, who departed this life March 24, 1943.
We cannot clasp your hand Father dear
Your face we cannot see
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee
—Forever remembered by wife and family.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of David Mahood, who passed away March 23, 1949.
As long as life my heart shall hold
Thy memory ever dear,
And o'er the grave in loving grief
Shall fall a silent tear.
—Ever remembered by his Aunt Earla and Uncle Leonard.

10 Tons TNT Explode On Transport

Two Spectators Killed As Blast Felt In 50-Mile Radius

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 25—(AP)—A truck loaded with 10 tons of dynamite caught fire and blew up on a highway 20 miles northwest of here Friday night. Two persons were killed and the countryside was rocked for 50 miles around.

The spectacular blast dug a 15-foot crater through the highway pavement, tore down power lines and threw most of the sparsely-settled mid-Tennessee area into darkness.

One of the two dead, both of whom had left a car to look at the burning truck, was identified as John L. O'Guin, 63, a Nashville insurance man.

Efforts to identify the other man were not immediately successful.

The trick driver, listed as Lloyd L. Brantley, 39, of McCalla, Ala., brought the big vehicle loaded with 400 cases of explosives to a stop on a truckers' light signal from E. E. Minis, 27, of Nashville, driver of a truck pulling up behind.

Signals Driver

"I saw his truck smoking and flashed him a signal," Minis told newspaper men. "The driver stopped his truck and when he got out it started flaming up.

"He (Brantley) shouted out, 'this thing is loaded with dynamite. Let's get out of here."

"He went north on the road and I went south, stopping cars and telling them to turn around. I was about a fourth of a mile down the road when it exploded with a big white-and-red light."

The explosion was felt and heard in all parts of Nashville and flooded newspaper offices with inquiries. Dozens of persons who flocked to the scene from both directions on the highway were knocked down. None of the injured was reported in critical condition.

Elephants Panic Terrify Pomona

POMONA, Calif., March 25—(AP)—Two elephants, frightened by a passing train, broke away from their circus keepers Friday night, ran amok for 1½ hours and critically injured an attendant who tried to load them back on their train.

Leroy Spellman, 29, circus attendant, was severely hurt when a four-ton female elephant picked him up in her trunk, threw him to the ground and then rolled on him. He was taken to Pomona Hospital with multiple abrasions and internal injuries.

Police said the huge animals were being led back to the circus train. A blast from the whistle of a passing train threw them into panic.

The pair tore loose from their handlers and set out on a rampage through this Los Angeles suburb that caused uncounted damage.

Appoint Charbonneau Roman Court Assistant

OTTAWA, March 25 —(CP)— The apostolic delegate to Canada, Msgr. Ildebrando Antoniutti, today announced the appointment of Archbishop Joseph Charbonneau, former Archbishop of Montreal, as assistant to the pontifical throne and Roman court.

The announcement followed appointment of Rt. Rev. Paul Emile Leger, rector of the Pontifical Canadian College in Rome, to succeed Archbishop Charbonneau, whose resignation was announced some weeks ago.

The brief announcement from the apostolic delegate added:

"This distinction has been granted by His Holiness the Pope as a token of his paternal benevolence towards the former Archbishop of Montreal."

Trains Collide

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 25—(AP)—Two, and possibly three, construction workers were killed and 11 were injured Friday when an Alaska railroad train hit a rail speeder pulling three trailers around a blind curve. Three others escaped injuries by jumping off the speeder.

Drew Demands Pension Plan Be Made Good

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP) — A challenge was hurled in the Commons Friday night for the government to make good promises to start an old-age pensions scheme without the much-criticized means test.

It was made by Progressive leader Drew who said the government, as far back as 1945, had said it was willing to inaugurate a contributory old-age pensions scheme. Instead it was proceeding with a plan to establish a parliamentary committee.

Removal of the means test and expansion of the government's old-age pensions scheme had been matters of public statements by various government ministers in the last few years, Mr. Drew said.

The only thing left for the government to do was to reconvene the 1945 Dominion-Provincial conference, get provincial approval of its plans and bring the legislation into the Commons.

Mr. Drew said the government has stated the reason it did not proceed with its proposals was because it did not achieve agreement with the provinces five years ago.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Drew added, the provinces did not oppose those social security measures which the government proposed.

Generally Opposed

Health Minister Martin said that statement was not factual. Mr. Drew knew, as did others in the Commons, that health proposals which might have been put forward at the conference were part of a pattern which embodied financial and other proposals. Everyone knew that the general pattern of those proposals was opposed by Ontario of which Mr. Drew then was Premier.

Ontario never had opposed those health proposals, he continued. The 1945 conference, in fact, had broken up with the indication that another conference was to be held.

"And we are holding one this fall," said Mr. Martin.

The reason the government was calling a Dominion-Provincial conference this fall, said Mr. Drew, was not to discuss a health or old-age pension program but because the Dominion Provincial taxation agreements were due to end at the end of the fiscal year in 1951.

That alone was the reason the government was calling the conference next fall.

Labor Party's Founder Harold Laski Dies In UK

LONDON, March 25.—Harold Laski one of the world's leading theoreticians and a principal architect of the British Labor Party's rise to power, died suddenly in a hospital here tonight. His age was 56.

He was taken to the hospital yesterday after a sudden collapse of his left lung. On Wednesday, according to a friend, he seemed to be recovering from influenza. Dr. Laski had pneumonia in January but afterward while still ill continued his work at the school of economics of London University where he was a lecturer in political science.

Dr. Laski had been a Liberal in his youth but after teaching in the United States came back a fervent Socialist. He exercised considerable educational influence on the development of the Labor Party, first as a member of the Fabian Society and then of the executive of the Labor Party on which he sat for 13 years from 1936. He was chairman of the party in 1945, a year of triumph and power when Labor won the general election.

Dr. Laski was one of the few modern British Socialists whose teachings have influenced Socialist movements all over the world, of which he was closest in touch with the French Socialist Party.

His fundamental belief was in the liberal state of the instrument of coercion of a property owning class, and of revolution by consent. But his political philosophy was qualified by the practical force of English tradition.

In 1946 he sued a newspaper for libel, complaining it had inaccurately reported him as having said in the 1945 election campaign: "We shall have to use violence even if it means revolution." He lost the action and the Labor Party opened a fund to pay the costs.

Prime Minister Attlee paid this tribute: "I have heard with deep regret of the death of Professor Laski. He was a personal friend of many years' standing and a man of outstanding gifts who had done great work for labor and the Socialist movement. His brilliant intellect illuminated many of the social and political problems of our time."

85 Czechs Escape To Germany

53 Surprised People Not In On Plot Want To Go Back

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 25—(AP)—The U.S. Air Force today announced about 53 of the 85 Czechs who landed in the U.S. zone of Germany Friday want to return to their Communist-ruled homeland. The Czechs landed at the Erding Air Base near Munich in three planes. Two of the planes, the Air Force said, "landed voluntarily." The other put down "with the chief pilot at the point of a gun." The "president of the Czech airline," the announcement continued, was the only "prominent" or important person in the group, most of whom had bought tickets for Prague and "evidently had no knowledge that they were to land in the US zone of Germany."

The planes, the Air Force said, departed from Bratislava, Ostrava and Brno—"widely separated cities in Czechoslovakia"—and were cleared for Prague.

"Preliminary investigations by USAFE (U.S. Air Force in Europe) authorities indicate approximately 53 persons have expressed a desire to return to their homeland," the communique concluded.

No Explanation

The announcement did not say whether the landing was part of a mass, organized plot, what was meant by "landing voluntarily," and whether the Czech airline president—who was not otherwise identified—was one of those who wanted to stay or go back.

The statement said 67 men, 16 women, one child and one infant were aboard the planes. It identified the aircraft as "Czech commercial planes of the DC-3 type."

An Air Force spokesman declined to amplify the statement or clarify the situation.

The successive landing of the three planes coincided with a flood of rumors in Prague, the Czech capital, of assassinations, palace revolutions and major developments in the Red-led government there.

The spectacular escape already had been widely rumored there, although the government-controlled press as yet had made no announcement of the flight.

Something Big

This report, combined with a flurry of unconfirmed reports more pointed than the usual run of stories persisting in such rigidly governed countries, added to the feeling even in Prague that "something big has happened."

The most persistent of these was that Deputy Premier Zdenek Fierlinger either had been assassinated by the anti-Communist underground or had committed suicide. A Czech government spokesman said these rumors were greeted in official circles "with roars of laughter."

SEE-SAUCERS—In Long Branch, Calif., Air Force Sgts. William Elder (left) and Robert O'Hara swear on a Bible they saw "a pinkish, pancake-like affair with a fin on one side" cavorting in the sky near here for nearly two hours. They made the drawing of the object at left, latest in a long series of flying saucerish reports.

UE-CGE Settlement Ready? Contract Details Studied

A settlement between the UE and the CGE in their nine-month-old contract dispute appears imminent, reports from Toronto indicate. A basis for settlement is expected to be laid before the two parties today.

No official confirmation of these reports has yet been given and C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, issued a flat denial. Canadian Press dispatches however say that only a few details remain to be ironed out.

Sunday at 2 p.m. Peterborough's negotiating committee will report the situation at a special membership meeting held in the market hall. President Jackson and T. P. Davies, president of Local 524 UE, will both address the workers.

Same Offer

The company's last offer to the union was the same as the recommendation of a majority report of the Conciliation Board; a reduction from 44 to 42 hours in the work week and a compensating wage increase of 4.77 per cent.

In Peterborough, however, the work week is 45 hours and the union states that a straight 4.77 per cent increase is insufficient to compensate for the three-hour reduction.

Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, has been meeting with both parties to bring about a settlement.

About 5,500 workers are involved at the Toronto and Peterborough plants.

Acquit Foster-Mother Of Punishing Actress

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif., March 25. (AP).—Lora Lee Michel's foster mother was free today of a charge of unjustifiably punishing the nine-year-old actress. A jury of eight women and four men, returned a verdict of innocent Friday night after more than seven hours' deliberation.

The prosecutor charged that the child actress was beaten and starved and her health jeopardized by an insufficient diet to keep her from outgrowing juvenile roles.

Mrs. Ona Wargin, the child's drama coach, testified Mrs. Michel admitted she spanked Lora Lee with a hair brush last Dec. 15 because the child had stolen food. Other prosecution witnesses said they saw bruises on the child's body.

Mrs. Michel denied she used a hair brush and said she spanked Lora Lee only with her hand for telling falsehoods. She tesified the child was neither hungry nor half-starved but that she had been put on a diet that banned sweets, fats and starches. Her physician testified she was overweight and required such a diet.

Toscanini 83

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Arturo Toscanini is 83 today. "The Maestro" — dean of the world's great conductors—plans no celebration beyond the regular Saturday evening broadcast of the NBC Symphony Orchestra. Three years ago Toscanini told his players to forget about his birthdays until he is 90.

Sabre Charge Quells Rioters

BRUSSELS, March 25 (AP)—Belgium went back to work today after a one-day "stop Leopold" strike that took nearly 400,000 workers from their jobs.

The country started its second week with only a "caretaker" government as the 81-year-old elder statesman, Count Henri Carton De Wiart, told Regent Prince Charles he could not find an answer to the crisis that arose when Premier Gaston Eyskens and his cabinet resigned last Saturday.

The regent was expected to ask a younger political personality, probably from Eyskens' Social Christian (Catholic) party, to form a cabinet. Such a government probably would be made up entirely from the premier-designate's party. Refusal of Liberal party ministers to support Eyskens' pro-Leopold plans had caused his government's resignation.

Friday's strike aroused violence only in Brussels, where attempts to operate strike-breaking streetcars provoked riots culminating in a sabre charge by mounted police. Nine persons were reported injured in the series of disturbances in the capital.

Elsewhere the country remained quiet during the walkout, which was confined to the Brussels area and to the country's entire southern industrial section.

Blast In Lab Injures Four

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—An explosion of hydrogen gas in the physics building of the University of Toronto Friday injured four persons one of them severely. It rocked the district and destroyed equipment the value of which was termed "inestimable."

Dr. John Findlay, 35, was taken to hospital with a broken arm and cuts on his legs and body. Three technicians in the building were treated for cuts from flying glass.

The explosion could be felt a few hundred yards away in Baldwin House, just north of College St. on St. George St. Windows were shattered in the McLennan building, and the force of the blast blew out panes in the University Press building, nearly 50 feet away.

The four men were the only occupants of the laboratory when the accident occurred. Under the direction of Findlay, the technicians were liquefying highly explosive hydrogen gas. Suddenly there was a terrific bang, and Ezra was hurled out the door into the corridor.

Freebooter Favorite Wins Race

Wot No Sun Places Second In Field, Acthon Major Third

AINTREE, Lancashire, England, March 25—(CP)—Freebooter, the favorite, today won the 104th running of the Grand National, turfdom's toughest steeplechase. Wot No Sun was second, 20 lengths behind.

Achton Major was third in the field of 49 starters. Le Daim was scratched just before post-time for the jumping classic, which was run before a huge crowd, including the Royal Family.

Freebooter, a nine-year-old gelding by Steelpoint-Proud Fury, closed as the favorite at 10 to 1. Wot No Sun closed at 100 to 7. Freebooter was the first favorite to come home the winner since Sprig, at 8 to 1, did it in 1927.

3 Canadian Winners

At least three Canadians won Irish Hospital Sweepstakes prizes.

A Toronto woman and a hotel employee at Ottawa got prizes of $31,000 each. They held tickets on Wot No Sun. Another Ottawa man won $15,000 on Achton Major.

No Canadian is known to hold an Irish Sweeps ticket on the winner, Freebooter. A ticket on the winning horse is worth $77,500.

The known winners:

Mrs. T. G. Manlay, 52-year-old Toronto secretary, whose husband is ill and jobless—$31,000.

Roland Boisvenue, 21-year-old Ottawa hotel employee—$31,000.

Romeo Barbier, employee of the National Film Board at Ottawa—$15,500.

The race, over 4 miles and 856 yards with 30 stiff jumps, was held under bright sunshine.

Heavily Favored

The winner, who didn't race in the National last year, is owned by Mrs. L. Brotherton. Freebooter has been favored in all betting callovers in recent weeks.

Acthon Major closed at 33-1.

Rowland Roy was fourth and Monaveen, owned by the Queen and Princess Elizabeth, finished fifth. Monaveen was leading in the early part of the race.

Protest School Grant

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—A resolution protesting added burdens thrown on municipalities by the new provincial educational grant system was passed Friday by the Urban School Trustees Association.

Educational representatives from principal Ontario cities described the grant system as inadequate for their needs, arbitrary in action and ill-advised.

The resolution urged that no school board receive less money than it did in 1949.

Principal losses under the new system were in grants to vocational schools, the trustees said. Toronto said it would lose $260,000 under the new schedule of payments. London, Ont., estimated a loss of between $50,000 and $55,000 and North Bay a loss of $22,000.

Meet In Brussels

LONDON, March 25 (Reuters)—The Foreign, Defence and Finance Ministers of Europe's western union powers will meet in Brussels April 16 and 17, it was officially announced here. The Ministers of the five powers—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, will discuss how the defence plans of the treaty can best be financed.

Bewdley Driver Jailed For Six Months

COBOURG, March 25 —(CP)— An assize court jury, after an hour's deliberation brought in a verdict late Friday afternoon which found Harvey Lingard not guilty of motor manslaughter but guilty of dangerous driving. After informing the jury that he agreed with their verdict, Mr. Justice Dalton Wells imposed a term of six months in prison on the youth.

"I feel certain that had you not been drinking that day, your little cousin would be alive today," commented His Lordship.

Lingard, the evidence revealed, was the driver of a car which went out of control on the way home from Roseneath Fair on October 16 last, upsetting in the ditch. His cousin, nine-year-old Nancy Davis of Bewdley, died in the accident from a fractured skull. Lingard is a resident of Bewdley also.

Harry Deyman acted for the Crown and H. R. S. Ryan was counsel for the accused.

Hears Tire Blow

Fred Toms of Garden Hill, driver of the car ahead of Lingard, said he felt a slight bump just before the accident and saw the car behind him slide into the ditch. Lingard was on one side when the car rolled over and Nancy Davis was lying on the other side. Kenneth David, who was riding in the rumble seat with Nancy, said he thought he heard a tire blow on Harvey Lingard's car and then they went into the ditch. Just before that, the car seemed to come to a sudden stop.

Norman Dudley, who was also following behind Lingard, said that the Lingard car was weaving back and forth as if out of control just before the accident. He estimated its speed at 45 to 50 miles an hour.

Evidence as to measurements was given by Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine.

Miss Verda Vincent of the Attorney-General's Dept., who analyzed the blood samples said to have been that of Lingard, said that it tested 2.2 parts of alcohol whereas 1.5 was analyzed, it indicated that the patient's system contained 11 ounces of liquor, 88 of beer or 30 of wine.

Frank Buck Dies.

HOUSTON, March 25—(AP)—Frank Buck, the "bring 'em back alive" wild game hunter, died in hospital here today. Buck had been in the hospital about a month. Shortly before that time he came here from his San Angelo, Tex., home for a physical checkup at a hospital for cancer research. Buck was 66 years old.

Canada's Exports Decline Despite Rich US Market

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP) — Canadians wrestled a larger share of the dollar-rich United States market last month, but her hold on the markets in the United Kingdom and India weakened.

For the fourth straight month Canadian traders increased exports to the U. S. as they sold $128,838,000 worth of goods in February, up almost 21 per cent from the $106,709,000 sold across the line in February, 1949.

"Price changes reflecting the premium on United States exchange have contributed to this increase," the Bureau of Statistics reported Friday. "But its size indicates a substantial rise also in the volume of exports."

The over-all export figure for February was not so bright.

Large declines in exports to the United Kingdom shoved the total exports to all countries during February down to $199,500,000 compared with $205,000,000 in the same month a year ago. Coupled with a similar drop in January, it sent exports for the first two months of the year $21,400,000 below $442,000,000 sold in the first two months of 1949.

Sale of animals and animal products faced the increase in exports to the U. S. together with wood and paper and non-ferrous metals and products.

All main groups except non-metallic minerals—one of the smallest in value—registered declines in shipments to the UK, down sharply to $30,374,000 from $44,124,000 in the same month last year. The two-month total showed a drop from $99,937,000 to $78,981,000.

The largest declines were in agriculture and vegetable products, non-ferrous metals and wood and paper groups.

Rent Controls Will End April 1951

Leave Field Open For Provinces No Boosts Meanwhile

OTTAWA, March 25—(CP) —Federal rent controls in the residential field will go out the Legislative window April 30, 1951.

From then on, it will be up to the provinces to decide whether the ceilings on private accommodation is going to be held. Commercial rentals already are free.

This new government policy was made clear in the Commons Friday by Finance Minister Abbott in a statement in which he said the government doesn't intend to ask for a further extension of its wartime powers to control rents or prices beyond April 30, next year.

But, he gave this assurance, until that date present rentals are frozen, except for individual cases or minor amendments to the leasehold regulations that may be found necessary.

He made the announcement in moving legislation to extend for another 13 months—to April 30, 1951—the wartime powers which give the government authority to establish ceilings on rentals and prices.

At the moment, he said, no price controls are in effect. Nor does the government intend to reimpose them.

The government's action met a varied reception.

Drew Opposes Plan

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested the government's method wasn't the right one. He wanted a bill which would clearly outline the rights of tenants and landlords. This was the same legislation he sought last year when the government asked for a similar extension of rent-control powers.

The CCF party, through Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), said it would vote for the bill because it would keep in effect the little control that was left. But it was skeptical of the government's assurance that there would be no further changes in rental ceilings.

Fire Destroys Grimbsy Arena

GRIMSBY, March 25 —(CP)— Early today fire completely destroyed the Grimsby Arena and threatened a neighboring cold storage plant before being brought under control by firemen.

The old wooden rink, once used by Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League for their pre-season training, was used by nearly all hockey teams in the Grimsby area and just a few hours before the blaze was the scene of a local skating carnival.

An estimate of damage was not immediately available.

The fire discovered shortly after 1 a.m., was brought under control in a little over an hour. Grimsby is about 15 miles east of Hamilton.

Purple Hands Tip To Thief's Identity

MONTREAL, March 25—(CP) —Irvin Meamtan, drug store manager, told the court Friday he became tired of pilferings from the store and sprinkled powder on the type of articles that had been disappearing.

The powder, said Meamtan, turns a vivid purple on hands or clothing when moistened by perspiration or water.

Morton Rosen, assistant manager, then testified that when he opened the store March 15 he found the hands of Fred Kravatz, night watchman, stained purple.

Kravatz was committed for voluntary statement April 4 on a charge of stealing $1,994 worth of articles during the last three years.

Legislature Facing Heavy Agenda

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario, faced with a heavy list of pending legislation, said Friday the current session of the Ontario Legislature will run until the first week of April and might not finish until April 6, the day before Good Friday.

Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson Friday gave royal assent to the first batch of completed legislation, 68 bills. The Legislature passed through committee stage measures to allow civil marriage in Ontario and to establish a Provincial Racing Commission.

Members of the 90-seat Legislature are beginning to show the strain since night sittings started last Tuesday. During the second night sitting on Thursday tempers became frayed and members at least six times were ordered to withdraw unparliamentary remarks. Premier Frost has called another night sitting on Monday to discuss the report of the conservation committee.

To speed up proceedings Premier Frost has agreed with Opposition leaders on a method of dealing with opposition bills. The bills are introduced, then debated briefly until the debate is adjourned. The opposition leaders have agreed that such bills will not be called again but will be left on the order paper when the session is prorogued. This eliminates time spent going through the motions of voting down the opposition bills.

Debate Labor Code

Principal piece of government legislation still to be debated is the new Ontario labor code. Debate on second reading was adjourned and Premier Frost said it will not be resumed until after the budget and the estimates have been approved.

There was little debate on the marriage and racing commission bills Friday. Attorney-General Porter deleted from the marriage act a provision providing fines of up to $100 for persons who perform the marriage ceremony before the three-day waiting period expires. The amendment however did not remove the three-day period. Elsewhere in the act similar fines are provided for anyone violating the act. Premier Frost said the section was unnecessary and might appear to be directed against the clergy, judges and magistrates.

Harry Nixon (L—Brant) said it was too great a responsibility to impose on persons performing marriages to ask them to decide whether the persons to be married were mentally defective.

Mr. Nixon described the form of marriage set out in the act as "absurd." There was no reference to "until death do us part."

Provincial Secretary Welsh said judges and magistrates could be trusted to perform the ceremonies in a dignified way. The form mentioned in the act was only a minimum requirement.

Travelling Problem

W. J. Grummett (CCF—Cochrance South) asked whether travelling magistrates could perform marriages in towns they visit or only in the place they make their headquarters.

Mr. Welsh said any office used regularly by a magistrate would be a proper place to perform a marriage.

Mr. Grummett said it was undignified for judges to have to collect the $10 fee required by the province. It was like pronouncing a couple man and wife and adding "that will be $10 please."

Mr. Nixon said the province already was collecting $4 of the $5 licence fee and there was need to collect an additional fee.

Mr. Welsh said the $10 fee was imposed because the government preferred church marriages and did not want to put anything in the act that would make it easier to undergo a civil marriage.

36 Children Take Part In Mission Band Meet

MILLBROOK, March 25 (ENS)—There were 36 children at the meeting of St. Andrew's United Church Mission Band on Thursday in the Sunday schoolrooms.

Barry Wood lit the candles on the worship centre and the scripture lesson was read by the leader, Mrs. Arnold Fallis.

Mrs. Homer Ouellette, the new assistant leader who is replacing Mrs. Cecil Ferguson, was present for her first meeting. She told the children a story about Newfoundland.

Barbara Anne Thompson pinned the flying umbrella on the map of Newfoundland to show to which land the children were to travel that day.

The children learned a new hymn, "Jesus Loves the Little Children."

In the business meeting with Alice Hawkins, president, in the chair, reports were given by the secretary, Dorothy Ball, and the treasurer, Janet Hobbs. Janet also gave out thank-offering envelopes for the Easter meeting.

The children took out boxes of everyday greeting cards for sale to help their funds.

Maviel Mae and Pamela Husser were hostesses and passed cookies.

Canadian Ships Praised In Navy Exercise

HMCS MAGNIFICENT AT SE March 25 —(CP)— Commodore K. F. Adams, commanding officer of the Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent, said Friday he was highly pleased with the performance of Canadian naval ships and aircraft during Exercise Caribex.

The Maggie and the destroyer Micmac were the Canadian vessels taking part in manoeuvres with U.S. and British units in the Caribbean over the last two weeks. The carrier was armed with No. 825 and No. 826 Firefly squadrons.

The manoeuvres consisted principally of anti-submarine and air defence exercises.

The two Canadian ships Friday were headed for Guantanamo, Cuba, accompanied by the British cruiser Glasgow and the sloop Snipe of the Royal Navy's West Indies squadron. After a four-day stay, they will sail for New York.

New Labor Bill May Be Changed

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—A Toronto paper said in a news-page story today that the Ontario government is reported considering an amendment to the new Ontario Labor bill to compel employers to check off unions dues where 51 per cent of employees in a plant request the deduction from their pay cheques.

Check-off of union dues has been one of the major issues raised by the Canadian Congress of Labor unions since the introduction of the present bill in the Legislature.

Labor Minister Daley, during debate on the measure in the Legislature said that an employer should comply with the check-off if a majority of employees indicated their desire for it in writing, but expressed opposition to writing this requirement into the bill. The measure is up for debate on second reading next week.

Fowl 40-55c Lb. In Light Market

Today's market, both upstairs and in the square, was light. Quantities of eggs made the most predominate showing of any commodity and the price ranged from 50 cents for over-sized grade A to 38 for medium.

There was a fair offering of poultry with capons going for 55 cents, roasters from 45-50 and boiling fowl at 40 cents. Turkeys moved slowly at half a dollar.

Very little butter was on display and it appeared the price was unchanged from last week, 63 cents per pound. A small quantity of fresh pork was selling for 36 cents for hinds and 34 for front quarters; whole hog heads were $1.50 apiece.

Locally-grown apples were priced per bushel as follows: Starks $1.75, Russetts $2.50, Spies $2.75 to $3 and Delicious for $3. Home cooking and fancy work seemed to feature the display in the upstairs section.

There was a rash of handmade axe handle exhibits, chiefly from Burleigh Falls, in hickory, oak and ash. Others made between Havelock and Norwood were of "bitterwood," said the craftsman. All were selling slowly for $1 each.

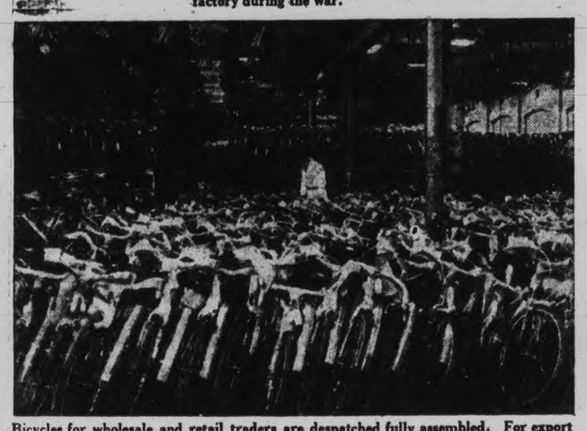
Admiral To Visit

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP) — Admiral of the Fleet Lord Fraser will arrive in Ottawa April 10 for a short visit in this country, the United Kingdom Information Office announced Friday night. Britain's first sea lord and chief of the Royal Navy staff, will fly to Ottawa following a five-day visit to the United States, where he will have talks with U.S. defence chiefs and visit several war colleges.

Thaw Affects Roads



The thaw has started to affect roads in the rural parts of Peterborough county. Frost is coming out of the ground in some places and the surface is soft. County roads are still passable, however, latest reports indicate.

Bicycle wheel rims are manufactured for the industry under contract and are received in their raw state. They are polished and plated before being passed to the wheel assembly section.

This is the pedal assembly line. Girls working on this bench produce on an average 3,600 pedals a day. Most of them produced war materials in the same factory during the war.

Bicycles for wholesale and retail traders are despatched fully assembled. For export they are crated. Two crates hold the parts for 25 complete cycles. The foreman is seen here checking the guarantee and despatch notes before the cycles are sent away.

It is estimated that there are are 60,000,000 cyclists in the world today. Many use the cycle for work transport, but like these two girls, millions use them for pleasure.

TWO MILLION BICYCLES A YEAR

A BRITISH WORLD EXPORT

There has been no slackening in the world demand for bicycles. High prices and shortage of petrol is one reason for the post-war popularity of the bicycle as a means of personal transport. Nearly two-thirds of Britain's 1949 production of 3,400,000 bicycles have been exported.

Britain's experience in producing bicycles for a large colonial demand has given her a lead in both quality and quantity. The industry dates back eighty years. The bicycle was invented in 1840 by a Scotsman named MacMillan. But it was not until Reynolds brought out the roller-bearing chain and John Dunlop invented the pneumatic tyre between forty and fifty years later that the pedal cycle became a success.

Development of light alloy tubing for frames has reduced the weight of the average roadster from 30-40 lb. to 16 lb. In this machine the chain and bearings are the only parts made of steel. New safety improvements have been incorporated. There is better braking and steering, brighter lighting, and reflectors have been fixed on dynamos and pedals.

The industry is a concentrated one — 75 per cent of bicycles are made by two firms, 10 per cent by one firm, and the balance by numerous small firms. In addition to completed bicycles, the industry does very big business in cycle parts, not only as spares but as the basic precision-made parts for oversea manufacturers. £6,000,000-worth of motorcycle and bicycle parts for this purpose is exported annually.

The largest firms send machines to 134 countries. Close attention is paid to individual needs of consumers. Canada, for example, prefers a hump-back top tube which allows more adjustment than normal in the seating, appealing to a market of growing children. In India the taller bicycle is preferred to allow leg room for flowing robes. This model is also suitable for China and Afghanistan. "Stands" are essential for Persia, where, outside Tehran, there are no kerbs.

Mr. Abbott said the government feels that rental increases now in effect, plus increased home construction, will have permitted "enough adjustment to take place so that any problem which may remain can be dealt with adequately—and with closer regard to local conditions and needs — on a provincial basis."

Give Provinces Chance

It was, he agreed, unusual for a government to give this much notice of its legislative intentions, but the administration had decided to do it so any province which may consider it desirable to assume some measure of rent control "may have ample time to take such steps as may be deemed appropriate."

He made it clear that the government does not intend to invoke the limited powers granted by the enabling legislation to reimpose controls which already have been lifted. The practical effect of the bill was only to continue the rent control.

Recalling that the federal offer two year ago to surrender the rental-control field to any provinces which wishes to assume responsibility, he said this still held true.

Will Make Deal

The government would be willing to withdraw the regulations in any province on a date to be fixed by the provinces and, with parliamentary approval, to pay the cost of provincial rental control for one year.

Mr. Drew said it was time to return to the peace-time practice of introducing law to which anyone could point and say "this is my right." There was not assurance now that the rent controls would not be changed before the legislation expired.

J. W. Noseworthy (CCF-York South), protested the government's "callous indifference and utter disregard" of the problems which hundreds of thousands of Canadians had been forced to meet because of recent increases in rentals.

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) felt it was "unreasonable" for the government to ask the provinces to take over rent control. There should be a basic federal rentals act, with the provinces handling the administration. This would provide uniform legislation across the country.

1,600 See Lakefield Win In Intermediate 'B' Playoffs

Lakefield took a 9 to 6 win over the Marmora Trent Valley League All Stars, to rack up their second win in the OHA Intermediate B playoffs before a crowd of about 1,600 at the Civic Arena here on Friday night.

After a five goal splurge in the second period Lakefield had the game sewn up, although Marmora fought back in the third frame with a four-goal rally which just failed to catch the flying Lakefield entry.

Lakefield opened the scoring in the first period with a goal by Fawcett from Henry. Marmora roared back and Blake sank a counter fed to him by Robinson. Lakefield marked up another tally on a shot by Nicholls with assists from Hunter and Blewett.

Lakefield also had the edge on the penalties with Wasson and Marshall being banished. Blake for Marmora served a term in the box as well.

First Blood Again

Lakefield again drew first blood in the second period with a goal by Blewett and Nicholls. Marmora retaliated with a counter by Lavender and Kerr, but then Lakefield took over the play and racked up goals by Fawcett on a solo effort; L. Lonsberry from Payne again.

J. Jopling sank one for Lakefield to open the final frame and then Marmora, trailing 8-2, put on a desperate drive which garnered them four goals but fell short. Blake soloed for two of the counters and Lavender scored twice from passes by Kerr and Trumble.

Blewett sank the last one of the game into the twine on a pass from Nicholls.

Peloquin and Fawcett were both sent to the penalty box in the second period and Marmora lost Kerr for a two-minute banishment. In the final period, Wasson of Lakefield was penalized and Loveless and Leonard for Marmora served time.

This win gives Lakefield the jump in the three out of five series which will determine the winner of Eastern Ontario and who will advance into the Intermediate B semi-finals.

Morrison Asks Labor Men To Purge Reds In Unions

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 25—(CP)—British trade unions were advised Friday night by Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, to cleanse themselves of Communist elements.

In a speech devoted entirely to communism, Morrison said it was strange that party members, still held key positions in some British unions, despite communism's crushing defeat in the general election Feb. 23. Not a Communist was elected.

Addressing a Labor League of Youth meeting in his constituency of Lewisham South, London, the deputy prime minister described a Communist as "a kind of animal which prefers to burrow and steal about in darkness."

"The Communist program," he said, "consists of trickery in politics, treason in matters concerning the defence of our homes, trouble-making in industry, and tyranny wherever they can seize control by hook or by crook."

Must Be Cleaned Out

"They should be democratically got rid of as soon as possible."

Communists had entered 100 candidates in last month's election, but had obtain only 92,000 out of nearly 29,000,000 votes cast —not enough, Morrison said, to fill London's Wembley Stadium, which has a capacity of about 100,000.

All but three of the party candidates lost their deposits, added Morrison, chief planner of Labor Party strategy.

"For every voter who supported them, there were well over 300 who voted anti-Communist. In the English counties, less than one voter in 1,800 voted Communist.

"Is it not surprising that some of our great democratic trade unions should have a number of key offices on their executives held by members of the Communist Party?

"There has been in the last year or two a great and healthy rejection of Communists in our trade union movement, but they still hold some positions of importance.

"It is satisfactory to see the rank and file are already taking steps to eradicate these destructive elements from their controlling bodies."

Morrison added no day should go past without trade unionists keeping an eye on Communists within their ranks.

Drew Demands

Ontario, Mr. Drew repeated, never had opposed any federal plan to expand the old-age pensions scheme. What it had opposed was the poll-tax method of getting the money to start a contributory old-age pensions scheme.

Tax Disguised

The federal government had advocated that it establish a poll tax of $5 for every one in Canada, 16 years and over. This poll tax was "disguised" as a "registration fee," Mr. Drew said.

Earlier Jean Francois Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) suggested pensions for disabled persons, since the government was providing pensions for the aged and the blind, payments for needy mothers and family allowances.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East), said the government was "stalling" because it knew how "touchy" the question of old age pensions was with most Canadians. The government had found the money with which to fight the war. Now it could find the money with which to abolish the means test.

Six Boys Guilty On 27 Charges 3 Month's Acts

Six juveniles were placed on suspended sentence when found guilty of 27 charges of breaking into houses and stealing from shops and schools over a period of three months by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Juvenile Court Friday.

The suspended sentences were imposed on condition that full restitution be made for the money and articles stolen. The boys, 13 to 15 in age, took mostly money and ignored jewellry and other articles which could be traced.

They came a-cropper when two of them were discovered by police hiding under a car beside Dale's Meat Market at Rubidge and Sherbrooke Sts. after making an attempt to break into the basement of the store Feb. 19.

Following investigations by Detective Sergeants John Stevenson and W. A. Clarke, 27 charges were laid against the two and four of their friends implicated.

Man Jailed 45 Days For Indecent Assault

COBOURG, March 25 (ENS)—Noah Gilbert of Baltimore pleaded guilty to an indecent assault charge in assize court Thursday, the charge having been reduced from rape by the grand jury.

When Mr. Justice Dalton Wells commented that he was considering a sentence of 60 days, Gilbert pleaded for a shorter term so that he would be able to get his crops in, and His Lordship accordingly fixed it at 45 days in prison.

Searing Tragedy Magnificent Theatre Opus

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, March 25 (CP) — Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Consul" is a magnificent and heart-[illegible] tragedy. He has fashioned [illegible] drama around the efforts of freedom-loving individuals to escape from Europe's modern police-states.

The action takes place "somewhere in Europe." John Sorel pursued by his country's secret police for his underground political activities, is forced to flee abroad, leaving his wife, their ailing child and his elderly mother.

His wife, Magda, endeavors to obtain a visa to a "free" country where she hopes to join her husband. She haunts the country's consulate daily but red tape delays her papers. Meanwhile her undernourished child and the mother, broken in spirit by the constant hounding of the police, both die.

John, Who has heard through underground channels of the deaths, returns to his homeland to find out what is delaying his wife and is arrested Magda, unaware of this but knowing he plans to come back, commits suicide in a vain effort to prevent his return and thus save his life.

Menotti's music intensifies the mood of Anguish and dread created in this drama, newly arrived at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre. The 36-year-old Italian-born composer also wrote the words and staged the production.

Brilliantly Cast

The role of Magda is superbly sung and acted by Patricia Neway and Marie Powers is splendid as the compassionate mother. They are backed by excellent performances by Cornell MacNeil as John Sorel; Gloria Lane as a consular secretary; Andrew McKinley as Nika Magadoff, conjurer and Maria Marlo as a foreign woman, both also striving to leave the country.

Mostly it is unrelieved tragedy, at it's grimmest achieving really great theatre.

Star Plans

Louis Calhern, stage and film actor, will be seen on Broadway next season in "King Lear" if producer Robert Joseph has his way . . . Rex Harison is reported to be set to appear as the psychiatrist in the London version of T S Eliot's "The Cocktail Party," which is to open there in May . . . Claire Luce will head the cast of "With A Silk Theard," a play by Elsa Shelley due in Manhattan April 12.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Back To Blighty For Keen Canuck

HINCKLEY, Leicestershire, England, March 25 (CP).—John Sims, 26-year-old Canadian from Ingersoll, Ont., has been thinking about fire engines ever since he can remember.

He thought about them all through the war when he came to England with the Canadian army and saw his first British fire truck. He married an English girl, took her home and settled down to his old job as fitter after his demobilization in 1946.

But the yen to drive a fire engine persisted and "I just couldn't settle down back there."

So John and his wife and their three children came back to England. Now he's fireman-driver John Sims of the Leicestershire and Rutland County Fire Brigade.

"And right now," he said, "I guess I'm just about the happiest guy on earth."

Putting Back More Into Soil By Year 2,000 Canada's No. 1 Farmer Predicts

By H. DENT HODGSON

OTTAWA, March 25 —(CP)— Canadian farmers, who for years have been taking the fertility out of their soil and exporting it abroad, will be putting it back in by the year 2,000.

That is the opinion of "Canada's No. 1 farmer," a title often bestowed on Dr. E. S. Archibald, chief of the Dominion Experimental Farms Service, who manages 49 farms and 53,550 acres.

Apart from that major change in Canadian agriculture in the next 50 years, he says that farming will be basically the same.

"No matter how much farming is mechanized," Dr. Archibald said in an interview, "it's still going to be risky and it's still going to be hard work."

He's not worried about the hard-work part of it, although he believes life on the farm will become more amenable, just as it has during the last 50 years.

Must Guard Fertility

But Canadians will find that the hard work of the next half-century will have to be devoted more and more to a "jealous guarding" of the fertility of the land.

"Soil," says Dr. Archibald, "is nothing but a bank account. If you draw out more from a bank than you deposit, you get into trouble with your banker. If you draw more from the soil than you put back, you get into trouble just as surely."

Ever since Canadians began tilling the soil, they have been using up its fertility, concentrating their fertilizers on cash crops and winter feeds. By Exporting feed grain and similar crops to Europe, they have simply exported fertility.

Proof of this is apparent, Dr Archibald says, in thousands of deserted farms in Ontario, Quebec and the maritimes, now leased as pasture, grown over with weeds.

It can be seen in the range lands of the west, abused by overgrazing, and millions of acres on the prairies "not producing a quarter of what they should."

He foresees development of a program of land use which will support a rural population larger than at present and what he expects will be a greatly-increased over-all population.

Need Irrigation

By the year 2000, large areas of the prairies will be covered with a grid of sprinkler systems or other forms of irrigation. The 120,000,000 acres of farm land now in use in the west will be producing at a much greater rate. By then another 40,000,000 to 60,000,000 acres of land will be added to this figure from central Alberta and British Columbia, possibly some central valleys in British Columbia, and in the Mackenzie Basin of the Northwest Territories.

Farmers will turn more to animal husbandry. Dr. Archibald prefers the term animal husbandry to mixed farming, and hopes that by 2000 A. D. the latter expression will have dropped out of use.

To Apply Science

In general, farming will apply science "as we don't farm of it at present" but the experimental farms chief declined to predict new forms of mechanization.

"Fifty years ago, nobody could have thought of gasoline tractors. Nobody could have predicted spraying of crops and sowing fertilizers and seeding by airplane."

There will be a tendency towards fewer farms, but this will be counteracted by prairie irrigation and development to uncleared land, both of which will tend to result in smaller farms. The irrigated areas and the newly-developed areas will probably tend towards animal husbandry.

Improvements in engineering, Dr. Archibald believes, will make possible sprinkler systems of irrigation, more efficient than ditch systems once their costs can be brought down. The sprinklers will mean less danger of "waterlogging" and will eliminate the high cost of levelling land necessitated by ditch systems.

Sees More Farmers

Fifty years ago, 60 per cent of Canadians lived on the land. Today only 33 per cent are farmers. This trend, Dr. Archibald believes, will continue in the future. Fifty years from now he expects there will be more farmers, but only because he expects a larger over-all population. The percentage on the farms will continue to decrease.

The co-operative tendency may grow as farmers and marketing agencies are forced to co-operate to get more efficient production and marketing. There will be fewer and better machines, operated co-operatively. But natural love of the land will probably mean most farmers will still want to own their own farms.

Possibilities in the development of the vast Tundra areas of the Northland are more remote than 2000 A.D. as far as agriculture is concerned, although the area could support more reindeer and musk-ox.

Gib Families Start London Music Fracas

LONDON, March 25 (CP). — Two families from Gibraltar brought music to a house in Forest Gate, East London.

In the top-floor apartment Abraham Bensusan practised opera. In the apartment below Mrs. Louisa Aguis played her radio in one room. Her daughter and son-in-law played theirs in another.

Bensusan went to court about it. "They listen to Spanish programs late at night. "I can't sleep. I can't hear myself talk."

Mrs Aguis said: "Bensusan sings at the top of his voice at an open window for hours — it is terrible."

Bensusan's claim for an injunction and £20 ($62) damages was dismissed.

Grubs Shun Peanuts Castor Oil Tastier

KLERKSDORP, South Africa, March 25 (CP).—The only creature which can take castor oil without pulling a face has appeared in the Transvaal. It is a black and green caterpillar, which has devoured acres of castor oil plants — leaves and seeds — and has left only bare stems.

One farmer had two fields of castor plants separated by a field of peanuts. The caterpillars stripped one field, trekked through the peanut plants and attacked the second castor oil crop.

Two Caretakers Plead Innocent To Thefts

SWEETSBURG, Que., March 25 (CP)—August Baron and Georges Sirois, accused of theft of articles from the Army's former summer camp at Farnham, Que., pleaded innocent when they appeared before Judge Maurice Fortin Thursday.

The two were caretakers at the camp, from which the Army claimed more than a score huts and various fixtures were taken.

Judge Fortin refused to accept a defence motion for immediate dismissal of the case. The men pleaded innocent and elected trial before a judge alone. Judge Fortin set March 30 for the trial.

Mental Kinks For Flyers Blacking Out

LONDON, March 25 (CP). — High speed flying can change the temperament and personality of a pilot, says Dr. E. T. O. Slater, writing in a recent issue of the Journal of the British Interplanetary Society.

Dr. Slater says he believes pilots who have been through a number of black-outs while flying "begin to suffer mentally." He likens the effect to that seen in a patient after a head injury or in an epileptic patient who had had many fits.

In the past the black-out has been chiefly observed in turning movements of the plane—in coming out of a dive, for instance, or making small-radius turns.

But in the high-speed planes of the present day such as the faster-than-sound fighters, black-out effect now is making itself felt "in simple acceleration along a straight path, as in rapidly accelerating jet-propelled aircraft."

The effect of a black-out is to draw a "curtain" across the eyes of the pilot, although he does not completely lose consciousness. Black-out effects are usually momentary, and it has been shown that a person can experience an extremely high acceleration without blacking out if it is of short duration.

The wearing of "G" suits, which are pressurized and prevent blood flowing from the brain area, enable higher speed accelerations to be sustained without black-out.

DOUGLAS

Canada Through British Eyes

We have received a copy of the special supplement on Canada and World Trade which has been issued by The Times of London. It is a handsome production of thirty-two pages, splendidly illustrated. It appears as an adjunct of the Third International Trade Fair which will be held in Toronto this year, and the whole publication breathes pious hope that Canada will continue to be a good market for British goods. More than pious hope will be needed, however, to maintain that connection. This is not a country which can import largely unless it is permitted to export largely, as well, and of late years Britain has expected us to take her goods, but has shown reluctance to take ours. There are good reasons why this should be so, but it is not a condition which can go on indefinitely. As the leading article in this issue of The Times says: "Even the closest relationship of sentiment can be weakened if it is not kept alive in practical ways. And nothing is more desirable than that social, cultural and economic intercourse should work to strengthen the ties between the United Kingdom and Canada."

* * *

So long as it is hard for British distributors to import Canadian goods, it is foolish to hope that we can extend ourselves any farther in the purchase of British goods. There is no lack of goodwill, but there is an all-important lack of economic reciprocity in such an arrangement. We are a greater trading country than ever before in our history, but our trade must be on a two-way basis, and we are still sellers, rather than buyers. The many compliments which are paid to Canada in this supplement of The Times are deeply appreciated, but they cannot blind us to the hard facts of trade.

Charter For Ontario's Physical Future

Parliaments, representative of the people as they are, and endowed with that supreme authority, with expert advisors at their call and executives to translate ideas to reality, are supremely qualified to undertake massive, history-directing surveys. Such a survey has now been completed in the course of a single year by a select committee of the Ontario Legislature. It is the Report on Conservation presented to the Province's Assembly earlier this week.

The Select Committee appointed "to study all aspects of conservation, notably, (1) soil depletion (2) drainage (3) flood control (4) reforestation (5) local demonstration farms (6) soil analysis", was representative of the three major parties in the Ontario Legislature. It traversed the Province between the 1949 and the present sessions, studied conditions on the spot as well as through briefs and reports of experts. The results of the survey, and the Committee's recommendations are published in a 185-page folio, with numerous charts, graphs and illustrative photographs. In its scope as well as detail the Report is authoritative criticism of the present conditions and a chart for the future.

This is not the place to attempt a detailed analysis of the report. The major points have already been published in our news accounts. We desire, rather, to call the Report to the attention of our readers, and to emphasize the importance of the subject. "Conservation" is not a word limited to preserving bird-life, wild game, and fish. It has to do with the very stuff of human life. As the Committee has noted in the introductory historical chapter, soil erosion is part of the story of mankind. Great empires have risen and flourished only to fall with the loss of their top soil; ancient cities of wealth and culture now lie buried beneath drifting sands. Even in relatively new Ontario our society is in danger if the fertility of the soil is not maintained; if the balance of water supply is not kept in balance, and if the proportion of forest and grass land (without which both soil and water resources are depleted) are not just.

The Committee approached its task broadly and carried it out with impressive thoroughness. There are eighteen chapters on soil, a dozen on water, and smaller sections on fish and wildlife, recreation, Dominion-Provincial responsibilities, conservation authorities. They include large matters like the lowered table of water, the fact that two million people, or almost half the population of the province are dependent on surface water supplies (110 municipalities with public waterworks systems have to use wells as the source of their water supply). They consider seemingly small matters like wood-lots and little ponds in pastures. The surveys indicate a great need for reforestation; 6,350 square miles are urgently in need of immediate tree cover. Erosion in inland lakes and rivers, the gashes along the Great Lakes shore lines, all these come under the Committee's scrutiny.

The Report and its recommendations was presented unanimously, so there is reasonable hope that some of its recommendations will be acted on immediately, and others over a long period. If all were to receive legislative sanction fourteen amendments of existing Provincial and Dominion statutes would be required, and more than fifty changes or innovations in both federal and provincial administration. The cost of following out the recommendations has not been estimated.

The Report on Conservation is a document of exceptional interest, value, and even urgency. The chief administrative recommendation is that the conservation be placed under the Premier, with a chief of conservation in charge (rather than a new Department) reporting to him. If this is done, it is likely that the Report will not gather dust in legislative cupboards. The Ontario budget recently presented has an item of $900,000 for grants to conservation authorities.

Lady Day

Today is Lady Day, or the Feast of the Annunciation, and it is of curious historical interest. All during the Middle Ages and until 1752, this was the day upon which the new year legally began. We are so accustomed to the notion that the new year begins on the first of January that we sometimes assume that it has always been so. It is, in fact, a new thing.

There was good sense in beginning the new year at the beginning of the spring season—for that truly is the beginning of a new cycle of growth. We do not live as close to the soil as we once did, and we do not notice the passing of the seasons as did our ancestors. Our way of life is very different from theirs, and when we speak of our usual bedtime as "midnight" we do not often remember that to the man of the Middle Ages it really was the middle of the night. He rose at four a.m. and had done most of his work by noon. He was ready for bed at dusk. His life followed the sun and the seasons. When the new growth and the new crops began, he considered it the beginning of a new year, and rightly so. Our own custom of beginning the new year in the dead of winter, and a week after the festival of Christmas, is idiotic.

In matters relating to the seasons, and in much else, the people of the Middle Ages were more logical thinkers than we.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"What would we say if men changed the length of their trousers every year," demands Lady Astor indignantly. We'd say 'Peek-a-boo!'

A new type of ukelele, made of plastic, can be played under water. So far as we are concerned they can all be played under water.

A convention of allergists has decided that a mother-in-law may be a cause of indigestion. Once again science draws abreast of what everybody has known for centuries.

John L. Lewis is reported to be considering a loan of a million dollars to a rival union. On the same principle, we presume, that a fisherman lends a trout a worm.

When we read about trouble with "teen-agers" (horrible expression) we reflect that third parties always complicate government. Remember the happy days when the only parties in the human family were adults and children?

Last Monday big queues formed all over the province in the last-minute rush for car licences. On Saturday, April 1st the queues will be for new liquor permits. The old ones expire at the end of this month.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Miss Nancy Frisgig
Charming Nancy:

You know the secrets of the feminine mind. I should like to have your opinion on a matter which has been tormenting me for some time. It is usual for women, when they reach old age, to return to the style of dress popular in their youth. I am sure that you have seen this happen in many cases. I recall that my own grandmother, in old age, stopped following modern styles and began to dress once more in the fashions of the '60s. There are plenty of old ladies to be seen now who have returned pretty much to the fashions current before the First Great War. Old ladies seem to feel that the fashions of their youth are more seemly than those of any more recent time.

But — and this it is which makes me tremble — there will soon be a class of old lady coming up whose youth was spent during the raging 'twenties. Will these old dears chop their hair short, wear their waistlines around their hips, and their skirts above their knees? Will they reveal their bony patellae by rolling their stockings? And will they moan about the vanished graces of the Charleston and the Black Bottom, as compared with the libidinous dances of today?

If old ladies are likely to behave in such a fashion I shall fill out my entry form for a monastery right away.

Your disturbed.

SAM.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

Last week I was bidden to a graduation banquet, where a large number of students—after consuming the tomato soup, green peas and deliquescent ice cream which are obligatory at such orgies—listened to speeches of good advice from their elders, and made a few speeches themselves.

What particularly impressed me was that the elders who spoke all assured the young people that they were going out into a World of Chaos, and the young people all agreed with them.

This moved me to ponder that I was born into a world of chaos—the chaos of the moment being the First World War. My childhood was passed amidst the chaos of the Post War World, and then came the chaos of the Depression; this, in time, gave way to the chaos of the Second World War, and now I wallow in the chaos of the Atomic Age. This is a pretty good record for one life—chaos every minute.

In spite of all this chaos, however, most people seem to lead humdrum lives, and badly want livening up. Do you think we should organize a Chaos-of-the-Month Club, guaranteeing to supply all members with something really unnerving every thirty days? For I greatly fear that most of those students, rushing eagerly out into a world of chaos, are going to find that their particular part of it quickly becomes a deadly routine.

Yours for more varied chaos,

SAM.

To Waghorn Wittol, Esq.
Esteemed Wittol:

You write to ask me if I think that the smoking of a pipe would help you to bear your troubles more easily. You refer, I gather, to the unaccountable absences and occasional eccentricities of Mrs. Wittol. You mention the fact that Dr. Albert Einstein, in accepting a life membership in the Montreal Pipe Smokers Club said: "Pipe smoking contributes to a somewhat calm and objective judgement in all human affairs". Far be it from me to contradict such a man, but I feel that I should warn you that pipe smoking brings its own troubles.

Of course, if you buy one pipe and smoke it until it threatens to asphyxiate you, using any kind of tobacco you can get cheap, you may have no difficulty. But if you aspire to be a gentleman pipe-smoker you are in for a rough time. You will be overwhelmed with advice from pipe-smoking friends about kinds of tobacco, how to stuff your pipe, how and when to clean it, and how to knock the ashes out of it. You will learn to be anxious about the "cake" inside the bowl, which must be kept precisely one-sixteenth of an inch thick—no more and no less. You will worry about making each pipeful burn evenly, and you will agonize if your bowl grows hot. You will find that you cannot talk when smoking, and that you cannot think about anything except your pipe. You will lust after pipes which are beyond your means, and you will despise people who smoke cheap pipes and ordinary tobacco. You will, in short, be about as calm and objective as a whirling dervish.

I smoke a pipe myself—a dirty little affair made, I think, of pitch-pine. I tried to be a gentleman smoker but it was beyond me. Why don't you take snuff, which is much easier and will make your eyes water so much that you won't notice what Mrs. Wittol is up to.

Yours without prejudice,

S. MARCHBANKS.

To Miss Minerva Hawser
Dear Miss Hawser:

I entirely agree with you that there are too many funny pictures appearing in the magazines nowadays in which attention is drawn to the powerful resemblance between animals and human beings. I agree also that this is insulting to the animals, few of whom ever allow themselves to get into the deplorable physical condition which characterizes all but quite young humans. But what are you going to do about it?

A far more subtle insult to the animal world, in my opinion, lies in the tendency of people to choose pets which look very much like themselves. Women who look like Pekes tend to buy Pekes. Men with faces like hounds tend to cherish hounds. Horsey people often look like horses. Lovers of cats are usually catty. The whole business suggests a relationship between the animal and the human world which is repugnant to animal lovers and theologians alike. I agree that it should be stopped. But you stop it. I am very busy at present.

Yours busily,

SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SEEKS MISSING MOTHER

Sir: Could you please be of some assistance to me in locating my mother, Olive Mitchell Easton? I have reason to believe that she is now in Peterborough. Anything you could do to help me in this matter will be deeply appreciated.

Any replies may be sent to me at the address below.

Your truly,

(MISS) BETTY EASTON

IGNORANT VOTE IS USELESS

Sir: "Virgo" states that, in his opinion, or in opinions communicated to him, Canadians are politically inferior to Europeans. This, I agree, is quite true, but I disagree with his suggestion that all enfranchised people who fail to vote should either be fined or deprived of that vote.

Would "Virgo" prefer to see multitudes rushing to the polls and voting blindly for the first candidate they can think of, rather than have them politically educated first?

In my opinion it is much more practical to have a small number of votes recorded, by people who know and understand the politics and policies of the parties they are voting for than to have a large poll only made possible by thousands who do not care which way they vote, but would cease their votes for any party rather than pay the penalty of a fine.

"Virgo" need go no further than the elections held last year in Peterborough. Those who voted at that time had faith in either Liberalism or Conservatism. Those who did not vote had not the slightest inclination toward the policies of these parties, and showed good sense therefore in not voting.

No, "Virgo". Educate the people politically first, and don't ask them to give a decision on something they do not understand.

Yours, etc

WICKED PLOT

Sir: I heartily agree with "a reader's" remarks on cheap Japanese shirts. Canadian margarine, and bootleg whisky.

Taking these three commodities into serious consideration, I take leave to suggest that there is a definite connection between them, and I believe that the people who prefer margarine to butter are probably bootleggers wearing Japanese shirts.

Yours, etc.

MAC DUFF.

MARGARINE AND THE SERPENT

Sir: It does appear that as people are free, though not paradisically, it follows—that if they still desire margarine it should be theirs. Even so did God allow man's fall to the serpent—to be free at all costs. But that does not mean that God's hope was and still is, that His prerogative, 'Life,' be inviolate. The wonder is that the apple has not been mimicried; or has it?

If the farmer desires, creameries etc. have protested margarine, much more vocal is the voice of the 'union' organizers (and over radio) urging the joining of the De Laval to their cause. But DeLaval stands for cream separators, milking apparatus etc., and they the 'agitators' admit DeLaval has lost export markets, and it follows also, because of high prices and margarine, their home markets. And in spite of this (or because their fears) they demand security and 'higher wages,' which will mean that producers take less, and so jeopardize productivity: so in the scuffle for unity, disunity is proved, the chance of Democracy and of communism too; confirming our separation from God—but in this the Communist is more honest.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

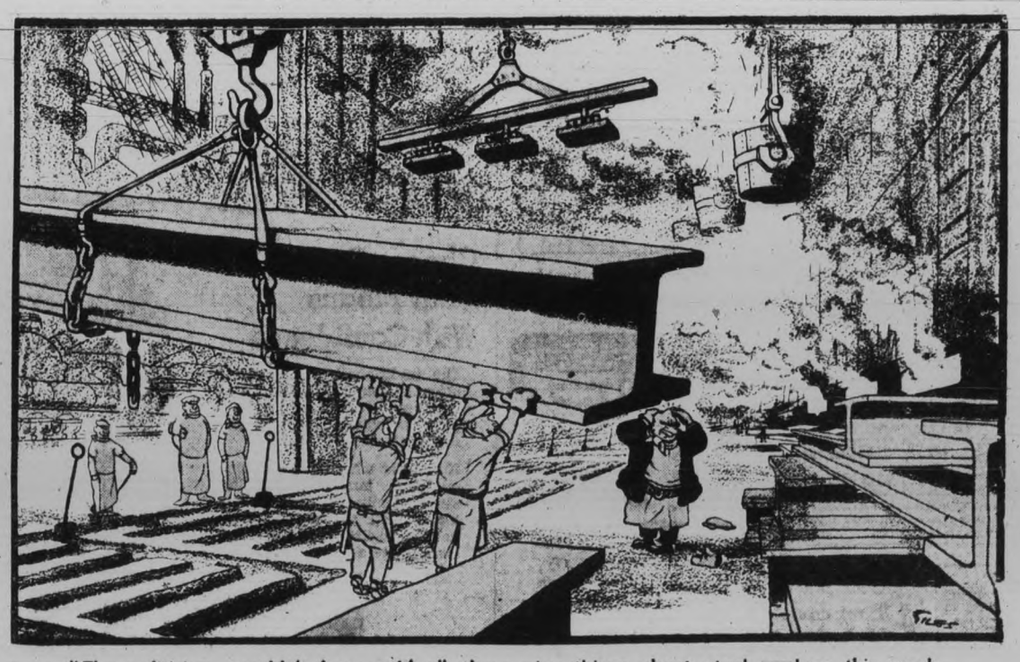
Now after the death of Moses the servant of the Lord it came to pass, that the Lord spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying... There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.... Only be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law, which Moses my servant commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest.

This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success. Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest. (Josh. 1: 5, 7-9.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong. (I Cor. 16: 13.)

◇ ◇ ◇



Stand fast therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. (Eph. 6: 14-17.)

Progress Of Peterborough: XII

Stewarts and Reids Settle In Douro Pioneer Hardships of Irish Gentry

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Douro township received two settlers of note in 1822, a year before the township was surveyed. There were Thomas Stewart and Robert Reid, with their families, from Antrim, northern Ireland, the only settlers in Douro before the Irish arrived in 1825. There was not even a land patent issued in Douro until October 12, 1825, when Samuel Copping received title to 100 acres, the se. and nw. quarters of lot 22, concession 5, and this was cancelled in July 1837. The township, roughly a triangle stretching from the north border of Otonabee (opposite the Peterborough townsite) along the Otonabee River north to Katchiwano and Clear Lakes, was reserved from ordinary settlement by the government.

We have a vivid description of the difficulties encountered by the Reids and Stewarts in the letters of Mrs. Frances Stewart to relatives in Britain, which were published in 1889 after her death (on February 24, 1872, at age 78) under the title "Our Forest Home." Some of Thomas Stewart's letters and reminiscences have also been preserved, to supplement his wife's account.

From Belfast 1822

The Stewarts and Reids sailed from Belfast in June 1822 with their children, servants, household furniture, implements and provisions. On July 21 they reached Quebec, and at Montreal bought more supplies for the backwoods. On August 14 they reached York by sailing ship, bringing letters of introduction to the Lieutenant-Governor from Mrs. Stewart's influential friends in England. Governor Maitland offered them land in any part of Upper Canada, but specifically advised them to pioneer in Douro township.

Reid was given 2,000 acres and Stewart, his brother-in-law, 1,200 acres, on condition that they actually settled on their lands and developed them. They were also given oral assurances that for five years no one would be settled in Douro without their permission, in order that they might bring out relatives and friends to settle around them; however, according to the Stewarts, they gave up this monopoly in 1825 to allow Peter Robinson to settle Irish emigrants in the township.

The following letter from Hillier, the Governor's secretary, to Ridout, the Surveyor-General, on December 11 1823, does not fit in with this story "His Excellency the Governor has no objection to the persons whose names have been submitted by Casey and Dorland, officers and men of the Midland District Militia, being located in such parts of the township of Douro as are open to location without interfering with other intended or existing arrangements." Another interesting fact is that no land patent in Douro was issued to either Stewart or Reid up to and including the year 1830, so far as county records indicate.

With Birdsall Up Otonabee

Stewart and Reid came alone to Cobourg in September 1822, and were taken north to Douro by a friend in Cobourg to choose their lands. Stewart wrote later "In company with a friend we went to Rice Lake, where he introduced us to the surveyor of the back townships who lives at the east end of the lake." With Birdsall they proceeded "24 miles up the river Otonabee, to a place then called Scott's Plains, now Peterborough, where there was and still is a most wretched farmhouse and a tumbling-down grist and sawmill. . ." On their return Stewart fell ill at Cobourg, and Reid went back to York to bring down their families and belongings by schooner. Then Reid with his sons and some workers went to Douro to build houses and clear a few acres before winter.

Stewart wrote: "They cut a road from opposite Scott's Mills, three miles through thick woods to the place where they were to build, for the strong current in the river prevented them proceeding farther by water. With some difficulty they procured a yoke of oxen to hire in Smythtown and were obliged to swim them across the river." Reid had 18 men working on the two houses, some of them Smith settlers who came to help without pay, so that when Stewart came up with the Reid family in December the houses were almost ready.

Named Auburn

"The landing-place is at the flour and sawmill. We landed our baggage and then went across the river to our township. We put our things on a cart and went 2½ miles in a line with the river. . . at last arrived where Reid and our party were at work. . . building my house which is 40 x 28 feet. . . Reid's house is ¾ mile higher up the river. I stayed with him two days and during this time my house was built. . ." Stewart called his estate Auburn, after a village in South Meath County, Ireland.

The Stewarts, detained in Cobourg by illness, came up to Douro by sleigh in February, 1823. Mrs. Stewart narrated the hardships of their 2-day trip through Hope, Cavan and Monaghan to Scott's Plains where they arrived February 12. Their 4-room house was soon finished, at a total cost of $40, and on April 5 she wrote "Thomas is going to manufacture potash (from wood ashes). The process is simple and as it sells well it will pay the expense of clearing the land. One must pay high for labour. The common wages of a chopper are $12 a month. We breakfast at 7, dine at noon, have tea at 8, and to bed at 10 or 11 . . ." At Cobourg they had paid £3 for a cow; potatoes were 9d. a bushel, meat 3d. a pound, butter 7½d. a pound, milk 2d. a quart.

On May 23 she wrote "The survey was only finished about 3 weeks ago, when one very wet day I saw two men walk past my window; one had a blanket about his shoulders, a pair of snowshoes in his hands and a small fur cap on—the other was dressed in ragged sailor's clothes. I took the first to be an Indian . . . but to our surprise we found this was Mr. Birdsall, a very smart young Englishman who is the surveyor of the townships in this district, and his assistant; they had five men with them as chainbearers, etc. . . . There is a charming Mrs. Rubidge, wife of a lieutenant in the Navy, who lives within five miles of us, but there is a swamp two miles broad between, across which there is no road, and by water it is 18 miles to go to call upon her . . ."

In August, 1823, she wrote "Thomas had hired some Highlanders who had settled in Otonabee to do the work of chopping, piling wood into heaps, and burning . . . There are a few families scattered in the neighboring townships of Smith, Monaghan and Otonabee; with the exception of Lt. Rubidge and a few miners, all are farmers . . . If we had a boat it would be easier as there is a gristmill across the river."

Not Ordinary Farmers

A Stewart daughter was born, the first white baby in Douro, on December 13, 1823. It was at times like this that the gentry found the primitive isolation of the bush almost impossible to bear. Yet conditions were much easier for the Stewarts and Reids than for the ordinary "farmers". Every year they received a chest from Ireland with cloth for suits and dresses, linen, flannel, stockings, boots, books and other gifts. Once a month due to their connections in England, a parcel of letters and newspapers was brought to them free of charge through the Colonial Office by official couriers. And it was seldom that they had to resort to such usual backwoods substitutes as hemlock twigs boiled to make tea, wheat or corn boiled in the absence of flour, maple sugar made at home, clothes from homespun wool, shoes from deerhide, and implements made by hand in the evenings.

Mrs. Stewart refers again and again to their isolation, as in 1824 "We are much shut up here for want of good roads, but next winter the new one through Otonabee to Rice Lake will be really finished . . The Reids and ourselves are the only European settlers in this township; all behind us are wild forests untracked by civilized feet except for surveyors . . . " She also longed for a church nearby, and criticized some settlers across in Smith who worked seven days a week.

Turn In Fortune

On July 31, 1825, a boy was born to the Stewart family, the first born in Douro. This event decided Stewart to move closer to "civilization", as he wrote later: "I thought as my children were growing up it was a pity to spend any more time in this hopeless retirement. So I had written to a friend in Cobourg to procure me a snug little place in that neighborhood with about 50 acres of land.

"A few days after this Mr. Robinson came to my house, and mentioned to me his intention of bringing up the (Irish) emigrants to these back townships. At once we gave up every idea of removing, the clouds dispersed, all our difficulties seemed over. . . " This startling change of heart took place early in August, 1825, and marks the turning point in the life of the Stewarts, as well as in the fortunes of the whole district, caused by the arrival of the Irish immigrants under Peter Robinson.

The district north of Rice Lake had more than the 500 persons estimated later by Rubidge, possibly as many as 1,000, yet it was languishing from lack of markets, roads, mills, and the trade and capital which make a newly-settled region flourish. From 1825 on, as we shall see, the Peterborough district began to boom and prosper at an accelerated rate, with the settlement of almost 2,000 assisted Irish emigrants.

No. IX: Successful or No?

In the various affairs of life—the achieving of one's ambitions, accomplishment in one's work, happy relations with one's fellowmen in a social or a business way, in a word—success is the hope of everyone. There are numerous omens which indicate progress toward the desired goal, no matter what its nature — or warn of probable failure.

Flowers in the absence of omens relating to the affections, may signify success, especially in the arts or in some undertaking, not of a financial nature.

A Hat signifies the crown of success.

A Horse promises fulfillment of ambition, probably through a journey.

A Hour Glass is a warning of immediate dangers which may be of a financial nature—indicated perhaps, by other business omens.

A House speaks of substantial business interest.

A Key foretells an expansion in business, with increasing revenues.

A Lion, when unmistakably defined, forecasts great achievements.

Question Mark speaks of doubt and possible disappointment.

A Revolver, especially in connection with another omen in this group, warns of disaster.

A Windmill is a splendid indication to the person who is engaged in hazardous undertakings.

Ice Racing 1880's—1905

The following is an account read by Mrs. C. E. Burrison, as told her by Mr. Alex Edmison, to the March meeting of the Harwood WI. Mrs. Burrison is a granddaughter of Amos Shearer, referred to in the account. Mr. Johnston is the last survivor of the Executive of the Harwod Ice Races.)

Sometime between 1886 and 1888 as near as Mr. Johnston recalls the first Ice Races were held at Harwood. The races were promoted and financed by the four hotelkeepers in Harwood, namely, The Phoenix, Bradus, Hicks, and Lakeview Hotels and by the hotelkeepers in Peterborough. The prizes were, usually, first $20.00; second, $10.00; and third $5.00 and were considered a fabulous amount of money.

A long track was ploughed out over the lake. About six teams would be hitched to a boom of timber about 60 feet long. The track was kite shaped and one mile long. About 1,000 people attended, mostly men.

If you wanted a fight your chances were good. One would have to see it to believe it that about 400 or 500 other horses would be tied up in every available stable or shelter. Horse trading was at its best. One young farmer traded horses with a city slicker, "sight unseen." When he went to the box stall for his horse all that was there was a wooden saw horse. Of course he got the laugh. Being determined he hunted up the slicker, who was also laughing. Hot words followed. The farmer was filling his pipe, dropped it and smashed the slicker in the nose, then quietly asked if anyone alse wanted to carry on the slicker's fight. He got no contenders but he did get back his horse.

1905 races

The last races were in 1905. They were held on the east side of the railroad, in the bay. From 1,000 to 1,200 people attended. There were about 15 race horses. One outstanding racer was a common bred gelding named 'Harry Direct,' and owned by the late Steven Minifie. Anotther was a short thick set pony called Chunk a favorite with children. He was classed as the fastest racing pony in North America. He was owned by a Mr. Clapp of Alnwick township. Another horse raised in Dr Lean's stables was an outlaw. He was liable to leave the race and carry his rider three or four miles before he could be brought under control. Once he crossed the lake and went to Keene before he stopped, rider and all. No one would ride him for the race. Finally, Alex Johnston said he would ride him for $5.00. The deal was on. He won the race, left the track and crossed through a swail and up to the hotel stables on the hill before he stopped.

The big event was the fox race. A red fox was liberated from a box and given 150 yards start. The dogs were let loose, and the race was on. Twice Mr. Johnston remembers the fox being caught at the north end of Spook Island by a hound owned by Amos Shearer of Alnwick township. This was the last race. The post-race convivialities took a similar form; the men went to the different hotels for a night of fun.

Went all the way to Trawna this week. Got the roof of my mouth sunburned looking at the tall buildings and the back of my neck scorched looking away down at the holes being dug in the main thoroughfare. All this excitement, mind you, before getting out to the Coliseum to see the sights at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show. A terrific two days for a quiet outdoorsman like myself.

• • • •

It has been touted as the best show ever, their third, and there is no doubt about it. There is something for everyone to enjoy and nary an exhibit that does not fit in with the outdoor scheme of things. Naturally, I was chiefly interested in seeing the effort that Peterborough put forth. And it was considerable.

• • • •

Outboard, Inboard, Allaboard

Of course, city manufacturers were there in full force. It was a toss-up whether boats or outboard motors had the greatest representation. About Even Steven. There were outboard boats, canoes, skiffs, dinghies, water skiis and surf boards and from what I could observe, three models of the Canadian Dart made by the Canadian Canoe Company on Rink St., created a great deal of interest; it seemed to have the lines that appealed and also in the right price range for the family man. Of course, if a buyer were really heavy with chips he could get chummy with the salesman at the exhibit of cruisers made in Gravenhurst. Didn't have the nerve to ask the price of the sleek super-duper jobs. Ill-fated craft Miss Canada IV was on display, too, showing the defective moving engine parts that let racer Wilson down in last year's Harmsworth Trophy series.

• • • •

Outboard motors, the largest percentage of them made in the home city, were in booths everywhere. The occasional cut-away model showing the machines in operation drew a lot of attention and one could not help being struck with the idea that motor age on water has all but driven handpower out of the summer pleasure picture.

• • • •

Hunters, Fishers, Trailers

Myriad selections of hunting and fishing equipment showed the latest for sportsmen and the only item missing was the bamboo pole and cork float; it might have been a novelty to display some of this nostaglic business, just to prove that fishing is basically unchanged. Ask the village barefoot boy down by the old mill dam, come May.

• • • •

Three metal cabin trailers by McGinness of Peterborough caused a great deal of attention. Not only are these homemade products sold cost-to-coast, but I learned that Harry has acquired another trailer business in Toronto; McGinnis-Schultz it is called.

• • • •

Now about the tourist business. Haliburton Tourist Association were there with a splendid booth and salesmen-promoters reported much activity and interest in the Highlands. Northern Outfitters from North Bay had a bang-up booth and were dishing out information all the way from Mattawa to Algoma. Mrs. (Northern Sportsman) Ward Scott was doing an excellent one-woman selling job for home town Dryden and North-western Ontario in general. There was only one individual camp booth, from Manitoulin Island. Possibly the largest tourist promotional effort was the Tourists Association of Ontario. Here, I thought, would be a wealth of material on the Kawarthas.

Kawartha Resorts In Spotty Light

The salesman on duty was J. A. Lyons from the Lake of Bays country. We started going through his lists for the big message for our Kawartha stamping ground.

"We have had a lot of inquiries about the Kawarthas," said Mr. Lake of Bays, "but literature except for five or six resorts from Bobcaygeon way, one at Buckhorn and one or two at Sturgeon Lake, we have nothing to show."

"What is the trouble?" I asked.

"Don't know, we circularized all resorts but they did not come through with their folders. It's too bad."

How right you are Mr. Lake-of-Bays, "too bad" is putting it mildly. Where else can operators reach so many thousands of people so easily? If they holler about lack of tourist business this coming summer, it will have a very hollow ring in my ears.

One Man Madoc Show

Self-appointed conservationist Herbert McKnight who owns a 5,000-acre game preserve 15 miles north-east of Madoc, had his own neat booth to show how he was trying to conserve nature. He was very down-at-the-mouth. In past his construction of nine control dams, and three more are needed, Herb is meeting with objection from local farmers who complain that flooding waters are spoiling their stands of marsh hay. He planted 50 acres in Mantioba wild rice in '48, had a good crop in '49, but the same farmers' cattle beat him to the harvesting; they ate the grain just as it was headed out. Herb says he needs financial assistance and it seems like a very worthy cause to back. Conservation clubs should be interested.

SIGHTS THAT PERSONALLY APPEALED: The ancient rejuvenated steam boat launch at the boat show section . . . . Comparative sizes in the thousands of fishing lures; the largest with a hand-sized spoon, cod hook and Tyrolean brush weeds and miniature Blue Dunn trout flies, three to the size of your little fingernail . . . . Miniature fishing creels that grew from fishermen's gag gifts to ladies' shoulder bags . . . . The agility and team work of the New Brunswick boys at log sawing, chopping and rolling; their canoe tilting show was tops . The show window display of photos, records and relics of ancient Huronia . . . Sa-gayadis-josta (Wildflower or Herbert Buck). Six Nations Brave in the Indian village who avidly read comics behind his bark teepee between acts . . . Chief Howard Sky of the same band who told me something of tribal history from his knowledge of depichering wampum belt records; he could neither read nor write English . . . The pair of brilliant wood ducks in the lands and forests exhibit . . . . And Sharky the seal, perennial star of the tank stage show.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

The Cock Had Crowed

The cock had crowed, and now the eastern sky
Was kindling, not unseen, from humble copse,
And open field, through which the pathway wound,
And homeward led my steps. Magnificent
The morning rose, in memorable pomp,
Glorious as e'er I had beheld—in front,
The sea lay laughing at a distance; near,
The solid mountains shone, bright as the clouds,
Grain-tinctured, drenched in Empyrean light;
And in the meadows and the lower grounds
Was all sweetness of a common dawn—
Dews, vapours, and the melody of birds,
And labourers going forth to till the fields.

Pioneer Bancroft Wife Helped Build Only Custom Woollen Mill Existing

When Mrs. J. A. Fuller came to Bancroft sixty-five years ago, the small community of that day was known as York River. She is one of the founders of the only custom woollen mills in existence today. In the spring of 1884, she and her late husband started the long trek from Madoc, with her household goods and the machinery for the mill piled high on three sledges drawn by oxen. At Eldorado, (now a small town on Highway 65) men returning from the Bancroft country warned her husband about the rugged existence they would have to face and told him to turn back. However, Mrs. Fuller persuaded him to carry on and they proceeded along the wild, rough road to the tiny hamlet set among those bleak northern hills.

Bancroft then had a general store and six dwellings, a large boarding house as it was called in those days, acted as a hotel. The town was 'dry' and as Mrs. Fuller recalls, "The men had no time or money to spend on liquor then."

A stage arrived twice weekly to haul in supplies and these stages were nothing more than a large sled with wooden 'jumpers.' It took three days to make the trip from Madoc to Bancroft.

First Horse Waggon

The arrival of the first horse-drawn vehicle in Bancroft in 1890 caused a stir of excitement and her husband called her from her work to come and view the first wheels she had seen since leaving southern Ontario. They were large wooden wheels without rims and bumpd along over the roads with screaming and resisting hubs, fashioned from oak. In the long winter nights wolves howled about the settlement and lynx screamed in the deep pine groves.

Five months after their arrival they had the mill functioning with a simple carding machine. Farmers would bring in their virgin wool and have it carded and spun. Three times the mill burned to the ground to be rebuilt by the dauntless couple. The last time it burned the insurance had lapsed the week before and they were left with just the smouldering ruins about them. Then true to the pioneer spirit settlers and farmers came forward bringing timbers and lumber, sash and frames for the couple to rebuild their mill.

One woman who had lived in a log cabin for some years and had accumulated materials enough to start the construction of her first frame house decided that a mill was more important than a 'fashionable house' so she turned these building supplies over to the Fuller's, adding her blessings and sending along her menfolk to help with the construction work.

Mill Still Operates

Today the mill is a going concern and while Mrs. Fuller now relaxes a bit her son manages the business but she keeps a keen weather eye on things. Farmers still bring their wool to the Fuller mill to have it processed and many of them have warm blankets woven for them in gay tints and colorful bands.

"I am glad that Newfoundland has become a part of the Dominion," she said. "Why, just last week we sent a large shipment of blankets to Labrador, that's a part of the new province, you know," Mrs. Fuller told us. "Not only that," she continued, "but, we send them all over the Dominion even up to the Northwest Territories."

Today at 88, Mrs. Fuller has all her faculties and she only uses her glasses "occasionally." She reads, eats and sleeps well, and enjoys life to its fullest, and if she has any regrets, it is the fact that she doesn't get around to the mill as often as she might, but when there's a lot of visiting and shopping to catch up on what might have been neglected in those dim days when she was busy helping to carve a thriving town out of the wilderness.

MRS. J. A. FULLER, one of first residents of Bancroft remembers the village excitement when the first horse-drawn wheeled vehicle came to Bancroft in 1890.

Youth should heed the older-witted
When they say, don't go too far—
Now their sins are all committed,
Lord, how virtuous they are!

Irishisms

An Irishman, having feet of different sizes, ordered his boots to be made accordingly. His directions were obeyed, but as he tried the smallest boot on his largest foot, he exclaimed petulantly, "Confound that fellow! I order him to make one larger than the other; and instead of that he has made one smaller than the other."

✧ ✧ ✧

Two Irishmen were working in a quarry when one of them fell into a deep quarry-hole. The other, alarmed, came to the margin of the hole and called out, "Arrah, Pat, are ye killed entirely. If ye're dead, spake." Pat reassured him from the bottom of the hole by saying, "No, Tim, I'm not dead, but I'm spacheless."

Capri: Garden Of Tiberius

(Editor's Note — Mrs. William Tinker and her husband, of Burnham Street, toured in Italy last summer.)

By A. F. TINKER

It was not the beauty of the garden that attracted us—for it wore no flowers like your garden—but its association with Tiberius and its location on the cliffs. Actually there was about it an atmosphere of neglect; or was it age? It was comparatively narrow and quite long, following the outline of the cliff bordering the ancient pathway from the quay, and it tapered to the summer-house of stone and stucco which towered above the sea. When we visited it late in August there was no more beauty to it than to a pastureland, sere and brittle, though I'm sure in the springtime rain would drip from the grape-vines extending along the middle onto the grass underneath, and would make mush of the wide sandy path encircling it. Here not a vestige of stonewalls of the house of Tiberius remained, such as we could see at the other end of the Isle, but in its place stood the home of Axel Munthe, the author. Only in the broken marble pillars lying on the grass—as if they, too, were overcome by the weight of centuries — could we sense the splendour which once it had. How that garden on the cliff would "stand up and take the morning"! How the colonade would glisten in the sunlight and moonlight! Every day our steps turned toward that garden and the stone steps ascending the cliff, and—let me whisper it— we're often back there sitting in that garden, seeing the Bay, Vesuvius, fig trees, umbrella pines.

People living on the Isle a quarter of a century after Tiberius would have had a grand-stand view of the eruption of Vesuvious (79 A. D.), fifteen miles across the Bay. We pictured the dark funnel of a cloud gradually spreading over land and sea, darkening the day more than the blackest night, fancied how the cliffs would quake, how the tidal waves would break far below, and the screaming, shouting of terrified people. It made us shudder.

Blue Mediterranean

Until the day we walked in the garden of Tiberius we had scoffed at the idea of a blue Mediterranean, for at all places we had seen its waters a grey colour or, at best, faintly blue-grey, and we denounced the blue attribute as just another one of those fallacies. When the courier with a wave of his hand introduced us to the Mediterranean near Naples, my Canadian pride stirred as I looked at the grey water; "You should come to see our Lake Ontario where you'll see the bluest of water under blue sky." Which drew no comments. (All probably thinking those Canadians boast like those Americans).

Even as we crossed the Bay of Naples the water was grey, just as it appeared at Genoa and Rapello, until, as stated, when standing in the garden we saw to our amazement about a thousand feet below, the bluest of blue waters—so blue you would have vowed someone had dyed them cobalt blue. But it was for only about fifty feet around the Isle this blue colour could be seen, further out it was the usual blue-grey like the sky. Don't ask for an explanation. We gazed and gazed at its beauty. Moving across its surface were rowboats resembling tiny beetles with pairs of oar-legs propelling them with rhythmic motion. In the water patches of white coral accentuated the blueness. And the blue of that water we shall never forget.

Oshawa Takes Junior Title Over IOOF In Fifth Game

Oshawa Bees took the junior "B" group hockey championship last night at the Motor City by defeating Triplelinks 5-1 in the fifth and final game of best-of-five series. Each team had previously won twice.

It was a lightning fast struggle all the way with little to choose between in play for two periods, but the Bees cut loose with a great rally in the final frame to outplay and outscore the Peterborough boys 4-1 in a furious session and put the game safely away. On the play over the route, the homesters unquestionably earned the verdict but Bun Kingdon's boys made it a fine, hard battle throughout, gave all they had and in defeat were not disgraced. A few breaks earlier in the game might well have altered the picture. Bees got the jump early, held off every thrust with Claus playing well in goal and had enough reserve power to more than match their rivals, in a strong finish.

A Long Shot

McAllister scored on a long low shot from centre at 6:54 in the first with both squads hitting a hot pace and Wasson the busier of the two net guardians. Incidentally, Wasson outshone his rival, despite the score, with a display that was truly amazing—particularly in the first two frames. Bees outshot Links by a wide margin. Four penalties in the first curbed the attacking strength of Oddfellows no little but they held strong defensively and both teams settled down to play good hockey with neither able to score for the equivalent of two periods. Desjardins, the Masons, Turner, Floyd, Wyatt, Millar, Fennell and all matched the best Bees could offer. But Claus and Lady Luck proved too much as their best efforts went for naught, from a scoring standpoint. Oshawa fared no better as Wasson kicked shots away from all angles.

Went Ahead

Attersley, McAllister and Crust who starred for Bees, combined finally, well on in the third, to put their team two up from close range and George Deeth, ever dangerous, clicked on two more midway in the frame aided by Attersley and McAllister to give Bees a safe lead. At this point, Birch passed to Baker who sped down the left boards, and beat Claus for the finest goal of the night. The red head got a big hand. Brabin tallied the final marker with Wasson in the cooler.

IOOF—Goal, R. Wasson; defence, D. Wasson and Richlark; centre, Desjardins; wings, B. Mason and R. Mason; alternates, Turner, Floyd, Wyatt, Birch, Doris, Baker, Fennell, Millar.

Oshawa — Goal, Claus; defence, McAllister and Crust; centre, Myles; wings, Brabin and Wilson; alternates, Etcher, Bannon, Attersley, Johnson, Deeth, Pollard, Marshall, Weddup.

Referees—Harry Morrison and Jim Slater, Toronto.

First Period

Oshawa—McAllister 6:54

Penalties — Turner, Fennell, Weddup, D. Wasson.

Second Period.

No score.

Penalties — Myles, Weddup, Desjardins.

Third Period

Oshawa—Attersley (McAllister, Crust) 7:39

Oshawa—Deeth (Attersley) 10:56

Oshawa—Deeth (McAllister) 11:36

IOOF—Baker (Birch) 12:20

Oshawa—Brabin (Crust, McAllister) 17:59

Penalties — Attersley, Birch, B. Mason.

Bowmanville Wins

KINGSTON, March 25—Gananoque, who won the first two games of the OHA Intermediate play-off round against Bowmanville, were beaten for the second time in succession here when the Bows fashioned a 53 victory and forced a fifth game. The issue was decided when Lintner scored two fast goals late in the duel after the Gans had wiped out a two-goal deficit.

Neill's-Black's Gain Wins To Start Series

Neill's defeated Senior Nurses 27-13 in the YWCA gym last night to open their best-of-three senior Girls' Basketball League finals. Black's just edged CGE 22-21 in the nightcap as the intermediate two-out-of-three finals commenced. Play will resume next week with finals in the different sections.

In the first fray, Neill's turned it on from the start and racked up an 18-4 edge at the half, with play closer the last two quarters. It was rough in spots and Neill's had 23 fouls called on them. Jean Vass, Joan Dunk, Pauline Stewart and Dot Callan stood out for the winners, the losers having 18 fouls called on them. Their best players were Anita Davis, Joan Plunkett, Bev Pringle and the Deyell sisters. Teams:

Neill's—J. Dunk 10, M. Freeman 1, J. Vass 6, W. Floyd, G. Poast, P. Stewart 5, D. Saunders 1, D. Callan 4.

Nurses—A. Bowler 3, J. Deyell 1, M. Collins, B. Pringle 1, A. Davis 3, J. Plunkett 2, G. Weichorek 2, J. Smith, B. Deyell 1.

A Tight Fit

The intermediate playoff was a tight fit with Black's coming from behind in the second half to win out by a point. They were trailing 11-7 at the intermission. Play was fast and smart, Black's having 21 fouls called and CGE 14. It was anybody's game all the way, but Black's clicked better in the late stages. Ruth Hewitt, Ruth Beard, Marion McKee, Ann Hickling and Carol Ferguson all went well for the winners; while Marg Kennedy, T. Stewart, Marg. Batley and Betty Stewart showed good for the short-handed CGE squad. Teams:

Black's—R. Hewitt 7, M. Beggs 2, M. McKee, R. Naylor, C. Ferguson, M. Knox, M. McGill, R McInroy, R. Beard 11, D. McNeeley 2, A. Hickling.

CGE—M. Kennedy 3, T. Stewart 1, B. Luther 1, B. Stewart 8, M. Perrin 4, M. Batley 4.

Referee: H. Hempstead.

Sturgeon Trophy this evening, 6.45 and 9 o'clock.

The ladies held a little bonspiel all their own yesterday afternoon. Chose rinks and played two 5-end games. The winning skips were Mrs. G. Wood and Mrs. D. Clark. Mrs. J. Elliott won the lucky draw prize.

N. Hamley and Dr. R. Clark lost out in the final games at Toronto Granite yesterday. They just could not get going.

Last night's 7 o'clock draw: J. Dutton won from N. Hamley; T. Ryan won from R. F. Downey; R. Johnson won from R. Best; F. Green won from H. Baptie.

Chairman Jack Allen has everything in first-class shape for the big Kiwanis bonspiel all day Monday.

2 St. Kitts Players Signed By Bruins

BOSTON, March 25 (AP) — Two youngsters from St. Catharines who showed well in a pre-game tryout have been signed to professional contracts with the National Hockey League's Boston Bruins.

They are Norman Corcoran, 19-year-old right winger and Jack [illegible] (The Associated Press Thursday night incorrectly identified McIntyre as Jack (McCormick).

They will report to the Bruins' pre-season camp at Hershey, Pa., next fall and be assigned either to Hershey in the American League or Tulsa in the United States League.

Heads Horse Society

TORONTO, March 25 (CP) — Bill Risewick Friday was re-elected president of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society for the second consecutive year. R. James Speers of Winnipeg was made the first honorary president in the 4[illegible] years existence of the organization.

HE'S TOPS—Chosen as Canada's top amateur golfer, Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., Essex Golf Club, is shown receiving the Pickens Trophy from Hilles R. Pickens of Montreal. Pickens, publisher of Canadian Sports Magazine, made the selection which was announced at a Toronto rally of the Ontario Golf Association.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor.

OLA annual meeting will be in Toronto on April 15, and Ken Kingston has again been nominated by the club here for an executive office. He was elected last year. Paul Irwin, Pete King, Mick Magee and Red Creighton will be other Peterborough officials taking in the session. Meantime, Pete and Red have been contacting different outstanding players from other centres in the hopes of building up a real contender in OLA senior "A" ranks here this year. However, many of these aces are cannily shopping around and not inking in their names as yet, so not much can be made public for a little while. It's the old army game.

* * * * * *

Manager Pete King informs us that the Petes will definitely be stronger than last year and heavier, too. They made a fair showing in their first year up, but the large local following will expect a stronger team for which to cheer when May rolls around and the schedule is drawn. The surface at Miller Bowl will be improved when dry weather sets in so that summer rains won't ruin the footing just before a game. So, fans, just have patience a couple of more weeks and some information regarding the senior lacrossers will likely be available. And the large minor setup will shortly be bestirring itself, also.

King At The Helm, Huh?

St. Kitts scribe says the story is out that Frank (King) Clancy will coach Montreal Canadiens next year, as Dick Irvin retires to his pigeons, maybe down Niagara Falls way. The King is in the Montreal chain now as coach of the Cincy Mohawks, and he has been doing okay after a slow start. Yes, Clancy is a likely prospect to succeed Irvin, and it would be a popular choice around the NHL. But we wonder how the old Canadian-Leafs feud would go with the Irishman—who finished his playing career with Toronto—at the Canadiens' helm. It might prove quite interesting all round.

Legionnaires are off tonight for Oshawa to tackle Markham Millionaires in the third of their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" playoffs. Millionaires are one up and figure they hold an edge on the large Oshawa surface, though we doubt if that ordinarily will bother the Ellis outfit. They didn't do too badly on the sweeping sheet at Kingston in group playoffs. However, we're not selling the Millionaires short as they're speedy, smart and a close-checking team. Legion will have to hustle at their best to beat them, and tonight would be a good time to start right in the Motor City. Fourth game is back here Monday and should pack Civic Arena. In fact, lots of local fans will see the one tonight, also.

IOOF-ers Bow To Bees

Local Oddfellows bowed out for this season last eve in Oshawa, losing 5-1 in the deciding game of their junior "B" group finals. The Bees were full value for their victory, unleashing a sizzling attack in [illegible] third canto for a [illegible] margin. Congrats to them, [illegible] will be available for junior play[illegible] their last age-limit hockey. We[illegible] win them all, and the Triple Links were by no mea[illegible] this series.

Girls' basketball finals opened last gloaming in the YWCA gym, Neill's beating Nurses 27-13 to start the senior sawoffs, and Black's nosing out CGE 22-21 in the intermediate opener. They'll resume next week and basketball should be pretty well finished here within two weeks. Our PCVS midget boys are in an OABA championship tourney in St. Catharines today, while Outboard Marines are in OABA intermediate "A" semi-finals tonight in Hamilton. If they win, they go against the Soo in the all-Ontario finals. Towne Togs still await word on their LOBA intermediate "B" finals series opening next week in Western Ontario. Yes, the cage colleens and chaps wind things up in the early part of April usually.

Dese, Dem And Dose

Down in Oshawa, they too are hoping to have floodlights this season for senior baseball.... Assistant sports scribe there doesn't think Legion can skate with Markham — ha!.... Toronto Granite Club won the Brereton-Raw curling 'spiel in Toronto.... Local and district soccer association has its annual open meeting at eight p.m. Monday in the "Y" ... Nothing at this writing of future PMHA playoffs.... More than 1,800 fans paid to see Lakefield defeat Marmora at Civic Arena last night, to go two up in their best-of-five OHA intermediate "B" playoffs.... A report was promised us on this tilt but we haven't seen it yet, and there's enough local sports to handle without trying to cover the district games.... Cleveland Barons hold the AHL record for most playoff championships won with four. Providence and Buffalo each having three.... Kid Flu has us on the ropes these last few days and wouldn't you know it with Legion in playdowns?.... But enough for now.

Ball Park Lights To Be Installed At Cost Of $2,500

WARKWORTH, Mar. 25 — (ENS)—The Board of Directors of Percy township community centre is planning to complete the lighting system of the ball park in readiness for the coming season.

Various clubs and organizations are supporting this cause.

It is estimated that approximately $2,500 will be required for which the entire district will be canvassed. The canvass will take place the first two weeks in April.

A partial canvass was conducted last fall to defray the costs of the grading and the poles were erected. The park will be available to all clubs.

A charge will be made for the use of the ground to defray expenses and any excess over the actual cost will be used for improving the grounds, etc.

Pick Magistrate To Head Race Committee

TORONTO, March 25 (CP) — Ontario's new racing commission chairman knows his horses and his bookmakers—even if his innocence in race-track matters was one of the reasons he got the job.

Premier Frost said Thursday night in announcing the appointment of Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, 49, that he was choosing a man with an independent outlook—one not interested in any particular branch of racing.

The new commissioner told interviewers he's been to the races only "on rare occasions." But he learned all about bookies from his dealings with them in Toronto courts and still remembers what his old riding instructor at Royal Military College said about telling a wither from a fetlock.

The tall, grey-haired Magistrate still isn't too sure what his new job entails. He had only 24 hours to think it over before the appointment was announced.

He'll head a commission that Premier Frost said could include seven men, though likely will number only about four. One of its jobs, he knows, will be to clamp down on bookies. The commission will control both thoroughbred and harness racing.

Pick Archbishop To Replace Charbonneau

MONTREAL, March 25—(CP)—Most Rev. Paul-Emile Leger, 46-year-old rector of the Pontifical Canadian College in Rome, today was named fifth Canadian Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal.

As head of the largest ecclesiastical province of his faith in Canada, he succeeds Archbishop Joseph Charbonneau who left Montreal Jan. 31 to enter a nursing home in Victoria, B.C. Church authorities announced that Archbishop Charbonneau had resigned "because of the condition of his health."

Except for brief periods when he returned to Canada to preach closed retreats, the Archbishop-elect has been in Rome since his appointment to the Canadian College in 1947. As such, the former Valleyfield, Que., priest welcomed Canadian pilgrims to the Vatican and presented them to the Pope.

Million Catholics

When he takes up his new post it will end the temporary administration under which the Archdiocese has functioned since Feb. 12.

The appointment was announced in Ottawa at midnight by Most Rev. Ildebrando Antoniutti, Apostolic delegate to Canada.

It was Msgr. Antoniutti who announced six weeks ago that Msgr. J. C. Chaumont, auxiliary Bishop of Montreal, had been appointed Apostolic administrator of the Archdiocese due to Archbishop Charbonneau's resignation.

Mrs. Skinkle Hostess To White School WI

WARKWORTH, March 25 — (ENS)—The White School Women's Institute met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. M. Skinkle.

Arrangements were made to hold a euchre party at Norham Community Centre on March 30, each member to bring cake and sandwiches.

Plans were made to hold a meeting to arrange for the year's program at the home of Mrs. Owen Finlay on April 12. Mrs. Clifford Skinkle read a paper on household hints.

TRIPLE PLAY—Three players go sky-high after ball before 67,752 spectators in soccer game between Chelsea and Arsenal in London. The work went for naught, the resulting 2-2 draw forcing a play-off in Football Association Cup semi-finals. Arsenal won play-off, 1-0.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

By The Canadian Press.

At Belfast, Northern Ireland, Rinty Monaghan, world's flyweight boxing champion, announced Friday that he is giving up his title because of poor health.

"Bronchial trouble has demanded that I hang up my gloves" said the clever little boxer who came out of the heart of Belfast's dockland two years ago to take the crown from Jackie Paterson of Glasgow.

Rinty is 29. Recently he was ordered by the European Boxing Union to defend his European flyweight title against Honore Pratesi, the French champion.

Monaghan started road work in preparation for the Pratesi bout but he abandoned it this week because he said he had difficulty in breathing after running a short distance.

Sydney Millionaires took a big step toward retaining their Maritime senior hockey crown Friday as they defeated Halifax St. Mary's 7-3 to take a 3-1 lead in their best- of-seven finals series. Fifth, and possibly deciding game of the series, will be played here tonight.

Fabulous Dick Button proved Friday night that he still is North America's top figure skater. The Harvard sophomore completely overshadowed the field in the finals of the United States figure skating championships at Washington to win the men's title for the fifth straight year.

At Lethbridge, Alta., Magrath Rockets Friday night squeaked through with a 78-77 victory over Vancouver Clover Leafs to square the Western Canada men's senior basketball semi-final at one game apiece. [illegible] will be [illegible] the world champion Edmonton Mercurys to a 3-3 draw gaining partial revenge for a previous 8-3 drubbing at the hands of the Canadian outfit.

The exhibition contest opened slowly with both teams playing careful hockey, but it warmed up as it went along. The Mercurys, who earlier this week regained the world title for Canada at the tournament in London, were held scoreless in the first period.

Only Girl In Class

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—Patricia Robinson, of Timmins, is in the unique position of being the only girl in a class of 25 students at Ryerson Institute of Technology in a furniture design course that includes training in cabinet - making, upholstering, wood finishing and industrial management.

Ontario Veteran Forges Success From Wheelchair

KITCHENER, Ont (CP).—Clare Millar has come a long way since his discharge from Lyndhurst Lodge treatment centre in Toronto as a paraplegic.

He wasn't sure then, in 1946, what he would do but today, managing a travel and ticket agency and writing a newspaper column, he no longer wonders.

The 31-yar-old native of Cobourg, Ont., appears to be a shining success in Kitchener's business life.

Deetermination has developed a few ideas into a sound living since Clare was discharged from hospital. A wartime spinal injury has left him paralyzed from the waist down. He is in continual need of aid from crutches and a wheelchair.

He says he got the idea of a ticket agency in hospital in 1945 when numerous Kitchener friends asked him to get tickets for Toronto functions.

Beginning operations in his home, enthusiastic response to newspaper advertisements led him to set up a downtown office. He got his first break the first day — a contract to sell tickets for a symphony orchestra concert in Kitchener.

Smooth Sailing

"I sold over 5,000 tickets to that one concert," he says. "And I jumped at the chance to place printed publicity advertising the service in each envelope along with the tickets." From that point on it was smooth sailing.

Soon a breezy column written by him began appearing in the Kitchener Record, telling of present and coming events in Kitchener and Waterloo.

Then Trans-Canada Air Lines appointed him their official agent in Kitchener. He added other air lines until today he represents more than 30 in many parts of the world. He has also taken on the agency of a bus line.

Assisted By Four

He handles travel arrangements for several industries in the area, including hotel reservations, and represents an American hotel chain. In all his work he is assisted by four employees.

Occasionally he combines business with pleasure and goes off with his wife to such places as Florida, Jamaica and the West Indies.

Before the Second World War Clare was an assistant buyer for a tire company. He married his wife, Mary, in 1942 before his enlistment in the Highland Light Infantry. A sniper's bullet got him and a series of hospital stays began in Belgium, took him to England and finally home.

He still suffers periodic excruciating pain. But that doesn't curtail his activities. In addition to his business, he finds time for Kiwanis club and Chamber of Commerce meetings. He's treasurer of the Kiwanis safety campaign.

BAG WORK—Rocky Graziano watches another Rocky—Marciano, a heavyweight of Brockton, Mass.—work on light bag in midtown Manhattan gymnasium. The former middleweight champion of the world returns to Madison Square Garden, March 31, for first time in four years, in a scheduled 10-round bout with Welterweight Tony Janiro.

Easter Theme Marks Church Club Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, March 25 (ENS). — The members of St. John's Young Adults Club turned out in large numbers to attend the regular monthly meeting held Thursday night. President Ruth Thompson presided.

Jack Connor and Everett Steele took over the devotional part of the program, which was on the Easter theme, and Elaine Watson played the piano for the appropriate hymns that were sung.

Bill Bateson invited the club to meet at his home in June, and was accepted.

The guest speaker was Dr. C. A. Bright of Campbellford, who was introduced by Rev. D. A. Smith and thanked by Mort Sayers. Miss Anne Nicholls presented vocal and piano solos and Ruth Holmes gave a reading.

A male quartet made up of Earl Nelson, Walter Elliott, John Pierce, and Bruce Barnum also entertained the gathering, accompanied by Charles Howey. The musical part of the program was under the direction of and arranged by Mrs. Ward Archer.

Mel McKeown conducted a number of games in which the members took part. At the close of these lunch was served and the meeting was adjourned.

POST-WAR BUILDING

In three years after the Second World War, Britain built 463,701 new homes for bombed-out families.

Red Peps Up New Dining Car On C.P.R.

MONTREAL, March 25. — The Canadian Pacific Railway unveiled something new in dining car interior decorating at Montreal today. The car in question, a modernized class "A" type diner was on inspection at Windsor Station for officials of the CPR.

Smart interior design is the watchword for this car, which by next May will be joined by nine others on the CPR lines between Toronto, Windsor and Medicine Hat—Vancouver.

Featuring chic red plastic windowsills, with spacious, curtained windows separated by yellow leatherette, the 36-seat car has a bright, cheery atmosphere, designed for the utmost in travel comfort. The lighting effect on a pastel blue ceiling offsets the walnut paneling at either end of the car, further enhancing the general pleasant appearance of the diner.

Officials of the CPR announce that in all, 55 cars of various classes are included in the company's current modernization program, in addition to the new equipment being turned out at Angus Shops.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Mrs. Marion Scott's Battleship, sired by the great Man o' War, won the 100th running of the Grand National Steeplechase 12 years ago today. The 4½ mile course cost the life of Rock Lad, first Canadian-owned horse to compete. Owned by H. Rupert Bain of Toronto, the horse fell at a water jump and was killed.

Spitfire Jinx Operating Drop 6-3 Tilt To Guelph

By The Canadian Press.

Are the Windsor Spitfires jinxed?

By dropping a 6-3 decision to Guelph Biltmores last night the pre-series favorites came one game closer to repeating their unexpected 1948 and 1949 downfalls when they bowed to lightly-regarded opposition in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals.

Last night's win at Windsor gave the victorious Biltmores a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series and brought the sixth game to Guelph, home of their first two wins.

At Ottawa, South Porcupine Combines came up with a 7-2 victory over Inkerman Rockets in the first game of a best-of-five series for the Eastern Ontario Junior A hockey championship.

For the team that breezed through Toronto Marlboros—first in regular competition—in five games, it left them in the unenviable position of having to win two in a row or adding a third disappointment to their supporters' woes.

Close To Line

The clubs played it close to the line in the first period and split a pair of goals. The 5,600 fans cheered themselves hoarse when Earl Reibel potted the opening goal but Jerry Theberge evened it up for Guelph.

The middle stanza was all for the visitors. Vic Dimarco made it 2-1 at 8:27 and a little more than three minutes later Herb Dickerson rammed in the third Biltmore marker.

Windsor showed flashes of brilliance in the first eight minutes of the final period and tied the score on markers by Erwin Grosse and Eddie Stankiewicz. The deadlock was short-lived, however, at Andy Bathgate, Don Bellringer and Ron Plumb tallied for Guelph.

Potent Peace Force

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—Rotary is one of "the world's most potent forces for peace," Percy Hodgson, of Pawtucket, R.I., told the members of the Toronto club Friday night. Mr. Hodgson, president of Rotary International, was speaking at the annual dinner of Ontario District Officers.

Out of your heart...

A stroke of your pen, and your contribution to the Red Cross is made. But look behind that cheque—in your mind's eye, see it helping to send precious blood and plasma to a Canadian hospital. Hear, in imagination, the siren's sudden wail, "Emergency!" See the color of life flood slowly back into the face of the victim, as Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service saves another life! Yes, what a thrill to think that the very gift you make might be one that brings to pass this greatest of all miracles! Open your heart and your purse to maintain and extend the Red Cross Free Blood Transfusion Service, the Veterans' Services and Outpost Hospitals, the merciful and never-ending work of Disaster Services. Remember, the Red Cross cannot do this work without your help.

The work of mercy never ends . . .

90,955 Homes Were Built During 1949

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP) — A record number of new homes were built in Canada in 1949 to help ease the hungry demand in all parts of the country.

The Bureau of Statistics Friday reported that 90,955 units — houses or apartments — were constructed during the year compared with 81,243 in 1948.

The report said the increase of 9,712 homes was "entirely due to the marked upswing in new construction, which resulted in the completion of 87,533 units compared with 76,097. Old buildings converted into homes totalled only 3,422 last year compared with 5,146 the previous year.

QuebecApproves Highway Bill

QUEBEC, March 25 (CP)—The The Quebec Legislative Assembly Friday approved a bill providing for Quebec government co-operation in the Trans-Canada Highway project without sacrifice of constitutional rights.

Premier Duplessis told the House the Quebec government is ready to work with other governments on the project but will be watchful lest federal authorities use the Trans-Canada Highway plan as a "pretext for control over provincial highway traffic."

The premier said while his government wishes to co-operate in the plan it cannot do so at the expense of holding up road-building in New Quebec mining areas or retarding its policy of rural road-building.

"We cannot forget that Quebec is developing rapidly and needs for new roads are enormous," said the premier.

"There is the Gaspe district, for instance, where important mining development will be announced shortly."

Leaky Lake Bottom Plugged By Divers

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP).—One of New Zealand's oddest jobs is now being tackled. Lake Waikaremoana is leaking, and a team of divers and engineers is hard at work plugging up its bottom.

The lake is one of the main hydro-electric supplies of New Zealand's North Island.

So far 40 per cent of the leakage has been stopped by pouring stones, rubble and sand into the larger cracks. The work is made dangerous by the strong current into these holes which would easily suck a diver down.

It is hoped to save 70 per cent of the water loss and send it to the power house instead.

Protest Raiding

PORT COLBORNE, March 25 —(CP). — The Niagara United Labor Committee, after a meeting which heard officials of various trade unions, Friday passed a resolution protesting against the alleged raiding of other unions by the Canadian Congress of Labor. It said such tactics were directed against the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the United Electrical Workers.

Stratford Planning To Build Replica Of Shakespearian Theatre

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, March 25—(CP)—A playhouse at Stratford-on-Avon modelled after Shakespearian London's Globe Theatre is under consideration for the 1951 festival of Britain. It would be a temporary structure, designed to accommodate overflow playgoers from Stratford's blooming Shakespeare Memorial Theatre.

The Globe Theatre, built on the marshy south bank of the Thames, for 14 years was the home of Shakespeare's plays, "there the bard wrote and produced 17 of his dramatic works. It burned down in June, 1613.

The Stratford model, plans for which are only in the talking stage, would be built alongside the Avon, in a meadow owned by trustees of the Memorial Theatre. Unlike the old Globe, the new version would be roofed in. And there would be seats where in Shakespeare's day the audience stood crushed together in the pit.

But the old-style apron stage projecting out among the audience, would be reproduced.

Anthony Quayle, youthful director of the Memorial Theatre, said he hopes such a temporary Globe Theatre might eventually be replaced by a permanent building.

"No finer school for Shakespearian actors and producers could be devised," Quayle said.

Under Quayle's direction, the Memorial Theatre is enjoying its greatest season. Before the 1940 repertory began earlier this month, advance bookings totalled 70,000 seats. Enthusiasts reserved seats from North America Australia, India, Africa, Iceland and almost every country in Europe.

Theatre officials now are considering the problem of taking care of even bigger crowds expected during the festival of Britain year. One solution might be the staging of two performances at the Memorial each day. But another temporary theatre for a second company is regarded as a more practical answer.

This season for the first time John Gielgud, often called Britain's foremost Shakespearian actor, is playing in the Bard's native town.

Stories From The Bible

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of studies from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Harte for the new book, "In Our Image." Illustration by Guy Rowe is also from the book.

Now the days of David drew nigh that he should die; and he slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David. Then sat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was established greatly.

In Gibeon the Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream by night: and God said, Ask what I shall give thee. And Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness that thou has given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day. And now, O Lord my God, I am but a little child: I know no how to go out or come in. Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people that I may discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people? And the speech pleased the Lord.

And God said, Behold, I have done according to thy words: I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart; so that there was none like thee before, neither shall any arise like thee. I have also given which thou hast not asked both riches, and honour; so that there shall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days. And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, I will lengthen thy days. And Solomon awoke, and came to Jerusalem and stood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and feast to all his servants.

Then came there two women unto the king. And the one woman said O my lord, I am this woman dwell in one house; and I was delivered of a child with her in the house. And the third day after I was delivered this woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no stranger with us in the house, save we two in the house. And this woman's child died in the night; and she arose at midnight, and took my son from beside me, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom. And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but when I considered it in the morning, behold it was not my son. And the other woman said, The living is my son, and the dead is thy son.

Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and the other saith, Nay; thy son is thy dead, and my son is the living.

And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword. And the king said, Divide the living child in two and give half to the one and half to the other.

Then spake the woman whose the living child was unto the king, for her bowels yearned upon her son, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it. But the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it she is the mother thereof. And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged; and they feared the king: for they saw that the wisdom of God was in him to do judgment.

59 Years In Western Canada Bishop Plans To Retire

REGINA, — (CP) — Rt. Rev. Edwin Hubert Knowles fifth bishop of the Anglican diocese of Qu'Appelle — former, trapper hunter and teacher as a young man—retires April 30.

Bishop Knowles proved up two homesteads in the Saltcoats, Sask., district in territorial days. He says, laughing, that he can do it again since he turned back his rights to the land when he went into the church.

"But it not likely I'll take advantage of that right at my age," he said in an interview. He will be 76 next June 7.

The day after he announced his resignation at a meeting of the diocesan executive committee he was back at his busy round of duties with interviews, visits and church business.

An example of his activity is the fact that as bishop he must travel 20,000 to 30,000 miles a years in his large territory.

"That's another reason I'm retiring," he said. "Travelling is exhausting even in these modern days." In addition, he felt he had reached an age when he should make way for a younger man.

Bishop Knowles comes from an old English family which for generations contributed sons to the church and the law. He won degrees in both professions—perhaps the only bishop in Canada with that distinction.

In 1891 his widowed mother brought her two sons and daughter to Saltcoats, then in the Northwest Territories. The sons took up homesteads. Later the family moved to the Schillingthorpe district, near Calder, being among the first to settle in that district.

Bishop Knowles combined homesteading and teaching for 10 years. Then he was attracted to the church. By Rt. Rev. W. J. Burns second bishop of Qu'Appelle who invited young men of the church settling in the west to serve in the ministry.

For 12 years he was a lay reader at Saltcoats and he studied at St. John's College, Winnipeg. In 1905 he was ordained. While serving at Buffalo Lake, near Moose Jaw, and Kamsack, he studied law. University of Manitoba gave him his degree in 1909.

Soon he became secretary of the Qu'Appele diocesan synod, a post he held until appointed bishop in 1938. His territory covers 90,000 square miles, in which the Anglican church counts 75,000 adherents. Of the 123 parishes 22 were self-supporting when Bishop Knowles took over. Thirty-four are self-supporting now.

Soccer and cricket have been his sports interests. For years he was one of the west's better batsmen and was a member of the Saltcoats cricket team, one of the best in the province.

Bishop Knowles and his wife have made no plans yet for his life in retirement. They have been married since 1898. The bishop's brother stayed with farming and still lives at Kamsack. His sisters, Mrs. Peter Fraser, lives at Kelvington, Sask. The Knowles have one son— E. H. M. Knowles, a lawyer at Regina.

Church Is Divine Society Not Department Of State

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar or not? Jesus answering said to them: Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's. And they [illegible] at [illegible] St. Mark [illegible]

[illegible]s: Both Roman and [illegible] leaders were convinced [illegible] political enemies—and herodians—yet mentally clever. They strive to disarm Him by compliments; a prophet from God and a fearless Teacher. Just read the passage with imagination and recognize how amazed His questioners are when they see how He escapes from the trap.

The question is full of dynamite. If He answered "It is lawful to give tribute to Caesar" the common people would call Him a traitor to His nation. If He said "No" they would accuse Him to the Roman Judge on the charge of high treason. Their clever minds could see no escape. No wonder "they marvelled at Him."

The Romans were gifted with the art of ruling conquered people. They recognized the place of religion to the minds of the everyday people. They encouraged the popular religions. In this case they went further. They permitted the Jews to worship Jehovah in the Temple or synagogue without any intrusion on the part of the Gentile conqueror. Any Gentile who entered the Temple courts could be immediately put to death by the Jewish authorities without trial. Tablets were placed on the walls by the Roman Government warning any Gentile; no matter how important, that he would suffer death if he entered the courts. In a word there was a place where Caesar could not enter.

The Teacher's answer tied the hands of His enemies, but many were disappointed. Many strained their ears to catch His reply. Pay tribute to Caesar was hateful to them. He carried His cross through the Holy City because he did not attract the loyalists who hated Rome. Perhaps you can understand how the people cried: "Not this Man but Barabbas." Moreover the Jewish authorities went on with their plans for His arrest; they felt sure the common people would not raise a [illegible] laid down the new principle that the individual was important. This teaching produced martyrs, men and women who died for the principle that the individual was important in God's sight. It is a truth that must not be forgotten today when Communism teaches that the individual must be put out of the way if he is opposed to the communistic teaching: that the State Caesar is everything.

The church is a divine society and can never be a department of the State. As Christians we must render unto God the things that are God's.

LET THE WORD OF CHRIST DWELL IN YOU RICHLY IN ALL WISDOM.

NewPipes,Figure Old Fountain Goes Up Again

Victoria Park will have its fountain re-erected before summer, Armar Butcher, parks superintendent said Friday. The old, but new, fountain will be about 50 feet directly west of the old fountain's position. It was torn down last autumn.

The new site is the tulip bed at the intersection of the sidewalks in the park. Mr. Butcher explained that this spot is better because it is on the level. The old fountain's pipes are being repaired by the Utilities Department.

The new park decoration will not have the rock base as formerly. Mr. Butcher plans to have the old cast iron fountain placed on a cement stand in the middle of a pool. The water will drip from one saucer to another until finally it reaches the pool which will have a depth of six inches.

One of Mr. Butcher's problems is the figurine which will be at the top of the fountain. He hopes to obtain a figure of a boy fishing because Peterborough is at the heart of the Kawarthas. The old figure was that of a boy holding a fish, the water coming from the fish's mouth. That figure was taken away because it had broken apart.

The parks superintendent hopes to illuminate the statue. He has suggested lights be put under the three saucers to give a sparkle to the drops of water falling down into the pool.

The old fountain site will be used as a flower bed.

Easter Seals Aid Young Cripples

Every household in the city and many in Peterborough county have been convassed by Rotary Club in the Easter Seal campaign for crippled children.

Rotary takes care of every crippled child in Peterborough, undertaking financial responsibilities for the care of all youngsters with crippling ailments and it is to continue this work that the club asks for donations from everyone in the city.

Half of the money raised during the campaign is retained by Peterborough Rotary for use among crippled children here, and half is sent to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

The Society provides facilities such as special hospital treatment and summer camps for crippled children, which are made available by Rotary to local children.

The camps, to which Peterborough children have been sent by Rotary during the summer, enabled the unfortunate youngsters to enjoy a holiday which would otherwise be denied them.

RESIGNS FROM POLICE

Provincial Constable Earl Berwick has resigned from the force, effective March 23. He will join the staff of a soft drink company in Peterborough.

SPRING'S HERE: SPLASSSSSH! There's melting water everywhere, overflowing from lawns over sidewalks to brimming drains. Many drains plugged with ice cause deep backflooding over streets in some sections of the city and frequent calls to council members plead for assistance. Children think it is fun, if they are shod with high rubber boots, as shown in the group on the playground lake of Confederation School. Excessive street flooding is prevalent on some streets in the southwest corner of the city as shown by the spray-throwing car in the Lower photo on Hamilton St. Board of works staff is doing its best to relieve the situation as quickly as possible. —Staff Photo

Don't Try Moving With Old Plates

City police are going to crack down on car drivers who still persist in using 1949 licences, Chief Constable John Thompson said today.

Although the last day for the old licence plates was last Monday, there are still a large number of them on cars about the city.

If you haven't the new plates on your car yet, you had better keep the car off the streets until you have, Chief Thompson warned. The same thing applies to drivers' licences, he added.

Have Medical Plan

OTTAWA, March 25—(CP)—W. N. Keenan, vice-chairman of the Civil Service National Joint Council, said Friday night that a government announcement on a group medical benefits plan for the civil service is expected next week. Mr. Keenan said that the group medical benefits would affect [illegible] civil servants across [illegible] luck struck.

To Hospital

An abdominal rupture put him in St. Joseph's Hospital for about four weeks and he was off work for another three months. While in hospital he also had an operation on his nose.

Then in April, May and June of 1949 he was in the Kingston DVA hospital with the same complaint. Another month elapsed before he could return to work.

But he found he was no longer able to do his particular job in the CGE wire department (putting asbestos and rubber insulation on the wires) as it required too much heavy lifting. He was transferred to the work gang as a laborer.

Since August he estimates he has been away, off and on, another four weeks.

Meanwhile the medical bills and rent bills began to pile up.

Mr. Markwick explained he made a deal with Mr. Greenly to take the $20-a-month back rent out of the $900 down-payment on the house. The landlord gave him $150 in cash, a car valued at $350 and deducted about $120 in back rent.

That gave him another nine months' rent, he calculated and it expired this past fall. Mr. Markwick is hazy about dates.

Ordered To Vacate

In August the landlord told him to vacate, Mr. Markwick relates. He was quite agreeable but was unable to find a place.

During 1949, he estimates, he brought home only $1,000. And his weekly pay is now between $35 and $40 a week.

"That's not enough to keep a family of six," he told the Examiner, "and still have enough money left over to pay the rent and those medical bills."

During the cold spell in February he said he and his family were forced to vacate the premises temporarily and live with friends in the village. The cottage is uninsulated and is heated by two stoves. There is no water and no toilet facilities.

While he was away the landlord decided he had moved out and offered it to another tenant. When the Markwick family moved back in they were accused of trespassing and told to vacate. And that's where the matter stands now.

"I've got to get something," the 27-year-old father said Friday night as he sat in the UE hall, George St., talking over his plight. "Somebody in town must have a house."

And the Monday deadline is approaching.

SDG Veteran Faces Eviction Lakefield Cottage Home

A 27-year-old Lakefield man, his pregnant wife and four young children face eviction from their home in Lakefield park. Jack Markwick, a former S. D. and G. Highlander, received word Thursday from a Peterborough legal firm that by occupying the four-room summer cottage in the park he was trespassing. He was given until 7 a.m. today to vacate.

However when some workmates of his at the CGE heard about it they decided to see if they could give him and his harassed family a hand. As yet they have not located another house but managed to push back the eviction deadline to Monday night.

Right now it is a race to see if a home—even a temporary one—can be secured before the new tenant moves in.

Mr. Markwick told the Examiner he was chiefly concerned about finding accommodation for his 28-year-old wife Olga, who is expecting a baby "anytime." And the worry over the family's plight is not doing her any good psychologically.

Swimmers 3rd In Chicago, Score Success

The team of nine Peterborough Ornamental Club swimmers in their "Persian Market" number placed third in the Friday evening finals of the U.S. international synchronized swimming meet in Chicago. A report received this morning states their score was a half point less than that of the team placed second.

Members of this team are Jean Millard, Shirley Moldaver, Iris Reilly, June Storey, Isabel Crary, Beverley Rumary, Norma Gant, Betty Welch and Mary Rutherman, Mary Gordon [illegible] Bogue.

Solo and duet entries will be judged this evening.

All Peterborough entrants are coached by Mrs. Pansy Forbes.

Requests Inquiry

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP) —Representative Clare E. Hoffman (Rep., Mich.), has asked for a Congressional investigation of reports of immorality in the State Department. Citing a newspaper columnist's (Robert Ruark) report that there were homosexuals and alcoholics in U. S. legations abroad, Hoffman introduced a resolution calling for an inquiry by a five-man committee.

Choral Society Full Program PleasesAudience

For its second concert of the 1950 season, the Peterborough Choral Society gave a full and varied program last night in the collegiate auditorium. The audience had an opportunity of hearing a large number of talented young local singers, as well as the society's guest artist, Colin Corbett, well-known Toronto organist.

Colin Corbett's strong sense of rhythm and his smooth facility at the Hammond organ made his three groups of solos highlights of the concert. Especially well-received was his London Fantasia, in which, with the help of lighting effects, he recalled the mood of a London wartime air raid. A more peaceful atmosphere was achieved when Mr. Corbett played Debussy's Clair de Lune, with the stage lit only by deep blue lights.

Under the direction of William Sims, the entire chorus sang three selections from the Broadway musical "Oklahoma", and two spirituals, "Fat Li'l Feller with his Mammy's Eyes" and "Deep River'. The latter, sung without accompaniment, was perhaps the group's most effective contribution, and showed a good balance of voices. A selected group of choristers sang the famous sextette from Lucia, and the quartet from Rigoletto. Apart from a little uncertainty, and a tendency not to keep precisely together, in their timing, they sang well and with animation.

Young Soprano Soloist

Outstanding among the many solos heard were 14-year-old Jo Anne Chamberlain's two soprano songs. Miss Chamberlain delighted the audience with her poise and her clear, lilting young voice. Her voice had some quite mature tones in the waltz song from Romeo and Juliet, and her personal charm should go far towards winning her acclaim in the future.

Of the male soloists heard, Edward Hewitt's pleasing tenor voice was especially notable. His voice is very true, and has an excellent tone that was thoroughly pleasing. Others who sang during the evening were Walter Dawson, Reginald Peters, Dionne Hurtaboise, Bernard Hogg, Marjory McNeill, Gladys Groombridge, Gwen Kilborne and Marjorie Hornsell. The young soloists won plenty of enthusiastic applause, and were generous with their encores.

The organ accompanist for the chorus and soloists was Charles Allen.—J.L.

Water's Fine—Burrh!

Johnnie Thompson, 689 Lansdowne, took a swim in the Otonabee river Friday afternoon and won a fifty cent bet with his brother, Gordon. The water was cold, but no colder than Lake Ontario in the summer, was Johnny's comment when he came out.

Gordon bet Johnny half a dollar that he would not take a dip so the challenged man took a swim at Crawford's Grove. A fifty-cent chill thrill?

Mounty Band To Visit City

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police Band will present a concert sponsored by the Peterborough Police Force in the Brock St. Summer Gardens April 14.

The band, which was organized in 1938, played in New York during the visit of the King and Queen. It was also on duty at both Quebec wartime conferences between Winston Churchill, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mackenzie King.

The band has also played in most of the major cities of Canada and in several cities of the United States.

Its member are regular mounties who have their police duties in Ottawa. The band will be conducted by H. A. Blackman, ATCM, assistant director of music in the absence of the band's director, Sub-Inspector E. J. Lydall, for its Peterborough performance.

Obituary

GEORGE FRANCIS DAVIS

George Francis Davis, 79, of Concession 14, Smith township, died today at his residence following a short illness. He was born in the immediate vicinity of his present home, son of the late William Davis and Delilah Nichols, and has lived in the district a lifetime. His wife, the former Victoria Sage, predeceased him about seven years ago.

He leaves one daughter, Miss Effie Davis, and two sons, Wesley and Allen, all of Smith. A sister, Mrs. William Morrison (Alice) and a brother Ambrose Davis both live in Lakefield and another brother, Thomas, in Smith. A nephew, Manson Davis, lives at home.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at 2 p.m., at the Tedford Funeral Home, Lakefield. The Rev. Williard B. Day of Burleigh Falls Church-on-the-Rock will officiate and burial will be at Ray's Cemetery, Lakefield.

1950 Municipal Expenditure Exceeds $2 Million Mark

Peterborough's estimated municipal expenditures this year total $2,093,347.10, as compared with $1,818,951.82 in 1949, an increase of $274,395.28.

This is the first year in which the actual spending for all municipal purposes has passed the $2,000,000 mark.

Receipts other than taxes are estimated at $252,361 for 1950. Corresponding total last year was $213,628.53. The increase is therefore $38,732.47.

The sum to be raised by taxes is simple arithmetic, subtracting the receipts from the expenditure which the council has broadcast control, and including the appropriations to the Police Commission, Recreation Commission and Public Library totals $1,016,379.07. The corresponding total last year was $926,686.99, an increase of $89,692.08.

General Rates Over Million

This is the first year in which the general rates plus the estimate for the collection and disposal of garbage have exceeded $1,000,000.

Allowing for the estimated receipts, the three main divisions of the budget in summarized form —general rates, special rates and debenture charges—are as follows, compared with the corresponding totals last year:

General rates, plus garbage collection $849,818.07, up $51,759.61 from $798,058.46.

Special rates: $648,275.92, up [illegible] last year for Public School supporters, and 50.5 mills as compared with 49.5 mills last year for Separate School supporters.

St. Joseph's 75-Bed Wing Now Completed And In Use Cost Nearly Half A Million

With the completion of its new 75-bed wing, the third phase of the building program of St. Joseph's Hospital may be regarded as accomplished. The first phase of present day expansion began in May, 1946, when the sod was turned for the nurses residence. This in turn necessitated a power plant for increased heating facilities. These units were formally opened in December, 1947. Built at a cost of more than $450,000 by the Pigott Construction Co. of Hamilton, the wing, which was designed by Edward Turcotte of Montreal, is of ultra-modern construction.

It comprises three floors for patients in addition to the ground floor administration offices, switchboard, tuck-shop, library, installed by the ladies' auxiliary of the hospital, and an admitting and miniature X-ray department which provides chest X-ray for all patients.

Urged by the pressing need for hospital accommodation, the first floor was made ready for occupancy in the latter part of December 1949. The two other floors were gradually finished and immediately brought into use. Included in these floors is a modern children's department of 20 beds segregated by glass cubicles giving additional protection against cross-infection.

New Central Kitchen

The new centralized kitchen with conveyors for patients' trays is now serving the entire hospital, and averages 150 adult trays each meal. This department will be directed by Sister St. Fergus, BA in Household Economics, a recent graduate of the University of Toronto, now completing her internship at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

Fluorescent lighting is used in all ground floor offices and at all nurses' stations throughout the wing. The rooms are decorated in cheery pastel shades, and bright inlaid linoleum covers the floors. Three large sunrooms, one on each of the floors, have western exposure, and the semi-circular architecture permits the light to flood the rooms from three sides.

Administration offices are located on the ground floor. They include reception room, medical record department, switchboard, and a system of call board communication to doctors throughout the hospital. The use of the main entrance off Rogers St. has been delayed on account of construction of the new driveway.

Telephones are provided in all private and semi-private rooms for the convenience of patients.

Other Renovations

Renovations are now being made in the south wing which was built in 1922. These will provide for two modern nurseries fitted with individual cubicles and special germicidal lighting, labor and delivery rooms. Increased accommodation has been provided on the first floor for the pathological laboratory.

The new nurses's residence, considered among the finest in the province, is in charge of Sister Gonzaga, B.Sc. of Nursing Education, whose postgraduate work was done in St. Louis University and Toronto. This residence for 72 nurses is equipped with a complete classroom unit, bacteriological laboratory, auditorium, lounge and reception room.

Overlooking the city from Rogers St. and the eastern hill of the city, the hospital which was founded by the Sisters of St. Joseph in 1890 is a monument to their progressive efforts to keep pace with the expanding industrialization of Peterborough.

A special tribute is due to the present superior of the hospital, Sister Priscilla, under whose guidance and efficient administration the extensive building program was planned and projected into effect.

RED CROSS EXECUTIVE

G Harry Thompson of 491 Hunter St. W., was chosen vice-president of the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society at the annual meeting in Toronto on Friday. Leslie G. Mills of Toronto was elected president to succeed William B. Hanna. Other vice-presidents appointed were John L. Lang of Sault Ste. Marie, Col. J. W. Langmuir of Brockville and S. A. Morse of Chatham.

Northern Exposure Calls For Cool Color Scheme

When using color for the purpose of home decorating, there are certain general truths and principles that it will be wise to heed under ordinary circumstances, although occasions arise now and then when some special reason warrants our setting them aside.

One of the simplest as well as most useful principles to observe is to avoid putting a predominant quantity of either a cool color or a dull colour in a room with a cold or northern exposure, where the light is cold, less intense, and oftentimes less in quantity than in a room with a warm exposure and a warm, glowing light.

The reverse of the principle also deserves equal heed—to avoid using a predominant quantity of a warm or advancing color in a room with a warm exposure. With too much warm color in a warm or southern exposure and an abundance of strong light, the effect is likely to be too intense and oppressive.

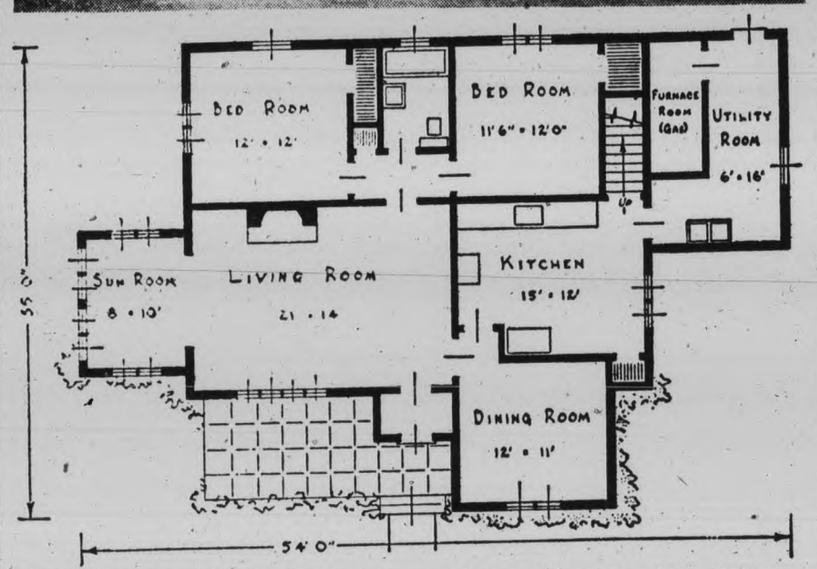
Warm colors have a tendency to diminish the apparent size of a room in which they predominate. This is more particularly true of red, or of colors in whose composition the red elements predominates, than it is of yellow, or of colors in whose composition yellow predominates.

Red and Yellow

It is also more especially true of the deeper tones of red and yellow, or of the deeper red and yellow derivatives, than it is of the lighter tones. It is one of the attributes of red that it particularly creates a sense of fullness, richness and warmth.

Yellow, on the other hand, while not deficient in warmth or richness, seems to diffuse and increase light. This strong radiant quality is more noticeable in the lighter tones, so that a small room can often stand a really light yellow without any appreciable loss of apparent size.

"Cool" Colours



Cool colours and the lighter tones of colours that are not too insistently warm in their composition tend to increase the apparent size of a room in which they predominate in quantity.

Although white and black are not to be accounted as truly colours, they nevertheless have great significance in our dealing with colour. White in juxtaposition with colour heightens its effect and intensifies its brilliance by raising its key. Black, on the other hand, modifies the effect of colour and reduces brilliance by lowering the key. White and black are universal harmonizers.

Incidentally, it is worth pointing out that a pure white wall is really white only in the highlights; elsewhere through the many different reflections it picks up, it displays a variety of colours.

In the composition of a colour scheme for a room it is necessary to have some one prevailing or predominating colour if the composition is to have any coherence or continuity. If there is no prevailing colour the composition will lack balance and be like a person of two minds, like a weathervane in a variable wind, or like a ship without a rudder. As a compensation it will get no-

HOUSE No. 446—Original plans for this attractive bungalow did not include the sun room or the utility room. These two wings give a broad frontage to the house, and add immeasurably to its character. The general appearance has been enhanced, also by thoughtful foundation planting. The owner is fortunate in having a lot 100' x 200', all well landscaped. All rooms in the house are plastered, and painted in pastel shades with the exception of the kitchen which is white. Heat is supplied by a gas-fired air conditioning unit in a room adjacent to the utility room. Both first-floor bedrooms are well placed for privacy, being separated from each other, and completely apart from the "living" area of the house. The wide arch between living room and sun room gives the home a feeling of spaciousness. For further details write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

TCA Lands In Financial Red Hopes To Do Better During 1950

OTTAWA, March 25—(CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines landed in the financial red in 1949 but hope to do better this year with the help of an extensive "travel by-air" campaign.

The annual report of the 16,000-mile nationalized airline, whose services extend over almost half the world, was tabled in the Commons Friday by Trade Minister Howe.

It showed the system's 47-plane fleet flew more than 20,000,000 miles last year, carried more than 585,000 passengers and earned a gross $36,000,000 but still wound up with a $4,000,000 overall deficit. It had the highest-ever revenue of $26,000,000 on domestic services but overseas routes showed a straight operating loss of $1,000,000.

TCA president G. R. McGregor, who signed the report wrote that seasonal traffic fluctuations, increased costs, loss of Trans-Atlantic immigrant transport services, and customs duty and sales tax the company had to pay on import of U.S. materials, all played a part in the deficit picture.

Hopeful For Future

But he was hopeful for the future and said in 1950 TCA would "continue the active stimulation of air travel and transportation."

The airline's report said increased operational costs had been due in part to use for the first time over a full year of its 20-plane fleet of four-engined, Canadian-built North Stars. But the planes had performed excellently and their record in achieving the best schedule performance in the airline's history spoke for itself.

The balance sheet showed revenues of $26,523,969 compared with $20,866,936 in 1948 for the parent company, Trans-Canada Air Lines, on North American operations. Expenses totalled $24,605,301 compared with $19,249,970 two years ago.

Overall Deficit

The North American company's overall deficit after provision for interest on capital and depreciation was $1,419,443 compared with $1,183,002 in 1948.

It was the subsidiary company, Trans-Canada Air Lines (Atlantic) Limited, which lost most heavily. It earned $10,222,386 compared with $10,861,110 the year before and operational expenses amounted to $11,602,385 compared with $11,126,437 in 1948 for a deficit of $1,379,999.

After all debit provision had been made the overseas operations deficit was $2,898,149 against $1,750,218 in 1948, thus bringing the combined domestic-overseas deficit to $4,317,592 compared with $2,933,240 two years ago.

James Believes Charleston Passing Fad

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 25 (AP) —The current revival of the Charleston dance will flourish and fade just as it did in the '20s, says bandman Harry James. But he thinks the jitterbug is here to stay.

Today's parents are amazed to see their children bouncing to the Charletson, which swept the continent in another post-war era.

"Just a temporary craze," remarked trumpeter James. "It won't last any longer than any of the other fads, like the black bottom or the big apple."

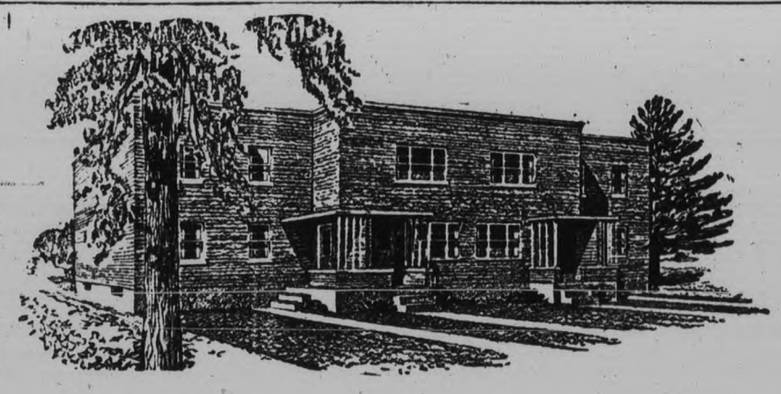
Besides, only the oldtimers and the youngsters are doing the dance, he added. "The in-betweens, for whom I play, haven't picked it up," he said.

Jitterbug Flexible

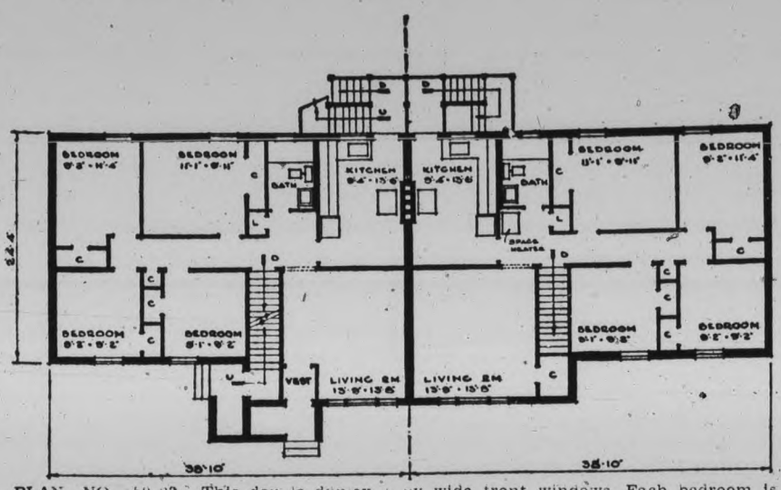
James believes that the jitterbug will outlast any other dances.

"The steps are flexible," he explained. "The kids can make up steps to fit the music; you can even jitterbug to a rhumba. But dances like the Charleston have fixed steps and can be done only to certain types of tunes."

James contended that the current rage for Dixieland music will also blow over. The steadiest request will always be the danceable ballad, he said.



Standbys Favorite



Despite fads in music and dancing, the top James requests are still such old standbys as "Trumpet Blues," "Flight of the Bumble Bee," "Two o'Clock Jump" and "You Made Me Love You."

James and band are currently appearing before the cameras in "I'll Get By." It is the last commitment of a long term contract and Harry has no film plans for the future.

MONEY FOR HEALTH

Montreal had a budget of $1,610,130 in 1949 for local public health services.

PLAN NO. 50-93. This double-duplex combines a modern exterior appearance with a spacious and convenient floor layout. Ideal for the large family, each apartment unit is self-contained and has its own private entrance. The cantilever roofs over each front entrance help to create a pleasing exterior appearance. Each apartment unit consists of four bedrooms, a living room, a large kitchen and bathroom. The living rooms, located in the centre section of the building, are well-lighted by wide front windows. Each bedroom is provided with one or more large roomy closets. The well-ventilated kitchen offers two walls of shelf space. There is direct access to the kitchen through a convenient rear entrance. The basement contains space for storage and laundry facilities. Floor area for each unit — for estimating purposes—is 1,019 square feet; over-all cubic contents, 61,650 cubic feet. (Working drawings may be obtained from any office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.)

Study Own Family's Needs Before Planning Layout

When you start planning a new home, visualize your family living in it. Make a list of your requirements and figure out just how many rooms you need.

A plan which calls for a few large areas is usually preferable. Some rooms doing double duty is the modern idea in house construction. For instance, the dining area incorporated with the living room is more economical in space and money than two separate rooms. Partitions should be kept to a minimum. It is easier to maintain an area of silence by grouping the bedrooms together.

A play or work room doubling as a guest room is a valuable asset in any home.

Every house should have as many closets as possible. At least one in a bedroom is necessary and individual closets for each occupant are convenient. One special closet for storage purposes is a requisite. The attic or basement of a house also serves as storage space.

The bathroom and kitchen grouped together eliminates unnecessary plumbing. Halls should occupy as little space as possible and be eliminated where unnecessary. Steep or winding stairs, designed to save space, are usually dangerous.

The swing of a door uses a good deal of space and may cut down the area, for furniture placement. Consideration of this is often neglected. Exits should be planned for convenience.

The house should be designed for a maximum of privacy and to take advantage of the sunlight and view. Bedrooms should have adequate ventilation. Rooms facing narrow sideyards may be cut off from light and breezes.

Finance Scholarships

Big College Paper

LONDON, Ont., March 25 (CP) —Largest "Gazette" in the history of the University of Western Ontario—a 52-page graduate edition with a total distribution of 10,000 —rolled off the presses Friday to set a new mark for Canadian college journalism. With its regular circulation of 3,000 bumped by an additional 7,000, this super-edition of the Western publication will be distributed to senior students in all Western Ontario private and secondary schools, as well as the university affiliated colleges.

Chrysler Union Rejects Pension

DETROIT, March 25 (AP). — Chrysler Corporation offered its 89,000 striking workers a $30,000,000 pension plan and other major benefits Friday. But union leaders turned down the offer, saying it was only half good enough. They came up with a counter-proposal.

Later, mediators called a halt in the fast-moving peace talks until Sunday. They said they wanted to give each side time to think over the other's latest moves. The day's developments boosted hopes for a quick settlement of the 59-day strike.

Call For Tenders

OTTAWA, March 25. (CP) — The Public Works Department Friday called for tenders on the new Rideau Canal bridge to be built under the national capital plan. The bridge, to span the canal near Laurier Street, is expected to cost about $3,000,000.

SASKATOON, March 25 (CP) —Two men were injured and extensive damage was done Friday when an explosion, believed caused by leaking propane gas, ripped through the basement of the University of Saskatchewan's medical building.

Boy 6 Drowns

NEWTONBROOK, March 25— (CP). — Six-year-old Geoffrey Tingley tumbled from a bridge into a flood-swollen creek and was drowned Friday night at this town 10 miles north of Toronto. The body was recovered.

Canadian Plays Premiered For Festival

By GLENNE CURRIE

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)— Canadian premieres of two Canadian plays will feature the Central Ontario Drama Festival next week.

Robertson Davies' "King Phoenix" and John Coulter's "The Drums Are Out" will be the first and last productions to face adjudicator Maxwell Wray. In between, six others will compete for a chance to represent the region at the dominion festival at Calgary, May 8-15.

"King Phoenix" will be presented by the North Toronto Theatre Guild Monday night under the direction of Herbert Whittaker, drama critic of the Globe and Mail.

"Drums" will be the offering of the Arts and Letters Club, which will be trying to retain the Samuel French Challenge Trophy for the best presentation of a Canadian play which they won last year.

Mr. Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, is well-known to festival audiences. His "Eros At Breakfast" and "Fortune My Foe" have both won dominion awards.

Two Awards

Canadian plays are eligible for both the Samuel French Trophy and the Lieutenant-Governor's award. The latter goes to the author of the best-written native play.

The University Alumnae Dramatic Club makes its 11th appearance in the festival Tuesday with "Therese," by Thomas Job. This is a dramatization of Emile Zola's "Therese Raquin," a tale of passion, murder and retribution.

This mood is upheld in a lower key Wednesday with a production of Odet's "Awake and Sing." This vivid, violent picture of a Jewish family in the Bronx is presented by the Belmont Group Theatre.

The only two one-act plays of the week appear Thursday. They are "Dark Lady of the Sonnets," and Patrick Hamilton's well-known "Rope." The first, which pictures Shakespeare as a self-opinionated opportunist, is by the Newmarket Dramatic Club, and the latter by a New Toronto group, the Community Players.

Farewell Party Held For The McDonalds

WARKWORTH, March 25 — (ENS)—A community gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDonald on Wednesday in the form of a surprise party.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. McDonald were presented with farewell gifts of a ferner and smoker's stand by their friends of the community prior to their leaving the neighborhood.

The evening was spent in dancing to music supplied by George Potter with his violin and Jack Russell, guitar.

GRUSKIES MAYBE? — Indians of the far northern settlement of Fond du Lac on Lake Athabaska, laughed when this Greyhound was unloaded from a Saskatchewan Government Airways plane. Father Gamache, their priest for 25 years, holding the dog, imported the animal with the intention of crossing it with huskies to produce a swifter sleigh-dog.

Ask Government To Drop TCA

OTAWA, March 25—(CP). — Senator John T. Haig today in the Senate urged the government to get out of the commercial air lines business.

The Progressive Conservative Leader, criticizing government expenditures, noted that the government's supplementary estimates for 1949 includes an appropriation to cover a Trans-Canada Airlines deficit of more than $4,000,000.

Government-owned, the TCA was a "nice thing" to have, said Senator Haig. TCA planes were nice to ride in, but he was not so sure the people of Canada could afford "that kind of travel."

"What do you want us to do," interjected Senator J. D. de B. Farris (L-British Columbia), "go back to horse and buggy days?"

"Ride the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways," replied Senator Haig.

Hollywood Cameras May Film Western U.

LONDON, Ont., March 25. (CP) —Hollywood camera crews may shoot scenes on the University of Western Ontario campus if plans for a movie on the life of Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, materialize, it was learned Friday.

One of Hollywood's major studios, it is understood, is considering filming the story of the late world-famed London researcher from a script written by Harold Noble, of Brantford, a Western General Science and Journalism graduate.

Mr. Noble is in Hollywood to confer with studio heads on the scenario he has written on Banting, who was a member of the staff of Western's medical school.

Stock Markets Cautious During Week

By The Canadian Press

Stock markets moved cautiously this week as traders digested an advance into new high ground the previous week.

Investors were highly selective and cautious. Individual stocks or groups of stocks came in for attention but even gains in the spotlighted issues were reduced as the week ended.

The Wall Street Journal, in an appraisal of the current market, partly discussing 1950 earnings in relation to market movements states: "The street seems reconciled to reduced earnings for many companies in 1950 compared with 1948 and 1949. However, investors who are taking such a broad hand in leading stocks at the moment argue that the 1950 divided crop will be up to those record years. As a matter of fact, some financial people believe that groups, like the chemicals, may have the biggest dividend year ever.

Buying power on the New York market suddenly re-appeared on Thursday, lifting the average price level into new high ground in the busiest session in five weeks.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed the week at 75.2, a gain of .2 from the previous Friday.

Slip Over Five Days

Canadian industrial markets slipped over the five days.

In Toronto, the industrial index dipped .54 from the previous Friday. Western oil stocks featured, climbing 3.60 on the exchange's index.

Interest in western oils has increased in recent weeks following a time of apparent apathy. This was the third successive week of advance on the index. Reports showing the increase in oil consumption in Canada and bright prospects for further increasing markets have brought in increased buying.

Gold stocks encountered profit taking following the previous week's advance, for a loss of 2.83 on the index. Base metals had a difficult time holding their own, showing a gain of .03.

Grain markets tended easier. In Chicago, May wheat, oats and rye slumped while corn held firm. In Winnipeg, May rye and oats were lower and barley steadied.

Chinese Hospital Report GivenSoroptimists

Soroptimists of Peterborough were given information about a hospital and nursing school in Lanchow, northwest frontier city in China, which is supported by the American Federation of Soroptimists, during the regular dinner meeting of Friday evening.

Miss A. L. Thomson, a club member, and director of nursing at Peterborough Civic Hospital, gave the details, as far as they are known. No report has come from the hospital in the past six months, but it is being operated by the Communists.

Money is the only real help Soroptimists can give. The nurses are in need of everything, but equipment has to be taken in by hand from Chunking. A member of the New York club personally delivered a penicillin plant to the director when touring China in 1947. She had reported there were not enough beds for the 52 student nurses, and the beds were just boards put on supports with a straw mattress and quilt.

Adopt School

The Soroptimists have pledged themselves to help make this the outstanding nursing school in the entire northwest of China, and it seems they are well on the way for it is reported to be well cared for and almost odorless—quite a feat when water must be carried in by hand. "We are also building international goodwill and friendship, working toward a brotherhood of men" said Miss Thomson.

She also paid tribute to the nurses of China who show the courage and tenacity of their race. In the last war a Chinese nurse openly defied the Japanese government and war lords and lived to tell the tale. She is now in the United tSates where she is recognized as a leader in her field and one of the most outstanding women of China.

A summary of the work of the Soroptimist Chinese Committee for the nursing program in China, up to 1948, was given by the speaker. The donations in this behalf amounted to $25,556. Each member of a club is a contributor and takes responsibility in the plans for betterment.

Miss Gene Clark, welfare convener, introduced the speaker and Miss Verna Johnson expressed appreciation to Miss Thomson.

President Mrs. May Thompson conducted some necessary business. It was decided that April schedule would be changed due to the regional convention at the latter part of the month, and a combined dinner and business meeting would be held on April 21. Some plans were made for the Easter party of the Golden Mile Club on Tuesday afternoon, April 4.

The board's appointment of Miss A. L. Thomson as treasurer for the balance of this year and the succeeding term, due to resignation of Miss Mary Carey, was announced and unanimously approved. Some changes in the bookkeeping system were also ratified.

MRS. LAVENIA JAMESON, Harvey St., is 90 today. Here she is shown (Left) at her favorite pastime, crocheting afghans. Her sister, Mrs. Ida Diamond, prefers tatting, in which her work is exquisite. Juna poses placidy between the two ladies, ready to share their felicitations.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Mrs. Jameson and Mrs. Diamond Celebrate Today is the Elder Sisters 90th Birthday

By A. J. THOMAS

Harvey Street, which runs parallel with Water between McDonnel and Dublin, but one block east, is in the settled part of the city. Mrs. Jameson has lived on it for 73 years—most of the time at Number 544. Mrs. Jameson did not move to Harvey street until she was 17; she came there from Cobourg where she was born in the year 1860. Mrs. Jameson has known Harvey street when the houses were lit by gas, then by carbon lamps, then by incandescent Edison lamps. But in all the years she has lived on Harvey street only five "new" house have been put up on it. Mrs. Diamond, her sister, confirms this.

Mrs. Ida Diamond is a relative newcomer to the street—she came from Cobourg to live with her sister about 20 years ago only after her husband Thomas, died. But Mrs. Diamond before that was a frequent visitor at her sister's home.

Last evening I called on Mrs. Jameson and Mrs. Diamond to pay my respects to the two charming gentle ladies, and especially to offer congratulations to Mrs. Jameson who is 90 today. Mrs. Diamond will be receiving birthday congratulations in one month and a day; but she is considerably younger than her sister. Mrs. Diamond will be only 85 on April 26th.

Old Times

Both were dawdling over supper tea-cups when I arrived, but Mrs. Jameson's son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Jameson escorted them into the living room and we drew up chairs — pleasant, old-fashionedly elegant chairs, and chatted. Mrs. Jameson pretends to be a little deaf but she did not miss a single aside-word. Mrs. Diamond pretends that her eyesight is failing a little but her bright lively eyes did not miss a trick.

It was difficult to get them to talk of old times. They are too [illegible] But such terrible nats they have today!"

Mrs. Jameson: "They are no more terrible than in our day. Do you remember Mrs. —'s hat? It was the size of a peck measure!"

Do they go to the movies Mrs. Jameson: "I haven't been to a movie for ten years, I suppose. I never took much stock in them."

Mrs. Diamond: "Oh, it's must be longer than that. . .They used to have plays at the opera house. Everybody went."

Mrs. Jameson: "That wasn't the Turner Opera House (torn down several years ago to make way for the Paramount.) It was the Bradburn Opera House, above the shops on George Street."

Mrs. Diamond, going into peals of reminiscent laughter. "The Tom Mark Stock Company. Oh dear! East Lynn and Uncle Tom's Cabin and all those things. Oh dear!" Mrs. Diamond had of course seen those plays chiefly in Cobourg Town Hall, at the time when Victoria University was still situated in Cobourg. And it was remembered that the price of seats at the Old Bradburn Opera House was 10 cents, 20 cents, and 30 cents. The old ten, twenty thirty.

A Car Driver

Did Mrs. Jameson ever drive a car? "No, but Auntie has"—(referring to her sister Mrs. Diamond) "Yes, and she can turn over in it", she added with wry glee.

"Yes," Mrs. Diamond explained, "but my sleeve caught in the gas lever—you know the kind in the fashioned cars, and the car went racing on and turned over into the ditch. Mercy, that is a long time ago—forty years". Mrs. Diamond is also out of skill now in playing the piano. "She doesn't practice any more," Mrs. Jameson said.

And so we chatted. Mrs. Jameson is a great crocheter, and rug-hooker, wonderful samples of her work were there to be seen. She has crocheted four large afghans since last summer alone. What does she do with them: "Oh, there's always a home for them." Mrs. Jameson also hooks rugs, great big ones, and small ones. Does it not weary her now? "No. It doesn't try my patience, my hands, my eyes or anything else"

Tatting and Knitting

Mrs. Diamond's specialty is knitting and tatting. I had to ask what "tatting" was. Mrs. Diamond amusedly explained that it was trimming for handkerchiefs and for anything else that wants to be done up prettily." It is done with shuttles, which Mrs. Diamond showed me; and she also showed me recent specimens of her exquisite work.

During the war Mrs. Diamond knitted hundreds of pairs of socks, mitts, and gloves for the troops, and one of her big quilts was sent to Toronto for a Red Cross raffle; $415 was realized on that one quilt.

Mrs. Jameson is an gardener, but last summer had to give it up; she is not as agile as she used to be. "My gardening days are over. Now all I can do is show somebody else what's a weed".

Mrs. Jameson (her Christian name is Lavenia) has been a widow since 1913. Her husband, Francis J. Jameson was in the printing business, and was business manager of the Examiner at one time. Her only daughter died in 1903; her only son is Percival G. Jameson, a retired bank manager. Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Jameson have two daughters: Miss Vevy, who teaches near Ottawa, and Miss Zetta, at home who is in a local bank.

[illegible] graduated 1913. It [illegible] life-membership in the [illegible] auxiliary. For 35 years Mrs Jameson was Dorcas Secretary To still hold a life-membership which was bestowed 37 years ago is an enviable record.

Both ladies were highly amused at my asking if they took turns getting each other breakfast in bed? They pooh-hooed such a lazy notion as breakfast in bed. "We don't go to bed unless we are sick And that's not very often".

"Touch wood", Mrs. Diamond laughed.

They have enjoyed—and that is the correct term in their cases — good health generally through the years. Although they are slowing down in their movements, they are mentally very active, and their wit is as brisk as ever. Both are extraordinarily kind and generous and most pleasant company.

They now lead, Mrs. Jameson said on the eve of her ninetieth birthday and she leaned towards me with a confidential whisper and the suspicion of a wink "We now lead a very quiet life"

What do the elderly couple think of modern life?

"It's too fast, too swift. . . But then when you get old, you don't go fast, and when you stay in the house a lot you get old-fashioned". This came with a chuckle — "Out of date".

Today "out-of-date" Mrs. Jameson is receiving hosts of congratulations and visitors on this, her ninetieth birthday.

THIS STEAMER COAT is distinctive because of the attractive swing with the main focus on two large diamond shaped pockets and deep dolman sleeves.

CGIT Doings

ST. PAUL'S

Scripture was read by Ruth Curtis at this week's meeting. The group was asked to provide ushers for the "All Nations Night" and Helen Ward, Jean Smith, Dawn Jackson and Elizabeth Green were chosen. Plans were made for Easter Vespers which will be held at the Easter Sunday evening service. Miss Betty Brown will give the address and [illegible] discussion on clothes, suggesting the style which would be most becoming to each girl. Games were played before the meeting closed. Mary Irwin reported.

❖ ❖ ❖

ST. JAMES'

Donna Moffatt reported there was a short business meeting this week with president, Lorene Keating in the chair. Devotional period was taken by Margaret Payne, Carol Dorrington and Joan McMillan. A piano duet, "Beautiful Dreamer," played by Betty Clydesdale and Joan Ferrance, was much enjoyed. Donations for food parcels for England were brought to the meeting. The rest of the evening was spent practicing the play which was presented at the "All Nations Night". Work done by the church in Trinidad was told in a most interesting manner, Lorene Keating representing a CGIT girl visiting Trinidad, Martha Aikens taking the part of the Superintendent of the Archibald Institute there, and other parts being taken by Dorothy Wallace, Joan McMillan, Carol Dorrington, Dorene Hutchinson, Anne Gibson, Betty Clydesdale, Ardythe Halcrow, Bernice Callan, Margaret Payne, Carole Gene and Joan Ferrence.

MEDICAL DISCOVERY

The circulation of blood and the functioning of the heart was correctly described for the first time by Harvey in 1628.

Says Selfishness Storm On Sea Of Marital Bliss

TORONTO (CP).—No school for brides alone is a series of evening lectures at a Toronto United Church. Brides, grooms and those anticipating such a happy state all attend. It is a school which teaches parenthood.

One lecture — on the pitfalls of marriage — was given by John McCullough, who has been probation officer with Toronto's Family Court for the last four years.

To him the greatest storm on the sea of marital bliss is selfishness. He said that all other barriers to happiness — liquor, in-laws, economic conditions and mixed marriages — are less dangerous.

His advice for prospective brides?

Look for a good worker in a husband — "Your husband's work record is more important than his family pedigree."

And don't marry with the idea that you can reform him. Too many women have found that job tough, especially when they married alcoholics. "Marriage is an institution, but no reformatory."

The former Baptist minister thought it was fine for a wife to have a job if the couple planned to save her income for some essential and live on the husband's salary. Otherwise, he said, they would find it impossible to live on his income alone later.

"Planned recreation should be part and parcel of every marriage. You can't live on love all the time," said Mr. McCullough. He suggested husband and wife should have mutual interests and hobbies to avoid "social rigor mortis."

One thing more — this time for the husband.

Don't keep back part of the pay cheque unknown to your wife. And if the wife is a good budgeter let her look after the finances with the husband being reconciled to an allowance.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

It is unlikely that coincidence accounts for the fact that a large part of my Canasta mail this week asks for the proper procedure (1) when the last card of the stock pile is drawn; and (2) when a player is down to only one card in his hand. There is evidently considerable confusion on these points, which the following rules should help to clear up:

When a player draws the last card of the stock and then discards without going out, the next player must take the discard pile if the up-card matches one of his side's melds, and if the pile is not frozen. He may, if he wishes, take the discard pile if he can legally do so with cards in his hand.

If he fails to take the pile, play ends. If he takes it and discards without going out, the above procedure applies to the next player and so on, until some player goes out, or until some player at his turn fails to take the pile.

In this situation a player who holds only one card in his hand must, when possible, take a one-card discard pile and meld out.

If no player melds out, the scores are counted but there is no bonus for going out.

A player who holds only one card in his hand may not take a one-card discard pile unless the stock pile is exhausted.

❖ ❖ ❖

Q.—We do not have a completed canasta, and I am down to one card. I draw a card from the stock pile and can play it on one of our melds. Is it permissible for me to play it and keep the card I had in my hand?

A.—No. The rules state that you must draw and discard unless you can go out; also, you must have a [illegible] you can go out.

Q.—When does a black trey freeze the discard pile?

A.—A black trey never freezes the discard pile. It simply acts as a stop card for the next player. You cannot pick up a black trey, so there is no way to take the discard pile when the up-card is a black trey. The player at that point is forced to draw from the stock pile. When he discards a card other than a black trey or a wild card, the black trey no longer acts as a stop card for the next player because it has been covered up.

❖ ❖ ❖

Q.—I am the first player after the dealer and have completed my draw. Our side needs an initial meld of 90 points. I have 5 tens and 2 deuces in my hand. Would you advise melding the whole canasta, thus completing our initial meld and our canasta at the same time?

A.—This would depend somewhat upon the score. If you put down the completed canasta, it will leave you with only 4 cards in your hand, which means that you are going to try to go out as quickly as possible. If your side is ahead, this is a good line of play to adopt. If the other side is far in the lead, it might be better to wait a round or two. Your partner might be able to make an initial meld, then you could meld your tens and your partner might be able to add to them. Within a round or two, instead of one canasta, you might have two or even three, and still be in a position to go out quickly.

Woman Reaches 100th Birthday

PRESTON, March 25—(CP)—Mrs. Dorothea Heise is 100 today and still able to read without the aid of glasses. Her hearing is good but her voice is fading slightly.

She is the mother of 10 children —three sons and seven daughters, all living. Only Ed, who is in hospital, is not sure of being with her to celebrate the occasion.

She is excited and pleased at reaching her 100th birthday. The town council has authorized Mayor J. H. Reist to extend greetings to Mrs. Heise and to accompany them with a "suitable gift."

The event will also be observed at St. Peter's Lutheran Church where the choir will sing a special hymn in her honor. She is the church's oldest member.

Mrs. Heise has lived in this southwestern Ontario community since coming to Canada as a child from Germany. Her husband died in 1917.

Missionary Work Better for Women

REGINA (CP).—Women make the best missionaries, says Nelson Abraham, psychologist at Regina Jail.

Addressing a meeting of United Church women, he said: "Women are trained instinctively, as mothers, to be solicitous of other individuals.

"Men are not so trained and it does not come naturally to them as it does to women."

This understanding of human relations and the love of one human for another — "the greatest of all forces" — made women natural-born missionaries.

Letter Writing Habits Show Up Social Offenders

Letter-writing appears to be one of the things that we either underdo or overdo. We are afflicted with either total pen-paralysis, or else we slop over reams of fine white paper and write things which we never should have written. All of us have entertained guests who seemed to have a good time, and were voluble in their thanks for our hospitality, but who never wrote back even a bread-and-butter letter. All of us have sped friends on their journeys and never got a line back to apprise us of their safe arrival. All of us have members of our families living in distant places about whom we are continually anxious because we hear from them so seldom. All of us know the watching and waiting and the disappointment of looking for the letter that never comes.

Dorothy Dix

Don't Do It On Purpose

Now these people who never write letters are not deliberately rude nor cruel. They are just selfish and unregardful of the comfort and pleasure of others. If you were in trouble, they would come to you with offers of assistance. If a piece of good luck befell you, they would be the first to congratulate you and, if sorrow darkened your house, they would be there to hold out a friendly hand of sympathy. But if they are separated from you, and the expression of their sentiment toward you requires the writing of a letter, you never hear from them.

One of the chief causes of estrangement in families is the aversion so many people have to writing letters. Brothers and sisters marry and move to different parts of the country and utterly lose touch with each other because they are too busy and preoccupied with their own affairs even to exchange a single line. It is pitiful to think how much previous family affection is lost for the sake of a few stamps.

Neglect Mothers

The worst offenders among those who are too lazy and too self-absorbed to write letters are those who do not write to their mothers. We may feel offended with those to whom we have shown courtesies who lack good manners to respond with even the scratch of a pen. We may be hurt at the callousness of a relative who will not take the trouble to set our anxiety at rest by sending us a word to tell how he has fared. We may be saddened by feeling that the friend who has gone from us no longer cares enough for us to take any interest in our personal affairs. But these are minor offenses in which the punishment fits the crime, for sooner or later the nonletter-writer finds hat he is paid for his negligence by losing the good will and affection of those whose liking he craves.

But when men and women carry their dislike of letter-writing so far that they fail to write regularly to their mothers, it become a wanton cruelty for which no excuse can be offered. To their credit be it said that few women are guilty of this sin. Most women, no matter how hard-worked they are, how busy they may be, still find time to write back home to their mothers long gossipy letters telling them all the little details of their lives. But there are thousands upon thousands of men who never write at all to their mothers, or, if they do occasionaly send mother a line, it is a formal dictated note that has as much heart in it as an order for a ton of coal.

They never think, these busy men, who are yet not so busy but what they find time for their golf and the theatres and their amusements generally, of the old people who have no interest in life left except their children, and to whom middle-aged men and women are still boys and girls about whom they are anxious, and who watch for the coming of the postman every morning with hope in their hearts that he will bring them a message from their absent ones, and who turn sadly and dully and dispiritedly away when no white envelope with a beloved script upon it is handed in to them.

Be sure that the sin that many a man is going to repent most bitterly in tears and remorse is the letter he failed to write to his mother. And so shall we all regret the letters we might have written that would have comforted our friends and kept alive thge fire of love on the family altar.

Review Etiquette For Teas and Receptions

Many big social events are planned to celebrate Peterborough's centennial year and they are presenting new problems of etiquette. First of these happenings is the Centennial Tea being arranged by the Local Council of Women for Friday afternoon, March 31, at the YWCA.

No one wants to "lose face," as the Chinese say, by showing ignorance of social conventions, so many citizens are quietly seeking some authentic information of what to wear, how to introduce and how to address certain personages.

"Etiquette in Canada" by Gertrude Pringle, the Blue Book for Canadians, has been revised from the first edition in 1932, and came out a few months ago containing several additional chapters and regulations regarding flags. Unfortunately, it is not yet on sale in local book stores but is available for reference at the Public Library.

Dress For Afternoon

First question that flashes to the mind on receiving any invitation, is "What should I wear?"

"Afternoon dress is always worn at teas and afternoon receptions" the book advises for women. The hat is kept on, and at a large party the gloves also, although they are removed at a small tea. The hostess receives in a becoming afternoon dress but never wears gloves. Those assisting her at the tea, other than servants, follow this rule.

Men may turn up at the afternoon tea or reception clad in well-cut tweeds or business suit and everyday hat, but they should be carefully turned out as to detail and well groomed, says the authority.

Rules On Introductions

While the way introductions are made varies with the occasion, the rules governing them are always the same. The person who is of lesser rank or younger in years is always the one who is introduced, with the exception that men are always introduced to women, and this applies even when an older man of distinction is to be introduced to a quite young girl. An unmarried woman is usually introduced to a married woman unless she is considerably older than the married woman.

The form "may I present?" is never used, since it seems to attend a drawing-room of royalty or vice-royalty. "How do you do" is the one phrase uniformly employed in acknowledging an introduction. The book advises that "pleased to meet you" and such phrases are not used by fastidious persons. Women always make a slight bow in acknowledging an introduction. They do not shake hands, except when anyone offers to do so, and they should never be rebuffed even though they are incorrect. A man rises from his seat on all occasions when being introduced and always shakes hands with a man. The woman only rises if she is the hostess or is being introduced to a much older woman.

Use of Titles

Members of the Senate, while holding office, are entitled to use the prefix "honorable" in Canada. However, the social form of introducing them to a gathering is "May I introduce Senator Blank" which is the way any of the following titles would be used: Bishop, Dr., Judge, Canon, and the Mayor of Peterborough. Their wives, since they do not possess any rank in their own right, are referred to simply as "Mrs. Blank." Members of the clergy, in speech are called "Mr.," "Father" or "Rabbi."

Fashion Flashes

Something apart from the usual in after-dark fur wraps is a full length trench coat made of grey-dyed ermine.

✧ ✧ ✧

Soften up plain wool dresses with big white collars. A fichu collar of eyelet embroidered white pique, shoulder wide and waist deep does things for a simply fashioned, slim coat frock of grey worsted.

✧ ✧ ✧

Favorite among the hats is the little bonnet with a side slant. Nice when interpreted in white petipurl straw, with a double border of crocheted white flowers to soften and accentuate the line. Wired corded loops of emerald green velvet add height and color interest.

It's the big year for the shirt-waist blouse. Fine white handkerchief linen makes a blouse beauty, the front panel pin-tucked below a plain little collar. Rhinestone button studs for closing, and hrinestone links for the French cuffs.

✧ ✧ ✧

Belle of the beach, come Summer, is likely to be terry toweling. This fabric has been used for everything from shorts to skirts, from bags to boleros. Nice for after-swim wear is a knee-length hooded coat of white terry with big red coin dots.

✧ ✧ ✧

Elegant ensembles, good for travel-light use, star in the collections. Black ribbed silk crepe is made up into what looks like a short, bat-wing-sleeved dress, the jacket being very snug with tiny rolled collar, and belted in black patent. When removed, the jacket discloses a strapless bodice of pink faille.

LASSIES FROM NEW LISKEARD, Diana Mary and Elizabeth Patricia, two-year-old twin daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. Norman D. Knox. Mr. Knox moved recently from a parish at Val d'Or, P.Q., to New Liskeard as rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Prior to the Second World War, in which Mr. Knox was RCAF Chaplain, they lived in Young's Point. There are six children in the family.

What's Right

You are a man who likes to read the morning paper at the breakfast table.

WRONG WAY: Keep the whole paper to yourself.

RIGHT WAY: Offer your wife part of the paper. She will be much less likely to criticize you for reading at the table every morning.

Men Turn Stylish

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Women need not attend this fashion show, to be held in the YMCA early in May. Moose Jaw men will model clothes for business, sports, college and high school.

6—In Memoriams

CROSS—In loving memory of a dear sister, Mary Cross, who pased away March 26, 1946.
You're not forgotten, sister dear,
Nor ever shall you be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We shall remember thee.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Alice and brother-in-law Will.

CROSS—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Ann Cross, who passed away March 26, 1946.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made,
A wonderful worker, loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in your judgment always right,
Honest and liberal ever upright,
Loved by your friends and all you knew,
A wonderful mother, that mother was you.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by son Jim and daughter-in-law Kay and family.

CROSS—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away March 26th, 1946.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance
There is a memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection, mother,
And a heartache still for you.
—Lovingly remembered by her daughter and son-in-law and grandchildren.

CROSS—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Ann Cross, who passed away March 26, 1946.
Oft we think of you, dear mother,
And our hearts are filled with pain,
Oh this earth would be a heaven
Could we hear your voice again.
—Lovingly remembered by Bill, Lill and grandchildren.

DOIG—In loving memory of "Stew" Doig, who passed away March 26, 1944.
The one I loved has gone to rest,
His fond true heart is still,
The hand that always helped me
Now lies in death's cold chill.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Ann.

HAMILTON Richard. — In loving memory of my dear husband Richard Hamilton, who passed away, March 26, 1947.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year.
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Sadly missed by his wife and sons Harry and Clarence daughter-in-law Hazel, and grandsons Ernie, and Harry Hamilton.

PAGETT—In loving memory of a dear son and brother Roger who passed away four years ago today.
We who loved you sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever near.
— Lovingly remembered, mother, father and brothers.

PAGETT—In loving memory of Roger Pagett, who passed away four years, today.
In the garden of memories
We meet every day.
—Grandpa, Grandma and Aunt Norma.

PAGETT—In loving memory of Roger Pagett, who went to be with Jesus four years ago today.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth stil
—Lovingly remembered by Grandma, Aunt Mary, Uncles Gerry, Don and Tom.

ZINSTON—In loving memory of a dear wife, Emma Zinston, who passed away March 26th, 1949.
No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered since I lost you dear
Percy and daughter.

Missionaries Killed

MOUNTAIN CITY, Tenn., March 25 (AP)—Two Mennonite missionaries were killed Friday when their light airplane broke apart in mid-air and flung their bodies clear as it plummeted to the ground. Both died as their bodies hit the earth with enormous impact.

England's King Henry III is said to have chosen a grain of corn from the middle of the ear as the standard of weight.

Things Looking Up At Ottawa They're Rustling Senators Now

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP)—The Senate's new experiment in extra work has brought forth a unique form of parliamentary activity—rustling. They're rustling senators.

Senator Cairine Wilson (L, Ontario) spoke of the crime boldly and plainly and with a certain touch of embarrassed indignation Friday.

She is chairman of one of the group of standing committees that, for the first time, are probing into government estimates of expenditures, a departure that has touched off the greatest splurge of senate committee activity in years.

Her immigration committee was called for 11 a.m. She arrived at the appointed hour to find the tables bare of senators. In the background, seated and waiting patiently, were a flock of officials from the Citizenship and Immigration Department.

At the press tables were six or seven reporters, an extraordinary turnout, and in itself a tribute to the experiment.

Sen. Wilson sat down and waited, and time passed. The officials and reporters watched the clock.

Senator Thomas Reid (L, British Columbia) arrived. Finally the chairman said her committee had been called first but another was sitting at the same time to study other estimates. There also was a divorce committee meeting.

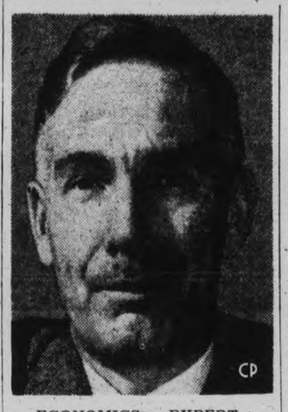
Some Competition

She said Senator John McDonald (L, Nova Scotia), chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, had been around interviewing members to get them to attend his session rather than her's. That was why there were no senators present, she said. Some of them belonged to both committees, some to the divorce committee.

Sen. McDonald, she said, was having his first meeting and was determined to make a good start. She named those interviewed and lured away.

But, she said, she was counter-attacking. She had sent a messenger into the McDonald lair to bring back a quota big enough to start.

In Sen. McDonald's room, George Hawkins, secretary to the Senate leader, Senator Wishart Robertson, moved quietly down the range, recruiting. A couple of senators shook their heads. They were happy where they were.



Finally one or two got up and departed.

At 11:20 Senator J. P. McIntyre (L, Prince Edward Island) crossed the immigration threshhold. Sen. Wilson was moving along the lines of the officials, shaking hands and making conversation. In the next few minutes two more senators emerged.

The meeting started 25 minutes late with the chairman and four committee members present.

The meeting started 25 minutes late with the chairman and four committee members present.

Said Sen. Wilson: "I'd like to apologize for the scant attendance. I don't accept responsibility, but I do apologize."

Ask Public Hearings About Sunday Sport

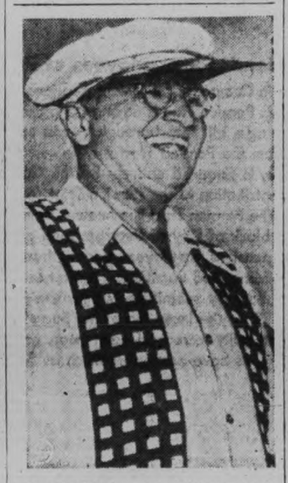
OTTAWA, March 25 (CP). — The Ottawa Committee of the Lord's Day Alliance Friday urged the Ontario Legislature to hold public hearings on Sunday sports legislation before giving it final reading. The committee approved a four-point resolution to be forwarded to the government. The resolution suggested various means of withholding enactment [illegible] Sports Bill until the [illegible] of the electors.

Long Branch Floods Said Under Control

TORONTO, March 25 (CP).—The flood threat at Long Branch west of Toronto eased Friday night and residents began returning to their homes, but a new serious threat arose on the eastern outskirts of the city where the Highland Creek valley was inundated.

At Long Branch the Etobicoke River subsided and Reeve Lawrence Iles said the danger was over. Workmen used dynamite to break up ice jams both at the mouth of the river, at Long Branch, and further up near Brampton and the river returned to its normal channel. Many residents had evacuated their homes as water reached a depth of more than a foot at times.

Comedy Presented By Roseneath YPU



ROSENEATH, March 25 (ENS)—A large audience witnessed some fine acting in the presentation of the three-act comedy, "The Man in the Green Shirt," in the LOL Hall, Roseneath, by the local YPU Friday evening.

Under the direction of Mrs. Earl Waldie, the cast presented the farce comedy, starring Marjorie Sandercock as Lena, May Crowe and Ralph Sherwin as Willie Roach. Other featured players were Mrs. Murray Thackeray, Mrs. Reginald Timlin, the Misses Shirley Rosebush and Freida Broadworth, Reginald Timlin, Murray Thackeray, Joe Davidson, and Neil Adams.

$400 Damage To Car Smashed While Parked

COBOURG, March 6 (ENS)—A car owned by Mrs. Hilda Roy of Cobourg, left parked in front of her residence on King Street Thursday night, was badly damaged during the night when another car ran into it. The force of the impact drove the car along the pavement a considerable distance. Damage is about $400. Police said the driver of the Grafton car was William Hall.

Hous[illegible] Suspect Wounded By Police

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—James McLellan, alias Angus McMillen, 35-year-old housebreaking suspect, was wounded in the thigh by a police bullet Friday night before being apprehended.

Six shots were fired during a half-mile chase after Preston Bailey discovered his home had been broken into. McClellan escaped from two officers, striking both of them and then ran along a street. When two policemen jumped out of a patrol car McLellan yelled: "I'm shot," and surrendered. He was charged with housebreaking.

Mrs. R. J. Williamson Funeral To Little Lake

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Williamson were conducted by Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Friday from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons.

Mrs. Williamson was born in Blackstock, the daughter of the late Andrew Hyland and Mary Fitzgerald. For the past 35 years she has resided in Peterborough. When she enjoyed good health, Mrs. Williamson took an active part in the work of the St. Paul's Ladies' Aid.

Pallbearers were Cecil Williamson, Ross Williamson, Bert Williamson, Mervin Williamson and Fred Finney.

Interment was in Little Lake Cemetery.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC

presents a progress report of the Company's activities

Coinciding with the release of the Company's 1949 Annual Report, we take pleasure in presenting to the people of Peterborough our "human balance sheet" —an informal report which should be of interest to all who live and work in saw the completion of the new shop for the manufacture of generating equipment and other large apparatus. Including the installation of massive and highly specialized equipment, the cost of this project will be more than two million dollars.

Due to the economical operation of diesel-electric locomotives, together with the assurance of plentiful supplies of oil, Canadian railroads decided to convert to this modern railroading equipment as rapidly as possible. This resulted in the Company's decision to go ahead with its project costing several millions of dollars for the manufacture of electrical equipment for diesel-electric locomotives at Peterborough Works. Since delivery of the first G-E equipped diesel-electric locomotive in the summer of 1948, production has been considerably increased, resulting in the taking on of many more employees.

fulfilment of our policy to produce "more goods for more people at less

We fully realize that no company is greater than the men and women who work for it . . . and we are particularly proud of the fact that here at Peterborough Works there are many instances of several members of a family all working for the Company. In fact, there are cases where three generations—grandfather, father and son—are all with us.

J. F. McRae

Manager Peterborough Works

Job Dividends for employees at Peterborough Works

At Canadian General Electric Company, retirement pensions have been in effect for a long time. With 25 years behind it, the C.G.E. Pension Plan is among the oldest in Canada, and is one of the most liberal.

Upon reaching retirement age, all Peterborough Works employees completing 20 years or more of service receive a pension from the Pension Trust for the rest of their lives. This Trust fund, to which the employees do not contribute, is financed entirely by the Company and cannot be used for any other purpose. The Company's contribution to the Pension Trust for 1949 was $1,300,000—$100,000 more than for the previous year. The Pension Trust Fund now stands at $7,600,000 and is invested in first-class securities, including a large block of City of Peterborough bonds.

In addition to retirement pensions, employees benefit from further job dividends such as Group Life Insurance, paid statutory holidays and vacations. Furthermore, there is a continual opportunity for any employee to earn extra dollars by submitting suggestions for improving manufacturing methods and products, or reducing costs. Since the inception of the Suggestions System in 1926, the total awards at Peterborough Works have steadily increased each year, reaching an all-time high of over $8,000 in 1949. Peterborough employees have earned as much as $600 for a single suggestion.

Our Peterborough payroll in 1949

Last year our payroll at Peterborough Works increased to an all-time high of $11,236,000. Ten years ago (in 1939) our payroll totalled only $1,838,000. This tremendous increase in employee earnings during the past ten years, caused by higher wages and increased employment, has contributed greatly to the growth and prosperity of present-day Peterborough.

Compared with the latest available statistics, the average weekly earnings at Peterborough Works are $2.06 above the average for the electrical apparatus industry, and $8.50 above the average for all manufacturing industry.

Plant expansion continues

As was forecast last year, nearly $2½ millions were spent at Peterborough Works during 1949 on our post-war expansion program. This was nearly half of the total 1949 expenditures for manufacturing facilities throughout the whole of the Company's eleven plants, and was in addition to the $7,000,000 already spent on Peterborough expansion and development since the end of the war. A further $1½ millions is expected to be spent during 1950. The most modern equipment is being installed in the plant; it is helping to produce high quality products and maintain steady employment, and is in line with our continuing program of improving working conditions for all employees.

The Company's part in civic affairs

As Peterborough's largest single taxpayer, the municipal taxes paid by Canadian General Electric have, over the years, gone far towards meeting much of the costs of services and civic improvements in this city. In the same way, the substantial Dominion income tax payments which the Company makes yearly have contributed to Canada's social security measures. Our Company has in the past played a large part in Peterborough's civic affairs, and the substantial contributions made each year to civic welfare organizations are tangible expressions of C.G.E.'s faith and interest in the future of our community.

Increased Assessment Keeps General Rate Down To 20.67

The general rate in this year's municipal taxes is 20.67 mills as compared with 20.36 mills for 1949.

The accompanying list of items comprising the general rate is chiefly that part of the spending which comes under the control of the council, as apart from the special rates, which include schools, Civic Hospital and relief, and also the appropriation required for debenture charges.

Actual expenditure, total of the items under the general rate, is more than last year, but there has been an increase in the assessment from $35,030,175 last year to $36,967,845 this year.

That accounts for the general rate being only fractionally higher than in 1949.

The apportionment of the taxes collected for general purposes is shown in the appended statement of the estimates for 1949 and 1950.

Parks Appropriations

The statement as received from City Treasurer S. A. Couper appropriated $52,800 to the parks committee last year. It was made up of parks $35,650, rinks $10,450 and tree planting and trimming $6,700.

Corresponding items for this year are: parks $45,655; rinks $4,450 (abandoned in February) and an estimate of $6,000 for the part of the landscaping of Civic Hospital property which is planned for this year.

In the 1949 assessment there was an allowance of $2,500 for the reception committee. Reception expenditure this year is provided for in the $7,500 for the centennial year affairs.

The total for last year also included purchase of a new Burroughs machine at $7,200, that is not repeated this year.

On the other hand the $17,515 for the Civic Arena ice plant last year is not duplicated this year.

The summary of expenditure, as estimated, for general purposes is quoted as follows:

U.S. Costs Decline

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP) —New drops in food and clothing prices brought another modest decline Friday in the United States government's cost-of-living index. Food prices went down six-tenths of one per cent between January and February and prices of apparel dropped one-tenth of a per cent. Clothing prices now are more than eight per cent under their 1948 peak.

Ducharme Files Appeal

VANCOUVER, March 25 (CP) —Notice of appeal was filed Friday on behalf of Frederick Rodger Ducharme, sentenced to be hanged June 30 for the sex-murder of Blanche Fisher, 45. Five grounds were listed in the appeal, including allegations that the jury did not give Ducharme the benefit of the doubt and that both crown counsel and judge "misconstrued the evidence."

Chrysler Strike Peace Seen In Offing

DETROIT, March 25 (CP)—The way today seemed open to peace in the Chrysler strike, as the stoppage entered its third month.

A company offer to put $30,000,000 into a pension trust fund—and the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO) acceptance of the idea if not the amount—gave promise of breaking the deadlock.

With both sides compromising, a basis for settlement appeared at hand for the return of 140,000 automobile workers to the job.

Joint peace talks were in recess until Sunday afternoon. Mediators arranged it that way, hoping that company and UAW negotiators would come up with still more fresh ideas after a day to "think it over."

The 89,000 strikers meanwhile went through their 60th day of idleness. Another 50,000 persons have been idled indirectly by the walkout.

Hopes Still Bright

A union statement that Chryslers latest offer was only half good enough failed to dim hopes for an early settlement.

Chrysler's lump sum offer of a $30,000,000 pension fund was rejected a short time after it was put on the bargaining table Friday. But it provided the basis for the union's counter-proposal later in the day.

The company said it would set aside the money in a trust fund. It claimed this was more than sufficient to guarantee $100-a-month pensions, including federal social security, to workers at age 65 after 25 years service. Chrysler offered it as a five-year contract.

Share Administration

Along with the pension fund, Chrysler offered to share administration of the plan with the union, ease the elegibility requirements for pensions, and liberalize hospital-medical-insurance benefits. The offer to share administration was a concession on Chrysler's part.

The UAW, however, said another $16,020,000 would have to be put into the fund during the proposed five-year agreement to make the plan sound from an acturial standpoint. It also said the company's hospital-medical-insurance offer was inadequate and some of its non-economic contract proposals were unsatisfactory.

Total value of the Chrysler "package" offer was estimated by the UAW at the equivalent of five cents an hour.

Farmers Get 2 Billion

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP) — Canadian farmers took in a total of $2,456,871,000 from sale of their products in 1949, the Bureau of Statistics reported Friday. It was slightly less than the 1948 peak of $2,459,393,000.

CALLS TRUMAN "ARROGANT" — Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R., Wis.) holds a copy of the telegram he sent to President Truman, accusing the Chief Executive of endangering the national security through his "arrogant refusal" to release government loyalty files to Senate investigators. McCarthy said the action was "inexcusable."

Won't Use Form Says Commuters

OTTAWA, March 25 —(CP)— A new form designed to tighten controls of border traffic will be introduced at border points Apr. 1 David Sim, Deputy Minister of Revenue for customs, said Friday.

However, Mr. Sim said the form will not be used by commuters at the heavily- travelled border points of Niagara Falls and Windsor. Some "special provisions" would be made to facilitate crossing by persons living in Canada and crossing the boder regularly.

The new forms would not be substantially different from last years, the Deputy said. They would entail the use of a paper form in place of cards previously used.

While the forms would be in triplicate, automobile drivers using them would have to sign only one signature on a carbon-filled form.

Need Bigger Forces

MONTREAL, March 25 (CP)— Col. J. A. MacCamus of Toronto, Dominion Command president of the Canadian Corps Association, said Friday night that Canada's armed services should be larger. Speaking at a special dinner meet of Corps members, he said that "if our armed forces were in proportion to those of the United States, we would have 200,000 men under arms instead of some 48,000 as is the case today."

Charges Toronto Red Headquarters

VANCOUVER, March 25 (CP)— Most Rev. William M. Duke, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Vancouver, Friday said that Toronto is the "headquarters" of Communism in Canada.

He said in a statement that the Labor-Progressive Party was the name under which Communism operates in Canada, and declared:

"It is the duty of the state in the present crisis to combat and keep out of Canada all Communist propaganda and to improve conditions of working men and their families, especially by providing employment."

The statement was a condensation of an address he made in Holy Rosary Cathedral here last Sunday.

He said that next to Toronto, Vancouver was the worst hotbed of Communists in Canada.

No One Blamed

HALIFAX, March 25 (CU) — A coroner's inquest investigating the deaths of two men in the ramming and sinking of the fishing vessel Gertrude De Costa last Saturday, Friday found no person could be blamed for the crash. Eleven crew members of the De Costa were lost in the collision with the freighter Island Connector early Saturday morning. Six were rescued.

Nova Scotia Bitter About Bargain

By The Canadian Press

Premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia revived an ancient grievance in the Halifax legislature Friday when he declared that ill-effects of confederation are still being suffered by the seaside province.

"There never was a poorer bargain struck by any province, and it has had its effects to this day," the Liberal premier said during throne-speech debate. He said that Sir Charles Tupper and other Nova Scotia delegates to the pre-confederation parleys were so anxious to be considered "great Canadians and builders of nations that they forgot their first loyalty — to the province from which they came."

His attack was directed at the financial arrangements in the confederation pact, especially the right of the Dominion to override the provinces on taxation fields such as income and corporation taxes.

Get Budget Tuesday

The New Brunswick legislature was informed the budget will be brought down next Tuesday. Provincial Secretary - Treasurer Boucher's first budget will include details of the retail sales tax promised by Premier McNair.

The Quebec legislative assembly approved the government's bill to establish a Quebec lottery when it sees fit. Premier Duplessis said the lottery could not operate legally without an amendment of the criminal code, a federal act which prohibits lotteries.

He said the Quebec bill is not a challenge or a desire to transgress the federal code — "it is only a question of manifesting the opinion of the province which has a right to that opinion."

Makes No Profit

The Manitoba legislature heard Resources Minister McDiarmid outline an expanded program of protection and exploration for Manitoba's natural resources. Unlike most provinces, Manitoba makes no profit from its forests, he said, suggesting the federal government should assume some of the burden of protection.

The Saskatchewan legislature approved the government's $55,000,000 budget by a recorded vote of 29 to 19, the C.C.F. government being supported by all government members except Jacob Benson (Ind.—CCF—Last Mountain) who resigned from the CCF party during the debate after criticizing the budget.

At Edmonton the Alberta legislature gave first reading to amendments to the liquor act to permit beer parlors to extend their hours and to permit private clubs, now holding beer licences, to apply for liquor licences where they operate dining rooms.

School On Wheels Brings Education Across North

FORT FRANCES, March 25 — (CP) — The school on wheels brings far more than the bare three r's to the children of isolated parts of the Rainy River district.

It is their only link with other children and with the immense, unguessed-at world.

The school, one of seven converted railway cars that trundle over the railway lines through the remote parts of Ontario, serves the itinerant child population.

Children of lumbermen, trappers, section hands, pilots, fishermen and park rangers are moved around too much to attend a permanent school.

Instead the rolling classroom visits them for five to seven days every six weeks. The teacher hears and corrects their lessons, and leaves a new batch of homework with them against the next "class."

Highest Attendance

Despite the fact that the youngsters have to live beside the track —sometimes in shacks in 40-below-zero weather—during the protracted lesson, the cars have the highest attendance record of any in the province.

Car No. 4, which prowls the 450-mile route from Port Arthur to Fort Frances, posts a 95-per-cent record.

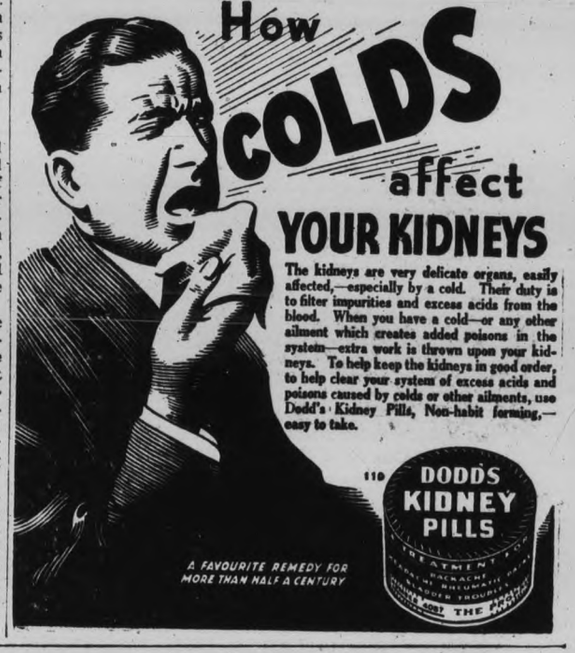
The parents also like the system. In the classroom portion of the car they gather at night for cards, political discussion, chess and music—welcome breaks in the monotony of isolated life.

Mrs. James Chalmers, wife of the teacher on No. 4, has this to say:

"While we hope to have succeeded in bringing something into the lives of both children and parents, the advantages had been far from one-sided.

"We have learned much . . . of the ways and customs of many nationalities."

Naval Parley Backs Carrier Aircraft



TORONTO, March 25 (CP).— The Federal Government's naval policy of maintaining carrier-borne aircraft was endorsed at a meeting Friday of the Naval Defence Conference with a recommendation that it be developed to the highest point of efficiency.

The Naval Defence Conference is elected by the Naval Officers' Associations of Canada and met under chairmanship of Capt. P. Barry German, RCN retired, of Ottawa.

A statement after the meeting said delegates felt the most pressing problem of Canadian defence now is that of the modern submarine. The Conference considered that the danger of submarine attack on Canada's lines of communication, and of attack by guided missiles launched from submarines, was the greatest menace to the nation.

COST OF CRASHES

Charge Pair In Robbery Of Stollery

Caught Near Welland And Campbellford; Bail Set At $10,000

COBOURG, March 27 (ENS) —Joseph and Charles Ellis of Campbellford who were arrested over the weekend were remanded for a week when they appeared in court this morning charged with robbery with violence. The complainant is George Stollery of Seymour Township.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said that in view of Stollery's condition, bail should be set at $10,000 each. Mr. Stollery is in Belleville Hospital.

Joseph Ellis who is 39 years of age, was arrested at Welland by Inspector Ralph Taylor on Saturday. Charles Ellis, age 31, was arrested at Campbellford on Saturday by Provincial Constable Don Nicol and Chief George Hardy.

Stollery, a bachelor who lives by himself in a farm house eight miles east of Campbellford, was beaten into unconsciousness by two men and robbed of more than $1,000.

When he recovered he managed to stagger a quarter of a mile—part of the way through three-foot snowdrifts—to the home of his nephew, Edgar Stollery. There he was given medical attention and police were notified.

Two unidentified assailants accosted Stollery at the rear door of his isolated farm home on the Stirling road. They dragged him from the house, pummelled him into unconsciousness with their fists and left him lying in a snowdrift.

More than $1,000 was removed from two purses he was carrying. The men also ripped open his shirt—where Stollery often carries money—but found none.

After looking through his house they left.

A NEAR-DROWNING FOR BILLY CAMPBELL, 2½ years, who slipped into a swollen creek 500 feet from his parent's home, 1000 High St., was prevented by his mother, Mrs. Eileen Campbell on Sunday morning. Cries from daughter Carolyn, age 3½ years, attracted Mrs. Campbell to the spot. She saw Billy floating face down in the water and plunged in, dragged him out and between she and her husband, Harold, rendered first aid at their home. He suffered shock and exposure on Sunday, but is up and around again today—but not near the creek.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Canada Example Key To Peace Says St. Laurent

TORONTO, March 27—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today that the free world may find in Canada's dual nationality the key for ultimate victory in the cold war.

"Lasting peace and harmony between nations can only come about through the development among the nations of the world of the kind of partnership which we have developed between the two great races here in Canada," said Mr. St. Laurent in an address prepared for delivery before the Toronto Canadian Club.

Outlining the implications for this country of the cold war between Communism and the free countries of the world, the Prime Minister warned that the signing of the Atlantic Pact was only a "promising start on what is going to be a long and hard road towards ultimate security."

Russia Must Change

"We cannot have real and lasting peace until there is some degree of mutual confidence and trust between nations. Events have demonstrated that confidence will depend upon a sincere and radical change in the attitude of Soviet Russia to the rest of the world.

"Such a change is not going to come overnight, if it comes at all in our lifetime."

The prime minister also had this to say about the cold war:

1. The peace-loving nations must build strong military defences because of the menace of military aggression.

2. Canada's aim is to prevent a "hot" war and ultimately do all possible towards ending the cold war itself.

3. The cold war is a "total war" of a different kind which demands the use of all our resources.

4. Canada could spend the whole of her national income on defence and still not be sure of complete immunity from attack.

More Food In UK Rations Biggest Stock In 10 Years

LONDON, March 27—(CP)—Too much food may prove almost as embarrassing to British planners as too little. After 10 years of fretting over shortages, Britain has entered a period of improved supply. The result may be changes in a ration - and - subsidy system which has become almost a part of the national character.

The stocks are said to be the greatest since prewar days—too much food not in the literal sense, but perhaps too much to continue the rationing system as it now stands.

"In almost every respect," says Food Minister Maurice Webb "the country is passing from a phase in which most commodities were scarce into one—not of abundance but where conditions are easier."

New Headache

Webb ought to be enchanted at the prospect. He is, but he also has this big problem in his first month as the food minister.

More food means larger rations. Larger rations will mean a bigger bill for subsidies on such basic foods as butter and milk. Subsidies now total £465,000,000 ($1,441,500,000) a year and Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, says they just can't go any higher.

Subsidies, defense and social services are the three largest sources of government expenditure. The government is trying to keep inflation from getting worse than it is already.

If subsidies are pegged, price increases resulting from increased rations must be borne by pro-

Tax Agreement Some Time Yet

TORONTO, March 27 (CP).—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today it "may take some time" for Ontario and the Dominion overnment to reach agreement on collection of Ontario's share of personal income tax.

Mr. St. Laurent was asked to comment on a recent statement in the Legislature by J. G. Brown (Lib.-Waterloo North) that the Dominion Government would not agree to collect Ontario's share of the tax for the province.

Premier Frost in his budget address said Ontario would take up the Dominion's offer of 5 per cent of Federal income tax levied in the province. Mr. Frost said to eliminate duplication of forms the Federal government would be asked to collect the tax and turn over 5 per cent to Ontario.

Mr. St. Laurent said today in an interview both parties have shown "a sincere desire to do the right thing."

"It may take some time to see eye-to-eye and find the right thing to do," he said.

Attlee May Call Snap Election Within 6 Months

LONDON, March 27.— (Reuters).—Prime Minister Attlee and his Labor Party lieutenants may decide on a snap general election any time in the next six months, political sources predicted today.

Some observers oelieved a new contest might come as early as June—six weeks after the budget is announced April 18.

This is the last thing the Conservative Opposition wants and the government knows it.

Conservatives would like to see the government remain in office long enough to take the rap for for what they call "Socialist economic mismanagement in the last five years."

They would use their strength in Parliament to see that the government was continuously harassed to the brink of the precipice though not pushed over the edge.

Holds Trump Cards

Some government supporters believe that Labor has the trump cards in the present parliament and can score decisively if it plays them properly.

They predict that the weeks immediately ahead will show improvement in Britain's over-all economic position, discrediting suggestions that there would be a crisis this year.

Britain's gold and dollar reserve figures for the first quarter of 1950—showing progress in closing the dollar gap—will be published in two weeks. They are expected to reflect an encouraging position

Cost of living here is reckoned to have risen since devaluation by only about 1½ per cent, even allowing for withdawal of agicultual subsidies.

Exports are at about 160 per cent of pre-1war volume, while imports have been reduced to 90 per cent of that level.

Hiring Rate Boosted For Everyone

May Work 43 Hours To Keep Weekly Pay, Fine Breaks Deadlock

The membership of Local 524 (United Electrical Workers) Sunday afternoon ratified the new one-year contract between the CGE and the union giving them a work week reduced from 45 to 42 hours. They will have the option of putting in another hour a week to maintain their weekly pay.

The work week in Toronto has been reduced from 44 to 42 hours.

More than 3,000 production workers are affected in Peterborough and another 2500 in Toronto. C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president moved the adoption of the UE-GE Joint Negotiating Committee recommendation.

President T. P. Davies also approved the terms of the new contract. Climaxing the nine-month dispute between the company and the union. The anniversary date of the old contract was June 30.

Hear Provisions

About 1,450 workers, according to UE estimates, gathered in the Market Hall Sunday afternoon to hear the new contract provisions.

They learned there would be no pay increase but a three-hour reduction in their work week. Take home pay is the same for two hours and they will have the choice of working the extra hour if they wish to retain the same-sized pay envelope.

Another gain is the 10-cent increase in starting rates. Females now start at 82 cents an hour and get an extra three cents in 30 days and a total of 88 cents after 60 days.

Males start at 96 cents an hour and in the same period of time progress to 99 and $1.02.

All employees will attain the job rate in a year. If they can produce the normal quality and quantity on their job the rate will come sooner.

Employees will be reviewed every three months, beginning April 1950, until they reach the job rate. The same applies until they reach the highest rate in the range.

Seniority Rules

Seniority is now on a departmental and plant-wide basis.

The agreement comes as a climax to nine months of union-company negotiations complicated by a bitter jurisdictional fight between the left-wing UE and the right-wing IUE (CIO-CCL). The struggle within the ranks of the unionized workers is recognized as having weakened their strength in negotiations.

Actual signing of the contract which will run for a year is expected later today.

The formula for maintaining the same take-home pay was reached by the Conciliation Board which made its report at the end of December. Toronto CGE workers will get the same-sized weekly wage on the basis of a 4.77 per cent increase to compensate for the loss in hours.

Peterborough workers have had a 45 hour week and the union demanded that there be compensa-

St. Laurent, Frost Sign Agreement Ont. Gets Niagara

TORONTO, March 27—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost of Ontario today signed a formal agreement handing over to Ontario the Canadian water rights in the Niagara river. It was the first time in history that a Canadian Prime Minister had paid an official visit to the Provincial parliament buildings at Queen's Park. The agreement is an outgrowth of an international treaty between Canada and the United States in Washington Feb. 27. It brings a step closer the expanded development of the power potential of the Niagara river.

The agreement still has to be ratified by Parliament and by the United States Senate.

Mr. St. Laurent said during the ceremony in the Ontario Cabinet Council room that strict adherence to protocol would have required that the agreement between Ontario and the Federal government would be signed in Ottawa.

Practical Protocol

"But I happened to be here today and, since this is an important matter, the practical thing was to do it here," he said. "I believe that whatever is practical should be protocol."

Without the agreement, the Ontario government could not authorize the Ontario Hydro Commission to proceed with the development agreed upon by Canada and the United States.

Its terms provide that Ontario will bear the cost of certain remedial works which must be constructed in connection with the proposed redevelopment of the Niagara River for power. Ontario also agrees to assume from Ottawa the responsibility for any claims which arise from the use of the Niagara waters for power purposes.

Better Power Service

Present at the signing was Robert Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman. He said the agreement represents a step forward in providing better power service to Ontario consumers.

Mr. Frost said the agreement is the first step in adding to Ontario's power resources some 800,000 horsepower.

The additional power would be "a very great thing" for Ontario's industries but "much more important to the way of life of our province in serving homes and creating jobs," Mr. Frost added.

The Premier said Mr. St. Laurent's visit to Toronto was "a very generous gesture."

Mickey Dead Police Say, Killed By Thugs

TORONTO, March 27 (CP)—Donald (Mickey) McDonald, notorious Canadian gunman and bank robber, was slain by gangsters in the United States 18 months ago, a senior Toronto police official said today.

The police official was commenting on reports from Ottawa that Canada's Public Enemy No. 1 was alive and peddling narcotics in a large U.S. city—either in New York State or California.

"Both the police in the United States and in Canada believe that Mickey was rubbed out by his own gunmen associates," the police official said.

"We have conclusive information that McDonald is dead and buried in the United States," he added.

1947 Break

McDonald, along with Nicholas (Nick) Minille, convicted armed robber, and Ulysse Lauzon, notorious Windsor gunman and bank robber, broke out of Kingston Penitentiary in August, 1947.

A year later Minille was arrested during an attempted drug store robbery in Los Angeles and returned to Canada where three years were tacked on to his 17-year term.

Two months later Lauzon, who vowed he would live a life of luxury on his $300,000 cache, was found dead in a Mississippi swamp, victim of a gangland slaying.

Report Chinese Eating Humans

HONG KONG, March 27—(AP) — Hunger-mad peasants in China's great famine area are resorting to cannibalism, recent arrivals said today.

Starving peasant bands in north central China are reported luring children from the villages into the hills to be eaten.

No confirmation was possible here. Dr. F. L. Chang, Shanghai vice-chairman of the World Federation of Churches, said the reports probably were true. He said the famine is showing signs of becoming the greatest scourge in Chinese history.

During the relatively-mild 1943 famine several cannibalism cases were reported to Allied forces stationed in China.

Chang predicted cannibalism would increase unless food is shipped immediately to the starving Chinese.

Strange Weather Invades Canada

TORONTO, March 27—(CP)—Rain drenched southern Ontario today as part of topsy-turvy weather associated with an outsize whirlpool of air sprawling across half a continent.

However, the rain ended by noon in most sections, including the Toronto district. Weathermen say that cooler, drier air will arrive by tonight and bring sunny skies to southern Ontario tomorrow.

Warm air that Sunday burst blossoms in Indiana boosted today's temperatures in southwestern Ontario into the 50s. In Windsor, this morning the temperature rose 10 degrees in two hours.

Conditions were so unusual that the public weather office at nearby Malton issued a special news release in which it described the turbulent air mass as "a king-size weather breeder" that blew up from the midwestern United States.

The low pressure area reaching from the Gulf of Mexico to Saskatchewan, from the eastern Rockies to the Appalachians, brought weekend blizzards to the southeastern section of the Canadian Prairies and to the north-central United States.

It also gave southwestern Ontario its first thunderstorm of 1950. The storm lost most of its punch before it reached Canada, however.

Reds Slow Traffic At Zonal Borders

BERLIN, March 27—(AP)—Russian guards slowed down Berlin-bound truck traffic at the zonal border today to half the normal pace.

The frontier patrols at Helmstedt held entry of trucks from the west to a rate of five to six an hour, without explanation.

A backlog of 50 trucks piled up between midnight and mid-morning. At the rate they were being checked through the backlog remained constant.

Dust Storms Sweep States Cause 8 Traffic Deaths

KANSAS CITY, March 27. —(AP).— Blinding dust storms, whipped by gale-force winds, swirled over wide areas of the plains states Sunday.

So thick was the dust ball that eight highway fatalities were blamed on the choking clouds. Approximately 50 persons were injured in automobile accidents in Kansas and Texas alone.

Rich top soil over thousands of acres was blown away.

The winds also caused some damage to buildings and fanned prairie fires.

High winds swept over Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico and Nebraska. But it was Oklahoma and Texas and Kansas that took the brunt of the dust storms.

Kansas highway patrol officers closed off some routes because of the dust hazard.

Officers said they considered five miles an hour a safe driving speed in the worst spots.

The winds averaged about 40 miles an hour, but gusts up to 80 miles an hour were reported.

A Kansas State college agronomist said the extent of crop damage could not be estimated until later. He said that little damage to wheat was expected but farmers with newly-sown oats may suffer considerable loss.

The weather bureau reported the dust storms were reminiscent of the black blizzards of 1935 and 1936 when thousands of acrs of rich cropland were destroyed and countless farmers were ruined.

Frank Tiffany, Associated Press reporter, who travelled through Sunday's dust storm in Kansas, said:

"It eddied out of gullies and swept off plowed fields in choking, blinding clouds that at worst spots cut visibility to not more than a car's length.

Dockers' Strike Shuts French Port 24 Hours

PARIS, March 27.—(AP).— All but two French ports were tied up today by a dockers' strike ordered by the Communist-led Confederation Generale Du Travail.

The two exceptions were Marseille and Cherbourg. At Marseille, where the arrest of C.G.T officials after a street riot last week touched off the strike, most of the 4,000 men working as stevedores were replacements for the regular union men.

Dockers at Cherbourg have voted to work despite their membership in the C.G.T.

There are about 20,000 regular dock workers in France, and it was reliably estimated that 85 per cent obeyed the walkout order. The strike is for 24 hours only.

Oust Coach Boucher

BOSTON, March 27—(AP)—George (Buck) Boucher, veteran hockey figure, today was released as coach of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. But a Bruins' spokesman said the team's failure to make the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time since 1943-44 had nothing to do with

Plans Started To Link Defences

WASHINGTON March 27.—(CP).—Congress has been told by Wm. A. Gill, co-ordinator of the Nationa Security Resources Board's civil defence planning that arrangements are under way to link the defences of the United States with those of Canada

He said there has been complete agreement on the necessity of co-ordinating defense planning for the two countries and standardizing air raid warning systems and other equipment.

Testimony given last week by Gill and Paul J. Larsen director of the office of civilian mobilization in the NSRB before the Congressional Atomic Committee, was made public Saturday by the committee.

Larsen said that if the United States tried to achieve absolute security against atomic attack it would have to spend more than $300,000,000,000 and become "a garrison state."

Tito Collects 95% Of Votes In Election

BELGRADE, March 27.—(AP) —Ballot boxes filled with pink rubber balls today gave Marshal Tito heavy backing in his fight with the Russian-led Cominform

First returns from Sunday's parliamentary election—in which Tito and his party were unopposed—showed more than 95 per cent of the votes going to the Communist People's Front Tito heads.

Nearly 100 per cent of Yugoslavia's 10,000,000 eligible voters used the country's traditional ballot—a small rubber pellet dropped into one of two election boxes. One box was for Tito; the other registered negative opposition.

Boy Killed By Elephant While Feeding It Peanuts

SARASOTA, Fla., March 27 — (AP)—A little boy feeding peanuts to circus elephants was killed Sunday when one of them suddenly whipped her trunk around him, dashed him to the ground and stepped on his head.

By the time attendants could make big Dolly move her foot, five-year-old Roger Schooley was dead.

He had been snatched from the side of his horror-stricken parents, Professor and Mrs. Elmer Schooley of Las Vegas, N.M.

The Schooleys had taken Roger and his brother David, 6, to the winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus for a look at the animals.

The two youngsters were tossing peanuts to the trained elephants when one of the gentlest, 27-year-old Dolly, made the fatal dart with her trunk.

J. D. Brown, a circus watchman, was attracted by screams. Dolly made no attempt to harm him: as he made her move her ponderous hoof from the child's body.

Arthur Concello, general manager of the circus, said he was told the boy ducked under the guard rope to pick up some peanuts he had dropped. Apparently the elephant became excited "like a dog when someone takes a bone away from it," he speculated.

The manager said Dolly would not be taken on the road with the rest of the circus. She has been chained apart from the rest of the herd.

Charge Reds Kill 102 AmongGermanMiners

KIEL, Germany, March 27 (AP) —A West German newspaper printed an unconfirmed report today that Russian troops killed 102 German uranium mine woreks, including four women, in quelling a riot Saturday near the Soviet-zone town of Frohnau.

The Kieler Nachrichten said 173 other Germans were injured in a riot stemming from rebellion among the workers following six fatal mine accidents. It did not state the source of its information.

The newspaper, published by the Christian Democratic Union Party, said the enraged workers destroyed $150,000 worth of mining equipment. They had refused to enter the pits, contending that safety measures were inadequate and the Russians attempted to force them to work.

There was no confirmation from Soviet authorities.

West Berlin political organizations and newspaper editors with many underground contacts in the Russian zone were skeptical today of this report.

Ford Plant Strike Vote Next Sunday

Meeting Voted Down Company Pension Bid Want $100 A Month

WINDSOR, March 27—(CP)—The United Auto Workers (C.C.L.-C.I.O.) will take a strike vote next Sunday against the country's largest car maker, The Ford Motor Company of Canada.

A general membership meeting of some 6,000 workers of The Ford Local 200, said to have a membership of 11,000, agreed Sunday to take the vote and according to a union statement "voted unanimously against the company's $55-monthly pensions offer."

The union seeks a $100-monthly retirement pensions for workers at age 65 after 25 years' service. Sunday's closed meeting of Local 200 was the first here since an Ontario conciliation board brought down a majority report a month ago favoring the company's offer. Since then union and company spokesmen have renewed meetings without result.

Roy G. England, president of the local, told Sunday's meeting that "Ford workers will revert to their full 30-cents-an-hour package demand," which includes the pension, health and medical insurance benefits, a night-shift differential, two extra paid statutory holidays, time and a half for Saturday work "and other monetary matters."

Earlier the union told the company it would postpone pension demands until Jan. 1, 1951, if the company granted other demands in full. The proposal was rejected by the company. George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, told the Sunday meeting that "Ford can have industrial peace at a little less than it valued its own offer—or it can have war."

Local 200 went on strike in 1945, a tie-up that lasted 99 days and which established the Rand formula of dues check-offs.

Killed Professors

MANILA, March 27—(AP)—Six Igorot tribesmen who confessed slaying two American professors with spears and knives in a sacrificial ceremony last Christmas Day have been sentenced to life imprisonment. The professors were Dr. Robert F. Fonklin of Springfield, Mass., and Marvin Pittman of Chicago, both exchange professors at University of the Philippines.

Man Hangs Self In Police Cell

PORT COLBORNE, March 27—(AP)—Police said Sunday that James Wesley Howard, 37, of Collingwood, hanged himself by his shoe laces in his cell at Humberstone Police Station shortly after midnight, an hour after he was arrested on Main Street in Humberstone for a minor liquor violation.

Howard was picked up by Constable James Marshall and charged with having liquor in a public place. The arrest was made at 11:55 and Howard was placed in the cell in the recently constructed police station adjoining the Humberstone village municipal building. At 1 o'clock Sunday morning, Constable Marshall and Constable Lenard Hockley returned to the police station and found Howard slumping from the top bars of the door of his cell, his shoelaces knotted together and around his neck.

ducers or consumers. Either way, it would be a choice laden with painful political implications.

On one hand, by passing increases along to the consumer, the government would run the risk of raising the cost of living to levels that might jeopardize its policy of wage restraint. On the other, by pinching producers, it might alienate farmers and farm laborers whose vote would be decisive at the next election.

Dilemma Their Own

British newspapers have made Webb's dilemma their own, and among many suggestions is a two-tier system of food prices similar to that used in some continental countries. This would involve a basic ration on essential food stuffs sold at prices kept low by subsidies, with extra supplies of the same food available off the ration at higher prices.

The Labor party is expected to prove hostile to such suggestions. But indications of surpluses are reported daily, and whatever Webb decides, it seems certain that Britons can expect more to eat and a little more variety.

Giant Atom Smasher

WASHINGTON, March 27 —(AP)—The United States Atomic Energy Commission Saturday announced a plan it thinks will save a year's time on going into action with a super-duper "atom smashing" machine. The projected device, labelled "the world's strongest electron accelerator," will use 1,000,000,000-volt electrons and x-rays in an effort to tap further secrets of the atom's inner life.

Fire Sweeps Store

RED LAKE, Ont., March 27 — Loss of $25,000 was caused when fire swept a general store, pool room and house here Sunday. The store was owned by Dutchy Killman and the pool room by George Mospan. Some furniture was saved from the house owned by Clayton Cowles.

12 Canadians Win $309,000 In Irish Sweeps

Twelve Canadians won a total of $309,000 in sweepstakes on the Grand National steeplechase run Saturday in Aintree.

Ten claimed prizes in the Irish sweepstakes, and two others won big money in the Quebec Army, Navy and Air Forces Veterans' draw. Scores of others won consolation prizes.

No Canadian held an Irish sweep ticket on the winner, Freebooter, which was worth $77,500. But six Canadians each won $31,000 on the second-place Wot No Sun—three in Toronto, one in Clarkson, Ont., one in Ottawa and another in Sudbury.

Four other Canadians drew $15,500 each as holders of Irish Sweep tickets on the third horse, Acthon Major. They were scattered between Toronto, Ancaster, Ont., Sudbury and Ottawa.

In Army-Navy Draw

In the Army-Navy draw, Rene Crevier of Chicoutimi, Que., collected $28,000 on the strength of Freebooter's victory; J. J. Levie of Quebec won $23,000. Third prize of $15,000 went to C. W. Dema of New York.

The known Irish Sweep winners: Mrs. T. G. Manley, Toronto, $31,000; Mrs. Josephine Polito, Toronto, $31,000; Roland Boisvenue, Ottawa, $31,000; Floyd Cleary, Sudbury, $31,000; Harold Kinzer, Clarkson, $31,000; E. Kennedy To Open New Auditorium

BRAMPTON, March 27 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Kennedy Wednesday will officially open a $35,000 auditorium and recreation building, the result of 10 months' hard labor by Peel County Junior Farmers.

The large, quonset-type structure, erected with little "outside" help, has been financd by grants from Federal, Provincial and local governments, agricultural societies and the Peel Women's Institute. The Ontario government has pledged $10,000 and the Federal government $9,000.

The auditorium measures 50 by 70 feet and seats more than 400 persons. It will also double as a dance floor. There are enough separate rooms to accommodate three agricultural meetings at one time. There are tiled washrooms and a fully-equipped kitchen.

Peel County Agricultural Society donated the site in the fair grounds to the Junior Farmers in exchange for 10 days' free use of the hall each year. Work was shared out to 300 members of the Junior Farmers' Association comprising seven clubs in the county. Girl members will be responsible for catering to various dinner meetings scheduled.

RAF Vet Faces Trial In Death Of Wife

NAPANEE, March 27—(CP)—James Fosbraey, 28-year-old RAF veteran, is scheduled to go on trial Tuesday for the murder of his attractive Canadian wife.

Mrs. June Fosbraey, 25-year-old mother of a four-year-old girl died last Nov. 28 in a blood-spattered snowbank 100 yards from her home. She had been stabbed in the heart with a hunting knife.

She and Fosbraey had been separated for several months. Mrs. Fosbraey lived with her parents.

Fosbraey, a native of Kent, England, walked to police headquarters in this Prince Edward-Lennox county seat and gave himself up, police said at the time. Investigators said he led them to the place where neighbors, attracted by Mrs. Fosbraey's screams, found her dying. The knife was nearby.

Second Offender Fined

Arrested Friday for being drunk, Fred Hamilton, Short St., today admitted in police court that he had been drunk and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 and $2.50 costs or spend a month in jail. It was his second offence against the Liquor Control Act within a year.

Denies Charge Top Red In U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 27 —(AP)—Owen Lattimore derided today as "pure moonshine" Senator Joseph McCarthy's charges that he is Russia's top spy in the state department and the United States.

Lattimore, an expert on Far Eastern affairs, cabled The Associated Press from Afghanistan where he is on a United Nations mission.

He said he would be home in a few days and promised to answer the charges in detail then.

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, had described Lattimore privately to newspaper men as "the man — connected with the state department—whom I consider the top Russian espionage agent in this country." This information was made public Sunday night in a radio broadcast."

Lattimose, 49, is director of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University.

Sunday night columnist Drew Pearson, on his weekly radio broadcast, named Lattimore as the man McCarthy accuses of being the Soviet Union's chief spy in the United States. Pearson added:

"I happen to know Owen Lattimore personally — and I only wish this country had more patriots like him."

Find Prices Settle Into Narrow Rut

TORONTO, March 27.—((CP).—Prices settled into a narrow rut as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today. A handful of market leader pushed into the plus column early in the session and managed to retain their gains. Volume for the first three hours was 593,000 shares.

Canadian Vickers gained 1½ at 101 in steels. Consoldidated Paper featured papers for a gain of ½ at 20⅝.

Senior gold producers dipped fractions while a few key juniors brightened. MacLeod-Cockshutt the junior board, adding 10 cents at $3.70 in brisk dealings.

Consolidated Smelters pulled ahead from recent declines in base metals for a gain of 1⅛ at 93⅛. East Sullivan was also in good demand, adding 15 cents at $5.75.

Western oils opened firm but slipped under pressure of profit-taking on last week's gains.

Canada Example

5. The free countries must strike the best possible balance between the provision of immediate armed strength and of lasting potential strength—military, industrial and economic.

6. To win the cold war, Canada and the other free nations must demonstrate the superiority of the Democratic institutions and way of life "to the continued satisfaction of all our own people."

7. Social security, like ordinary insurance, can be a stimulus and not an impediment to enterprise.

8. The maintenance of enterprise, or prosperity, of a high level of employment and an expanding standard of human welfare are among the most potent weapons in the cold war.

One contribution Canada could make to ultimate success in the cold war was to maintain "right here in Canada a strong and healthy free community in which the state remains our servant and does not become our master."

Improve Welfare

He said he believed it was the duty of governments—federal provincial and municipal—to do their utmost to improve human welfare and to maintain conditions favorable to successful enterprise and thereby to high levels of employment and prosperity.

"We all want high levels of employment and prosperity but we have always said the bulk of employment should be provided by private enterprise. I do not think it would be wise for any government to kill the geese that we are counting on to lay the golden eggs."

Mr. St. Laurent said: "I believe that our special historical experience has bred tolerance in our very bones, and has given to Canadians an exceptional capacity to understand and co-operate with other nations."

The Prime Minister added:

"Today we (Canada) stand united before a world in need of unity. And the striking thing is that this world faces a problem of racial differences, language differences, cultural differences on a far greater scale but essentially similar to the problem we faced in the early days of our national life."

No Appeal Decision

QUEBEC, March 27 (CP). — erard Levesque, counsel for the defence of J. Albert Guay, denied today reports that a decision had been reached concerning an appeal by Guay against a conviction of murder in the death of his wife in a time-bomb explosion of an aircraft at Sault Au Cochon on September 9.

Search For Body

TORONTO, March 27—(CP)—Several hundred residents of nearby Ajax joined in a fruitless hunt Sunday for nine-year-old Kenneth Foster, missing since early Saturday afternoon. Police and volunteers combed the bed of Puckrin's Creek in search of the boy, last seen by his brother Peter, 11, and two playmates.

Radio Bingo Decision Today

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP). — The fate of radio games hangs on a decision expected to be handed down by the CBC Board of Governors some time today.

Subject of representations to the Board that is considering the possibility of banning radio bingo —the game that has a large following in some parts of Ontario.

The Board went into private sessions Saturday to draft a decision following a public meeting that heard the final representations on the question. At earlier meetings in Ottawa, the Board heard arguments both for and against a ban on the game.

At Saturday's meeting, K. G. Mathieson, representing the Lions Club of Ottawa, urged the Board to allow the games to be broadcast.

Radio bingo, played along the same lines as an ordinary bingo game, was staged for charity purposes, said Mr. Mathieson.

He added that bingo is a game played by middle-age people whose morals are not likely to be affected.

"I assure you it is a great delight for me to have some part in this demonstration," Mr. St. Laurent said. The new development "without impairing in any way the natural beauty of the falls," would create new wealth for Canada.

"Of course, the falls happen to be in Ontario but that's Canada," the Prime Minister added with a smile.

Two Drowned Two Missing Floods Continue

TORONTO, March 27—(CP)—Two persons were drowned and two were missing as flood waters in Ontario continued to rise during the week-end.

The body of a five-year-old Indian boy, Franklin George, was recovered from a swift-flowing creek on the Oneida Indian reserve near London, 150 feet from the point where he fell in. Yvonne Wood of Erieu, 15 miles south of Chatham, fell from a dike into five feet of water and was drowned. The dike holds back Lake Erie from reclaimed onion land.

Bands of weary searchers directed by Provincial Police have combed the Ajax area just east of Toronto since Saturday looking for nine-year-old Kenneth Foster who disappeared in a bog formed by flooding Puckrin's Creek.

Police and firemen also searched around Highland Creek, also east of Toronto, for Edward Einarson, 9, his tricycle was found in the water.

Ice Jams Blasted

The upper reaches of the Etobicoke River rose 10 feet Saturday night and flooded the business section of Brampton, 15 miles northwest of Toronto. The river level had dropped five feet by Sunday morning after ice jams were blasted.

Six persons were reported rescued from floods, some requiring medical attention for shock and exposure.

Mrs. Pearl Cominsky, 65, of suburban North York, was rescued from the Don River by a passerby after she slipped and fell in. Walter Fowlie, 10, was marooned briefly in Oshawa Creek when flood waters rose around the pile of ice from which he was fishing.

Firemen took Gordon Latimer, 12, off a small island where he was washed up after being swept off a small bridge over the Etobicoke Creek at suburban Long Branch and carried 60 yards downstream. Earlier attempts to reach the same island by boat ended in failure for Michael Natawary. He was swept downstream and had difficulty in getting back to shore.

Two Men Fined

A fight on George St. Saturday resulted in fines of $10 with $2.50 costs for each of the two people involved when they appeared in police court today before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC.

Jack W. Crough, Perry St. pleaded guilty to being drunk and Harvey C. Moore, Driscoll Terrace, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

Both men were arrested when Constable Claire McGillen investigated a disturbance.

Rajah Asks To Go To Borneo

LONDON, March 27 —(AP)— The would-be "White Rajah of Sarawak" wants the British government to give him the same treatment it gave African Chieftain Seretse Khama.

Anthony Brooke, nephew of Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, last Rajah of Sarawak, asked the government by letter to allow him to return to the British territory on the island of Borneo to proceed with a law suit he began in 1947 before he was banned from Sarawak.

"His Majesty's government" the letter said, "have recently given permission to Mr. Seretse Khama who has been banned from the Bechuanaland Protectorate to proceed there on certain conditions for the purpose of private litigation.

Following this precedent I should be grateful if you will inform me on what conditions I may return to Sarawak."

The British government said in 1947 he had been barred from Sarawak because it was feared he would attempt to prevent cession of the territory to Britain.

A spokesman for the colonial office said the letter was under consideration.

Trains Smash, 5 Hurt

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 27 — (AP)—Five men were injured when a 40-car freight slammed into the rear end of a passenger train standing at the railroad station here Sunday night. The freight train's Diesel locomotive plowed 30 feet into the empty rear coach, the roof and sides of which almost completely sheathed the locomotive.

The Family's Greatest Need is still SECURITY!

Hazards that threaten family security today have nothing in common with the terrors faced by the early settlers. Yet they are no less real because of that.

For instance—who in this world faces a more precarious future than the widow left in straitened circumstances with a family to support? What more destructive of family life than the necessity of combining the heavy duties of wage-earner and mother?

The "stockade" behind which the modern family can find security against such financial disaster is Life Insurance: For most families it is the only means of protection against loss of the breadwinner. It can be arranged to provide a guaranteed monthly income.

Lindsay Woman Owner Of Singing Dog

LINDSAY, March 27 — Not many people in Canada can boast of owning a singing dog. Most dogs trained to perform in such a manner usually find themselves in the limelight but not so the talented dog of a Lindsay woman.

"Mickey", the pure bred Toy Boston Bulldog, belonging to Mrs. Sarah Long, 8 Adelaide St. S., Lindsay, is three years old. His doggie heart is carefree and happy and he exemplifies this state of perfect bliss by dog solos, rendered in the most entrancing manner. In fact his mother, "Tootsie" a pure bred Toy Boston of Montreal, crooned lullabies to her baby in their Montreal home, soon after she recovered from a Ceasarian birth of four puppies.

Mickey inherited his mother's musical tendencies as he watched and obeyed his noted mother in duet rendition, like her, he rolled his liquid eyes, threw his head back and soon with faithful practise cultivated a voice form that really was superior to hers. His range is from high to low, he can imitate the mezzo soprano and also come down the scale to the deep bass.

His proud mistress and owner was presented with Mickey as a gift from her daughter, Miss Gladys Long, dog fancier and trainer of Montreal, who owns and has trained her noted "Tootsie", mother of Mickey.

Weight About 20 Lbs.

Both mother and son are as much alike as two peas and of course are much smaller than the average Boston Bull, weighing about 20 pounds.

Mrs. Sarah Long has a constant and admiring pal in Mickey, who, seldom leaves his mistress's side.

He is one of the most amazingly intelligent species of dog known to man. Frequently they are found inside the great circus rings of the world. He listens to his mistress, converses in his dog language with her and will sing till she is completely satisfied.

If the radio plays a nice catchy jazz piece of which he approves, there is no stopping him unless the radio is shut off. The tone and variation and quality of his solos are highly amusing and anyone touring the world looking for phenomenon of animal intelligence would do well to see and hear "Mickey" — only by seeing and hearing this dog perform can one believe that such a dog exists.

Mickey, of course can do countless other tricks, such as walking on his hind legs across a 15-foot room, he can jump six feet straight in the air and can play a most brilliant game of hop and go fetch it with his yellow ball with a rattle in it, which he delights to hear.

Butter Eating Dog

Mickey is fed ground steak, dog biscuits and a balanced ration which keeps him in perfect health. No margarine for him, he will perform at the command of his mistress and likes as his favorite reward a taste of butter and he is not fed this sparingly either.

He sleeps on a satin cushion in the den of his mistress's beautifully appointed home. Santa Claus sent Mickey a walnut feeding stand last Christmas. It is a unique and highly convenient arrangement, consisting of a walnut table with two metal bowls set down in so as to prevent spilling or scattering of food and is a very convenient way of taking care of Mickey's meals and their serving. The table stands approximately six inches high.

Mrs. Long says, as she smilingly watches Mickey jumping and skipping in a performance to show the joy in his heart that "he keeps her fully amused with his antics and cleverness." "The value of the dog cannot be estimated in dollars and cents" says Mrs. Long. "I have had many dogs of different breeds but this is the most amazing dog with such super intelligence that he seems to be almost human."

So Mickey Long enters the category of a smart, clever toy dog of white and brindle coloring and the noble understanding eyes of the Boston Bull. He is most friendly and he and his mistress delight in giving an exhibition of his talents to all who are interested in such and would favor Mickey with a visit at his home.

More than 75,000 men were directly employed in erecting the 15 buildings of Rockefeller Centre in New York City.

UNWANTED BABY—The baby shown in the above photo is a four months old boy Roger. Montreal police said nobody wants him. They reported his mother left him with a neighbor who had him three days before turning him over to the police. Young Roger, sitting on policewoman Cecile Trudeau's knee, looks highly amused as Sgt. Herve Payette coaxes him into a meal.

Jamaica Tourists

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 27 — (CP) — Jamaica entertained more tourists last year than did any other British Caribbean colony, including Nassau and Bermuda, a government report released here Saturday said. During 1949 this island colony played host to 66,628 tourists, who spent $7,750,000, of which 90 per cent was in United States dollars.

Continue Searching For Sunken Schooner

HALIFAX, March 27—(CP)—The navy continued today to probe the bottom of Halifax harbor for the wreckage of the fishing schooner Gertrude de Costa.

The schooner sank with 11 men March 18 after a collision with the freighter Island Connector. Seven bodies are believed to be in the wreckage.

A naval diving tender resumed dragging for the wreckage after a diver went down Saturday when the grappling hooks met an obstruction on the bottom.

Thomas James Ryan Buried At Douro

Pall-bearers at the funeral Saturday of Thomas James Ryan, Otonabee, were Jack and Joseph Sullivan, William and Vincent Doherty, Joseph Fitzgerald and Patrick Ryan. All are nephews of the late Mr. Ryan.

Requiem mass was said by the Rev. J. J. McCarthy who also said the graveside prayers.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

PRETORIA, THE CAPITAL of the Union of South Africa, used to have 60 traffic accidents each week. An extensive campaign was launched and when the above photo of an accident barometer was taken the figure had been reduced to 38. F. Marincowitz, a South African who recently arrived in Montreal, thinks a similar campaign may help reduce the number of accidents in many Canadian cities.

Five Canonized By Pope Pius

VATICAN CITY, March 27 — (AP) — Cardinals, bishops and archbishops gathered in Consistorial Hall with Pope Pius today to give their votes of approval for five holy year canonizations.

Replying to the invitation of the Pontiff that they express their opinion, each prelate, bare-headed rose in hi sturn and said "placet" —latin for "it pleases me," and the equivalent of an affirmative vote.

To vote for all five blessed of the church was unanimous. Attending the semipublic consistory were 14 cardinals, all except Norman Thomas Gilroy, visting Archbishop of Sydney; members of the Roman Curia and 35 Archbishops and Bishops who live within a 100-mile radius of Rome.

The five beatified members of the church whose canonization was approved today, and the dates for their canonization, are:

April 23— Marie Rodat, French woman who founded the Sisters of the Sacred Family.

May 7— Antonio Maria Claret, Spanish Bishop and founder of the Missionary Sons of the Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

June 11— Vincenzo Maria Stambi, Italain Bishop who was a member of the Passionate congregation.

June 25 — Maria Goretti, Italian girl whom the Catholic church considers as having suffered martyrdom to safeguard her honor.

July 9 — Anna Maria Paredes who died at Quito, Ecuador in 1644.

American Osmosis

The able young Conservative M. P. for Kamloops, Mr. Davie Fulton, addressing a Peterborough service club Thursday evening, again drew attention to the preponderant American influence in Canada's cultural and economic life. Can Canada resist, and should it resist, its complete absorption by the U.S.A.? Mr. Fulton believes it can and should. He suggests a vigorous immigration policy through which our population would be trebled, and a general industrialization, to include West as well as East. By these means Canada could attain sufficient poise and stature to stand on her feet and to become "a great nation in our time". The world needs a strong and influential independent Canada, Mr. Fulton believes, to be the first partner in a buffer state-group, the British Commonwealth, a balancing force between the two great imperialisms of our time, the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A.

* * *

The conception is exalted. Is it politically and economically within reason? Canada has always been dependent, primarily because of its economic situation. It has been the small fellow between the U.S.A. and the United Kingdom, leaning towards the weaker of the two, or away from the more domineering, at specific times in particular situations. But now Britain is economically eclipsed in the West; the U.S.A. has become gigantic, and its giant opposite is not Britain but the U.S.S.R. Canada cannot longer play her strength between Britain and the U.S.A. The American influence is more dominant than ever before, the osmosis more insinuative.

* * *

If Mr. Fulton's dream is to have validity, there must be a shift in alignment. Instead of Canada playing a role between the U. S. A. and Britain, for her own and the good of the two greater nations, Canada with Britain — or Britain with Canada and the rest of the amorphous Commonwealth—must play a concerted part between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. Can Canadians accept leadership in this Commonwealth world role; will Britain relinquish her accustomed sense of control? And if both take on these new garments of authority, even then is the Commonwealth sufficiently close-knit to act together, and can Canada ever escape the economic and political consquences of her contiguity with the United States. Osmosis is a natural phenomenon not to be prevented by artificial means.

Undying Popularity

With some surprise we read that the yearly Shakespeare Festival at Stratford-upon-Avon began this year on March 9. The usual date for the Festival to begin is April 23, Shakespeare's birthday. But the popularity of the Shakespeare Festival has grown so during past years that the authorities at the Memorial Theatre have decided to extend its duration for another six weeks; it will not come to an end until the close of September.

This is a matter for surprise and comment. It is 334 years since Shakespeare died, and his plays have held the stage, without a break, since that time. Each succeeding age seems to find in them what it wants—some reflection of itself or some corroboration of a cherished opinion. The poetry never grows stale; the stories—improbable and even ridiculous as some of them seem to be—wear better than the best contrivances of dextrous modern playwrights. And it may be said that in our present age the popularity of Shakespeare on the stage is greater than ever before, and two admirable films, Henry V and Hamlet have created a new audience for Shakespeare among people who have avoided the theatre as "highbrow".

The Shakespeare Festival this year will be graced by some of the finest actors in the English-speaking world. John Gielgud and Gwen Ffrangcon-Davies will be at Stratford, which guarantees that the noble poetry will be nobly spoken; Peggy Ashcroft and Anthony Quayle are two of the other stars of the company, and players of the first rank. It is one of the miracles of the modern world that the plays of a man who lived in such a different world, and who wrote for such a different theatre should continue to engage the attention of large audiences, year in and year out, and to demand—as this year at Stratford—even more performances than before.

Troubles Of U.S. Diplomatic Head

The separation of the legislative and executive branches of government in the United States often leads to embarrassing situations, and U. S. Secretary of State Acheson was in the centre of one of these recently. His position is now a little better, although he is still apparently handicapped by qualities which would be decided assets in other diplomatic services.

Mr. Acheson has been described by Arthur Krock, veteran New York Times correspondent rated as an able and impartial judge of Washington statesmen, as "in many ways the best-equipped man for his job in years and intellectually the superior of many (of his) predecessors". That is a favourable judgement which is apparently justified, but Mr. Acheson has personal qualities which are disadvantages. He did not take office with a reputation for ability in another field; his ability had been proved in the Department itself; he is witty urbane, cultured, and polite. None of these qualities seem popular with U. S. legislators generally.

Then, when Mr. Acheson said he would not turn his back on the convicted Alger Hiss, he gave his opponents an easy target, and dismayed his supporters. Republican criticism broadened—and Democratic support was still withheld publicly. Not even President Truman came out in defence of his Secretary of State, until after Mr. Acheson used a political strategem which is the President's own favourite.

Whether because of personal decision or departmental advice, Mr. Acheson went to California on a speaking tour. He was not very confident about the outcome; he felt most citizens would be unwilling to support the program he espoused. The California audiences thoroughly surprised him; they stood and cheered at the end of his addresses. Surprise didn't prevent him from liking the ovations, however, and he is now planning further personal appearances.

The reaction of the California audiences may have had nothing to do with it, but last week the long-awaited defence of Mr. Acheson came from President Turman. The Secretary of State's position is thus a little easier, and he may gain further support by continuing to take his program to the people.

Canadian Winter Costs

We wish some ingenious computer would take a crack at adding up the cost Canadians pay for the privilege of enjoying (or bearing up under) our winters. In a sense it is a cold war we wage annually, and the cost must be as great as our share of the present American Cold War. Here are some of the items our statistician would have to reckon with: winter overcoat for husband and youngsters, fur coat for the mistress of the house (all Canadian women now say that a fur coat is a necessity, not a luxury); coal; colds and sniffles (doctor's drops for them); more roasts in the pot and more pot-holes in the roads; vitamin capsules; winter underwear—but perhaps that item is disappearing as the heat in offices, factories and homes increases; all the gadgets and extras for winter driving; aches, pains, and other real and symptomatic costs of snow-clearance; storm windows and doors; unplugging storm drains; pumping heat into cold churches and repairing boilers, furnaces and flaming chimneys; six different sets of women's footwear for various kinds of winter weather — men of course get along with one pair of rubbers or goloshes; soothing pills for nerves jagged by winter traffic bangs and mazes (and repairs to the cars so damaged); imported fruits and winter holidays in Florida to get away from it all; winter sports equipment. We could continue the list for columns.

Is our winter worth what we pay for it?

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Toronto man was fined $20 for striking his wife and $100 for striking his landlord. Obviously if you want preferential treatment, become a Toronto landlord.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THREE composers have tried to portray London in musical terms, and it is probably because of the vastness of the subject that they are all so different. Elgar in his "Cockaigne" Overture (Cockaigne being of course the land of the cockneys) gives us a picture of pageantry, leafy parks, bustling horse-drawn traffic, cool City churches and jolly brass bands, all on a summer's day. The swagger of the Edwardian era pervades the whole piece: Elgar handles the orchestral palette like a Rubens. John Ireland's "A London Overture" is also a jolly affair, with a cheeky cockney tang: the main theme was suggested to the composer by a bus conductor calling "Piccadilly, Piccadilly". When we come to Vaughan Williams' London Symphony we find a much more ambitious attempt to capture the essence of the great city, the pitiless surge of the traffic, the fog brooding over the river, the tawdry gaiety of a cockney Saturday night, the grandeur and misery of the metropolis. It has been said that Vaughan Williams has a countryman's view of London. That is true enough, but like many countrymen who have lived in London he knows his London better and more intimately than the native born and bred. "What do they know of London, that only London know?" Strangely enough none of the three composers whose work we have been considering are Londoners. Elgar came from Worcestershire, Vaughan Williams from Gloucester, and John Ireland from Cheshire. Of these only John Ireland has made a permanent home in London, though Vaughan Williams lives within a convenient distance at Dorking, Surrey. Haydn wrote a set of "London Symphonies", but they are in no sense descriptive music. The name was given to them solely because they were commissioned by Salomon, the London impresario, during Haydn's stay in England.

FROM Byrd to Bartok one is always coming across scale passages, and yet there are still people who think of scales as a dreary chore invented to make music more difficult. The most wonderful scales I know occur in the Introduction to the Overture of Mozart's Don Giovanni. They are positively blood-curdling. The same passage occurs at the climax of the opera, when the statue of the murdered Commendatore turns up at the Don's dinner party. By a strange coincidence Sibelius' Seventh Symphony and Stravinsky's Symphony in Three Movements both begin with the full orchestra stumping slowly up the scale. This would be less strange if these composers had a similar outlook and method, but the Finn and the American (yes, Stravinsky is an American now!) are so vastly dissimilar that this particular coincidence is worthy of note. After the first few bars all resemblance ceases, but it appears that the scale is by no means a played-out device.

* * *

WHEN a critic hears an unfamiliar piece of music at a concert he is usually far more interested in the music itself than in the quality of the performance. Conversely when he hears, let us say, Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, he is apt to dwell on the precise qualities of the rendition of the work and neglect the assessment of its beauties: the work has been spoilt for him by too frequent repetition. If only certain hackneyed "favourites" could be banned for five years. During the German occupation of Europe all Jewish compositions were banned from public performance. This had an unexpected result. When the liberation came the musical public were able to see new beauties in Mendelssohn's violin concerto as a result of its four years' rest. Keats' dictum "A thing of beauty is a joy for ever", however fine as poetry, begs the question and is inadmissible as evidence.

* * *

THE other night I saw a couple of films of famous pianists. Dame Myra Hess the universally loved doyenne of English pianists, played the first movement of Beethoven's Appassionata. Even if the sound track had been lacking it would have been easy to see that high tragedy was afoot. Dame Myra's face went through the whole gamut of expression and showed her as a superb tragic actress besides being a fine pianist. As befits a pupil of the late Tobias Matthay she sat rather a long way from the piano. The other pianist was none other than Ignacy Jan Paderewski, undoubtedly the greatest Pole of recent times. Since his debut in 1887 his career was one of continuous triumph. He was the exponent par excellence of the "grand manner" that one hardly ever encounters nowadays. His playing always had an incomparable breadth and authority. Modern critics might raise their refined eyebrows nowadays at the liberties he took with the text, but with his passing there has also passed a noble president of the Polish Republic after the first World War, remaining in office until 1920. During this political period he unselfishly ga up the piano altogether in order to devote his whole time to his duties. After his resignation as President he resumed his music and gave several recitals. He made a film shortly before the war, and it was this that I was privileged to see. What a pity that we cannot have sound films of some of the earlier virtuosi such as Chopin, Liszt, Anton Rubinstein and so on. Paderewski presides at the piano like an aged monarch, his white mane recalling the King of the Beast. His face remains impassive, mask-like. Well might it be said of him,

"Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world
Like a Colossus; and we petty men
Walk under his huge legs, and peep about
To find ourselves dishonourable graves."

* * *

I WOULD like to put in a plea for adequate lighting of the auditorium at concerts. So far as I can see no useful purpose is served by plunging the audience into "inspissated gloom". Moreover it is virtually impossible to consult one's programme. It gives latecomers a chance to sneak in while the music is going on and disturb the audience by shuffling and whispering. The earnest young student is unable to use his miniature score to follow the music. Perhaps my readers may hold different views on this subject. If so I would give them my sympathetic consideration, but I doubt very much whether they will make me change my mind.

Letters To The Editors

HUMANITARIANISM IN TORONTO

Sir: The writer has just recently returned from Toronto. While in the Queen City, he made it a point to visit the headquarters of The Toronto Humane Society, located on Wellsley Street. There has been for some time, the urge to visit this institution, and I was really amazed to learn first hand of the splendid work this noble organization is doing in the interest of those creatures who cannot speak for themselves.

On entering the office, the thought occurred to my mind that the staff would be more or less indifferent. Much to my surprise however, there was a warm and kindly manner throughout the entire office. The impression suggested the atmosphere of a home for the infirm and from the writer's observations of the people who entered during his call, one would be inclined to imagine they were waiting in the obby of a Medical Hospital. So concerned were they about the welfare of their pets.

The Secretary, Miss Anderson, is a very capable person. She and the writer discussed dogs and cats for almost an hour. I was quite anxious to learn about the activities of this concern and certainly got an earful from headquarters. For many years there had been a grudge held against the dog catcher. He had always been regarded as a sort of a sneak. In fact such remarks have bounced in the ears of the writer more often than once, and for quite some time my mind had been prejudiced against persons whose livelihood was sustained by this means.

Miss Anderson introduced Colonel E. G. Reade, manager of the Toronto Humane Society. Colonel Reade is the type of gentleman whom one could feel proud to serve under. He is so plain and unassuming, one can't help admiring him, and, like him too. He was extra busy the day I called, but not too busy to listen and chat about the Animal Kingdom. The Colonel mentioned of activities in Peterborough and expressed great pleasure at the splendid interest taken by the citzens in promoting humanitarian protection for those who are unable to speak for themselves. It was nice to hear such good reports of Peterborough.

The Society covers the entire city of Toronto. When reports are sent in regarding a stray dog, an officer and truck is immediately dispatched. The animal is taken to headquarters and registered. Should there be a collar on the dog, the owner is notified and a fee of two dollar ($2.00) is charged for pound service. In any case, the dog is kept in pound for seven days. If the animal should prove valuable, it is placed in the sales department. A moderate charge is made according to breed. If the foundling is just ordinary, it is humanely destroyed.

Persons interested in pets would enjoy a visit to The Toronto Humane Society Headquarters. They will learn first hand the functioning of this great organization. They will see for themselves, just how kind the Toronto people are to animals. One thing the writer learned of great importance, in that no employee is allowed to abuse their charges. The penalty is instant dismissal. Another interesting feature underway at the moment is a room for mourners. Many pet lovers desiring to dispose of their household pets, take them to headquarters. This room now under construction will be equipped with furniture. Sort of a parlour. Here the mourners may sit and recover themselves, so to speak.

This is an unusual type of letter Mr. Editor. I was so pleased by what I saw it struck me you might also be interested too.

Sincerely yours.
ALBERT J. J. STRANGE

COULD BUS SERVICE BE EXTENDED?

Sir: Has Peterborough not grown up enough yet to warrant a little extension of the curfew hour on city bus service? I am speaking from the viewpoint of the average wage earner with growing children, where counting pennies is a matter of vital importance to the family budget.

To many of us the problem of an evening out presents difficulties, the financial angle looming the largest. Always there is the necessity for a baby-sitter, and, with small children to be considered, it is not possible to get out at an early hour. How nice it would be to relax over an "after theatre" snack with our friends, instead of frantically dashing against the oncoming traffic in an effort to catch the last out-going bus for home! However, if our only other alternative is to call a cab, the restaurant business will continue to suffer, and the movie alone had better be worth it from the standpoint of enjoyment.

Quite often the aftermath of even this much mental uplift is shattered by the overcrowded atmosphere of a bus laden with tardy stragglers from the local beverage rooms. Please understand that I do not begrudge anyone the consolation they can derive from drink in its rightful place and quantity, as I thoroughly enjoy imbibing once in awhile myself. Unfortunately, this habit does not always produce the enjoyment and happy sociability desired, and results often manifest themselves publicly in various psychopathic disturbances and utterances which leave a bad taste in the mouth of the onlooker, to say the least.

Similarly, in the case of private entertaining in the homes, it is pretty rough on the hostess to have to plan an evening with an eye to bus services across the city, complete with transfers. This is especially true during the week-end, when school girls are allowed to "sit" past the midnight hour (at advanced rates, of course), which fact further prohibits the inclusion of taxi fares on an already strained amusement budget.

This appears to be a very petty item to bring under discussion, but it is often the last straw which breaks the camel's back, and in many cases prevents an otherwise pleasant social evening from materializing. Either the time consumed in bus travel, or the money involved in speedier transportation, does have a definite influence, and I am wondering how many others feel as I do about it.

With the advent of Daylight Saving once more, it would be an ideal opportunity to give this a trial, and add one or two "late specials" to the daily schedule for the week-end runs. I am sure it would be a decided encouragement to many who really appreciate and need more social life, and who are finding this difficult to manage even on a small scale.

Sincerely yours,
NIGHTHAWK

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?

Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh. (James 3: 11, 12.)

* * *

A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them. (Matt. 7: 18-20.)

* * *

Do not err, my beloved brethren. Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures. (James 1: 16-18.)

Gananoque Wins Series Final 4-2

BELLEVILLE, March 27.—In one of the best games witnessed on local ice this season, Gananoque captured the Eastern Ontario Intermediate "A" championship Saturday night by edging Bowmanville Imperials, 4-2, in the fifth and deciding game in their best-of-five series. Gananoque took the series, three games to two. Almost 1,400 fans from the rival centres were on hand for the bitterly fought encounter.

Playing coach Tindal, with two goals, was the top sniper for the Gans, while Doug Harper and Keyes got the others. Gilhooley and Depew were the Bowmanville marskmen.

One of the outstanding stars of the piece was Gananoque netminder Norm Parris, who turned in a sensational effort between the pipes for the winners, especially in the second period, when the Imperials had quite a margin on the play. No less brilliant was the chore turned in by Bowmanville custodian Burkhart.

Dogs Go 5,000 Miles

EDMONTON, March 27—(CP)—Leather bootees Sunday shielded the feet of some of the 13 dogs in Cecil (Mush) Moore's team as they plodded wearily into the outskirts of Edmonton after a 2,100-mile trek from Fairbanks, Alaska. Bound for Lewiston, Me., they have been on the road since Nov. 14, and still have 2,900 miles to go.

THE ABOVE ACTION shot was taken at McGill gymnasium recently as the YMHA Blues of Montreal earned the right to enter the Dominion basketball finals by beating Toronto Tri-Bells, 59-56, to win the best-2-of-3 series, two straight. The grimacing gent on the floor is starry Donald Bloomfield of the Blues who appears as if he's been trampled by Toronto's Abe Cooper.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Canadina Intercollegiate Athletic Union Sunday at Toronto shelved proposals to increase the size of college football teams.

Each squad's numerical strength now is 24. Suggestions that the player limit be boosted to 27 or 30 were referred to collegiate athletic boards for consideration at the next annual meeting of the union.

A change in intercollegiate football playoff regulations was adopted. Until now, if two teams tied for second place, there has been a playoff for second position and the right to meet the leader for the title — providing one of them has beaten the top team during the season.

From now on, a second-place team which has beaten the winner during the regular season will automatically advance to the sudden-death final game. If, however, both second-place teams have beaten the winner — they will have a sudden-death game of their own for second position, as heretofore.

McMaster University, Hamilton, applied for entry to senior basketball. The union decided McMaster should play exhibition games with Queen's, McGill and Toronto universities during the 1950-51 season.

George Cumming, 70, dean of Canadian golf professionals, died at his home Sunday.

Cumming, professional at the Toronto Golf Club since he came to Canada from Scotland in 1900, had been in ill health for the last few years. Born at Bridge of Weir, Scotland, he started his golf career when he was only 10 years old, as a caddy.

After serving with a club-making firm in Glasgow he became a professional at the Dumfries and Galloway Club and from there came to the Toronto Club. Known as one of the game's best teachers, he won almost every title for which a Canadian was eligible as well as seeing many of the graduates of his pro shop rise to the top ranks of the Dominion's golfers.

At Greensboro, N.C., Sammy Snead put the chill on his challengers with a morning 66, then came back with a closing 67 to win the $10,000 Greensboro Open golf tournament Sunday by 10 strokes with a record 269 total.

Ch. Robin of the Rouge, a bull mastiff owned by J. H. Danniell-Jenkins of Pickering, won the best-in-class award at the opening of the International Kennel Club's all-bred dog show at Chicago Saturday. Tops among the Newfoundland dogs was Topsail's Captain Cook, owned by Mrs. Leroy G. Page, Hamilton, Ont.

Jack Crawford, Boston Bruins defenceman who has been named to coach Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, next season, Saturday was presented a watch in appreciation of "12 years of loyal service."

Crawford, a native of Dublin, Ont., who lives now at Wellesley, Mass., said he hopes to play in a few games as well as coach at Hershey.

At Washington, Yvonne Sherman, a lovely, lithe 19-year-old from New York City, had a comparatively easy time Saturday night defending her United States figure-skating title.

Ahead by only four points when the free skating opened, Yvonne showed the grace and skill needed when the chips were down.

Shy King Returns To Bangkok In Dazzling Oriental Pageantry

By MILTON MARMOR

BANKOK, March 27 (AP)—A shy, bespectacled boy came home Friday amid dazzling Oriental pageanty for three of the greatest ceremonies of his life:

Cremation of his slain brother, marriage to a lovely princess, and formal coronation as king of the ancient monarchy of Siam, now called Thailand.

The returning traveller was King Phumiphon Aduldet, 22, who has spent nearly all of the last four years in school in Switzerland.

He is scheduled to be crowned May 5 as King Rama IX, the traditional but little-used title of all kings of the Chakri dynasty, which dates back to 1782.

His brother, King Ananda Mahidol, was mysteriously shot to death in the royal palace June 9, 1946. The body, in a huge gold urn, awaits cremation, at which the new king must officiate, March 29. On April 28 Phumiphon is to wed Princess Spirikit Kitiyakara, 18, whom he met in Europe. She returned with him to their native land today.

Wearing Day

The homecoming, often postponed for various unexplained reasons of state, was a wearing day for the king.

It began shortly after dawn several miles downriver from Bangkok. There the Royal Navy was drawn up in review. The royal party transferred from the liner Selandia to the navy's largest ship, the 2,265-ton coastal cruiser Sri Ayuthia.

The trim, rather diffident, King was welcomed aboard by Prince Regent Rangsit.

Assuming the rank of admiral of the fleet, the king was presented with a large golden sword, which he promptly handed to a page-boy while he donned naval uniform.

At the Royal landing stage, high officials awaited beneath gay pavillions. The King, peering through dark sunglasses, stepped ashore onto a luxurious carpet and was immediately shaded by a huge silver parasol.

After greeting the British and American ambassadors, Sir Geoffrey Harington and Edwin F Stanton, and Premier Pipul Songgram, Phumiphon ascended awaiting throne and spoke briefly to his subjects through a golden microphone.

Crowds Jam Streets

An estimated 500,000 of the country's 18,000,000 population jammed the tree-lined streets amid Bankok's gold-domed temples. Thousands waved red, white and blue national flags.

With two household attendants to hold his sword, the king entered the royal ilmousine which first was sprayed with perfume and drove to the palace.

The princess, bareheaded and clad in a "new look" style grey dress, followed with the prince regent and Queen Rhambai, widow of King Prayadipok, who was Phumiphon's uncle and last absolute monarch of Thailand.

The king visited the throne room briefly, paid his respects at the temple containing the remains of his mother, and then drove through the flag-decked streets to the royal residence several miles away.

During the whole occasion three Thainer planes of the country's small air force dropped parachutes laden with flowers.

A troop of royal cavalry, brilliantly uniformed and wearing French-style helmets and long sabres, led the procession.

Well, here we go on the last week of our 1949-50 curling season and it seems to us it was only a short time ago since we wrote: Well, here we go on the first week of our 1949-50 curling season.

While we have not the official program for this week we know it is pretty well crowded.

Today (all day) Kiwanis bonspiel. Tuesday 7:30 p.m., final game in the Vice-Skips' bonspiel and also final game in Leads and Seconds bonspiel, besides a few games in the group play-offs. What follows for the remainder of the week we'll have that for tomorrow's column.

Two rounds in the Sturgeon Trophy were played Saturday evening and as far as we know both events have reached the eights.

We understand that F. Sheedy is passing around the cigars, etc. It seems the other night, in a scheduled game he was pinch hitting for T. Ryan and he slipped a possible eight end over on his opponent. Just off hand we cannot recall when an eight end was recorded before. They don't come very often, and we say to Mr. Sheedy nice going and when the party is on, our phone No. is 9364.

Agrees With Drivers Won't Close Taxi Co.

TORONTO, March 27 —(CP)— R. K. Wallace isn't going to close down his taxi company, after all.

He said last week that, due to rising costs and wage demands of the Taxi Drivers' Union (AFL), he believed it would be necessary for the DeLuxe Taxi Company, of which he is president, to go out of operation by Sunday.

The union sought a five-day work week of 45 hours, instead of the present six-day, 48-hour week.

However, a last-minute arrangement between company and union averted the shutdown. Mr. Wallace did not reveal details of the agreement but said that it provided for more efficient operation and did not entail any wage increase.

Fewer Babies Die

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) —The 1948 infant mortality rate in the United States was the lowest on record, the Public Health Service announced. The 1948 rate was 32 deaths for each 1,000 live births, compared with 32.2 in 1947 and 47 in 1940. The indicated rate for 1949 is 31.

"How harmful are cigarettes?"
The January Reader's Digest article on this subject stirred more discussion than any recent magazine feature.
Many people said that they wanted to stop smoking or at least cut down—but doubted their courage, were sure they'd be puffing as much as ever within a few weeks.
For those who really want to stop, April Reader's Digest (now on sale) brings you two lively personal-experience narratives of smokers who did quit tobacco—and liked it!

Legion Now One Up In Series With Win Over Markham

Legion hockey squad rose to the heights Saturday night, in Oshawa to defeat Markham 3-2 in the fastest and best game of their series to date. Thus they take a 2-1 lead in the best of seven OHA senior "B" play-off set.

Some 4,000 fans including hundreds from Peterborough cheered to the echo as Sixty Coombs took Doug Mortimer's sharp forward pass at 18.28 in the third to whip a blistering drive from short right wing past Stunden for the pay-off counter after 58 minutes of action hockey seldom seen by many, in years.

It was a magnificent display throughout with two well-matched teams giving all they had both ways from the opening whistle, a clean game featuring great defence work and well-fimed passing plays. There were 10 penalties in all, mostly for minor offences. Markham held an edge in the first frame scoring twice but Legion thrilled the fans with a strong offensive in the second and an equally great defensive featured by the brilliant work of Ross Nicholls in goal, great checking by Burns, Godfrey, Doug Mortimer and Montgomery and superb backchecking by the entire forward brigade.

ONE OF STARS—Al Burns was one of half a dozen stars for Legion in Oshawa on Saturday when 4,000 fans saw the inspired Ellis outfit edge Markham 3-2 to go up in their nifty series. They clash here again tonight.

Parnell Scores

They were rewarded at 8.12 as Montgomery sped down left wing with lightning speed and flipped neatly in reverse back to Parnell, 10 feet inside the blue line. The latter drilled hard at Stunden and then potted his own rebound a second later from 15 feet out to raise the roof and put Legion on the trail.

Singleton opened the scoring at the 12 minute mark in the first, combining nicely with Brennan and Bell to beat Nicholls close in. Forgie put his team two up four minutes later as he sunk Rumney's short rebound from the crease to give Nick no chance. Legion roared back in the second stanza with Parnell, Crowley, Vitarelli, Rochetta, Montgomery, Hill nd Godfrey leading the attacks and all hands digging hard. They found foemen worthy of their steel, despite their edge, as Singleton, Brennan, the Scott brothers, Forgie Watson and all fought tooth and nail to hold their vital margin.

Burns Ties It

Steadily pressing, the men of Ellis in true style opened the third all aflame to carry on a withering attack that could not be effectively subdued by their rivals. Nicholls was supreme stopping all thrusts. For 43 minutes and 40 second he outguessed enemy marksmen, at times from close, point blank range. Al Burns, who is now playing his finest hockey and who turned in a smashing game all through, sank the tying goal at 16:17 on a long hard drive from the left just inside the blue line, following a ganging attack. The drive whistled through the milling players, caromed off G. Scott's back and zinged past Stunden's shoulder, high into the mesh as the big crowd went wild.

With the score tied both teams fought furiously for the winners. Hill, Fryia and Coombs pressed and nearly scored while the Rochetta, Crowley, Vitarelli line twice came within an ace of clicking. Singleton, Bell and Brennan gave all to outguess Nicholls but to no avail . . . Tempers flared as Percy got the gate for dumping Godfrey plus a misconduct for talking, Doug Mortimer and G. Scott for roughing and Watson for interference. But no damage was done.

Finally, Fryia, Hill, Coombs and Mortimer combined on the picture play of the night to sail down where Mortimer took back his own relay from Fryia passed smoothly inside the line to Coombs in the clear on right wing and the latter made no mistake to settle an epic struggle.

Peterborough Goal, Nicholls; defence, Burns, Godfrey; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley, Vitarelli; alternates, F. Mortimer, D. Mortimer, Hill, Fryia, Coombs, Greenlaw, Parnell, Montgomery.

Markham: Goal, Stunden; defence, F. Scott, G. Scott; centre, Singleton; wings, Brennan, Bell; alternates, Watson, Jewett, Sluce, Rumney, B. Forgie Baker, Perry, Clement.

Referees—Al Woods and Wally Wilson, Toronto.

The summary:

First Period

Markham—Singleton (Bell, Brennan) 12.00
Markham—Forgie (Rumney) 16:20
Penalties—Perry, Greenlaw.

Second Period

Peterborough—Parnall (Montgomery) 8:12
Penalties—Sluce, Fryia 2, G. Scott.

Third Period

Peterborough—Burns 16.17
Peterborough—Coombs (D. Mortimer, Fryia) 18:28
Penalties—G. Scott, Perry (misc.), Watson, D. Mortimer.

Cobourg Wins Round 81-73

BRAMPTON, March 27 — Although defeated, 40-37, in the second game of the OABA Intermediate "C" semi-finals here Saturday night, Cobourg Legionaires, through an 11-point lead gained in the first game, eliminated Brampton. The Legionaires advanced to the final round with the winner of the Amherstburg-Centralia series. Total on the two-game, points-to-count round gave the Cobourgers an 81-73 verdict.

The Bramptonians held a slim edge all through the game, and led by Archie Browning, who fired 23 points, threatened at several spots to smash the first game lead. Cobourg were strong defensively.

For Cobourg, Roy Hircock, who topped in the first clash, was again the big gun in the point-getting department, with 14 to his credit. Bill Jamieson was next with nine, Jack Hamilton notching five. Browning was the game's individual high scorer, with his 23. Jack Galway with five and Jim Gifford with four points were next in line.

Marines Rub Out Hamilton To Go Into Ontario Finals

Peterborough Outboard Marines are Southern Ontario Intermediate "A" basketball champions. Saturday night in Hamilton the Marines were edged 51-48 by the Hamilton Strand Cycles but won the southern honors on the two-game series 95-86. They won the first game in Peterborough 47-35.

Doug MacPherson's cagers will now move north for the all-Ontario final series with the strong Sault Ste. Marie quintet, northern champions. The games will be on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Games will count in this series rather than points. If they become Ontario champions, the Marines will play the Eastern Canada finals in Peterborough.

A delayed offensive worked to perfection for the Marines in the fourth quarter. From the start they passed the ball around in the Cycles' territory, keeping the ball clear of all Hamilton hands. Finally the Outboards would make a scoring attempt which was often successful. The quarter started with a 40-38 score for the Cycles. Using the delayed offensive the Peterborough cagers took the lead midway through the quarter 46-44. Strands started throwing long shots making several of them good but not enough to offset their deficit of the previous game.

Slight Edge

Strands had a slight lead in the playing and the scoring of the first quarter, 18-12. Long shots by the Strands gave them their lead as they found difficulty penetrating the Marines zone defence. Casey was hot on rebounds from Marines attempts starting fast rushes up the large McMaster University floor. Ab Stewart from the outside and Eddie Nicholls in close were the top men of the quarter for the Marines.

Long field scores by Burns and fast breaks by Plunkett pushed the Marines up early in the second. Hamilton were off the rebounds at both ends of the court. During the rest of the quarter the locals checked close not allowing the Cycles to break loose. Thanks to baskets by Joe Stewart and Gordie Burns the Marines enjoye the better portion of the 26-24 half-time score.

The small two-point didn't last long as the Marines slipped under steady pressure by the Cycles. Working in close the Hamilton cagers took the lead once again. A series of fouls followed with the Strand crew keeping ahead 33-29. Play became quite rough and fast during the close-score period. Doug Plunkett went out with five fouls. With a hook shot basket and a foul shot by Ab Stewart the Marines were down two points at the three-quarter mark, 40-38.

Gordie Burns on the attack and on the defensive was a standout for the Marines. He had five field goals and four foul shots for 14 points to lead the Marines in scoring. He was most effective on rebounds and was the guiding light during the Marines stalling in the last quarter.

Ab Stewart and Doug Plunkett went both ways well throughout. Plunkett picked up 10 points on five field shots while Ab Stewart had 10 points on four field shots and two foul shots. Chum Gillespie was steady on the rearguard.

Line-ups:

Peterborough Outboard Marines—Nicholls 9, Burns 14, Gillespie 1, Griffin, Dadson, J. Stewart 4, Dibben, Smith, A. Stewart 10, Kidd, Plunkett 10.

Hamilton Strand Cycles—Peall 2, Fisher, Hunter, Casey 4, Matchen 7, Weston 4, Yednoroz 3, Carrigan 7, Bard 2, MacKay 3, Brand 19.

Weekend Stars

By The Canadian Press

Chicago's Vic Stasiuk whose third-period goal gave the Bruins a 5-4 victory over Detroit Red Wings Sunday.

Ed Harrison, Boston, who netted the tieing marker Sunday as the Bruins fought to a 3-3 deadlock with Montreal Canadiens.

Montreal's Floyd Curry whose two goals sparked the Canadiens to a 4-0 win over Chicago Black Hawks Saturday.

Harry Watson, who bagged two counters Saturday when Toronto Maple Leafs whitewashed Boston Bruins 8-0.

Eight years ago tonight Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, successfully defended his title for the 21st time by knocking out Abe Simon, "Long Island giant," in a benefit fight at New York before a crowd of 17,000. Louis weighed 207 and his opponent 255.

Marg Baker Triple Winner In Badminton Club Finals

The club finals of the Peterborough Badminton club were held Saturday evening at the Market before a fair crowd. The calibre of play this year was exceptionally good. The men's singles and ladies' doubles were won in two straight games. The other matches were three game affairs and were not settled until the final point was gained. Marg Baker was a triple winner with Ralph Charlton a double winner.

After the matches the nomination and election of officers for next year was held.

Mrs. Baker won ladies' singles from Mrs. Charlton in three hard-fought games, two of them overtime 11-6, 10-12, 12-9. M. Charlton play well, but lacked the experience of the club champ.

In the men's singles, R. Charlton took V. Taylor 15-3, 15-8. Charlton was defending his singles title.

Ladies doubles were taken by Marg Baker and Maurice Charlton from Aida Gonnett and Joy Elmsley 15-4, 15-8.

The men's doubles match was a good tussle with Ralph Charlton and Ed. Johnston edging out Dave McNaught and R. McDonald 15-12, 10-15, 15-9.

In the hardest fought match of the night Marg and Bob Baker, last year's champs won over Maurice and Ralph Charlton 15-8, 12-15, 17-14. Charltons had a big lead in the last game but could not hold it.

Consolation winners were Shirley Bagnall over C. McHugh in ladies' singles. J. Fletcher over W. Graham in men's singles. W. Graham and J. Downie over A. Conlin and R. White in men's doubles. K. Messervey and R. Kingan beat C. McHugh and H. Geale in ladies' doubles.

At the annual meeting after the matches reports were made by H. Collingwood, treas., V. O'Donoghue, secretary, Ralph Charlton, capt. President R. Baker presided. The executive for next year will be E. Johnston, R. Baker, R. Charlton, V. Taylor, Roy Johnston, Maurice Charlton and Verna Rose, the latter four being new officers.

Umpires and linesmen for the final matches were: Roy Johnston, V. Taylor, Ron Beals, B. Baker, R. Charlton, R. McDonald, D. McNaught, W. Elmsley, V. O'Donoghue, G. Graham, A. Conlin, W. Nelson, D. Bath, R. Stuart, Jack Dormer, R. Davis, S. Nixon, J. Fletcher, R. Martin.

Guelph Takes Junior OHA Crown In Overtime Win

By The Canadian Press

It was a long time coming to Guelph but Saturday night's 3-2 overtime win over Windsor Spitfires gave the sports-loving city its first Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship in 35 years of competition.

The Biltmores did it the hard way. Hardly anyone gave the fighting band of unknown names an even chance to cop the honors but they did it in six games—one less than the maximum—over a highly-favored and powerful Windsor team that was packed three lines deep with junior stars.

For Coach Alpie Pike of Guelph it was a personal triumph. The former forward with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League climaxed his first year as a junior coach with the win. On the other side of the fence, it meant that Jim Skinner had to swallow the bitter pill of defeat for the third consecutive season. In the 1948 and 1949 finals, his Spitfires were favored to take all the marbles right down to the Memorial Cup only to drop out in favor of underrated competition.

Marlies Win

In the first game of the all-Ontario best-of-three senior finals, the result was as expected. Toronto Marlboros swamped a leg-weary band of Sault Ste. Marie Grayhounds, 10-4. The next game is slated for Sault Ste. Marie tonight, the fourth game in six days for the Greyhounds.

Gerry Theberge's goal at 4:08 of the first overtime period was the marker that gave Guelph their title.

Classy Ed Stankiewicz had given the Spitfires a 1-0 lead in the first frame but Frank Bathgate deadlocked it with the only counter of the second.

Three minutes separated the third frame's two goals. The Spitfires fought like wildcats and it payed off at 3:57 when Stankiewicz smacked home his second goal but just before the eight-minute mark Don Bellringer combined with Ron Plumb to tie the count for the second time.

Just a little over four minutes had elapsed in the first overtime stanza when Frank Bathgate shook Theberge loose and the little French Canadian rattled in the winning goal. Bedlam broke loose in the packed Guelph Memorial Gardens.

Marlboros skated the visiting Greyhounds dizzy in running up a 5-1 first-frame lead and increasing it to 9-2 by the start of the third period.

Bobby Hassard returned to form and in his best game in the last several weeks racked up three goals and an assist. Scotty Mair, second highest OHA Senior A scorer in the regular season, connected for a pair while Flash Hollett, Al Buchanan, Frank Sullivan, Danny Lewicki and Gord Hannigan all got singles.

Shep Mayer starred for the losers and clicked for one goal. Others were notched by Terry Biocchi, Don Grosso and Clare McMinn.

Guelph Meets North

Guelph are idle now until the completion of the Inkerman Rockets-Porcupine Combines series. They meet the winner in the all-Ontario Junior A final.

At Ottawa, the NOHA Junior A champion Porcupine Combines went two up in their best-of-five final on a 3-2 win over Inkerman Rockets.

Sherbrooke Wins

QUEBEC, March 27 — (CP) — Sparked by Reggie Sinclair with four goals, Sherbrooke Saints Sunday whitewashed Quebec Aces 6-0 before a crowd of 12,000 to tie their best-of-seven final series for the Quebec Senior Hockey League championship at 2-2. The victory came after Quebec defeated the Saints 4-0 Saturday night at Sherbrooke.

REPLACES ATKINS—Vern Baxter, who will replace Fred Atkins in the main bout of this Thursday's mat card at the Brock, opposing Whipper Billy Watson. Atkins' injury was far more serious than was realized and the doctor has sidelined the Aussie champ for at least two weeks. Baxter will be a worthy opponent for the Whip being big, strong and fast. He knows all the answers and likes his wrestling rugged. The semi-final match looks like a classic bringing together two clean, scientific grapplers, Steve Stanlee and Johnny Barend. For the opening spot Jack Wentworth will take on the popular Bill Stack.

Hull Wins 3-2 Prolongs Series

OTTAWA, March 27—(CP)—Hull Volants staved off elimination here Saturday night by defeating Cornwall Calumets 3-2 in the fourth game of their best-of-seven final series for the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League championship.

Play was in direct contrast to the first three games of the series which Cornwall won 8-1, 14-2 and 10-3. The fifth game will be played here Tuesday night.

The winner will advance into the first round of the Allan Cup playoffs against either Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds or Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Hull Sinks First

Bob Foster gave Hull a 1-0 first period lead at the 17.16 mark on a smooth passing play with Phil Desjardin. Cornwall's Rheal Savard wiped this out with the lone goal in the middle stanza when he drew goalie Gaetan Desforges out to score on assists from Jim Denneny and Gunner Telkkinen.

Marcel Legris put the Volants into the lead for the second time midway in the final period on a what proved to be the winning lone effort and Bob Giguer scored marker at the 13.04 mark. Fred Gardiner scored for Cornwall with only four seconds left to play.

Cornwall drew three of the five minor penalties.

Indianapolis Wins To Lead 2-1 In Series

Indianapolis Capitals swept into the lead in the semi-finals of the American Hockey League play-offs Sunday night by whipping Providence Reds 6-1 in the opener of a best-of-three series.

Meanwhile in the other semi-final bracket, Buffalo Bisons beat Cleveland Barons 3-2 after losing 5-4 in overtime Saturday night. That left the best-of-seven series A with Cleveland leading 2-1 in games.

Providence downed Springfield and Indianapolis whipped St. Louis, both in straight games, for the right to meet in the semi-finals. Cleveland and Buffalo, top teams in the league's western and eastern division over the season, were shot right into the semis with a longer series.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit's power-packed three-man line finished at the top of the National Hockey League's individual scoring list, with sharp-shooting Ted Lindsay setting a new NHL record.

Lindsay topped by one a record of 54 assists set by Montreal's Elmer Lach in the 1944-45 season. With his 55 assists and 23 goals, the Detroit left-winger lead over his closest opponent, Sid Abel, the Red Wings' team captain. Abel boasts 34 goals and 35 assists for 69 points, one more than teammate Gordie Howe.

Detroit Faces Toronto As Finals Start Tuesday

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

It took the last scheduled games to do it, but the Stanley Cup line-up now is official—it's Detroit Red Wings against Toronto Maple Leafs, and Montreal Canadiens against New York Rangers.

The Stanley Cup semi-finals, each a best-of-seven series, open with Toronto at Detroit Tuesday night and Montreal at New York Wednesday.

Until the last night of the long, 70-game schedule Toronto had a mathematical possibility of overtaking Montreal in second place, and thereby drawing Rangers instead of the champion Wings in the cup preliminaries. On Saturday night Toronto whitewashed Boston Bruins 8-0 while Montreal blanked Chicago Black Hawks 4-0.

But on Sunday the Canadiens coasted to a 3-3 tie with Boston, assuring themselves of second place, and Toronto lost 5-3 at New York. The Wings, who clinched the league title two weeks ago, took it easy and were beaten 5-4 by Chicago Sunday.

Easy Win

In Saturday's victory over Chicago, Canadiens had an easy task. Floyd Curry scored twice, and Leo Gravelle and Maurice Richard got the others. The Montreal Forum crowd of 14,026 saw the unusual instance of goalie Bill Durnan getting an assist on Richard's goal; the big netminder fired the puck way up the ice to start a scoring play. Canadiens have appointed Frank (King) Clancy, former NHL referee now coaching Cincinnati in the AHL, as an aid to coach Dick Irvin for the cup grind.

Leafs also had a picnic Saturday night, collecting 20 scoring points as they gave rookie goalie Al Rollins, up from Pittsburgh, his first shut-out in the NHL. Regular goalie Turk Broda was given a one-night rest. Harry Watson scored two goals, the others going to Gus Mortson, Max Bentley, Garth Boesch, Sid Smith, Bill Barilko and Ted Kennedy.

Screen Shot Ties

Sunday at Boston the Bruins took a 2-0 lead on goals by Johnny Peirson and Topper Toppazzini, but the crowd of 9,641 saw the Habitants wake up and tie the score quickly with goals by Ken Reardon and rookie Bert Hirschfeld. Right after the face-off starting the last period Maurice Richard banged home his 43rd goal of the season and the Montreal lead lasted until 16:45 when Ed Harrison scored on a 45-foot screened shot.

At New York Sunday Rangers came up with two quick goals in the last frame for the victory over Leafs. Nick Mickoski, rookie Jack McLeod, Alex Kaleta, Dunc Fished and Ed Slowinski scored for the Rangers.

Howie Meeker scored two of the Toronto counters, Sid Smith getting the other. A general melee flared in the middle period and Klukay and Lancier drew major penalties among the nine awarded in the period.

At Detroit Sunday Roy Conacher scored two for the Hawks, with Bep Guidolin, Gaye Stewart and Vic Stasiuk, rookie wingman, getting the others. Jerry Couture scored two for Detroit, Max McNab and Red Kelly getting singles.

Evidence Found St. Peter Buried Under Vatican

VATICAN CITY, March 27 (AP) —Vatican sources Sunday said recent findings in excavations beneath St. Peter's Basilica confirm "the historical reality of the belief that St. Peter was buried there."

They said a loculus bearing early Christian inscriptions was discovered during the excavations under the altar of the confession. One of these inscriptions read: "Ave Petre" (Hail Peter). A loculus is defined as "a recess or cell, as the cell of an ancient tomb or a burial niche in a catacomb."

The excavations are to be opened to the public late next month or early in may, at which time Pope Pius is expected to make a broadcast, the Vatican informants said.

Operation Successful London Girl Can See

NEW YORK, March 27 (CP)—Doreen Stoutenberg's operation was a success—she can see again.

Doctors Friday removed the bandages from the eyes of the 19-year-old London, Ont., girl. She was already up when her mother arrived at the hospital.

"I can see, Mom!" said Doreen happily when she met her mother.

Mrs. Stoutenberg then phoned the good news to her husband in London. He had spent the last nine days anxiously awaiting the outcome while his wife went to New York with their daughter.

Fairmount News

A successful chicken pie supper was served to about 75 people Wednesday n Howden Memorial Hall. A program was given, consisting of a two-part chorus by pupils of SS No. 3, entitled "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" and "The World is Full of Beauty," and a trio by Betty McIndoo, Dorothy Hooton and Anne Willman. There was also a musical recitation b Joy Seymour. The Rev. E. S. Linstead showed color films of various phases of Canadian life and for the children he had two slides of Mother Goose and Pups' Christmas.

Mrs. R. K. Earle spent a few days in Lindsay, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Sanderson.

Mrs. Richard Earle is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. Gordon McAdams of Otonabee.

Bethany News

Mrs. Reg. Edmunds and son Bobby are visiting in Millbrook with Mr. and Mrs. H. McDowell.

Favorable progress is reported from Miss Hannah Staples, who is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Thomas and Offa Staples, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ryley and son Bobby attended the Sportsman Show in Toronto Wednesday.

The Women's Institute and the Orange Lodge held a joint progressive euchre party in the Orange Hall Thursday evening. High score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Walter Rowan and Harold White, consolation prizes to Errley Malcomson and Mrs. Hector Morton.

Ex-Premier Dies

BUCHAREST, Romania, March 27—(AP)—Dr. Alexander Vaida-Voevod, several times premier of Romania, died Sunday, it was announced Friday. He last held the premiership for a few months in 1933. Vaida-Voevod was a leader of the pro-German faction in Romanian politics early during the Second World War.

Car Overturns

Lloyd Lambshead of Lakefield was uninjured and his car was undamaged after the car turned over on an Asphodel Township road near Birdsall, shortly after midnight Friday. He struck a soft shoulder of the road causing the vehicle to topple.

Pedula Failed To Finish Grand National

Ears glued to the radio Saturday Ellis Armstrong and family, 669 Water St., cheered on their 66-1 shot, Pedula, in the Grand National Steeplechase in England.

Pedula had her ears closed to all and failed to finish the race. This mean the Armstrong family will be $558 richer in the near future. Mr. Armstrong was assured of at least $180 because his horse was one drawn to run in the famed sweepstakes. His horse an also-ran pays off $558.

Mr. Armstrong a mechanic in the Outboard, Marine and Manufacturing Company, was one of eight Ontario people who learned on March 16 that their horse had been drawn to run. Word of the horse selection reached him through a friend. Ever since then the family had their fingers crossed.

Thirteen lucky winners collected $77,500 as Freebooter, the favorite, won the 104th running of the classic. Second place horse, Wot No Sun, paid off to 13 others at $31,000 each, while holders of third place tickets on Acthon Major will pocket $15,500. There was a field of 49 starters.

Mrs. Armstrong said today that no word has been received of any prize money coming to the family.

Woman 93 Dies In Peterborough

At the age of 93, Mrs. Rosella Ann Frederick died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Curvin, 747 Water St., after an illness of eight years. Before her marriage, Mrs. Frederick was Rosella Clancey and was born and educated in Rawdon Twp.

Known affectionately in Campbellford for many years as Widow Frederick of Grand Rd., she was the widow of Irvin Frederick. She had lived in Peterborough 35 years.

Mrs. Frederick was a member of the United Church and life member of the W.M.S.

Her daughters are Mrs. W. Vermilyea (Stella) of Regina; Mrs. Leah Burwell (Moose Jaw), Mrs. T. E. Curvin (Orpah) Peterborough. A son, the Rev. Aylmer B. Frederick died in 1935.

Resting at the Kaye Funeral Home until noon Tuesday, Mrs. Frederick will be taken to Wellman's United Church, Rawdon Twp. for the funeral at 2.30 p.m. conducted by the Revs. C. G. Boyd and R. Honey. Burial will be in Wellman's cemetery.

PARTY FOR FIREMEN

Retiring after 22 years with Lindsay's volunteer fire brigade, James Coombs was honored by fellow workmen, the Mayor and the Town Council at a party held Friday night. Mr. Coombs was presented with an easy chair and a signet ring bearing the crest of the fire department.

Skiing Finished At Peterborough

A small group of early Sunday morning skiers took advantage of the last moments of skiing in the Peterborough area, Sunday. Led by president Vic Griffiths the dozen Peterborough ski club members zipped down the corn-snow slopes from 8 until 11 a.m. The crusty snow then began to soften.

Unless there is an unusually heavy fall of snow in the next week, ski enthusiasts in this area can pack away the hickory slats. Skiing at Bethany and Kempt's is now finished for the year with the hills snow-spotted. The road leading into the Bethany area is beginning to break up with the mild weather.

Otto Laderach, a veteran and one of the top skiers in the club, accompanied by Ian Blaiklock, made the trip to Bethany Sunday cross-country on skiis. They arrived at 12 when the other skiers were ready to leave.

Peterborough's downhill and slalom team on their way to Orangeville for the provincial championships had car trouble Saturday just outside of Peterborough. The trip was cancelled. Those who were to be entered were Ted McCaig, Cyril Monkman, Dave Johnson, Pete Bowen and Dave Ward.

LOST CONTROL

When he lost control of his car while travelling north on the Buckhorn road Sunday, Dudley Shilling of Curve Lake wound up in the ditch. He skidded on the road surface, about a quarter of a mile north of Selwyn. Damage was estimated at $150. Provincial Constable Albert Poulter investigated.

When Did Brakes Fail? Magistrate Delays Ruling

Were the brakes on a car which knocked down James Halsey, 60, as he was crossing Charlotte St. near Aylmer on February 2, inadequate at the time of the accident, or did they become ineffective immediately afterwards? That is the question which arose today in city police court when Norman Booth, 22, of 50 Jackson Ave., faced a charge of driving with inadequate brakes. Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC., reserved his judgement until Tuesday.

Constable Dennis Traynor testified that the brakes did not stop the car when he tested them at the police station immediately after the accident.

Leonard Bird, the mechanic who examined the car at the police station a few days later, said there was a pin hole in the brake line causing fluid to leak and thus make the brakes inadequate.

Denies Evidence

W. B. Gordon, appearing for Booth, claimed the court did not have evidence that the brakes were not working after the accident.

Booth said he had had a new master cylinder installed and the brakes set up in October. He said he stopped "pretty nearly dead" when he applied the brakes on seeing Halsey in his path. The next time he applied them, however, they did not work so well, he said.

The mechanic said that a sudden braking such as was effected by Booth could result in the pressure of fluid punching a hole in the line.

V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuting for the Crown, claimed that Howard had admitted the brakes had been inadequate that day. Whether it was before or after the accident, made no difference.

A second charge of careless driving, in connection with the same incident, was adjourned until Tuesday.

CALL TO DENMARK

A telephone line hook-up from Peterborough to Copenhagen, Denmark, on Sunday enabled the three Dinesen boys of this city (Walter, Eric and Jens Kaj) to talk with their aunt, Miss Augusta Dinesen, whom they have not seen in 25 years. The call was made to inform her of the death of their mother, Mrs. Gertrude Dinesen, which took place at Eric's home on Carlisle Ave., and the conversation was carried on for the most part in Danish. Miss Dinesen is the owner-director of the country's largest convalescent home Ville Monte at Rungsstekyst 15 miles from Copenhagen.

Caused A Row Man Fined $15

Norman Howard, 144 London St., was fined $15 and ordered to pay $2.50 costs with an alternative of 15 days in jail, when Magistrate W. R. Philp KC found him guilty in police court today of causing a disturbance Feb. 15 at Brock St. Summer Gardens.

Howard denied causing a disturbance and said he had only been trying to break up a fight between two other people.

Constable Dennis Traynor told how a fight was going on between two men and how he separated them and returned to learn that Howard had given trouble. James Young, a special constable at the Summer Gardens, said that Howard had put his arms around his waist to stop him from approaching the two fighting men. Then he had pushed down the stairs to get away but was caught just outside the Summer Gardens.

Constable Traynor said the youth had struggled all the way to the police station.

Ted Bosley, a defense witness said he did not see Howard interfering with the police. He substantiated Howard's claim that he had only been trying to break up the fight.

Girls Hunt By Car

TORONTO, March 27 —(CP)— Two little girls on their way home from Sunday school in suburban Mimico Sunday were injured by an automobile.

Marion Clarke, 5, suffered a fractured leg, severe head cuts and arm injuries, and Patricia Westner, 3, suffered a badly cut hand when they were struck by a car driven by 17-year-old Louis Northem, police said.

Many Attend Funeral Of Fred L. Roy

Frederick Lewis Roy had a place in the community which will not be filled by any other, Archdeacon W. P. Robertson told the people who filled St. John's Anglican Church to attend the funeral service, Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Roy, a Master Photographer, an award of the Photographers' Association of America, died Wednesday morning in St. Joseph's Hospital after about a week's illness. He had not been working full time at his studio since Christmas.

Archdeacon Robertson said that the many people representing all kinds of activities in the city and from other cities illustrated Mr. Roy's widespread interests. He was "an all-round man," the Archdeacon added.

He said Mr. Roy's life had been intimately associated with St. John's Church where he had started attending as a very small boy. In his adult life, Mr. Roy continued his active association with the church serving as a Church Warden. He was also an active Boy Scout leader.

Rotarians Represented

A large number of members of the Rotary Club led by club president Harley Keefer attended the service as well as a number of prominent business and professional men of the city.

Many Masons were also on hand and after the service at the graveside in Little Lake Cemetery, a special Masonic service was held under the direction of Rt. Wor. Bros. R. F. Downey and Charles Ray and Very Wor. Bro. A. S. Couper.

Mayor Max J. Swanston with a number of the city's aldermen, including Douglas Miller, Hurrel Dodds, Pat Anglesey and James Gillespie were present.

There were also representatives of film companies from Toronto and John Kennedy, Toronto, represented the Ontario Society of Photographers along with Gordon Johnston, Toronto.

Out-of-town relatives who arrived for the funeral included the Maitland Boys of Hamilton and two nieces, Miss Margaret Denne, Toronto, and Mrs. William Simms, of Kitchener.

Honorary pallbearers were, James Hamilton, T. A. Mackay, G. H. Thompson, V. J. McElderry KC, F. D. Kerr KC. John A. Dewart, R. F. Downey, Robert Abbott, J. W. McDermid, Ross Hoo Frederick Hills, Robert Hall, Frank Bradburn, James Juby, Chris Graham, Harley Keefer and Dr. W. J. Gordon.

Active pallbearers were J. K. Hughes, H. C. Sootheran, Robert Brown, Alec Darling and Roy Pitchford.

Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Other friends from out of town who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Roy, Rob and Anthony, Hamilton; Mrs. G. B. Hutchings and Miss Barry Hutchings, Toronto; Mr. L. B. Webb and Mr. Herb Webb, Toronto; Mr. John Kennedy, Toronto; Mr. Wm. Hammond, Toronto; Mr. Thornton Johnston, Toronto; Mr. Jim Laing, Toronto; Mr. W. J. Hales, Toronto; Mr. Alec Darling, Toronto; Mr. D. A. Landell, Toronto; Mrs. O. V. Cavanah, Hamilton; Mr. R. A. Brown, Nashua, N.H.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Jamieson, Oshawa; Mrs. Hilda Roy, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Nesbitt, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nesbitt, Brighton.

Good Cry Saves Thief Jail Sentence Victimized Cafe Owner Moved By Tears

MARMORA, March 27 (ENS) —A good cry saved a man two months in jail on a charge of theft, Friday.

Lem Sam, restaurant proprietor, is still chuckling over the effect of a stern lecture to a would-be thief in his cafe. Shortly after 6 p.m. two men entered his establishment — one from Madoc and the other from a place west of Marmora. As the proprietor headed into the kitchen, he spotted the latter taking some cigarettes.

Questioned as to what he had taken, the man at first denied touching anything. Sam searched him quickly and found two packets beneath his coat. Again he asked the man how much he had taken. The suspect remained silent for some minutes, then admitted taking the cigarettes and expressed his sorrow.

Lem Sam then delivered a stinging lecture pointing out the error of the thief's ways.

"You had better give back all you took. This is a Christian country and you should live in the Christian way. You had better tell the truth before I call the police. If I call them, it will mean at least two months in jail for you."

Much to Sam's surprise, the man burst into tears, and he allowed him to go.

RALPH PEEVER

'Flying Saucer' Cavorts At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27.—(ENS).—Mrs. Jack Tinney, Front St., rubbed her eyes and took a second look Saturday night, when she saw a glowing object cavorting about the early morning sky east of Campbellford. She called the attention of her husband to the strange thing. He promptly dismissed it as an airplane, but when the object stopped over one spot, then darted straight up, twisted and started off at high speed at right angles to its upwards course, he promptly changed his mind.

The two watched the sight for a few minutes before deciding to call the attention of others to the strange goings-on. They called Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peever, at whose home they had been playing cards that evening, and asked them to see if they noticed anything strange in the sky. They both noticed the thing immediately and the foursome watched the object continue its show of airobatics in the darkened sky.

Not trusting to their senses, they decided to call in some more witnesses, so aroused Mr. and Mrs. Howard Emby from their bed and asked them to come out and watch that section of the sky in which the saucer was cavorting. These two also spotted it right away. The women by this time had become nervous and awestruck at seeing a thing they could not comprehend. None of the six persons believed there was anything to the numerous flying-saucer reports that are floating about the country, but here was a sight that could not be explained. They tried to flag a couple of passing motorists but the drivers did not stop.

Wading In Deep Water High Street Mother Saves Boy 2 In Creek

Wading in water over her knees, Mrs. Harold Campbell, 1000 High street, saved her small son Bill, age 2½ from drowning in one of Peterborough's swirling creeks, Sunday afternoon. The small boy and his sister, Carolyn, age 3½ years, stepped across the road from their High street home into a vacant field to play. The creek bisects the field and there is a path beside it, used by workmen during the week. Mrs. Campbell heard her daughter cry out that she had wet feet. By the time she dashed across the road, she discovered her boy floating, face down, in the swiftly-flowing water.

Although he had already been carried a short distance down the creek, Mrs. Campbell plunged in and finally caught hold of his clothes, bringing him to safety.

The youngster was confined to his bed Sunday suffering from shock and a shaking up.

Editor's Play "Best Of North"

KIRKLAND LAKE, March 27.—(CP).—Two Kirkland Lake productions were given top awards by Adjudicator Dr. Pierre-Alain Belanger as the Northern Ontario Regional Drama Festival concluded here Saturday night.

The award for best play of the north, and best English play of the Festival, went to a group under the direction of Miss Helen Saari for their performance of "Overlaid" by Robertson Davies of The Peterborough Examiner. The play "Les Irascibles" won top honors in the French language group.

Award for best actress went to Mae McNeil of Timmins for her role in the Porcupine Little Theatre group's production, "The Patchwork Quilt." Top male acting honors went to Martin Watts of Sudbury, who appeared in Sudbury Little Theatre Guild's "The Lovely Miracle." Mae Beatty of North Bay, who directed that centre's English production "Thursday's at Home," was named best director.

Peterborough Duet Places 5th In Chicago

CHICAGO, March 27—(AP)— Marilyn Stanley and Shirley Simpson of the St. Clair Recreation Club, Detroit, Saturday night won the duet championship of the United States senior women's synchronized swimming meet.

They compiled 281.25 points. Jo Ann Apeer and Janet Bradley of Des Moines, Iowa, took second with 271.59.

Jean Millard and Norma Gant of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, finished fifth. Another Peterborough duet, Shirley Moldaver and Iris Reilly, was seventh.

Dog On Road Causes 3-Way Crash

A dog besporting himself in the road sent a half ton pick-up truck into another truck parked in front of 319 Mark St. Sunday at one a.m.

Murray Hill, 137 Dublin St., was driving a car north on Mark St. and when just above Sophia St., he saw a dog standing in the road. He pulled his car to the left to avoid the dog and also applied his brakes.

The car went out of control on the wet, rough pavement and crashed into the rear of a half ton pick-up truck. The truck was knocked ahead into another parked truck. The first truck was owned by Durham Farmers Co-operative and the second, by Deyell's Refrigeration Company of Aylmer St.

Car Comes Off Worst

The car was most badly damaged, the estimate being set at $400. The grill, left front fender, headlight, hood and radiator were damaged.

The bumper of Deyell's truck was dented and damage to the Co-operative truck included the front bumper, skirt, right rear fender, box out of line and the body was thought to be out of line.

Constables W. G. Scott and E. E. McDonald investigated.

There was a minor collision between two cars at Rubidge and King Sts. Sunday at 5.20 p.m. Russell Keating, RR 4, Havelock, was driving west on King St. and Carl Curry, 292 Woodbine Ave., was proceeding north on Rubidge St. The two cars collided at the intersection. Total damage was estimated at $75.

Constables Louis Rodregue and Grant Gillespie investigated.

2 Youthful Cowboys Go On All-Night Spree While Firemen Drag Creek For Bodies

PITTSBURGH, March 27 (AP)—Two youthful cowboys went on an all-night wild west spree in a department store toyland while firemen dragged a creek in the belief they had been drowned.

Armed with seven new cap pistols, the pair wearily loped home Sunday and surrendered meekly to two kindly policewomen.

Eugene Kato, 12, and Billy Ziefel, 9, failed to return to their homes after school Friday. Their parents, fearing they might have fallen into a nearby creek, called firemen who spent several hours in dragging operations.

In addition to the pistols, the lads brought home five fancy holsters and a jar of live turtles. Between sobs they told this story:

They left school together bent on playing cowboy in a downtown store.

"We didn't want to stay all night, but we were playing cowboys in the furniture department when the lights went out and we got scared.

"We hid behind a sofa until we couldn't hear anybody. Then we went to the toy department and picked out some cowboy guns and holsters and tried on lots of hats and played cowboys.

"We got hungry and hunted for the place where you eat, but we couldn't find it. I got scared and cried a lot," the younger boy admitted.

The lads said they fell asleep toward morning and awakened after the store opened. Then they gathered together their pistols and turtles and walked out.

Policewomen waiting at their home hustled them off to police headquarters, where they were booked as delinquents.

Admits Killing Woman

SAN RAFAEL, March 27—(AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation said a non-commissioned officer confessed Saturday night that he strangled a woman's air force sergeant whose body was found at Hamilton Field, her uniform ripped off. Sgt. Lyle H. Buswell, 39, Rutland, Vt., was quoted as admitting he killed the woman Sgt. Fairy E. Decker, 44, York, Pa., after he had been drinking heavily.

Dollar Gap Must Be Closed At High Level

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

So much is said about closing the "dollar gap" that sometimes it may be overlooked that closing it would be a poor success indeed if it is not closed at a high level.

The "dollar gap," of course, is the difference between what Britain and other countries buy from North America and what they sell her.

If they sold here as much as they bought, there wouldn't be any "dollar gap." Britain, for instance, could conceivably quickly close the gap by just saying she won't buy here a nickel's worth more than she sells.

That would get us all into a fine mess; get North America into one because of the loss of present sales; and get Britain into one because she would be hard put to to operate without the things she gets from this side of the water.

It is, in part, to prevent such things that there is a European Recovery Program; though even with it Britain employs the method to some extent by cutting down on many purchases, as Canadian exporters have learned.

A number of United States spokesmen have had considerable to say recently about ensuring that the gap is closed at a high level of trade.

May Mean Tariff Cuts

State Undersecretary Webb told a dollar-gap-closing meeting co-sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers and the Export Club of New York that closing of the gap at a high level means among other things that tariff rates may be cut further.

Curtis E. Calder, chairman of Electric Bond and Share, told the same meeting: "The United States must increase its imports of foreign goods and services or face a substantial decline in exports."

Philip D. Reed, chairman of General Electric Company, New York, and president of the International Chamber of Commerce, says United States customs regulations must be simplified, tariff inequities righted, and that the United States must be prepared to accept imports on the basis of fair competition, in accordance with her responsibilities as a great creditor nation.

There art, of course, lots of contrary views to these in the traditionally protectionist United States, and ground will be given slowly, but the comments of spokesman for freer trade are at least encouraging.

TOMAS BRUEN, a 190-pound Irishman, took his first swim this season in the ice-filled St. Lawrence, near Montreal, recently. He dove into an ice-free channel with 25-inch thick ice floating around him and enjoyed his brief swim in the cold water. After 3 short dips he climbed out with his legs dripping blood where the ice had cut him.

Doctors Use New Instrument In Heart Case

PHILADELPHIA, March 27—(AP)—Episcopal Hospital announced Saturday three Philadelphia surgeons successfully operated on a human heart cuting through the patient's neck, not his chest, with a new and still unnamed instrument.

The surgery was performed Thursday on Donald Constable Jr., 26, of Johnstown, Pa., by three doctors whose names were not disclosed.

Constable's heart was overworked due to a diseased aortic valve which restricted the amount of blood leaving the heart to circulate through the body. The diease had enlarged the heart.

In the operation, the surgeons cut open an artery in Constable's neck, checking the blood flow. The new instrument—an 18-inch stainless steel tube with a protuding flange attachment—was pushed down the artery until the rounded end touched the diseased valve.

In Four Minutes

The surgeons slipped the tube 1½ inches into the valve, then pressed a flange on the end of the instrument. This opened the diseased sections of the valve, widening its slightly. The tube was withdrawn after four minutes.

Episcopal doctors said the instrument, developed only a week ago by specialists at the George P. Piling and Son Co. here, was delivered to the hospital only 24 hours before the operation.

Constable's ailment resulted from an attack of rheumatic fever at the age of nine. The disease left him a semi-invalid.

Doctors said the operation, though successful, will not rid Constable of rheumatic fever nor restore the flow of blood from heart to body normally. But it will relieve the strain on the heart.

Russians Building Big Navy To Increase Pressure On West

By CLARENCE BEACH

WASHINGTON, March 27 — (AP)—Why are the Russians building up a big navy, as many reliable reports show they are doing?

To invade the United States? No, say some well-informed officials. A landing on the U.S. coast has a low priority in the Russian scheme, although it's probably featured in the final chapter of their military book.

Foremost in the Soviets' strategic plan, they say, is control of the Mediterranean and all the shores of that sea. With that they could protect the southern flank of a Red Army sweeping west across Europe. They could supply that army.

They could nullify or greatly diminish the effect of present plans of the Western democracies to build up a defence core centred in Africa.

Another reason Russia wants a strong navy, say the officials, is that it has learned a lot from the experiences of the Germans. country that means to seize Europe and hold it also must take Britain, lest Britain once again become the stepping stone to Europe. This calls for a strong fleet to conquer or starve out the United Kingdom.

Germany also found that even a numerically inferior navy can exert great strategic influence. The British and American navies had to maintain strong elements in the North Sea area lest the tough little German Navy some day sally out and pounce on their vital transport lines. Such a foray led to the chase and sinking of the Bismark.

The Russians are said to have doubled their shipbuilding capacity since 1940.

Admiral Forrest Sherman, U. S. chief of naval operations, said in a recent speech that within the last year Russia has added to its fleet new high-speed heavily armed cruisers and many destroyers.

He said they are good ships. Russia now has 14 active cruisers, compared to 13 for the United States.

Jane's Fighting Ships, authoritative manual of the world's navies, reported in December that the Russians were building three ultra-modern battleships, equipped to fire radio-controlled rockets and aerial torpedoes. Two more now may be in the yards.

The Russians plan to complete 750 to 1,000 submarines by 1951, says Jane's. The manual adds they now have 360, many with

The Germans learned that any long range and high underwater speed. Latest types were developed from the German super-submarines which were ready during the last days of the war.

Waste Rock Now Big Business

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., (CP) — There's more than gold in the rock near Kirkland Lake. Jim Hyland has developed a $60,000 business from what was formerly waste rock.

He makes useful household articles, ornaments and souvenirs from diamond-drill cores, ore cuttings and crack filler. And he calls his business Rockcraft.

Jim, who is 32, started working at Rockcraft five years ago after he became injured in a mine accident. To keep busy he constructed a lamp from rock pieces and crack filler. He found, however, that the lamp soon lost the lustre given to it by mineral properties in the rock and that no amount of polishing would restore the original sheen.

Since then he has devoted his spare time to his hobby and has discovered a coating which seals mineral qualities in the rock, and has developed a filler which will take polish and can be cleaned.

But Rockcraft remained a hobby until last June when Hyland was involved in another mine accident. This time his doctor told him he would have to give up mining. So Jim, who has a wife and family, turned to his hobby for a livelihood.

Now he employs eight girls and two men who each month turn out $12,000 to $15,000 worth of ash trays, flower pots, picture frames candle holders, book ends and many other useful and ornamental articles. All the work is done by hand.

All types of rock are used, he said—white and pink quartz, mica felspar, granite and so on. The filler is treated with water-fast colors. Some of the heavier pieces are baked.

Tractors For Church

WALLACEBURG, March 27 — (CP)—Time was when a horse and wagon got through when nothing else could on a muddy road. But district farmers report that spring breakup and rains have put sideroads in such shape that rubber-tired tractors are the only transportation possible. Several farmers drove tractors to church Sunday, with the family perched on them at all angles.

FRONTIER MARRIAGE — Attractive Freda Coolings, 36-year-old English stenographer, is shown here as she arrived in Halifax, ending the first leg of a 6,000-mile journey to the Yukon. She will renew a wartime romance with John Livesay, 38, of Vancouver, now running a trading post at remote Beaver Creek, near the Alaska highway. The couple met during the war at a sailor's club dance in Liverpool where Livesay was serving as a ship's radio officer. Asked whether wedding bells are in the offing, Freda said: "Until we meet again, it's hard to say."

Have Symphony, Ballet Where's Opera? Judge Asks

WINNIPEG, March 27 (CP)— Alec Redshaw, here to adjudicate the Winnipeg Music Festival, raised a controversial question at the festival's closing session.

"You have a symphony orchestra which, despite its youth, is making a name for itself," he said. "You have a ballet which is making itself nationally known and (which) . . . will be internationally known.

"But where is the Winnipeg Opera Company."

Ronald Gibson, director of the University School of Music, said the symphony orchestra should first be established on a permanent basis. Expanded teaching facilities would be necessary. "A conservatory must come first."

Choose Carefully

Production of the early, intimate type of opera might be successful; others would be too costly, he said.

Walter Kaufman, conductor of the Winnipeg Symphony, said it was "plausible" and a "grand thing."

"But it is no good to have a company without an opera house. And we would have to start with an opera school."

Ena Foley Scott, soprano, was more optimistic. She said:

"All that is needed is a small organization, a small but good orchestra, and the right conductor and director."

The Metropolitan Light Opera Company, disbanded two years ago, is currently reorganizing with a view to presenting light works this summer.

Charge Policeman

BUENOS AIRES, March 27 — (AP)—An Argentine secret policeman was charged with murder Sunday in the death of a labor leader who died following police questioning. Six other police employees were named as his accomplices. The victim was Carlos Antonio Aguirre, head of the waiters' union, whose battered body was found 18 days after he was picked up by the secret police as a strike agitator.

WI Entertains Church Choir

MILLBROOK, March 27 (ENS) —At the conclusion of the St. Andrew's United Church choir concert last week, members of the choir were entertained by the Women's Association in the church basement.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Payne, president. Mrs. Payne was also responsible for decorating the chancel of the church with spring flowers.

75 Homeless

MILWAUKEE, March 27 (AP) —A two-alarm fire swept through a 45-family apartment building early Sunday, resulting in death for two persons, injuries for 10 and homelessness for at least 75 others. Firemen fought their way through flames and smoke to rescue trapped residents as the blaze gutted the old four-storey brick structure in the Negro district.

ATHLETE'S FOOT

A New Concentrated Prescription Found

Athlete's Foot is a fungus condition which is very contagious—it is one of the most persistent skin eruptions known. A new concentrated prescription has been found which will destroy all odor and by consistent use, night and morning will relieve it. This prescription has been thoroughly tested and has shown remarkable results, even in long-standing cases. It is a clear, odorless and colorless liquid and will not stain. Application is simple. Wash your feet night and morning with warm water and pure soap. The prescription, Exoff Concentrated, is then patted on with a small swab of cotton, and allowed to dry. Your druggist can supply you with this prescription. Simply ask him for 3 ounces of Exoff Concentrated, and if your skin is tender or gets dry, you should also obtain ½ ounce of Exoff Ointment. You may like to cut this out—it is well worth a trial.

Swimmers Gain Fame

Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club members returned from Chicago early today quite pleased with their excursion. Two duet numbers qualified for world championships by placing fifth and seventh in the finals out of 15 entries. Norma Gant and Jean Millard were in fifth place and Shirley Moldaver and Iris Reilly in seventh. Beverley Rumary was the only soloist entered and she was placed eighth out of 15. The team of nine which placed third on Friday was asked to give an exhibition for the Saturday evening crowd and received very hearty applause. Chicago State Fair officials who watched the Peterborough swimmers have asked them to come to Chicago for their fair and they would proclaim a day in Peterborough's honor. However, the girls were unable to make a promise since expenses of the trip would be heavy. Coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes was also approached by a California man of prominence and complimented on the showing of her girls.

"Fish Is Good Brain Food" Delicious Menu Suggestions

By Mary Moore

"What we want Mary, is something bright and sparkling; something that will give meals a lift." An editor speaks.

But how anybody can be bright and sparkling when rain is falling on dirty old icy snow with sand, and you have to use up the end of the bag of old sprouted potatoes, and ditto with apples (except that they are in a barrel and spotted)—how can anybody sparkle over those topics—on a black and white news page!

After that minor explosion I am just going to give you something that will give your meals a lift—and it is very aptly named.

FISH PUFFS

(Do not be misled by that puff part—it is a topping for fish fillets.)

One-half cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup sweet relish, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped parsley and fresh lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, and about 2 lbs. fish fillets, either fresh or frozen. Mix together the first 5 ingredients and fold the stiffly beaten egg whites into them. Meanwhile cut your fish fillets into pieces for serving, place on baking pan and broil under very hot broiler for about 6 or 10 minutes, or until fish will flake. Do not overcook. Remove from oven and cover each piece of broiled fish with the prepared topping. Return to broiler and broil about 3 minutes,—or until puffy and golden. Watch these carefully. Transfer to hot platter and garnish with wedges of lemons and sprigs of parsley. This is a delicious new way to serve sauce with fish and is attractive too.

Salmon And Tomato Loaf

One 1-lb. can salmon, 1 tea spoon lemon juice, 2 or 3 cups dry breadcrumbs, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 3 eggs, 1 can mushrooms, 1 onion chopped, 1 cup cooked celery, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 8 drops tobasco. Soak the crumbs until they are soft in liquid from canned salmon and tomatoes to moisten. Flake salmon, add lemon juice and moistened crumbs and tomatoes. Saute the onions and mushrooms in the butter or margarine. Beat the eggs, then combine all ingredients. Turn into buttered loak pan, cover top with buttered crumbs and shaking of paprika. Steam or bake about 40 or 50 minutes. This is an unusual salmon loaf and well worth the trouble. It is large, and there will be enough left in most households for a second meal, sliced cold.

Cocktails and Salads

A good trick that a friend of mine did, who is observing lent, was to serve a seafood cocktail as a first course to a meal that had a vegetable plate for its main course. She says she sometimes switches this idea and has her hot vegetable plate and serves a shrimp or tuna or lobster salad. In the event that this idea appeals to you I am giving you these 2 basic recipes today.

Seafood Cocktail

These are the seafoods that are used: cooked or canned shrimps, cooked or canned lobster, cooked or canned crabmeat, or salmon or tuna or oysters. One pound of fish meat can be stret hed to serve 8 if served in cocktail glasse lined with dainty leltuce leaf. Alone or mixed the above seafoods may be used, and if desired, a very littl chopped celery may be added. Moisten with.

Cocktail Sause: 6 tablespoons tomato catsup, 2 tablespoons horse-radish, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon each celery salt and Tabasco.

Seafood Salad

Abou 2 cups cold boiled, flaked fish such as salmon, tuna, crab, shrimp, lobster, 1 cup finely chopped celery, 3 unpeeled radishes sliced thinly, about ½ head iceberg lettuce or, if in summer, 1 medium-sized cucumber diced, about 1 tablespoon lemon juice, or 2 tablespoons vinegar from sweet pickles, salt, about 1/3 cup mayonnaise. Mix just before serving on well-cupped lettuce leaf. Use any of the above seafoods alone or in combination.

Ignore Family Tips Mothers Told

BURNLEY, Lancashire, England (CP)—Young mothers with their first babies should reject all the advice showered on them by older women in the family.

That's the advice of Dr. R. E. Robinson, a divisional health officer. He says grandmothers, aunts and great-aunts who all want t otell the young, inexperienced mother how to bring up the baby should be discouraged.

"Ignore them and their pet home treatments," Dr. Robinson advised. "Take baby to the clinic."

The health officer said too many women have the idea they are "bothering" doctors when they take children to clinics with minor ills.

"It is good for a doctor to be able to examine healthy babies as well as sick ones," he said.

3,000 Queue for Unveiling Of Queen Mary's Carpet

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP)—An elaborate needle-point carpet made by royal hands is proving one of the most popular exhibits Canada's National Gallery has ever known.

More than 3,000 persons queued up Sunday for a glimpse of Queen Mary's carpet at its first showing in Canada and gallery officials said they expected overflow crowds again today and tomorrow.

Top government officials and their wives, members of the diplomatic corps, shop girls and laborers, all gasped with amazement as Prime Minister St. Laurent unveiled the elaborate masterpiece of needlework that took the Queen Mother 1,000,000 stitches and nine years to complete.

Mr. St. Laurent said Queen Mary's magnificent gesture in giving the carpet she had started as a family heirloom to her country would be an inspiration to all.

The carpet originally intended to hang on the walls of Windsor Castle, is Queen Mary's contribution to the United Kingdom's dollar needs.

It will be shown in centres throughout Canada and the United States and then be sold to the highest bidder from either country with the only provision being it must go to some public institution.

Bids for the carpet are to be sent to the governor of the Bank of England, London, or may be handed to Col. Angus McDonnell, organizer of the North American exhibitions who is accompanying the carpet on the tour.

The rug is made up of 12 panels each with a different floral design and embodying 448 colors. Queen Mary's signature has been worked at the bottom of 11 panels of the rug that measures 10 feet two inches by six feet 9½ inches. On the 12th panel the signature is hidden in the pattern.

The carpet was viewed by 30,000 while on display in New York four four days last week.

CHILDREN BURN

PURCELL, Okla., March 27 — (AP)—A mother and two of her 11 children died of burns Sunday from an explosion and fire that destroyed their farm home near here. Mrs. Ebba Moore, 44, died in an Oklahoma city hospital a few hours after the blaze. She was burned as she attempted to rescue her children from the flaming home.

Major Bennett Spring Tea Features Members' Work

Members of the Major Bennett Chapter, IODE, report that possibly the largest crowd ever to attend one of their teas came out Saturday afternoon to the Pussy Willow tea in the YWCA Green Room. Mr. Weatherman played into their hands with sunshine and mild temperature and the girls aroused curiosity with interesting novelties they had prepared.

Mrs. R. Huggins as tea room convener was in charge of the decorations and made them as charming as could be. For the table centre she had a bouquet of gay spring flowers the colours of which were enhanced by the light from pink tapers and the tablecloth had attractive cutwork embroidery design. She had also gathered pussywillows to decorate the room but the fuzzy little "pussies" were not showing very much of themselves yet.

"Coke aprons," "spring bonnet" bridge tallies, chamois dusters with a glove in fancy print to fit the user's hand, dainty mother and daughter aprons, sewing bags, luncheon sets, chidren's sunsuits and dresses and all sorts of babies' knitted goods were among the items that gabe customers a difficult time when they came to make a purchase at the novelty table.

Just as confusing were the two tables of home cooking. Cream puffs were a feature there. There were also lemon and butterscotch pies to melt in the mouth, and several kinds of tarts, as well as cupcakes in several flavors and a variety of mouth-watering offerings of unfamiliar name. Specially attractive home-made chocolates were sold by the pound and in fancy Easter baskets.

Two draw prizes which brought in a handsome sum for the treasury were the art work of Chapter members. Mrs. Ralph Clark painted ducks in flight on 12 glasses, which were in three sizes and Mrs. W. A. VanAtter hooked a handsome scatter rug with rose design. Honorary regent Mrs. W. G. Hall selected the winning tickets and the glasses went to Miss Jessie Johnston and the rug to Mrs. Douglas Hill.

Treasurer Mrs. Jack Raine was taking tickets at the door and guests were received by Miss Joyce Alexander, regent, and Mrs. J. D. Hooper, first vice regent, assisted by Mrs. Hall.

Honorary vice regent Mrs. R. E. Clarke, Mrs. Wm. Taylor, second vice regent, Mrs. H. K. Fallis and Mrs. R. J. Garner were the tea pourers. Servers were Mrs. D. Murray, Miss Louise Spriggs, Mrs. R. Clark, Miss Betty O'Brian, Mrs. Donald McIntyre, Mrs. J. H. McLean, Mrs. M. E. Elliott, and Mrs. H. Hall. Plates were replenished by Mrs. G. Barns, Mrs. W. Laird and Mrs. E. M. Malcolm.

Attendants at the novelty table were Mrs. W. A. VanAtter, and Mrs. H. L. Hamley. Home baking was sold by Mrs. M. Delaney and Mrs. G. J. Moher, and Miss Jessie Johnston. Miss Jean Gillespie and Mrs. Ralph Clark sold the raffle tickets.

The committee in charge of tea arrangements was head by Mrs. E. M. Malcolm and included Mrs. C. J. Metcalfe, Mrs. H. L. Hamley, Mrs. R. Huggins, Miss Jessie Johnston, Mrs. B. Duder, Miss Jean Gillespie, Mrs. G. J. Moher, Mrs. R. Clark, Mrs. D. Hill, Mrs. M. Delaney.

Entire amount of proceeds is not yet known as all tickets have not been returned, but success has already exceeded anticipation.

Thompon-Menzies Rites

HAVELOCK, March 27 (ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Menzies was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon when their daughter Doris Margaret became the bride of Thomas Keith Thompson, son of Mrs. Thomas Thompson of Seymour township and the late Mr. Thompson. The Rev. E. J. Whan of Park Street Baptist Church, Peterborough, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. F. R. Venderburgh of Havelock United Church. Wedding music was played by Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh Mrs. Harold Thompson, sister-in-law of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly" prior to the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bridal party stood in an archway, decorated with evergreens entwined with pink roses and carnations in valance effect from which pink and white fluted streamers were draped, centred with a large white bell. Daffodils and small white bells were used to decorate throughout the rooms.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white silk crepe, the skirt featuring a peplum with wide trimming of lace in a pretty all-over floral design. The bodice had short sleeves, an inset yoke of lace circled with a fold of the white crepe. She wore mittens of matching lace and a finger-tip silk net veil caught to a halo, trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Ethel Menzies was bridesmaid for her sister wearing a gown of pink sheer crepe over teffeta, fashioned with a full skirt and shirred bodice with cape effect neckline. She wore matching mittens and her shoulder length veil of silk net was caught to a halo of pink velvet roses. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. John David Barrie of Guelph was the groomsman.

The reception was held in the Sunday school auditorium of Havelock United Church where a wedding diner was served to 40 guests by the Women's Association. The bride's mother received in a gown of floral black crepe with black accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother wearing a gown of black silk with matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of red roses.

Later the couple left on a trip to Windsor, the bride travelling in a light blue suit, and navy coat, with grey accessories. They will live on the groom's farm in Seymour township.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Young Marriages Not Best Mature Minds Much Better

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you consider the best age for boys and girls to marry? Don't you think that a better companionship and a more successful marriage result if they are united between 19 and 25 rather than from 25 up?

E. C.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: No That very young marriages very rarely turn out successfully is amply proved by the fact that statistics show that the ratio of divorce among the young is far higher than it is among older people.

There are a million good reasons why boys and girls of 19 and thereabouts should not marry One is that they do not know their own minds. Their taste in food and clothes and books and amusements changes as they grow up and mature.

Have Not Had Playtime

Another reason why boys and girls should not marry is that they have not had their playtime Still another reason that children in their salad days should not marry is because, unless they have inherited money, they have nothing to marry on, nothing on which to set up a home. No boy of 19 can make enough to support a family and if he rushes into marriage before he can earn enough to keep his wife and children he simply passes on his responsibility to his poor parents.

No more idiotic theory was every advanced than that an early marriage makes for a better companionship, and that a boy and girl who marry early will grow up together with the same ideas and tastes. For what we develop into depends upon what qualities Nature put into us before we were born. Not upon whom we marry. The boy with brains is going to develop into an intelligent man. The girl who is a nitwit is going to be a nitwit as long as she lives. She isn't going to become a brilliant woman just because she married a clever boy

Far, far better for men and women to wait until they are mature before they select their mates. Then they can pick out one who will be a real companion because they know what they are getting.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I were married more than a year ago on a shoestring He didn't even have a job and we have been living ever since with his family His father and mother are in poor health and cannot afford to support us, but my husband makes no effort to get work Sits around the house reading and gets angry when I tell him that he should get out and hunt up a job. He is killing my love and respect and I don't want that to happen.

MRS. S. W. P

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Personally, I doubt if it is possible to galvanize a lazy man into action, but you might try it by telling him that if you are not worth working for you are not worth being his wife, and that you are going to leave him until he finds a job and supports you and the baby. If he is just one of the irresponsible kind, that may bring him to his senses and make him get out and hustle.

However, if your husband won't work, you must. You can't be craven enough and heartless enough to sit idly by and let an old man and woman toil to provide you with food and clothes.

And take my advice about giving the air to an able-bodied husband who won't work. If he were sick, I should say work your fingers to the bone to take care of him, but as long as he is strong and well force him to provide for himself. No man ever loves the wife he sponges a living on. He hates her because she is a living reproach to him. He knows that the man who is supported by his wife is a derision among other men and he takes out his chagrin on her.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Does a flatterer like to be flattered?

MAE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course. Everybody likes to be flattered. But a flatterer shows his craving for adulation by the mere fact that he thinks that the surest way of pleasing you is by heaping compliments upon you. That is the thing he most desires himself and he is hoping you will pay him back in his own coin.

Lakefield Man Wed at Hamilton

In Trinity Baptist Church, Hamilton, Ont., the wedding took place of Maybelle Grace, daughter of Mr. Clinton Ryerson and the late Mrs. Grace Foote Ryerson, and Mr. Clifford Reid Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pearson of Lakefield. The Rev. Dr. O. D. Priddle officiated in the presence of 50 guests.

Decorating the church for the occasion were red roses and ferns. At the organ Mr. Edgerton Boyce accompanied Miss Margaret Beatty who sang "Because" and "Through The Years."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Roy Maidens, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with Alecon lace, and a full train, a coronet headdress held in place by a fingertip tulle veil. She carried a small cascade bouquet of talisman roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Florence Cartwright, in pale yellow taffeta with matching headdress, carried a small cascade of red roses. Little flower girl Josie Hollingshead, dressed in pale green taffeta and carried a nosegay of pink carnations and daffodils.

Groomsman was Mr. Elwood Gillespie of Lakefield, and ushering were Jim Ryerson, brother of the bride, and Chas. Campbell.

A reception followed in the banquet room of the church, which was decorated with roses and white wedding bells. Receiving, Mrs. Flora Perry, aunt of the bride, wore taupe grey with navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother, in navy blue and white and corsage of red roses and white carnations, was assisting.

The couple left by motor for a two weeks' trip to Montreal and Quebec City, the bride going away in a rust colored taffeta dress, Mouton coat and navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson live at "Bayview," Lakefield, Ontario.

Apple Juice
Chili con Carne (see notes)
Shredded Cabbage, Lettuce, Parsley and Tomato Salad
Baker's Fresh Frozen Cherry Pie
Coffee

Directions

Most of you have your own methods for making chili con carne but for those who are not yet addicts here is a popular method: Cut 2 lbs. beef (to serve 8) into ½ or ¾inch tubes, melt 4 tablespoons margarine in frying pan and saute the meat with 4 medium-sized sliced onion until browned. If frying pan is big enough add 2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 cups canned or soaked, cooked red kidney beans, 4 celery stalks chopped, 1 teaspoon each salt, chili powder, some cayenne and black pepper. Simmer or bake 1½ hours or more if desired. If frying-pan is not big enough turn the meat and onions into a large kettle before adding tomatoes and beans, etc. Serve with rye bread for midnight snacks.

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD R. PEARSON of "Bayview," Lakefield, are seen at the reception which followed their marriage in Trinity Baptist Church, Hamilton. The bride is Maybelle Grace, daughter of Mr. Clinton Ryerson and the late Mrs. Ryerson of Hamilton. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pearson of Lakefield.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Attention Readers: Mary Moore is holding numerous requests for calorie charts. As soon as she receives a new supply of these all request will be filled.

Please address your requests for recipes and menus and diets to Mary Moore, in care of this paper. If you would like a private reply enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

Question: Please send me a book on your lenten dishes. I find it very hard making so many different dishes. I have boarders and am sure it would help a lot Mrs. M. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: I do not have a booklet prepared on lenten dishes, but as you will see am printing lenten dishes every week. I hope these have helped you.

A good Vegetable Lenten meal that is popular with men is:
Corn Fritters
Buiied Onions with Cheese Sauce
Baked Tomato Casserole
Hot Buttered Toast
Salad of Cabbage, Cottage Cheese, Celery and Chives with Real Mayonnaise
Banana Cream Pie Coffee

You will notice that this meal contains plenty of protein in the eggs in the fritters, the cheese in the sauce, the cottage cheese in the salad and the milk and eggs in the pie. So it will be very satisfying.

I will give you the recipes for the corn fritters and the cheese sauce.

Corn Fritters

Three eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1 2/3 cups canned kernel corn, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup flour, 6 tablespoons melted margarine or cooking oil. Beat the yolks until light, then add the corn, seasonings and flour. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat in frying pan. Cook on both sides until dark gold and cooked in centres. Serve with butter or margarine or syrup or jam or clear tomato sauce sweetened with a little sugar or syrup.

CHEESEE SAUSE (for onions or broccoli or cauliflower or sprouts)

Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour and when blended stir in 1¼ cups hot milk, until thick. Add ¼ lb. cheese — either processed or grated old. Stir in until cheese melts. Taste for salt and pepper and add as desired.

Watch the page for more meatless dishes.

✧ ✧ ✧

Question: I would very much appreciate a copy of your calorie chart for your 7-day reducing diet. What is homogenized milk Mrs F. E. T.

Answer: As you will see in my note at top of this column I will send the calorie chart as soon as I receive a new supply.

Homogenized milk is milk that has been put through a process that reduces the size of the fat globules in the milk so much that they never re-assemble and float to the top of the milk. In other words the cream in the milk is permanently dispersed throughout the milk so that when you use it you are sure you are using whole milk.

✧ ✧ ✧

Question: Well, here I am again asking for help. You have kindly helped me several times in the past. My trouble now is angel cake using about ten or eight eggs. My cakes are fairly light but have a tough feeling. Please give me a good usable recipe and also recipe for potted meat that will jell itself and it is not necessary to use gelatine. Thanks in advance Mrs. Wm. W.

Potted Meat

Jellied Veal (without gelatine) Order one veal knuckle and ask the butcher to saw it in 3 or 4 pieces; also order 1 lb. veal shoulder. Remaining ingredients are 1 peeled sliced onion, 6 peppercorns, 2 bay leaves, 2¼ teaspoons salt, 3 quarts cold water, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, and, if desired, 2 or 4 stuffed olives, and 2 shelled hard-cooked eggs. Simmer the veal knuckle and shoulder meat, onion, peppercorns, bay leaves and salt starting them in the cold water, covered until veal is tender — about 2 to 3½ hours. Remove meat, and strain the broth and put meat through coarse knife of food chopper. (If stuffed olives and hard-cooked eggs are used they are placed in design in bottom of mould and barely covered with some of the broth which is allowed to set.) Cook the remaining veal broth until reduced to 2 cups and add the meat to it, and the Worcestershire sauce, — mix well. Pour into loaf pan, and press down to make broth rise to top. Chill until set.

Note: You may make more of this loaf by adding 1 tablespoon of gelatine to ½ cup cold water until soaked, then dissolving in the hot broth. In this case boil the broth down to 4 cups, then dissolve the soaked gelatine in it while it is still very hot. In all add 1 tablespoon salt if gelatine is used.

Would you be willing to wait a week or two for what I have to say about angel food cakes? I am trying some recipes that require 40 deg. Fahr. baking temperature, and when I am sure this gives good results I will print them in this column. Watch for them the week after Easter.

DO YOU HATE GOING THROUGH 'CHANGE of LIFE'?

So many women between the ages of 38 and 52 have good reason to hate 'change of life'—the time when fertility ebbs away—when embarrassing symptoms of this nature may betray your age!

If this functional period makes you suffer from hot flushes or makes you feel so weak, nervous, restless, hard to live and work with—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Women by the thousands have reported gratifying benefits. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success.

Regular use of Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress. The woman's friend!

New! Exclusive! Toni Home Permanent brings you for perfect neckline curls far easier, far faster!
MIDGET SPIN CURLERS

Just 1¾ inches long! That's the winding surface of Toni Midget SPIN Curlers! It's the perfect size for winding short, wispy neckline hair. Tiny teeth grip end papers gently, firmly so you can roll hair up smoothly in one quick motion.

Perfect neckline curls—easy! Because Midget SPIN Curlers are designed to fit the shape of the neck, you can wind wispy hair easily — quickly! That's why you can roll curlers closer to the head — get longer lasting curls where you need them most!

Make this surprising test! Try rolling up the shortest neckline hair—say 15 hairs, one inch long. You can do it easily with Toni Midget SPIN Curlers! Snap curler shut — you can do it quickly with a flick of the finger! Note how each curler holds exact position you want!

Holds curl securely! With Midget SPIN Curlers you can wind the curl once and it's fastened securely. There's no slipping — no unnecessary rewinding . . . and the ingenious clasp holds curler in place without ever pressing down on the curl!

JUST what you always wanted for those specially hard-to-do curls at the neckline. And remember—Toni Midget SPIN Curlers are a welcome addition to the plastic curlers you now use regardless of type or brand. Do get these wonderful new Toni Midget SPIN Curlers right away! They'll make your next home permanent far easier — far faster — lovelier than ever before.

6—In Memoriams

ADAMSON—In loving memory of our dear daughter Mary Ann who passed away 1 year ago March 27th, 1949.
No pen can write no tongue can tell
Our sad and bitter loss,
But God alone has helped so well
To bear our heavy cross
—Lovingly remembered by her mother and father.

BREEZE—In fond and loving memory of Mrs. Margaret Breeze who passed away March 27, 1936, 14 years today.
A silent thought a secret tear
Kept her memory ever dear
—Missed by her loving daughter, Mrs M. Cavanaugh, 3717-4th St., Detroit, Mich.

CASTLE — In loving memory of Thomas Castle, who passed away March 26, 1944:
When days are dark and friends are few
Dear father how we think of you
Friends are friends if they are true
We lost our best friend when we lost you.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

CARNOCHAN—In loving memory of our dear father, David Mitchell Carnochan, who passed away March 27, 1949.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by two daughters, Blanche, Audrey and son-in-law Alex.

CASTLE—In loving memory of a wonderful dad, Thomas Castle who passed away March 26, 1944.
Days of sadness still come o'er us
Tears in silence often flow
Memory keeps you ever near us
Though you died six years ago.
—Remembered by son John and family.

'Flying Saucers'

Stays In Same Location

It was 1 a.m. when the object was first sighted by Mrs. Tinney. The six people watched the thing, which gave off a yellowish-green light, until 3.15 when it darted off in an easterly direction. The saucer, in all its antics always seemed to stay in the same general location where it was first sighted. The light it gave off seemed to grow in intensity, then diminish to nearly nothing, before growing brighter again. The light was much brighter than a star, and on looking away from the object for a few minutes, it could be easily sighted on looking back. At some times there seemed to be a reddish colored light on the top.

Hard To Convince

Mr. Peever saaid, "I'm hard to convince when it comes to flying-saucers, and up until Saturday night I thought it was a lot of bunk, but we sure did see something that wasn't a star or a 'plane and it certainly was moving under some sort of control because of the way it would stop, then start off again at a great speed, and suddenly go shooting off in another direction. The thing went straight up and stopped and then shot straight down again, travelling somewhat east all the time."

After watching the disc for more than two hours, Mr. Peever called a reporter and also the Control Tower at Trenton Air Station. The officer in charge of the Trenton Control tower became very interested in the thing and asked for the general location of the light so that Trenton could get a bearing on it. He denied that any aircraft of Trenton station were in the air at that time, and said as far as he knew (and he should know) there were no planes anywhere near that section then.

The witnesses had first thought of saying nothing about the strange circular light, but when they all saw the same thing, they knew they couldn't be wrong, and thought someone else must have seen it at some point further east.

"I'm afraid people will think we are all crazy," Mr. Emby said, "but that thing sure put on a show for us for quite a while, and while I'm still not convinced it was a flying saucer, I don't know what else it could have been."

These people live on Front St. in Campbellford near the fair grounds.

WILD WELL FIRE—Flames shoot high into the air over the debris of an oil derrick in the Excelsior field, 12 miles north of Edmonton. The well caught fire when it blew in, injuring four men. Heat from the flames melted the steel derrick and turned expensive diesel engines and other drilling equipment into a mass of junk in the foreground. A dynamite blast at the well head cut off oxygen and smothered the blaze.

Opposition Organized Protest N.B. Sales Tax

FREDERICTON, March 27 (CP) —Petition of protests to the consumer tax for New Brunswick continued to snowball during the weekend and meetings were held and planned throughout the province.

Premier McNair announced last week that legislation would be introduced in the new budget that would reveal details of the planned retail sales tax. The budget speech is scheduled to be read before the legislature Wednesday.

Plans for an organized rally of protest in Parliament Square Tuesday have been drawn up by the Fredericton Retail Merchants' Association and scores of organizations in the province.

First Sealer Docks With 27,000 Skins

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., March 27.—(CP).—The sealer Algerine, first ship to return from northern icefloes, arrived here today with a bumper load of 27,000 seal skins.

The Algerine completed the voyage in 20 days—a modern record for seal hunts. Flags waved gaily as the ship tied up at this old port and was greeted by hundreds of dock workers.

The Duke is a First Lieutenant aboard the destroyer Chequers, based at Malta.

Claxton Gives Album To Prince Bernhard

THE HAGUE, March 27.—(CP).—Defence Minister Brooke Claxton of Canada today presented an album to Prince Bernhard to commemorate the Netherlands' Prince Consort's Ottawa visit earlier this month.

Claxton arrived here Sunday to attend meetings of the defence committee of the North Atlantic pact countries.

The album contains photographs of Prince Bernhard's official activities in the Canadian capital.

Czechs Return Home

ERDING, Germany, March 27.—(AP).— Travel arrangements were to be completed today for the return home of 58 Czechs who arrived here unwillingly Friday in three planes carrying 26 other Czechs fleeing their homeland. They were kept carefully segregated from the 26 refugees, who have no intention of returning to Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia.

Louis Fine Named In Steel Deadlock

HAMILTON, March 27 (CP)—Labor Minister Daley has appointed Louis Fine as conciliation officer in the contract dispute between the Steel Company of Canada Limited and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO).

Mr. Fine's appointment follows a breakdown in negotiations between the company and union representing some 5,500 workers who are seeking a pension fund of $100 a month; reduction of the work week from 44 to 40 hours with maintenance of take-home pay and union security.

Hull Youth Killed In Parked Car Crash

HULL, Que., March 27.—(CP).—Kenneth Kelly, 19, of Breckenridge, Que., was killed instantly Saturday night when an automobile in which he was passenger collided with a parked truck in downtown Hull.

The crash ripped away a section of steel railing from the truck. It crashed through the windshield of the car, passed between driver Lionet Diotte and his brother, Roland, booth of Masham, Que., in the front seat and struck Keily riding in the rear seat.

Legion Attends Apsley Service

APSLEY, March 27—(ENS)—Members of Canadian Legion Branch No. 381 and members of Ladies' Auxiliary to Canadian Legion on Sunday morning held their quarterly church parade to St. George's Anglican Church. There was a good number of members in attendance and a large congregation.

On Sunday evening the oratorical "The Cloistered Viking" was presented in Trinity United Church. The part of Malo the young Viking was taken by Arnold Brown. Others taking part in the service were Lynda Nichols, Elaine Brown, Phylis Scott, Joan McCauley, Bernice Johnson, Betty Lane, Beth Halliday, Joan Wagner.

Spring Road Damage To Cost $5,000,000

TORONTO, March 27 (CP).—Last winter's light snowfall, combined with last week's sudden spring, is costing provincial, country and municipal road departments something like $5,000,000 for repairs, Highways Department officials said today.

Deputy Highways Minister Millar said his department cannot "strike an arbitrary figure to charge up against the mild weather, but we know that a substantial part of our annual $25,000,000 maintenance cost can be chalked up to frost and the thaw."

Half-load limits now are in effect on most Ontario highways and county roads, and will continue at least until the end of April. By that time the frost is expected to be out of the roadbeds and they should be dry enough for patching and grading.

Sudbury RC Church Destroyed By Fire

SUDBURY, March 27 —(CP)—Fire Sunday night destroyed St. John's Roman Catholic Church, at Garson, 10 miles notheast of here. No one was injured. Damage was placed at $15,000.

Standing on a rise of ground, with flames shooting through the roof and windows, the doomed structure attracted hundreds of spectators.

Prompt action on the part of the firemen kept the fire from igniting the nearby rectory.

It was announced that church services will be conducted temporarily in the Separate School auditorium.

Attlee, Cabinet Men Attend Laski Funeral

LONDON, March 27 —(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee and nine other members of the cabinet today attended funeral services for Harold Laski, former chairman of the Labor Party.

Laski died last Friday at the age of 56. The crush in the tiny chapel was so great that many members of parliament and some government ministers were forced to stand outside.

Destroyer Returns

HALIFAX, March 27—(CP)—The tribal-class destroyer Huron left today for Bermuda on a 10-day shakedown cruise. Huron put back in commission Feb. 28 after being laid up in reserve here since the end of the war. The destroyer has been re-armed with modern anti-submarine weapons.

Two Children Among 7 Dead Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

The drowning of two Ontario children, one in flood-swollen creek waters, was among seven fatalities reported in eastern Canada this week-end.

A Canadian Press survey showed Ontario mishaps claiming five of the victims while two persons were killed in Quebec. An accidental shooting, a suicide, one fall and two traffic accidents were responsible for the deaths.

Franklin George, a five-year-old Indian boy and resident of the Oneida Indian Reserve about 20 miles southwest of London, drowned in the raging waters of a creek near the reserve. The lad reached over the banks to scoop some foam, fell in, and was carried away by the swift current. The body was recovered after it caught on a clump of bushes.

Yvonne Wood, 3, was the other drowning victim. The child fell over a dyke near Chatham while playing in the yard of her home with several puppies. The dyke is one of several in the district that holds back the waters of Lake Erie from reclaimed onion marshland.

Farmer Shooting Victim

Two other Ontario children are missing and believed drowned.

Norman Elliot, 64, of Niagara Falls, was the victim of what is believed to have been an accidental shotgun blast. The body was found in his chicken coop, the 12-gauge gun at his feet.

At Port Colborne, James W. Howard, 37, in jail on an illegal liquor possession charge, hanged himself with his shoe laces. Guards found him dead in his cell.

At Toronto, Alexander McLaren, 70, was a fall victim. The elderly roomer mistook a stairway for the door leading to another room.

At Dorion, Roland Legault, 32-year-old trucker, was killed when his heavy tractor-trailer collided with another truck.

In Montreal, Albany Meard, 59, died of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile.

Things I can't explain

She'd always scoffed at spiritualism . . . till her beloved husband died.

In April Reader's Digest (now on sale) famed author Mary Roberts Rinehart tells you the nearly incredible things that happened to her when—against her life-long convictions—she tried to get in touch with him through mediums.

Read Mrs. Rinehart's gripping experiences—phenomena that, she says, she cannot explain away as fraud, telepathy, or even hypnotism.

A HUGE COLUMN OF SMOKE billows from the Cape Breton County Mental hospital during a fire which caused $500,000 damage last week. Officials say the blaze started when an elderly patient put a cigarette in a ventilator. All 194 patients, including 82 women, were led to safety.

Sink Red Ships

HONG KONG, March 27—(AP)—An official Chinese Nationalist newspaper said today that two ships loaded with Communist troops had been sunk in an "apparent attempt" to land on Hainan Island. A third ship was reported driven back to the main land. The dispatch was carried in the Central Daily News and quoted Nationalist Air Force headquarters on Formosa. No date for the operation was given.

Eisenhower To Speak

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of Columbia University and former Supreme Commander of Allied forces in Western Europe, will be the speaker at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press Monday, April 24, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Robert McLean, president of the Associated Press, made the announcement.

King George V Quite Angry Foreigner Officer In Army

By WILLIAM BOSS.

LONDON, March 27 (CP). — The fabulous soldier-turned-business man chuckled and said: "... And the King didn't like it."

"It didn't seem to matter that already I had lost an eye and an arm in his service, and been otherwise wounded several times but when I told him I had served 12 years in his Army as a Belgian citizen he was downright angry."

Lt.-Gen. Adrian Carton de Wiart—the full surname is Carton de Wiart—looking more like 50 years old than the 70 he will be this year, was taking time out from his export-import business in "the city" to reminisce briefly in an interview. Occasionally he raised the characteristic black patch over the left eye-socket to rub the skin, and his left sleeve dangled stiffly.

Officially "retired" as far as the Army is concerned, Britain's only one-eyed, one-armed general (holder of the VC, the DSO, and other decorations) has too much pep to live with his memories.

Lives Graciously

He lives graciously, has a small house, aptly described as "charming," in Belgravia, has a manservant to keep the place going, and a small but impressive and slockly black chauffeur-driven car.

Born in Brussels, son of a Belgian lawyer who practised in Cairo and Alexandria, Egypt, he left Balliol at the age of 19 to join the British Army as a trooper under an assumed name. His father objected to a military career.

It was during the First World War, when the late King George V was visiting his regiment, that the King expressed annoyance that he should have had a "foreigner" as an officer in his Army—regardless of the officer's record. Carton de Wiart then had been wounded in action nine times.

The Carton de Wiarts are an illustrious Belgian family, of which the General, if in the land of his forbears, would be the head.

Cousin Is Head

But the present head is a cousin, Count Henri Carton de Wiart (former Belgian Prime Minister) who has devoted the last 20 years to furtherance of European federation. He is President of the Parliamentary Union.

Last week the Count summoned Belgium's Council of State into session to try to solve that country's crisis over the return of King Leopold.

Henri's brother is Baron Edfinancier and honorary secretary to King Leopold. It was with Edmund that Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, corresponded last year about Leopold's capitulation to the Germans "without prior consultation" with the Allies.

Dogs Ride Ice

MONTREAL, March 27—(CP)—Four playful dogs, marooned for 21 hours on a drifting ice floe, were claimed by their owners Sunday after a 44-mile ride down the St. Lawrence River. Picked up near Sorel, Que., by an ice canoe from the government icebreaker Lady Grey, the dogs had been chased by the S.P.C.A. and police officers since Friday when the canines were suddenly sent downriver while romping on the harbor here.

Jack Oakie Back Again, Same Old Roles

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 27 (AP)—After 100 pictures and 23 years Jack Oakie once more is playing the pal of the leading man.

The veteran comic looks more rotund but only slightly older than he did in the early talkie days, when he played the pal of the football hero.

"They never got around my end," he recalled from his film gridiron days. "And I always got Mary Brian at the fadeout."

Now 46, Oakie is playing the buddy of swordsman Paul Henreid in "Last of the Buccaneers."

"I told Henreid that I've played Clark Gable's pal, Spencer Tracy's pal, and everybody else's pal," said Oakie, "so he had better be nice to me."

Same Expressions

Oakie's film companionship has been going on since 1927. The leading men have changed, but the plots and Oakie have altered little.

"I'm still using the same expressions I used when I was in pictures with Clara Bow," he recalled. "And there are just so many plots to go around, so there is nothing new there."

Oakie has been "discovered" every few years. One of the most noted instances was when he played the Mussolini role in Charlie Chaplin's "The Great Dictator."

Academy After-Thoughts

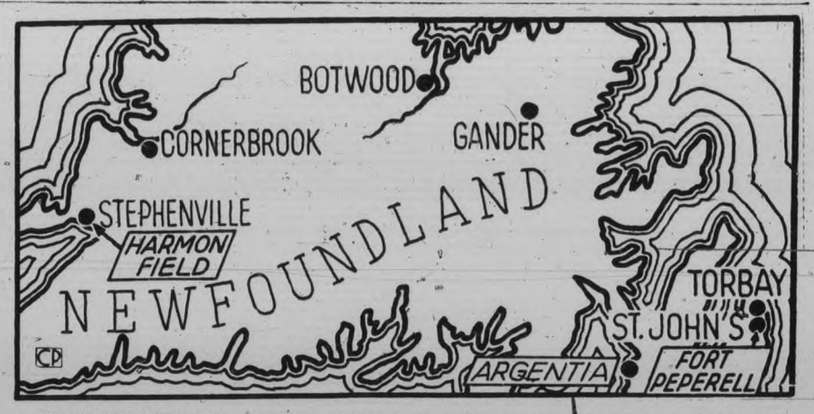
The annual Oscar Awards show came off without a hitch, without a surprise. That's the trouble.

The awards affair has become too predictable. The bevy of polls accurately forecast the winners, so the ceremony was little else but a confirmation of the pre-award dope. It has been a couple of years since Oscar has pulled a surprise.

And, as the polls multiply, the awards will doubtless become more and more cut and dried.

Let us hope that Oscar does not get any more dignified. Beside, how can you have dignity with no pants on?

Eskimos Safe



HEBRON, Labrador, March 27—(CP)—Two Eskimo trappers, missing for three weeks, staggered into this northern Labrador outpost Saturday, as a Newfoundland ranger prepared to lead a search party into the wilderness. The eskimos had been without food for days. Their plight was first learned when another eskimo arrived here Friday on foot.

Union Recognized

MONTREAL, March 27—(CP)—A Quebec Labor Relations Board has decided that United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) is the sole legal bargaining agent for 2,500 Dominion Textile Company employees in Montreal until next September, it was announced Sunday.

Three Drown In River

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., March 27—(CP)—Treacherous Naas River ice Friday night swallowed three persons, two of them children. They were drowned near the Indian village of Aiyansh, some 90 miles north of here, when they attempted to cross the river in a canoe between floes of breaking ice.

US MILITARY BASES— Defence chiefs of Canada and the United States are discussing administration of three US military bases in Newfoundland. The US took a 99-year lease on the bases in 1940 but problems arose when Canada absorbed Newfoundland last April 1. The three bases shown in the above map are Argentia on the south coast, a naval and air field; Harmon Field, an inland air field; and Fort Peperell, an army and air force base near St. John's. The Canadian-American joint permanent defence board meets in Montreal March 29. Its recommendations will go to the two governments. Its powers are advisory but the majority of decisions usually are carried out.

Lake Captains

KINGSTON, March 27—(CP)—Canada Steamship Lines Sunday announced appointment of 55 masters and the same number of engineers for the 1950 shipping season.

ONTARIO MOTOR VEHICLE ACCIDENT TOLL RECORDED ALL-TIME HIGH IN 1949

URGENT APPEAL IS MADE FOR WHOLE-HEARTED PUBLIC AND PERSONAL CO-OPERATION TO CUT TRAFFIC LOSSES IN 1950

In deaths and injuries on Ontario streets and highways, 1949 proved to be the worst year in the history of the Province. Despite the fact that the intensive and maintained campaign for safety by the Department received generous support and co-operation of the press, the radio, the schools, the police, many service clubs, safety organizations, the operators and drivers of commercial vehicles and many thousands of citizens, the toll of tragedy reached an all-time high.

HERE IS THE 1949 RECORD

Motor vehicles registered in Ontario	969,363
Tourist vehicles recorded	4,500,000
Persons killed	830
Persons injured	17,469
Property damage	$9,331,659

THE PICTURE IN 1950

In 1950 there will be in operation on Ontario highways one million motor vehicles owned by Ontario residents. There will be more tourist vehicles in the Province than ever before. Traffic will be much heavier, and more chances of accidents will exist.

Estimated motor vehicles in 1950,	1,050,000
Estimated drivers licenses in 1950,	1,350,000
Estimated tourist vehicles in 1950,	5,000,000

Unless the Ontario public takes this problem of highway safety seriously to heart and everyone sets out to cut down this mounting scale of accidents, it is possible that in 1950 the death toll may reach a new shocking figure, with the number of persons injured keeping pace.

With these facts in view, it behooves every man and woman, young and old, to make it a personal objective to establish and maintain safety, and to preach it at all times to schools, families, drivers and acquaintances.

The Department of Highways is devoting all its energies to a continuous planned attack on accidents. The earnest teamwork of all citizens and organizations is requested.

It is a common cause that all of us can aid for the general good.

Radio Industry Holds Meeting

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 27 (CP)—Representatives of the radio industry across Canada arrived Sunday for the 25th annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters starting today.

Approximately 500 delegates, CAB members are expected to have registered by the time William M. Guild of Lethbridge, Alta. CAB board chairman, delivers his address of welcome at a morning session.

Business meetings today and Tuesday are closed to the public. Open sessions are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

The agenda for the four day convention includes discussion on the Massey Royal Commission on the Arts, Letters and Sciences, and a form of television to be led by Sam Cuff of New York, TV consultant. Discussion on the activities of the Massey commission is expected to provide material for a second brief to be presented to the Royal Commission in Ottawa April 11.

Mrs. Alice Spencer Dies In 91st Year

HAVELOCK, March 27 (ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. Alice J. Spencer, 90, was held this afternoon (Monday), the service in Havelock United Church being conducted by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh. Burial was in Marmora cemetery.

Pallbearers were grandsons of Mrs. Spencer and were: Murney Kennedy and Reginald Kennedy, of Cordova Mines; Douglas Bailey, of Eldorado; Thomas Brunson, of Madoc; D. Wickers, of Belleville; and Donald Matthews, of Campbellford.

Mrs. Spencer died on Friday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. D. Wickens, Belleville, where she was spending the winter months.

A life-long resident of this district, she was born in Marmora township and was formerly Alice J. Cleminger, daughter of the late William and Helen Cleminger. She was twice married. Following her first marriage to William Kennedy in 1887, she lived on a farm near Cordova Mines. Mr. Kennedy died in 1922. In 1926 she married Mark Spencer, coming to live in Havelock at that time. Mr. Spencer predeceased her about 20 years ago.

Surviving are two sons, James and Robert Kennedy, of Cordova Mines. There are also eight grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. An only daughter Mrs. N. Montgomery (Ethel), of Madoc, died in January.

$200,000 Fire Sweeps Warehouse, 2 Hotels

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., March 27 (CP)—A wind-fanned fire that threatened an entire business block in this border city Sunday night was brought under control after it came up against a fireproof garage.

The blaze, which started in a brewery warehouse at the east end of a block containing three hotels, destroyed the two-storey bars and the warehouse before it was checked.

Pushed by a gale that reached 70 miles an hour in gusts, the fire ate its way through the three establishments. Thirty second-storey residents of the bars were homeless, and another 150 evacuated buildings when it looked as though fire-fighters' efforts would be fruitless.

Unofficial estimate of damage was $200,000.

Extends Deadline

CLEVELAND, O., March 27—(AP)—Federal Judge Paul Jones has extended from April 3 to June 20 the deadline for filing suits in the burning of the steamer Noronic at Toronto last Sept. 17. The majority of the 119 fatalities were Americans from the Cleveland and Detroit areas.

Pope Urges Prayers For Decadent World

VATICAN CITY, March 27 (AP)—Pope Pius urged Roman Catholics Sunday—Passion Sunday—to pray for the Christian renewal of a world "almost universally flooded with moral decadence.

"The rising sea of private and public sin," the Pontiff told Roman Catholics throughout the world, "threatens to submerge souls in mud and subvert all healthy social rules."

The Pope's words rang in St. Peter's Basilica, where crucifixes and statues were covered with dark violet cloth in sign of Lenten mourning.

Passion Sunday begins the church's commemoration of the sufferings of Christ, which ended with his crucifixion and death.

Wing Cmdr. Seymour Is Honored

ST. CATHARINES, March 27 (CP)—Wing Cmdr. Murton A. Seymour, KC, OBE, described as the man "who has done as much if not more for the advancement of civil aviation in Canada than any other individual," was honored Friday night by the St. Catharines Flying Club.

The club, of which he was first president, presented Mr. Seymour with an honorary life membership and an engraved silver water service.

A highlight of the evening was a "wings parade" in which Mr. Seymour presented gold lapel pins to fledgling fliers who had passed their tests for their pilot's licences. Among those receiving the awards was Lloyd Eastland of Niagara Falls, and Arthur Arnold, Niagara-On-The-Lake.

Surprise Trip For U.S. Attache

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Mar. 27—(AP)—An assistant attache at the United States Embassy returned to rumor-ridden Prague Saturday after a surprise flight to Germany Friday aboard one of three escaping Czech planes. She body and could give no clues as said she was as amazed as anyto what was behind the affair.

"I almost fell flat on my face when I learned where I was," Miss Katherine Kosmak, 41, of New York City, told reporters here. She is the librarian of the United States Information Service Library in Prague.

Prague itself was a stewpot of rumors. The controlled press clamped a blackout on all news of the mass escape of the three planes to Western Germany. But Czechs heard the news on foreign broadcasts, strengthening their belief that big events had happened, or are about to, in this Communist-governed state.

Toronto Tax Rate Likely Up 2.8 Mills

TORONTO, March 27 (CP)—A civic tax rate of 33.3 mills, which is 2.8 mills higher than 1949, likely will be presented to city council at its special budget meeting next Thursday.

Mayor Hiram McCallum and finance commissioner G. A. Lascelles Sunday night refused to make formal announcement of the rate until board of control meets today.

Governments Asked To Give Relief, Work

TORONTO, March 27 (CP)—A meeting called by the Toronto Board of Control to discuss the city's unemployment situation agreed Saturday to ask the Federal and Provincial governments to assume the cost of direct relief for unemployed employables, and the Federal government also will be called on to undertake immediately a public works program in centres where unemployment exists.

Some local members of parliament and of the Ontario Legislature and delegates from the Union of Unemployed Workers attending the meeting which unanimously adopted a motion by William Dennison, Toronto CCF member of the Legislature, that both governments should take immediate action to relieve the unemployment situation in Toronto.

On suggestion of Controller Balfour, it was also agreed that a delegation should visit Premier Frost of Ontario.

Wanted To Die But Bungles Job

TOKYO, March 27 — (AP) — Read from the police blotter this sad tale of Shiro Tsuchiya, 26, homeless and penniless.

Tsuchiya tried to hang himself. The rope was too long. His feet hit the floor when he jumped off a box.

He next swallowed what he though was an overdose of sleeping pills. It only made him sleep.

Tsuchiya then bought two quarts of low-quality, high-voltage sweet potato whisky, drank it all. Instead of release, he got on a tremendous jag.

In this condition, he stumbled into a middle-aged man in a railroad station. "Hand over your money," he demanded.

"I have no money," the man said, "but I have some bracelets."

"Give me the bracelets, then," Tsuchiya demanded.

The man did. The bracelets were handcuffs. The man was a detective.

Tsuchiya is in jail.

PLANE CRASH KILLS U.S. AMBASSADOR

U.S. Imports Slashed 26% By U.K. Gov't

Will Halve Deficit Continue Austerity Increase Exports

LONDON, March 28—(CP)—The government today ordered another dose of austerity—further cuts in purchases from dollar countries—to cure the country's continuing economic ills.

Plans were outlined to cut Britain's estimated dollar drain to half in 1950 by a drastic 26-percent slash in imports from hard currency countries — principally the United States.

The government at the same time called on Britons to work harder and more efficiently for the same wages. Exports to earn dollars must be pressed harder than ever.

The treasury's economic survey for the coming year, issued today, said the continuance of Marshall Aid "though on a diminishing scale" was the basic assumption on which the hope of progress is based.

In a sober evaluation of what lies ahead for Britain, the survey said that an unfavorable dollar balance will remain her most vexing problem "for many years ahead."

The survey held out hope that a boost of £200,000,000 ($620,000,000) in exports would balance Britain's trade with all other countries.

But the most that can be expected is that the gold and dollar deficit of the sterling area will sink to $785,000,000 in 1950 as compared to the 1949 deficit of $1,531,000,000, the survey said.

This would be accomplished by restricting imports from dollar areas to $1,180,000,000—a drop of about 26 per cent from last year's $1,596,000,000.

Boost Exports

At the same time it is hoped that Britain can boost her exports to hard-currency countries from $52,000,000 to $720,000,000.

The government's stern warning that the major economic and financial policies of the last three years must be continued—meaning no raises for workers and "restraint" in dividends — come against a backdrop of increasing demands for more pay by unions.

Few Tax Changes Expected In New Budget

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP)—A 1950-51 budget, expected to contain only scattered tax changes, will be read to the Commons at 8 p.m EST tonight by Finance Minister Abbott.

Only Mr. Abbott, the cabinet and top officials of the finance department know the budget's contents in advance. But they are all sworn to secrecy.

Observers appear to agree that this will be a "stand pat" budget, one in which there will be a few tax reductions and a few new taxes.

There have been unofficial reports that the eight-per-cent sales tax will be eliminated or reduced on items such as coffee, ice-cream, some foodstuffs and possibly cigarets and tobacco.

Income Taxes Same

Personal income taxes, slashed in the 1949-50 budget, are expected to be left unchanged.

A change may be made in the income tax act to provide for a tax on capital gains. There have been rumors that the Treasury would like to get a part of the profits of those who make investments in stocks, in homes, in real estate or other things with a view to making a quick tax-free profit when they sell their holdings.

There have been reports that the income tax law also will be tightened to get at family corporations which have tied up large amounts of capital with a view to escaping taxes.

Some move may be made to further eliminate the double taxation of profits on legitimate and desirable investments.

Some tariff changes are predicted.

Deer Hunting Closed Off One Year In Muskoka Area

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—The Ontario Legislature committee on Fish and Game today adopted a recommendation of the Lands and Forests Department that a limited number of townships in the Parry Sound and Muskoka district be closed for one year to deer hunters.

The deer population in the area was decreasing, department spokesmen said. The area would be set aside as a sanctuary.

During the first year of a closed season of moose there are a few sections of the province where the moose population has increased sufficiently to warrant hunting, the Department said. It recommended that the closed season be continued for another year and an inventory continued. The deer population at present was estimated at between 15,000 and 20,000.

Another Department recommendation said it was "ridiculous to protect indefinitely" the deer in southern Ontario agricultural areas where they were only a nuisance. Probably more than 1,000 deer were killed each year in southern Ontario by darting in front of automobiles.

Reject Suggestion

The committee turned down a recommendation by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters that a royal commission to investigate pollution of lakes and streams be appointed. Lands Minister Scott said he felt the job would be done more effectively by the Ontario Research Council which is investigating pollution of the Spanish River at Espanola.

The committee asked the minister to suggest to the federal government that where the open season on speckled trout and pickerel falls on a Monday that it be advanced to the previous Saturday. Mr. Scott said anglers who "have all the time in the world" for fishing could take the cream of the catch in the first three or four days, leave nothing for the man who could fish only at the week-end.

New Master Spy In U.S. Gov't?

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A new contention that Russia has slipped a master spy into the United States government added today to the troubles of Senators investigating charges of Communism in the State Department.

Those troubles, all surrounded by controversy, also included a report that President Truman has decided to reject a Senate committee's request for government loyalty files of State Department employees accused of Communist leanings.

Republican Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire told the Senate Monday night that a servant of Russia is "using our State Department as he wills." Bridges did not name the master spy he spoke of but he demanded that Congress find out: "How did Stalin manage it?"

Bridges let fly with his charge shortly after J. Edgar Hoover, director of Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath came out vigorously against turning over confidential FBI files to the Senate foreign relations sub-committee doing the investigating.

The committee wants the files for use in its inquiry into accusations by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) that Communists and their friends have infested the State Department.

Body Of Boy 9 Found Near Ajax

AJAX, March 28 (CP) — The body of 9-year-old Kenneth Foster, missing since last Saturday, was found today by a party of searchers in Puckrin's Creek, near this community 15 miles east of Oshawa.

The creek was dammed in a night-long effort, by members of the Canadian Legion who filled 800 sandbags to block a gap in a railway embankment through which the creek flowed. When the area was drained the body was discovered by two of the searchers. It was lying in a pot-hole.

Police said an inquest was not likely.

The search began last Saturday after three playmates reported that Kenneth, out on a hike with them, stopped to empty water from his rubber boots. They went ahead and then, looking back, they missed him.

1,312 Drunk Drivers Caught During 1949

TORONTO, March 28.—There were 1,312 drunk driving convictions registered in Ontario in 1949 Robert Thornberry (CCF, Hamilton Centre), was informed Monday in a return tabled in the legislature. Drunk driving conditions have risen steadily since 1945, when there were 700 convictions. In 1946 there were 1,084 convictions; 1947, 1,023, and in 1948, 1,146.

In 1949, 15 of the 692 reported hit-and-run accidents resulted in fatalities.

Newsprint Scarcity Threat Worries U.K. Publishers

LONDON, March 28 (CP). — British pubishers are reported worried about future newsprint supplies.

World's Press News, newspaper trade publication, says all pulp available from Scandinavian countries this year is believed to have been already contracted for. It estimates supplies will fall short of sterling-area demand by 150,000 to 200,000 tons.

The British Government in January declared an embargo on Canadian newsprint imports. Australia, South Africa and India later took similar action.

"Position dreaded," said World's Press News, "is that a famine in newsprint will develop late this year, hitting particularly some countries overseas, such as India and South Africa.

"When that time comes they are likely to exercise such political pressure that, to avoid their being supplied by Russia (of which there are already indications) they may be allowed to draw heavily on the sterling (newsprint) pool to the disadvantage of this country.

Already the Republic of Ireland has been unable to place orders for sterling newsprint and has contracted for approximately 12,000 tons from Canada. New Zealand also is dealing with Canada, ordering some 30,000 tons.

Discussing Britain's position on Canadian newsprint, World's Press News says:

"Main danger to the British press lies in the attitude of the British Government. It has banned fulfilment of long-term contracts arranged with Canada. Canadian interests still hold those contracts alive but that cannot continue indefinitely."

Jailed Father Freed Girl Just "Teasing"

TORONTO, March 28 (CP).—Walter Hooey, 47, sentenced to one month for supplying beer to his 17-year-old daughter— who took a sip "just to tease daddy" —has been freed through executive clemency, it was learned today.

Magistrate R. J. Browne said the release was on his recommendation.

"After consulting with the Crown counsel on the case," he said, "I made a recommendation to the Attorney-General and he acted immediately."

Hooey's conviction last week was criticized by Toronto lawyers because of the girl's testimony that she was "teasing."

Try For Peace Churchill Urges West

Still Time For Talks Among Top Levels Before Reds Stock Up

LONDON, March 28—(Reuters)—Winston Churchill said today there still was time for a major bid by the western world to find peace, but it must not be frittered away while Russia built up her atom-bomb stockpile.

Solemnly warning the House of Commons that time and patience —"those powerful though infallible solvents of human difficulties" —were not necessarily on the side of the west, the wartime Prime Minister returned to his suggestion of highest level east-west talks.

He insisted that "those who are responsible must not fail to seize every opportunity . . . every day is precious."

Churchill said he saw "no reason why the Germans should not aid in the defence of their country and Western Europe or that American, British, French, and German soldiers should not stand in comradeship as part of a combined system of defence."

Would Be Friends

He called on Germany and France to "clasp hands in concord" and with Britain build a core to which the free countries of Europe could rally.

Opening the first foreign affairs debate of the new Parliament the Conservative Chief calmly explained he did not believe another war was imminent.

Fined $1,000 On Tax Charge

BELLEVILLE, March 28 (CP) —Convicted on a charge of falsifying his 1944 income tax return, John Both, proprietor of the Diamond Construction and Engineering Company of Belleville, was fined $1,000 and costs in a deferred judgement delivered today by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Both faces an additional charge laid under the Excess Profits Tax Act which will be heard at a later date.

The income tax charge was laid in 1948 and evidence being heard in November of that year. Evidence was also heard at other hearings and the case was completed in July, 1949, when Magistrate Wills reserved judgement.

Stalin Dead Officer Declares

BROCKVILLE, March 28 (CP) —The Recorder and Times Monday quotes a former British Army intelligence officer as saying he has information that Prime Minister Stalin died several months ago.

The newspaper's informant, who declined to give his name for publication said Stalin's death would not be announced officially until late in 1951 or 1952. In the meantime, V. M. Molotov, Deputy Prime Minister, would have an opportunity to consolidate his position as political and spiritual leader of Russia.

The newspaper's editors said they are able to vouch for the reliability of their informant.

He served as intelligence agent in Russia for two years during the latter part of the Russian revolution, spent two months in a Russian jail and was released in an exchange of Russian and British prisoners, the newspaper says.

Twins Born In Car

COLBORNE, Ont., March 28 —(CP)—Twins born in the back seat of an automobile were reported "doing beautifully" today.

Mrs. John Dunk, driving with a neighbor from Shiloh to hospital in Cobourg, was passing through Colborne when the stork caught up with her. The neighbor, Allen Smith, drove into the front yard of the home of Mrs. Winston Packard, a former nurse.

US AMBASSADOR to Canada, Laurence Steinhardt, was killed along with four others today when his plane crashed shortly after the take-off from Rockcliffe Airport.

CBC Places Ban On Lotteries, Bingo Games

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) — Radio bingo games and lotteries will disappear from Canadian airwaves May 1. The CBC Board of Governors in a decision handed down Monday said that from after the end of next month Canadian radio stations will not be allowed to broadcast programs in which listeners are required to pay in hopes of winning large sums of money.

The ban will not apply to the normal type of give-away programs where cash or prizes is given away to contestants who send in box tops, answer questions, or correctly guess the name of a song.

At the same time the board rejected applications for licences for three new radio stations in Canada, recommended approval of various transfers of shares not affecting the control of companies operating some existing stations, and also recommended approval of power increases for two stations at Penticton, B.C., and St. John's.

Ban Next Month

The board's decisions are made as recommendations to the licensing authority in the transport department, which invariably accepts the recommendations.

A CBC official said he believed only radio bingo games now being broadcast, mainly in parts of Western Ontario, will be affected by the ban going into effect at the end of next month.

The decision was reached following a two-day meeting here last week. At that meeting and at previous hearings here and Toronto, several church organizations urged that the games be banned from the air. They described bingo as the "kindergarten of gambling." Service clubs, main sponsors of the games, and some radio stations argued against the ban.

The most common method of playing radio bingo involves the selling of number-bearing cards in advance of a radio broadcast. On the day and hour fixed, the game is played much the same way as ordinary bingo with an announcer calling out the numbers over the air. Listeners who purchased cards fill in the numbers and telephone the station to yell—"Bingo."

One Survives Explosion 4, Steindhardt Die; Sabotage Rumors Heard

Aircraft Left Rockcliffe Early Today Eyewitnesses Heard Crash "Like Dynamite" Survivor Parachuted, In "Bad Condition"

RAMSAYVILLE, Ont., March 28—(CP)—A United States Embassy plane exploded and crashed in flames on the outskirts of Ottawa today, killing Laurence Steinhardt, U.S. Ambassador to Canada, and four other persons. Only one man, Master Sergeant Gwyn A. Long of the U.S. Air Force, survived the crash of the Dakota aircraft, bound for New York. Long parachuted from the plane just before it exploded and was taken to hospital with a broken leg and undetermined injuries.

The crash occurred 11 miles southeast of Ottawa in clear weather, shortly after the plane took off from Rockcliffe Air Station, six miles east of Ottawa. Eyewitnesses said the explosion sounded like "dynamite."

The explosion and the fact it happened shortly after take-off in good visibility immediately stirred rumors of sabotage.

Have No Comment

However, responsible police and military authorities declined to comment on this angle before a full investigation is made.

Killed were:

Laurence Steinhardt, 57, U.S. ambassador.

Allan Harrington, 20 son of the U.S Minister to Canada, Julian Harrington.

Capt. Thomas Archibald, 34, of Union Springs, Ala., assistant air attache at the Embassy and pilot of the aircraft.

Lt.-Col. W. F. Trueblood, USAF, 35, of Kansas City, Kan., an exchange officer attached to RCAF headquarters in Ottawa.

Lieut Mark Belanger, USAF, 29, New Bedford, Mass., former assistant U.S. air attache at Ottawa now an exchange officer attached to the RCAF.

The U.S. ambassador was travelling to New York on private business. Allan Harrington was returning to Randolph Macon College in Virginia after visiting his parents at the Embassy.

Divorces Husband Thought First Dead

BRANTFORD, March 28 (CP) —A Brantford woman was granted a decree nisi Monday in her suit to divorce a Mount Albert, Ont., man with whom she went through a form of marriage in 1943 in the belief her first husband was dead.

The woman told Mr. Justice G. A. Urquhart she also intends to seek annulment of her first marriage to a man who left her 21 years ago, three years after their marriage.

The woman said that her first husband corresponded with her for a time, then letters stopped. Some time later she heard a report he was dead. However, she learned two years ago that her first husband was living in Portland, Maine, and had gone through a form of marriage with another woman.

Red China Smuggles Drugs Into Hollywood—Senator

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem. Colo.) says that narcotics are being smuggled into Hollywood from Communist China.

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, made this statement on the Senate floor Monday in the course of a fresh attack he launched against the capital's distribution of the film "Stromboli."

Lashing out at RKO studios for backing Roberto Rossellini, Italian director of the film and father of actress Ingrid Bergman's son, Johnson said:

"He (Rossillini) has been for many year and is now a notorious cocaine addict. He associates habitually with an international gang of narcotics smugglers and dope runners. This criminal gang is credited with being the pipeline through which the supply of narcotics is smuggled into Hollywood from Communist sources in China."

Johnson said he made the statements because "I want the American public to understand clearly what type of individuals are making pictures for them."

He added that he would have more to say about Hollywood and narcotics at a later date. It is, he said, "one of the most revolting and at the same time heart-breaking stories of all times."

Besides the drug addiction allegation, Johnson accused Rossillini of black marketeering and wartime collaboration with the Nazis.

Miss Bergman, star of "Stromboli," recently gave birth to a son by Rossillini, although married at the time to Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Los Angeles physician. She now is seeking custody of their daughter, Pia.

In Rome, Rossillini said today he would make no reply to Johnson's charges until he had seen the official record of the senator's speech.

Steal $40,000 Make Only $80 Face 3 Charges

MONTREAL, March 28 — (CP) —Four alleged bandits, whose share in a $40,000 robbery was said by police to have been only $80, today were held by detectives for questioning in connection with the Feb. 28 robbery of an east-end jewelry store.

Detective Capt. Paul Guerin did not identify the four but police said the leader of the gang who robbed the Bellemare jewelry store on Papineau Avenue ran out on the other members and still is at large.

Detectives said the four "certainly" were involved in the Papineau Avenue robbery where most of the loot was diamonds from the sample case of Peter Butler, Toronto salesman.

Other robberies likely to be charged against the men were said to be the $10,000 holdup Jan. 27 of the Rolland jewelry store and a holdup of an east-end grocer a few days ago.

Gordon's Salary Set At $45,000

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, gets an annual salary of $45,000.

This was disclosed Monday in a return tabled in the Commons by Transport Minister Chevrier for Clayton Hodgson (PC, Victoria, Ont.).

However, Mr. Chevrier said he could not make public what the CNR vice-presidents received. Nor could he say how many officials of the CNR receive more than $10,000 a year.

"The management of the CNR always has taken the position that it would not be in the interest of the company or its personnel to make public information to the salary arrangements or remuneration paid to officers," Mr. Chevrier said.

Man Engaged Monday Hanged Tuesday In Cell

LIVERPOOL, England, March 28 (Reuters)—George Kelly, 27, who became "engaged" to his sweetheart in the condemned cell Monday night, was hanged today.

Kelly, who shot down a movie theatre manager in cold blood for the night's takings, told his relatives Monday night that he would go to the gallows singing his mother's favorite song: "I Lost the Sunshine and Roses."

His 19-year-old sweetheart, Coleen Dutton who said at the trial that she loved him though he was already married, became "engaged" to him in a grim ceremony Monday night.

One-Armed Bandit Routs Gang Of Thieves

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 28 (AP)— A one-armed bandit routed five two-armed bandits today.

Police said five men, three of them armed, entered a country club near here and started to move one of two slot machines.

They retreated, weeping, in a cloud of tear gas. The slot machine had an electrically-wired bomb which was set off when the men tried to move it.

Police said the men fled in a car.

Annihilate Reds In Landing Try Chinese Claim

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 28—(AP)—Red Gen. Lin Pia's battle-hardened "steel corps" stormed ashore at three beachheads on South China's Hainan Island Monday. But Chinese Nationalists said today the invaders were "completely annihilated."

The Nationalists asserted 4,000 Chinese Communist troops were killed, wounded or captured.

The landings were made at three points on the northern Hainan coast—Yusueh, Taihsiung and Changhan. Hainan—second largest Nationalist island—is separated from Luichow peninsula by only 10 miles of water.

Nationalists reported a landing of their own on the Chinese mainland at Sanmen Bay 150 miles south of Shanghai.

The Nationalists said their troops landed at Chientiao, Chekiang province, at dawn Wednesday.

Early Reports Optimistic

It was not clear whether the Communists landing on Hainan was a major attempt to capture the island or merely a preliminary jab. It also was too early to tell whether Nationalists wiped out the invaders. Early acounts usually are optimistic and often are followed by grimmer tidings.

However, if the Nationalists killed 1,500 and wounded or captured another 2,500 as they claimed, they scored their biggest victory since they were chased off the mainland.

New High Predicted In National Income

LONDON, Ont., March 28 (CP)—Canada's national income may reach a new high this year, Resources Minister Winters said Monday night.

"I think the economic level will continue high in 1950," he told a banquet of the London Young Liberal Association. "The national income should equal, and probably will exceed 1949's record total."

2 Shot In Toronto Recovering PoliceSeekGunman

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—Hospital authorities early today reported that two men wounded in a mysterious street shooting were in "satisfactory" condition. Donald E. White, 30, suffered a bullet wound in the groin and Edward Long, 36, was wounded in both legs by another pedestrian who fired four shots from a .32 calibre pistol after accosting the men on Pembroke Street on the fringe of Toronto's downtown area.

Police were searching for a man described by eye-witnesses as between 45 and 50 years of age, six feet two inches tall, of heavy build with medium brown hair thinning on top. The man wore on overcoat over a bright red shirt and police said he was believed to have come to Toronto recently from Sudbury.

Detectives identified the wanted man as Joseph Tessier, 46. They said they expected he will surrender.

White and Long, both from suburban Long Branch, were taken to hospital suffering from shock and serious loss of blood. In hospital X-rays were taken to determine the extent of their injuries.

20 Feet Behind

Police said the two wounded men and a companion, Lindsay Martin of Toronto, were walking about 20 feet behind the man in the red shirt when the latter whirled around and said to the trio: "Do you think you are tough" For no apparent reason he aimed a blow at White and kicked Long in the stomach.

Then he whipped out a pistol and fired four shots, wounding Long twice in the legs and White in the groin. The fourth bullet tore a hole in Martin's trousercuff. Two ejected shells from a .32 calibre pistol were found at the scene.

Marble Co. Dispute Heads For Conciliation

The contract dispute between Ontario Marble Co. and Local 527 UE appears headed for conciliation.

George Fenwick, Ontario Labor Relations Board conciliation officer, said Monday he would recommend the setting up of a Board to help settle the controversy over wages and general working conditions.

About 30 men are affected at the plant.

By mutual agreement the contract had been extended to seven days after the Conciliation Board report. The anniversary date was January 27.

Mr. Fenwick talked with union and company officials Monday but was unable to arrange a satisfactory solution.

The union wants a 40-hour week with the same take-home pay, a general wage increase, and other improved working conditions.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MARY ANN SLAUGHTER

Mrs. Mary Ann Slaughter, 83, of 428 McKellar St., died on Monday in hospital following a lengthy illness. She was born in Norwich, England, and came to Peterborough 31 years ago. Her husband, James Edward Slaughter, predeceased her in 1934.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. A. Youngs (Ellen) of Manitoulin Island, the Misses Lilly and Hilda Slaughter, and a son Herbert, all at home. Another son, James, lives in Maidenhead, Berks, England. Mrs. Slaughter was a member of the Salvation Army.

Funeral service will be held at the Kaye Funeral Home on Thursday at 2 p.m. Major Cyril Everitt will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MISS FLORENCE B. LIGHTFOOT

The death of Miss Florence Beatrice Lightfoot of Beaverton occurred at Muskoka Hospital Monday after a lengthy illness. She was born at Beaverton, 23 years ago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Lightfoot.

She had been employed in the armature department of Canadian General Electric Company. She leaves her parents, two brothers, Rowe and Claude of Beaverton, and three sisters, Phyllis of Beaverton, and Miss Stella Lightfoot and Mrs. Dalton (Anne) Wood of Peterborough.

The funeral will be at Beaverton Wednesday afternoon with service at the Presbyterian church there at 2 p.m.

London Housing Pay Down 10%

LONDON, Ont., March 28 (CP)—Resources Minister Winters said here Monday the city's low-cost housing scheme would get a green light from the federal government. He toured the proposed sites with Mayor Wenige and housing officials.

"We are anxious to get started on the plan," he said. "We are looking toward London as a kind of testing ground for the whole plan."

The young cabinet minister, who blueprinted the plan for municipalities to provide housing with federal and provincial government assistance, at the same time said he was opposed to a "no down payment" policy on the low-cost homes.

"I don't think pride of ownership can come without some down payment," he said. "Ten per cent seems to me to be a reasonable figure."

Mr. Winters spoke at a banquet of the London Young Liberal Association in the evening. Earlier, he had said there were tremendous possibilities for the tourist industry in Western Ontario

Mayor Wenige, explaining the local housing plan, told the minister "we're not going to have rows of jerry-built houses."

"If you were going to have jerry-built rows, we wouldn't approve the plan," Mr. Winters said with a smile.

Congress agreed as recently as last night to go along with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, in fighting wage rise pleas, it is impossible to tell how long they can stem rank and file demands.

The survey promised, however, that food supplies are expected to be better "almost without exception" and there should be more clothing in the shops.

The report probably will be debated in the House of Commons when the budget comes up for consideration — April 18. The Conservatives are expected to charge that the high level of government expenditure is the greatest boost toward inflation and consequent higher prices for Britain's export goods.

The survey foreshadows a stern budget for Britain next month.

It warns that the national wage freeze—against which about 5,000,000 trade unionists now are agitating—must continue.

The survey contains a number of important "ifs" that must be surmounted for Britain to reach her economic goals.

Conditions

The gold and dollar deficits would be cut by half provided that:

1. Britain's exports increase and she breaks into more American and Canadian markets.

2. Growing supplies from non-dollar sources make British dollar import savings possible.

3. There are savings in dollar "invisibles" as a result of reduced dependence on American shipping and a progressive reduction in British companies' dollar spending on oil operations.

4. There are economies on dollar imports by sterling-area countries.

5. Britain can earn more newly-mined gold and reduce her dollar losses to non-dollar hard curren-

Truman Grieved At Steinhardt Crash

KEY WEST, Fla., March 28 (AP)—President Truman learned with "deep grief" of the death today of Ambassador Laurence A Symington telephoned the news to Ottawa.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Air Secretary Stuart Symington telephostd the news to Truman at his vacation retreat here

"The president had a very high regard for Mr. Steinhardt," Ross said, "and heard of his death with deep grief. The ambassador had a long and distinguished career."

Truman sent a telegram of sympathy to Mrs. Steinhardt.

Permanent Floor Prices On Farm Products Delayed

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—Permanent floor-price legislation for farm products was still hanging fire in the Commons today. A government bill to wipe out the March 31, 1950, expiry time of the Agricultural Prices Support Act ran into snags in the Commons Monday night in the form of a C.C.F. amendment and a night-long debate.

It was still under discussion at adjournment, and it was due to come up again today.

Earlier, another government farm measure, extending the agricultural Products Act for another year—was given third reading over a proposed C.C.F. amendment. This statute empowers the government to negotiate and fulfill food contracts with Britain.

The CCF amendment, sponsored by Percy Wright (CCF—Melfort), the party's agriculture specialist, asked that the House consider a permanent agricultural products export board to "fill present contracts, negotiate future contracts and develop new markets abroad for surplus agricultural products."

Though the CCF contended the government's export plans were inadequate and that a permanent set-up was needed, its proposal went down to defeat by a margin of 143 to 23. The Social Credit bloc supported it.

Use Federal Funds

The CCF amendments to the prices support legislation called for use of federal funds to guarantee that farm prices would not fall below the price-cost relationship of 1944-1948, which it would

L. A. Steinhardt Crash Victim, Envoy 17 Years

NEW YORK, March 28 (CP)—Laurence A. Stenhardt, 57, United States Ambassador reported killed today in the crash of an aircraft taking off from Ottawa, had been in the US foreign service since 1933, when he was appointed minister to Sweden.

Among the diplomatic positions he had held was the Ambassadorship in Russia. He went to the Ottawa post in August, 1948.

A tall, dark, genial man, master of many languages, he was born in New York City October 6, 1892. He served in the US Army in the First World War as an artillery man.

Steinhardt had a distinguished caree. in the legal profession before the late President Roosevelt appointed him minister to Sweden 17 years ago. He wrote a number of books and articles on jurisprudence, finance and trade unions.

In 1937 he was appointed Ambassador to Peru and served as a delegate to the Eighth International Conference of American States at Lima, Peru, the following year. He helped frame the Declaration of Lima, which proclaimed the solidarity of American Republics and provided for meetings of foreign ministers if the peace of the hemisphere were threatened.

Sent To Russia

Early in 1939 Steinhardt was named Ambassador to the Soviet Union. He remained in Russia until after the German invasion in 1941.

Later, as US Ambassador to Turkey, he attended the Cairo Conference in 1943 of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

He was named ambassador to Czechoslovakia in December, 1944, and served there until just before his appointment to Ottawa.

At that time an article in the magazine Current Biography described him as a man with "tremendous capacity for detail and thoroughness....no trouble is too great for him, no detail too petty."

One secret of his success was his great liking for people. He got on well with newspaper men, with whom he talked more freely than most diplomats, and he used to boast that although he had laid himself open many times his confidence had never been violated.

His wife and daughter, Dulcie Ann, both accomplished linguists, accompanied him to Ottawa in 1948.

One Survivor

The plane took off from Rockcliffe shortly after 8 a.m. EST. It was maintained here by the Embassy for the use of the ambassador and his staff

Flamed In Centre

Mrs. Lester Kipp, who lives within 300 yards of the crash, said she first noticed the plane "starting to give out smoke from the exhaust pipe." Then the smoke got bigger and suddenly it flamed up in the middle.

"The next thing I knew a wing fell off.

"The pilot was trying to keep her steady and he did so for some distance but finally crashed in the field."

Clem Scharfe took up the story from there, talking to reporters on the scene of the crash. He said he and his son Russell heard an explosion that shook their house, 400 yards away. It sounded like "dynamite."

They ran out of their house and across the snow-covered fields.

Whole Plane Ablaze

"The whole thing was on fire and when we got near we could smell burning bodies," he said "The plane was all dismembered and two bodies were lying in it, burning. We grabbed them, pulled them out, threw snow on them to put out the fire. Two other bodies were lying 100 feet away They were not burning. They had apparently been thrown free."

"We saw one man apparently alive lying in the snow about 100 feet in the other direction. Russell went over to him and found him alive and helped him back to the road. He was was driven to Ottawa by a neighbor.

"He seemed to have a broken leg. He said he had parachuted."

The bodies were charred and torn and dismembered, virtually beyond recognition.

Around them lay the scattered, spattered remnants of the plane with parts of the engines, golf clubs and balls, a brief case hardly damaged and parts of a parachute which indicated that a second occupant of the plane had failed in an attempt to parachute to safety.

Wartime Scene

The corpses were covered with parachutes and black and grey blankets, producing scenes reminiscent of wartime battlefields. Farmers from the surrounding area were arriving at the scene in large numbers and a considerable number of cars drove down from Ottawa.

The wreckage indicated that the plane plowed straight into the ground and disintegrated in a tremendous explosion.

It landed near the junction of two barbed wire fences on the farm of A. R. Gould. One engine was hurled over a fence into another field 50 feet away. One wing was 35 feet away in another direction. Two of the bodies were found as far away on another side

One of the first to reach the wreckage was William Foubert and his father, Rupert. They saw Long lying 100 yards from the wreckage.

"He complained that his leg was injured," William Foubert said.

"He wasn't very coherent in his speech and seemed to be under great strain. I asked him how many were in the plane and he said seven including himself. Then later he changed it to six, but I don't think he really knew at the time, he was so muddled."

Another eye-witness was Mrs. Florent Beaudoin who described the crash as sounding like "an earthquake." She heard the plane roar over the house and saw it trailing smoke. Then it crashed with a shattering roar.

The Beaudoin home is about 300 yards from where the plane plunged into the ground.

Send Officials

News of the crash reached the Embassy shortly after nine o'clock. They sent attaches at once to the scene and to Rockcliffe Air Force Hospital, where the survivor, Master-Sergeant Long, had been taken.

Long was reported to be in bad condition but an Embassy official said he had been able to say "We went down in flames."

Lt. Belanger was pilot for Ambassador Steinhardt when the latter served in Prague, Czechoslovakia. He came here with Mr. Steinhardt first as assistant air attache and lately has remained as an exchange officer. He was single.

Embassy records did not contain the family records of the other exchange officers. Col. Trueblood and Capt. Archibald were both married but their home addresses were not immediately available.

Mr. Steinhardt was on one of his regular visits to Washington. Mrs. Steinhardt and their daughter, Dulcie-Ann, 26, are at the Embassy residence here.

Not Called In

RCMP had not been called in several hours after the crash. Commissioner S. T. Wood said the civilian investigation was in charge of Ontario Provincial Police "since it is in their area."

Sgt. J. M. Hinchcliffe, head of the Provincial Poilce in the Ottawa district, said he had sent four men to the crash scene. They had no special orders.

He said that so far as he knew any special security measures at the scene such as cordoning off the wreckage would be handled by RCAF Service Police.

Sgt. Hinchcliffe referred all questions about the crash to the US Embassy at Ottawa. He said he did this as a matter of courtesy since US personnel were involved.

Western Oils Sag Under Steady Pressure

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — Western oils sagged under pressure of steady selling as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The remainder of the market moved in a narrow path, tending easier from early firmness.

Volume for the first three hours was 737,000 shares.

Downward pressure began Monday in western oils following strong advances last week.

In industrials papers, constructions and foods were mixed. Steels, liquors and refining oils dipped.

Junior golds traded briskly with a few key issues pushing higher. MacLeod-Cockshutt continued a standout performer Seniors were mixed.

East Sullivan highlighted an otherwise easier base metal list, gaining 45 cents at $6.20.

Action Promised In Conservation As Report Made

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — The Ontario legislature in a night sitting unanimously adopted the report of the legislature's committee on conservation after lengthy debate which brought assurance from Premier Frost that the report would not merely be tabled.

He said that a committee of the cabinet has been named to study how the committee's recommendations might be implemented.

During debate on the monumental report with its wide variety of recommendations, CCF leader E. B. Jolliffe (York South) said Monday night consideration should be given to the possibility of piping water from the Great Lakes to inland areas, particularly in Southwestern Ontario where underground sources were beginning to prove insufficient.

Mr. Jolliffe said he did not believe the need of such a system is immediate but "at least we should know what we are facing."

Increase Oat Yield

If Ontario is going to remain a competitor in world markets more attention must be paid to soil fertility, he said. The conservation committee, of which he was a member, was told the average oats yield in Ontario was 35 bushel to the acre. This was uneconomical. Yields would have to be increased.

He said also that members of voluntary conservation organizations should not be allowed to become "the victims of frustration" because of delay in action by the government. He mentioned pollution, and said he was convinced that manufacturing and processing plants are not using adequate methods to reduce pollution.

CEREMONIAL INSPECTION

The first ceremonial inspection of a reserve force unit in Peterborough will take place at the armouries tonight. Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, C.B.E., D.S.O., commanding officer of Eastern Ontario, will be the inspecting officer. Only the one reserve unit, the 50th Heavy A. A. Regiment (Prince of Wales Rangers) R.C.A., will be inspected.

Counties Home For Aged Gets Run-Around Again, Referred To June Session

COBOURG, March 28—(ENS) After spending more than $5,000 in architects drawings and other expenses, beginning more than two years ago, the counties council of Northumberland and Durham is still no closer to building an addition to the counties home for the aged. Two special sessions were held since January, including one Monday and out of Monday's deliberations emerged the old story—referred to the June session of council.

In the hope that prices for materials may be lower by then, council will ask for new tenders to be presented at the June session.

"About the only thing that is going down," commented Warden Bruce Jandrew dryly, "is the price of farm produce."

Two years ago counties council obtained an elaborate set of architects' drawings covering an extensive enlargement of the counties home, worked out on a basis of unit additions. One of these is the proposed addition to the counties home.

Held Special Session

Last month council held a special session in order to look over the Bowmanville hospital building, which was to be abandoned when the new one was ready. The building was inspected, but because the Department of Welfare would not approve buildings of that type to house inmates of a counties home, the idea was given up.

Council went up to the present counties home Monday, and looked over the situation and then came back to the council chamber where a resolution of Reeve Art Wartman and Reeve H. I. Allen recommended that the tender of a Unionville contractor at $55,882 be accepted. On the resultant vote, it was defeated.

Reeve E. R. Woodyard, of Clarke, told the council that he ran across a section in the Municipal Institutions Act which appeared to state that in united counties, one county could not vote on an expenditure on something which was exclusive to the other county. He wondered if this would prevent the Durham representatives from voting on the counties home addition. Counties solicitor Alan Field said the section would not apply to a counties home.

Doesn't Want To Rush

Deputy-Reeve A. Beer, of Manvers township, cautioned against jumping into matters. Prices of building materials were fluctuating and the trend appeared to be toward lower prices. He said council should defer it until June and call in new tenders for that date.

Deputy-Reeve G. F. Jamieson, of Bowmanville, said that he doubted if the present heating plant in the counties home would handle the extra load of a new wing. Counties clerk Bill Barr said that the department would demand a separate building for the boiler if the boiler was touched.

"The best thing is to call for new tenders," said Reeve Norman Allison, of Bowmanville.

Wants To Get Started

Warden Jandrew said that he would like to see the new addition started soon so that it would not be running into the fall months as would be the case if it were left until the June session. The warden commented that there might be more load on the counties home once the province regulated private homes in which counties home inmates were quartered. Up in Toronto, some householders took in old age pensioners and didn't give some of them enough to eat, he said.

Reeve G. A. Walton, of Newcastle, asked if the present counties home would be brought up to standard if the wing were not built.

After the resolution was defeated, Reeve Allison suggested that tenders be called again for presentation at the June session.

"We have spent $5,500 already. The architects will think that there is something wrong with our heads," said the Warden.

"I'll withdraw my motion, then I just wanted to get some motion on the books," said Reeve Allison

Must Decide

Reeve Woodyard suggested that council should first decide if they wanted to build, before deciding on calling for tenders. Otherwise they would be no further ahead in June than now. He said it would do no harm to wait, as the department was planning changes which might affect counties homes very considerably.

"We have a motion here and I think we should vote on it," said the Warden in reference to Reeve Allison's motion.

When the vote was taken, the motion carried.

As the matter now stands, tenders will again be called for and council will go into it once more at the June session.

Gold Production Jumps In Ont.

TORONTO, March 28.—(CP)—Bullion production of Ontario gold mines totalled $7,672,499 in February, an increase of $1,346,704 from Feb. 1949, the Department of Mines today reported in its monthly gold bulletin.

Tons milled by the 44 producing mines was 808,659, up 48,942 from the same period last year. The mines recovered 196,576 ounces of gold and 34,513 ounces of silver. Grade of ore averaged $9.49, the best since June 1946.

Value of production for January and February totals $15,163,762, an increase of $1,409,077 from the first two months of 1949.

Production by districts for Feb. 1950 (Feb. 1949 figures in brackets):

Porcupine, $3,460,092 ($2,860,333); Kirkland Lake-Larder Lake, $2,591,334 ($2,222,688); Matachewan - Sudbury, $248,014 $214,948); Northwestern Ontario, $1,373,059 ($1,027,826).

Attempt To Break Will Bans Liquor In Town

TORONTO, March 28.(CP)—William Temple (C.C.F.-Toronto High Park) was the only member of the Private Bills committee of the Ontario Legislature who objected to reporting a bill which would remove a restrictive covenant in Parry Sound.

Drawn up by founder William Beatty in 1872, the covenant prohibits the sale, purchase or barter of liquor within the confines of the town on the penalty of forfeiting the property to the Beatty estate.

K. G. Morden said a plebiscite authorizing town council to seek legislation voiding the covenant was open to question because the plebiscite had covered one section lying outside the town.

The town solicitor said the vote had carried in every ward. Alastair Johnston, P.C. member for Parry Sound, sponsored the measure which will now be brought before the House.

Car Hits Parked Auto Man Fractures Skull

FORT ERIE, March 28 (CP)—Louis Zanchin, 55 of Schumacher is in a Buffalo hospital suffering a skull fracture and brain concussion, received when the car in which he was riding struck a parked car near Cheektowaga, N.Y. Hospital attendants said today his condition is "fair."

Cheektowaga police said Zanchin had been visiting friends there when the accident happened during the week-end.

Sues For Estate

LOS ANGELES, March 28 —(AP)—A 48-year-old waitress sued Monday for the entire estate of showman Sid Grauman on the ground she was his common-law wife when she was 14. Counsel filed a petition for letters of administration in behalf of Mrs. Carrier Adair, who says she also is known as Carrie Zapalac Grauman. The estate of Grauman, who died March 5, has been estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

71-Year Average

WASHINGTON, March 28 —(AP)—The average white woman in the United States now lives 71 years, the Public Health Service said Monday. The average white man has not yet achieved the Biblical three-score-and-ten, however. The agency said the average length of life for this group is 65½ years. Both averages, based on 1948 death rates, are records.

Rotary Hears Report On Conference

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28—(ENS)—Highlight of the weekly meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club was a report by Rotarian Arthur K. Loucks on a meeting of the executive at the meeting of the Toronto Rotary Club, Friday. Representatives of district Rotary clubs attended the meeting of the Toronto club at which the guest of honor was Percy Hodgson, president of Rotary International.

President Hodgson told of his experience in the 84 countries where Rotary clubs exist. Since July 1, 1949, Mr. Hodgson has visited each of the 84 countries, travelling an estimated 140,000,000 miles. He said Rotary should embark on a one-world crusade. Lives should be governed by good citizenship, statesmanship, and what he termed "worldmanship," embracing larger loyalties.

He deplored the fact that the press was more prone to report on the failures of the United Nations than to report its accomplishments.

"We must all learn to talk peace instead of war. We must learn to be tolerant of the mistakes of others, and to promote goodwill and good fellowship, if the world is to be spared another war," he said.

Other members of the Campbellford club spoke briefly on the Toronto meeting.

The president, Charles Calver, thanked Mr. Loucks for his report.

Lightship Rammed No Casualties

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP)—Ambrose lightship at the entrance of New York Harbor was rammed early today by an inbound vessel, the Santa Monica, the coast guard reported.

Five coast guard cutters were dispatched to aid the disabled lightship.

No causalties were reported.

The coast guard said the Santa Monica, an 8,610-ton vessel, plowed into the starboard side of the lightship, knocking a hole below the water line in the lightship's hull. The Santa Monica was not damaged.

Radio reports from the lightship said she was listing at a 20-degree angle, and was pumping water and fuel overboard.

The lightship carries a crew of 15 coast guardsmen. It rides at anchor in the harbor gateway to mark the entrance.

Visibility in the area was given as 500 feet. A heavy fog has hung over the harbor area since Monday night.

Driver Acquitted On Brake Charge

Norman Booth, 22, of 50 Jackson Ave., was today acquitted in police court of a charge of driving with inadequate brakes. A charge of careless driving was dismissed after the Crown announced no evidence would be offered.

Booth's car knocked down James Halsey, 60, on February 2 while he was crossing Charlotte St. near Aylmer. He received head injuries and became hospitalized.

The case was heard in police court Monday and Magistrate W. R. Philp KC. gave his ruling today.

Rain And Fog Foils Rain-Making Trick

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Rain and fog today foiled—temporarily at least—New York City's plan to make rain artificially to fill its depleted reservoirs.

A police plane loaded with dry ice to bombard any reluctant rain clouds was grounded just before Dr. Wallace E. Howell, Harvard scientist and direction of "operation Pluvius" was to board it.

Nature has thwarted the plan ever since the city decided upon the project. The first attempt was scheduled for last Trursday. It has rained every day but one since.

Pleads Guilty

DETROIT, March 28—(AP)—Henry Ferrara, 23, pleaded guilty Monday to stealing flower baskets from graves. Judge John J. Maher said he would sentence Ferrara April 4. Police said Ferara, a Chrysler striker admitted taking the baskets because he was short of funds. He said he sold them to florists for 50 cents apiece.

PLANE EXPLODES — Bodies of seven victims found in the wreckage of this converted B-25 light bomber are removed, as officers from nearby Williams Air Force Base, Mesa, Ariz., look on. Plane, en route from El Paso to Los Angeles, exploded in mid-air, spreading fragments over a half-mile area.

Non-Virgin Club Probe Subject

BORGER, Texas, March 28 (AP)—A grand jury today may investigate reports of a "non-virgin" club, a group that requires its teen-age members to have illicit sexual relations.

"We don't have any concrete evidence" of such a club, said District Attorney Bob Galloway Monday night. "But we've heard lots of talk in this town."

Galloway said the grand jury was not called to investigate the alleged club. However, he said he expects it to consider "any evidence we can give it."

The Borger News-Herald ran a series of stories on the alleged club and said some officials believe it is master-minded by an adult. The newspaper said all its information had not been proved but that there had been enough "talk" to give the reports credence. The paper said some information came from "plants" who had attended meetings.

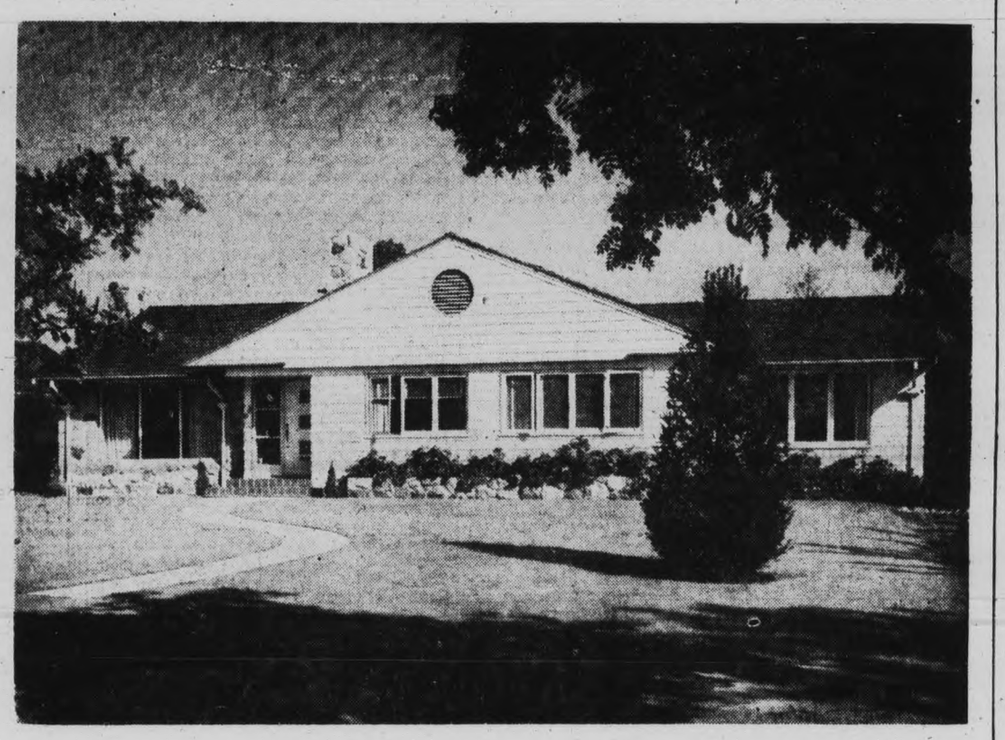
The News-Herald said it believed the "non-virgin" club operated this way:

The members—some 20 to 25 high school boys and girls—take an oath to have sexual intercourse at least once a week.

The girls, some of them as young as 14, recruit all members—both girls and boys.

Members pair off at club meetings by drawing numbers, not by preference.

Club dues are 25 cents a week, covering the cost of soft drinks at meetings whose numbers are drawn.



Mother, Son Flee As Fire Sweeps Home

TIMISKAMING, Que., March 28—(CP)—A mother and her son were forced to flee in night attire from their home here early today when a $4,000 fire swept the two-storey frame building.

Firemen saved adjoining houses by using four sets of hose in playing water on them from 3.30 a.m. to 7 a.m.

Mrs. Omer Gelineau and her son Omer Jr., were the only occupants of the house. The fire is believed to have started from an over-heated stove pipe in the kitchen.

The Plant In High Gear

The welfare of the Canadian General Electric Company plant and its employees is of great importance to this city. It is our largest employer and last year had a payroll of more than eleven million dollars. All citizens, as well as the 3,000 production workers directly affected, must therefore feel a measure of relief that a new contract has been signed between the Company and the accredited bargaining agent, the United Electrical Workers Union. The terms agreed to after nine months' spasmodic negotiation are essentially those contained in the majority report of the Conciliation Board, which the Company had already agreed to accept. There has been an increase in hourly pay which compensates for the reduced work week, if the employees decide to take only the two-hour reduction (to 43 hours a week) rather than the reduction to 42 provided for in the agreement. The minimum starting pay for an unskilled untrained male worker at the plant is now 96 cents an hour. It rises in two months to $1.02. The minimum starting pay for women workers is 82 cents an hour, rising in two months to 88 cents. According to the Company's statement, the average weekly earnings at the Peterborough plant are $2.06 above the average for the electrical apparatus industry generally, and $8.50 above the average for all manufacturing industry.

* * *

During the last decade the company has expanded tremendously in Peterborough; its output has been enormous, and the future seems promising. Since the war nearly ten million dollars have been spent on expansion plans; during this year a further 1½ million dollars are to be spent similarly. Although the Company's annual report shows a decrease in profits during 1949, its total sales rose by 7½ million dollars. The market is tightening and competition increasing, but the plant has enough orders in hand to ensure a busy year, and with good employee-management relations and high production techniques, new business and full employment promise far beyond the full contract year.

Bare Majority Cartoon

North American political cartoonists are not remarkable for their wit, draughtsmanship, originality or sensitivity. Even the Pulitzer Prizewinner Herbert L. Block is not exceptional. His cartoon after the British elections showed a naked Attlee with brief-case in hand opening the door into the House of Commons. "Well, Here Goes", was the caption. So that there could be no mistaking the hilarious aptness of the fetching idea, the case was also labelled "Bare Majority". The wit of the cartoon was schoolboyishly common; its taste was not even questionable; it was downright bad.

The Vancouver Province uses the Block syndicated cartoons. It printed this dull-witted, tasteless effort, but clothed Mr. Attlee in underpants. Time Magazine reprinted the original and the amended Province cartoons in its March 20th issue, with the explanation that they show "what can happen when an editor is seized with an attack of modesty."

If the editor of the Province had an attack of modesty, he also suffered a more grievous lapse of wits. The Province is not to be sniped at for clothing Mr. Attlee's nakedness; it is to be censured for using such a puerile, vulgar cartoon in any clothing. It is a matter of mental, not moral decency. Prime Minister Attlee is the elected representative of a great people. He may be a proper subject for deft and witty caricature but not for this sort of flat-footed, gross inanity. It pains us that any Canadian paper would have editorial taste dull enough to publish it.

Breaking Montreal's Monopoly

The Ottawa Citizen, in a recent editorial, sticks a pin into the bubble of Montreal's reputation for wickedness; but the bubble is remarkably durable, and can withstand any number of pins. It is a cherished Canadian belief that Montreal is a hotbed of gaudy delights, just as it is a cherished belief that Toronto is dull and innocent. Neither belief has much foundation in fact, but a cherished fancy has no truck with such tiresome things as facts.

It is our own belief, founded upon observation (though we are open to correction from learned divines) that you can find sin anywhere that you choose to look for it. The notion that cities are wicked, and that rural districts are pure, will not endure close examination; judged on a basis of population, they are about equal. A man who is not on the lookout for dubious adventure will certainly not have it forced upon him in Montreal; on the other hand, if he wants trouble, he will be able to find it in the most remote and sparsely-populated township.

The wickedness of cities—of all cities and not merely of Montreal—is vastly exaggerated. The great proportion of city-dwellers are peaceful, decent folk whose amusements and personal habits will bear the closest scrutiny. Any hotel manager or restaurateur will tell you that most of the trouble in his place—if there is any—is caused by small-town rowdies who want to show their independence and cosmopolitanism by doing what they do not dare to do at home. Much of the wickedness and disorder of any large city is taken to it from the surrounding rural district; toughs who have found the small towns too hot for them make for the larger settlements.

Why, then, has Montreal its lurid reputation? Because great numbers of people like to dream of a place where there is a degree of license which does not exist at home. If they are of reforming temperament, the belief in the existence of such a place gives them something to tut-tut about; if they yearn for freedom from restraint, the belief sustains them that such an earthly paradise exists.

There are no doubt some undesirable places of entertainment in Montreal; but what village has not at least one place which is not looked at with a disapproving eye? Even Toronto—but no, let us leave one illusion untarnished.

Don't Read In A Hurry

We were struck the other day by a few sentences in a speech of Winston Churchill's, which ran thus: "Read the great books of the English language in your leisure time. Particularly to the young, I say, do not begin to read the great books of the language too soon. It is a great pity to read works of great practical value hurriedly or in an immature period in your development".

What good advice this is! If we disregard the large number of people who never seem to read at all, we find among the remainder a proportion — perhaps a majority—who never read a book of established merit. They say that they are too tired to read classics, or that they have no time for heavy reading, or that classic writers bore them. If they would think for a few minutes about what they are saying it might occur to them that a classic lives from generation to generation because it is interesting—not because it is a bore—and that good books deserve good readers. As for having no time—; well, we all know that we are able to find time for the things we really want to do.

Churchill is right, also, in his advice not to read great books too soon. To read Dickens while one is still a child is to miss at least half the qualities which made him a great writer, and this holds true also of Jane Austen, George Eliot, Balzac, Tolstoy and virtually every other novelist of noble stature. We can see little in a book which is not already waiting to be discovered in ourselves. A childhood acquaintance with the Bible is not an acquaintance at all; the hard-bitten Hebrew prophets did not write for children, any more than did Homer or Virgil. The fact of the matter is that great books yield new treasures at every time of life, and to read Vanity Fair at fifty is a very different thing from reading it at twenty.

Happy are those who have made friends of a few great books which they re-read every ten years, for cultivation does not consist of having read everything, but of having read a few things with close attention and a growing realization of what they mean.

New School Grants Under Concerted Protest

By G. WILSON CRAW

MEMBERS of more than fifty urban school boards, representing more than half the population of Ontario, met in Toronto on Friday to protest the additional burden placed on municipal ratepayers by the new provincial educational grant system. Educational leaders were present from all the larger centres of the province and most of the smaller cities and towns were also represented.

Men and women were there who had given years of study and work to the advancement of education in Ontario. They were incensed at the action of the minister and they feared that expansion of vocational education in this province had been given a setback.

◇ ◇ ◇

THEY felt that the larger cities would be able to continue, but the smaller industrial cities of the province could not possibly look after the demands that were going to be made on the school system. They feared that courses in the future would tend to be academic in the training offered boys and girls in our secondary schools, rather than fitting them for a place in industry and business.

All representatives were appreciative of what the government had done in the past few years, through its greatly increased grants. But they were also fully aware that these increased grants had enabled boards only to pay higher salaries to teachers. The grants had not in any way lessened the heavy burden on the ratepayers.

◇ ◇ ◇

BOARD members told how in the past few years they had been encouraged to spend millions of dollars on vocational schools. Schools which operated 24 hours a day during the war, training men and women to take their places in war industry and now with much worn out equipment, find their grants drastically cut and an unsympathetic ear at Queen's Park. They could not understand why Ontario, Canada's greatest industrial province, should be called upon to train its boys and girls who will later work in industry and business along the same lines as those who intend to be teachers, professors, lawyers, doctors and engineers.

They were unanimous in feeling that a mistake was being made and that with the professions crowded, more boys and girls should be offered vocational training.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT was charged there was no real policy in the education department. In London it was said the deputy minister of education had urged the board to go on with a new technical school project. Yet the minister, through his new system of grants, which favour the academic school at the expense of the vocational school, did not seem anxious to improve and extend vocational education.

Since the urban schools are getting less money in grants in 1950, and the Department of Education is spending five million dollars more, they asked where the extra money was going.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE new system of grants was termed inadequate, arbitrary in action and ill-advised. They resolved that every member of the Legislature would hear from them and they protested in the name of the urban ratepayers, who were being asked to carry the additional burden in their tax bills.

There was a general demand for a similar system of grants, one which the average man would understand, one in which there would be not so many "niggers in the woodpile". (At present the department could never be pinned down to a stated policy, they alleged.) And finally they asked that no board in 1950 receive less money in provincial grants than it did in 1949.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Peterborough Board of Education has seen its grants towards vocational education vary in the past four years from a high of $63,176 to an estimated low in 1950 of $36,713 and its grants for secondary academic education vary from $18,364 to an estimated high this year of $33,725. The loss in 1950 in the vocational school is estimated at $26,463 and the academic increase is $15,360.

In spite of this loss of $10,810 in the two accounts and increased expenditure, the board was able to keep its expenditures within the 1949 mill rate. But few other boards in the province were so fortunate, for they did not have a large surplus to bring into 1950 and thus had to throw the additional burden on the taxpayers.

There is no feeling of security under the present grant system and what is needed more than anything else is a system whereby boards will know that every year the taxpayer must provide a certain percentage of the educational expenditure.

Unconsidered Trifles

Said the prospective buyer: "He's a good-looking horse. Is he a good jumper"

"Sir," replied the dealer, "if you want to keep him in a field you'll have to put a lid on it."

◇ ◇ ◇

"And is the prince incognito?" asked the reporter, referring to a titled guest.

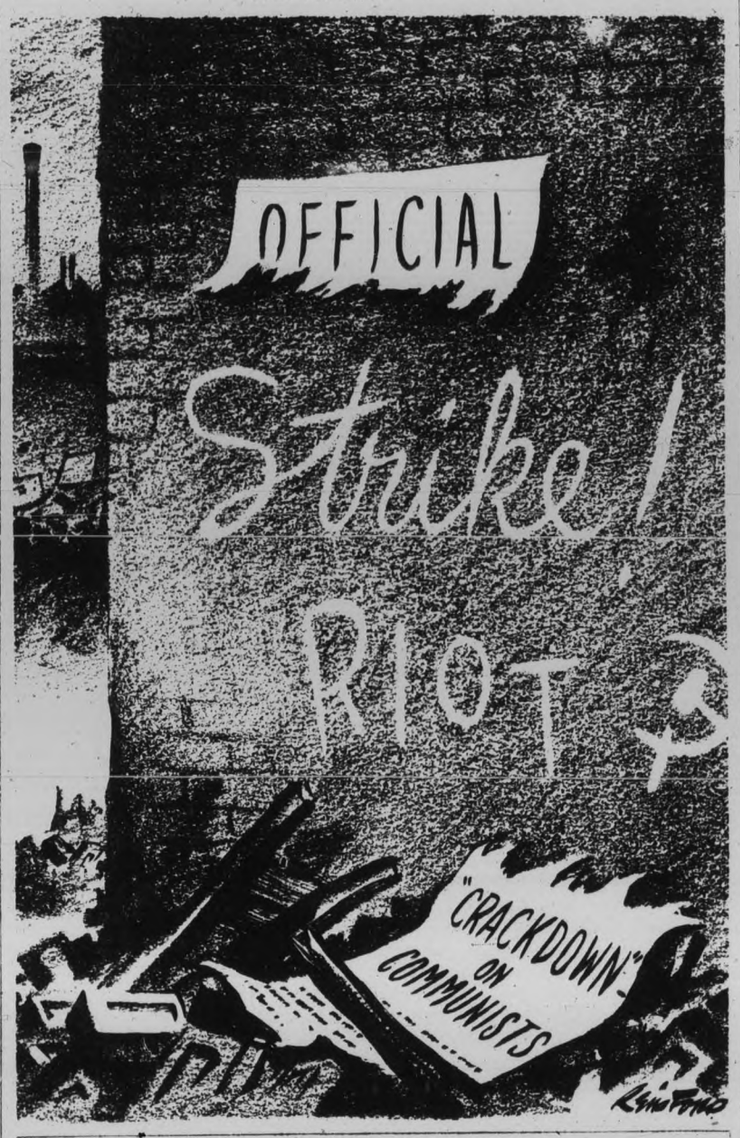
"Well, no sir," replied the hotel porter, "I don't know as I'd say that. But he's certainly had a few."

◇ ◇ ◇

A prominent official was seen hurrying towards the exit of the building. As he entered the hall, he called a shade testily to one of the attendants: "Is my car ready?"

A stranger, sitting in the shadows of the hall awaiting an interview, was heard to murmur: "Our car, sir, our car."

◇ ◇ ◇



A man went to a mental specialist.

"What is the trouble?" asked the doctor.

The patient responded by vigorously brushing imaginary things off his arms, explaining. "See? I have dragons on my sleeves."

The specialist, backing away, screamed: "Well, you don't have to brush them off on me."

"FINE ITALIAN HAND"

Paper On Race Issue Inconclusive

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON

THE British Commonwealth Relations Office has today issued a White Paper on the case of Seretse Khama, the young chief-designate of the Bamangwato whose marriage to a white London girl caused a constitutional crisis in Bechuanaland. The White Paper goes little further than the statement, already made in the House of Commons by the responsible Minister, Mr. Patrick Gordon-Walker, which have been criticized from both sides of the House as inadequate.

◇ ◇ ◇

NOR does the White paper answer the criticism that the findings of the judicial enquiry of 1949 into the chieftainship of the Bamangwato have not been published. A summary of the White Paper issued by the Commonwealth Relations office states that "His Majesty's Government do not accept, and could not associate themselves with, certain arguments and views in the report, and as the report and accompanying evidence would present an incomplete and unbalanced picture of the considerations taken into account on arriving at their decision, they have decided not to publish it".

◇ ◇ ◇

THE White Paper reaffirms the Government's decision to withhold recognition of Seretse as Chief for "not less than" five years, during which time he will not be allowed to enter his own country without permission. It claims that no representations had been received from the (white) governments of the Union of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia, which were alleged to have exerted pressure for Seretse's removal, and adds that "views about recognition or non-recognition were by no means unanimous among prominent Africans".

◇ ◇ ◇

THE reasons given for the Government's decision are (1) to prevent disruption of the Bamangwato tribe, which, it is alleged, could have been caused by the support of "some leading tribesmen" for Tshekedi, Seretse's uncle and former Regent, who opposed Seretse's marriage; (2) because of doubts whether Seretse would make a responsible Chief in view of what the White Paper implies was an irresponsible marriage; and (3) because of doubts of tribal support for Seretse in view of the possibility of an heir of mixed race.

◇ ◇ ◇

MANY of the statements in the White Paper appear to be at best of doubtful validity. For instance, few critics will be satisfied by the allegation that "no assurance was given to Seretse at any time that if he came to London he would be permitted to resume residence in the Protectorate", since he came to London he would be permitted to resume residence in the Protectorate", since it may be regarded as extremely improbable that a young man whose wife was expecting a child would voluntarily leave her, and incidentally his own country, if he saw no prospect of return. Nor does the statement that "His Majesty's Government have not regarded this as a question of the merits or demerits of mixed marriages" carry much weight, since it is already so regarded by large numbers of both supporters and opponents, coloured and white, in this country and elsewhere.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE imputation that "the manner of his marriage has called in question his sense of public duty" has caused considerable resentment among the Khamas' friends here. They admit that Seretse and the former Miss Ruth Williams risked flouting a considerable body of opinion in getting married, but maintain that Mrs. Khama has been an extremely loyal and helpful wife to Seretse, and point out that the doubts cast by the White Paper on the tribe's reactions to a future heir of mixed blood were effectively answered by the majority acceptance of Ruth as the chief's consort by the kgotla (tribal council).

◇ ◇ ◇

THE White Paper ends with a reference to a transitional period of direct rule (by British officials), but states that "beyond this transitional stage, His Majesty's Government will explore every means of giving the administration a more representative character, in accordance with their policy in all African territories for which they are responsible of giving the peoples conncerned a more direct participation in the conduct of their own affairs".

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS is likely to be regarded by opponents of the measures taken as a piece of mere cynicism at worst, or pious ineffectiveness at best. It will certainly do little to modify coloured opinion in this country which, rightly or wrongly, regards "this Seretse business" as a test case of the British Government's sincerity in wishing to deal fairly with Africans. Already a "Seretse Khama Fighting Fund" has been formed under the chairmanship of Mr. Leary Constantine, the well-known coloured Jamaican cricketer who is now reading for the English bar, and it is almost unanimously supported by coloured peoples from countries far distant from Bechuanaland, and of all shades of opinion from Conservative to Communist.

◇ ◇ ◇

EVEN those who agree with the provisory removal of Seretse from his position criticize the Government's handling of the affair, and in particular their suppression of the results of the judicial enquiry. As it is not being treated as a purely party matter, the case is unlikely to cause the downfall of the Government, as was at one time predicted. It will, however, have wide repercussions abroad and in the Commonwealth, especially where there is a large coloured population. The general feeling of such communities was expressed in a cable sent to Mr. Attlee by Mr. Norman Manley, K.C., the opposition leader in the Jamaican legislature. [Over 60 per cent. of the population of Jamaica is of African descent.] He described the British Government's action as a negation of Socialist and democratic principles. The publication of the White Paper will, if anything, sharpen this kind of reaction.

The Briton's Woad

When the Roman's invaded England about 2,000 years ago, they found that the native soldiers, such as they were, camouflaged themselves by dyeing their skins a bluish tint which enabled them to lurk in the forests and wooded areas and spring upon their foes by surprise attacks. For hundreds of years English soldiers adopted that device, which was attained by taking the leaves of woad, a plant with a yellow flower which grew in great profusion, grinding them into a paste, allowing the stuff to ferment, then kneading it into balls or bricks which they dried in the sun. They took the dried ball or brick and rubbed it over their bodies. Woad came to be much used in later times as a dye for woollens, and up to about 40 years ago there were fairly large woad farms in the county of Lincoln. Science, however, produced better synthetic dyes, and today there is only one man who can show woad plants on his property. And these are a mere six plants. Dyes were often used by the troops in modern warfare.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. (Matt. 9: 35.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease . . . These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give . . . What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops. (Matt. 10: 1, 5-8, 27.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where. (Luke 9: 6.)

Letters To The Editor

REDUCE TAXES, INCREASE BENEFITS

Sir: Would you kindly grant me a space in your valuable paper to voice a grievance about city taxes etc. Like a good many homeowners I think it is very unfair to put all the burden of taxes on the home-owners; surely some other form of taxation to everybody, tenants as well as home owners is possible. They get fire protection, schools, garbage, police protection etc., and the city has raised our assessments as well as putting a 49.5 taxation on the home owners. They certainly don't encourage young people to invest in a home, and why is Peterborough's tax rate so high when Toronto who is doing lot of work too is only 32.5. That means 17 mills difference and another grouch is the taxes for hospitals and their deficits. (There certainly is something wrong here.) Why should such a burden be placed on the home owners and not on the others. The Gas Co. I believe is owned by the city. They changed the gas we were using to propane gas without the users having any say in the matter, and the propane gas spoiled my gas stove and pots and pans, and my pilot light is unusable. I pair $3.00 to the Gas Co. for it, and I've been waiting ever since the change over for a new one; that is about 2 years ago; also the price of gas went up. We were paying 60c for service charge, then it went to 90c, now we are paying $1.50 and we get nothing for the $1.50 we're paying. Now the telephone service is talking about raising the fees. They say they haven't raised the fees on telephone service; when we had our telephone put in it was $2.00. How do they account for the prices people are paying today if there was no increase.

I think the prices that are being charged by hospitals are terrible. How do they expect people of the working class to pay such exorbitant prices. That is why people have to stay at home and they don't get proper attention and probably they die because they cannot pay the hospital fees. Why don't the government form a general medical scheme in which the money could be taken from their pay cheque. It is being done in other countries. Why not in a country as big as Canada? And I hope the government is going to do something about the Old Age Pensions without the means test. When they had an election in the offing they brought forward the bait of the baby bonus; it would have been more to their credit if they looked after the aged as well. But perhaps they think they don't count. There are few these days at the age of retirement (the general working man) has enough to get by on owing to high taxes and high cost of living these past few years has been terrible and it is high time something was done about it to relieve the burdens to other shoulders.

Thanking you,

A TAXPAYER.

WHO INFORMED "INFORMED"

Sir: It seems to me that you protest too strongly the innocence of the Russians in the matter of anti-semetic activities. If you are truly a well-informed bystander who wishes to give even the devil his due, then I say hats off to you; but if you are yourself a Jew-hater or a Communist, then I say Bah! to such trash as you write.

Perhaps you will justify your stand and prove that you are truly "informed" for I find it difficult to understand how a person of this locality could be truly informed about events behind the iron curtain.

Informed or biased? I challenge you to prove which.

Yours truly,

Top Architect Predicts Functional Design Trend

By MEL SUFRIN

OTTAWA, March 28 —(CP)— A leading Canadian architect predicts that architecture will expand in the next half century on the theory of "design for living rather than for exibition."

A. J. Hazelgrove, president of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, sees in the next 50 years continuation of the trend toward design for internal comfort with external appearance expressive of function rather than style.

Canada would not develop a distinctive 'architectual style. In a world that is ever growing smaller architecture would develop on a universal basis.

The single-family dwelling will become a rarity in Canada, being replaced by multiple- family units as dictated by the needs of increased population.

Chaos Reflected

Mr. Hazelgrove said in an interview:

"Architecture has always been a visual expression of the lives of the people. Chaotic, varied conditions have until recently produced a chaotic and varied type of architecture.

"The development of modern architecture, which has followed practically parallel lines throughout the world, is a reflection of modern trends in life and government, whereby people are gradually becoming accustomed to regulation of their lives by authority.

"Coupled with this is the economic angle. High costs together with decline of craftsmanship will result in the elimination of many decorative forms which characterize traditional architectural style."

Depletion of natural resources would have a profound effect on architecture and building of the future.

Wood Substitute

For one thing, depletion of forests would mean the need of a substitute for wood in light construction. The general modern trend would be lighter material — thus lower costs — while retaining the necessary strength and endurance.

Plastics probably will play an important part in building construction — supplying a possible solution to the problem of developing light-weight, low-cost materials.

Reduction of coal and oil resources would eventually influence building designs from the standpoint of heating. Scientific research might develop some means of storing excess summer heat for winter use.

Town Planning

"Town planning, apart from new developments, is likely to be in the nature of correcting existing faults and there is ample scope for attack on that basis," said Mr. Hazelgrove.

"Restoration of depreciated properties should not be allowed to go ahead on a piecemeal basis."

The notion that buildings should be built to stand for all time and should be used until they are ready to fall down would probably be discarded.

"There should be a definite period set as the life of all types of buildings so that succeeding generations will not be saddled with outmoded-architectural designs," Mr. Hazelgrove suggested.

Advertise Taxes?

OTTAWA, Marsh 28.—(CP).—The taxation branch of the National Revenue Department spent $27,731 in advertising during 1949, it was disclosed in a return tabled Monday in the Commons by Revenue Minister McCann. Advertising in daily and weekly newspapers during 1949 totalled $11,-985; advertising during 1950 in daily and weekly newspapers, $3,-000.

Delegate Named

WOODSTOCK, March 28 (CP) —President-elect of the Engineering Institute of Canada, James A. Vance of Woodstock has been named the delegate to the British Engineering Conference to be held in Johhannesburg, South Africa, from April 11 to 20. The Institute's second representative will be Dr. L. Austin Wright of Montreal, general secretary.

Tape-Record Court

KITCHENER, March 28 (CP)— A complete mock trial is planned for the Ontario Magistrates' Convention to Toronto April 29 to demonstrate Magistrate H. R. Polson's pet scheme for police courts —the tape-recorder court reporter. Designed for use where shorthand stenographers are unavailable, an amendment to the Criminal Code is necessary to legalize use of the machines.

PROTESTING PICKETS — Vancouver Labor Progressive party members picketed the steamer Agrovan, left, in protest against sending its cargo of war-surplus US tanks to Nationalist China. The freighter is now on the high sea for Formosa, headquarters of the Nationalist Government.

Women Ignoring Public Affairs

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — Mrs. Cameron McKenzie, chairman of the Progressive Conservative Women's Provincial Advisory Committee, said Monday night that women are not making full use of the weight of their influence in public affairs.

In an address prepared for delivery in the "Provincial affairs" series of free-time political broadcasts over a CBC Ontario network, she said:

"I am afraid our women do not recognize even now the responsibilities and the opportunities implied when they won the universal franchise. I sincerely urge them to study public affairs, to scan the careers of our public men and to inform themselves so they may attain their proper place in the affairs of our province and our nation."

Senator Asks Gov't To Boost Help To TCA

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) —A British Columbia Liberal Senator Monday night called for government subsidies and better mail-carrying rates to keep Canada's air lines to the front in the air channels of the world.

Senator S. S. McKeen resuming Senate debate on the reply to the address to the speech from the throne, said he had been "shocked" to hear Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, call for the abandonment of Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Senator Haig said last Friday that the TCA, which had a deficit of $4,000,000 in 1949, was "too expensive" for Canada.

Those words "hit me hard," said Senator McKeen. "I don't think he (Senator Haig) took it seriously. He likely was trying to needle the government."

If Canada did not maintain air lines, then the country would lose out in the trade fronts of the world.

As for the deficit, it wouldn't be there, if the government was paying the mail-carrying rates it had paid in previous years.

Bandit Caught

MONTREAL, March 28.—(CP) —Provincial police Monday arrested a "lone wolf" bandit, 45 minutes after he held up the Provincial Bank of Canada branch in suburban L'Aboard-a-Plouffe for the third time in three months. He escaped with $650. Police identified the gunman as 45-year-old Salvador Dupuis of Montreal.

Murdered Father

VALLEYFIELD, Que., March 28.—(CP)—Sixteen-year-old Earl Sutton Monday was ordered to stand trial at the next criminal assizes on a charge of murdering his father during a family quarrel last March 11. Earl's 44-year-old mother was ordered for trial at the same time on a charge of counselling murder.

Jury Suggests Kidnapper Jailed 40 Years

DETROIT, March 28 (AP) —A jury of nine women and three men Monday convicted William B. Mabrey, 35, of kidnapping seven-year-old Karen Kuechenmeister last Nov. 15.

Judge Joseph A. Gillis said he would sentence the man April 6. The maximum penalty is life imprisonment. A charge of taking indecent liberties with the little girl was dismissed.

In an unprecedented move here Judge Gillis asked the jury to recommend the sentence. "This is just an experiment," the judge said.

The jury then recommended that Mabrey, manager of a small hotel and poolroom, be sent to prison for 36 to 40 years.

Left Film Board

OTTAWA, March 28.—(CP).—Three minor officials of the National Film Board have left their jobs as a result of the security screening recently completed. No official information was immediately available but it was learned on reliable authority that three employees had been dismissed or asked to resign.

Club Activities Outlined By Girls In Bethany

BETHANY, March 28 (ENS)— The Glad I Canner Club, which is sponsored by the Women's Institute held their meeting in the Bethany Town Hall, Saturday afternoon, with the senior women of the community as their guests.

Miss Beverly Pomeroy presided. The minutes of the February meeting were read by the secretary, Marie Carr. The roll call was answered by each member reading the minutes of one previous meeting, in order to acquaint the visitors with what had taken place during the year.

Miss Ruth McKinley read an essay "What The Club Has Meant To Me" and also gave a talk on the cereal shelf, illustrated with samples of the various grains and cereals and their by-products.

A short dialogue "Around the Clock With Cereals" prepared by Miss Laura Morton and acted by Joan Bristow, Eleanor Rowan, Grace Bigelow and Marie Finney, with Janet Bigelow as the narrator, further explained the work of the girls throughout the year.

Miss Jean Noble, home economist of Bowmanville, congratulated the girls on their achievements, also commending Mrs. Mansell Finney for her splendid leadership of the club, and Miss Laura Morton and Mrs. H. L. Challice who had also assisted. Miss Noble spoke further of the work of Junior Homemakers Clubs, Junior Farmers and Women's Institute groups and explained the different types of literature produced by the Department of Agriculture, which is free upon request.

Class record books were on display and were very attractive, containing a record of each meeting, home assignments and recipes used, with colored illustrations. The club members range in age from 11 to 15.

At the close of the meeting the girls served lunch prepared by themselves and the visitors enjoyed the dainty sandwiches, cookie, gingerbread, date squares and rice crispie delight.

Mrs. T. S. Gault expressed the thanks of the guests to Mis Noble for her talk and to Mrs. Finney, Miss Morton and Mrs. Challice for their fine leadership.

The girls will compete at a county Achievement Day to be held in Orono April 12.

Gave Beer To Girls

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)— Police in suburban Etobicoke arrested three men near Long Branch race track Sunday and charged them with supplying liquor to three girls aged 14, 15 and 16. Police said one of the girls admitted drinking two pints of beer.

Figures Don't Lie London Aldermen Say

LONDON, Ont., March 28 (CP) —Aldermen think they have just about refuted Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar's challenge to London's claim that this city enjoys one of the best municipal credit ratings in Canada.

In a legislature debate last week on municipal board matters, Mr. Dunbar questioned London's claim to cheap borrowing, and was reported to have said that Port Arthur and Hamilton had better records.

So local officials wrote to the two cities to learn the score.

In council Monday night a letter from the Port Arthur clerk-treasurer showed the best the city had done in a debenture issue was interest of 3¾ per cent.

Last year, London issued some $1,250,000 in debentures at a premium rate that cut the interest in 2.38 per cent, more than one per cent, below Port Arthur's.

A reply is still awaited from Hamilton.

Stalling Charge Delays Agreement

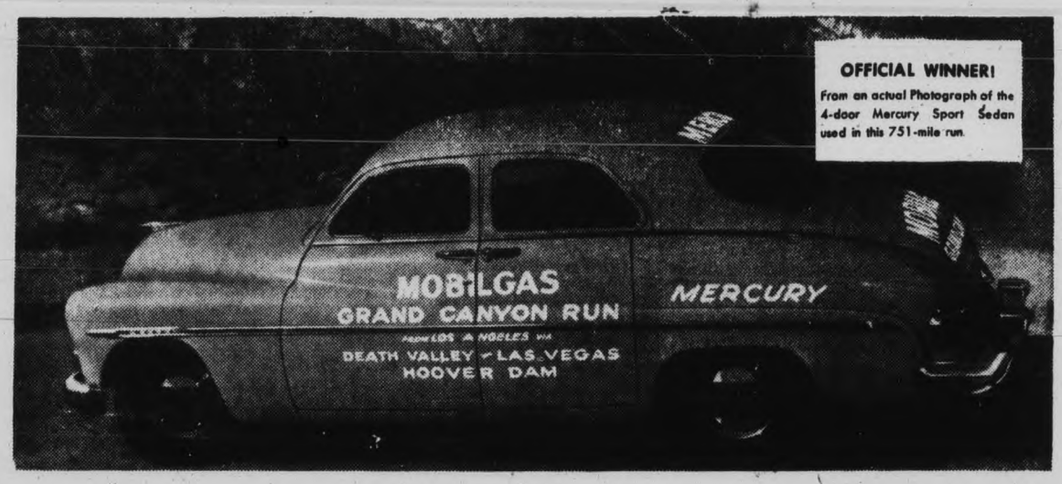
DETROIT, March 28 (AP) — Strikebound Chrysler Corporation was accused Monday by union leaders of "hedging" on its $30,000,000 pensions offer. The charge set back hopes for an early settlement of the strike which began 62 days ago.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers (CIO) said the company "deceived its 89,000 workers and "the public" by representing the $30,000,000 offer as a funded plan. He said Chrysler wants to use the $30,-000,000 in "a fancy bookkeeping operation" rather than set it aside in a trust fund.

A company spokesman immediately denied Reuther's charge, and said that the plan would be funded.

List Queen's Student Scholarship Winner

EDMONTON, March 28 (CP)— Announcement of the award of nine Beaver Club trust scholarships for 1950 was made Monday on behalf of the trustees, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey and General H. D. G. Crerar.



Recipients will spend two years at a university of their own choosing in Great Britain commencing next autumn. Value of the scholarships is £500 a year.

Successful candidates include R. Y. Grey of Queen's University.

The winners were chosen from 95 applications received from colleges and universities across Canada.

1950 MERCURY SETS AMAZING NEW GASOLINE MILEAGE RECORD

IN GRUELLING 751-MILE GRAND CANYON RUN

1950 MERCURY WITH OVERDRIVE OUT-PERFORMS 30 OTHER ENTRIES

The 31 cars taking part in this run were 1950 standard models representing every major U.S. make except two. These cars were perfectly tuned for this critical run, and operated by expert drivers. They had to keep an average speed of 42 miles per hour.

NOW it's been officially proven! Pound for pound the big new 1950 Mercury is the most economical of cars made on this continent.

For, in the 751-mile Grand Canyon Run conducted recently by the American Automobile Association, Mercury delivered grand-prize winning gasoline economy—over a rugged course which ranged from Death Valley with its 90° heat to 7000-foot icy mountain passes

This remarkable economy, made possible by the combination of Mercury's thrifty, V-type 8-cylinder engine, the "Econ-O-Miser" Carburetor and its gas-saving "Touch-O-Matic" Overdrive—came as no surprise to Mercury owners. For many Mercury owners had repeatedly reported gasoline economy far above average expectations

This 751-mile run conclusively proves Mercury's superiority in gasoline economy. To prove its superiority in comfort, handling ease, power and performance, take the wheel yourself and make your own demonstration run. See your Mercury dealer now.

Inspired Marmora Team Trounces Lakefield 12-5

BELLEVILLE, March 28—(SPECIAL)—An inspired Marmora team staved off elimination here Monday night handing their twice-conquerors from Lakefield a 12-5 defeat in their intermediate "B" semi-finals series, before nearly 1,000 fans. Lakefield won the first two games by 10-9 and 9-6 scores. The fourth game of the three-of-five series will be played in Peterborough Friday night.

The Marmora team clicking like castanets in all departments were full value for their win, especially after the first period when the speedy Lakefield front lines could hang up only two goals as against three for the homesters.

It was wide open hockey all the way with the stubborn Marmora checking featuring a victory that did not designate the difference between the squads. The Marmora team relied mainly on a sustained offensive that paid off handsomely in the second and third periods when they slung home five and four goals respectively. Lakefield got a pair in the first, one in the second and a couple in the third period. They should have had more but goalie Borland in the Marmora nets, who played an outstanding game, was the stumbling block.

Checking Hard

Checking was hard but clean with both teams using the body to good effect. The only incident to mar an otherwise clean game came when Percy Nichols clipped a Marmora forward over the head and drew a major.

Six sentences all told were handed out by Referees Ken McNaught and Bill Holway, four going to the visitors.

Marmora scored after 37 seconds in the first period and added another 11 minutes later. Fawcett and Hunter banged home a pair in 15 seconds for Lakefield to tie the score in the best hockey of the game. Leonard gave the homesters a 3-2 lead minutes later.

Lavender gave the Hastings crew a 4-2 lead in 37 seconds of play in the second period but Lonsberry got that one back a minute later. After that it was all Marmora as far as scoring is concerned, they banged home four goals without a return, one of them coming when Nicholls was off.

Score 3 More

They scored three more in the first four minutes of the third period then Lakefield rallied to shove in a pair. Marmora added another at the twelve minute mark and the rest was put and take hockey.

McInroy and Lavender paced the Marmora attack with three goals each. Stewart and Leonard got two each with Kerr getting four assists.

Leonard, Lavender, Trumble, Stewart, Kerr and McInroy with Borland in the nets shone for the winners. Nicholls, Blewett, Hunter, Peloquin and Henry stood out for Lakefield. Fawcett, Hunter, Peloquin, Lonsberry and Henry were the scorers for Lakefield.

The teams:
Marmora: Goal, Borland; defence, Leonard, Kerr; centre, Stewart; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, Goodchild, McInroy, Loveless, Blake, Robinson, Hay, Darrah, Webb.
Lakefield: Goal, Atcheson; defence, Jopling, Wasson; centre, Nichols; wings, Hunter, Blewett; alternates, Marshall, Burton, Fawcett, Henry, Peloquin, Lonsberry, Payne.

First Period
Marmora—Stewart (Kerr) :37
Marmora—McInroy (Goodchild; Loveless) 11:35
Lakefield—Fawcett (Peloquin, Henry) 15:15
Lakefield—Hunter 15:43
Marmora—Leonard 17:41
Penalties—Blewett.

Second Period

Penalties—Loveless, Nichols (maj.), Wasson.

Third Period
Marmora—Blake (Robinson, Hay) 1:42
Marmora—Lavender (Leonard) 2:09
Marmora—Stewart 3:07
Lakefield—Peloquin (Henry) 5:36
Lakefield—Henry (Nichols) 11:01
Marmora—McInroy (Loveless, Kerr) 12:32
Penalties—McInroy.
Referees—McNaught, Bill Holway. Belleville.

Markham Edges Legion 6-4 In Hectic Play Beat Out Locals By Nose

Earle Robinson's Markham Millionaires defeated Legion 6-4 Monday night at Civic Arena to even their best of seven series B playoff hockey series at two games apiece, before a packed house. Goals by Ron Bell and Jack Watson to break a 4-4 deadlock spelled defeat for Jim Ellis' fighting crew late in the third after a tense two-way struggle that had the large crowd on its toes all the way as one good play succeeded another from end to end, to the final whistle.

Greenlaw scored early in the first, as he darted through defence and took Parnall's pass out from behind to click on his second try from close in. Markham roared back but found Legion's defence tough to crack.

Finally at three-quarter mark Brennan skated deep into rival territory, passed back to Geo. Scott near the center blue line and the latter drilled a steamer past Nicholls through a maze of players to tie it up.

Pressure On

Seconds later, Singleton put his team two up from the right crease close in on a smart double pass from Perry and Brennan. Legion outplayed their rivals, however, on the rather soft ice but were outlucked on half a dozen golden chances close in and Stunden proved unbeatable.

Legion pressed hard in the middle frame to earn a fair margin in territorial play that culminated in a sweet goal by Joe Rochetta at 14.15 Doug Mortimer raced down right wing at top speed, swooped in front of the cage, closely pursued by Rochetta who poked the former's short rebound behind Stunden. Play was fairly clean in this session with but two penalties as against four in the first stanza.

Bert Hill, who starred throughout, put Legion in the van as the third sizzling session opened when he potted Sixty Coombs' rebound close in, on a fast thrust but Reg Singleton equalized seconds later from the Scott brothers and Brennan as he parked near the right goal edge on a fast passing-play to give Nicholls no chance.

Tie It Up

Doug Mortimer, who has been playing fine hockey in this series, combined with Greenlaw near the half-way mark to tie it up with the best goal of the night when he lifted a blazer from the right blue line that staggered Stunden and Toodie forked in the loose biscuit to tie it again and send the crowd into another uproar.

But alas, Dame Fortune smiled on the visiting crew in the final ten to bring victory, though Legion fought in their traditional style right down to the finish.

Hectic Stanza

It was a fine game all the way with the final stanza the most hectic from every standpoint, scarred with five penalties and studded with action.

Outstanding for Markham were the first line of Singleton, Bell and Brennan, who were dangerous at all times with Watson and the Scott brothers always a threat both ways. Sluce, Baker, Romney, B. Forgie and Jewett were also effective with Stunden having a good night in the nets Legion outshot the visitors by a fair margin. For Legion, Hill, Bob Parnall, Rochetta, Crowley, Coombs, Greenlaw, Vitarelli and F. Mortimer worked hard. Fryia has not yet regained his best form following his layoff but will be in there. Burns, Doug Mortimer, Montgomery and Godfrey gave their best as did Nicholls though he had an unfortunate night of it. The teams renew the feud Wednesday when Legion hope to regain the lead in this thrilling duel.

Summary.
Legion: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey, Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley, Vitarelli; alternates, Hill, Fryia, Coombs, Parnall, Greenlaw, F. Mortimer, Montgomery, D. Mortimer.
Markham: Goal, Stunden; defence, G. Scott, F. Scott; centre, Singleton; wings, Brennan, Bell; alternates, Sluce, Watson, Jewett, Forgie, J. Rumney, Baker, Clement, Perry, Carr.

2 Cage Teams Invade Ontario Finals

Black's Towne Togs and the Outboard Marines face the acid test Wednesday and Thursday. The finals start for the All-Ontario basketball championships.

The Towne lasses will be entering the big play for the first time. Other years the cagers have met taller, more experienced squads which have eliminated them early in the championship campaign. Last year the Toronto Clifton's clipped the Togs in the quarter-finals.

This year the varied squad of pint - and - quart - sized players pulled through the Lakeshore district without a defeat. They played home-and-home games with Cobourg, Trenton, Belleville and Port Hope.

Two weeks ago the Togs turned back the St. Catherines Merry Macs here and last week lost their first game this year to the Macs in the Garden City. They managed to squeeze through that series by only one point, therefore qualifying for the finals.

Get Their Chance

Wednesday night Hi Smith will lead his girls in the first game of the home-and-home series points-to-count with the high-scoring Stratford quintet The western Ontario club took the London entry easily in the first game disheartening the crew so much they defaulted the second game. The return game will be in Peterborough April 8.

Doug MacPherson's Outboard's have not as clean a winning season as the Towne Togs. The Marines started playing exhibition games in December and suffered several setbacks then. Most of the players took part in the City League during January but still continued as a team.

With a bye into the intermediate playdowns the Marines started the playoffs in February against the Toronto Broadview YMCA five. Returning to Peterborough after the first game in Toronto with a five-point deficit the Marines pulled up handily here to take the series. A week ago the Marines entered the second round taking Hamilton Cycles 47-35 here. Saturday they won the round in Hamilton by nine points.

With the Southern Ontario title in their pocket the Outboard crew head to Sault Ste. Marie for the first game of the best out of three series Thursday The second game will be Friday with the third, if necessary, Saturday.

If the Marines win in the Soo, the cage quintets in Eastern Canada will start the playdowns towards Peterborough with the final series here.

Hanks Hold Slim Lead Over Aberdeen Team

MILLBROOK, March 28 (ENS)—Hanks hold a slim three-point lead over the Aberdeens in the second last week of the bowling league in Millbrook. Henry's boys have rolled up a total of 62 points while Aberdeens have 59. Vegetarians and Bankers have a small chance to overtake the Aberdeens in this week's play, Each team has 56 points.

The standing for the rest of the league is: Chek-r-Chix, 51; Merchants, 49; Lancashires, 41; Sawbones, 40; Rinky-Dinks, 38; Dingalings, 36; V-8's, 26; HGC's, 23; Pipe Twisters, 19.

Ted McDowell swept the men's high single for the week with a 328 while wife Mary had the high single for the women, a 252, along with Barbara Harkness.

Oshawa Rink Captures Trophy In Popular Kiwanis Bonspiel

By HERB. MARTIN.

So completely did the visiting Kiwanians predominate in the annual Kiwanis bonspiel, held at the Charlotte St. rink Monday, that only two local rinks reached the charmed circle. The honor of winning the Kiwanis Trophy and first prize went to a Parkhill's Oshawa rink, runners up a year ago. A. Asseltine, Orillia, captured the Lord Calvert Trophy and Jack Sinclair, Peterborough, won the third event, the R. Wilson Trophy. The remaining prizes were fairly well distributed.

In opening the bonspiel Monday morning, Rev. W. McDonald spoke in glowing terms of the wonderful work done by the Kiwanis Club and hoped they would continue with their work for many years to come.

Mayor M. J. Swanston welcomed all on behalf of the city and felt sure that they would all feel better for having come.

The visitors were high in their praise for the hospitality shown them. They complimented the local Kiwanis Club on the success of the bonspiel.

Rinks were entered from as far north as Timmins, Chatham on the west and Belleville on the east.

Chairman Jack Allen did one fine job—he was here, there and everywhere—had a glad hand for all and a ready answer to everybody. He was the right man in the right place. He deserved all the nice things said about him.

The presentation of prizes is always a pleasant item on the program, and last night was no exception.

The games were run pretty well on time and the 'spiel was all over around midnight. We believe we are not far wrong when we say it was one of the best.

BILL STACK, above, who tangles with Jack Wentworth in the opening bout of this Thursday's mat card at the Brock. The feature match brings together Whipper Billy Watson and Vern Baxter. In Baxter the former champion will be meeting one of the roughest grapplers in the ring today. As a matter of fact, Baxter is so rough that in most places in the States he is barred from television audiences. Watson has tamed most of the tough ones and will attempt to do the same to Baxter. The semi-final on this week's card shapes up as a classic with Steve Stanlee and Johnny Barend hooking up. Both are smart, clean, scientific men and fans can look forward to a good scrap.

Lindsay Takes Scoring Crown Durnan Wins 6th Vezina Award

MONTREAL, March 28 (CP)—With the National Hockey League's first 70-game season officially closed, Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings captured the Art Ross Trophy for being top point-getter and Montreal's goalie big Bill Durnan, copped the Vezina Cup for the sixth year.

Final league statistics released today show that Lindsay, a native of Renfrew, ended the season with 23 goals and a record-setting 55 assists for 78 points, holding a comfortable nine-point lead over teammate Sid Abel.

Top Assists

The fiery left-winger's assists topped by one a league record of 54 assists in a regular 60-game schedule set by Montreal Canadiens' Elmer Lach in the 1944-1945 season. He took over possession of the trophy from Roy Conacher of Chicago Black Hawks.

Abel, the Red Wings' team captain, finished the season in second spot with 34 goals and 35 assists for 69 points, only one more than Gordie Howe, who completes a Detroit sharp-shooting three-man line with 35 goals and 33 assists.

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal ended in fourth position with 65 points. His season's 43-goal total is seven short of an NHL mark he chalked up in 1944-1945.

Durnan has captured the coveted trophy every year since the 1943-1944 season, except in 1948 when it went to Goalie Turk Broda of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The cup is awarded annually to the goalkeeper who has played the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it. Durnan played 64 of the season's 70 games and allowed only 141 pucks past him for an average of 2:20 goal against each game.

Broda Shut-Outs

Broda got the most goose-eggs this season with a total of nine, followed by Durnan with eight, Detroit's Harry Lumley with seven.

Most penalized team was Toronto with 804 minutes in the cooler, while Montreal's 736 minutes placed the club in second spot. Bill Ezinicki of Toronto spent 144 minutes in the hoosegow this season, winning the dubious honor of most penalized player for the second consecutive year. A close second was Gus Kyle of New York with 143, while Lindsay came third with 141.

Joe Primeau Boston Coach?

BOSTON, March 28 (AP) — Joe Primeau, onetime star Toronto Maple Leaf centre, today loomed as possible successor to George (Buck) Boucher as coach of Boston's Bruins—provided the local National Hockey League club's offer is attractive enough.

Boucher's release, surprising few, became official Monday. The Bruins issued a statement, after Boucher said he was fired, that Buck had been signed for one year "with no further commitments."

Primeau was considered a top candidate for the post a year ago. However, reports were that Bruins couldn't, or wouldn't, meet his demands. Joe, presently coaching Toronto's Marlboros, a Maple Leaf amateur team, in the Allan Cup playoffs, has a successful brick and tile business.

Boucher, normally quiet and soft spoken, described his release as a "dirty deal."

He said he had been informed Friday night as the Bruins travelled to Toronto for their final game there against the Leafs.

"It was a blow and made it a rough ride," Buck told hockey writers. "Art Ross told me I done a good job, but when I asked him why I wasn't going to get another chance he merely told me the club had other plans."

lakes and streams," he asserted. The Ontario Hydro Commission was mentioned and he was not satisfied that everybody on the commission is greatly interested in conservation.

Share Cost

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver (Grey South) thought the federal and provincial governments should share the cost of reforesting the 3,600 square miles of the pre-Cambrian shield, building flood-control dams and controlling lake-shore erosion.

Mr. Oliver said the committee had decided that "the time was not ripe" to raise the Ontario Agricultural College to the status of a university. Since the college was dependent almost entirely on the Ontario government for funds it should not be administered by an independent board, he added. The committee recommended that a board of regents be appointed in an advisory capacity.

Conservation Officer

The committee had also recommended that conservation be under the direction of a chief conservation officer with the rank of deputy minister in the premier's department. The Department of Planning and Development which was supposed to deal with conservation was little more than a "map-drawing department," he said.

O. F. Villeneuve (PC—Glengarry) said present drainage referees are not qualified to advise municipalities on all aspects of conservation. He also said that there should be co-operation to end spreading of weed seeds from lakehead grain elevators.

The question of the pre-Cambrian shield area was brought up by C. E. Janes (PC-Lambton East) who said farmers in that area were living in what might be called 'slum conditions". If it were reforested the land could be put to good use, and the farmers at the same time could be employed in bush work.

North Raises Cattle

Another speaker in the night sitting was J. M. Newman (L.-Lab.—Rainy River) who said land in his northwestern Ontario constituency is as arable as any in southern Ontario. Even dairy and beef cattle could be raised there.

C. C. Cox (L.—Fort William) said that fires caused the greatest loss of forest resources and he believed helicopters were the most effective weapon.

set up as a base period.

Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) proposed this amendment, declaring that government policies have seriously damaged Canada's market in Britain. The United States offered no long-term market prospects for farm goods.

Mr. Wright entered the debate to say that the CCF amendment had been moved because Agriculture Minister Gardiner had said the government would us the 1943-45 period to determine relationships between farm prices and costs but that this did not necessarily mean the government would be prepared to maintain that level.

The minister reported that exact relationship was not maintained in any other country.

Opposition Support

Indications of some Progressive Conservative and Social Credit support for the government bill in the forthcoming vote developed during the session.

H. O. White (PC-Middlesex) and John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) said that, while the measure did not satisfy them completely, they would support it on the ground that it went part of the way.

Expectations were that the prices support bill, which entails the continuation of a revolving fund of $200,000,000 for stabilizing farm prices, would come to a vote fairly quickly. The legislation which it prolongs is due to expire midnight Thursday.

When discussion turned to the prices support bill, John A. Charlton (PC—Brant) said his party favored such legislation, but felt it should contain a definite formula for fixing floor prices.

Sole Power

He did not believe that the minister should have sole power to fix floor prices that might have no relationship to the prices farmers had to pay for the things they needed. It was meaningless for Mr. Gardiner to say that Canadian farmers were getting more than farmers anywhere unless he could also show that floor prices were in line with the things farmers had to buy.

He wanted to know how the government could justify a 38-cent-a-dozen floor price for eggs. If farmers costs were taken into consideration, the floor price should have been 46 cents a dozen.

The government also was fixing the floor prices at the wholesale rather than at the producer level. Wholesalers who purchased eggs at their low of 16 cents a dozen would make a nice profit if they sold the eggs after the floor price was set.

Britain To Cut

cy countries like Belgium, Switzerland and Persia by exporting more as a result of last September's sterling devaluation.

An over-all squaring of accounts depends on three particularly crucial factors:

A.—Britain's wage stabilization policy.

B.—Greater industrial efficiency to keep down costs and so gain the benefit of devaluation from overseas trade, particularly in dollar markets.

C.—A continuing big world demand for goods. This is related particularly to healthy business activity in the United States.

The survey revealed the government's aim to achieve a £25,000,000 surplus in 1950-51 for the overseas sterling area apart from Britain herself. Last year the area (less Britain) had a $182,000,000 deficit.

Economy Stronger

On the over-all picture of economic progress, the survey said:

"Basically, the economy is much stronger than in 1947. The main problem—for many years ahead—is still the balance of payments, but devaluation gives us opportunities which we must seize.

"There is now a reasonable possibility of achieving a general balance of overseas payments and making good progress towards closing the dollar gap, given the maintenance of world trade and the completion of the European recovery program as originally planned."

But the survey warned:

"There remains a formidable task to be accomplished. Primary aim of the long-term program (due to be completed when Marshall Plan aid ends in 1952) will not have been attained until we are fully self-supporting in our economy."

In dealing with the home front the survey came up with some solid predictions.

In Britain where only about 400,000 people are unemployed out of an industrial population of about 22,500,000, the survey expected as many jobs in 1950-51 as last year.

More Food

It foreshadowed for austerity-ridden Britain a slightly rosier year. More milk, fats and eggs, possibly more meat were likely to be available—but no more sugar yet.

There would be a wider range of choice in household goods, and enough tobacco to keep up to last year's rate of smoking.

Prices increased should be small if incomes did not rise more rapidly than output.

"The prospects of 1950 depend on the continuance of American aid, though on a diminished scale, during the next two years. This continuance is a basic assumption underlying all that has been said about production, investment, consumption and the balance of payments," the survey said.

Newsweek

Newsweek looks at Life Insurance

RECENTLY members of Newsweek magazine's editorial staff interviewed Mr. Leroy A. Lincoln, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, on the subject of Life insurance.

The tremendous role that Life insurance plays in the national economy, and the interesting institutional material developed during the discussion, are so important that a motion picture has been made of this interview. This film will be given wide distribution in line with Metropolitan's "Open Book" policy.

Naturally, in reply to questions from the editors, Mr. Lincoln made many references to Metropolitan's achievements in 1949. In fact, the interview developed the information that is customarily included in the Annual Report to Policyholders.

Accordingly, a complete transcript has been printed as the Company's Report for 1949. Here are some of the highlights of that report:

—"Metropolitan . . . paid about $769,000,000 (to beneficiaries and policyholders last year) . . . and I might add further that . . . (this includes) $502,000,000 to living policyholders."

—"For our 33,000,000 policyholders in the United States and Canada, the total Life insurance in force in the Metropolitan at the end of last year was almost $42,000,000,000 — an increase of 4 percent over the preceding year."

—"Metropolitan's assets totaled $9,700,000,000, an increase of about 6 percent over the figure for 1948."

—"Through the combined efforts of the many health organizations, the average expectation of life at birth has improved 18 years since 1900. At that time it was about 49 years — while right now it is about 67."

—"Expenses for the Life insurance companies have gone up the same as for everybody else. For example, in the Metropolitan last year they increased about 4 percent . . . insurance in force in Metropolitan has increased about 80 percent since 1939, whereas operating expenses have increased only 71 percent."

—"In 1949, Metropolitan . . . paid $164,000,000 in dividends to policyholders — the largest such amount in the Company's history. Dividends payable to policyholders in 1950 will be somewhat larger in the aggregate than 1949."

—"Dividends would be substantially higher were it not for the low interest returns which have prevailed throughout the United States and Canada. For example, last year the net interest earned on Metropolitan assets was 3.07 percent, compared with 3.03 in 1948, and with 5.18 in 1929."

Metropolitan's Annual Report to Policyholders for 1949 will be sent to anyone on request. In addition, copies of the film may be borrowed for showing by local business, civic, or other groups in which Metropolitan policyholders are interested.

SOME FACTS ABOUT METROPOLITAN'S OPERATIONS IN CANADA

These highlights of the Company's business in Canada during 1949, our 77th year in this country, will be of particular interest to Metropolitan's Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries

Metropolitan paid in 1949 to its Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries $41,286,966 in death claims, matured endowments, dividends and other payments. Of this, 69% was paid to living policyholders.

The total amount the Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada in 1872, plus the amount now invested in Canada, exceeds the total premiums received from Canadians by more than $364,000,000.

Life Insurance in Force

In 1949, Canadians bought $208,278,971 of new Life insurance protection in the Metropolitan, bringing the total of the Company's Life insurance in force in Canada to $2,356,103,078 at the year-end. This amount is made up of 57% Ordinary, 29% Industrial and 14% Group.

Total Investments in Canada

Metropolitan's total investments in Canada amounted to $557,336,716 at the end of 1949. The Company's dollars are at work throughout the country . . . in practically every phase of production and distribution . . . helping to produce more goods and create more jobs for more people.

Health and Welfare Work

During 1949, a total of 212,458 nursing visits was made to those insured under Metropolitan Industrial, Intermediate, and Group policies in Canada; over 2 million pamphlets on health and safety were distributed, and the Company took part in 154 Canadian health campaigns.

Want To Build 4th Station At Busy Corner

Application of Imperial Oil Company for permission to build a service station at the northeast corner of Park Hill Road and Water St., was referred to the town planning committee by the board of works Monday night with the request that, if possible, a report be received by next Monday night.

The request was presented by J. Gordon Dunlop, Toronto, manager of the Ontario division of the company, who was accompanied by Mr. Robert Baker of Peterborough.

Mr. Dunlop said that company sacrificed their George St. location opposite Confederation Square in the spirit of co-operating with the city in its acquiring of a site for the city hall.

The company wished to replace that outlet for a large volume of gasoline and oil by securing suitable property approximately in the same area.

Ald. T. D. Miller mentioned that a residential bylaw excludes a gas station from that corner, but the zoning bylaw permits neighbodhood shopping.

"It seems to me the bylaw is at odds with zoning," Ald. Miller said.

When the deputation had gone, Ald. E. C. Braund said there were already three service stations in the Water St. Park Hill Road area, "why should we have four?"

"According to their statement of volume I don't think Imperial Oil sacrificed anything. We did them a favor in buying it," Ald. Braund said.

It is understood that the property at the Inverlea corner is owned by Mrs. Walter Ferguson whose late husband was proprietor of the Ferguson bus lines.

Mr. Dunlop told the board of works the company would remove the house on the corner and build its latest type gasoline service station; give the apex at the corner to the city for improvement of traffic facility there; erect attractive fence and some shrubbery.

Mr. Dunlop said Imperial Oil had considered that corner because it was already a neighborhood business centre, with two service stations, a refreshment booth and grocery, apartment houses in the neighborhood, and it is reported that a drug store is to be opened on the east side of Water.

HIGH SCHOOL CHILDREN at Warkworth enjoy the facilities for subjects outside their academic curricula which add a practical outlook to the modern junior miss and the teen age boy. These students above, are engaged in pursuits typical in many rural high schools in this part of Ontario. Miss W. Rusaw, home economics teacher is demonstrating to Jean Allen and Shirley Fox, using Wylanne Hermiston as a model for the pyjamas the girls are making. In the boys' workshop Principal A. M. Fulton explains a lathe turning project to Garnet Towns and Willis McCracken. (Examiner Staff Photos)

Police Courtesy Big Appeal To Visitors

Ontario city police departments are becoming one of the best tourist boosters in the province. Their courtesy to visitors (the Peterborough force included) is becoming a byword.

Recent attention was brought to the "courtesy letter" plan used by the Kitchener Police Department, which has been congratulated on its courteous treatment of out-of-town motorists seen breaking a local traffic bylaw or even the Highways Traffic Act. The Kitchener plan has been functioning so well that officials as far west as Edmonton have been asking for details with a view to implementing the scheme there.

Peterborough also has a courtesy plan for visitors to the city and during the summer, it is used extensively. Police Chief John Thompson has received many comments of appreciation for the helpful and often generous treatment given strangers to Peterborough.

Special Tickets

Every city constable carries a book of small white tickets—they differ from the usual dreaded parking ticket—which are named courtesy cards. The card tells the offending motorist that he is either parked by a fire hydrant, is too close to the corner, in a bus stop area, violating parking meter bylaws etc. The offences are listed and the constable puts a cross beside the appropriate listed item.

The card merely draws the visitor's attention to the infringement and at the same time tells him "Peterborough Welcomes You."

Sketch of Roads

On the back of the card is a sketch of the main highways through Peterborough, giving directions to other parts. It also bears a note, in two paragraphs, about the size and industrial importance of the city.

Kitchener's plan differs from this city's. When a visiting motorist has committed a traffic offence, a letter is sent from Police Chief John Patrick to the offender, pointing out the particular infraction of the bylaw.

The letter offers the department's services and expresses a wish that the visitor will come again to the city. Enclosed is a circular of the Chamber of Commerce outlining Kitchener's history and industrial possibilities.

Executives of business firms and private drivers have written stating they thought the method of drawing the driving error to their attention was excellent. They invariably promise to watch out in future and a number have said the letter made them feel they really wanted to come back.

Under the Peterborough scheme, and this probably applies to Kitchener as well, visitors receive these warnings without being summonsed. If, however, an out-of-town motorist is found offending repeatedly, he pays the penalty.

Rural Schools Streamlined

WARKWORTH, March 28—(By Staff Reporter)—The days when the only hope of a good education for children living in rural areas was to send them into the cities have now been relegated into the historic past. City residents may, perhaps understandably, enjoy their modern schools with a little smugness, but a visit to the country districts would serve as an eye-opener to anyone who thought the equipment of rural high schools was in any way inferior to the city schools. One of the most striking features about the high school and public school building at Warkworth is the facilities for teaching the girls home economics and the boys wood and metal work.

The school building is not as streamlined as the latest schools but a glimpse at the home economic rooms on the second floor and the boys' workship would make many older people wish their school days were starting again.

The home economics room is designed on modern lines with kitchen, dining room, living room and all the appliances which make up a comfortable home. The girls learn to cook on a modern electric cooker, they have a refrigerator and are given every opportunity to become experienced hostesses

Advanced Work

Sewing is another field of their work. Equipped with sewing machines, they pass beyond the elementary stages of sewing. The grade nine and ten girls are just starting to make pyjamas having already completed blouses.

Apart from personal articles of clothing they learn crocheting, knitting and various handicrafts Some of the younger pupils make slippers, chesterfield socks, kettle holders and many household articles

Have Power Tools

The wood and metal working shop for boys is well equipped with power tools, hand work benches and even a small blacksmithing forge. Pupils learn to use their hands and prepare themselves for trades after leaving school.

Principal Fulton, an enthusiastic photography fan, was showing one boy several telescope lenses in the science laboratory at the time of the interview. He showed the reporters several excellent personal pictures he had taken during the field day sports in 1949 and explained how he had managed to create a great deal of interest among a group of eight boys in the photo finishing field.

The national game of hockey Mr. Fulton explained, surpassed all hobby interests in winter and that the boys were off to the rink at the first ring of the dismissal bell.

CNR Car Ferry Ends May 1 Donald Gordon Tells Gov't

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—The Commons railway committee today prepared to continue a searching scrutiny of the operational policies and future plans of the Canadian National Railways. The end of the car ferry service at Cobourg was set for May 1 Donald Gordon said in outlining immediate policy.

Mr. Gordon, the $45,000-a-year head of the government-owned line, told the committee Monday that it would like to buy more coal from mines in the Maritime provinces. He also said the C.N.R., as one of this country's biggest coal buyers, does not hold "a gun to the head" of small east-coast operators to obtain low fuel prices.

Buy Cheapest

The C.N.R. President told Clare Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) the company's purchasing department had to make the best bargain it could, but it did not try to force down the price below the local range.

East-coal operators, Mr. Gordon said did not produce sufficient coal to meet C.N.R. requirements

This year, for example, the C N. R. needed about 2,300,000 tons of coal in the Maritime area. But the operators could only promise to deliver about 1,120,000 tons. This would make it necessary for the system to obtain much of its coal requirements from the United States.

The Federal Government was aware that the system would have to be run at an annual loss of about $5,000,000.

Mr. Gordon interjected that the lost will be cut this year to about $4,2000,000.

On other matters of company policy, Mr. Gordon said:

1. The Ontario car ferry at Cobourg, Ont., will be abandoned about May 1.

2. The company planned to spend $37,000,000 for new equipment this year and more would be spent in future years depending on need and economic factors

FULL TIME MAN

The Board of Health in Belleville will be requested to investigate the possibility of employing a full time medical officer of health for the city, it was decided by members at a recent meeting.

Wray Deplores Lack Of Comedy

TORONTO, March 28 (CP)—With what Adjudicator Maxwell Wray called "a very good artistic effort," the North Toronto Theatre Guild Monday night opened the Central Ontario Drama Festival with "King Phoenix," by Robertson Davies.

While the play was well presented, Mr. Wray felt that the author could not make up his mind whether he was writing satire or tragedy.

There was also a lack of "meat" in the play itself, although there were some good stretches of writing.

"The group and the director," he said, "were obviously greatly experienced and are to be commended." The director, Herbert Whittaker, drama critic of the Globe and Mail, "did an excellent job, not only in directing, but also in designing the set and the costumes."

It was the 44th play he had seen during the regional festivals, and he said there was an unfortunate lack of comedy throughout. He said he found it discouraging that so many groups should entice him to the theatre with the sole object of making him "miserable."

WINTER LEAVING

New novices of childhood's first fun of spring are hopping on the sidewalks to the swish of skipping ropes. It seems only a few days ago since they were burrowing in the last clean snow of winter. Boys are knuckling marbles, older lads are heaving baseballs, kites will be flying as soon as fields dry, and the most alluring adventure of all is seen here and there where surface water lies in pools, boys (and girls) on rafts.

Senator Fallis Tangles With Roebuck

Quits Committee On Human Rights, Charges Too Much Bias

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) — The Senate and the Speaker Monday night wrangled over procedure as a Progressive Conservative Senator, described a Liberal Senator's speech as a "biased and partisan" approach to the question of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

Senator Iva Fallis of Peterborough (PC-Ontario) initiated the verbal scuffle when she called attention to some remarks made previously by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario) on the question of human rights and said she would withdraw as a Prospective member of Senator Roebuck's committee.

Rising on a question of privilege, Senator Fallis said she had been approached by Senator Roebuck to become a member of his committee on human rights and freedoms. She had agreed, then later reviewed Hansard and found some remarks that branded Senator Roebuck as taking a "biased and partisan" approach to the question.

Gives Excerpts

On being pressed, Senator Fallis read these excerpts from Senator Roebuck's speech in the Senate last Monday:

"The dangers which the world is facing today flow from two opposite sources: privilege, as promoted by those on the right, and socialistic worship of the state to the utter disregard of the rights of the individual, as promoted by

"Old-time Tory privilege, with its assumptions of superiority by some over the masses of mankind, with its landlordism, its claim to ownership of the gifts of nature, its denial of equality, both economical and political, is bad enough, God knows; but I doubt whether this side of the story is as bad as the other side.

"This attitude of privilege has cursed the world with tyranny, oppression, untold poverty, cruelty and woe . . ."

Feeling himself "injured" by what had been said, Senator Roebuck said he wanted to rise on a question of privilege to have his say.

Ruled down twice, Senator Roebuck reluctantly took his seat—right next to Senator Fallis—and said:

"This is the first time in my experience that a member has not been allowed to explain his position."

Veteran Finds New Home Before Deadline

After a prolonged absence good luck has returned to the Markwick family of Lakefield.

On Saturday, 27-year-old Jack Marwick, his wife and four small children were facing eviction from their cottage home in Lakefield park. Today they are settling into their new home at 736 Victory Crescent.

Everybody's happy. Especially Mrs. Markwick who is expecting a baby.

An S. D. and G. veteran, Markwick has been dogged by bad luck for the past two years. Two prolonged illnesses left him unable to do his former job at CGE and subsequently, while working there as a laborer, he has lost a lot of time.

He got behind with the rent and bills began to mount up. The trend of affairs was discouraging. Last week it was a case of the last straw. The family was ordered to move.

Workmates Help

Workmates and union officials, hearing of his case, sprang into action. A house had to be found over the weekend as the deadline was Monday night.

And find one they did—a Wartime House on Victory Crescent. The Markwicks moved in Monday afternoon and volunteers are helping them clean and decorate their new home.

With this fresh start the Markwicks hope to be able to make a go of it.

Council Buying 2 More Trucks

Purchase of two trucks at $2,667.91 each for the sanitation department was recommended to the council Monday night by the board of works.

They are two-ton trucks with heavy equipment and dump combination body for the collection of garbage. They are Ford trucks supplied by Irwin and Godson, local agents, whose tender was accepted as the lowest by $432. each.

The motion by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the sanitation department, was seconded by Ald. H. Waddell.

A truck for the board of works department is also being bought from Irwin and Godson at $1,560 net. Allowance on a trade-in was $554. Four bids were received. Acceptance was moved by Ald. Waddell and Mayor Swanston.

City's Policewoman Won't Get Uniform

Smart blue uniforms for the policewomen of Ottawa were introduced last week. But few police forces in Canada have uniforms for their women members.

In Peterborough Mrs. M. Shadgett, a member of the Salvation Army, is part time police matron. In this city, women do not offend the law often enough to necessitate a uniformed force of policewomen.

Board of Works Rejects Housing Proposal; Rents May Be Boosted $1

Board of Works voted Monday night against Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation terms for uniformity of rents of the 326 houses of their last local projects which they are now completing. This recommendation of rejection of the Corporation's proposal was a reversal of the action last week on exactly the same subject. The only substantial difference was the presence of two aldermen more than the attendance at the finance committee meeting following the council's session Monday, Mar. 20.

Then, as Monday night, a motion of assent to the corporation's proposal was moved by Ald. A. B. Burrows and seconded by Ald. J. A. Dewart.

Ald. Herbert Young voted with them, and the line-up of opposition was: Mayor Swanston, Aldermen Waddell, Braund, Gillespie, and Miller.

Ald. Dodds, chairman, did not vote on this committee question, following usual practice, and Aldermen Sands and Anglesey were not present.

Old Story

The pith of the Corporation's request to the council has been reported and published several times. Their final projects in Peterborough were 226 houses in No. 10 project and 100 in No. 11. Average cost of the first group is likely to be less than the second. Circumstances of location and soil conditions have caused a difference in cost which may have to be reflected in the rents.

John Wocker, representing the Corporation, told the board Monday night that costs would not be known until all the work was finished But, enough was already known about these two projects to indicate some increase of probably one dollar a house on the final 100 units, unless adjustment was agreed.

Ald. John Dewart said the 326 tenants would be all getting equal value when the last dollar of cost was known. Providing equal value, the Corporation desired to charge equal rents.

To the opposition argument that "we don't know what the Corporation is going to charge", Ald. Dewart said he understood the city had been carrying on negotiations and agreements with Central Mortgage, that they were reputable people, and relations had been most agreeable and satisfactory.

Ald. Dewart said there was no agreement between the Corporation and tenants. They were getting equal values and Central Mortgage wished to charge them the same monthly rates to avoid any invidious difference entering into the community of the same eligibility of war service.

As already reported, some houses of the two projects have been built on the same street. When finished and occupied, the rent for one house may be less than the rent for the same type of house across the street. And it could be that the tenant of the higher rental house saw longer and stiffer service than his opposite neighbor. Difference in priority of rental was based on number of children in the respective families.

The present charges have been $34.50 and $37.50. It is understood from the Corporation plea that rents of these two types of houses in the last project will be increased probably at once to $35.50 and $38.50. But, houses of the same types in the second last project may be reduced somewhat from the $34.50—$37.50 basis.

Mr. Wocker repeated that the costs of the 226 houses of No. 10 project could not be known until midsummer when the landscaping was finished.

Will Restore Firefighting Aid In Smith

Temporary fire-fighting assistance to Smith township residents is being restored by the city council until June 15 at $200 a call according to the recommendation of the committe of the whole council Monday night.

Ald. Doug Miller, chairman of the fire and light committee, reported that residents of two sections of the ownship have ordered pumpers with promise of delivery by the middle of June. One is to be kept at Bridgenorth and the other is for the suburban area immediately north of the city.

Do Their Part

"We told them last year that if they would do something to provide fire fighting service for themselves we would extend our protection until they received their equipment and became established," Ald. Miller reported. "They have done so, and I think we should do what we promised for both those areas. There is no retainer charged as previously, but it is agreed that the charge for responding to a fire call, excepting chimney fires, would be $200 a call."

Ald. Miller said the city's department would not go outside the city for chimney fires.

The committee decided that, if the township equipment has not arrived by June 15, terms of the agreement be reconsidered.

Appoint H. L. Garner To Tourist Committee

Harold L. Garner, general manager of The Peterborough Examiner, was named one of a committee of seven to further the province's part of Canada's National Tourist Week, May 1-8. The meeting, held in Toronto on Monday, was attended by 50 delegates representing all phases of the tourist industry. It was presided over by deputy-minister of travel and publicity, Tom McCall.

Other committeemen chosen were M. E. Tomlinson of Gravenhurst, Clarence V. Charters of Brampton, J. C. Porter, Basil Mason and Vernon Lang, all of Toronto, and S. D. Reyburn of Ottawa.

Authors Work Part Time Cut Income, Avoid Taxes

By DON GILBERT, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The treasury is being reminded by some of Britain's leading authors of Dr. Samuel Johnson's pronouncement 200 years ago that "no man but a blockhead ever wrote for money." The writers are in one of their periodic moods of protest against a taxation system which leaves them little incentive to push their earnings beyond a modest level.

As a result, a number of well-known authors are rationing their output. They work for a few months to ensure solvency in the household budget, then "hibernate" for the rest of the year.

The current discussion of taxation on literary earnings was touched off by R. C. Sheriff, author of "Journey's End," one of the best plays about the First World War. Sheriff disclosed he turned down a lucrative Hollywood contract—one that would have brought Britain a useful wad of dollars—because the treasury wouldn't play ball.

Dig This

The playwright wanted the British surtax on his earnings waived. In return he would have endowed some archaeological work on a Roman site in Norfolk. The Government turned thumbs down and Sherriff stayed home.

Other authors chimed in that they, too, would earn more dollars if the surtax were not so heavy. Said Novelist Nevil Shute:

"About two-thirds of my income cmes in dollars. I could double my dollar income by working harder — but why? I cannot get any benefit for myself or for my children by doing so.

"As soon as I have earned £10,000 ($31,000) in the financial year I stop work and turn to model engineering and oil painting," he said.

Main Gripe

Taxation takes about 87 per cent of a £10,000 income. It rises to a maximum of 97½ per cent on £20,000, at which level only six-pence is left out of every pound.

The authors' main gripe is that the Treasury doesn't take into account the fact their peak earning period usually is short and is often preceded and followed by lean years.

Arthur Bryant, chairman of the Society of Authors, said the Treasury should recognize the distinction between literary income (royalties) and literary capital (the author's copyright).

"The author, while subjected like others to income tax on royalties, is not permitted to sell any part of his copyright or capital without the proceeds from such a transaction being treated as income and taxed as such," said Bryant. "He cannot, therefore, like the business or professional man, protect his old age through the untaxed appreciation of the capital or goodwill of the business which he has built up."

Soap Opera

Sir Alan Herbert, humorist and former member of parliament, put it in simpled terms: Writers' incomes should not be treated like those of soap manufacturers.

"We are one-man businesses," he said. "If we are ill our incomes stop. If soap manufacturers are ill their incomes continue."

St. Laurent Loses College Debate

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent and Liberal supporters in the Hart House Debating Society lost out Monday night in a debate at the University of Toronto.

By a vote of 159 to 153, a resolution "that there is no effective national alternative to the Liberal party" was defeated.

However, the Prime Minister took the setback with good grace He smiled and waved cheerfully as he left Hart House's great hall.

Mr. St. Laurent, listed as honorary visitor, spoke in support of the affirmative, which was upheld by J. E. Eberle and J. A. Geller. He criticized those persons who, he said, spread fear through the country with talk of depression and growing unemployment.

Ask Editors' Help Find Graduates Jobs

OTTAWA, March 28 — (CP) — Labor Ministes Mitchell is calling on newspaper editors of both daily and weekly newspapers to help find jobs for the record number of men and women—16,797—who will soon graduate from Canada's universities.

In a letter sent out to editors Saturday, the minister said:

"A very large proportion of this year's graduating class is made up of war veterans, many with family responsibilities not always associated with the younger graduate. They deserve the same consideration from employers as was extended so well in the days immediately after VE-Day."

He said advertisements soon will be published in their newspapers "in connection with staff recruiting by employers." He sent along statistical breakdowns of the number of graduates in the various lines of study not only for all Canada but by regions.

Rotarians Shown Film On Mining

A film on the development of copper mining and smelting in Montana was shown the Rotary Club Monday by G. T. Berner. Mr. Berner is the general sales manager of the Anaconda American Brass Company and a past president of the Mimico-New Toronto Rotary Club.

Rotarian Berner was introduced by Ian McRae, program chairman for March, and thanked by Charles Kingan.

A minute's silence was observed for charter president of the Peterborough club, Fred Roy, who died last week after a short illness. The club was led in the hymn, "Abide With Me," at the close of the silence.

Guests were introduced by Burritt Smitheram. A sing-song was led by Charles Allen.

Husbands, Wives Switching Buying Habits

By FORBES RHUDE, Canadian Press Business Editor.

Well, well, perhaps men do have something to do with the family buying after all.

We have been reading so much recently about how the "little woman" manages the purse strings of the household that it was beginning to look as though the so-called "head of the house" was just an errand boy bringing home the weekly cheque.

Some women speakers have been saying that women spend 85 per cent of the average family's pay.

However, there now comes along a piece in the current issue of Canadian Daily Newspaper Markets which says:

Not So Important

"Women are less important in purchasing consumer goods than is popularly believed, according to a University of Illinois report. Women buy 55 per cent of the goods for the family; men 30 per cent; husbands and wives together 11 per cent; children four per cent.

"Men are doing more of the family buying than in 1940. Men are buying a larger percentage of women's goods, such as clothing, toilet articles, draperies and kitchen ware. Women have increased in importance as buyers of drugs and hardware.

"Men and women shop together more frequently now than in 1940 for groceries, women's clothing, kitchenware, draperies, hardware and drugs—less frequently for furniture and clothing."

Is this good, men? It's doubtful, for if you examine those items and figure you will find ground for thinking that all they mean is that men are being made more domesticated, something that any observer can see without the help of statistics.

Ontario Plants

The Trade and Industry Branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development reports that in 1949 it has assisted in the establishment of 47 new branch manufacturing plants in the province.

Capital invested in plant and equipment totalled $33,149,000, employees number 5,229, and their annual payrolls total $10,500,000.

Prince Edward Island Tightens Margarine Ban

By The Canadian Press.

New margarine legislation providing for tightening of the present ban on sale and manufacture of the butter substitute in Prince Edward Island was approved in principle by the Legislature at Charlottetown Monday.

Agriculture Minister Baker said the legislation would come into effect on a date to be fixed by proclamation, and would replace the 1937 Dairy Act under which the current ban was imposed last year. Quebec is the only other province which prohibits the manufacture and sale of margarine.

Patronage Rife

At Halifax, G. E. Smith (PC-Colchester) told the Nova Scotia House that "patronage is rife" in the province. He said every crown prosecutor appointed in Nova Scotia since the Liberal government took office in 1933 not only is a Liberal supporter but also was given the job because it was "necessary to reward him."

At Regina the Saskatchewan Legislature adjourned debate on second reading of a bill to amend the natural products marketing act. The Liberal opposition succeeded in postponing action on the bill which removes the necessity for calling a vote among producers before setting up a producers' board to handle marketing of any product. The present act provides that if a marketing scheme is to be set up, 51 per cent of the producers must favor it.

Oppose Premier

The Alberta Legislature rejected an attempt by Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse to establish a [illegible] on export of natural gas. Mr. Prowse wanted an amendment that permits would not be granted "unless such gas is surplus to the present and future needs of the province."

N.S. Bridge Starting This Year–Chevrier

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) — The Strait of Canso bridge in Nova Scotia is expected to be opened for traffic in late 1953 or early 1954, Transport Minister Chevrier Monday informed Percy Black (PC-Cumberland) in the Commons.

The Minister said it is expected tenders will be called in July of this year.

Bird Shower Dies

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — A prominent member of the Canadian Agriculture Society, Mary Thornton Gill, 82, died on Monday. Her exhibits won more than 500 ribbons and other prizes at the Canadian National Exhibition, Royal Winter Fair and Canadian Agriculture Society shows. Her aviary houses budgies, finches, a parrot and 100 canaries.

Colleges Broke Need Gov't Aid

BELLEVILLE, March 28 (CP) — Canadian universities are so close to financial disaster that it is difficult to stress the significance of the position in which they find themselves, Dr. G. Edward Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario said Monday in an address.

While universities revenues come from various sources, he told the Rotary Club, student fees account for almost 50 per cent of the financial resources of these schools. These fees, he added, have increased from 15 per cent some 15 years ago to the present figure.

Speaking of federal financial aid, Dr. Hall said it was necessary that the universities of Canada not only get increased capital grants, but annual grants for maintenance.

CHATEAU SIZZLERS
This recipe makes a bun feel mighty proud! Just wait till you taste the cheddar-flavored "zing" that Chateau gives!
4 bread buns
¼ cup deviled ham or ¾ cup finely chopped ham
¾ cup chopped onion
1½ tbsp. butter
½ lb. pkg. Borden's Chateau cut into 16 slices
4 tbsp. catsup
Dash of thyme or parsley
Spread ham on toasted bun halves. Cook onions in butter until soft. Add thyme or parsley. Mix well. Spread over ham. Top each bun with 2 slices of Borden's lip-smacking Chateau and catsup. Broil at low heat until cheese melts and is flecked with brown. (Chateau Cheese melts as smoothly as it spreads and slices.) Serve piping hot to your friends or family. It's a fine party-or-main dish.

Jordan Has Rejected League Boycotting Arab Council

By ZEIN NAGATI.

CAIRO, March 28 (AP)—Hashemite Jordan Monday brought the long-existing split in the Arab world into the open by boycotting the Arab League General Council.

The league's political committee promptly met in an urgent secret session and retaliated by formally inviting representatives of the Gaza "All-Palestine Government" in exile to attend its meetings.

The committee will continue tomorrow its deliberations on what further action to take against King Abdullah's Jordan.

The invitation to the Gaza representatives was a direct slap at the Jordan kingdom. The Hashemite king has incorporated nearly all Arab-occupied Palestine into his realm, though not by formal decree. He is holding parliamentary elections throughout Jordan and Jordan-occupied Palestine next month.

The Gaza Arab Government was set up for all Palestine in 1948 at Gaza in the small southern coastal strip controlled by Egypt. It was not recognized by Abdullah, and it hurried into exile when a Jewish offensive late in the Palestine War threatened its safety. Despite acute financial difficulties, it has continued to exist at Heliopolis, a Cairo suburb where its aetivities have been confined mostly to issuing passports for Palestine Arabs.

No Recognition

In turn, it does not recognize Abdullah's absorption of the greater part of Arab Palestine. Also angered by Abdullah's actions is Haj Amin el Husseini, mufti of Jerusalem, who aspired to lead an independent Arab Palestine. He also is in exile here.

The break in the seven-member Arab League occurred on the week after its fifth anniversary. It was organized to weld the Arab state of Jordan, Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and Yemen into a solid block.

A highly placed league source said Secretary-General Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha was notified that Jordan was boycotting the meeting because of Egyptian press attacks on Abdullah. The Cairo press has been flaying Abdullah for allegedly engaging in secret peace negotiations with Israel.

Radio Licence May Be Ended

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 28 (CP)—The current $2.50 licence for radio receiving sets in Canada may be abolished in 1951, delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters were told Monday.

The prediction was made by Jim Allard, CAB general manager. He indicated it was based largely on numerous representations made to the current Massey Royal Commission on the Arts, Letters and Sciences to have fee abolished.

The CBC, which controls radio in Canada, asked last year that the fee be boosted to $5, but a government spokesman indicated in Ottawa last fall that the request would not be approved.

Mr. Allard said CAB membership now is at the highest in its 25-year history, comprising 100 private radio stations and 23 associate bodies.

Delegates chose Montreal as the site of the 1951 convention to be held in April. The board also was authorized to hold the annual meeting in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec City, alternately.

Frank Ryan of Ottawa was elected general membership trustee on the three-member board of trustees.

Almost As Good

EDMONTON, March 28 (CP)—Eskimos aren't convinced that the RCAF's Arctic clothing of nylon pile is equal to their own suits of caribou skins, 16 Air Force men who recently completed a winter survival course at Cambridge Bay NWT, reported Monday. "But they told us we were on the right track and to keep trying," they said.

Steals Watch Gets 15 Days

COBOURG, March 28 (ENS) — Robert Dayton of Port Hope was sentenced to 15 days in jail when he appeared for sentence Monday on a charge of theft of a watch in Port Hope. Dayton is quoted as having told police after his arrest that when he was out of work he would continue to steal when he wanted money.

"I have said all I need say," declared Magistrate R. B. Baxter to the Port Hope youth. "I told you before what would happen to you if you didn't change your conduct. Perhaps when you see what jail is like you may change your attitude."

Bill Milner of Cobourg was sentenced to one day in jail on a charge of stealing a shirt from Douglas Kells. He pleaded guilty. Chief W. J. Carey said that the shirt was taken from a rooming house and when picked up the accused was wearing it.

"I just borrowed it," said Milner.

Harold Sherwin was committed for trial on a charge of theft of a power saw from H. S. Oliver of Percy Township. Sherwin is a resident of Percy township.

WINNIPEG, March 28 (CP)—Police Monday investigated an attempt by vandals to desecrate a downtown Roman Catholic church Sunday night. Police said someone tried to smash the altar tabernacle — containing the blessed sacrament—of St. Mary's Cathedral. But the strong tabernacle lock and door withstood the battering.

Sue To Recover Passage Money

AJAX, March 28 — (CP). — Nine Baltic refugees, at a dispersal camp near here, are defendants in an action brought last Saturday in Cork, Ireland, by four fellow-refugees to recover money for passage from Sweden to Canada. The group here at Ajax said 13 other defendants are in a camp at St. Paul L'Ermite, Que.

The suit is against 69 persons—22 in Canada, 27 in Ireland, and 30 still in Sweden—to recover passage for transportation in a vessel owned jointly by the 69. A former landing craft, bought in Sweden, it was impounded in Cork Harbor after being declared unseaworthy.

Monday night the refugees here told of the escape from Estonia to a displaced persons camp in Sweden. They said Swedish authorities would issue only visa to a family and that the Soviet periodically demanded that they be returned from Finland and Sweden.

The 69 pooled their savings and bought the ship, named the Victory. They took approximately 200 passengers who paid their fares to America. But when they put in at Cork for supplies the vessel was impounded and the refugees put in camps. Later, a number were able to continue their trip and came to Canada to the Ajax and St. Paul L'Ermite camps.

Those left in Ireland engaged a Cork lawyer, John B. Cotterell, to recover their passage money.

A spokesman for the group said they still hope to fit the ship for the ocean voyage to bring out the other refugees or for commercial use. They said they hope to make a settlement with those still in Cork.

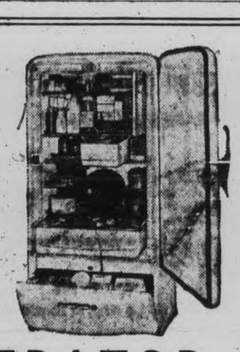
Borrows Boss' Car Jaunt Costs $4,700

TORONTO, March 28.—Audrey Leslie of Woodstock was ordered by Mr. Justice Ferguson Monday to pay $4,700 damages over an accident in which she wrecked a car belonging to her employer, John Werby, Woodstock retailer.

Miss Leslie was to go on a picnic with the Werby family, but took the car without his consent to do an errand of her own. When the car collided with a taxi, Mrs. Ethel Bennetto, a passenger in the taxi, was almost scalped by the force of the blow, the judgment said. She was awarded $3,065. William Sykes of Windsor, her brother, who received concussion and shock, was awarded $1,198.

GIVES WIFE ADVICE



"Do you mind a mere male having something to say about washdays? My wife keeps my shirts sparkling white, which is important in my business. She tells me the secret is Reckitt's Blue, which prevents clothes turning yellow. She takes no chances with anything that may damage fabric. Just a swish or two of Reckitt's Blue in the final rinse is all there is to it. The fact that Reckitt's Blue costs only a few pennies a month makes sense to me, too." A-S-R

Complete Two Quilts

A pot luck dinner preceded a quilting bee at which two quilts were completed by members of the Woman's Association of Cavan United Church when they met in the church basement last week. Final arrangements were made for a special Easter meeting and tea to be held Wednesday, April 5 at the church. Invitations are being sent to Millbrook, Fairmount and Springville Associations, and the special speakers will be Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings, and Mrs. E. Wand of Peterborough. Mrs. Tinney reported the purchase of new silverware and a tablecloth to replenish the present stock. It was decided to again give out "talent money" in view of last year's success with this project, $23.00 being given out and more than $100 returned. Mention was made of Mrs. Keegan, a member who is confined in Lindsay hospital, and remembrances will be sent to her.

Advice Given Mothers

The MA Club of St. Paul's Church met Monday evening in the Guild Room with 27 members present. The Rev. H. G. Douglas was the guest speaker and gave advice to the young mothers on treatment of children in the home, how to answer their questions and other problems, also touching on the racial relationship. He was introduced by Mrs. C. G. Boyd and thanked by Mrs. Geo. Coleman Jr. Devotions were led by Mrs. T. MacMillan. It was planned to hold a rummage sale in the spring, further announcement to be made. Refreshments were served by social convener Mrs. H. Watson, assisted by Mrs. H. Perry, Mrs. T. MacMillan and Mrs. H. Fredericks.

DROUGHT MEANS DEATH—A herd of hippopotami wallow in one of the last remaining mudholes in Lake Rukwa, Tanganyika, Africa, which was once a vast, 12-foot-deep lake. A severe drought virtually dried the lake up, bringing death to the hippos, who cannot live long out of water. One of the animals struggles to free himself from the mud, while the rest lie still. Some are already dead.

Teachers, Mothers Discuss New Curriculum

A panel discussion of revisions in the school curriculum, led by Miss Marie Hicks of the PCVS teaching staff, was the program for the regular meeting Monday evening of PCVS Home and School Association. These revisions have not yet taken effect and will be introduced gradually at various schools after next September.

The purpose of education is to teach the child to grow into the fullest life he is capable of, and that, it is hoped, will be brought about by the proposed changes. Miss Hicks introduced three mothers, Mrs. W. B. Gordon, Mrs. J. L. Thompson and Mrs. J. Stewart, who put forth questions concerning the curriculum to Collegiate teachers, Miss Helen McGregor, Miss Eva Scott and Miss Katherine MacDougall.

It was explained that many dissatisfactions have led to the changes now proposed by the Ontario government. Progressive educational methods advocated for the past 20 years have not brought forward all the hoped-for results. They have helped the individual pupil to express himself but it has been proved that unless a minimum of certain knowledge is imposed the pupil ends by being confused and learning little.

To that extent the new curriculum will go back to the old idea of enforcing a certain amount of knowledge as a general basis for education, leaving other parts of the curriculum to be set up by each locality as it is found suitable. Thus, in an agricultural locality, the subjects stressed would be agricultural, and a bi-lingual region, for instance French, would be introduced in the public schools.

Following are the four points to be followed:

1—No entrance examination. (This is now in force).

2—Re-distribution of the teaching load.

3—Responsibility of setting courses upon the municipality.

4—New divisions in school levels (grades); primary division, grades 1 to 3; junior, grades 4 to 6; intermediate, grades 7 to 10; senior, grades 11 to 13.

Until now education has spotlighted training pupils to make a living, but it has been found that education must go further and train them how to live as well.

The new plan also hopes to do away with formal examinations in order to keep the pupil working all year round—not just concentrating a few weeks before the tests. Pupils will then be graded according to ability and advanced when they are ready for advancement in the teacher's opinion. This method will place a greater onus on the teacher than at the present time.

The meeting was held in the Collegiate gymnasium with president Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy presiding.

Delightful entertainment was given by Trinity Church choral group of 22 mothers from the Baby Band Auxiliary, led by Mrs. D. B. Gordon. They sang an English folk-song, "Come Down to Kew," "The Flower and the Tree" by Gustav Helm and "Twilight Shadows" by Moffatt. Mrs. J. Stewart was pianist for the evening.

Business included plans for a rummage sale on April 4 at the market hall, to be convened by Mrs. P. Martyn and Mrs. C. McBride. A letter was read which came from an Italian boy to whom a Christmas parcel was sent, his name having been obtained through the Save the Children Campaign.

Mrs. Jacob Low moved the vote of thanks to those taking part in the discussion.

Mrs. Jas. Matthews expressed appreciation for services to the president who is retiring from office and presented her with a past president's pin.

Social convener Mrs. R. J. Ward and committee served refreshments.

U.S. Educators Plan Study Trip to Europe

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —The little red school-house has been streamlined and given wings under the "flying classroom" plan of education developed at Michigan State College.

The college now is planning its most ambitious project: a flying classroom trip to Europe.

A chartered plane will take off from New York March 18 to carry 60 of the nation's top educators on a six-week study tour of Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and Holland.

If the red tape can be snipped the group also hopes to visit Russian-controlled Czechoslovakia.

Most of the time will be spent in first-hand observation and conferences with key leaders. Trends toward governmental control, cartels and labor-management problems in England; folk schools and co-operatives in Scandinavian countries; Marshall Plan results; influence of Communism, business, industry, agriculture and other topics of current significance will be explored.

Heading the project is Prof Carl M Horn, director of continuing education at Michigan State College.

"Perhaps the most hoped-for goal is some contribution to a better international understanding," Horn said.

Finances Provided

The European flying classroom will be financed from scholarships provided by business, industrial and other organizations and individuals. Several thousand organizations will combine to provide $1,500 for sponsoring one representative from each state, selected by state educational committees.

Each participant will agree to speak at state educational conferences and to key business, individual, labor, agricultural, religious and lay groups to pass along what was learned on the trip.

In order to benefit as many groups as possible, a quota on the types of educators to be selected has been set by the college. The quota includes three college presidents, three deans of education, 26 school superintendents, 10 school principals, three commissioners or assistant commissioners of education, and three classroom teachers holding office in state or national educational associations.

Experienced Director

Horn, 52, with almost 30 years of experience in Michigan education, is credited with the first significant development of air travel as an educational technique.

His first venture in transporting educators for first-hand study came in 1945, when he took a group of Michigan school administrators on a national train tour of army, navy and air force schools.

In the summer of 1946 he conducted the first flying classroom trip on a study of business and industry in five large midwest and eastern cities. The tour has become an annual affair. Horn also launched the first national flying classroom in the summer of 1948—a month-long, 7,500-mile trip which took 44 educators on an aerial tour throughout the United States.

Horn is optimistic about the future of the flying classroom.

"The air age offers education one of its greatest opportunities and challenges," Horn says. "We know definitely that learning is quickest and easiest when the subject matter is approached directly. Textbooks are sorry substitutes for the real thing."

Alpha Theta Sends $500 to Hospital

Sending a cheque for $500 to the Peterborough Civic Hospital for furnishing a room in the new building was definitely decided upon at the meeting Monday evening of Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, and the treasurer was given authority to mail it immediately. President Mrs. H. Lambert was in the chair for the meeting in the YWCA club room.

It was decided to hold a raffle on a tailored suit and the tickets will go on sale shortly. The matter of a place to hold the annual founder's day banquet was discussed.

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Helen Ford, who was introduced by Miss Mary Clifford. She spoke on elements of beauty and discussed art as to line, rhythm, and balance, illustrating her remarks by showing how the artist works the basic fundamentals of drawing into his picture.

Miss Mary Bolton was in charge of refreshments served by the social committee.

Next meeting will be on April 10.

"Impulse Buying" Menaces Thrift

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) — Dr. A. M. Shaw, chairman of Canada's Agricultural Prices Support Board, has a word of advice for would-be thrifty shoppers — restrain that impulse to pick up a tastefully wrapped commodity.

He told housewives at a meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers last night one reason for mounting grocery bills is their inability to resist that temptation of "impulse buying."

A large percentage of housekeepers wandering through grocery and chain stores purchased quantities of food they "absolutely don't need" just because the product is presented in bright, colorful wrappings and containers, he said.

Church Groups Help UEFB Easter Parcels

Responding to leadership given by the Local Council of Women, headed by Mrs. W. C. Steinkraus, a goodly size shipment of foods was forwarded from this city, to take its place with others from various parts of the province, in the special drive for parcels for Easter, sponsored by the Ontario executive of the United Emergency Fund for Britain.

This came as a result of the combined efforts of various groups associated with St. James' United Church, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Knox United Church, Mark Street United Church, Stewart Hall United Church and the Lily Lake W.A.

Among these the Explorers' Group of St. James' United Church merit special mention, being largely composed of young girls below the teen age, who collected 415 cans of food, which was made up to the even 500 cans by the CGIT group of the same church.

Twenty large cartons of a variety of foods were forwarded to headquarters at Toronto, there to be packed into the standard size parcels for forwarding to the distributing warehouse in England.

Cash Donations

Since last reporting, further cash donations towards the sending of parcels to Peterborough, England, have been received from Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Kitney, $5.00, and the Women's Art Association, Mrs. Seaton, president, and Mrs. Pearl Brooks, treasurer, $19.64. This latter represented the balance on hand from proceeds of collections taken at the meetings, and utilized for sending parcels overseas.

All cash donations received up to this week end will be translated into parcels for Easter to elderly people, and those wishing to share in this should leave their contribution at any bank or forward it to F. G. Mann, chairman of the local branch at 199 London St.

DOROTHY DIX

Spendthrift Pair Believe They Can Always Earn More

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married three years and my wife and I are as happy as any two persons can be. We are both of a gay, pleasure-loving nature and although we both work and earn good salaries, we have not saved a cent. We live well, we dress well, we go to theatres and restaurants and cabarets. But I am beginning to wonder whether it is wise for us to spend all we make having a good time while we are young or if we should lay up something for the future.

Dorothy Dix

ROBERT

ANSWER: I think, Robert, that any young couple who are earning good money and who do not put aside something for a rainy day are not only fools but dishonest.

They are fools because they deliberately delude themselves into believing that they will always be young, always strong and healthy, alway prosperous. Yet they know that the sun does not always shine for anybody. Misfortunes come to all. Sickness comes to all age comes to all. To all comes the day when they can no longer earn money and when, unless they have saved up enough to tide them over the evil hour, they must come to want and know the humiliation of dependence.

They Rob Others

It is dishonest for men and women who could lay up enough money to support themselves not to do so, because they rob other persons by just that much. They eat their cake and then force the rest of us to divide our bread and butter with them because we cannot let them starve. The prodigals who spend their substance in riotous living always come back in the end to graft their living off the thrifty and industrious, which is a pretty mean, low, hold-up game to play on your family and friends.

It seems to me that the rewards of thrifty are so great and the penalties of extravagance are so terrible that no sane person could fail to see how important it is for a young couple to save every cent they possibly can.

The only free men are men with money in the bank. All others are slaves.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 22, very much in love with a man nine years my senior, and we are thinking of marrying. Last night he asked me this question: "If we were married and I gave you love and happiness, a good home and a comfortable living, what would you do to keep my love?" I replied: "I would be a good, faithful and loving wife, isn't that enough?" He did not answer, but told me to go to you for advice. Will you please tell me if there is anything more I could do to keep his love.

R B

ANSWER: I presume that what your fiance wants me to tell you is that just being a good, faithful and loving wife isn't enough to keep a man in love with you. These are basic virtues, but they are not the charms with which women conjure men. There are thousands of model wives who lose their husbands because they have lost their figures, or lost their pep, or because they have just ceased to be interesting companions.

Of course, this is very sad. It is very unfair and unjust, but it is very true that in these days the woman who keeps a man in love with her has to carry a double line of attractions. She has to be domestic and a good manager, a good wife and mother, and at the same time she has to keep herself easy on the eyes, an entertaining companion and a play girl. She has to perform on the gas range with one hand and on the piano with the other, so to speak.

I think it is these few facts that your fiance wished me to call your attention to, and I think he shows he is a just man in giving you a fair warning that he expects you to continue being a Lady Love as well as a wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man 21 years old. My parents are very strict with me and treat me as if I were a little kid. They will not allow me to go out with girls. They say I am too young yet. Don't you think they are doing me more harm than good by being so strict?

GILBERT

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think the parents who keep a boy of 21 in leading strings are ruining him. They are making of him a sissy, and if he doesn't get away from them he will never learn to stand on his own feet. Possessive parents are the greatest curse any child can have. My advice to you is to get out on your own and try to make a man of yourself.

Mr. Donald Shannon, Jr., has taken a position with the CGE in Peterborough.

Mrs. John Clairmont is confined to her home through illness.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

At the Canasta table, where a two-handed game is in progress, I find that arguments frequently arise concerning the existence of so-called "penalty cards." A typical question asked of me is:

Q—In one of your columns you stated that in a two-handed Canasta game there is no such thing as "penalty cards," and that the player could pick up exposed cards and put them back in his hand. May I ask under what rules this is permissible?

✧ ✧ ✧

A—"There are no penalty cards" is stated in the Official Canasta Laws of the National Canasta Laws Commission, Section VI, under the heading "Canasta for Two Players."

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—I dealt and turned up a joker. What should I do? Who could pick it up and with what?

✧ ✧ ✧

A—No one could pick it up with anything. If the card turned up by the dealer is a joker, a deuce or a red trey, the next card of the stock pile is turned up to cover it. If necessary, continue this process until a natural card is turned up.

In this situation, incidentally, the pack does not become unfrozen when the initial meld is made. Regardless of the initial meld, the pack remains frozen, and can only be taken with 2 natural cards matching the upcard, as long as there is a wild card or a red tray in it.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—Our side has not made the initial meld. At my turn may I meld the required minimum wholly out of my hand, and then pick up the discard pile with only one natural card and a wild card, and make an additional meld or melds? In this instance the discard pile is not frozen by a red trey or a wild card.

✧ ✧ ✧

A—No, you may not make your initial meld from your hand, and then pick up the discard pile. The play consists of three parts—the draw, the meld, and the discard—and you must draw first, even though you can meld the required number of points before drawing. Since the pack is frozen to you until your initial meld is made, you still need 2 natural cards to pick it up, if you desire to do so at that turn.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—Is it permissible to use a wild card and 2 black treys as a final meld to go out?

✧ ✧ ✧

A—Yes. A player may meld 2 black treys and a wild card, or 3 black treys, or 4 black treys, provided they are all from his hand and he is melding out at that turn.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—The player next to the dealer picks up the dealt cards and finds 4 red treys in his own hand. Is there any extra bonus for holding these in one hand besides the 800 count for 4 red treys?

A—No.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—May an initial meld be made with 3 wild cards and 2 natural cards?

✧ ✧ ✧

A—Yes. The rules state that you may not use more than 3 wild cards in any meld. In order to make a canasta out of this particular meld, you must add 2 more natural cards to it.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Shirley Dorfman, a former blue baby, celebrated her 16th birthday last Saturday. Attending the party was Dr. Dudley Ross, left, chief surgeon at the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal, who was the first in Canada to perform the delicate operation on the heart, and who is credited with saving Shirley's life.

Premiers' Wives Have First Meeting

TORONTO, March 28 —(CP)— Mrs. Louis St. Laurent and Mrs. Leslie Frost met Monday for the first time. They were good friends in no time at all.

The meeting was in a 16th-floor suite of the hotel, headquarters for Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent during a one-day visit to Toronto. The prime minister was here to address the Canadian Club, to take part in a University of Toronto debate and to sign a Niagara water power treaty between the Federal and Ontario governments.

Mrs. Frost came to Toronto from her Lindsay home for the meeting.

6—In Memoriams

CARROLL—In loving memory of Patrick Joseph Carroll, who passed away March 28th, 1946:
I will love thee 'til I perish,
'Til my hands in death grow cold,
'Til all things on earth I cherish
Sleep in death and shrouded mold.
'Til, oh 'til I cannot tell thee
If my love shall ever die,
For a whisper seems to tell me
It will live beyond the sky.
—Sadly missed by wife Jennie

CLEMENTS—In memory of a loving wife and mother, Mrs. Thomas Clements, who passed away March 28, 1949.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

GUERIN—In memory of William Guerin, who passed away six years ago, March 28, 1944.
While you dear parent rest and sleep,
Your loving memory we'll always keep.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

LITTLE—Mrs. James Little who passed away March 28, 1947.
More and more each day we miss her,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
—Lovingly remembered by husband James, son and daughter-in-law Russell and Margaret.

LITTLE—In memory of a dear mother, Ida Little, who passed away March 28, 1947:
Her weary hours and days of pain,
Her troubled nights are past
And in our aching hearts we know
She has found sweet rest at last.
—Ever remembereod by daughters Olive and Myrtle.

MAXWELL—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Eliza Ann Maxwell, who passed away March 28th, 1940, ten years ago today.
Dear mother how we miss you.
Our hearts grieve with pain,
But we're trusting in Jesus
That we'll meet you again.
—Sadly missed by her daughter, Elizabeth Montgomery and grandsons, Arnold and Noble.

Counsel Undecided On Guay Appeal

QUEBEC, March 28—(CP)—Counsel for J. Albert Guay, sentenced to be hanged June 2 for the murder of his wife by time-bombing a commercial airliner, today will decide whether to appeal the verdict and sentence.

Senior counsel Bertrand Marcotte and his associate, Gerard Levesque, said Monday night they are studying the possibilities of an appeal. They have until Wednesday to decide.

The two lawyers visited the 32-year-old jeweler who was convicted of plotting his wife's death for the love of a 19-year-old waitress, petite Marie Ange Robitaille.

If the case is not carried to appeal, Guay will be transferred to the death cell of Montreal's Bordeaux jail where all hangings for the province take place.

Ocean Protects United States Navy Man Says

WASHINGTON, March 28 — (AP)— A top United States Navy expert challenges the widespread belief that modern war machines such as long-range aircraft have ended the long immunity of the U.S. from foreign invasion.

"By fully exploiting the use of sea power it will always be possible for this country to ensure that a war will not be fought on our own soil but will be carried to the terrain of the probable enemy," Rear-Admiral C. B. Momsen said Sunday.

Momsen, inventor of the famous Momsen Lung used to escape from sunken submarines, now is assistant chief of naval operations for undersea warfare.

Declaring that "our most probable enemy today" is concentrating on submarine construction and that the navy has given anti-submarine warfare "highest priority", Momsen said:

"By drawing inferences from the effective undersea campaigns of the past it seems almost a sure bet that an attempt will be made to nullify our sea power through the use of the submarine and the mine."

He added, however, that he had reasons to believe that a development is just ahead which will enable the U.S. "to drive submarines off the sea. . .and if my prediction is correct, submarines will become a mighty dangerous business."

He made no reference to previous naval estimates that Russia had 270 submarines and is building others.

Is Bell Paying Proper Prices?

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners is interested in only one aspect of the relationship between Bell Telephone Company of Canada and it subsidiary, Northern Electric Company.

Hugh Wardrope, assistant chief commissioner, said yesterday the only question the board wants answered is whether or not Bell is paying proper or improper prices to Northern Electric for the services received.

His ruling settled a controversy which arose at the board's hearing of Bell's application for higher phone rates in Ontario and Quebec.

Northern Electric, more than half of which is owned by Bell of Canada, supplies Bell with various types of equipment which it manufactures. It also stores and purchases materials for Bell.

The board's ruling prevented Claude Prevost and Claude Choquette, Montreal counsel, from cross-examining a Bell witness, staff supervisor Harry E. McCrudden, on the details of the corporate relationship of Bell and Northern Electric, as well as connections with American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Western Electric in the United States.

Baron Says UTW Communist Led

MONTREAL, March 28 (CP)— Sam Baron, international vice-president of the Textile Workers' Union (CIO-CCL), said today that the rival United Textile Workers of America (TLC-AFL) is run by Communists and named four of its top Canadian officials as Communists.

At a press conference Baron named as "Communists and members of the Labor-Progressive party" R. Kent Rowley, vice-president and Canadian director of the UTW, Miss Madeleine Parent, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian district, Leo Roback, research and publicity director and Charles Lipton, organizer.

Baron said the AFL-affiliated union is "shot through and through with Communists."

"Over the past few years," he said, "to make this charge would immediately invite hot denials, the retort 'liar and Red-baiter,' and also a threatened libel suit I now directly charge that Rowley, Parent, Roback and Lipton are Communists and members of the LPP."

Baron passed out to newspapermen what he said were affidavits signed by Azellus Beaucage, ousted UTW organizer, and Miss Simone Darche, former UTW office employee, admitting they both had been Communists.

Beaucage, fired from the UTW last month for alleged mismanagement, recently led a group of the union's local 102 members over to the UTW. The local's members are employed by Dominion Textile Company in Montreal.

G. HARRY THOMPSON, chosen a vice-president of the Ontario division of the Red Cross Friday, was also one of four members in Ontario to receive honorary membership.

Honorary Member Ontario Red Cross

G. Harry Thompson, who was treasurer of the Red Cross in Peterborough many years until his retirement from the office this year, is one of four Ontario members to be chosen as life members. The honor was conferred on him Friday at the annual meeting of the Ontario division in Toronto. He was also elected vice-president of the division.

Badges of service were awarded R. M. Glover, Mrs. C. G. Graham, D. A. Loomis, Mrs. John Mills, Miss Maude Rush and Mrs. J. H. Vernor, all of the Peterborough branch.

Farm Ditch Floods Drowns 24 Small Pigs

KITCHENER, March 28 (CP)— Flood waters rising from a snow-filled ditch swirled into the barn at the home of Morris Schwindt, RR 2, Wallenstein, yesterday and drowned 24 pigs. They were 10 weeks old.

Schwidt discovered the pits in about 10 inches of water when he returned to his home late in the afternoon. He estimated his loss at over $400.

2,300 Pack Hall To Play Bingo, Car Given Away

The largest crowd in the history of the Peterborough Lions Club jammed the Summer Gardens on Brock St. Monday night. Slightly over 2,300 people were jammed into the building patiently waiting to be a winner either of the cash prizes which totalled $500 or the special door prize, an English-make car. Another 300 people had to be turned away.

With the odds 2,300 to one, Mayor M. J. Swanston drew the car ticket which Mrs. Alex Clark, 191 Antrim St., was holding tightly in her hand. Mrs. Clark, who has attended the various bingos just for the enjoyment of playing the game, had decided to attend the club bingo only at suppertime.

She had the choice of accepting the car or $1,000. As the family is without a car, it was her choice.

Mrs. Clark said that little housework was done today due to the large number of phone calls from friends congratulating her. The calls started to pour in shortly after 8 a.m.

The bingo fans began to line up shortly after 6.30 and at one time were lined down Brock St. to George St. and down past Mason's store. Four buses of enthusiasts made the trip from Cobourg and two from Lindsay. Usually one or two buses from outside centres bring people to the bingo monthly games.

All receipts are for the swimming pool which is under construction in Riverside Park. The official opening of the pool will be June 14.

Suicide Verdict In Strangling Death

OBA, Ont., March 28—(CP)— A coroner's jury Monday returned a verdict of "death by suicide" at an inquest into the death of Peter Mosy, 60-year-old timber worker whose body was found hanging Feb. 14 in a hotel room with a leather belt drawn tightly around his neck.

Provincial Police Inspector William Stringer of Sudbury said that Mosy did not have a large amount of money on his person on the day of his death as first reported.

Oba is about 160 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Top UE-CGE Officials Sign New Agreement In Toronto

Top of officials of the United Electrical Workers and the Canadian General Electric Co. met in Toronto Monday afternoon and signed the one-year contract covering wages and general working conditions.

In Peterborough there will be a three-hour reduction in hours and in Toronto two hours. A 4.77 per cent increase will maintain the workers' take-home pay for the two-hour cut. And in Peterborough the workers will have the opportunity of voting whether or not they wish to put in the extra hour.

There was no general wage increase. Starting rates, however, for both males and females, are up 10 cents.

This agreement came after the Toronto unions—and Local 524 UE in Peterborough—had ratified the terms of the new agreement at membership meetings.

Two-Front War

To obtain this contract the UE has had to fight a two-front war: one in negotiations with the company and the other against the rival, right-wing, International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL).

The latter broke with the UE during a critical phase of negotiations at the beginning of November. Ousting of the UE from the CIO at the annual convention was the go-ahead signal for right-wing elements in both the United States and Canada.

Peterborough was considered the main centre of rebellion in the union ranks. John G. Morton, former head of the union, led his faction out of the UE and formed the rival claimant to bargaining rights — Local 524 IUE (CIO—CCL).

Morton is now Canadian director of the IUE as well as president of Local 524 IUE.

The battle between right and left wing temporarily obscured the contract issue. Early in December the IUE applied to the OLRB for certification and a hearing was set for January 4.

Unprecedented Move

In an unprecedented move the OLRB continued its hearing by moving to Peterborough to interview more than 50 witnesses involved in a controversy over duplication of rival cards.

The UE charged fraud on the part of the IUE who in turn denied this and pressed for an OLRB vote at the Peterborough plant. The right-wingers claimed a majority.

The application was rejected and, in conformity with other decisions of the OLRB, no reason was given.

In the meanwhile negotiations were proceeding in Toronto between the company and the Toronto UE locals. Local 524 UE was barred from these talks until it was finally established who was the legal bargaining agent here.

When the IUE's application was rejected the company agreed to allow Peterborough delegates to sit in with the other members of the UE-GE Joint Negotiating Committee.

Basis For Discussion

Basis for discussions was the finding of the Conciliation Board majority report. This proposed a 42-hour week instead of the 40-hour, as advocated by the union, with a 4.77 per cent wage increase to compensate for the reduction in working time.

Previously the CGE work week was 44 hours in Toronto and 45 in Peterborough.

This was substantially the wage agreement signed Monday. Peterborough workers however will be given the option of working an extra hour to maintain their pay. (The 4.77 formula was based on a two-hour reduction not a three-hour).

The Board estimated that the 4.77 per cent amounts to "about 5.5 cents an hour based on the average earnings at CGE of $1.129 per hour."

Workers will get anywhere from $35 to $80 back pay as the wage agreement in retroactive to November 20.

New Starting Rates

New starting rates are 82 cents an hour for females with increases of six cents within 60 days. The starting rate for males is 96 cents an hour with progressions to $1.02 in 60 days.

A committee will meet with the company to work out details of hours and shifts. Today's UE leaflet promises that the question of hours and shifts "will be worked out and submitted to you for your decision by a referendum vote."

The vote will be conducted so that everyone affected by this important issue will have a full chance to cast a ballot," the leaflet promises. It will probably be next week.

Those on the present checkoff will continue to pay into the UE local. The company has agreed to do this until expiry date, 15 days before the anniversary date of the agreement. This means till March 12, 1951.

Stop Richard Rangers' Cry As Series Opens

NEW YORK, March 28 (CP)—The battle cry of the Patrick clan tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden where Montreal's flashy Canadiens and New York Rangers meet in the opening game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs probably will be:

"Stop the Rocket and Reardon."

Meaning of course, Maurice (43-goal) Richard, the quick-tempered right winger, and his equally fiery teammate, defenceman Kenny Reardon.

The Rangers weren't able to do it in the closing weeks of the regular National Hockey League season. But coach Lynn Patrick is hopeful that with the ailing Edgar Laprade expected back in the Ranger line-up after missing 11 games he will be able to ice a line that can keep up with the speedy Canadiens.

Before Laprade suffered a knee injury Feb. 26 and aggravated it three weeks later he was among the best centres in the league. Teaming up with wingers Tony Leswick and Duncan Fisher, Laprade spearheaded the Rangers' No. 1 line and scored 22 goals.

Meets His Match

But Edgar will have to be at his best to keep up with Richard and his able linemates, centre Elmer Lach and Norm Dussault, the way they were going in the last two weeks of the regular schedule.

As for Reardon, the third highest in assists for defencemen in the league although he didn't score a goal during the season, the Rangers had always had their hands full coping with his rushing tactics.

Tomorrow night will mark the fifth meeting of the clubs in Stanley Cup action. Montreal won the first series in 1930 but the Rangers romped off with the next three—in 1932, '33 and '35. In all, the teams have met in 10 playoff games, New York winning five and tying two, while losing only three. The tie games were played in cup series in which total goals determined the winner.

Try To End Tension

KARACHI, Pakistan, March 28—(AP)—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan told parliament today he will visit India's prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, soon to discuss ways and means of bringing growing tension between the two countries to an end. "Both of us agreed," said Liaquat, "that a personal meeting between us is essential for finding a speedy solution."

Soldiers Mutiny

JAKARTA, March 28—(AP)—Indonesian soldiers still serving in the Dutch army on the island of A Ambon, near New Guinea, were reported today to have mutinied. The armed revolt, according to scanty reports here, was said to have been serious. Dutch military authorities said they had no details and did not know whether there were any casualties.

GRAND SPILL — Jockey F. O'Connor and his horse, Tommy Traddles, take a spill at the first fence during the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England. Freebooter, a 10-1 favorite, was the winner. Crowd of 300,000, including the Royal Family, was on hand for the classic.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The world champion Edmonton Mercurys, making their farewell hockey appearance in Britain, Monday night at London lost to Streatham 5-3.

It was only the fourth set-back in 40 games for the Mercurys, who drew five and won 31, including seven straight in the championship tournament. Altogether they scored 332 goals while their opponents registered 86.

Mike Yaschuk, of Winnipeg, opened the scoring for the locals when he beat goalie Wilbur Delaney half way through the first period. Two minutes later George Edwards, of Brantford, Ont., put Streatham two up.

Billie Dawe, of the Mercurys, then stole the puck inside the Streatham blue line, dodged a check and counted for Edmonton. The Merks tied up the game after three minutes of the second period when Hassie Young scored out of a three-way passing play with Leo Lucchini and Ab Newsome.

Near the midway point in the game Doug McCaley took Harry Allen's pass to give the Merks a 3-2 lead The advantage was short-lived, as Paddy Ryan, of Regina, whipped a shot into the corner of the Edmonton net and Yaschuk sent Streatham ahead when he drove home a pass-out from the corner.

The locals added their fifth tally when Zip Thompson, of Toronto, fired from the blue line and Delaney, blocked off by a maze of sticks and skates, hadn't a chance.

Billy Evans, unofficial western adviser to Toronto Maple Leafs, blew into town Monday for a first-hand glimpse of the National Hockey League team.

Back in Estevan, Sask., Billy has been a Leaf fan for only four years. But for eight-year-old Billy that's half a lifetime.

When the team wins, that's fine When it loses, Billy writes a letter to managing director Conn Smythe, suggesting ways to bring the Leafs back to life.

Even Billy gets discouraged once in a while, though. Back in January, when the Leafs were in the midst of a losing streak, he wrote: "Get a new team."

The youngster has never seen a big-league game. Early last fall, his father promised that if Billy stood first in his class all year he would be sent to Toronto to see his team play.

Billy knocked off firsts every month. His father paid up and Billy was put on the train for Toronto, where his aunt, Mrs. Doug Tilley, met him at the station.

Leafs meet Detroit Red Wings Saturday in the third game of the Stanley Cup semi-finals. Billy says he hopes they win—"but I don't think they will."

TOKYO, March 28 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today commuted the death sentences of six Japanese war criminals convicted of murdering three United States Navy fliers in 1945.

Pope Meets Sailors

VATICAN CITY, March 28 — (Reuters)—Pope Pius received in special audience Monday 110 seamen and port chaplains from 20 countries and are meeting in Rome for a Congress of the Apostleship of the Sea. The Apostleship of the Sea has 317 centres in ports in 40 countries caring for the social and spiritual welfare of seamen.

Rainmakers Set

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—New York city's rainmakers buckled on their gear for an attack today on the first hefty clouds that come along. Spearhead of the "Operation Pluvius" is a police department airplane. It's loaded with dry ice for use as ammunition to bombard passing clouds in the water-needy city's first attempt at producing rain artificially.

Marlboros Smear Soo 13-0 Second Win In Ont. Series

By The Canadian Press.

Combining youth, speed, and the stellar coaching of Joe Primeau, Toronto Marlboros last night captured their second straight Ontario senior hockey championship, demolishing Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 13-0.

The tired Greyhounds, who went right into the all-Ontario series after a six-game workout with North Bay Black Hawks for the NOHA crown, could not stand the pace and wilted under terrific pressure. They lost the first game in Toronto 10-4.

For Gentleman Joe it lengthened his already long list of champions. In his long coaching career only once has a Primeau-taught team failed to reach the playoffs.

Timmins Wins

At Timmins, Inkerman Rockets finally came up with a win against Porcupine Combines in their Ontario best-of-five semi-final round. Losers in the first two games at Ottawa,, they came back last night and walloped the NOHA junior champs 5-3.

Two junior recruits led Marlboros to their impressive victory. Danny Lewicki and George Armstrong, standouts all season with the junior Duke edition, each potted three goals, Lewicki adding the same number of assists.

It was evident after the first period that Don Grosso's Hounds couldn't keep up to the perfectly-conditioned Marlies. At the end of the first frame the score read 5-0 and the visitors kept up the pace, rapping in four in the second and the same number in the final period.

Scotty Mair upheld the honor of the senior regulars with a two-goal display, while singles were notched by Johnny McLellan, Jack McKenzie, Flash Hollett, Frank Sullivan and Red Johnson.

Will Play East

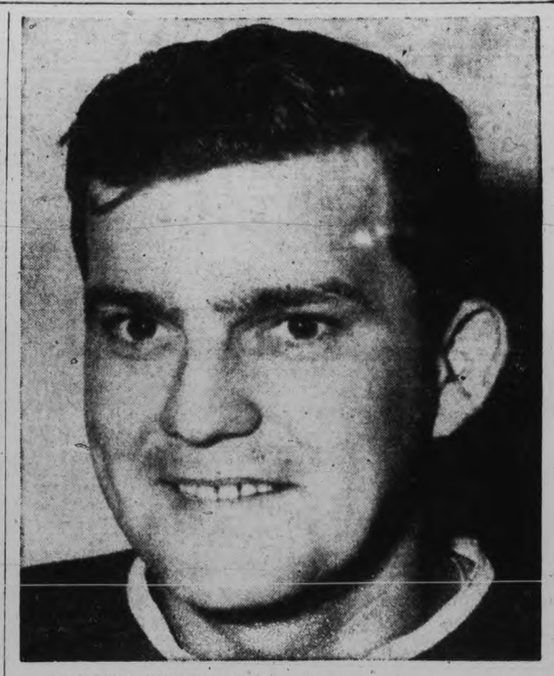
The Ontario champions now have another long wait before their next series. Sydney Millionaires, the Maritime champions, will meet the winner of the Sherbrooke-Quebec QSHL final, the survivor to tackle Marlboros for the Eastern Canada crown.

10,000 Booklets Given Tourists

Main topic of discussion at a recent meeting of the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce had to do with the distribution of 10,000 tourist guide booklets of which 800 advance printer's copies have already been mailed to key information centres in the United States and Canada.

Thirteen pages are devoted to district pictures, resort advertising and descriptive reading copy pertaining to various surrounding points of interest. Centre pages are devoted to a district map showing the location of each resort advertiser with an explanation key below the map. There are 97 advertisers.

The tourist committee is made up of Don Hendren, A. W. Stewart, Mrs. Mary Mann, Mrs. William O'Brien, J. L. Fraser and W. J. Hudson. These volunteer workers spent 70 hours gathering ads and copy and arranging for printing. Press work was done by a firm in Huntsville.



At the same meeting there was a lively discussion about the type of message to be lettered on a proposed billboard that is to be erected by the chamber between Peterborough and Lakefield. Settlement was made temporarily by handing over the problem to Stanley Berger of the civic improvement committee which will report on the matter at the next meeting.

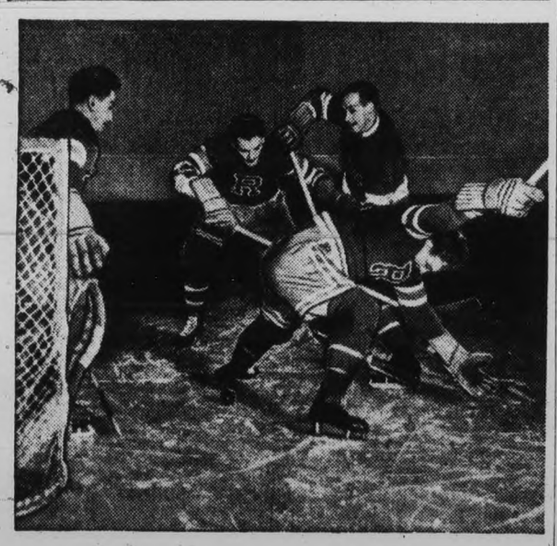
Grand River Floods Third Time In Spring

GALT, March 28 (CP)—The third Grand River flood of the year here occurred during the night when ice broke up on the dam and within an hour all the ice had passed down.

As in the previous two floods little damage was done, with only the odd cellar of river bank buildings having water enter.

The river rose steadily Monday night and crowds lined the bridges until a late hour hoping to see the break-up.

BIG BILL DURNAN, Canadiens' star goaler, captured the Vezina Trophy, his sixth in the seven years that he played in the NHL for the Montreal Canadiens. Durnan is retiring after the Stanley Cup playoffs which start this week with Les Canadiens playing the New York Rangers and Toronto Leafs going against the Detroit Red Wings.



Need Midwives

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — Mrs. Irving E. Robertson, Toronto president of the Canadian Mothercraft Society, told the society's 18th annual meeting Monday night that if women decided to have midwives in Canada they would soon get them. "Rural conditions for childbirth in many parts of this country are shocking, and unless expectant mothers are taken to hospital, they cannot expect medical care," she said. There were 10,000 midwives in England. "We should have similar training in Canada."

Film Expose Of Football In U.S. Colleges

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 28 (AP) — In its search of tales of oppressed minorities, Hollywood will treat the plight of the amateur football player.

Producer Buddy Adler announces that his Columbia film, "The Hero," will be an expose of college football.

"This will not be the kind of football film in which the hero dashes 90 yards to win the game in the last reel," he declared.

"We are going to show how the college football machine works."

Besides producing, Adler also owns 11 theatres. Four of them used to play western films exclusively, but have now been converted to foreign pictures. I asked why.

"Television is ruining the run-of-the-mill western," he answered. "why should kids pay to see a horse opera when they can see two of them and a serial at home in one evening?"

However, he said the big-budget western is still good for business. He is currently seeking one for Jimmy Stewart.

More TV Talk

Roy Rogers was asked how television was effecting his audience. Not at all, he replied. Roy's popularity has always been in small towns, where TV has not yet reached.

It's interesting to note that Herbert Yates of Republic turned down a cool $1,000,000 for TV rights to 50 old Gene Autry films. Observers don't know whether he's holding out for more or if he doesn't want to build up Gene, with whom he has fueded in recent years.

There can be little doubt that Roy, Gene and other film cowboys view with envy the success of Hopalong.

No Spy Inquiry Attlee Declares

LONDON, March 28—(AP)—A Conservative member of the Commons Monday asked Prime Minister Attlee to set up a Royal Commission on atomic spying in Britain. Attlee declined.

Sir Waldron Smithers, who made the proposal, said he had in mind a commission similar to the one which made an inquiry into a Russian spy ring brought to light in Canada five years ago.

Sir Waldron said he was promoted by the recent guilty plea of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, atomic researcher, to charges of betraying secrets to the Russians. Fuchs was sentenced to 14 years in prison.

When Attlee refused to entertain the idea of a commission on spying, Sir Waldron turned to War Secretary John Strachey, one of his favorite targets since Attlee formed his new Cabinet last month.

Sir Waldron asked Attlee:

"When the Prime Minister says he is anti-Communist does he really mean business? Will he as a first step apply the same security regulations that are applied to the admission of civil servants to members of his own Cabinet, including the Secretary of State for War?"

Before Attlee could answer the Speaker of the House interrupted with "You must not make imputations against the patriotism of honorable members."

Talk On Citizenship Given To Selwyn WI

SELWYN, March 28—(ENS)—An address, "Citizenship Is Everyone's Business," was given at the Selwyn Women's Institute meeting by Miss Sheila Wilson, convener of citizenship and education.

Letters of welcome from the provincial secretary - treasurer and the district secretary-treasurer were read to members. An invitation was received from Mrs. Hatton, of Brookdale WI, to attend a tea and bazaar in Peterborough, April 1. Mrs. Fred Sweeting and Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting were appointed quilt conveners and Mrs. Evans Blewett, president, presided.

Following the address, members took part in two contests. Readings were given by Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting, Mrs. Wilford Nicholls and Mrs. George McIlmoyl.

The April meeting will be under the leadership of Mrs. Wilford Nicholls, convener for health.

Lunch was served folowling the meeting.

JUDITH E. BUTLER, Hamilton, senior gold medalist for Ontario in the Navy League's National Essay Contest. Her assay on the subject "Our Canadian Navy" was judged to be the best among hundreds submitted by pupils of 14 to 18 years of age. Miss Butler is 14 and attends Strathallan School. In addition to winning the Gold Medal, she and her school principal, Miss Evelyn M. Mills, O.B.E., will visit the R.C.N. establishment at Halifax this summer as guests of the Navy and A trip to sea in a Canadian warship is included in the prize.

Science Pursues Research To Beat Polio

By PAT USSHER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK— (CP) — A relentless war that seldom makes newspaper headlines is being waged by science against infantile paralysis.

Only when epidemics strike, usually during the heat of summer, does this ceasless campaign hit the front pages. But the war is constant.

Is it being won? The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, one of the principal agencies in the United States fighting the disease, says categorically in a pamphlet: "There is great hope that a way to stop polio will be found."

In Canada, the battle is being carried on by the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis. The organization has just conducted a successful campaign for funds.

The enemy is a series of viruses so small that millions could be placed on a pin-head. The chief weapon is unspectacular scientific research.

Cases of infantile paralysis in the United States last year were the highest ever recorded. Preliminary figures show 42,375 persons suffered the disease, a sharp increase from 27,676 in 1948, the previous worst year.

Canada escaped relatively lightly in 1949 with preliminary figures showing 2,326 cases against 3,880 in 1937, the Dominion's worst year. The 1948 figure was 1,159.

Infantile paralysis destroys nerve cells in the body and sometimes cripples its victims because muscles controlled by motor nerves cannot operate.

Research Aims.

Primary aims of research, says the National Foundation, are to wipe out the viruses which cause it; to find a cure, and to improve existing methods of treatment. The disease usually rises to a peak in the hot summer months. But there have been outbreaks at all times of the year. This winter some cases were reported from St Augustin, a remote settlement on the Quebec-Labrador border.

John Middleton, a regional director of the foundation, says there is no way of deducing from statistics whether poliomyelitis runs in cycles, Statistics indicate the disease is increasing, even conceding that diagnosis now is more accurate than 10 to 20 years ago, when a number of polio cases were erroneously reported as "fever."

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis now has 98 research projects under way in university laboratories, two of them in the University of Toronto. The initial objective is to find out how many viruses cause the disease, says Roland H. Berg, director of research information. At least three strains of the virus are known now.

The foundation last year granted $28,900 to the University of Toronto for work on virus research at the Connaught Laboratories, under Dr. Andrew J Rhodes. The aim is to try to develop a concentrated serum whose protective powers can be tested on monkeys. Eventually it may be tried on humans.

The second Toronto project, for which $5,150 was appropriated in 1949, for work on treatment of after-effects, is at the Schools of Hygiene under Dr. Donald Y. Solandt. This project, now in its fourth year, is an endeavor to study all the changes that occur in a muscle when its nerve supply is impaired and evolve treatment to restore the muscle to normal.

Labor Majority Cut To 3 By MP's Death

LONDON, March 28 (Reuters) —The Labor party's over-all majority in the House of Commons was reduced to 3 Monday with the death of F. A. Cobb, 49, member for Brighouse and Spenborough, a Yorkshire constituency.

In the Feb. 23 general election Cobb had a majority of 2,132 over the National-Liberal candidate in a straight fight.

Cobb, a radio engineer, cancelled an engagement to speak in his constituency Sunday and returned to London. A doctor was called and ordered Cobb to be taken to hospital.

Cause of death was not announced.

This is the second seat which the government has lost through death within a month of its assuming office.

Russia Boycotts 16th Commission

LAKE SUCCESS, March 28 — (CP)—Russia Monday walked out of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights spreading its boycott to 16 UN groups.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin of Russia left the opening meeting of the commission's spring session after his proposal to oust Nationalist China was rejected by a vote of 12 to 2.

The walkout was preceded by an attack by Tsarapkin against the United States. He was interrupted at one point by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Commission chairman.

She banged her gavel, saying angrily:

"We are not going to listen to propaganda speeches."

Tsarapkin, allowed to finish his speech, said the United States is preventing expulsion of Nationalist Chinese delegates which would make way for Communist China's representatives.

He told the Commission the US is sending arms, including tanks, to the Nationalist Government on Formosa. Word had been received, Tsarapkin said, that a shipment of tanks left Vancouver on March 23.

Sink 110 Junks

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 28—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist warships reported Monday sinking of 110 Communist junks near Shanghai, many of them laden with troops. Naval headquarters said fleet units, maintaining tight control of the East China sea, caught about 10 troop-laden junks trying to run their blockade at the mouth of the Yangtze River.

GOOD YEAR FOR FARMERS

In 1948, the cash income of farmers in Ontario reached $668,400,000 to lead all other Canadian provinces.

Says Bell Tastes Much Too Luxurious

OTTAWA, March 28 — (CP) — Claude Choquette, Montreal counsel suggested Monday that the tastes of Bell Telephone Company of Canada might be too "luxurious" for good business operations.

Mr. Choquette made the observation while cross-examining Harold F. Bush, Bell staff engineer, as the company's application for a rate increase resumed before the Board of Transport Commissioners.

The lawyer from Montreal, one of the cities opposing the rate boost, singled out furniture as one item that Bell might be spending too much money on.

He referred to several exhibits showing pictures of funiture styled by American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Information on the furniture is provided to Bell of Canada under a service contract for which Bell will pay more than $1,000 this year.

New Alexander Job?

OTTAWA, March 28 — (CP) — Ottawa, always delighted to get a choice morsel of gossip, is interested in London reports that Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, the Governor-General, is going to get a big job in the Atlantic Pact organization. General reaction to the reports appears to be that nobody would be terribly surprised if they eventually turn out to be true but nobody seems to know at this stage whether they are or not.
